INDIVIDUALITIES.

Senator Hoar dictates all his correspondence to his stenographer in the Senate chamber while the Senate is in session.

Senator Palmer's wife takes lunch with him every day in the Senate restaurant. A cocktail for the Senator invariably precedes the lunch.

Senator Morrill, of Vermont, has stopped patronizing news-clipping bureaus. He found it monotonous to receive bushels of items about his "remarkable intellectual vigor at eighty-three."

Paris is evincing much interest in the forthcoming marriage of M. George Hugo, grandson of the poet and novelist, and Mlle. Pauline Menard-Dorian, who is said to be the best-dressed girl in France.

Senor Don Austin Maldonado, his two brothers, and his sister, all living in Madrid, have been officially recognized by the Mexican Government as descendants of the Aztec King Montezuma, and are to be allowed pensions accordingly.

Private Secretary Thurber is making a scrap-book wherein he collects all the comment himself exclusively. He is a subscriber to a clipping bureau. It is hinted that he rejects those paragraphs which refer to his personal vanity.

Vaillant, the late anarchist, had his photograph taken only a few days before the outrage at the French Chamber, and in his hand and three and a half hours before he threw the bomb he called for a dozen copies and posted them to various people.

Senator Walthall is regarded as the only distinctive type in Congress of the Southern statesman. Physically he is tall and lean, straight as an arrow, with long black hair, a piercing eye, and a proud carriage that sets off to the punctilious courteousness of his manners.

The Earl of Lovelace, who died recently at the advanced age of eighty-eight, was not only the husband of Byron's daughter Ada, but he was a direct descendent of Henry the Seventh and Lady Catherine Grey. He was an architect, a landscape gardener, and an engineer.

When "progressing" through the streets to perform some ceremony, the Prince of Wales takes off his hat twelve times, on an average, a minute—that is, the almost incredible number of seven hundred times an hour. The prince requires a new brim to his hat every fortnight.

Prince Hatzfeldt is by no means the dissipated and broken-down wreck which the paragraphs painted him at the time he married. He carries his shoulders well back, walks after the fashion of a military man, has a clear eye, and a color that many a six-teen-year-old girl might envy. His unbrisled face is decorated by a blonde mustache.

One of Dickens' grandsons has just entered the British navy. This is Gerald Charles Dickens, second son of Mr. Henry Fielding Dickens, Q. C. The boy, who is in his thirteenth year, has passed the usual examination well up in the list. By the way, all the grandsons of Dickens bear the name of Charles, which is affectionately preserved in the family.

Caldwell H. Colt, commodore of the Larchmont Yacht Club, who died a few night ago in Florida, was one of the most enthusiastic yachtsmen in Eastern waters. He was a son of the inventor of Colt's revolvers, and inherited a large fortune and in his will leaves an estate of from a million to a million and a half dollars to his mother, she being the next of kin.

Prince Louis Napoleon Bonaparte has just left the Russian army, to wear his uniform again only in case of war. He is an exile from France, by decree of his family, and was denied him in France and he went to Russia. Now he lays down his sword and intends to travel.

Bourke Cockran has the greatest voice in either House of Congress. It is the loudest and strongest, and would be the most musical if he did not soon become hoarse with excitement. Cockran was forty on the last day of February, but he looks, except for the thick growth of hair on his head, almost as old as his chum, Tom Reed, who is fifty-four. He came to the country in 1871, poor and with only a fair education. He worked and studied hard, and is now one of the wealthiest lawyers in the country.

GIRLISH YOUNG MAN.

The affected, girlish young man, who goes shopping with feminine enthusiasm, who knows as much about a lady's costume as his own, who is an authority on bonnets and gowns, and who chatters and laughs about sixty nothings like a "coy debutante," is a type of the sensation which becomes well back, and if not combined amusement and disgust, but it really is not right either to laugh at or condemn him. He is what we help his eccentricities. He is a social "freak," one of those mysterious dispensations of an all-wise Providence which we find it difficult to understand, but to which we must bow with such resignation as we can.

SUGAR AND THE TARIFF.

The question whether the reciprocity treaties made under the McKinley act between the United States and foreign countries will be abrogated under the Wilson tariff bill is attracting some attention at Washington. Those interested in securing a duty on sugar are less apprehensive since Senator Vest expressed the opinion that the bill would abrogate all these agreements, but are still fearful that the phrase in the provision for the repeal of the reciprocity clause, which states the repeal operation shall not affect any act, if done, or any right accruing or accrued, before said repeal, may continue the agreements in operation, or to render it a question which will lead to a misunderstanding and dispute.

Senators Caffery and Blanchard agree with Senator Vest. The statement having been published that Caffery had given the representatives of the beet sugar industry in California and Nebraska assurance that he would introduce an amendment to the Senate bill directing the President of the United States to notify the countries with whom there are reciprocity treaties that all such treaties will be abrogated three months after the date on which the new tariff law goes into effect, Senator Caffery was asked if he contemplated such a course, and replied no.

Senator Blanchard said that the Wilson bill would put the sugar business on an entirely different basis from what it occupied under the McKinley law, as under it not sugar came in free; and he did not apprehend any trouble in construing the Wilson bill when it shall become a law, as the repeal of the reciprocity clause.

Notwithstanding the statement of Senator Vest as to the effect of the Wilson bill on the reciprocity treaties now in force between this country and others, it appears that such treaties will be abrogated by means of some additional legislation or by the President. That does not apply, however, to the treaty with Hawaii, which is of a different nature from the rest. It was because the Senate knew that the power lay with Congress to abrogate this treaty that the provisions touching Hawaii were included in the Senate bill. It may be that the treaties with the other countries can only be disposed of after the lapse of a certain stipulated time.

This being so, the fact stares Congress in the face that, no matter what duty may be placed on sugar by this act, as long as the reciprocity treaties now in existence are not abrogated sugar will continue to come in free from duty from Cuba, from Germany, from Brazil, San Domingo, British possessions and all the other sugar-producing countries which entered into treaties under the reciprocity provisions of the McKinley law. So long as those treaties are in existence, therefore, no duty placed on sugar by general law will prevent the free importation of sugar. If the Wilson bill becomes a law, this means that sugar brought to this country will all come from Germany, which will practically control the market for the reason that there is an export bounty given by Germans of three quarters of one cent. German sugar would thus have nearly three quarters of a cent advantage over American producers when their product had been laid down in New York. Such is Democratic reciprocity.

Indications point to a spirited debate in the Senate when the clause providing for the abrogation of the Hawaiian treaty. A number of Senators on the Democratic side will object to this clause, and it is believed the Republicans are almost solid in their opposition. Already objection is heard, not only because the termination of the treaty would deprive this country of valuable prerogatives in the islands, but because of the fact that the action contemplated would be a serious blow to the sugar planters of the islands, whose business, it is contended, is dependent absolutely upon maintaining free commercial intercourse with the United States. The clause was inserted as a concession to the sugar interests in this country, whose friends in the Senate will exert an influence to have it retained.

WERE LEGALLY WED.

There was a jolly reception of young people at the home of Walter Eisenmayer at South San Diego last Wednesday evening. All the youth in the surrounding country were present, and among the merriest were Leamer Kretsinger of Nester and Miss Lola McClellan, a pretty schoolmistress of Oceanita.

There were all sorts of games, and finally somebody proposed a mock marriage. Young Kretsinger and Miss McClellan were prevailed upon to sign a marriage contract, and two persons present witnessed it. The party enjoyed the scene immensely, thinking that the contract marriage was of no effect. The contracting parties enjoyed the fun, and all was merry as a real marriage bell until some days afterward it dawned upon them that a contract marriage in California is just as binding as any other, and the pretty schoolmistress found herself the wife of Kretsinger.

She told some of her intimate friends that she did not like it at all, but her young husband, after the first feelings of surprise, accepted the situation with good grace and is said to make no complaint. The factor not heard from up to last reports is Kretsinger's best girl, with whom he has kept company for two or three years, with all indications of matrimony in the distance. What she will say or do is agitating the region more than anything else.

The new-fledgling bride has kept right on teaching school and young Kretsinger returned to his father's house. Nobody knows how the tangle may be unravelled, or if it may be, if the wife becomes reconciled, that there will be nothing to undo. If not, proceedings of some kind will be instituted to annual the contract.

WE RAISE GOOD BEETS HERE!

Chino Champion.

Our Anaheim friends have had considerable to say during and since the last sugar campaign about the superior beets raised in that locality, and drawing the conclusion that their soil was better for sugar beet culture than that of Chino. We glory with them in the high quality of beets they produced last year, but we also remind them that two elements are to be considered in determining the value of a crop of beets—tonnage and purity—and above and beyond sugar in the acre; or in other words, the yield of sugar per acre. A crop of small beets may show an extraordinarily high sugar percentage, and yet not pay the farmer very large returns. Comparisons based on the Chino and Anaheim tonnage alone should therefore be justly made. We trust, however, that our neighbors across the hills, every one of them, may succeed in raising a crop this year that will give them cause to rejoice that they are raising beets.

Yes—two elements determine the worth of the sugar beet, tonnage and saccharine; and we break the record in both.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16.—There came near being a panic on the Produce Exchange to-day. Early May wheat jumped from $1.10 to $1.15 3/8 and closed strong at $1.15. This jump was a surprise to the brokers, nearly all of whom were on the short end, and there was a wild scramble to cover. All this excitement was caused by the operations of L. J. Mc Clatchie & Co. That firm has been buying May wheat during the past three or four months, and to-day took all that was offered. McClatchie & Co. for some time have been quietly engineering a corner, and now have every operator on the board short on May wheat. The only question now is how to get them, though it is rumored that Partridge, the Chicago plunger, who is now in the city, is putting up the money. It is certain there will be a lively scramble in the morning and more than one grain commission house may go under. McClatchie's purchases to-day were 350,100 tons and it is estimated that since December last he has purchased May wheat to such an extent that his payments on margins have amounted to upwards of $2,000,000.

STRANGE DREAM OF A MURDERED WOMAN.

CARSON (Nev.), March 15.—A very peculiar story is told of the causes which led to the murder of Mrs. Eggleston in Antelope valley last week. Mrs. Eggleston's property consisted of 160 acres of land and the house. Her brother, Mr. Schooley, believing that an attempt was being made to swindle her, homesteaded tan acres and the house in her name. The ranch was finally sold at Sheriff's sale at the instigation of one Watkins. T. B. Rickey bought it in for $50. Schooley afterward told Rickey that he could not hold the ten acres referred to, as he had the title to it, and that neither Watkins nor the sheriff had the right to sell it. Schooley also said that he had evidence that Watkins had been mixed up in some crooked work.

This caused Mrs. Eggleston much care, and as Mrs. Eggleston was the only living witness against him, her death would naturally be a great relief to him.

A week or two before the murder Mrs. Eggleston told several persons at different times of a very peculiar dream. She dreamed that as she was about to open the oven door of the kitchen stove one morning Watkins popped out with a knife in his hand and stabbed her several times. He had a very murderous look, and when she awoke she says that she did not seem to be in her right mind.

