THIRTEEN HURT WHEN TRAM CAR COLLIDES WITH ELECTRIC TRAIN

Wet Rails Cause Crash In Los Angeles—Brakes and Sand Fail To Stop Speeding Interurban.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—Thirteen persons were injured and rushed to the receiving hospital here today following a collision between an interurban electric train and a street car.

The crash occurred at Seventh and San Pedro streets. An incoming Long Beach train, unable to stop at the intersection because of wet rails, crashed into a Stephenson avenue car and almost cut it in two. The wrecked street car was whirled completely around and fell on its side.

"I could see that we were going to hit the street car," Motorman A. T. Meyhoffer said at police headquarters, where an investigation of the accident is under way. "I jammed on the brakes, but because of the recent rain and slippery rails, we shot ahead at the same speed. I applied the sand, but even that didn't check us."

Rushed to Hospital

The injured, for the most part passengers of the Stephenson avenue car, were rushed to the receiving hospital in ambulances.

None were seriously hurt, according to a hospital bulletin after first aid had been given.

The loud crash when the two cars met attracted crowds numbering into the thousands. Traffic at the street intersection and on the Pacific Electric main line was tied up for almost an hour.

LONG BEACH MUNICIPAL OIL WELL COMES IN ON SIGNAL HILL

A new oil well came in on Signal Hill last night.

It was not cause for rejoicing for a group of stockholders of a big corporation, but tidings of gladness to an entire city. It means, say those who say they know, that Long Beach is soon to discard the title "Queen of the Beaches" for that of "Taxless Town."

The well, which shows a production of from 500 to 1000 barrels of the black gold a day, belongs to the city of Long Beach. It is the first municipally owned producing oil well in the world, it is asserted, and proves that the territory being developed by the city is "pay dirt" and that in a short time many holes in the ground will be pouring money into the city treasury.

Ramsey Municipal No. 1 is the well's official title and it has been drilled to a depth of 3151 feet. Since Friday balling has been in progress and those in charge were in a position to place the gusher under control as soon as necessary. Just one big splash as the gas pressure forced the fluid over the top of the derrick. The waiting cap was quickly put in place and the gusher was under control.

The newest producer on Signal Hill is just 200 feet from the Sheli Company's Alamitos No. 1, which was the first producer in that territory. The city owns many acres in the immeditae vicinity and its officials have every reason to believe that in the near future scores of producers will be in operation. The city has a contract with Ramsey Brothers, who have been doing the drilling, and will share on a fifty-fifty basis with the drilling company.

BUREAU SETS GOAL FOR MEMBERSHIP DRIVE NEXT MONTH

With a goal of 2,500 set for the 1922 quota of Orange County Farm Bureau membership, plans are already under way for the big membership campaign to open December 6.

Seven of the fourteen farm centers in the county have been lined up for the campaign and work among the remaining seven is being rapidly completed. Workers throughout the county are to be delegated to secure new members and each center is expected to contribute its share of work.

A feature of the campaign is to be a big luncheon for all workers in the membership campaign. This will be held in Santa Ana on the noon of December 6, the day prior to the opening of the campaign. It will be the purpose of this meeting to stir up enthusiasm and arouse the workers to the highest pitch of endeavor.

Arthur Burch, Soda Jerk Wants Hollywood Store May Get Prison Instead

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—The Hollywood Soda Fountain and Tea Rooms, Arthur C. Burch, Prop.

This is the legend, according to Arthur, which will make its appearance over a natty little shop in Hollywood if the jury in his present trial for murder turns in the hoped-for verdict of acquittal.

"I've a friend out Hollywood way who owns a confectionery store," the busy, amiable little person who is accused of perpetrating one of the most mysterious and cold-blooded murders in California criminal annuals, confided to newspapermen today.

"This friend wants me to go into business with him. It ought to be great stuff—squirting soda. A wonderful sedative for my nerves after my long stay in jail," he said.

The dapper little college graduate and minister's son, as he smilingly outlined his plans for the future, was more easily pictured as a soda dispenser than as the assassin who lay in ambush through midnight hours at isolated Beverly Glen, and shot wealthy John Belton Kennedy to death when the latter speared in company with Madalynne Obenchain.

Pleading guilty to the charges of selling intoxicating liquors and keeping a place where liquor was sold, F. L. Bradley, proprietor of the filling station at the corner of County road and West Center street, Anaheim, was given his choice of $200 or 200 days in jail on each count.

Bradley was in jail today pending the success of his effort to raise the fine. He was taken Saturday evening by Sheriff C. E. Jackson and his deputies, who purchased liquor from Bradley as evidence.

ANAHEIM BOYS RETURN FROM CONFERENCE OF Y. M. C. A.

Thirty-nine boys and eight leaders returned last night from the seventeenth annual Older Boys' Conference of the Y. M. C. A. which was held at Santa Barbara last week. The conference this year was one of the best and had an attendance of more than 350 delegates and leaders, according to reports. Harry Rimmer, main speaker of the conference, with his wide experiences in the north woods and in the army, gave several good addresses.

C. C. Chapman, chairman of the state Y. M. C. A. committee, opened the conference with a short address and after a few short talks by different members of the various delegations, Rimmer gave an address on the subject of "Dynamite."

The spirit and theme of the conference was "Something More."

As a follow up of this conference, there is to be held an Orange County Older Boys' Conference at Orange Saturday and Sunday, December 3 and 4 to which every member of the six Hi-Y clubs in the county are invited to attend. Rimmer has been secured as speaker of the conference and with Ralph Cole and H. O. Hill of the state staff of the Y. M. C. A., will help in the program. Plans have been laid by the people of Orange to provide entertainment for 150 delegates, the boys arriving Saturday morning and remaining until Sunday afternoon. The theme of the county conference is "Something More Ahead."

The delegates to the Santa Barbara conference from Anaheim were: George Easton, Dana Newkirk, Clinton Griggs, Art Mann, Marlowe Janss and Clifford Elliott.

BRIDE OF ONE DAY NOW ASKS DIVORCE

How a bride and her husband were alleged to have separated the same day that they were married, was revealed in Santa Ana today when a divorce action, originally filed in Los Angeles county on behalf of Clara Opal Penhall of Los Angeles against Raymond H. Penhall, now living at Westminster, was transferred to the superior court of Orange county on a change of venue.

The complaint which was filed in Los Angeles by Attorney H. Y. Gibson, recites that the couple were married in Santa Ana February 17, 1920, and separated the same day. The bill of particulars does not state the reason for the separation.

The plaintiff states that a child, now 13 months old, was born to the couple.

The plaintiff asks a decree and $50 a month alimony.

The case was transferred to Orange county upon motion of Attorney Clyde Bishop of Santa Ana, representing the defendant.

GERMANY WOULD PROVE THAT NATION HAS DISARMED

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Germany is prepared to offer guarantees that she has disarmed to allay fears of the French, according to a dispatch to the London Chronicle, from Berlin, quoting "an official statement from the German ministry of defense."

