Officials Mark Start on $500,000 Court Job

A new courthouse to serve the judicial needs of northern Orange County is already under construction at the corners of Romney and Homer in north Anaheim. The facility, to be known as the Anaheim-Fullerton municipal court building, will house four courtrooms, four judges' chambers and three jury rooms. Offices of the clerk of the court will be centrally located within the structure to serve the needs of the public and of the four courtrooms.

Scheduled for completion by December 1962, the building will cost $555,300. The 33,400 gross square footage space will cost $16.62 per square foot. Made of reinforced concrete with a steel joist roof system, the courthouse will have heating and air-conditioning facilities. The court building will be furnished with a consultation and waiting area where an attorney may bring his client to discuss problems of his case, a jury assembly room, an employees' lounge, rest room and storage facilities, mechanical and communication rooms.

Underground Tunnel An underground tunnel will connect all four courtrooms. Through it prisoners will come from the Security Building to the courtroom without having physical contact with other persons. Ceremonies Monday morning marked the commencement of the construction of the county court building. William J. Phillips, chairman of the Orange County board of supervisors, was master of ceremonies. Participating with him in the short program were Judge Claude Owens, Cliff Baxter (chairman of the Orange county building commission) Fullerton Mayor Duane Winters and Anaheim city attorney Preston Turner. Architects of the building are Grillias, Savage, Altes and Associates. The contractor is Weymouth Crowell Construction Company.

'NEW' MAGIC PATCH

Disneyland After Dark Is For Adults This Summer

They're selling Disneyland — as a nighttime place for adults this summer. Anaheim's biggest attraction, for both tourists and "hometowners" is in the midst of a $7 million expansion which will see development of an entirely new jewel area in the Adventureland section of the "magic patch" at Harbor and Katella.

With the accent on Tahitian dancing, fire walk, knife dances, etc., and an "enchanted" Tiki Room in which diners will find themselves practically participating in a Disney cartoon as decorative Tiki gods, birds and other decor of the room "come to life" to dance and sing through the magic of animation. The trick is all done with electronic tapes and an electronic computer, Disney explained. "I guess this proves that there are some practical uses for all this (Please Turn to Page Two)

Anaheim Girl Is Honor Graduate

San Francisco State College student Jeanne E. Weinhold, 249 No. Sabrina St., Anaheim, was awarded special honor for scholarship at the 41st commencement held at the Cow Palace last Saturday. She graduated cum laude at San Francisco State College where she is securing her Bachelor's Degree.

Walt Disney personally briefed members of the press and has many television sponsors on the new construction at an after-dark party Saturday night at the park. Disney hunted broadly the "new" Disneyland which will emerge from the two- to three-year building program will be a multi-level affair with "things to do" at ground level, "in the basement" and above the ground. He said the current $7 million program will be financed and constructed over a two-year period. "It is focal point of an all-out campaign to "sell" adults on "Disneyland After Dark."

Mayor Dodges Cement Trucks

"We're a little late to break the ground, aren't we?" quipped Anaheim Mayor Rector L. Coons Monday morning at ceremonies marking the construction of Orange County's newest municipal court building. Judges, mayors, city councilmen and attorneys from county and court offices had to sidestep maneuvering cement trucks, mowing traffic, a 6 1/2 swinging crane in a "ground-breaking" ceremony on ground already broken.

Pointing to a model of the building, Phillips said, "For years judges and attorneys have suffered through cramped space and widely separated courtrooms. This building will bring them together." He added that the $555,300 cost of the building would be paid in seven years on the money saved from renting and leasing former facilities. Judge Claude M. Owens, speaking for the court's judges, said that the increase of efficiency afforded by the new judicial buildings would enable county attorneys and judges to serve the public all the more efficiently themselves. Supervisor Phillips closed the ceremony, saying, "May I ask that God grant that these quarters be used for freedom and justice and for the American principles we stand so firmly for."

A luncheon with celebrities and special guests is scheduled for July 16.

OCSC Enrolls Summer Students

A total of 1,028 students have enrolled in summer session classes at Orange County State College as registration closed, it was revealed by the Office of Public Relations. This represents a gain of 26 percent over last summer's enrollment, which totaled 767 regular students. Dr. Gerhard E. Ehmann, dean of Educational Services and Summer Session, declared, "Forty more courses are being offered this summer, while only fifteen were closed for lack of sufficient sign-ups. Dean Ehmann added.