The parties to whom she told this were deeply impressed and asked if she was not afraid to stay in the house alone. She said that she was old and harmless, and she guessed no one would interfere with her.

When found dead a few days later the dream of the dead woman was brought vividly back to the minds of those who had heard of it, and Watkins was immediately suspected. Subsequent developments led to his arrest.

MARTIAL LAW IN DENVER.

DENVER, March 15.—This has been a day of intense excitement in Denver. Scenes unparalleled in the history of the city have been witnessed. Gov. Waite, of "blood-to-the horses'-bridles" fame, called out the First Regiment and the Chaffee Light Artillery to attack the City Hall and drive therefrom the two Police Commissioners who defied his power, intrenched behind barricaded doors and surrounded by hundreds of armed policemen and deputy sheriffs ready to do their bidding.

Thousands of people filled the streets through which, shortly after 2 P. M., the troops marched to the City Hall, and many loudly expressed disapproval of the Governor's action. Many engaged in hot arguments, and no little was the feeling on the part of both who opposed and those who defended the Governor that it seemed as if a general riot would ensue should a shot be fired. Massed in the vicinity of the City Hall were thousands, most of them drawn to the spot out of mere curiosity, and reckless of the danger that seemed imminent.

Part of the policemen, armed with revolvers and clubs, were drawn up in line outside the hall, waiting the approach of the enemy. Inside were the remainder and a large force of deputy sheriffs armed with rifles, revolvers and shotguns, and determined to hold the fort at any sacrifice.

The causes leading up to this state of affairs are that Gov. Waite has been changing the personnel of the city Fire and Police Board from time to time, ostensibly for cause, but it is claimed for political purposes purely.

On the arrival of the troops Gen. Brooks ordered the police to withdraw, and announced that if the order was not complied with firing would be begun. Many of the crowd jeered; others cheered. On all sides were pale, drawn faces, but the onlookers stood their ground, determined to "see the fun," as many termed it. Victor E. Foley, on aside, upon being pressed by the crowd, drew his sword and raised it with a flourish. This threw the crowd. They hissed him and groaned, while some one in the packed crowd cried: "Coward." One man threatened to take his life from his scorn, but not a shot was fired nor a blow struck.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce interceded and attempted to have the dispute settled by arbitration. The Governor remained stiff-necked, adhering to his purpose to clear the hall, but he alternately made threats and declared that no violence would and the scared soldiers stood patiently in the streets waiting for the order to attack which never came.

About 9 o'clock the Governor decided that he would postpone operations to another day. His troops had marched up the hill, and they marched down again without striking a blow. Late to-night the Governor issued a proclamation to all the State militia to place themselves in readiness for marching orders. He himself did not venture out of his house all day, and his residence was surrounded by a strong guard, as he was in mortal fear of assassination.

DENVER, March 16.—The war is over. At last it is announced by attorney I. N. Stevens, who has been in consultation with the Governor and counsel for the Commissioners, that his Excellency had accepted the advice of his attorneys and consented to submit the right of the Governor to remove from power and to appoint others to fill the vacancies, and the right to call upon the militia to sustain him in office.

Gov. Waite acknowledged to-day to Gen. McCook that he faced assassination. The General says there is no doubt that had a gun been fired yesterday the Governor would have been lynched within half an hour. McCook also says he has the United States troops here only to protect public property, and they will remain in town until the existing differences are settled, no matter how many number of idle men in town to foment trouble.

The cause of Gov. Waite's obduracy, it is learned on reliable authority, is his wife. She attended last night's conference in an angry mood and declared with clenched fist in the fight should go on until the last National Guardsman in the State lay dead on the pavement.

Should the Bland seigniorage bill, which passed both houses, become a law, the coinage of $35,000,000 worth of silver bullion will have to be done at the mints of Philadelphia, San Francisco and New Orleans, the only mints in operation. The Philadelphia mint could turn out $1,000,000 per month, the San Francisco mint about the same, and the New Orleans mint about $800,000. The San Francisco mint, however, has only $16,000,000 silver bullion on hand, the New Orleans mint only $9,503,000, so that after the supply of these mints are exhausted, the remaining $30,000,000 will have to be coined at Philadelphia. The whole time, therefore, necessary to coin the seigniorage is, approximately, two years and two months.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Hattie Blaine, third daughter of James G. Blaine, and Truxton Beale, only son of the late Gen. Edward Beale, has caused quite a sensation in social circles at Washington. Mr. Beale returned last autumn from his mission as Minister to Persia, and he has since been settling up his father's estate and looking after his ranch in California. It is understood that Mr. Beale will inherit a large fortune, and, as he is but 34 years old, he is quite a desirable party from a material point or view. He is the brother of Mrs. J. McLean of Cincinnati and Mme. Rakemetoff, whose husband is the Russian Minister to Greece. The date of the wedding has not yet been set, but is understood it will not be before autumn.

LATE NEWS OF INTEREST.

The Populists in convention in Oregon demand the abolition of the National Guard.

Gladstone traces his ancestry back to King Duncan of Scotland, who was Macbeth's victim.

The treasury statement shows that since July 1, 1893, the amount received in surplus-bounty claims was $12,010,335, of which $3,542,001 has already been paid.

Justice White is one of the largest individual planters in Louisiana. Last year over 3,000,000 pounds of sugar were manufactured on his plantation.

The decrease in the public debt during the last year of Harrison's administration was $6,192,117. The increase in the debt during the first year of Cleveland's has been $52,-163,823.

W. C. Wilson of Ontario dropped dead while loading hay at Rincon Saturday. It is supposed to be a case of heart disease. He was a married man and leaves a large family.

The Salt Lake City Mormon church is sending 1,000 missionaries to Europe in search of converts. Five parties of missionaries, about 60 in all, have lately passed through New York on the way to Europe.

H. Gostan, postmaster at Big Springs, Nevada, was shot and instantly killed by Fred Hill. The shooting was the result of hard feelings because Gostan had held the postoffice for four years and did not get out and allow his successor to be named.

A bunch of violets is shipped every day to Washington for Mrs. Cleveland from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., the centers of the Hudson valley violet-growing district, where single violets large enough to cover a silver dollar are produced.

The San Francisco Assessor furnishes the startling information that the assessment roll for the fiscal year 1894 95 will be decreased by about $30,000,000. He estimates a cut from $240,000,000 to $210,000,000. In explanation he says that the bad times had affected the property values to a fearfull extent.

Gov. Markham has appointed Thomas M. Eby, executive Secretary in his office, to be private secretary to succeed M. R. Higgins, who has been appointed insurance commissioner and who will take office early in April. The Governor has appointed Albert Hart as his executive secretary.

Congressman Breckinridge, of Kentucky, who has lately been mixed up in the scandalous Pollard case, has a sad way of speaking when he wishes to be impressive, which always is intensified in the last part of his speech. Tom Reed came into the House the other day while Breckinridge was winding up a speech, and listened for a moment. Then he turned to General Cogswell and said: "Can you tell me the name of the deceased?"

False teeth sold at one cent per set, gold watches at $5 50 each, and sea skins at 49 cents at the sale of unidentified property held by the lost and found department at the World's Fair last year by Uncle Sam. Other lost goods were sold at equally low prices, and not over $900 was realized. The Columbian guards are indignant over the sale, claiming the officials had promised that unclaimed property should go to the guards who found it.

Captain Reton of the British steamer Aurora, which arrived at Rio de Janeiro, tells how he applied to the commander of the British ship Sirius for a supply of fresh water, but found that he had none aboard, and was put off until the following day. He could not wait so long, and sought assistance from the Portuguese, who granted his request and promptly supplied him with 1,000 gallons.

Mrs. Aurora Benavuti of San Diego, who was divorced and killed her husband December 25d last, was discharged on account of insufficiency of evidence. In the trial last month, lasting nearly a week, the jury disagreed, and it was the opinion of those interested in the prosecution that the prisoner's conviction could not be secured. Mrs. Benevuti, upon being released from the county jail, was taken to the county hospital, where she will remain till recovered from the effects of illness.

James Armstrong, a prominent business man of Silon Springs, Ark., was married one day last week to Miss Louise Morrison, whom he made his bride on Wednesday last, a solid silver bathtub. The vessel is as commodious as the workmanship displayed on it is intricate and ingenious. The little craft is of Italian design, and is beautifully embossed. The exterior resembles a perfectly laid-out flower garden in miniature, while the interior is delicately enamelled. On the bottom of the tub are engraved Miss Morris' initials in huge letters. It weighs 200 pounds, and is valued at $1,000. The market price for silver at present is 63 cents an ounce. In this double-decked and triple-ringed bathtub the bride and groom of $4,63 cents an ounce this amounts to about $2,016 for metal alone. Silverworkers in New York say the material used to feast their eyes on the beautiful vessel before it was swathed in tinted cotton and soft tissue paper preparatory to being packed away for the nuptials is that it could not possibly be made for less than $2,500. This brings the cost of the gift up to about $3,500. The bottom of the bath tub is fitted up with receptacles for soap, brushes, sponges, etc., and near the head of the tub will be found a silver button cord, to the side of which is a silver manicure set. There is also a comfortable headrest, with an open space for a rubber air pillow, and this fair lady user desires a more comfortable headrest.

The Secretary of the Treasury has sent to the Senate a list of the licensed producers of sugar from beet, sorghum and sugar cane in each State and Territory to whom the bounty has been paid and the amount paid to each. The statement shows that payments for the current year up to date are as follows: Beet sugar, $610,935; sorghum sugar, $16,926; cane sugar, $2,513,597; maple sugar, $115,-597. The statement shows the introduction of beet sugar. Nebraska and Utah are also producers of this kind of sugar. Kansas and Missouri seem to be the only producers of sorghum sugar and the latter only slightly. Louisiana receives the bulk of the bounty on cane sugar.

The figures given are under three heads, the amount for the fiscal year 1891-92, the second for the fiscal year 1892-93 and the third for the present fiscal year up to March. The figures are as follows for the following companies: Those in the order named under Alameda Sugar Company, $33,659; $50,-136; $71,369.

Chino Valley Beet Sugar Company, $41,-033; $150,160; $263,197.

The figures for the Utah Sugar Company are: $21,898; $29,470; $37,000.

OAKLAND, March 18.—John Brady, a painter, shot and killed Mary Brady, his wife, then committed suicide this morning in the Church of Immaculate Conception in this city. Brady and his wife had been separated for a long time, and he was much dissipated and appears to have harassed her a great deal.

This morning Mrs. Brady went to mass, arriving after the service. She entered the church and knelt down to pray near the altar. Shortly entered and took a seat behind her. She appears to have been unaware of his presence. No others were in the church. Suddenly Brady drew a pistol, and, placing the weapon at the back of his wife's head, drew the trigger. The woman was killed instantly. Then Brady pointed the pistol toward his own body and fired, the ball going through his right lung.

Meanwhile the report of the shots had attracted back to the church many of the mass celebrants and they rushed forward to overpower Brady. He brandished his pistol wildly and threatened to shoot anyone who advanced. The crowd hesitated. Then Brady placed his pistol to his forehead and shot out his brains.