This is taken as the German reply to the speech of Premier Briand before the Washington disarmament conference in which the French premier pointed to "a German military menace" as the reason for France refusing to substantially reduce her armies.

Sutton of Yorba Linda gave a vocal solo; Sarah Muirhead, Buena Park, a gypsy dance in costume; Mrs. Hall, Fullerton, a vocal solo.

James W. Foley, of Pasadena, special writer for the Anaheim Daily Herald, was the main speaker of the evening. He finished his talk with his poem "Chums." The men's quartette from the lease concluded the program.

The early evening was given to a banquet of barbecued steaks and other dishes served at 6 o'clock. There were thirty tables with twenty-four seated at each table.

The grounds were lighted by torches attached to the main gas line.

After the program, the guests were invited to the new hall, where a grand ball concluded the entertainment.

SCHOOLS FOR RANCHERS PLANNED BY COUNTY FARM ADVISOR

More comprehensive and complete plans have been laid for the farm account schools planned for Orange county from December 12 inclusive, than those of the successful series of classes carried on last year under the same supervision, according to H. E. Wahlberg, county farm advisor.

R. V. Wright, farm management specialist from the State College of Agriculture at Berkeley, will have personal charge of the classes. Those who took advantage of the classes last year under the direction of Mr. Wright will be glad of the opportunity offered to specialize on a particular line this year under his direction.

The first class will be held Wednesday, December 12, at Costa Mesa and will deal with cost of production and marketing apples. Walnut growers will have a special class at the Tustin school, December 13. Beet growers will meet December 14 at the Garden Grove Y. M. C. LOS ANGELES AVIATOR KILLED WHEN PLANE CRASHES TO EARTH

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—Another of the coast's veteran flyers is today with those who have "given their lives to the game."

Emery H. Rogers, owner of a large flying field here, fell to his death late yesterday in full view of his wife and hundreds of spectators.

His small monoplane side-slipped as he was driving out of a bank turn in a race with another machine. Every bone in his body was broken in the fall. He died two hours later at the Hollywood emergency hospital without regaining consciousness.

Rogers, who was 27 years of age and a former service aviator, leaves a wife and two babies.

FATTY ARBUCKLE WILL CONCLUDE DEFENSE TODAY GIRL WILL TALK

Alice Lake Among Witnesses To Be Called in Trial Of Film Comedian on Manslaughter Charge.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—The million dollar legal defense of Roscoe Arbuckle announced it would conclude its case today with the testimony of a dozen men and women from the Los Angeles movie studios and several finger print experts.

Arbuckle, himself, is not expected to take the stand to give the details of the liquor party which led to the death of Virginia Rappe, film beauty.

Most prominent among the witnesses to be called today stood the name of Alice Lake, former Broadway favorite, now in the movies.

While the exact nature of her testimony was held secret, it was believed she would tell of parties at which she had seen Miss Rappe become hysterical and disrobe or attempt to, and also of parties where Arbuckle acted the part of the "perfect gentleman."

Finger Expert on Stand

Ignatus McCarthy, the "Sherlock Holmes of the finger experts held the juvenile lead in the star cast for today.

Other lesser lights from the studios also will be summoned to the stand.

Interest in the trial has continued to increase and arrangements were made today to handle the largest crowd as the people started to gather about the Hall of Justice long before court opened.

Background Inspires Drama

Across the street from the court building is Portsmouth Square where sailors from the seven seas told Robert Louis Stevenson many of the tales he later wove into great stories. A hundred yards away lies Chinatown, radiant in its oriental coloring. On another side lies the famous "Barbary Coast" still struggling for its existence against the onslaught of prohibition and moral crusaders. And a hundred yards away in still another direction, where the wholesale markets pungent with the dank odors of pine apples, bananas, spices and cocoanuts, fresh from the South Sea Isles.

It offers the scene a background which might inspire a greater drama than it now holds.

Preacher to Get Rich From Well at Beach Town

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov. 28.—When the Rev. Byron H. Wilson, Methodist minister, invested his savings of many years in a four-acre tract of land at Huntington Beach, he hoped to prepare a home place for his declining years, where he could "putter around" and have congenial occupation for himself outdoors.

But oil derricks came to Huntington Beach and the minister was not averse to receiving his share of the golden petroleum, so he executed a lease to the Argonaut Oil Company, which began drilling.

A few days ago this well, known as Wilson No. 1, was "brought in," but did nothing startling, and only "opened up" on Saturday, when it began flowing at the rate of 1000 barrels a day. As a result Rev. Wilson's oil income is approximately $200 a day, probably greater than the average salary he has been getting per month since his entry into the ministry. Rev. Wilson now superintendent of the Los Angeles district of the Methodist church.

BARON VON THERMANN WHO HAS COME FROM GERMANY AS ACTING AMBASSADOR

He is the first German diplomat to arrive here since Count von Bernstorff sailed away at request. He explained that he came only to prepare the way for the German ambassador, who will soon be appointed and to whom he will become counsellor. The Baron is in striking contrast to the German ambassadors of pre-war days, for he arrived clad in a worn suit of clothes.

MAY SETTLE SHANTUNG PROBLEM OUT OF CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Peacable settlement of the thorny Shantung problem "out of court" is likely unless the far eastern committee compels its consideration in that body. There is also a prospect that Japan will denounce—cancel—the famous twenty-one demands which infringe on China's political and territorial integrity.

This information came today from a source extremely intimate with Pacific developments.

BURGLARS GET $250 IN LOOT FROM ANAHEIM HOME AT NIGHT

Silverware, Jewelry and Clothing Taken By Men Who Enter Amack House and Escape.

Burglars entered the home of U. S. Amack, 711 West Broadway, between 7 and 9:15 o'clock Saturday night and took articles amounting in value to nearly $250. Entrance to the house was forced through a rear window which, it is said, was the only one in the house left unlocked. The screen outside the window was cut by the thieves.

Miss Beulah Smith of Long Beach spent the week end with Mrs. Wayne Amack and the two, with Mrs. U. S. Amack and Miss Coy Amack, spent the evening at the theater. U. S. Amack and Wayne Amack were away on a hunting trip. When the theater party arrived home, Mrs. Amack found several bureau drawers pulled out and collars strewn about the floor. The tour women immediately left the house and stopped a Mr. Bigelow who was passing in an automobile. He searched the house, and finding no one, suggested that the police be called. The police arrived but found no clues at the time.

Silverware Stolen

Among things missed were two table cloths, a set lavalier and suitcase belonging to Miss Beulah Smith, a new suit of clothes belonging to U. S. Amack, a dress, a skirt, a smock. The nature of some of the articles stolen indicated, police say, that the thieves were Mexicans, as some red apples were taken, beads, revolver and box of cartridges, perfume, 250 pennies in a jug and a telephone book. It is said by police that the thieves thought that by taking the telephone book they could prevent the immediate calling of the officers.

