WOMEN MAY BE CHOSEN ON JURY IN ARBUCKLE'S TRIAL-DISPATCH

Both Sides Issued Statements Before Opening Of Case Today—Brady Says "Fatty" Caused Girl's Death.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—Women may be chosen on the jury that is to try Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle for the murder of Virginia Rappe, movie actress.

As the trial of the fat comedian opened today, it was revealed that the names of thirteen women are in the first panel of sixty-five prospective jurors.

Behind the technical charge of manslaughter which can mean ten years imprisonment for Arbuckle, lies the fact that movie morals are on trial. Men who have millions invested in the film industry admit that on the guilt or innocence of Arbuckle hangs important results to the picture business.

Before the trial opened both sides issued statements:

"A girl entered Roscoe Arbuckle's room and when she came out she was dying," District Attorney Brady. "We believe Roscoe Arbuckle responsible for the girl's death."

"The defense seeks to try the girl on the basis of her alleged past life. The past of what beautiful girl is not an issue. It is being used to fog the real issue."

Defense lawyers denied they were attacking Miss Rappe's morals.

"We merely want to show the scientific facts of her physical condition," declared the actor's counsel.

A special police guard was ranged around the hall of justice today to control the crowds eager to witness Fatty's fight for liberty.

NEWPORT BEACH MAN CHARGED WITH GUN ASSAULT AT GAME

Charging that he drew a revolver during an altercation at the baseball game between Garden Grove and Newport teams at Garden Grove yesterday afternoon, F. E. Launders today swore to a complaint charging P. E. Parkinson of Newport Beach with assault with a deadly weapon.

The trouble is said to have started at the game but had no connection with the teams or clubs engaged in playing. Parkinson was merely an onlooker at the game, according to the story of the complainant, and seemed determined to make trouble.

Undersheriff E. E. French and Deputy Roy Ballard answered a call from Garden Grove early in the evening and found the two teams waiting them with the man incustody. It was expected that Parkinson would be arrested today on the charge preferred by Launders.

There are no children nor is there any community property.

Officers Pick up Gambling Devices Find One Here

Gambling devices consisting of slot machines and punch boards operated in violation of the county gambling ordinance were taken by deputy sheriffs in a raid on several sections of the county Saturday night.

Punch boards were taken from A. Rodriguez and Pedro Pementa who operate pool room and soft drink stands at Talbert.

The slot machines, which are elaborate affairs and are supposed to return gum as well as a chance at a valuable coupon, were found to be short on gum. These machines were taken from R. G. Tahsima, Winterschmidt Raymond Montana, North Lemon street, Anaheim; Mr. Nakamate, Garden Grove, and A. O. Cole, Garden Grove.

Considerable complaint concerning the operation of the machines has some in to the sheriff's office recently. Cases in which young boys have put their money in the machines and received nothing have been reported.

Deputy Sheriffs H. H. Zabel, C. M. Wood, Reynolds, Roy Ballard, P. O. Ballard and Undersheriff French made the roundup of the machines.

ANAHEIMERS ATTEND ILLINOIS PICNIC AND INDORSE ARMS LIMIT

Fervent "amens" from the lips and hearts of 5000 men and women, at the Loyal Illinoisans' picnic at Sycamore grove park yesterday, which was attended by a score or more of Anaheim people who claim Illinois as their native state, followed the prayer of Rev. Nicholas T. Edwards, who appealed to the God of all nations to direct the thoughts and words of the delegates at the disarmament conference. Long before the Pasadena G. A. R. fife and drum corps had called the people to assemble in front of the speakers' pavilion, universal peace had been the main subject of discussion by groups of men and women gathered at their county registration booths, so that the audience was in a fitting frafme of mind to respond to the sentiments expressed by Mr. Edwards.

The program was opened with a welcome address by Dr. G. H. MacNeill, president of the New York and the Connecticut State societies, the Columbian society also having had a reunion at the grove yesterday, with many Rhode Islanders as guests.

Henry J. Brubaker, chairman of the Loyal Illinoisans, had the audience join the singing of "America," which was followed by the Illinois state song, "By the Sparkling Waters Flowing, Illinois, Illinois," sung to the tune of "Baby Mine." Another address was by Asher F. Pay, president of the Long Beach Illinois society, who had brought nearly 200 of his fellow members from the beach on a special train.

Other addresses were by C. H. Parsons, secretary of the Federation of State societies, and by Captain Charles A. Montgomery.

AGED MAN KILLED BY AUTO LAST NIGHT INQUEST TUESDAY

Struck by an automobile as he was walking on the boulevard near Capistrano at an early hour last night, a man believed to be J. M. Carrigan, 70 years old, and apparently a hobo, was so seriously injured that he died within half an hour after the accident, without regaining consciousness.

According to information secured by Coroner C. D. Brown, who investigated last night, the man was hit by a car driven by Carlton Winslow, an architect of Los Angeles. The man was apparently walking on the pavement. A row of trees on a curve near this point is thought to have hidden the man from Winslow, who says that he did not see him until too late to stop. The man is said to have made no effort to get out of the way.

The only identification obtained was in a memorandum book found in the man's pocket by the coroner. This gave the name of J. M. Carrigan and his age as 70 years. A description followed which seemed to tally with the dead man.

The inquest is to be held tomorrow morning at Smith and Tuthill's funeral chapel in Santa Ana.

Mrs. George Jay Gould Drops Dead on Links

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Nov. 14.—Mrs. George Jay Gould, wife of the capitalist, dropped dead yesterday while playing golf with her husband on the private links at Georgian Court, their country home.

Mrs. Gould had just finished a drive at the fifth tee and with her husband was watching the ball when she collapsed. Mr. Gould turned to speak to her and was astonished to see her lying across the tee. Thinking his wife had stumbled he hastened to assist her, but when she failed to speak he sent the caddie for physicians.

A brief examination convinced them that Mrs. Gold was dead of heart disease.

Ku Klux Klan Kleagle Indicted As Kidnaper

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Nov. 14.—J. O. Fronenberger, organizer and kleagle of the Ku Klux Klan here, was arrested late Saturday on charges of false arrest and imprisonment, conspiracy to kidnap and kidnaping. His arrest followed a report by a jury which returned three true bills against Fronenberger and "other persons" whose names are unknown to the grand jury.

Fronenberger was released in $1000 bond.

The grand jury investigations grew out of the return to this city from Saluda, N. C., of two women who had been arrested on statutory charges and released on bond.

Air Bombers Carry Own Scout Airplane

Experiments with a remarkable type of battle plane which carries its own scout machine poised at the tip of one of its wings have been carried out at Farnborough, England. Two big bombing planes have been flying over Aldershot with a diminutive airplane fixed to the upper wing. So far it is understood the tests have been successful. The parent machines have traveled at their usual pace, although the engine of the scout machine was kept running so that it was ready to drive off at a minute's notice to protect the larger and heavier craft.

The automatic releasing apparatus is constructed on ingenious lines. An expert pilot is carried by the bombing plane and as soon as his services are required he climbs through the top wing and takes his seat in the scout plane. By pressing a trigger he frees the smaller machine which at once glides along the battle plane wing and dives off.

Queer Actions of Anaheim Folk to Be Explained at Show Tonight

Queer things have been going on in Anaheim today. For instance, Harry Riley quit work this morning and went to his home. There, it is said, he dyed his hair red. Oscar Heying, without a word of explanation, purchased a pair of trousers of sufficient proportions to clothe the fat man in a circus. Fay Lewis visited the "tar dentist" and had his front teeth "pulled out" and persons who have seen him say he has a regular Eddie Foy smile.