Brady was about 45 years of age and his wife the same. They were once well-to-do. Since their domestic trouble Brady has been out of work much of the time. He was probably deranged.

THURSDAY.....MARCH 22, 1894

A RECENT search of the records in Los Angeles for an abstract to property in this city revealed the fact that in the year 1869 Mr. Langenberger, who was then as now actively engaged in business in this city, had deeded a tract of land at the corner of Center and Palm streets to the city for plaza purposes. The deed is recorded in the first book of deeds in the Recorder's office. With the donation of the plaza tract the subdivision of the adjacent lots and the naming of streets running through them was also recorded, but the plaza was not set out, and time served to obliterate the record, and before many years the enterprising gift of Mr. Langenberger was all but forgotten. Property has changed hands in the neighborhood for twenty years, and no search of the records has ever revealed these plaza deeds, the searchers neglecting to go back that far, deemingly perhaps unnecessary. The residence of Mr. Witte sets upon this precise plaza plat, and has been there for upwards of a dozen years. The Sisters' school is also in the line of one of these obliterated streets. Its title was passed upon, we believe, by Senator White at the time of the purchase, and here in common with all the others who had ever had occasion to look up the record or have it searched for them, promptly assured the Sisters of St. Dominic that the title was good, and the purchase was accordingly made. Some weeks ago a transfer of property adjoining Mr. Witte's residence on the west was made by L. T. Garnsey of Los Angeles to a gentleman recently from Chicago, and the enterprising searcher of records went back to the time of the first transfer of property in Los Angeles county. Here he ran across the deeds that had been passed over and forgotten, and reported it accordingly. The matter was brought to the attention of the City Trustees at their last meeting, and steps have been taken to legally close up the streets and declare the plaza block vacated.

The intelligent compositor got in his fine Italian hand on Prof. Guthrie's report of the Placentia schools, published last week. He was not satisfied with the Professor's report of "223" visitors present at the school on Washington's Birthday, so he set it up "no" visitors were present, etc. He also changed a few words of the primary department to suit him, and in other respects was at all latest reports doing quite well. The intelligent compositor is a necessary evil.

FRANK PORTER has been engaged with a force of men in grading the new road from Placentia to Yorba, which will be open to traffic clear through now in a few days. He was camped on the Olinda ranch with his outfit last week when summoned by the Sheriff to appear in the Superior Court and give testimony in the case against the irrigation district. Frank demanded his fees and mileage, in the failure to pay which he was not compelled to go to court. He was not paid them, but decided to go over to Santa Ana anyway, and was in the courtroom when Deacon Garwood was paid his fees and mileage which he demanded before testifying. Judge Pope frowned in a picturesquely sour manner as he paid Garwood the $3 60, and Porter made up his mind to tax the Judge in a similar manner before going upon the stand. He had come in from the Olinda ranch to his home in Fullerton seven miles, and four miles into town and eight over to Santa Ana made his mileage foot up, at twenty cents a mile, something like $3 80, and $2 in addition for testifying, would depict Judge Pope's exchequer by the round sum of $5 80, a Court adjourned for dinner while Mr. Korn was upon the stand, and at the dinner table Porter ordered an extra allowance of high-priced provender in anticipation of his fat fee in the afternoon. But alas for the best-laid plans of an irrigation Director! When court convened after dinner, Porter was on hand ready to testify, but Judge Pope closed his case without calling him, or any other of the five Directors present, all of whom, except Mr. Korn, had demanded their fees. The latter gentleman had failed to exercise his right to demand his fees when subpœnaed, and could not collect them in court next day. When subpœnaed Porter was standing across a precipice, and from the Sheriff, and on being informed what was wanted of him replied he would not come over without his fees. Judge Pope's action in closing the case without his testimony netted the eminent attorney $5 80, and left Porter with just that much out. All of which shows, besides that the Placentia and Yorba irrigationists are to have a fine piece of road to travel over, that Deacon Garwood is an exceedingly "foxy" as well as lucky personage, well up in constitutional law and the rights of witnesses when it comes to fees.

THERE is estimated to be about 2,500 carloads of oranges in Southern California, and of these 1,300 carloads represent the Riverside crop, and we hear Riverside growers decline to warrant a car, less half of the remainder—or something over 500 cars—in Orange county fruit, and its excellence is testified to in the fact that as we write several buyers are eager to bid for the purchase of the entire crop. Our fruit is perfectly exempt from the injurious effects of frost, and that in our big orchards is being classed right along in the fancy grade. No wonder the price is on the up grade.

THE Editorial Association of Southern California leaves next Thursday for a two weeks' visit to the Midwinter Fair at San Francisco. They go in two Pullman sleepers. The headquarters of the association will, by invitation, be at the rooms of the California Press association, in the new Crocker building, at Montgomery and Market streets. The Southern Californians will hold a social meeting at the rooms of the San Francisco Press club on Friday evening, on which occasion an address of welcome will be given by Mayor L. R. Elert and Director General M. H. de Young of the Midwinter fair, and a response by the president of the association. Papers will be read by Editors Holmberg of the Escondido Times and Neper of the Santa Barbara Press. A poem for the occasion will be read by Judge Merrix, and an address will be given by Hon. Wm. H. Mills. The San Francisco Press club and the California Press association will be present, and all together there is a promise of a very delightful occasion for those who attend. The California Press association will hold their meeting Monday and Tuesday, April 2d and 3d, and the "Press day" at the Midwinter fair is fixed for April 4th.

THE Democratic members of the Finance Committee have completed consideration of the tariff bill, and it was submitted to the full committee of Republicans and Democrats on Tuesday. The most important change is in the sugar schedule, a change being made by which an additional duty of one-eighth of a cent per pound is given on all sugars above 93 deg. by the polariscope, or which are above No. 16 Dutch standard in color. The text of the sugar schedule as now agreed upon is as follows: All sugars, tank bottoms, syrups of cane-juice or beet-juice, melada, concrete and concentrated melada and concentrated molasses, testing by the polariscope not above 80 deg., shall pay a duty of 1 cent per pound, and for every additional degree or fraction of a degree above 80, and not above 90 deg., as shown by the polariscope test, shall pay .01 of a cent per pound additional, and above 90 and not above 98 deg., for every additional degree or fraction of degree shown by the polariscope test, shall pay a duty of .02 of a cent per pound additional, and upon all sugars testing above 98 deg. by the polariscope test, or above No. 16 of the Dutch standard in color, there shall be levied and collected a duty of one-eighth of 1 cent per pound in addition to the duty imposed upon sugars testing above 98 deg. Molasses not testing above 56 deg. by the polariscope, shall pay a duty of 2 cents per gallon. Molasses testing above 56 deg. shall pay a duty of 4 cents per gallon.

ARMY OF THE UNEMPLOYED.

POMONA, March 17.—The Industrial Army which started from Los Angeles yesterday is camped in the City Park. The commanding officer appeared before the City Trustees and stated their case and asked assistance. The Trustees authorized $100 to be spent by the City Marshal for food. Ten extra policemen were appointed.

The commander said that the army had butter camp outside of the town, as some lawless characters might be with it. The citizens generally think it best to give rations and not try to control the army's movements.

LOS ANGELES, March 17.—The unemployed who marched away from this city were reported a few miles north of Monrovia, going through the orange orchards and helping themselves to all the fruit they could carry. No disturbance was reported, the men being, for the most part, orderly.

Eight-nine men went to work on the streets to-day for food. Rudolph Weyer, owner of the warehouse where the Industrial Army has its barracks, closed up the warehouse to-day. It is not known where these men will find quarters. No trouble is reported by the officials of the Santa Fe. The purpose of the army is to get aboard a through freight train a short distance above San Bernardino.

The Board of Trustees of the City Council received a note from an unknown man this morning, signed "Laborer," in which the City Council was notified that the members of the council "would be blown to hell."

The council yesterday refused to pay the unemployed and the members of the "Industrial Army" for work on the streets, but agreed to furnish them with food. The city finances are exhausted and the council could not give wages if it desired. The members of the council are much perturbed over the threats.

RIVERSIDE, March 17.—There is considerable apprehension here lest the industrial army or a portion of it pay this town a visit. It is feared that the orange groves will prove a temptation to the hungry horde. Sheriff Swope has been engaged this afternoon in preparing to take care of the invaders if they come.

He has not sworn in any extra deputies, but has arranged to call upon some forty or fifty determined citizens whom he can depend upon to turn out on short notice fully armed. It is not expected that the army will get here before to-morrow evening.

Sunday night the "army" boarded a local freight train at Ontario and rode into San Bernardino. They are on their way to Washington to appeal to Congress to pass laws for the benefit of the workingmen.

Denver society is discussing a scandal similar to the late Breckenridge-Fulford trial. The principal actors in the local affair are Sims, a member of the Ninth General Assembly from Arapahoe county, who, for some time past has been engaged to be married to a prominent Capital Hill family, and the date of the wedding was set for March 19. After receiving the girl, Sims issued her to go to Pueblo on a visit, and while there he married Miss Harriet London, a teacher in one of the city public schools and a most estimable lady. The couple are now in California on a bridal tour. It is under stood the wife is unconscious of her husband's duplicity. The outraged girl knows nothing of the secret marriage until her return home to prepare for her own wedding. It is feared the shock will be serious in its results.

A cyclone swept over Long View, Texas, at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, accompanied by ballstones of immense size. The greatest fury was felt east of there, where it struck the large country home of John Cain, lately occupied by a large family of negroes. The house was in an ancient grove of oaks, 20 in number. Seventeen of them were uprooted and piled up in terrific confusion with dead fowls, dogs and five dead negroes. Several others were killed and many wounded, many houses were completely demolished. A passenger train passed just as the cyclone swept by, narrowly escaping it. All previous accounts of immense hail stones and wind dwindle into insignificance in comparison with this storm. Many of the blocks of ice were from 12 to 18 pounds in weight and others found after a warm rain storm were larger than goose eggs. Two of these missiles passed through the roof of a house, making a hole like a cannon ball. Fowls roosting in trees were killed by thousands. A cow was killed, and five stock bear many marks from the stones. About 300 window lights were broken in the place, while farm fences and fruit trees were prostrated for miles around.

In San Francisco James Hamlin, a Southern Pacific employe, had read an item in some paper to the effect that if a man was attacked by a "footpad the surest way to frighten him off was to shout "fire." Last Sunday night as he was going up Van Ness avenue from Market, two men suddenly emerged from a dark recess in the street and approached him in a manner considered to be of a sufficiently threatening manner to cause him to yell "fire!" with all the vehemence of which his lusty lungs were capable. Whether the men were footpads or not he does not yet know, but his ruse had the desired effect, the two fellows immediately took to their heels. Then Hamlin leaned up against a lamppost and laughed long and loud. Just then a big policeman came up and wanted to know who had shouted fire and Hamlin told him the joke, with many embellishments. After the joker had waited several long hours in the station house for a friend to come down and bail him out, his ideas as to the efficacy of the novel footpad alarm had undergone a material change.