Following a search on Sunday morning, an article belonging to Mrs. Wayne Amack was found beside buggy tracks on Palm street indicating that the thieves had left on a buggy and had started south. Sheriff Jackson later secured some excellent fingerprints from the window screen and says he will compare them with those of certain men suspected of the robbery.

Mrs. Wayne Amack suffered minor bruises about her head and arms when she fainted and fell to the floor after turning in the police alarm.

DEATH OF COSTA MESA BABIES IS MYSTERY TO PHYSICIANS

Repeated laboratory tests covering a wide range of experiments, embracing collaboration on the part of county health officials, have failed to determine the cause of intestinal inflammation diagnosed as enteritis which caused the deaths recently of two children of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Wygant of Costa Mesa.

According to Dr. Harry Zaiser, superintendent of the Orange County hospital, no further efforts will be made to solve the mystery, as he stated that all within the power of the county authorities had been done.

The first death in the Wygant family occurred about two weeks ago, at which time Alice 3 years old, was the victim. Lettie, 19 months old, was the second one to be stricken, dying at the County hospital a week ago. Other members of the Wygant family who have been receiving treatment at the county hospital, were removed to their home Saturday morning. Dr. Zaiser said that their condition was such that no further alarm was felt.

RICHFIELD

On the Krug ease No. 5 brought in last week is holding steadily at 200 bbls. No. 6 moved rig and is drilling at 800. The Ridge Oil Company decided not to carry a string of 8 inch further than 4415 and at that point stopped drilling and set the pipe. No showing other than the oil colors and gas that has been running for a couple hundred feet prompted the setting of the pipe. Drilling will be resumed with 4 inch.

The Standard Oil Company has decided to redrill and deepen Kellog No. 2. This well got down to a very small production, and will be deepened to get an increase. Drilling on Kraemer 2-16 is now at 4000 feet in hard sand. Kraemer 2-17 is drilling at 3985 on sandy brown shale.

Davis No. 1 at 3247 is making only 5 barrels. The best well is Group 4-1 producing 56 bbls. at 3116. The Hugo lease one of the smaller properties has turned out to be the most valuable. GARDEN GROVE

The Standard Oil Company's deep test well at Garden Grove is now making hole at close to 4100 feet. Despite the fact that there are persistent rumors of a big well the drilling is going quietly on and no official announcements of any big showings have ever been made.

HAWTHORNE-REDONDO

The Kitselman Oil Company is having a lot of trouble shutting off bottom water at Hicks No. 3. Drilled to 4002 there has to date been no success in getting a shut off at 3920. Takes Man of Conviction to Speak for God---Walker

"The Chosen Spokesman of God" was the sermon topic at the Presbyterian church yesterday morning.

The pastor, Rev. Thomas H. Walker, took for his text, 'Isaiah 6:1, "In the year that King Uzziah died, I saw also the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and His train filled the temple."

"It takes a man of conviction to speak for God," said Rev. Walker. "Isaiah's two deep-rooted convictions: the righteousness and grace of God, His doctrine of Divine Providence was founded on the character of God. God was regnant because He was righteous and holy—His righteousness everywhere tempered with mercy. All great convictions are a growth. Truth is dwelt upon until it has explosive force. Isaiah, a young man of twenty-five, intensely patriotic and a great admirer of the King, feels the ground slipping from under his feet when the King dies. He turns to God and God shows the young enthusiast that He is the reigning one upon whom the safety of the nation depends.

"Political and social changes often awaken men to a consciousness of the weakness of all human dependencies and the fundamental strength of the authority and superintendence of God.

"The shaken institutions of men drive men to the unshakable God.

"The habit of a lifetime asserts itself and Isaiah goes at once to God.

"In the place of worship is is sensitive to the presence of God, and there, too, he is disillusioned.

"Some claim it is God and Christianity who have deceived them when things go wrong; others know that it is our boasted institutions which lack perfection.

"Isaiah saw God. There is much to see you cannot see with the eye alone. Faith fixed its gaze on God alone and saw in the white light of His holiness not only human weakness but the nation's superficial religious life as well. Isaiah's life thence became God-centered and he saw above nations, peoples, political moves God, high exalted, glorious, all powerful.

"This is the essence of religious faith. Carlyle has said: 'A man must get a foothold beyond time in order to get a foothold within time.' All this the young man saw and what did he hear? Heavenly singers singing of the holiness of God. The holiness of God is no mere figure of speech. It is not an inactive, quiescent holiness but intensely dynamic, potent and very close to his life. It is a devouring flame, consuming all that was antagonistic to itself so that the smoke hung about the central fire. Isaiah is overcome by the awesome sight and he cried out in his agony, 'Woe is me, for I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips, for mine eyes have seen the King, the Lord of Hosts.'

"Disillusion is followed by self-knowledge and he knows himself and his times for what they really are. He knew the cleansing fires of God were necessary and though he dreaded the process he yet offered himself and showed at the same time his longing for his people in the cry wrung from his freshly consecrated lips, 'How long, Lord?' It was a most discouraging mission because the people would not hear nor believe, until their cities were wasted and many had lost their lives. It is no new discovery that people will not believe a thing simply because it is true. Truth in many quarters has no market value. Wisdom cries unheeded on the corners of the street.

"Many would rather believe a beautiful lie than accept austere truth; would rather live in the glamour of the false than pay the price for the glory of the true.

"Stearn measures are needed. Men must be forced to live in a harder, more uncomfortable world; must be driven out of their nests on to the battlefield.

"The chief defects in the religious life of today are: ignorance of God, for acquaintance with the fact of His holiness is almost a lost sense; putting the conscience to sleep; with manufactured revivals and rituals, is another serious defect of today. We welcome anything that will take the place of deep thinking—momentary thrills rather than deep reflection.

"Then, too, we are prone to make light of the saving mercy of Christ. It is useless to deliver the message of God's Mercy and Forgiveness to people who do not believe they need it. Little knowledge of the holiness of God means a defect. We estimate of the atoning work of Christ. Our wants, loudly expressed, are an easy going church program, a comfortable world in which to live and a not-too-hard reception at the hands of God when we do actually have to face Him. Sleek bodies and lean souls here spells soul poverty in the midst of plenty with the shame of it covering our faces with confusion in His presence. Pray God He may not withdraw His cleansing discipline until we are made whole.

"Burn on, Oh, Divine Fire until all dross is consumed. Then shall God's Messenger of Mercy come through the smoke of the burning and making clean our lips and hearts and open to us a full sense of our mission to men. Call us, O God, with an inescapable imperative that we may commit ourselves to a campaign for righteousness under the Holy Spirit's guidance and in the name of the one Savior Jesus the Christ."

Girl Author Claims To Be Czar's Daughter

Considerable interest has been aroused by the appearance of a book in Paris with the title "The Survivor," in which the author, Marie Berditche, asserts that she is none other than the Grand Duchess Anastasia, the youngest daughter of ex-Czar Nicholas of Russia, and the only survivor of the royal family.