Kunin Firm Lists 'Happy Customers'

"Welcome to the happy family of Kunin customers," reads the follow-up letter Anaheim families get when they have purchased a home freezer and food plan. Although several local families did not understand they were buying a freezer when they signed up with the company, several other Anaheim families have been satisfied with the firm throughout their association with Kunin, they said.

Orange county salesmen who had misrepresented the freezer sales plan. He stated that those salesmen had been dismissed because the charges were filed against the company. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Griffith, 1329 North Lotus, Anaheim, have said that in no way did the company misrepresent itself to them. They wanted to buy a freezer to begin with and have been happy with both their freezer and the food plan.

COURT ACTION

Next legal action in the conspiracy and grand theft charges against Kunin and Sons will come July 29 when company officials have announced they will appear before Superior Court Judge Kenneth Morrison to lodge a motion for dismissal of charges. Judge Morrison has indicated if he rules against the motion, the trial will begin on July 29—earliest possible date at which the trial can get under way after the dismissal hearing. Kunin officials have been quoted as saying they want to get the case into court "as early as possible."

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sanchez, 1285 North East Street, Anaheim, told the Gazette they are entirely satisfied with their Kunin plan. Mr. and Mrs. John Dilbeck, 828 North Cambria, Anaheim, are also contented customers, they declared. Two other local families contacted by the Gazette indicated that they were satisfied with the concern but that they had mixed feelings regarding a whole-hearted endorsement. Kunin and Sons has been in business in Orange county for the past five years, and counts approximately 10,000 customers in the area. Its Orange County headquarters are at 150 E. Orangeflora, Anaheim.

Patio Increases Outdoor Living

Summer's here, and the living is easy — when you take advantage of your outdoor living area. If you've been putting off a patio in your backyard and haven't taken advantage of Orange County's wonderful outdoor living, take a tip from Rod Dye, president of Nelson-Dye Construction.

"Whether you pay to have it done or do it yourself, make certain your patio is covered by a building permit."

Dye noted that the building permit not only helps guarantee safety and conformity but that it also will help in increasing the home's valuation.

"You'll pay a bit more on your tax bill but your investment can reap triple dividend in the future should you decide to re-finance or sell," said Dye.

The contemporary home in Orange County is designed for outdoor living and family fun. "Just make sure it's safe — a building permit will guarantee it," Dye said.

State Already Feeling Stress Of Growing Population

By JOHN A. MURDY, JR.
California State Senator

Six months from now California will suppose to be the most populous state in the nation. While that may be somewhat of a milestone in the state's colorful history, it also means added woes for state and local government.

California is already feeling the stresses of a sprawling population. The state has of necessity been forced to finance schools, colleges, universities, roads, and other public works projects through taxes and bonds.

Stay 'Within Reason'
We certainly must hold down taxes, and while we see bonding as the fairest and most equitable method of financing large projects, I think it is necessary that we keep it within reason.

It is possible to force the state into a position of bonded indebtedness which places our credit in jeopardy thus posing interest rate and general financing problems.

Stability of the state's financial responsibilities rests with the ability of the people to pay. Let us not burden ourselves and future generations with needless debts — just those that are required.

The Bright Side
But being the most populous state in the nation has its bright spots, too. When California's population hits 17 million next December, it is anticipated persons at income of the people will hit an all-time high of about $50 billion dollars.

With this record income, taxable sales are expected to soar to $28.8 billion and corporate profits will over $5 billion.

Cash receipts from farm marketing are first in the nation with $2,164,000,000 (that's 9 percent of the U.S. total). Net income of farmers now is about $981.8 million, and that is 8 percent of the U.S. total.

The Most Students
We have more students enrolled in institutions of higher learning (23 percent more than any other state), more students enrolled in public schools than any other state (8 percent of the U.S. total) with more than 3.3 million students.

California now has more births than any other state, with the present figure at 292,770 a year. The state has 10.6 per cent of the motor vehicles in the nation. Present registrations total 7,799,000.

Other 'Firsts'
We are first in production of electrical energy, number of housekeeping units by building permit, first in construction contracts ($4,947,000,000), first in national forest land (24,207,000 acres) and California has more than double the volume of military defense contracts held by any other state.

So far our state bonding program has been two-thirds self-liquidating. State expenditure for bond interest and redemption this year will be about 10 cents per $100 of personal income.

It is our hope this healthy picture will continue. California has a date with destiny if we don't let the success go to our heads.