A regular stampede has been going on all day in the beauty shops of Anaheim. The city's prettiest girls are gettink marcelles, manicures, face massages, eyebrows plucked, hair bobbed, and are making every effort to make themselves more attractive.

Crepe paper? All gone. Anaheim merchants sold out this morning. Clerks were "run ragged" this morning trying to wait on the hoards who show up and asked for the flimsy stuff.

What is it all about anyway?

When the lights of the California Theater are turned low tonight and the fourteen hundred persons who bought tickets for the Elks' charity show have been seated, the secret will be out. All of these queer things will be explained. The curtain will rise on a stage set with a hundred and thirty little tots dressed as baby dolls.

Little Marion Strupe and Master Robert Shaw will delight the audience with their clever repartee as the opening of the big production in which more than two hundred and fifty men, women and children of Anaheim will take part. Everything is ready for the curtain.

The cast, which can be found on page eight of this issue, has been rehearsing daily since Miss Lilly Jean Miller, the director, arrived more than two weeks ago. The parts have been learned to perfection and it is thought the performance will be pulled off without a hitch. The arcade of the theater is being decorated in Elks' colors with a special lighting attraction.

The advance ticket sale has been very successful and it is thought that the house will be packed to capacity when the curtain raises tonight. The receipts from the performance will be added to the Elks' Club Christmas charity fund.

Indian Courts Lady Love in Simple Way-Old-Timer

Indian courtship and marriage rules among the Cheyennes, before the days of the white men's law, were simple but rigid, according to an old-timer of Anaheim who spent his boyhood days near an Indian school in Oklahoma. Jokingly, he points out that his name should be withheld so "the Missus" wouldn't know that he knew so much dope on the Indian girls.

An Indian courtship may begin this way: An Indian boy at a dance may see a girl he likes. He gazes intently at the girl. If she likes him, she will return the look. At dances she women stay on one side of the house and the men on the other. If the girl welcomes the boy's attentions she may dance across the floor and touch him for a partner. When it comes time for him to select a partner he may indifferently, pat her on the head and she will dance around with him again.

He does not take her home. If he wants to talk with her he will place himself in her way as she starts to leave the dance, throw his blanket around her and, both wrapped in the blanket, stand and talk for a minute or two while the others go by. After the talk he goes home with the men and she joins the women.

The engagement may be made this way: The mother of the girl waits visiting the mother of the son, may happen to say: "You ought to see the fine beadwork my daughter can do."

To which the mother of the boy may say: "You ought to see what a big hunter my son is. He never goes out unless he brings in deer or buffalo."

"How many ponies do you think your son would give for my daughter?"

"Your daughter should be so glad to have my son for a husband that two ponies would be enough."

Both families talk the thing over and if it is agreeable all around the boy who wants the girl may tie two ponies near the tepee of the girl. Tying the ponies near the lodge was not to be considered a purchase, but merely a means of telling how much the boy loved the girl. If he tied two ponies at her door it meant that he loved her to the value of two ponies.

If things were still favorable the animals would be taken and tied some other place. If the girl's family wanted to show how much they appreciated having the boy for a son-in-law, they, in turn, might tie some ponies for him to take.

When the ponies are accepted the engagement is made. The prospective bridegroom now lies down on the ground before the door of the tepee in which his sweetheart lives and behaves himself in a manner that a dog does before the door of his master. This is to say he will be faithful to his wife.

After he has lain before the door for a short time the girl comes out past him, naming the date at which they will begin to live together as man and wife. He then goes in and is feasted. From the time of the feast until the marriage day he is not permitted to speak to his sweetheart. A tepee with his scant furnishings is set up and made ready for the wedding day. On the day of the marriage the girl and the boy go to the tepee without ceremony.

All furniture, furnishings, kitchen equipment, dining room equipment, silverware and all personal property of William Hewins, constituting the complete furnishings of the St. Ann's Inn at Santa Ana, will be sold at public auction Monday, November 21, in the bankruptcy proceedings of Mr. Hewins. Notice of the sale was sent today to the creditors by William H. Moore, trustee. The inventory value of the property, based on cost, has been placed at $67,279.13.

The notice points out that the hotel is now open and running and may be inspected at any time upon application to the trustee's agent in charge. The inventory may be inspected at the hotel or at the Los Angeles office of the trustee.

In addition to the furnishings, there will also be offered for sale Mr. Hewin's title to a contract for the purchase of the hotel building and land.

At least half of the purchasing price must be paid in cash, the balance bearing 7 per cent interest, payable monthly and secured by a chattle mortgage. A lease offer is also set forth in the notice. It states that the owners of the building will accept responsible persons as tenants, who purchase the furnishings on a five-year lease, at a rental of $10,000 a year, with option of renewal for five years at $12,000.

The sale will be conducted at the office of Ben E. Tarver, referee in bankruptcy, at Santa Ana, and will start at 11 o'clock.

On trial for the third time, A. C. Foy, a chiropractor, today appeared before Judge C. B. West in the superior court to answer to the charge of practicing a mode of healing without a license from the state medical board.

Hung juries have resulted in the two previous trials of Foy and following the examination of the jury this morning, seven preemptory challenges were used by Griffith Jones, attorney for Foy, and one juror was dismissed for cause by the prosecution.

Judge West ordered a recess at 11:30 o'clock in order to permit the drawing of a special venire of ten men which the jury is expected to be completed.

The company found the risk a good one as the sun shone on the bridal party and the stars twinkled as they left on their honeymoon.

Bad Mexican and 14-Inch Dagger Found at Dance

That C. M. Wood, newly appointed deputy sheriff, has an "X-ray" eye is the opinion of his co-workers following an episode in the Mexican village near Anaheim last night.

A party of deputies in scouring the county on the lookout for trouble of any sort, visited a dance at the Mexican settlement. As the men approached the door, Wood noticed a man edge away and crowd behind a number of companions against a wall.

Wood grabbed the man and searched him for concealed weapons, stating that the man looked suspicious. A full fledged dagger about fourteen inches in length was taken from the man's pocket. The Mexican was taken by the officers on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. The dagger was being shown as a curiosity at the sheriff's office today.

TWENTY MEN AT WORK ON SANTA ANA RIVER DAM

The Water Conservation association has twenty men and two teams at work on the debris cone at the mouth of the Santa Ana river, extending its work for the conservation of water. All work is being done in a most workmanlike and substantial manner, it is said. The dam is being built of boulders, laid out on contour across the debris. The work is being done in accordance with a complete plan which, when finished, will make possible the distribution of water over several thousand acres of rock and boulder area.

A new bunk house has been built in which is also a reading room for the men. This enables the association to get a better class of men than is possible where good accommodations are not provided.

When he failed to appear as scheduled a search was instituted and his appearance this morning before Justice Armour was the result.

AUTO CLUB TO ENLARGE OFFICE TO CARE FOR GROWING BUSINESS

According to A. S. Ralph, manager of the club, increases in the business of the club has made it necessary to enlarge the office interior and change the arrangements to take care of the additional office help needed to carry on the affairs of the club.

"We are growing daily," said Ralph, "and must therefore make provisions for additional employes to carry on our affairs.

"When we moved into our present quarters, some time ago, we thought that we were to have sufficient floor space to take care of all growth for a considerable time to come.