The author says that at the time of the assassination of her royal father, mother, brother and sisters by the Bolsheviki, she, too, was struck down and left for dead. She was found, according to the book, by an old carpenter, who took her to his home, revived her and brought her back to health.

Later, the author says, she journeyed through Siberia to Vladivostok, crossed to Japan, and later reached the United States. While there, she continues, she had a conversation with President Wilson.

In an appendix to the book Miss Berditche reprints the official Bolshevik document relative to the murder of the members of the Romanoff royal family, in which the admission was made that one corpse was missing.

'COUNTRY ESTATE' ON FACTORY ROOF

In Cleveland, the manager of a manufacturing concern has arranged a country estate on the roof of his factory, a hundred feet above the street, which is unique in that it possesses an astronomical observatory with a powerful telescope, and an extensive greenhouse used in raising vegetables for the firm's cafeteria and cut flowers for the offices and club rooms.

Cypress and fir trees planted on the roof give it the air of a genuine garden. All employes of the firm have free access to the garden. The beauty of the spot, with the view over Lake Erie, less than 200 feet away, makes it a favorite gathering place the year around. The garden has been laid out after a plan inspired by examples of the Spanish Renaissance.

Pockets For Women Found in Their Hats

Old-fashioned lawyers used to carry their writs and pleadings in the crown of a battered hat, also a plug of tobacco, perhaps, and a bandana handkerchief.

The woman of 1921 revives this ancient method of "stashing" pocket things. Two customers of a well-known New York milliner were found on the exclusive Shinnecock golf course at Southampton, Long Island, with amethyst-colored sports hats that had folds specially designed to carry a cigarette case, vanity mirror and powder-puff.

In one hat the necessaries were merely slipped in and out of the folds, while in the other there was a flap with a snap-fastener.

Herd of Cattle Missing When Dynamite Explodes

ELKO, Nev., Nov. 28.—A quantity of dynamite left over from work on a tunnel in the Ruby mountains had just been touched off by the employes of the Camoille Powder company.

Just before the explosion a herd of cattle was seen to appear from behind some rocks and move toward the scene.

When the smoke and debris had cleared, no trace could be found of the cattle, nor has their owner put any claim for damages.

One of the employes of the company vouches for the story.

H. P. Tobin slightly damaged the front left axle of his new Studebaker Friday when he forgot to stop while driving immediately behind E. M. Schlotter. They were this side of Oceanside and Mr. Schlotter stopped for a moment but long enough for Mr. Tobin to run into him.

This Couple Live Apart But Still are Friendly

In the Popular streets studios, a bit of Parnassus bound to earth in Brooklyn, are two who dwell in that state of matrimony made famous by Fannie Hurst.

And yet there is a difference, too. While Miss Ethel Traphagen—she still uses her maiden name—and her husband, William R. Leigh, have separate homes they live right next door to each other. They eat three meals a day together and visit back and forth. Yet both are free to pursue their careers in their own way.

Where have you heard those names before? Well, Ethel Traphagen is an artist and designer of note, as well as an author of books on costume designs, while her distinguished husband paints vivid pictures of our great southwest, which have brought sunlight and a breath of clean air from the desert into many a home and art gallery.

In June the marriage took place, and until recently those two artists have been roughing it in canons and plains of the wildest parts of Arizona.

Having lived happily in the primitive style, Miss Traphagen and Mr. Leigh now return to the most modern married state, the separate household.

"Doing as you please," says Miss Traphagen, "being absolutely yourself, that is the way to preserve one's own individuality.

"Marriages should not interfere with it, but the trouble is that many people don't understand the value of individuality. Some women have to give up their work, when two cannot agree on the value of going on with a career.

"But I believe each one must work out his or her own salvation in matrimony or in a career, as it seems best to do."

A picturesque person, Miss Traphagen. Tall, slender, with chestnut braid wrapped tight about her shapely head, she resembles the great type of woman Burne-Jones, the great English painter, loved to portray.

"More simplicity in life would help us all," she continued. "The trouble with many modern women, not business women, of course, is that they like to ape the styles and mannerisms of the society women or the nouveaux riches. They are content to follow a leader.

"One's own real self is the pearl of great price and should not be relinquished.

"My husband moved over here from Fifty-ninth street.

"Why? Oh, because I didn't like Fifty-ninth street!" she explained, with a twinkle.

"These separate houses are studios Nos. 32 and 33, near enough for companionship, far enough apart for two careers to keep on flourishing.

"We'll keep on doing whatever we like, and both will retain our old friends.

Trip Around World In 17 Days Planned

A rush around the world by air in 403 hours, at a cost of $3400, a morning paper of London deems one of the possibilities of the near future.

At the great "airway" congress in Paris in conjunction with the autumn aero show, an effort is to be made to join up missing links in the world air chain. Airway experts are ready to specify the machine, and map out the route.

Leaving London at 3 a. m. on Monday morning you are at Constantinople at 4 a. m. on Tuesday and Cairo is reached at noon the same day.

Then you go through to Australia, reaching Sydney at 10 a. m. the following Tuesday. After this, taking the Pacific in another great air voyage, you are at San Francisco at 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon.

The next stage is by the trans-American route to New York, which is reached at 10 p. m. on Monday, in time to take another air liner to London, where you glide down at 8 o'clock on Thursday morning, having traveled 27,000 miles in seventeen days.

Indications of a good orange production are reported from Exeter.

SPIDERS OF TROPICS TIE UP TELEPHONES

Certain parts of South America are the habitat of a large spider that weaves its web around the telephone wires strung on the cross arms of poles. The spider is enormous and its web is heavy and of a thick texture.

The telephone companies were much perplexed when in the late evenings and nights frequent short circuits tied up their lines. After a time they discovered that the trouble arose from the heavy spider webs. When the sun was out, the webs were dry and there was no trouble; but at night, when the webs were covered with dew, short circuits occured. The only remedy is constant brushing away of the webs from the telephone wires.

INDIAN FOLK-SONGS PRESERVED BY U. S.

Songs for burial, for marriage and for birth, in fact, for every important occasion that arises in his life, are the kind of songs sung by the American Indian.

Some of these songs had their beginnings when the Indian was master of the American continent.

Eventually the red man will be of the past, and so the United States government is now having phonograph records made of the old Indian songs.

PLANTS MULTILATED TO FORCE GROWTH

Fruit and flowers are worth more than wood—so English botanists cut rings in the bark of trees in order that more of the nourishment rising from the roots may be diverted to the fruit.

A shallow ring is cut with a sharp knife just through the outer layer of the bark. Great care is taken not to cut into the wood, for this would kill the branch. The cut is then bandaged. The result is that the sap cannot be absorbed by the bark, but passes on to the buds.