Let's Go Fishing

Clearing skies and smoothing seas promised that yellowtail action at Catalina and San Clemente Islands would hit a new high this week after spotty catches over the weekend of the fighters.

Although party boats were out in full force, gusty winds and choppy seas kept the catches to a minimum. The yellowtailed fighters are at the 'chevung gum' island in full force was proven late last week when the boats brought back as many as 35 yellowtails each weighing up to 28 pounds. Average was around 17 pounds — which is a lot of fighting fury to have on the end of a string.

But barracuda continued active despite the weather and made up the bulk of the catches with Huntington Flats, Catalina and Rocky Point the best. Logs up to 8 pounds flashed through these areas once in a while to add spice to the hookups.

There are big doings down Balboa Pavilion way where the new restaurant, 24-hour coffee shop and cocktail lounge is open. This is the first of the new facilities which will be available at the historic landmark, being converted into the most luxurious sportfishing center on the Pacific Coast.

A total investment of $650,000 is anticipated in the first phase of the renovation program by the Balboa Pavilion Co. under the direction of Alan N. Ducommun. Other facilities which will be opened to the public in late June are a gift shop, marine hardware and accessories store, marine service center, sightseeing cruise and pleasure boat rentals.

Offices for the fishing skills and sportfishing fleet are also being remodelled and plans call for installation of new docks and live bait-holding tanks.

Good news for fishermen came last week from Orange County and the State of California with announcement they will build five new underwater fishing reefs off the Orange County coast. The general locations of the reefs will be south of Huntington Beach, Newport Beach, Corona del Mar, Laguna Beach and Capistrano Beach.

The private, small boat tragedies the past week have raised the question of the safety of commerce companies can perhaps furnish the answer. Rates are based on safety performance in boats — as well as in your own car and the boats in the Southland have earned the lowest insurance rate in the United States. This comes from experienced skippers, Coast Guard inspected boats and a perfect performance record.

During the past week, one that saw the boats unable to leave their docks for three days, 407 fishermen caught 59 yellowtail, 48 barracuda, 1061 bass, 22 halibut, 244 bonito and seven white seabass from Balboa Pavilion-Sea-sport Landings.

NEW INDUSTRY — New home of Hi-Rel Micro-Circuit Co. (shown above) is at 1833 N. Raymond, Anaheim, where the firm will specialize in "minifield" welded circuitry which has many applications in the electronics and aerospace industries. Techniques of the company make it possible to pack more than 100,000 miniature electronic components into a cubic foot of space, according to James Emmi, vice president and general manager of the firm, a subsidiary of International Electronic Research Corporation, and one of Anaheim's newest industries.

Sharron Backus To Be in Series

Sharron Backus, Anaheim High School senior, will play shortstop for the Whittier Gold Sox softball team in the World All-Star Series July 6 and 7 at York Field in Whittier.

Sharron, who played recreational softball for the Anaheim Toppers in 1959-60 before joining the Gold Sox in 1961, has one of the best throwing arms in softball today and made a name for herself in the World Tournament in Portland, Ore. last year when she knocked in the tying run in the bottom of the 15th inning of the championship game to put the Sox back into the ball game.

The All-Star Series, hosted by the Gold Sox, appears for the first time in California. The team is compiled of players from Canada, Oregon, New Jersey, Connecticut and California. Game time is at 8 p.m. each with a double-header each night. One of the four games will be televised by Channel 11.

Tickets may be obtained in advance by calling Sharron at KE 5-9072.

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

HANDS TO CHERISH. Lovely hands are always a feminine attribute, but never so essential as when a wedding band is slipped on a bride's finger. Indeed hands begin to play a stellar role from the day they wear an engagement ring, and they should be groomed for the part.

Ideal bridal hands — delicate and petal-smooth — are not achieved with an occasional dab of cream. They emerge only after some constant and special coaxing. The procedure follows:

Care of Nails. Manicure every fifth day, instead of weekly. Each night massage cuticle oil or cream into and around the sides of the nails. A cream formulated with protein is particularly helpful for ragged cuticles. Containing white iodine, creams purport to strengthen weak nails and keep cuticles soft as well. There are also a number of treatment polishes for bolstering fragile nails.

Hand Care. When feasible apply hand lotion or cream after washing. At bedtime lotion the entire length of the arms. Once weekly soak the hands in warmed skin oil for ten minutes; rinse, dry and bleach stains with lemon juice.