"But we have become so well known during the past year or so and business has increased with such leaps and bounds that we have simply outgrown our present quarters. Now we must make ready for the future.

"It is only logical to suppose that growing at the rate we have been, we will continue to grow. People of Orange county now recognize the Automobile Club of Orange county as one of the stable institutions of the county. They have confidence in it and its directors, and more and more of the county residents are placing their insurance with or through us yearly."

LIVES OF LOCAL MEN IN DANGER WHEN FANATIC CUTS FALL LINE

Anaheim Police Probe Case Reported Today By Frank Newman — Arrests Expected Soon.

An accident resulting from the malicious under-hand work of a fiendish fanatic and which would have caused serious and probably fatal injury to three Anaheim workmen, was averted this morning by Frank Newman, local paint contractor, when he discovered that the fall line susoending the platform on which the workers stand while painting the Valencia hotel had been cut. Only half a strand of rope held the platform seventy-five feet above the sidewalk and had the men, Tom Walton and Clifford Bush, endeavored to draw themselves higher the rope would have snapped, letting the men fall to almost certain death.

The life of James Stephens, an itinerant steeplejack, was also in danger as the block and tackle were used to hoist the worker to the top of the four-story building.

The discovery was made by Mr. Newman this morning after the men had drawn themselves to the third story. He yelled to the men cautioning them while the platform was lowered slowly to the ground.

Examination of the rope revealed that the fiend had done his work recently—probably as late as last night, according to Mr. Newman. The cutting had been done with a very sharp knife, leaving the defect almost completely hidden.

The case has been turned over to the Anaheim police with information which, it is thought, will lead to the apprehension of the guilty persons within a few hours. Nature of the clews furnished the police by Mr. Newman are being withheld to afford the officers more secrecy in working on the case.

Mr. Newman has offered a reward of $50 for the arrest of the fanatic or for information which will lead to his apprehension.

"I have given the police information which I think will result in the man's arrest before morning," said Mr. Newman at noon today. "Investigation in the case will be continued until we find the guilty person and bring him to justice."

The painters have been working on the exterior of the Valencia hotel more than a week and were at work on the cornice on the west side of the building this morning when the cut in the rope was found.

MEXICAN AND HIS WIFE MAY SETTLE FUSS OUT OF COURT

That the difficulties of Cruz Alvarez, Mexican, and his wife, who is a white woman, may be settled out of court, was the plan of Justice J. B. Cox when he heard Alvarez's story today.

Alvarez has been held in the county jail since Friday night on a charge of disturbing the peace, sworn to by his wife, who asserted that her husband drew a knife and threatened to kill her if she did not allow him to take away certain articles of household furniture which he claimed were his prior to the marriage.

Alvarez has a reputation of being a peaceful, hard-working man and was aided in court today by a rancher of the Tustin district for whom he has been working. It is expected that a settlement will be reached through the medium of this rancher, who was requested by the judge to straighten out the tangle if possible without the further assistance of the court.

Alvarez was released on his own recognizance, but was warned by the court not to go near the woman. No date for a trial has been set, pending the outcome of the endeavor to settle the difficulty out of court.

CALIFORNIA UNIVERSITY FAVORITE IN GAME WITH STANFORD

SAN CRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—California became a definite favorite today as probable victor in the Stanford-California football game as a result of the outcome of Saturday's football battles.

California's overwhelming defeat of the University of Washington—the score was 72 to 3—and Stanford's difficulty in holding Nevada to a 14 to 14 tie, convinced experts that little short of a miracle can defeat the Bears when they meet Stanford next Saturday.

California has a 51 to 6 victory over Nevada to her credit and the Washington team which the Bears crushed Saturday, only a week before had turned in a scoreless tie against Stanford.

Today, Stanford supporters were admittedly downcast, yet they had not lost their fighting spirit.

It is much easier to teach them to love the flag after they are taught to love soap.

CHARLES KUCHEL

—When property owners on Center street gave a part of their frontage for sidewalk purposes they had a steel plate imbedded in the alloted space, bearing the inscription, "Private Property. Permission to Pass Over Revocable at Any Time." The other day, two young men were discussing the entry and one asked the other the meaning of it. "Why," replied the young man, "that means it's revocable."

"Revocable, revocable?" interrogated the other, "what's that?"

"Why, you know revocable is ain't," reassuringly replied the young man. Marking time.

—W. A. Wallace, city rate collector, turned into the treasury this month $9801, which he collected for light and water from city consumers. Next month, when the days are shortest, he expects to top the ten thousand dollar mark. Ninety-five per cent of this money is collected between the first and sixth of each month, and from these sources the bulk of the city's finances are derived. The remaining days of the month the rate collector has to make out receipts and attend to other matters to get ready to handle the business. Wallace has held down the job for ten or twelve years and has got so he knows people by their voice and even can tell them by their footsteps. He sees them coming and has receipts all ready to hand out when the people step up to the separating window. He handles the crowds so easily that he gets by without any trouble and it is doubtful if any two men could do the work any better. Wallace is good natured and sometimes tells you the latest story while making change. Once, a long time ago, a trustee came in and catching "Bill" picking his teeth, thought perhaps he had too much time on his hands and wanted him to help out in other departments, but Bill showed the councilman where he was wrong and the goose has been hanging high ever since. Bill's the "candy kid."

—Vard Hannum says these resubdivisions are coming in so fast that he has a hard time supplying them with water and light. He has been going in the high with three or four gangs of men for the past six months or more and is still away behind in the work but expects to catch up pretty soon. All he asks is that people have a little patience and he will connect them up just as fast as the Good Lord will let him. Vard says Anaheim is growing so fast there will hardly be standing room pretty soon, when people will have to begin putting on second and third stories on their houses. Vard is anxious to furnish patrons all the water and light they want, and he will be there with bells on as long as the big company shoots over the juice.

—Dean Hasson, the big fire chief, has a way all his own when expressing his disgust at the manner in which some persons allow their backyards to clutter up with rubbish. Matters become all the worst when he is called out to fight a fire which is caused by the accumulation of an assortment of shavings, old rags and what not. Recently when he had his men putting out a fire he ran across one of these fire traps, and the way he talked to the man responsible for it was not slow. Dean uses short words, but they carry a heap of meaning and are not to be misunderstood. And, you know, all offenders look alike to Dean.

One of the saddest sights in the country is a promoter trying to kid an American city into the belief that it hungers for grand opera.

One reason why men wear coats in summer is because fifteen minutes after they put on a clean shirt it looks like the fag end of distress.

CLUB TO ROUND UP MOTORIST WHO HITS CAR AND "BEATS IT"

War to the bitter end will be declared by county authorities throughout Southern California on the motorist who smashes into a fellow-driver and then runs away.

Officials of the Automobile club of Southern California have risen up in arms against the criminal type of auto driver who is becoming too numerous on highways in this section. And the club has instigated action against him wherever possible.

Now the time has come, points out the motoring organization, when drastic action must be taken in order to curb the further exploits of the man who runs down an innocent pedestrian or smashes into another car then "beats it away" from the scene of the accident as fast as gasoline will take him.

A case in point is cited where a motorist having the right-of-way at a street intersection was run into by another autoist. In the car which was run down were three women, one of them holding a baby in her arms. The motorist who ran into this car was able to get away for a block, but the other car containing the women and baby was not so badly damaged but what the driver could start in pursuit.

He succeeded in catching the culprit, and now the case is to be prosecuted in Los Angeles to the fullest extent of the law.