At the Ashton Experimental station in Bristol, England, it has been proved that in skillful hands this treatment makes the bark thinner, and greatly increases the size of the leaves and the productivity of the tree.

Pot and Kettle

"You have such strange names for your towns," an Englishman remarked to one of his new American friends. "Weehawken, Hoboken, Poughkeepsie, and ever so many others."

"I suppose they do sound queer to English ears," said the American, thoughtfully. "Do you live in London all the time?"

"Oh, no," said the unsuspicious Briton, "I spend a part of my time at Chipping Norton, and then I've a place at Pokestogg-o-the-Hike." — Harper's Magazine.

Exeter grape growers averaged about $80 per ton for their fruit this season.

TOO MUCH EMPHASIS ON SMARTNESS SAYS PASTOR

Dr. J. A. Geissinger spoke last evening at the White Temple upon "The Prophecies of Amos."

"Amos lived about 750 years before Christ," Rev. Geissinger explained. "That is to say, his little tract of half a dozen pages has come down to us across almost 3000 years. It has been surpassed only by that beautiful little minstrel, the Twenty-Third Psalm, which Mr. Porner has so beautifully rendered this evening, and which goes on singing its way into human hearts everywhere.

"Amos' career fell in with the reign of the great Jereboam II, the greatest of all the kings of Israel, unless we except David, and his dominions were extended farther than those of David, from the Euphrates to the River of Egypt, and from Syria on the north to the deserts on the south. It was a time when conquest and commerce had greatly enriched the land. The rich lived in palaces of hewn stone and the shrines were elaborately sustained while corruption was on every hand. It is interesting to hear Amos speak of the sins of his day. We can understand him. He accuses the grocer of putting false bottoms in his peck measure. He complains that the merchant has a yard stick not quite the full length. The money changers snip off bits of the shekels to pile up an extra gain for themselves. It is "squeeze" everywhere, as the Chinese call it. Meantime the courts are utterly corrupt and the women shameless.

"And what are the priests doing, the church? What does religion stand for? Religion was used as a substitute for morality rather than an inspiration to it. Until Amos represents God as saying that he will not smell the incense of their solemn assemblies. He is sick of the music of their viols and the noise of their songs. What God desires, says the prophet, is justice and righteousness.

"Amos, in other words, lifted religion to the moral level. No wonder scholars today rank him as an epochal man.

"And in this we have a lesson for our own times. Here in America we still believe in right, in God, in the soul in immortality and in the Golden Rule. Yet we have been placing too great an emphasis upon mere smartness, upon efficiency, success and material prosperity. We, too, have been worshiping the golden calf and need to hear the wholesome preaching of Amos. And we really need the emphasis upon moral integrity more than the people of that far off time, for business today is done upon community capital. We pool the savings of widows and orphans and of the thrifty poor and through great financial corporations carry forward our immense commercial enterprises. The crying need is for this man who puts nothing above common honesty and right and who cannot be purchased at any price.

"But Amos went farther than this. His ministry came to a climax when he broke in upon the solemn assembly at the great national shrine at Bethel, when the people led on by the priest, Amaziah, were in the midst of a great ceremony, celebrating the triumphs of the king, and Amos cried out that what God desired was justice and not so much incense and this was the trend of his ministry. But there was another word delivered that day and again and again by the prophet.

"God had called the Israelites to be light-bearers to the nations of the earth. He had told Abraham that in his seed were all the nations of the earth to be blessed and that they were to be a light to the Gentiles and to those who sat in darkness. This promise had two results. On the one hand the great spirits were true to it. On the other the mass of the people were made proud and arrogant and looked upon the Gentiles as dogs. They were the children of God, the Jews. The Gentiles were outcasts and did not belong to the household of faith. Moreover, the Jew did not desire to be the prophet of the moral ideal. He preferred the way of the Egyptians and the Babylonian. He wanted to go down to the sea in ships. He preferred to be the money-changer and the trader of the world and so we find him following the golden calf instead of God.

"Yet all the while he imagines that God will continue to favor him and that no disaster can overtake him. Imagine the shock that must have come to these vain, proud people when the old prophet told them the truth. 'You are no more to the living God than the Ethiopians. If God has led you out of Egypt, he has also led your enemies, the Philistines, out of Caphor and the Syrians out of Kir.

"In other words, Amos sought to remind them that God had called them to serve and to help and if they chose not to do that, God's doom would be upon them, as upon Nineveh and Tyre.

"It is so easy to slip back and to forget. It is not enough for us to remind ourselves that we had the Puritans for our forefathers. Our ancestors can not do duty for us with God. We need to ponder well these two great lessons from Amos, lest we forget, lest we, too, forget."

OBSERVATIONS

—By—
CHARLES KUCHEL

—The Southern California Auto Club has posted the best sign for safety to pedestrians ever given publicity. People are told in as few words as possible to "cross streets at the crossings,—then look to the left until you reach the center of the street, and then look to the right." It's simple and easy and is calculated to do away with accidents. If everybody would observe these rules, there would be no accidents. The next time you want to cross a street remember this and see how safe and sane it is. How to get over.

—A palpable attempt to injure H. G. Ames, as city attorney, was made by the editor of a daily paper in this city a few days ago. In a spiteful reference to him the article sought to convey the imputation that he was responsible for an error in the printing of street notices regarding the contemplated improvement upon Chartres street. After preparing these documents the city attorney passed them along through proper channels to have them printed and posted as required by law. It so happened that the notice carried an incorrect heading, as to size of type, thereby committing a technical error, requiring another publication. In fairness to Mr. Ames, it should be stated, as the gentleman affirms, that "he was not responsible for the irregularity." The paper in question sought to make petty capital out of the mistake and lost no time in printing a garbled report of the matter, solely to cast aspersion upon the city attorney.

Mr. Ames has asked the publisher of the paper to make a retraction of its false statement, but as yet none has been forthcoming. In justice to himself and many friends it is deemed proper, as a courtesy to that gentleman, that the public be made acquainted with the case by this correction. Fair play.

—A big husky tried to "pan" a young gent for the price of a meal the other morning, but the fellow was told he could get a job shoveling gravel. "But that's hard work, isn't it?" replied the moocher. Missed his calling.

—A middle-aged man, who is rated as a good fellow, had a bottle of real moonshine bequeathed to him a few days ago, and it happened that several of his friends called. Of course, the liquid consignment was brought out of concealment.

"It looks like the real stuff," observed a member of the party.

"You know, it smells like some I once had long ago," confidentially avered another.

"Let's see—and begosh," exultantly exclaimed one of the callers, when he got hold of the bottle, "it tastes just like the real thing."

And for a time there was a happy gathering. The next morning when the recipient of the package desired an eye opener, he found not enough left to dampen the wing of a mosquito. Destroying the evidence.

—A few nights ago the dog belonging to a well-known citizen became so noisy—barking so incessantly—that a member of the household got up and quieted the animal by throwing a shoe at him. Next morning the family discovered that a dozen fine young pigeons had been stolen. Asleep at the switch.