At a result of the addresses to the pupils of Vassar College by Mrs. Ballington Booth, head of the Salvation army forces in America, and Adjutant Edith Marshall, fifteen young women students have been enrolled as members of the Salvation Army Auxiliary League. Dr. G. H. Hendricks of the executive staff of the college has joined the league, and others are expected to join. The new members of the league are daughters of wealthy and aristocratic families of New York, Brooklyn, Washington and other cities.

From a man who is intimately acquainted with the movements of the Vanderbilts, and who, in fact, is an official of the Wagner Palace Car Company, and was lately in San Diego, information was casually gained that the Wagner palace cars are about to be placed on the Santa Fe system in place of the Pullmans. When this view of the matter was presented to the Vanderbilt man he virtually admitted that it was correct, and that a big block of Santa Fe stock have lately passed into the hands of the Vanderbilts. The reason for the move is not definitely known, but it is surmised that a combination has been formed to push the Santa Fe to San Francisco. The officials of the Santa Fe have been free to admit that the Santa Fe system, as at present terminating on this coast, is not in an independent position and that they will never be satisfied until they are in possession of a line into San Francisco that can be depended upon.

Lottie Collins, the dancer, shipped on the stage of the Haymarket Theater in Chicago one night last week and sprained her ankle in such a way that she may never be able to trip the gay "Ta-ra-ra" again. Miss Collins lies at her apartments at the Palmer House with her right ankle in a plaster cast and is under the constant care of trained nurses. She was the star of the attraction. Three times she was taken from the stage and responded gracefully. During the wild dance she slipped and fell. With a smothered "Oh!" she was on her feet again, and bravely tried to catch up with the music. It was a vain effort. Before the audience was aware that the dancer was really injured several members of the company rushed out on the stage and assisted her to the wings.

For several days two boys have been begging in Indianapolis, and were arrested for vagrancy. The younger of the two pleaded in behalf of the other, and with a sad face and tearful eyes told the story of his life. His father was a drunkard, who had left with her two children, and his mother, who had been left with her two children, and his mother, who had lived in Cincinnati for the past five years, has lately got out of work and while walking on the street accidently met her brother, whom she had not seen since the death of her parents five years ago. He gave his name as Joe Sowers and said he had been tramping for four years. The police do not believe the story. The boy was locked up and the girl placed in charge of the matron.

The Chloride of Gold Treatment for Inebriety.

Persons addicted to the use of opium and alcoholic stimulants wishing to get rid of the habit, will be benefited by consulting Dr. Wm. H. Perdomo of this city, formerly physician to the Santa Fe Insane Hospital for alcohol and opium inebriates.

The theory upon which this treatment is based is that inebriety is a distinct and well marked disease of the nervous system, especially involving or attacking the centers of the will, so called.

This disease is frequently inherited from the parents to the children; sometimes it develops early and sometimes late in life, although in the solitary influence does not invariably manifest itself in the desire for drink alone, but often it consists in weakness of the moral constitution or a restless or vicious disposition and a defective brain.

It is claimed that the coming generation of Americans will be a generation of drunkards and imbeciles, unless something is done to reform the thousands who live only to saturate their bodies with alcohol. To prevent this many brains have been tried, since confining them to inebriates and secluding them under strict surveillance, with the object of driving them totally of the use of stimulants, or by mixing drugs and varied nostrums with the food or drunk, with the object of producing nausea and disgust for the beverage, but all these methods have been given up as useless, tiresome and cruel, and all have done infinite harm by creating in the mind of the inebriates the idea that the cure is worse than the disease, and that every person interested in delivering themselves from their habit is their merciless enemy from whom they must keep away.

The Chloride of Gold treatment, on the contrary, considers the inebriate as a sick person, aims only to act on the diseased nerve centers with drugs whose properties are antagonistic to those of alcohol and opium, and does not interfere with the patient's freedom, nor forbids them the use of any stimulants as long as THEY HAVE THE DESIRE to use them.

At present outdoor cures have been organized and sanitariums have been opened all over the country with the object of preventing the use of intoxicating liquors or making the unfortunate drunkard's way easier to follow by hard, measured, but simply mechanical theories dulled for that they need of relish so much, and by building up and toning the weak, broken down nervous centers. Already the number of victims reported is legion, and many a family is relieved that the era of redemption for the drunkard has at last come.

Persons addicted to the use of stimulants will do well to confer with Dr. Perdomo for treatment.

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they presume. Jonathan Knutsen of Bolan, Worth Co., Iowa, who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Ft. Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says: "A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so bad that he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me. He got a bottle and it cured them up in a week. 50 cent bottles for sale by Jaeger Bros.

SAN DIEGO, March 19.—For several seasons past L. H. Christie, a clarinet player in the orchestra of the Calhoun Opera Company, has been fascinated by the charms of Blanche Corbett, a pretty chorus girl. Both had recently become of age, and so yesterday morning, acting on a preconcerted arrangement, Christie took Miss Corbett in a hack to St. Paul's church, where they were quietly married.

Charles C. Spence, a cornetist in the orchestra of the company, not to be outdone by the clarinet player, procured a license yesterday to marry May A. North, a chorus girl. The maid waited for her lover outside the County Clerk's office, and when he appeared they went into Department 3 of the Superior Court and were married by Judge Pierce. The manager of the company looks with some degree of alarm upon the failing of musicians for chorus girls, but trusts that there may be enough to go around.

TURIN (Italy), March 20.—Louis Kossuth died at 10:55 o'clock this evening.

Kossuth's end was extremely painful. He showed signs of consciousness until the last. He expired in the arms of his son and died pressing the hand of the Hungarian deputy Karoli. The members of his family and a few of his intimate friends stood around the bedside of the expiring patriot. Nothing has yet been settled in regard to the details of the funeral. The municipal authorities of this city offered the family the use of a tomb in the burial in the Pantheon here.

LONDON, March 20.—A dispatch from Buda Pesth says the Hungarian government and the members of the national party in the diet have arrived at an agreement regarding the honors that will be paid Kossuth. Nothing has yet been settled in regard to the details of the funeral. The municipal authorities of this city offered the family the use of a tomb in the burial in the Pantheon here.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Steady Progress

Has characterized Hood's Sarsaparilla ever since it was placed before the public. Whenever introduced, its sales have grown from year to year, until now it is the most popular and most successful medicine offered. Any druggist will confirm this statement. The secret of this success lies in the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a medicine of merit. It does actually accomplish all that is claimed for it, and when given a fair trial, is reasonably certain to be of benefit.

Positive Statements.

"Since Hood's Sarsaparilla has been in my hands for sale I have had frequent and unsolicited testimonials in its favor. Although carrying this preparation for less than one year, my sales have been greater than of any similar preparation, and the testimonials in its favor are at once positive and personally noticeable." C. WRIGHT, Healdsburg, Cal.

HAPPENINGS OF THE WEEK

Company G and the New Militia Uniforms.

The Water Board Gives Gray Bros. the Contract for Cementing the Ditches—Letter From the Semi-Tropic Orchard Replying to Mr. Edgcomb—Letter from the Peninsula—News Notes and Personals.

For some time past reports have been heard from various companies in the Seventh and Ninth regiments to the effect that the new uniforms recently issued to them are unsatisfactory in that they are in many cases rank misfits as to workmanship and of shoddy cloth in quality. Major Driffel has recently completed inspection of the various companies of the Seventh and Ninth regiments, and he is quoted as being most emphatic in denouncing the uniforms as being "the shoddiest kind of shame."

Adjutant-General Allen says in San Francisco that Major Driffel's complaint is news to him, and continues:

"The uniform board, which is composed of Brigadier General Dickinson of San Francisco, Col. C. Dozier, division inspector, and myself, was careful and particular that the quality of the cloth should come up to the sample. General Dickinson has devoted considerable time and exercised much care in this respect. The inspector of the various companies, Sergt. Berry, who is inspector of uniforms under Major Williams, quartermaster of the United States army. The inspector placed his stamp on each garment as it was accepted, to prevent fraud. He certified in writing to the board that the garments were duly equal in all respects to the standard sample as adopted. He was a very strict inspector, and, if anything, was too strict. All the uniforms have been inspected, and no complaint, excepting from the signal corps, has been received at headquarters. I have personally inspected the uniforms of the Vallejo and Auburn companies, and in all respects they are superior to anything before issued. It is to be expected that there will be some misfits. Under the contract with the tailors the defective uniforms must be remedied. If the cloth is of poor quality I never heard of it, before. As to the misfits they can be remedied before the State settles with the tailors. I am satisfied the board has done everything possible to furnish the best quality of cloth and trim to the good fitting of the uniforms. The several commands were notified by the board that upon notice given the contractor would be at their respective armories to ascertain dates to take measurements, and that all those who failed to appear would be required to take an order from me."

"It is claimed that the Anaheim company will have to expend $70 of its own money in order to secure fits, as not a uniform received is well fitting. To this I will say that I have the receipt of the captain of the company that his uniforms were received in good order and condition."

Capt. Halpin was seen and informed the reporter that he considered the uniforms furnished Company G as good as could be expected of a contract job, of course requiring alterations. Even the most experienced tailor "tries on" his suit once or even twice before making it up, and in this case, where the uniforms were not tried on at all, the fit is all that could have been expected from the contract job.

In reference to the statement that the company paid $70 for alterations in the uniforms, the Captain says that is true. The new uniforms arrived such a short time before inspection that there was nothing to be done but to alter them or have the company parade in their old uniforms, which were so worn as to put the idea of appearing in them out of the question. Two hundred and fifty dollar was appropriated for each company for repairs of uniforms, and the Captain drew on this fund to the extent of $70 to have the uniforms altered in time for the inspection, and even then, it was only the evening of the drill that the last of the uniforms were delivered.

As to whether the uniforms are shoddy the Captain was not prepared to say. His receipts to headquarters was only the stereotyped receipt that the uniforms were received in "good order and condition." After the company has been out for a time or two, it will be known whether the goods are shoddy or not.

SEMI-TROPIC ORCHARD.

STATEMENT FROM MESSRS. HUTTON AND KEY IN REPLY TO MR. EDGCOMB—LAST YEAR'S PRICES.

EDITOR GAZETTE.—The article is not written for the purpose of engaging in any newspaper controversy, but only to correct some misstatements that have been made in reference to the Semi-Tropic Company. For twenty years this company has used all possible efforts to encourage the orange industry in the Placentia district. The Directors realize that what is helpful or hurtful to the owner of the small tract is also helpful or hurtful to their interests. Corporations are conservative and cannot act with the freedom of the individual. Although all the Directors, except one, are residents in the northern part of the State, yet in all matters calling for their action they seek to do that which will be for the best interests of all concerned. When the agitation for an orange growers' association began last summer, the undersigned, a director and the superintendent, availed themselves of every possible opportunity to become acquainted with the plans of the projected movement. Many features were heartily approved, while some were objectionable; but it was not the province of the last year's trial to systematize everything. The matter was recommended to the Directors. They are the agents for others. The subject was fully discussed, one of them coming to Placentia last fall to investigate. Their conclusion was to sell if possible, as had been done in former years, the crop in the orchard; but if not, the superintendent was given authority to join the association. Under these instructions the superintendent would not be justified in any hasty action, and hence did not become a member. This conclusion was known to all our neighbors, and it came to be currently understood, that as there seemed to be no buyers the company would eventually join.