Section 21, of the State Motor Vehicle Act, makes it a felony for failure to stop after an accident and give an accounting. The punishment for running away is imprisonment in the state penitentiary for a period not to exceed five years, or one year in the county jail or by a fine not to exceed $5,000, or both.

The same penalty is provided for failure on the part of the offending motorist to give his correct name and address.

Many auto drivers who are careless in this respect are to be rounded up.

MISSIONARIES HAVE LED CIVILIZAATION'S MARCH SAYS PREACHER

"The Bible and the Backward Peoples of the Earth" was the subject of Dr. J. A. Geissinger's sermon at the White Temple last night. He said in part:

"What is happening today is the emergence of the colored races. They are coming up over the horizon of history. The disarmament conference has been called because of the great world shift that is on and that must be met intelligently.

"Civilization began in the valley of the Euphrates, that is, east of the Mediterranean Sea. It gradually made its way westward around the shores of that water where it lingered for centuries. Then men began to look westward and the compass came and civilization followed the pioneers across the Atlantic, which has been the theater of civilization, until recently with surprising rapidity, the Pacific has become the center of human work.

"Meantime, the white race has spread over the earth. Numbering less than one-third of the human race, it has invaded and appropriated about nine-tenths of the earth's surface. There is the problem of the future. That coupled up with the spread of education and light among the backward peoples. They are coming to claim their own.

"Not only so. The light of western civilization has fallen upon these darkened lands. The commercial exploiter was preceded by the men and women bearing the message of Christ. Missionaries have gone everywhere. Their compounds are in all lands. Their printing presses go ceaselessly. Their Bible women are always at work. They are translating the truth of Christ into every tongue. It is said that Charles Dickens' books have reached a grand total circulation of 25,000,000 since his first writing. But the Bible presses are sending forth 35,000,000 copies of the Scriptures each year. The Bible is being sown all over the lands of these backward peoples. They are reading, thinking and coming to understand. Wherever the Bible goes, the school follows and men and women begin to think and purpose to be free.

"The truth has come home to these peoples of the shadows that the Bible ideals are the ideals of western civilization. God is the Father of all men. All men are brothers. Love is the way of life. Only good will is sufficient for the strain of civilization. They are beginning to ask whether or not the white man is true to his ideals.

"Henry Ward Beecher once said that the darkest period of American history was between 1832 and 1860. For then we held up the Declaration of Independence as our ideal and yet permitted African slavery with all of its horrors to exist. We were a nation of hypocrites. That is the danger now on a world scale. The solution of our problem and the only solution is for us to go forward with the Christianization of the world.

"In other words; what the world needs now is not a new Bible, but more of the old Bible. Japan has been less influenced by Christianity than most any other nation of the orient and that because when the door of Japan was open to the gospel we were not ready to go in. Yet recently, Mr. Ozaki, formerly minister of justice in Japan, sent out post cards all over Japan to learn what is the attitude of Japan towards disarmament. He received 30,000 replies and 94 per cent were in favor of disarmament. That shows how the gospel has had its effect upon even Japan.

"The civilization of western nations is shot through and through with the truth of the Bible. The Bible was the book of the middle ages. Such a great ruler as Charlemagne gave all of his energy to making his subjects Bible people. He had Sabbath laws passed, opposed usury, and made the tithe legal, at the same time insisting that the clergy should be examples to the people. It is true today that many other books compete with the Bible but the Bible is still the standard of our moral and spiritual life. When Queen Victoria was asked the secret of England's greatness, she replied to her questioner by handing him a copy of the Bible. Our great Americans, like Lincoln and Roosevelt, have been Bible men. Our greatest soldier, U. S. Grant, once spoke of the Bible as the sheet anchor of our liberties, and so it is. And this is the hope of the orient.

"Theodora Yanco, commissioner from the Philippines, said to his successor: 'Study the Bible because the Bible is the secret of American philanthropy.' American business men have launched all kinds of benevolent enterprises because of the influence of the Bible upon them.

"The Maha-Rajah of Travancore recently said, speaking to his own people: 'Where do the British get their knowledge, intelligence, cleverness and power? It is from their Bible. Take it and read it and see if it is not good.'

"All over the orient such words are being spoken and the Bible is rapidly changing the thought of these backward peoples.

"In 1916, Woodrow Wilson, then president of the United States, spoke at the hundredth anniversary of the American Bible society and the burden of his address was that the circulation of the Bible was weaving the world into a spiritual unity. 'If all the world had a common literature, if all the world had drunk at the same sources of inspiration and suggestion, many lines of division would never be created and others would disappear. And those who spread the Scriptures are engaged, as it were, in drawing the world together under the spell of one body of literature, which belongs to on one race, to no one civilization, to no one time in the history of the world, but whose appeal is universal—which searches and illuminates all hearts alike.' And he went on to argue that he could conceive of no nobler work than the spread of the influence of the Bible for the enlightenment of the world."

It appears that nations are not so much interested in beating swords into plowshares as they are in beating competitors into oil fields.

If George Cohan can "harmonize" the Pirates he may wave another "grand old rag."

In most other countries they wear heavy clothes in winter. But then the American girl is very hardy.

MISS RUTH VIOLETT HONORED AT UNIVERSITY

Miss Ruth Violett, a junior in the department of music at the Oregon Agricultural college, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Violett of Garden Grove, has received one of the highest honors which may come to a woman student at the O. A. C. When Miss Violett was selected from the group who tried out for the position as pianist of the college orchestra, she received an honor which comes to only a few college women and which means much to those few.

Ruth Violett is a member of Enterpre, the O. A. C. local honorary fraternity in music. The purpose of the fraternity is to promote a higher appreciation of music. Its membership is chosen from the regular music students who show greatest ability in this line.

MR. AND MRS. FALKENSTEIN ENTERTAIN WITH DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. William Falkenstein entertained with an informal noonday dinner Sunday, honoring out of town guests. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. I. Asher of El Monte, Mr. Jesse Caller of El Monte and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kustiner of Anaheim with the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. William Falkenstein and their daughter.

After the dinner a social afternoon was enjoyed with music and conversation. Mr. and Mrs. Asher were former Anaheim residents and enjoy these visits to Anaheim very much.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NEWS

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church enjoyed a good meeting last night under the leadership of Lloyd Ross. The organization is planning a social for this Friday night which was formerly to have been held on this Tuesday. A good time is being planned when games will follow a short business meeting. The committees are working toward a jolly evening for everyone.

SHERWOOD PUPILS ENJOY PICNIC

A pleasant day was spent at Orange County Park Saturday when the members of the Sherwood Music Study club had their annual picnic. They met at the homes of their teachers, Misses Stella A. Schwentker and Edna L. Hochuli, and motored to the park. Other chaperons were Mrs. Mauerhan, Mrs. Reinert and Mrs. Thayer.

On arriving at the park the various amusements of the park and a hike to the hills were enjoyed. At noon all returned with a ravenous appetite for all the good things in the picnic lunch. After lunch another longer hike was taken. Just before returning home all were again served with ice cream, which certainly tasted good after the strenuous exercise taken.

All had such a good time that the time for returning home came too quickly.

THE BLUE BIRDS TO RETURN INTO BUSINESS

The Blue Bird women are coming back into business. They are planning the opening of a BlueBird Interior Decorators shop to be located at 236 West Center street in the same building that the Clairmont Realty company is now located. Mrs. Hathaway has been taking a course in this work at the University of California, South Branch, and will complete it in the spring.