—Some vacant spaces on close-in streets are being secured by men who rent the lots for parking cars, this being permissable now by ordinance. It is thought this will in part relieve the congestion on the busy streets. But some people already object because they say by the owners of the lots getting good rentals for the vacant lots, they will not be in a hurry to erect buildings thereon. And still others say if you don't provide means for taking care of the flivvers—and there are so many of them—outside people cannot get inside to do their trading. The latchstring hangs out.

—Fifteen thousand dollars' worth of liquor was taken away from a booze runner the other day. Maybe the gutters are due for a drenching. "Looka heah—hush yo' mouth."

FULLERTON

Mrs. Mary Hetebrink and children spent the week-end with relatives in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Harriot Clay Penman of Scranton, Pa., who is passing the winter in Los Angeles, was a guest for the week-end of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Snyder of 233 West Wilshire avenue. Mrs. Penman was for several years editor of the Scranton Republican, but at this time is engaged more particularly in magazine work.

Baston Richart of Rolla, Kan., is in Fullerton to visit his mother, Mrs. C. H. Richart of 220 West Amerige avenue.

Miss Isabel Parker, who has been teaching in Santa Barbara, spent the week-end at her home on East Chapman.

A wedding of utmost simplicity, although of deep interest to many Fullerton young people, was that of Wednesday, when Miss Lulu Ruble of Los Angeles was united in marriage to Robert A. Kitchen, a prominent attorney of Little Rcok, Arkansas, the ceremony being performed in Immanuel Presbyterian church, Los Angeles, at 4 o'clock, Rev. Smith, pastor, also a college mate of the groom, officiating.

A large party of friends of Fullerton attended the ceremony, which was informal, the bride and groom leaving immediately upon the honeymoon journey, which will take them through the Panama canal. They will pass Christmas in Havana, then continue their journey to New York and from there go to their home in Arkansas. Mrs. Kitchen as Miss Ruble, has visited here with Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Dierker many times and made many friends. The Dierkers were guests at the wedding.

Roy Shipkey is gradually recovering from his recent illness and is able to be about some now.

Fords Run 34 Miles On Gallon Of Gasoline

Start Easy in Coldest Weather—Other Cars Show Proportionate Saving

A new carburetor which cuts down a gasoline consumption of any motor and reduces gasoline bills from one-third to one-half is the proud achievement of the Air-Friction Carburetor Co., 138 Madison St., Dayton, Ohio. This remarkable invention not only increases the power of motors from 30 to 50 per cent, but enables every one to run slow on high gear. It also makes it easy to start a Ford or any other car in the coldest weather. You can use the very cheapest grade of gasoline or half gasoline and half kerosene and still get more power and more mileage than you now get from the highest test gasoline. All Ford owners can get as high as 34 miles to a gallon of gasoline. So sure are the manufacturers of the immense saving their new carburetor will make that they offer to send it on 30 days trial to every car owner. As it can be put on or taken off in a few minutes by anyone all readers of this paper who want to try it should send their name, address and make of car to the manufacturers at once. They also want local agents, to whom they offer exceptionally large profits. Write them today.—Adv.

INFERIOR PITCHING, NOT LIVELY BALL, CAUSED MORE HITTING

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Changes in the pitching rules or discussion of the "lively ball" will not receive the slightest consideration at the winter baseball meetings, in the opinion of John A. Heydler, president of the National League.

All last season when the blame for the extreme heavy hitting was placed upon the lively ball and rules that crippled the pitchers, the National League chief maintained that it was the same old ball and that the rules were not too drastic.

"I believe I was vindicated in the world's series. The same ball was used and good pitchers found no trouble in stopping heavy hitting. It was inferior pitching that increased the hitting more than anything else last season," Heydler said.

Restoration of the use of resin or any other substance to help the pitcher get a grip on the ball will not be authorized, according to the National League chief, who says that his league has solved the problem of the slippery new ball by permitting the umpires to take the gloss off the hide by rubbing it with a white clay that does not discolor the pellet.

"We have been giving it the test and we have found that it solves the problem," he said.

Heydler expects the coming meeting to be one of the quietest in the rather turbulent history of the major leagues, because there is nothing to squabble over but the barnstorming Ruth and the magnates are only passively interested in the case, as Commissioner Landis has it in his hands.

Although it will not be called officially to the magnates' attention, Heydler is going to ask National league to draw the lines a little closer on hits and not be so ready to let fielders out of an error on a questionable hit. The National League boss said the scoring during the world's series was most surprising at times.

HARRY RILEY TO HAVE AUTOMOBILE SHOW ALL HIS OWN

The more comprehensive the line of models produced by a motor car manufacturer, the more difficult it becomes for a dealer to show the complete line. But Harry D. Riley, after weeks of endeavor, has finally succeeded in getting together, at one time, the complete line of Studebaker enclosed cars.

He intends to take advantage of it and stage an automobile show of his own in his Anaheim salesrooms and has issued a general invitation to the public to come in during show week and make a thorough inspection of the fine examples of coach work that Studebaker is producing. There are six different models of the coupes and sedans, two on each of the three chassis.

Starting with the light six coupe-roadster the body type range up to the big roomy, luxurious seven-passenger sedan. According to Riley each one of the models covers a particular field of passenger transportation without leaving any gaps.

The design and finish of the bodies shows that experience has gone into their construction and Studebaker is rather long on experience in fine carriages building for the foundation of the house dates back seventy years. The wonderful attention to detail is ascribed to the fact that hundreds of the skilled craftsmen who work for Studebaker have been with the house for years.

Riley is, of course, enthusiastic over the chance to show the complete line of enclosed cars but while he was glowingly describing the beauties of line and finish and trim and appointment he said that one fundamental thing might be overlooked when the cars were judged solely by appearance and that was the chassis. Riley says that every man who purchases a fine enclosed car has a right to have it mounted on a chassis that is free from noise and vibration and so extends his invitation to make an inspection to include a real demonstration of Studebaker performance as well.

MANY PEOPLE INVITE APPENDICITIS ATTACK

Appendicitis is often due to infection from old, retained waste matter. Even though bowels move daily, poisons may accumulate in the system for months. The intestinal antiseptic, Adler-i-ka, acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels, removing ALL foul, decaying matter which might start infection. EXCELLENT for gas on the stomach or chronic constipation. Adler-i-ka removes matter which you never thought was in your system. ONE single dose will surprise you. Anaheim Pharmacy, 144 West Center.—Adv.

SANTA ANA TO MEET CHAFFEE WEDNESDAY

Santa Ana and Chaffee high schools football teams will clash on Polytechnic field in Santa Ana Wednesday, it was announced today.

This will be the last semi-final game in the race for the football championship of Southern California. The winner of this game will play San Diego, winner in the game with Manual Arts Saturday.