In your interview with Mr. Edgcomb, as published in the issue of the 15th inst., it is stated "we became a member of the Placentia association." This is entirely unfounded, as the above statement shows, and from the interviews of the undersigned at different times with members. There was no effort on the part of the superintendent to control any of the facts regarding the whole matter. Therefore Mr. Edgcomb's statement is calculated to place us in a false and unenviable light before our neighbors.

Mr. Edgcomb says further, "He reserved the right, however, in case fore any one in the orchard should break away and dispose of its fruit as it had done in former years, to be informed of the fact and so be given a chance to make an offer for its purchase." Two or three things require notice in this remarkable statement. First—In case one should "break away." Does he not know that j inig the association involves a legal liability, and violation of contract implies damages? He ought to know that is not our method of business. Second—He had no reserved right, implied or stated. He first came to the orchard on January 1st. He declined to enter into any negotiation for the purchase of the crop, but would take it f. o. b., of which we had some experience last year. By agreement the superintendent went to Los Angeles to see him. He was not in town, but his clerk told Mr. Key that he (Edgcomb) had no thought of purchasing, as he had already secured one thousand cars at Riverside. Two months elapsed from the time of his first appearance at the orchard and the sale of our crop, and Mr. Edgcomb never came near us, nor sought to open any negotiation for the fruit. Does such action upon the part of an active buyer constitute a pre-emption to a reserved right? The very last implication of this is, that he was trying to hold us in such a way that if a buyer came to us he must be informed; if not we must take such care of our fruit as we could.

He says again, "Rather than miss the crop, he would pay $15,00 f. o. b. for it." That makes us feel awful bad! Just to think, we have actually lost $6,000! That's a big sum in these hard times. Too bad, too bad. But in the silliest rush for any one who is reputed to be a shrewd business man, to whom over a sale he would not touch, to tell what he would have done, if he had only the chance, and yet never sought the chance; to shake the dollars in a newspaper interview, and yet never respond to any proposal for negotiations. The world is full of such flitter-in-the-pocket boasting. In legal phraseology, it would be termed "pleading the baby act."

He says again, "He is very much put out at the sale of the Semi-Tropic oranges to the Earl Fruit Co." We have no doubt this is the animus of his whole interview. If Mr. Edgcomb had said to the superintendent, I am willing to negotiate if you do not join the association, he would have had some plea for attack. The Earl Fruit Co. came to us and opened negotiations without our asking them, or writing to them or in any way directing their attention to us.

"Too bad," he says, "that your fruit was not made public, for we had no desire to discu. them. In February, 1893, Mr. Thacker, Superintendent Gilman and Director C. E. Dyer met us at the orchard to discuss the disposal of the crop. No bids from any buyers were asked, and probably none could have been secured. Mr. Thacker urged the f. o. b. plan; he did not care to buy the crop; but during the conference he made an offer of $100 per car more higher, so after a conference of some two hours, we concluded to make an f. o. b. contract. This was not exactly in accordance with the wish of the Directors, but seemed the best possible conclusion, it being emphatically urged by Mr. Thacker that the cars would be shipped as would then get the pay for the oranges, and at any time his orders were open to our inspection. On May 1st Mr. Gilman called from the superintendency and went with Mr. Key taking his place. We failed to get satisfactory returns in the prices our fruit was bringing. The f. o. b. was entirely ignored. In the early part of July a statement was sent after most ample opportunity on our part. We then found the house had switched our contract from f. o. b. to a commission-pure-and-simple, to confirm to all the expenses per car, and about half of our crop netted us about $3.25 a. The last picking was early in July but still for f. o. b. method. In the latter part of August we received account sal of about 4,000 boxes, after paying all expenses, including cold storage in Chicago. We found ourselves in debt to the firm sometime over $200. We were the victims of the whole kind of fruit, made at about the same time, were sold f. o. b. at $2 per and $2 25 a box. The keeping quality of our fruit was as good as that of any other. What a great difference! This statement further explains why we unhesitatingly refused to consider a f. o. b. contract.

It is just as well that Mr. Edgcomb did not handle our fruit this year. We believe that the Earl Fruit Co. will deal with us fairly. We are satisfied with the price; and perhaps this is a wise and salutary lesson to both Edgcomb and that we have got what is not the only horse willing to venture the purchase. HUTTON & KEY.

WESTMINSTER LETTER.

Even a Chinese or a Los Angeles quack doctor could hardly fail to diagnose the malady now going the rounds of Westminster. Its predominant symptom is disappointment, and the disease that makes the best local showing is "hope deferred." We looked on the best factory as one of the things sure to be, we decided our lands to it, we built our hopes on it, and now lands and hopes are both "gone up" like the factory. The big building is simply universally despaired of. You could drive a three-minute horse all day long through the pastlands and never get more than twenty yards from the white of a pessimist. The very atmosphere where it is not invisible with its chronic mist is redolent with lamentations. Yet, when one reflects a little, what have we got to whine about? Can we not raise twenty-five bushels to the acre, and is not the Chino factory, like the grave, crying for "more, more!" The delimma is only an imaginary one. Had the Chino factory been closed against us there would be solid and valid grounds for despair. But the prospect of getting from 20 to 25 tons to the acre in these times a thing to be despised. There are a class of people, however, who come into the world with the silver spoon of evil all the time they are in it. They are always wearing evil half way, and "bidding good-morning to the sign-board of Lost Hope." If the government hadn't monkeyed with the sugar bounty, the factory would have been half way to Santa Ana by this. It is absurd to blame the Directors for the non-erection of the factory, as it is to blame a barometer for a shower of rain.

There isn't a shadow of doubt but that the factory will materialize in ample time for next year's crop. In every probability work will begin on the edifice in July or August, and in the meantime we should concentrate our energies in developing our acquaintance with the valley and not impugn motives and call names to our best benefactors.

Trade is dull everywhere at this moment of intangible quantity. Twelve per cent and solid security at the back of it can't touch it. Yet a lady who knows a thing or two tells me the other day there is more money in circulation in Westminster than any one can imagine. Nor is this to be wondered at. We can lick creation in our onions. Our corn can look over the heads of the Patagonian battalions of Frederick William. One of our potatoes in length is an ordinary meal, and what other section in America can compete with our beets for saccharine? So the short and the long of the whole business is, that the pessimist and the grunter should be run out of the community to make way for Moss' onions and Bob McClintock's beets.

The great Prohibition convention has materialized, and still the world observes its annual and diurnal motions. This year the convention presented a new feature, the clergy of some of the more narrow-minded of the sects took a leading hand in the dry crusade. This was to be expected, for if they succeed in carrying their point it means rest for them and one for the public. The less I spend on beer, the more I can afford to give the preacher. But apart from this natural interest the matter takes in prohibition from motives entirely selfish, there are one or two grounds on which from a scriptural standpoint the theory is defective.

It is God's evident will that we should live in a tempted sphere; even Christ was tempted. Now, suppose we do away with all temptations, where does sin come in? And if we eliminate sin, where was the use in the atonement and forgiveness—the chief blessing that flows from it? They are taking the bread out of their mouths, these windbags of "sound and fury signifying nothing." Again, there are greater evils in the Universe than whiskey, and greater sins than taking even too much of it.

The readers of the GAZETTE have all heard the fable of the "Devil fishing at the river Tinn," and how he baited his hook differently for every fish he wished to catch. To hook a Congressman he put on a bill for a large amount; to catch a woman he put on a jewel.

Quoth Satan: "The fishing is rare and fine."
And he took a drink somewhat enhanced,
And yet a parson swam round the line,
That's on the most tempting of baits refused.

He irked him his gold and flashing gems,
Hung fame and fortune upon the line,
Dressed parsons with embroidered hems,
But still the dominie made no sign.

A woman's garter went on the hook;
"I have him at last," quoth the devil brightening,
Then Satan's sides with laughter shook,
And he landed the preacher as quick as lightning."

WATER COMPANY.

GRAY BROS. GET THE CONTRACT FOR CEMENTING DITCHES—CLARENCE GROAT TO SUPERINTEND THE WORK—NEW WATER RATES.

The Board of Directors of the Anaheim Union Water Company met on Saturday morning and went into executive session on awarding the contract for cementing the ditches. When the session was over it was announced that it had been decided to give Gray Bros. the contract to cement the South branch as well as the East street ditch. Mr. Melrose, attorney for the company, was instructed to prepare a contract with them for doing the work.

The board having learned that the estimate of the capacity of the East-street ditch was not sufficient to cover the purposes intended for it, they decided to increase the size of the same from one foot at the bottom to eighteen inches.

A communication was received from Gray Bros. saying they could cement the East street ditch from Sycamore as far as Broadway street, at the increased dimensions, for 2½ cents per lineal foot extra, making the total cost 56 cents per lineal foot, or $1,848 for the job. They also agreed to construct the south branch ditch ending at Browning's corner, the company having the option of changing the line of the ditch at that point, or of continuing it on the old line, or of constructing both ditches, all the work to be at the cost of 46 cents per lineal foot.

The board also adopted as far as Browning's corner and the details of the contract were referred to a committee consisting of Directors Browning and Spencer, with Attorney Melrose, and the contracts be drawn up covering all details.

The board adopted a rule to the effect that stock having been once located on a certain tract or parcel of land shall not be transferred or located upon any other tract without the consent of the Board of Directors at a full meeting.

The Committee on Water Rates reported the following new schedule: During January of each year water will be charged for at the rates of 50 cents per hour for 100 inches, and thereafter the rates will be as follows per hour for 100 inches: Feb., 30 cents; March, 40 cents; April, 50 cents; May, 60 cents; June 80 cents; July, 80 cents; August, 80 cents; September, 60 cents; October, 50 cents; November, 30 cents; December, 30 cents. The board adopted the new rates unanimously.

Each stockholder is to be allowed but fifty inches to each share of stock per hour on each run.

The salary of the zanjoros was reduced to $65 per month, except during the month of June, July and August, when the Anaheim zanjero is to receive $75 per month, and the North Anaheim zanjero $85 per month.

Ten dollars is to be held back from each month's salary until $50 has been amassed, and the same is then to be held as a guarantee for the faithful performance of duty.

The board resolved to invite bids for the position of zanjero under the new order of things. The advertisement of the same will be found elsewhere in this morning's issue.

The report of the committee on change of ditch across land from Browning's eastward to the ridge, south, as recommended by the Engineer. The committee reported adversely to the change. The committee recommend that a bridge be put in near the winery, and gates put in as needed by Browning. Filed.

The committee on the change in the ditch on Mr. East's property were recommended that the change be made.