JAZZY SAFETY SLOGANS ISSUED BY AUTO CLUB OF STATE

Jazzy safety slogans to be scattered broadcast through the country wherever automobiles are owned and operated have just been drawn up by the recently established safety bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Suggestions for new slogans, with more "home brew kick" in them than the following, are asked for by Auto Club officials, so every motorist who has any ideas on the subject are asked to send them to the club at once.

What do you suggest as the best slogan for a safety campaign in Southern California? Think it over, Mr. Autoist, and then mail in your suggestion.

Here are some which have been submitted and which are being considered as the king pin ideas for the big campaign shortly to be launched by the club throughout the west:

1. The modern A, B, C is "Always Be Careful."
2. The chance taker is the accident maker.
3. A careful habit is the best bodyguard.
4. Don't kid about safety—you may be the goat!
5. The wife of a careless man is almost a widow.
6. Never put off till tomorrow what you can safely do today.
7. When hurry interferes with safety, cut out the hurry.
8. It is better to be careful a thousand times than to be injured once.
9. A heavy foot on the accelerator means a heavy foot on the brake.
10. Carelessness is at the bottom of more avoidable accidents than any other known cause.

SUNDAY TRAVELER IS ASSESSED EXTRA

The visitor to Italy, no matter how brief his stay, is fairly heavily taxed, says a writer in the London Chronicle. There is a 15 per cent addition to his hotel bill (in place of tips, which have really been abolished, and following that comes a luxury tax, varying with the luxuriousness of the hotel, another for war widows and orphans, and a tourist tax. These are all added to the hotel bill, and increase it by more than 20 per cent.

"But," a wandering correspondent writes, "another tax exists which, in one case out of seven, the tourist must pay. While traveling by train the other day I was informed by the conductor that I must pay a supplement of something like 80 cents. I asked the reason why and the reply was 'For traveling on a Sunday.'"

Y. M. C. A. COMMITTEE WILL DISCUSS PLANS FOR RAISING MONEY

In order that the work of the Y. M. C. A might be in proportion to the rapid growth of Anaheim, the parents and friends of the boys now in the Y. M. C. A. at a community meeting recently, decided to adopt the larger plan of activities as presented by the county secretaries. This plan calls for a part-time man on the county staff who shall give his time to the worx in Anaheim only.

With the changing of the fiscal year of the association this year to end January 1, instead of May 31, as in the past, thebudget for the county for a period of sixteen months amounts to $20,000 and provides for five secretaries in the field and an office secretary. Three of these men are giving all their time to the promotion of the work and two giving part time, one in Orange and one in Anaheim. The quota for Anaheim for this period of time is $3,500, it was announced.

Realizing that this larger program demands more careful consideration and planning, it was decided at this time to enlarge the local committee, to assist the secretaries in better carrying out their plans. This committee is being called together by the chairman, Chas. Eygabroad, Thursday at noon to talk over the plans for the winter, advise with the secretaries and set a date when the local budget will be raised.

STILL MISSING

Johnny—Say, paw, I can't get these 'rithmetic examples. Teacher said somethin' 'gout findin' the great common divisor.

Paw (in disgust)—Great Scott! Haven't they found that thing yet. Why, they were huntin' for it when I was a boy.—The Christian Evangelist, St. Louis.

High Class Attractions At Two Local Theaters

A regular carnival of high class attractions is scheduled for both the California and Fairyland theaters here starting Tuesday, according to Managing Director Jack Retlaw. Both theaters are showing unusual features, and deserve much commendation for the programs to be offered it is said.

The outstanding feature at the California will be Betty Compson, celebrated film star, in the "The End of the World," a wonderful photodrama. Miss Compson won everlasting fame for her great portrayal in "The Miracle Man," but many say her acting in the picture coming here tomorrow is even superior to that in "The Miracle Man."

She is supported by an exceptionally brilliant cast, and the entire picture is worth while in every way. Aside from the feature, other good attractions including Gilbert, noted vaudeville violinist, will present some of his selections. Other offerings will also feature this bill.

The Fairyland will offer a double program. Probably the most unusual feature will be the famous Charles Chaplin in his newest comedy, "The Idle Class." This is surely a laughmaker if there ever was one, according to press notices.

The other attractions will be the big Paramount picture entitled "Experience," with a wonderful all-star cast of celebrated players.

We can't love the man who goes to church and sings "Stand up for Jesus," and then won't stand up for a woman in a street car.

Home, with a great many people is a place where they can lay aside their uncomfortable clothes and their good manners.

The knowledge a college graduate has in his head does him very little good until he gets the swelling out of his head.

The physician who says no fast will prove fatal to a healthy man within twenty days probably doesn't bean to include Belfast.

There are two classes of employes: Those who are an asset to the business, and those who are forever excited about their rights.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat, which clogs Kidneys, then Back hurts and Bladder bothers you.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

SEVENTEEN DEAD IN MEXICO

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 14.—Mexican federal officers who crossed the border today told a United Press correspondent that seventeen were killed in yesterday's fighting at San Antonio canyon, south of Tia Juana. They stated that of these only two were rebels.

No engagements have been reported since yesterday morning. Tia Juana is held by the federal garrison and there has been no fighting there. The entire civilian population has crossed the border into the United States bringing with them thousands of dollars.

A troop of cavalry arrived at Tia Juana today from Tecate, and 500 soldiers are coming north from Ensenada it is announced.

Governor Epigmenio Ybarra is in Tia Juana today, personally directing the situation.

BRYAN WANTS BIG TRIBUNAL

WASHINGTON, Nov., 14.—Any government that rejects the American program for limitation of armaments probably would be overthrown by "the people at home" William Jennings Bryan predicted here today.

Armament limitation, he said, would be greatly aided, by the establishment of an international tribunal to settle disputes.

JAPAN WANTS TWELVE SHIPS

TOKIO, Japan, Nov., 14.—Japan should demand that she be permitted to retain twelve capital ships, the Asahi, a leading Tokio newspaper declared today discussing the Hughes proposals for reduction of armament.

Scrapping of the new battleship Mutsu was opposed.

TO SUBMIT JAP PROPOSALS

TOKIO, Nov. 14.—It became practically certain today that Japan would submit counter proposals on limitation of armament as its answer to the Hughes program offered by the United States at Washington Saturday.

The counter proposals probably will accept Japan's limitation of 10 capital ships but will ask a readjustment of the proportionate strength of the naval powers, suggesting England be limited to 22 and the United States 18 capital ships.

TEN DIE IN TENEMENT FIRE

NEW YORK, Nov., 14.—Ten persons were reported killed or fatally injured in a tenement house fire at Sixteenth street and Sixth avenue early today. The dead included three women, two children, two men and two persons so badly burned their sex could not be determined. The list of dead reached ten when a man who had leaped from a third floor window, died in a hospital.

HUNTER LOSES EYESIGHT

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Nov. 14.—Surgeons were working today to save M. T. De Bolt, former mechanician for Tommy Milton, from total blindness following a hunting accident here.

De Bolt has already lost the sight of one eye. It is feared that the other cannot be saved.

Accidental discharge of a shotgun, the magazine of which was held close against De Bolt's face, was responsible for the accident.