The final game will decide the championship of the south and, if the county seat team wins will give Santa Ana the honor of representing the south in the playoff for the California championship.

The wood in which the Ark was built has been identified by many scientists as cypress.

Shoots Picture Bride Then Attemps Suicide

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—A woman's scream, revolver shots, police, the ambulance, the undertaker—a Japanese picture bride was no more.

It happened in a rooming house at 129 1-2 East First street.

So far as Detective Sergeants Walter Wood and Louis Rico could learn M. Takemo had quarreled with his "picture bride" and then had shot her dead. He then turned the heavy gun on himself and inflicted two wounds in his upper left chest. One went through his spinal column and a second went into the left lung. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital and the woman's body was sent to the Japanese undertaking parlors.

BAD COIN IN CAVE CAUSES 3 ARRESTS

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—Frank Williams and Thomas Cline had a lot of money last night. But it wasn't any good.

In a cave near the Union Oil Company, at San Pedro, Williams and Cline have lived about a week, making spurious dollars, halves and quarters, according to police reports.

For several days L. H. McCauliff, it is alleged, has been "shoving the queer" for the alleged counterfeiters. Last night McCauliff evidently got "cold feet." He went to the San Pedro police and told his story.

Lieutenant L. L. Oakley, Sergeant A. A. Green and Patrolman A. L. Gentry went to the cave. They found various pieces of apparatus for coinmaking and $185 already manufactured.

Cline and Williams are held on charges of counterfeiting. McCauliff is charged with suspicion of counterfeiting.

PREFERS DEATH TO TRIAL FOR MURDER

SAN RAFAEL, Nov. 28.—Louis Koulouris, who would have gone on trial today on a charge of murdering Harold Wilson, committed suicide by hanging himself in his cell in the county jail here yesterday. Koulouris stabbed Wilson in the stomach as they, with other convicts at San Quentin penitentiary, were leaving a hall after an entertainment.

Koulouris was serving a life term for murdering a woman in San Francisco. Wilson had but a month of a short sentence to serve.

Koulouris had torn up blankets and made a rope of strips. He had attached one end of this to the bars across the top of his cell, which was a "bank," and tied the other about his neck. Apparently he had stood on the bed to do this and then stepped off, death resulting from strangulation.

Texas Man Whipped For Possessing Liquor

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 28.—W. B. Rolls was taken three miles west of town last night by masked men and whipped, he informed the police. They say Rolls told them he was informed by the masked men he was whipped because he possessed a quantity of liquor.

PARROT CAUSES HUNT FOR WOMAN IN DISTRESS

ALAMEDA, Cal., Nov. 28.—They still fall for Polly—just as they still bite on the old one of the wallet on the sidewalk on April Fool's day.

A woman's screams aroused the entire west end district here last night.

A huge crowd gathered and rushed up and down the 1700 block in an attempt to locate the woman in distress. Several policemen aided in the search.

The "woman" was finally found roosting on a tree.

It was a Venezulan parrot that had escaped from its cage and was amusing itself by drawing a crowd.

Policeman Andy Peterson climbed the tree and coaxed the bird to come to papa.

Vets Hunt Bandits Who Shot Aged Man Thrice

WENATCHEE, Wash., Nov. 28.—Jacob Webber, 78, was shot and wounded, probably fatally, by three bandits while returning home Saturday night. Webber is partly deaf, and it is believed his failure to hear and obey the highwaymen caused them to send three bullets into his body. One hundred members of the American Legion were deputized to aid in the search for the bandits.

Twelve thousand legal executions are the yearly average in China, which holds the world's record for executions.

TOTEM POLES FAST BECOMING OBSOLETE

Alaska and the northwest are alarmed over the possibility of being shorn of a feature attraction, the totem poles.

Large numbers of the carved poles, formerly decorating the native fishing villages from Puget Sound to Podiak Island, have been shipped to the east coast of the United States on intercoastal vessels.

Last week a hundred of the most famous totems were stowed aboard the steamship Morse and are being shipped to Boston, New York and Philadelphia. At this rate, the historic emblems will soon be gone. Indians will not trade or sell the totems, so that in order to obtain them the tribes are enticed away and in their absence raiders take down and carry away the monuments.

These are the quaint relics of century-old tribes, rising skyward and telling, with carved animal heads and inscriptions from forgotten Indian language, folk lore stories of the northland people.

On account of the gradual decline in observance of the old native customs, totem poles are no longer erected and the elements are wearing down these left standing. The Arctic club has begun the task of tarring and painting those remaining to keep them in good condition.

CAN EXPERT OPINION BE BOUGHT

It is interesting to note that the Burch and Arbuckle trials are surrounded with experts. One expert on insanity says Burch is insane, and another says he is not. When experts disagree, who decides? In the Arbuckle case, we find one physician declares Virginia Rappe died from injuries apparently caused by external force, while an expert physician for the defense declares he once handled a case he thinks similar to Miss Rappe's and defined it as "spontaneous."

We find the motion picture industry, with its millions, gathering expert opinions to prove that Arbuckle did not attack Miss Rappe and eventually cause her death. What about the testimony about the ice applied to Miss Rappe's body in an unspeakable [and unthinkable] manner? Does one expert physician say that might have caused her death and another say that it might have benefitted her?

The fact remains that Virginia Rappe entered a room and Arbuckle followed her. When he came out of that room, she was doomed and she said Arbuckle hurt her. All the expert physicians or surgeons in the world cannot deny that. Public opinion has decided that Miss Rappe would be alive today if Arbuckle had not followed her to that room. Gavin McNabb, the brilliant attorney, would have taken the side of the state no doubt, if he had been retained, and would have been equally as active in prosecuting Arbuckle as he is now in defending him.

The whole order of procedure is wrong so far as expert opinions are concerned. While all physicians and surgeons are not of the type, the public is coming to believe that there would be no expert opinions in murder trials if the experts were not paid a handsome fee.

Dr. Harry Ellington Brooks, special writer for the Los Angeles Times, says it is not surprising that so many people are filling untimely graves when medical doctors so often disagree in guessing what is physically wrong.

The defense in the Burch murder trial declares the defendant is insane, and expert alienists [physicians, they must be physicians] say he is unbalanced. The state alienists declare Burch is very alert mentally, and there you are.

There is much to be desired in the courts of this country, much indeed to the end that real justice is done. There is a great suspicion that there is a justice for the poor and something in the guise of justice for the rich.

MADE IN GOOD FAITH

The American proposal in relation to a naval construction holiday was made in good faith. It could not have been so made except as an appeal to the good faith of other powers. Its suggestion that certain ships be scrapped also was a move to lessen the financial burden that weighs down the powers of the world. And it weighs other powers far more heavily than it does the United States.

Japan does not seem to regard the plan with definite favor. In a general way it ejaculates "fine! fine!" or the Oriental equivalent, but coming down to consideration of details, it wants more ships. Wants them for what? For defense, say the Japanese.