The board decided to replace the pipe across on the road near Sycamore by a 24-inch pipe, and that two 16-inch pipes be laid together at the crossing east of the corner. The Superintendent was instructed to do the work.

The Secretary was instructed to notify the Santa Fe Railroad that we are placing obstructions in the Cajon ditch and requesting them to remove the same.

H. E. Groat was appointed Engineer to superintend the work of cementing the East-street and South branch ditches, at a salary of $75 per month.

A. A. Tail was permitted to buy twenty-four hours' water on run 6 at non-stockholders' rates.

Mr. Sparks was allowed to build a flume from the ditch to his line at his expense.

—At the meeting of the Orange County Fruit Exchange on Tuesday the Anaheim association reported that they had disposed of their fruit to Thacker at exchange prices, ten cents per box to be allowed on cash f. o. b. sales here. The Placentia association reported they had sold on the same basis of Los Angeles for cash f. o. b. and no commission, as the following prices: Seedlings—choice, $1 10 per box; standards, $1. Mediterranean Sweets, choice, $1 50; standards, $1 25. Washington Navels, choice, $1 52½; standards, $1 27½. Australian Navels, choice, $1 27½; standards, $1.

Fruit has been sold to Earl, allowing him 10 cents per box commission on all cash f. o. b. sales, at the following figures: Seedlings, choice, $1; standards, $0 80. Mediterranean Sweets, choice, $1 25; standards, $1. Washington Navels, choice, $1 40; standards, $1 15. Australian Navels, choice, $1 45; standards, 95 cents. Mediterranean Sweets, choice, $1 35; standards, $1 10. May—Sweets, Malts and Standards St. Michaels, $1 60 for choice, $1 35 for standards. June—Same brands, choice, $1 85; standards, $1 60.

J. E. Hoy of Walla Walla sold his crop to Thacker, the price not being reported.

The Brookshurst grove has several bidders after it, and probably the sale of the crop will be announced in a few days. This practically takes in all of the Orange county crop.

Kleinigkeiten.

—Next Sunday is Easter. This has been a very short Lenten season.

—The country is filling up with strangers looking for investments.

—Dr. Higgins has accumulated his premises with a handsome new fence and front gate.

—Read the changes in Dickel's advertisement. He has some extra fine Salz Gurkeu, which the epicuren reporter pronounces out of sight.

—The first society event after Lent will be the wedding between two of our well-known young people to take place next Wednesday.

—An awning has been erected in front of Hart's new brick building and the inside is being plastered, preparatory to being made ready for the occupants.

—The "White Stars," an aggregation of ball tossers of this city, will cross bats with a picked nine of the military boys on the ball grounds near Fullerton next Sunday afternoon.

—The Landlord exhibits a photograph of Ah Fo in his front window which attracts more attention from passers-by than anything else in the window. "How much money you get?"

—The Orange County Teachers' Institute will be held in the Christian Church at Santa Ana beginning next Monday and continuing until the following Friday. Schools will be "out" during the week.

—The public library has been closed, and the books and papers are stored in the vault of the City Hall awaiting such time as the library can be opened under the management of the city.

—The sugar headquarters have been moved into the premises formerly occupied by the Anaheim Fruit Exchange, and the room in Hart's building having been leased to S. Gulbstein of Santa Ana, who will open up a dry goods store. Shelving and counters are being put in.

—A musical quartette of male and female voices has been organized by four of the young people of Buena Park and Orangethorpe, and the sweet strains of melodious music are frequently heard out serenading to those localities during the present moonlight season.

—F. Richman is working hard to get the property owners on Los Angeles street, between Center and Sycamore streets, to construct cement sidewalks on that thoroughfare. Several of the residents have signified their willingness to make the improvement. Fruit is an enterprising citizen.

—The Native Daughters are making preparations for their German, to be given immediately after the Lenten season. We are told it will be the aim to make it the social event of the season, and we have no doubt the young ladies in charge of it will leave nothing undone to make it so. The German takes place at the Del Campo on the evening of April 11th.

—The lecture on boats and the subsequent excursion to Chino, arranged to take place next week, has been postponed to a later day, owing to the inclement weather. The excursion will occur some time about the middle of next month.

—Mr. Bicker has had his force of men at work at the Thacker warehouse at the Southern Pacific depot during the week grading and packing oranges and preparing them for shipment. The fruit coming in is of very fine quality and cannot fail to make a name for our oranges abroad.

—Prof. Doremus of the skating rink will give a grand skating carnival at the Opera-house on the evening of next Monday, March 26. Six appropriate prizes will be given, and as there are a number of expert skaters in town the carnival will probably be largely attended.

—Mr. Leonard Parker has our thanks for a fine collection of beautiful large navel oranges gathered from his grove east of town. He gathered one each from eight trees and the eight weighed five pounds. Mr. Parker has been seriously indisposed with illness of late, but his many friends will be pleased to hear that he is able to be out again.

—In the Superior Court on Monday Judge Towner gave judgment in favor of C. F. Brenot against Constable Robinson of Santa Ana for the restoration of certain property illegally taken on attachment, or for $625 in case the property cannot be returned. The court further awarded plaintiff $50 damages for detention of the property.

—Charles W. Thompson, aged 60 years, and Isabella Jones, aged 54, sister of Mrs. G. D. Carlton, were married at the residence of Mr. Carlton at Fullerton Monday afternoon, Rev. Cowan officiating. The wedding was a quiet affair, only the relatives and near friends of the high contracting parties being present. The happy couple will reside in Fullerton. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and their family will remove to Los Angeles, where they will in future reside.

—Prof. Repass and his little brown coon and the merry-go-round pulled up stakes for Santa Ana Monday, and is now doubtless regaling the denizens of the county seat with "fast rides for everybody." The Professor's receipts during his two weeks' stay here could not have been less than three or four hundred dollars, and by some it is guessed he took in more than that. His organ never will be missed.

—Disagreeable winds from the north and west have prevailed during the past few days, although the weather was pleasant yesterday. In Los Angeles Monday the wind was particularly chilliand disagreeable. Tuesday the signal service office predicted for us, but we got wind from the west instead. The rain still hangs off, and barley is beginning to show the effects of the protracted dry spell.

—An alleged newspaper freak from Santa Ana was over a few days ago endeavoring to collect $10 from each of the saloon-keepers in town to "fight the prohibitionists." As his scurrilous work not confined to the ten cents on the dollar, he did not meet with any great degree of success—in fact, he didn't get a cent. So far as we have learned, Failing to get his scheme to work, he will doubtless offer to hire out as a Prohibitionist campaign orator.

—The wind was so severe at Henry Ertman's place, a couple of miles below the Southern Pacific depot, that it toppled his barn over and came near killing a pig that was tied to a tree near by. The barn was blown over, and settled down on its roof, and in some manner the pig became involved in its flight, and when the barn came to a stand still, the pig remained suspended about three feet in the air. The little girl came running into Mr. Denche's place and excitedly informed the family that the pig was hanging on the barn. Then all hands ran out and rescued the pig.

—As Captain Halpin was walking into town from Browning's one day last week, and when about a mile this side of the ranch, he came upon a snake lying stretched in the road. Thinking the varmint was dead, he prodded it with his cane, when it suddenly coiled up and struck him with some force in the left leg below the knee. Halpin jumped, and alighted on Center street—a distance of about three miles. He returned to the spot and killed the snake it was, but a search was not any too close, is unable to tell us whether it was a rattler or not. But in future the Capt. will let snakes alone in their afternoon sunbath

—One evening last week in a well-known public resort in Los Angeles a prominent man about town, who formerly lived here, was threshed by an irate hack driver, who took that means of settling an eight-dollar back bill, after having been "stood off" several times by the belligerent citizen, who had hired the coupe with a party of friends a few nights previous to go on a lark. When settled to settle for the same he told the hack driver to seek elsewhere for his pay, and consequently the trouble began. The "sporty" citizen was confined to his room for several days thereafter with a discoloration of both optics.

—Elsewhere will be found an advertisement of the water company, inviting bids for the position of Zanjero for Anaheim and North Anaheim. Owing to the hard times the board have decided to cut down the salaries of the position to $65 per month, the Anaheim zanjero to receive during the months of June, July and August the sum of $75 per month, and the North Anaheim zanjero, owing to the increased duties in connection with that time, $85 during the three months mentioned. It is understood several aspirants are after the places.

—The Fullerton band has issues have invitations out for a ball at Chadbourne's Hall on the evening of the 30th instant. The invitation committee consists of E. E. Beasley, J. Gardiner and J. Hetebrink; the reception committee, Guy Lovering, Henry Hetebrink and W. Schumacher, and the floor manager is the old reliable dude Charley Stone, whose presence on the floor is a sufficient guarantee that all hands will have a way-up time. The Fullerton band is one of the best musical organizations in the country, its members are accommodating gentlemen and their ball ought to be attended by a crowd of dancers from all parts of the county.

—We are informed that all voters registering for the coming city election, and who are not on the Great Register, will be placed upon a supplementary register to be issued by the County Clerk and then be permitted to vote. Voters registering up to next Saturday will be eligible for the supplementary register. All registrations after that date will be entitled to vote, and no voting certificates of registration will be permitted. The issue of the supplemental register will give a large number of newly registered citizens a chance to vote who previously thought they would be debarred from voting.

—The United States Civil Service Commission announces that the supply of male stenographers and type writers for the departmental service at Washington is not equal to the demand, and there are many requisitions now which cannot be filled for want of eligibles. Examinations will be held in Los Angeles on Wednesday, April 4th, at which persons desiring to compete may be examined. Salaries range at $1,000 a year or less. Those wish as candidates must apply to Washington for blanks and pamphlets of instruction, and the time in which to secure the local candidates doing that, it might be just as well for them to wait till the Civil Service Commission comes around again. The Civil Service Commission is an expensive fraud.

—The Georgia Minstrels showed at the Opera-house last night. Their band discoursed sweet music on the streets yesterday and attracted large crowds. They unanimously gave the house to Anaheim for many years, and are always accorded a large audience. They are probably the best colored minstrel organization on the road, and their shows are always entertaining and clever. As we are walking up to the box office the band is discovering again outside, and the indications are that the show will have another large house. We have left pass, and intend to get there as soon as we get the paper off.

—All the candidates for city officers are now out, and it is possible for the intelligent voter to make up his ticket. For Trustees, there are the regular caucus nominees, with the addition of Messrs. Witts and F. Conrad for the long term, and H. A. McWilliams for the unexpired term of E. J. Pellegrin. W. F. Middleham and A. L. Lewis have also announced themselves for Trustee for the short term. C. Schindler also announced that he would be a candidate for Trustee, but he has been prevail! upon to retire.

For Marshal we have the efficient incumbent, Frederick Schindler, as the choice of the caucus, and the necessary petition was circulated on Monday evening.

For Clerk Mr. Mehaling has no opposition, as has neither Mr. Cahen for Treasurer.