LIONS, LEOPARDS, BEARS IN ANAHEIM WITH STREET CARNIVAL

The twenty-five car train of the Sheesley shows which are to supply the amusements for the American Legion Good Times Week celebration, arrived in the city yesterday. Unloading of the cars required but little time, ten trucking outfits conveying them rapidly to the lot where they are to be located for their six-day stay in Anaheim. The brilliant record by this organization at the fairs of Montana, Wyoming, Utah and Southern California have given them the enviable reputation of being the most unique and complete carnival company ever seen on the coast. All day a small army of workmen were busy transforming the vacant lot at Broadway and Los Angeles streets into a miniature city of tents and booths that will house the attractions of this company, and when thrown open to the amusement loving public tonight will remind one of the fabeled city of Bagdad with its myriads of lights and wonderful decorations.

Carried with this company are some attractions that have been accorded unusual press comment on account of their novelty.

The trained wild animal menagerie is the most complete ever seen with a show of this kind. Lions, leopards, bears, pumas and panthers vie with one another in the most sensational acts that speak volumes for the trainers that present them. The most thrilling act on the program is the performance of Captain Hart with Sheiba, an untamed lion, with a record of four fatalities to her credit and long since considered hopeless by many trainers. Captain Hart enters the arena and for four fearsome minutes in which brute nature battles against the trainer's art, finally drives her helpless, raging and snarling back to her cage beaten by a superior force she cannot understand.

FAITH OF THE NATION SUBJECT OF SERMON HERE SUNDAY

Yesterday morning in the Presbyterian church, the pastor, Rev. Thomas H. Walker, spoke on the "Faith of the Nation," from Ephesians 1:22: "He hath put all things under His feet."

He said in part:

"Armistice Day the nation laid to rest in his marble crypt the representative soldier of the thousands who made the supreme sacrifice. Across the marble arch of the national memorial to our soldier and sailor dead is inscribed this immortal saying of Lincoln spoken at Gettysburg. We here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain.' This is more true today than when uttered by Lincoln, 'The Faith of the Nation.'

"In President Wilson's final message to confress occurs this stirring sentences, also from Lincoln. 'Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us dare to do our duty as we understand it.' This, too, is embodied in 'The Faith of the Nation.' This, the faith in which was conceived and out of which has come the great hope of the world that a new order might prevail in the affairs of men; an order in which reason and right shall prevail over covetousness and force. Traitors are they who lose faith in the ultimate triumph of justice and right and truth. Traitors not only to the underlying principles and exalted ideals of the nation; but also to humanity and its future upward tread and victory. Traitors moreover to God and Christ and the gospel of salvation in Him.

"There are no new problems. All the battles that have ever been fought, all the blood that has stained the sod, all the struggles have had one end: that the common lot may have their rights filched from them through the process of the ages.

"Why were the followers of Jesus killed in the Roman arena? Not because of their theology but because of their sociology; not because of their theories but because of their practice. Rome did not care what a man believed, but welcomed all religions that the empire might be centralized even in religions. But when the Christian faith declared that a slave was as good as his master in the sight of God and should be in the eyes of men, that the thousands thrown to the lions in the arena were their brothers and equals; that a child born in a manger, and who worked at a carpenter's bench, was divine, to be worshiped and obeyed more implicitly than Caesar, Rome met this claim with 'To the lions with the Christians.'

Seventeen hundred years later the Declaration of Independence was the direct fruit of that life and teaching and example and sacrifice of that despised Nazarene. If you have lost faith in America's declaration and the God of her founders, it means you give up the battle for human rights and the honor of Jesus Christ; that you have given up the battle for a high-grade spirituality in your own manhood and have made compromise with the forces of evil at work in the world.

"The divine intent for human society is plain. Right shall triumph and peace shall prevail. But peace must come to the world as it comes to the individual, through allegiance to God's Son, whom 'He hath made heir of all things.' For the world's greatest problem is not dread disease or stalking famine or industrial poverty, nor is it the remaking of the map of the world, but the world's real problem lies in the hearts of men, and only Christ, the Lamb of God, can take away the sin of the world. Selfishness and hate unconfessed and unforgiven anywhere in the world is the world's constant menace.

The remedy is not an armed truce or a solemnly signed treaty nor an enactment by an international tribunal; for, the nation's heart is not a bit of parchment nor is the nation's conscience a monogram. Heart religion is the needed remedy. What avails it to have the wisdom of Solomon if we have not the unselfishness of Jesus? What avails it have the theological ability of a Paul if we lack the constraining love of Jesus."

Mr. and Mrs. West and family motored to San Pedro yesterday and visited the New York batleship.

And when it comes to making war, a tongue that rattles frequently is mightier than a sword that rattles.

ANAHEIM SECRETARY OF RED CROSS TELLS OF CHAPTER'S WORK

A total of 46,000 pounds of clothing, contributed by more than 160 American communities, has already been received at Brooklyn, N. Y., ready for shipment in response to the joint appeal of the American Red Cross and the American Friends service committee in behalf of the desperately needy of Europe. The bulk of the clothing, according to the first report received at Red Cross national headquarters, is for children, whose situation is particularly pitiful. Shipments of children's clothing total nearly twenty tons and in addition Red Cross chapter workers have already made and shipped more than two tons of layettes.

The response to the appeal has come from communities large and small throughout the country. Poughkeepsie, N. Y., sent 2600 pounds of clothing and shoes. Los Angeles made an initial contribution of 3400 pounds; Newton, Mass., Utica, N. Y., Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston, each made substantial contributions. But it is a large aggregate of small committees in the west that swelled the total.

"Preparation to pick up a job like providing clothing for half a million destitute children is one of the biggest things Red Cross chapter organizations makes possible," said Mrs. Eva Boyd, secretary of the local Red Cross chapter, yesterday.

"One hundred and eight chapters in the Pacific division are working on this clothing production now. The 199 chapters in the Pacific division stand pledged to make 22,000 layettes and 170,000 garments as their share of the 250,000 layettes and 2,000,000 garments which the American Red Cross promised to deliver to central European countries this year.

"A Red Cross chapter in a community is organized to express phases of community life and civic spirit for which no other organization is so well equipped. The Fifth Red Cross roll call is the annual event in which the whole community unite to set approval on Red Cross working plans."

Feel how smooth this paint is

NO wonder Certain-teed paint is so smooth—it is made of the finest grade materials ground exceedingly fine and mixed thoroughly and evenly by machines which make no mistakes. And how it does spread! No ordinary paint equals it. The brush glides over the surface, leaving a velvety coating of paint that completely hides the surface and keeps it hidden.

You'd expect such high grade paint as Certain-teed to cost more, but it actually costs less. The Certain-teed people certainly know how to make paint, and they know how to price it. Each color stands on its own price, based on cost. You pay less for those colors which cost less to make. That's fair. Everybody pays only for what he gets and nothing more. We have the right Certain-teed Paint or Varnish for everything inside or outside your house. Come in and see us before you buy any paint.

MYTH OF ANCIENTS IS FOUND TO HAVE BASIS OF REALITY

For many centuries Norway has had its legends that recited frightful tales of the kraken, a great and mysterious marine creature, that was a danger to sailors on the high seas. Now scientists have found that the localities in which these folk tales flourish are the habitat of giant squids or "cattle fish," of the genus Architeuthus, that have frequently been cast up on sea beaches.

According to Dr. James Ritchie of the Royal Scottish museum, the largest of these on record had tentacles that have a span close to thirty feet. It was nine feet nine inches long from the tip of its tail to the tip of its short arms, but its tentacular arms were each fourteen feet long. The tentacles were armed with some 1,200 toothed suckers, which must have rendered the creature a formidable enemy.