Against whom does Japan need to be defended? This is a question the answer to which might be illuminative. If it thinks it may need to beat back the invading forces of England or of this country, it must doubt the sincerity of both. It must regard the conversation of American and British representatives at the conference as mere persiflage, the froth on the currents of diplomacy.

With the number of ships tentatively allotted by the Hughes plan, Japan would be competent to defend itself against any countries but England and the United States, both of which pledge their honors not to be aggressive.

Despite delay and debate some great and definite good will come out of the conference. It is not a mere ebullition of energy going to waste. Even the carping correspondents paid for trying to discredit it, are unable to do so.

Between Ourselves

By Della M. Stewart

November is a peculiar month. October's hot air has changed to political frosts. The alchemy of the month of Indian summer transforms the individuality of the new incumbents to office just as it does the characteristics of the ones who have been retired. Men are no longer celestial beings who can do no wrong, nor are they close companions of His Majesty the Devil, following in his footsteps closely. Halos or hoofs and horns are thrown into the discard and the candidate emerges as the man he really is.

Now hoofs and horns have never been considered treasured possessions by humans. But most of us like to hold to our halos—did we ever possess them. A halo seems to set one off a trifle from the common run of humanity. That nimbus of luminosity is much sought after, albeit in mistaken ways.

In our anxiety to gain and hold it for our own, we are apt to be worn crooked—and a crooked halo has lost its attractiveness. No matter with what perfection our friends have tried to endow us, we find that in the stress of battles we're very much like others.

Yes, it's a difficult matter to keep a halo. And this is the eternal paradox of the halo question; the more one tries to keep one the harder it is. The only variety worth having is the one which hovers unsought because of the desire to do one's very best.

Cat Commits Suicide Ties Up Great Mine

Estrelda, a Maltese cat belonging to little Marie Kovovic at Luzerne Mines, Pa., committed suicide by electrocution the other day and incidentally put out of commission for a time the biggest electrically equipped mine in the world.

Estrelda, whose owner lives near the Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal company operation, wandered into the company's power house. In her meanderings she rubbed her moist noise against the exposed part of an electrical switch. At the same time her waving tail touched the bushing on another switch.

Instantly this created a short circuit, which compelled a sudden cessation of operations thruout the 22,000-volt, high-tension plant. Investigation of the cause of the trouble revealed the remains of Estrelda, much singed.

SUNSHINE CAUSES PANIC IN THEATER

A little ray of sunshine caused a panic in a New York moving picture theater one afternoon recently. About 300 women and children were watching a thriller on the screen at the Academy, in East Houston street, when the manager, Charles Goldschlang, ordered the ventilators opened.

When the first one was pushed aside a flash of brilliant sunlight fell upon a red patch in the wall. Some one cried fire and the spectators started for the street pell mell. Several children were badly trampled and four women fainted.

The men passing outside sent in a fire alarm. No one was seriously injured.

Well, She Did

An enterprising Jap student at one of America's inland colleges, who landed here with practically no English in his vocabulary, secured a job on a farm during the vacation season. He assimilated the language readily enough and soon had a workable command of words—enough to get by with; but the feminine nouns properly applicable to the various domestic animals came near proving a German Marne. One morning he came running in very great haste to the master of the house, gasping as he ran:

"Please, honorable Boss, come quickly—hen-pig she have pups!"—Everybody's.

OLD MR. TROUBLE GETS CHATTERER AT LAST

THE more Chatterer the Red Squirrel studied the queer things he had found in Farmer Brown's cornerib the greater his curiosity grew. He had meddled with the smallest of the two things, and it hadn't hurt him in the least. To be sure, it had given him several frights, for when he meddled with the wires on top of it something had snapped, and each time he had scampered away unhurt, and each time he had felt less afraid of it. Finally it wouldn't snap any more, and then he lost interest in it. Besides it smelt terribly strong of common barn mice, and Chatterer has the greatest contempt or barn mice. Of course, you have guessed what it was that Chatterer had been meddling with. It was a mouse trap, and he had sprung it without getting hurt.

Chatterer didn't know that it was a trap. He ought to have known, but he didn't. You see, it ws not at all like the traps Farmer Brown's boy had sometimes set, for him in the Green Forest. He knew all about those traps, and never, never went near them. Now that there was nothing more exciting about the mouse trap, Chatterer turned his attention to the other queer thing. He walked all around it and looked at it from every side. It certainly was queer. Yes, sir, it certainly was queer! It looked something like a little house, only he could see all through it. He put one paw out and touched it. Nothing happened. He tried it again. Then he jumped right on top of it. Still nothing happened. He tried his sharp teeth on it, but he couldn't bite it. You see, it was made of stout wire.

Inside was something that looked good to eat. It smelled good, too. Chatterer began to wonder what it would taste like. The more he wondered the more he wanted to know. There must be some way of getting in, and if he could get in, of course, he would get out again. He jumped down to the floor and ran all around the queer little wire house. At each end was a sort of little wire hallway. Chatterer stuck his head in one. It seemed perfectly safe. He crept a little way in and then backed out in a hurry. Nothing happened. He tried it again. Still nothing happened.

"Better keep away," said a small voice down inside of him.

"Pooh! Who's afraid!" said Chatterer. "This thing can't hurt me."

Then he crept a little further in. Right in front of him was a little round doorway with a little wire door. Chatterer pushed the little door with his nose, and it opened a teeny, weeny bit. He drew back suspiciously. Then he tried it again, and this time pushed the little door open. He did this two or three times, until finally he had his head quite inside, and there right down below him was that food he so wanted to taste.

"I can hop right down and get it, and then hop right up again," thought Chatterer.

"Don't do it," said the small voice inside. "Corn is plenty good enough. Besides, it is time you were getting back to the Old Orchard."

"It won't take but a minute," said Chatterer, "and I really must know what that tastes like."

With that he jumped down. Snap! Chatterer looked up. The little wire door had closed. Old Mr. Trouble had got Chatterer at last. Yes, sir, he certainly had got Chatterer this time! You see, he couldn't open that little wire door from the inside. He was in a trap—a wire rat trap, set by Farmer Brown's boy.

HUGE DUST CLOUD APPEARS IN SPACE

An astounding discovery by a Dutch scientist of a heavenly body twenty million times larger than the sun has introduced a new factor into astronomical circles.

It is thought that the body is a huge cloud of dust that will eventually become a star. Measurements made of the dark mass show it to be 140,000,000,000,000 miles long and twice that far away from the earth.

Tree 1,350 Years Old Found In Washington

In a bulletin just issued by the Forestry department of the Northwest district a report is made of the discovery of a Douglas fir the age of which is estimated to be at least 1,250 years. It was found in the Olympic forest in western Clallam county, Washington, by a ranger.

Olive trees have been known to reach very old age, and the finding of one in the Holy Land twenty-three feet in girth is recorded in the Bible. A cedar treet in Thurston county, Washington, is believed to be 1,100 years of age.