—Since Mr. McNally of Chicago and Col. Northam have taken the lead in reclaiming the barren mesa lands on the La Habra, other capitalists have been attracted hither and it is authoritatively stated that several of them will invest in lands on the mesa and make model homes and fine country residences. The land is of good quality for fruits, and preparations are being made to set the entire tract to trees. Mr. McNally put out a few weeks ago and for $200 per acre for a large strip of this land, and it is said he is holding the tract in reserve for the Eastern capitalists, who are expected shortly to arrive here and permanently locate. With these men of wealth vesting with each other in making county improvements we will doubtless make that section, what it is expected to be, the garden spot of Southern California.

—Another Constable has come to grief in his attempt to collect fees from the county for tramp arrests. Constable Preble of Fullerton some time ago brought in a claim against the county for running in tramps, amounting to $59 75. Of this the Supervisors allowed him $25 75, the remainder being disallowed after investigation by the District Attorney. Preble then brought suit in Justice Freeman's people of justice, and promptly obtained judgment for the full amount sued for, and we expect costs must also go with it. The case was then appealed to the Superior Court, and on Monday Judge Towner constituted the Constable on the ground that the claim had not been properly presented to the Board of Supervisors. The law provides that when claims are presented against the county and are partially disallowed, that part must be presented to the board again at its next meeting. Tain Preble failed to do, and the Judge sustained the Supervisors' and Attorney's fees. Judge Freeman is looking up the law relating to the presentation of claims against the Supervisors.

—Spoerl has prepared the wings of the big black bird killed in Soquel canyon last week by Sam Edwardson, and has them on exhibition at his gun store. Each measures four feet and a quarter. Some discussion has arisen as to the nature of the bird. Edwardson took it for an American eagle, and our item was written up to that effect last week. It is now said to bear it down because up to the hour of going to press the best information at hand was that the bird was not an eagle, but a condor, up from the Andes. Prof. Spoerl stated this week that it was not a condor, but a vulture, and yesterday he informed us that in the Southern States the bird is known as the Mexican buzzard, and is seen quite frequently in Texas and Louisiana. At any rate, the bird was a big fellow, and Sam Edwardson considerable of a "shot" if it, as his bee yard had been subject to unaccountable depletions right along for some time past, and he thinks he has put a stop to it.

—W. H. Spurgeon of Santa Ana has brought suit, we observe, against the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation Company which will be watched with interest by the stockholders of the Anaheim Union Water Company, in that it affects a by-law sought to be imbedded in the by-laws of the company at the forthcoming election. Mr. Spurgeon seeks to have declared void that part of the Santa Ana company's by-laws which makes the stock appurtenant to some particular piece of land, and to compel the defendant to deliver to him certificate of stock purchased at delinquent sale, but describing no definite piece of land. He purchased a number of shares at the company's recent sale of delinquent stock, and now asks for an order of the court directing the company to deliver to him the water to which the shares are entitled on any land in the company having appurtenant to it a water right and susceptible of irrigation from the company's ditches. Inasmuch as the water appurtenant by land by-laws has been reported upon favorably for inclusion in the by-laws of the Anaheim Water Company, the outcome of the case will be watched with no little interest by stockholders on this side of the river.

THAT PICTURE.

During five or six years Marcel had worked at that famous painting which he affirmed should represent the crossing of the Red sea, and for five or six years this masterpiece of color had been obstinately refused by the jury at the annual salon.

So, from force of habit in going and coming so often from the studio to the museum and from the museum to the studio, the pictures knew them as well that, if one had set it on wheels, it would have been able to go all alone to the Louvre.

Marcel, who had ten times repainted and rearranged this canvas from top to bottom, attributed to a personal hostility of the members of the jury against himself the ostracism which had rejected it annually from the Squire salon, and in his idle moments he had composed in honor of the Cerberuses of the institute a little dictionary of curses with some illustrations of a savage ferocity. This collection, which had become celebrated, had obtained in the studios and at the School of the Fine Arts the popular success which is attached to the immortal complaint of Jean Belin, painter in ordinary to the grand sultan of Turkey. All the daubers of Paris had a copy of it in their memory.

For a long time Marcel was not discouraged by the determined rejections which he received at each annual exhibition. He was comfortably settled in the opinion that his picture was, in its least proportions, the long sought for pendant to the "Marriage Feast at Cana," that gigantic masterpiece whose brilliant splendor the dust of three centuries has not been able to tarnish. So, every year at the epoch of the salon, Marcel sent his picture to be examined by the jury. Only—in order to throw the examiners off the scent and to try to baffle them in their preconceived determination to exclude it, which prejudice they seemed to have against the "Crossing of the Red Sea"—without changing anything in the general composition of the painting, he modified certain details and changed the title of his picture. Thus, one year it came before the jury under the name of "The Crossing of the Rubicon." But Pharaoh, badly disguised under Cesar's mantle, was instantly recognized and rejected with all the honors due him.

The following year Marcel threw upon the foreground of his canvas a layer of white paint to represent snow, planted a tree in one corner, and dressing up an Egyptian in the uniform of the imperial guard of Napoleon he entitled his picture "The Crossing of the Beresina." The jury, which had rubbed up its spectacles that day upon the tails of its green palmed coats—an official occasion the members of the institute wear dress coats having green palms embroidered on the lapels and collars—was not duped by this new ruse. It recognized perfectly the immortal Pharaoh, especially by a big devil of a many colored horse that pranced about on top of a wave of the Red sea. This pleasing of this horse served Marcel for all his experiments in coloring, and in his everyday speech he called it "a synoptical tableau of fine tones," because it reproduced all the most varied combinations of color with their plays of light and shade. But once more, unmoved by this fine detail, the jury had not black balls enough to fully express their feelings in rejecting "The Crossing of the Beresina."

"Very well," said Marcel, "I'll wait! Next year I shall send it again under the title of the 'Passage des Panoramas.'"

A few days later, and when Marcel had already forgotten terrible threats of vengeance he had uttered against his persecutors, he received a visit from Father Medicis. Thus the bohemians had nicknamed a Jew named Solomon, who at that epoch was well known by all members of artistic and literary Bohemia, with whom he was in perpetual relations. Pere Medicis did business in all sorts of bric-a-brac. He sold comfits and furniture from the first Empire up to 3,000. He bought everything and knew how to sell it again at a profit.

The exchange bank of M. Proudhon was a very little affair compared to the system applied by Medicis, who possessed the genius of traffic to a degree never before attained by even the most able of his fellow believers. His shop, which was situated in the Place du Carrousel, was a fairyland where one found everything to be desired. All the products of nature, all the creations of art, all that comes forth from the bowels of the earth and of genius, Medicis made of it an object of negotiation.

His business touched everything, absolutely everything that exists; he dealt even in the ideal. Medicis bought ideas in order to exploit them himself or to sell them again. Known to all the litterateurs and all the artists as intimate of the palette and a familiar friend of the writing desk, he was the Asmodeus of the art. He would sell you some cigars for the plot of a novel, some slippers for a sonnet, some fresh fish for paradoxes; he chatted "by the hour" with writers whose business it was to relate in the newspapers the scandal of society; he would procure you places in the galleries of the house of parliament and invitations to private soirees; he lodged by the night, the week or the month the wandering bohemians who paid him in copies of the works of Flavius Josephus.

On entering the home of the bohemians, with that intelligent air which distinguished him, the Jew divined that he had arrived at a propitious moment. In fact, the four friends found themselves at that moment met in council, and under the presidency of a ferocious appetite they were discussing the grave question of bread and meat. It was on a Sunday, and the end of the month! Fatal day and sinister date! The entrance of Medicis was therefore greeted with a joyous chorus, for they knew that the Jew was too miserly of his time to spend it in visits of mere politeness. Therefore his presence always announced an affair of business.

"M. Marcel," said Medicis, "I have come here solely to make your fortune. That is to say, I've come to offer you a superb chance to enter the artistic world. Art, as you well know, M. Marcel, is an arid road of which glory is the oasis."

"Pere Medicis," said Marcel, on the hot coals of impatience, "in the name of 50 per cent, you venerated patron saint, be brief!"

"This is the affair," said Medicis, "A wealthy lover of paintings who is making a collection of pictures destined to make the tour of Europe has ordered me to procure for him a series of remarkable works. I have come to offer you an entrance into that gallery of art. In a word, I have come to buy your 'Crossing of the Red Sea.'"

"Cash!" said Marcel.

"Cash," responded the Jew, making the orchestra in his breeches pocket play a lively tune.

"Go on, Medicis," said Marcel, displaying his painting. "I wish to leave to yourself the honor of fixing the price of this work, which is beyond all price."

"Go on," said Marcel; "that is only the advance guard."

"M. Marcel," said Medicis, "you well know I shall add nothing. Reflect! Fifty crowns. That makes 150 francs. That's a sum, that is!"

"A feeble sum," replied the artist. "Why, know that my first word is always my last, merely in the robe of my Pharaoh there are 50 crowns' worth of cobalt. Pay me at least the materials! Imagine those piles round up the figures, and I will call you Leo X."

"Here's my last word," said the Jew. "I'll not add a sou more, but I will send to dine with you, various wines at your own discretion, and at the dessert I'll pay in gold."

"Does any gentleman wish to make any further bids?" yelled Collins, rapping three times with his fist on the table. "Going, going, gone!"

"Agreed," said Marcel.

"I will send for the picture tomorrow," said the Jew. "Now let us start, gentlemen; the table is laid."

Eight days after that feast Marcel learned in what gallery his picture had taken its place. While walking through the Faubourg Saint Honore he stopped in the midst of a group that was gazing with curiosity at the hanging of a sign over a shop. That sign was none other than Marcel's famous picture, sold by Medicis to a dealer in provisions. Only, the "Crossing of the Red Sea" had once more suffered a modification and bore a new title. Some one had added to it a steamboat and had called it, "At the Port of Marseilles." A flattering ovation arose among the loungers when their picture was unveiled by the artist. So Marcel turned away, delighted by this triumph, and murmured, "The voice of the people is the voice of God!"—Boston Transcript.

Politeness Pays.

"I have often heard my uncle," said the nephew of a noted lawyer who died lately, "dwell upon the fact that he owed much of his success in life to a habit of invariable politeness, without any element of toadyism, which had been instilled into his nature by the teachings of a wise mother. His first start in his profession came through an old scrubwoman who was employed about the house where he boarded when a young man. One morning he passed out as she was scrubbing the front steps, and he saluted her politely, as usual. She stopped him. 'They tell me you are a lawyer,' she said. 'Yes.' 'Well, I know a poor widdy woman that wants a lawyer, and if you will give me your address I'll tell her.' The 'poor widdy' proved to be the other heir to a large estate in Delaware county. My uncle became her attorney and trustee of her children, recovered her interest in the estate and derived a handsome income from its management for many years."—Phil adelphia Record.

Roaming Chinese Tribes.

In the plains on the western borders of the Chinese empire, in the very heart of Asia, there live roaming tribes who seldom visit towns, except it may be to the way of trade. They dwell in tents which they pitch wherever they may happen for the moment to be wandering or working. The tent used by some of the roving Mongolian folk is made of felt and is usually low, small and pointed toward the top. The wooden door frame is no higher than half a window frame in our houses, but the tent, although not equal to the wants of a large family, is snug and comfortable enough in summer, but cold in winter. —Western Mail.