World's Richest Indian Will Move From Shack Into Palatial Mansion

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Nov. 15.—Jackson Barnett, Oklahoma's richest Indian, has gone to Kansas City to have a fling at metropolitan luxury, and if he finds that he can stand it, Barnett will make it permanent—with the consent of the United States government of which he is a ward. Barnett up until recently lived in a two-room block house at Henryetta, 30 miles from Muskogee, wore cheap clothes, smoked cheap tobacco and didn't even own a phonograph—which is an odd way to live for one rated as worth $5,000,000, even if he is an Indian. While at Henryetta, Barnett was well satisfied in his two rooms and let his guardian, attorney and agents of the Indian agency in Muskogee and Washington worry about the millions that were flowing from oil wells on his property. His wants were few and the money went into the banks of Oklahoma on deposits made by the Indian agency to his credit.

Bought Liberty Bonds

When the war was on, thousands of dollars of his money went into Liberty bonds and war savings stamps. Contributions were made to institutions of earning and Jackson lived the simple life, never going farther than a few miles distant form his cabin for many years.

Then he met Mrs. Anna Laura Lowe and they were married. "Kidnaping" is what Barnett's agents called it. However, Barnett was held under restraint until Victor M. Locke Jr. became superintendent of the Indian agency in Muskogee.

"A wealthy Indian has as much right to spend his money as a wealthy white man," Locke has said.

And Jackson in company with his wife and her daughter sought to make a dent in the $5,000,000 pile. Mrs. Barnett said her husband needed a change and the government consented to a vacation. They went to Canada, and, returning, found money had so flowed in that the dent had filled up. After that vacation the Indian was unhappy for the first time in his life and refused to go back to the cabin and cheap clothes.

Can Live Anywhere.

"We are going to let the Indian himself decide where he wants to live," Superintendent Locke declared. "If he wants to live in Muskogee, all right. If he chooses some other city we have nothing to say in the way of objecting, for he's the right to make his own decisions."

If a suitable residence can be found in Kansas City it will be purchased by the government for its wealthy ward. Otherwise, a house will be built.

"There's no truth in the report that we are going to spend $200,000 for a residence for Jackson Barnett," Locke said, "but we are going to see to it that he has a house in keeping with his wealth and one with which he is satisfied."

IF YOU TELL LIES DODGE THIS TEST

People may tell a lie and show no outward signs of it; but internally through the heart and lungs—they betray themselves.

There now is a machine, invented by William M. Marston of Boston, that finds its principal use in recording the heart and lung action of suspected criminals as they are cross-examined. There are three separate part to the machine—the chronoscope, the kimeograph and the sphygmomanometer.

The chronoscope measures the time that elapses between the examiner's question and the suspect's answer. There is a mouthpiece in front of each man. When the examiner asks his question, the chronoscope automatically starts to whir and continues until the suspect answers. The interval between question and answer is measured in twelve hundredths of a second. Usually the examiner reads off a prepared list of words, one by one. The suspect is told to reply with the first word that comes into his head. Some of the words in the examiner's list have nothing to do with the case. Others refer directly to the crime in question. If the suspect is guilty, he will invariably hesitate, perhaps for only a few hundredths of a second—before replying to a "crime" word, because the first word that comes on his mind is usually one that bears on the crime and he must hunt for another one. The innocent man will respond to all words in approximately the same interval of time.

Next there is the kimeograph, which records the suspect's breathing. A rubber tube is fastened around the man's chest and is compressed slightly at each breath. The tube is connected with a revolving drum in such a way that a zigzag line is drawn on the drum at each breath. When a man lies, he breathes differently. You might not notice it, but the kimeograph does; the zigzag lines take a new course when he lies.

The sphygmomanometer registers blood pressure. It is attached to the man's arm and is connected with a stethoscope that is operated by a doctor. He and the examiner have a system of signals that tell him when to record the pressure. First he finds the average pressure of the man when he is being asked inconsequential questions. If his blood pressure increases whenever he is asked questions that refer to the crime, indications point to his guilt.

HUSBAND SILENT FIVE YEARS, SHE SEEKS FREEDOM

Mrs. May L. Dilly of Chicago endured five years of silence with her husband, William Dilly, head of a supply company bearing his name. That, she figured, was long enough to remain silent, so she has sued Dilly for divorce.

It is charged in the bill that his wife was forced to live in quarters that would have been spurned by a dog, in fact, it said, Dilly's pet dogs had luxurious quarters, while his wife lived five years in a bedroom with a leaky roof and no carpet on the floor. Five years ago he locked her in the bedroom and told her he never would speak to her again. He relented to the extent of taking her to his summer home on Fox lake, but forced her to sleep in a shack at the rear of his cottage, with two negro servants. She also charges he was lavishing his money and attentions on a girl.

Business Depression Is Not Felt by Hens

The fact that there is a business depression has not yet penetrated the hen yards of America. As far as the hens are aware, there has never been any interruption to normalcy, say the poultry experts, and if you give Milady Hen a decent place to scratch, a little something to scratch for and a drink once in a while, she will come through with her egg just as regularly as she ever did.

At the recent unemployment conference at Washington a farmer from North Dakota, who is also a recognized authority on agricultural economics, testified that a family of five can live on the labor of fifty-four hens—that the eggs and spring fries from that sized flock will pay the bills of the family and permit it to live decently.

Of course it is not presumed that any family can buy fifty-four hens, turn them loose in the chicken yard, and immediately begin collecting an income that will buy sealskin coats and limousines. It doesn't come that easy. Anyone who has had any experience with chickens of any variety, knows that they are a temperamental lot and have to be coddled. If you don't treat them right you can't expect much.

Just by way of example, they like to have their roosts facing south. Why that is nobody knows, but it is a fancy. No self-respecting hen will cluck as cheerily, or lay her egg as regularly, if her roost faces north, east or west. She would be just as insulted as your wife if you would try to put the kitchen range in the parlor.

But poultry raising is not hard to learn, they say, and anyone who is willing to devote a little time and care to the subject can capitalize his backyard, and assure himself fresh eggs with his bacon—maybe also the bacon.

Geese once saved Rome, why not hens America?

PRISON FOR SYNDICALISTS

In Oakland six men have been sentenced to prison for from one to fourteen years. Their crime was violation of the syndicalist law. There can be no clemency for such offenders. They constitute a menace to society and particularly to industrial enterprise.

One of the men on hearing his sentence cried out "If this be justice, then to hell with justice." All marched out singing. Truly an extraordinary group.

It is not to be believed that all these men are bad intrinsically. They have listened to false teachers. Into their minds has been driven an obsession concerning what they conceive to be wrongs. Doubtless they are conscious of some real wrongs, for who is not? Their weakness is in believing that violence, bad faith, destruction—whatever form hatred may take—is a remedy. Individuals become so permeated with fallacious beliefs that they are called lunatics. Insanity seizes upon gatherings where doctrines, political or religious, are expounded in a fervor of zeal. Communities are swept by emotional waves that amount to eclipse of normal mentality.

Among syndicalists doubtless there are the lazy and vicious, bent on mischief; despising the prosperous because prosperity has not sought them out as well; despising effort because they desire both golden rewards and lives of ease. These furnish the leaven. They act upon the elements that misfortune has thrown into contact with them, poisoning the minds of the weak, making the hardships of the lowly appear as gross iniquities deliberately created and piled upon them by the "master" class.