Sells Worthless Securities.

There is an individual in New York who makes a good living by selling securities which have a purely speculative value, and which, in many cases, are known to be worthless. He buys these cheap for cash and sells them to some one who goes into violent bankruptcies and want to make a showing of assets to their creditors. He has been making money in it for years and has paid a share in living out the sentence of a great many bankrupts who have taken advantage of his sagacity in supplying them with collateral.—New York Letter.

He Drew the Line.

No, she wouldn't do it. The very idea! Would she sacrifice her womanly dignity? Could she lock the door of her pleasant home and go forth on such a mission with the prattle of her innocent babes sounding in her ears? No, a thousand times no. She could die easier. She never could bring herself down on the level of a vile man and go to the polls and vote. Her bonnet and gloves are tossed in a corner, and as she retires to the back yard to split the wood for the morrow's fire she's heard cheerfully humming, "What Is Home Without a Mother?"—Buffalo Express.

People who do not believe in dog stories are really subjects for heartfelt commiseration. They have either been unfortunate in their canine acquaintances or else have not the penetration requisite for proper interpretation of dog characteristics.

It is said to cost less to send the product of an acre of wheat from Dakota to England than it does to manure an acre of land in England so that it can grow good wheat.

Queen Victoria is superstitious about precious stones. She invariably wears a diamond brooch in one form or another and thinks it brings her good luck.

A western geologist says that Kansas can raise wheat for another 1,000 years before exhausting the necessary properties of the soil.

Wisdom and virtue are by no means sufficient without the supplemental laws of good breeding.

An Unseen Enemy

Is more to be dreaded than an open and visible one. That subtile and lurking foe, which under the generic name of malaria manifests itself, when it clutches us in its tenacious grasp, in the various forms of chills and fever, bilious remittent, dumb ague or ague cake, can only be effectually guarded against by fortifying the system against its insidious attacks with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a thorough antidote to the poison of miasma in the system, and a safeguard against it thoroughly to be relied upon. In the event of a malicious attack, avoid poisonous water system with quinine, and use instead this wholesome remedy, equally reliable in taste and far more efficacious than any drug. Use the Bitters for dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, kidney complaints and rheumatism.

A NAIL IN HER BRAIN.

Kansas Furnishes What Is Said to Be the Most Remarkable Case on Record.

For six weeks Mrs. Frank Roadson of Abilene lived with a sixpenny nail in her skull. Remarkable as this story may seem, it is nevertheless true, and Mrs. Roadson, who is in her fifty-ninth year, will recover from this terrible ordeal.

About eight weeks ago a physician was called to see her, she being apparently suffering from paralysis or some kindred trouble. One side seemed deadened, and no amount of will power on her part could cause normal action. Electric batteries were applied repeatedly, and efforts were made to induce the paralyzed nerves to act once more, but with little avail, until the physician, thinking perhaps better results might be attained, ordered her thick hair cut off.

She objected, but it was done, and on examination a sore spot was discovered with the head of a nail imbedded therein upon the very crown of her head. An operation was performed, and to the surprise of the physician present on April 1, 1894, the nail penetrated to the brain was removed. It had penetrated straight into the brain its full length, and an abscess had formed upon the brain because of its presence there. Two days later another operation was performed, the abscess was removed, and the patient is getting along well, apparently about to regain full control of her muscles.

The most remarkable part of this strange story was the discovery of the cause of the being struck. At first she stoutly denied any knowledge of it being there, but at last admitted that she had herself driven the nail into her skull, pounding it down with a hammer, for the express purpose of ending her life. Physicians say this is the most remarkable case on record.—Topeka Special to St. Louis Republic.

EXHIBITS HIS HEART.

This Is What the Subject of a Peculiar Surgical Operation Does.

Physicians of this city are receiving visits from an unfortunate citizen of Buffalo who has had a peculiar experience. Recently he called on a professor in the College of Physicians and Surgeons, who explained to a reporter yesterday the condition of his visitor as follows:

"The man had a disease of the chest some time ago and was operated upon by a physician in Buffalo, who found it necessary to remove a part of the chest on the left side, exposing the heart. The wound healed, but the opening remained, so that now there is a considerable hole in his chest. There is of course some covering of skin over the heart, otherwise the man could not have survived, but the action of the heart is observable, and one can put his hand through the opening in the chest and feel the heart at work."

The professor was unwilling to say much about the case, which he said was of special interest only to medical men. He said it was an extraordinary case and was worthy of being made the subject of a medical treatise. He understood that the man was traveling about the country exhibiting himself to physicians for a small consideration.

"He came to me," he added, "and I examined him and gave him a small sum. He then went away, and I do not know where he is now."

Another physician said that the hole was about 8 inches square and that three ribs had been cut in the operation. He said also that an opening similar to the one in the chest existed in the man's back, under the heart.—New York Sun.

A Chinese Exodus.

Prominent Chinamen on the Pacific coast are predicting a big exodus of their countrymen from this continent and all other lands to the Celestial empire within a year or two. They will go to be present at the big fair which occurs there once in 60 years and at which every subject of the great emperor tries to be present. Hundreds of thousands—maybe millions, of Chinese from all parts of the empire and the world will be there," says Interpreter Pon So of San Francisco. "All nations will be invited and everybody ought to go, for it will be the sight of a lifetime." The fair, he says, was founded many centuries ago and has been held regularly since. He is not sure of the exact date, but it is within two years. Great preparations are being made for it all over the empire, and announcement of it will soon be made to the world.—San Francisco Examiner.

What Was It?

A dispatch says a curious phenomenon was seen in the heavens by citizens of Wilmington, N. C., from 6:30 to 7 o'clock the other morning. It made a grand sight, but no one seems able to determine what it was. Some describe it as a meteor and others as a comet. One eyewitness says it had the appearance of a large star with a tail, which to the naked eye seemed about 100 yards long. The end of it finally burst, leaving a trail of fire of many beautiful colors.

A colored astronomer says he saw the letters "W. W. W." distinctly outlined, while another avers that the word "Prepare" was there as plain as day.

Business Depression In Berlin.

The Berliner Zeitung enlarges upon the present condition of starvation in German industries. Workshops which usually furnish employment to 20 men have been closed down, leaving scores to two. The depression is felt most severely in the building trades, including carpenters and cabinetmakers, but it also extends to others. Christmas sales are reported by the shopkeepers to be small beyond parallel, only the cheapest goods finding buyers.

Fall of the White City.

Fifty carloads a day are now being moved from Jackson park by various lines, and at this rate three months more will be required for the removal of the buildings of the late exposition. The railroads derive no revenue from this traffic, having agreed that exhibits brought to Chicago at full rates should be returned free of charge. —Chicago Mail.

SUMMONS.

Security Savings Bank and Trust Company, a corporation, plaintiff, vs. W. H. Shinn, Cora R. Shinn, Samuel Kraemer, Ida G. Munson and Walter Rose, defendants.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the County of Orange, State of California, and the complaint filed in said County of Orange, in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to W. H. Shinn, Cora R. Shinn, Samuel Kraemer, Ida G. Munson and Walter Rose, defendants.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the Superior Court of the county of Orange State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this Summons, if served within this county; or, if served elsewhere, within thirty days; or judgment will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment of this Court against said defendants W. H. Shinn, Cora R. Shinn, Samuel Kraemer, Ida G. Munson and Walter Rose, together with interest thereon from the 13th day of January, 1894, at the rate of ten per cent per annum, compounded semi-annually, and the further sum of $275 83, being ten per cent upon the amount as attorney's fee allowed for costs of suit, all in gold coin of the United States, alleged to be due from said defendants W. H. Shinn and Cora R. Shinn to plaintiff herein upon a certain promissory note and mortgage given to secure the same, made and executed by said defendants to plaintiff herein on the 14th day of May, 1891, and to foreclose said mortgage, which said mortgage is recorded in book 7, page 293, of Mortgages, in the office of the Recorder of Orange County, State of California.

That said sums, together with costs of suit and expenses of the sale of the property mortgaged by said mortgage, be decreed to be a lien upon said premises, to wit: That certain real property situate in the County of Orange, State of California, and described as follows, to wit:

The southerly sixty (60) acres of the following piece of land: Lot Twelve (12) and the easterly nine and one-half (9½) acres of Lot Eleven (11), the same being bounded by a line parallel with the East line of said Lot Eleven (11). Said sixty acres being bounded on the North by a line parallel with the north line of Lots Eleven (11) and Twelve (12).

Also the northerly one-fourth (¼) of the southerly one-half (½) of Lot Thirteen (13), as divided said lot by lines parallel with the north and east lines of said Lot.

Also Lot Thirteen (13), all in Block "K" of the Kraemer tract, in Orange County, California, as per map recorded in book 12 at pages 87 and 88, Miscellaneous Records of said Orange County, California, containing one hundred and fifty-four acres of land.

And that said premises may be sold and the proceeds applied to the payment of the amounts found due to plaintiff said costs of this suit, including the costs of sale, and that in case such proceeds are insufficient to pay the amount found due to plaintiff, execution may be decreed against said defendants W. H. Shinn and Cora R. Shinn for the deficiency remaining due, or that a deficiency issue therefor; and also that the said defendants, and all persons claiming by, through or under them, may be barred and foreclosed of all right, title, claim, lien, equity of redemption and interest in and to said premises and every part thereof; and for other and further relief as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the Complaint.

WITNESS my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Orange, State of California, this 13th day of January, A. D. 1894.

SUMMONS.

Amelie Brodbeck, plaintiff, vs. Albert C. Haven, T. J. Hay and S. R. McComish, defendants.

Action brought in the Superior Court of Orange County, State of California, and the complaint filed in said county of Orange, in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to Albert C. Haven, T. J. Hay and S. R. McComish, defendants.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the Superior Court of the county of Orange, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons, if served elsewhere within thirty days; or judgment will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court for the foreclosure of a mortgage described in the said complaint, and executed by F. H. Newhall and Cedelia M. Newhall on the 8th day of October, A. D. 1891, to secure the payment of one promissory note signed by said F. H. Newhall, dated October 8th, 1891, payable to the plaintiff for the sum of $1,000, two years after date, with interest at the rate of nine and one-half per cent per annum from date until paid; interest also payable semi-annually and if not so paid to be compounded semi-annually; and for all attorney's fees in suit to enforce payment of same; also for taxes and assessments paid; that the premises conveyed by said mortgage may be sold, and the proceeds applied to the payment of said note and interest, taxes and assessments paid and costs of suit; and in case said proceeds are not sufficient to pay the same, then to obtain an execution against said S. R. McComish and Albert C. Haven for the balance remaining due; and also that the defendants and all persons claiming by, through or under the defendants may be barred and foreclosed of all right, title, claim, lien, equity of redemption, and interest in and to said mortgaged premises, and for other and further relief. Reference is had to Complaint for particulars.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the said complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the county of Orange, State of California, this 6th day of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.