While it is impossible to condone the acts of the dupes, it is possible to understand that some of them are victims of circumstance. When sorely tried, and perhaps justly indignant at untoward specific experience, they come within the sphere of a sinister influence, and necessity arises for restraining them, and they go singing to the martyrdom of the zealot.

HUMANITY THEN AND NOW

It is said that even so far back as 1775 a Frenchman had contrived a gun that by a crank system, could fire 240 bullets almost simultaneously. This was rejected by Louis XIV, as a weapon that could annihilate a regiment was deemed to murderous for adoption. This, then, was the beginning of the machine gun; a feeble instrument indeed, beside the modern machine gun.

No gun now would be rejected for being too murderous. It might be thrown aside because of limited killing capacity.

The most deadly gun ever constructed would seem an instrument of mercy compared with Lewisite. This is a gas said to contain fifty-five times the potency of any gas used in the late world war. No mask could be a protection against it. The slightest contact with human tissue, even with the skin of the hand, means death.

A few bombs of this horrid compound dropped into a city would mean the end of life there; of all life, animal or vegetable. There could be no escape. It is said by scientists that soil touched by Lewisite could not thereafter produce any crop for seven years. This must be regarded as conjecture, but no matter whether or not it is true. There would be no need of a crop, for a dead race would be immune to hunger.

Had the war not ended when it did, Lewisite would have been employed. This would have involved the wiping out of the last soul of the population in any city attacked.

In "the next war" dreamed of by mad militarists, Lewisite would be a chief weapon. Under its fumes cities would vanish. There is no reason to suppose that any city could escape. An invading enemy first destroying the coast cities could not be kept from the interior. The trail to be left would be desolation unspeakable and final.

Just as the disarmament conference comes to order, it is well to cite a few of the reasons why civilization is opposed to war. It is the law of self preservation that is finding expression in the determined pronouncement that war is intolerable, unthinkable, beyond the consideration of sane peoples.

Proposals that the debts of Europe to this country be written off the books do not come from the debtor nations. They do not come from the creditor nation. They are mere allegations set up by agitators in order that they may have a target for their mud ammunition.

Between Ourselves

By Della M. Stewart

One of the speakers at the recent eugenic congress in New York City asserted that the world was suffering from a shortage of minds big enough to deal with its problems, and urged all to save civilization by producing a race of demigods. As an experiment in this direction the Oklahoma Agricultural College has already borrowed a healthy boy baby and will try to make of him a superior type by exerting every effort to five him ideals surroundings and extreme good care.

How much will be accomplished by this method

Unless scientists are greatly at fault once more, much that will influence the life of that baby has already been done in the brains and physical characteristics of his ancestors. Although there is some relationship between a healthy body and a healthy mind, it is not always in evidence. Else how could we have had the genius of Keats, sickly and discouraged; Voltaire, never free from pain; Pope, sowed up each day in a stiff packet that he might be able to accomplish his work?

There have been others, strong of body, favored in training and environment, who have spent their days in dissipation and crime. The quality of human nature is elusive. That which is embodied in weakness may be better than that housed in strong hucks. It takes thousands of years to effect race betterment.

Animal life can be bettered by wholesome surroundings and good care. Are qualities of mind and soul so easily impaired?

A PRAYER

I do not pray that Thou wilt lift
My load, what may it be,
I ask of Thee the better gift
Of burdens laid for me.

I do not ask that Thou wilt spare
Me sorrow on my way,
I ask the greater joy, to share
The heat and strife of day.

I do not ask that Thou wilt give Me lordship of Thy lands,
I ask the richer gift, to live
And strive with heart and hands.

I do not ask that Thou wilt bless
Me all the world above,
I ask Thy gift of tenderness
That I may learn to love.

I do not ask that Thou wilt lift
One bitter cup from me,
I ask the draught as Thy best gift
If it shall strengthen me.

I do not ask Taee to make light
My tasks in all Thy plan,
I ask that through the day and night
I prove myself a man.

Oh, let me bring no selfish prayer—
That Thou wilt do for me—
This gift I ask, that Thou wilt share
The work Thou hast with me!

SAMMY TELLS HIS TROUBLES TO REDDY FOX

SAMMY JAY could think of nothing but the terrible fright he had had at Farmer Brown's corncrib. He had thrust his bill through a crack for a few grains of corn when something had seized his bill and hung on. Sammy didn't have the least bit of doubt that it was a trap of some kind set by Farmer Brown's boy. He flew down to the Green Forest to think it over and plan some way to get even with Farmer Brown's boy. As he sat there muttering to himself along came Reddy Fox. For a wonder Reddy saw Sammy before Sammy saw him.

Reddy grinned. "Sammy certainly has got something on his mind," thought Reddy. Then he said aloud: "Hello, Sammy! What's the matter?

It was a trap," said Sammy. "It was some kind of a trap set by Farmer Brown's Boy."

You look as if you had the stomach-ache and the headache and a few other aches."

"Matter enough, Reddy Fox! Matter enough!" snapped Sammy. Then because he felt that he just had to tell some one he told Reddy all about his terrible fright that morning.

"It was a trap," said Sammy. "It was some kind of a trap set by Farmer Brown's boy. Just as if he couldn't spare a few grains of corn when he has got so much! I—I—I'd like to peck his eyes out! That's what I'd like to do!"

Sammy said that because it was the most dreadful thing he could think of, but he didn't really mean it. Reddy knew it and grinned, for he also knew that Sammy didn't dare go near enough to Farmer Brown's boy to more than scream at him. All the time he had been listening. Reddy had sat with his head cocked on one side, which is a way he has when he's thinking. Inside he was laughing, for Reddy knows a lot about traps and about Farmer Brown's boy and he didn't believe that Farmer Brown's boy would ever set a trap in such a queer place as a crack in the wall of a corn-crib. "He wouldn't bother to try to trap Sammy Jay; he would just watch with his gun and shoot Sammy if he really cared about the few grains of corn Sammy has taken," thought Reddy. "It was some one or something else that frightened Sammy. But it isn't the least bit of use to tel him so. I believe I'll have a look and see what is going on at that corn-crib." Aloud he said:

That was a terrible experience, Sammy Jay, and I don't wonder you were frightened. Are you going up there tomorrow morning?"

"What?" screamed Sammy. "Going up there again? What do you take me for? I guess I don't need but one lesson of that kind. There's plenty to eat in the Green Forest and on the Green Meadows without running any such risk as that. No, sir, you won't catch me around Farmer Brown's corn-crib again very soon; not if my name is Sammy Jay!"

"You are wise, very wise," replied Reddy gravely. "It is always wise to keep out of danger." And with this Reddy trotted on up the Lone Little Path and inside his red head were busy thoughts. Reddy had made up his mind that there was something very queer about Sammy Jay's fright and he meant to find out about it. He would be on hand at the first peep of day the next morning and see what was going on around Farmer Brown's corn-crib.

And all day long Sammy Jay flew about through the GreenForest telling every one who would listen how Farmer Brown's boy had tried to trap him. Late that afternoon he visited the Old Orchard and told his story all over again to Chatterer, the Red Squirrel, and Chatterer didn't so much as smile until after Sammy had left. Then he threw himself on the ground and rolled over and over and laughed until his sides ached.

"Hi—mm," said Reddy Fox thoughtfully, as unseen by Chatterer he watched from behind the old stone wall, "that red-coated busybody knows something about that trap in the corn-crib. I certainly will be on hand early tomorrow morning."