Hand Make-Up. On the day of days, elect to wear a pale, silvered polish. Some enamels bear a silver note. The patina is also supplied by a silvery luster topcoat. For a velvety hand complexion, stroke on a smudge-proof, foundation lotion. Made for the purpose, it is tinted to lend the skin bloom — bridal bloom.

Delicate Trim For Little Gals

A delicate trim looks so pretty, on a little girl's dress, that it's worth extra time and effort required to make it. I think that today we tend to go overboard on the coverall and tie shirt garb.

I'm so tired of seeing my little girl in pants that I've decided to make her some pretty dresses. I saw one in a store that had a ribbon trim that was adorable. It was made of two-faced ribbon and it was shirred in a way that gave a scallop effect. I tried a row of shirring down the middle, but it didn't look right. Why you please tell me how to make it!

—Mrs. R. C. B. A. I believe you have in mind the zigzag scallop . . . and pretty it is! Mark one edge of the ribbon at evenly-spaced intervals along the length of the ribbon. Then mark the other edge so that each mark is opposite the halfway point between the first markings. (See top illustration.) Start stitching, with the longest machine stitch, from the first dot, connecting the dots by alternating from one side to the other in a zigzag design, as shown in the bottom illustration. After you've completed the stitching, tie the thread ends together at one end and pull the bobbin thread at the other. The scallops should be formed as you ease the gathering thread. Then, just slip stitch it to the dress.

Q. I am very round-shouldered and the necklines of my dresses always bulge in the back. How can I fix them?

A. If the bulge isn't too great, Miss Scott is always glad to hear from her readers, and whenever possible will use their questions in her column, but because of the great volume of mail received daily, she cannot answer individual letters.

Patricia Scott has prepared a booklet, HOW TO ALTER YOUR DRESS PATTERNS which gives complete instructions for altering so that finished garments will fit perfectly. For your copy of this guide to correct fitting, write to Patricia Scott in care of this newspaper enclosing a long self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover costs of printing and handling.

Long Look Is For Evenings

Your skirts may be short for daytime this year, but for formal wear they should be long, slim and sophisticated. More and more long dresses are seen at balls, proms, and dressy parties.

You'll be happy to know, with the increased demand for a long dress, that designers have finally come up with some exciting, elegant ones at reasonable prices. When you select yours, be sure it will last for several seasons. Take into consideration fabric, color, and shape.

There are certain fabrics restricted to summer wear only, so from a practical point of view, I suggest staying away from them. They include silk organza, dotted swiss, cotton eyelet, gandy, and linen. Instead, look for fabrics that can be worn all year. These include silk damask, silk cordes de Londres, metailene silk, cordes (with no glittery threads), silk or cotton oltoman, silk chiffon, and crepe.

Colors like pale pink, blue, or yellow, traditionally associated with summer, can easily be worn year round if they are in the correct fabric. I prefer a tone darker than pastel, however. Siamese pink, bright blue, or lemon yellow look right any season. Black, too, stunning in silk oltoman, so is orange in a metailene brocade.

Shape built into the dress is also an important trend in evening wear. If the skirt is dome-shaped, a slit under lining makes it so, rather than a separate petticoat. If it is a narrow dirndl, silk organza helps it fall just right. Slim dresses, lined in China silk, help show the body to great advantage. Inner construction is vital.

Senate Endorses Kuchel's New Educational Program

An educational program giving outstanding high school students an opportunity to gain first-hand knowledge of Congress and the Federal Government, proposed by U. S. Senator Thomas H. Kuchel of California, has received unanimous endorsement of the Senate.

Joined by colleagues in both Republican and Democratic leadership, the Senior California Senator won approval for a resolution pledging Senate cooperation in a nationwide plan by which representative students would be brought to Washington without expense to the Federal Government for indoctrination into the workings of the upper branch of Congress.

The Youth Program, which Kuchel has suggested would benefit particularly secondary school pupils inclined to specialize in political science and government, would be underwritten by the

 The intent is to have State educational authorities select two outstanding students from their schools through some type of competition for a week's visit to the National Capital.

While in Washington, the youths would attend discussion meetings with senators and Senate staff members and conferences with cabinet officers, members of the Supreme Court, and prominent observers of the Washington scene.

Comedy About Army Life New Offering

The rip-roaring comedy about Army life, "Blood, Sweat and Stanley Poole" will be the second production at the Laguna Beach Summer Theatre, playing Tuesday, July 3 through Sunday, July 8. Television actors Richard Coogan and Les Brown, Jr. will be starred in the comedy which is directed by Henry Beckman.

Richard Coogan is currently seen in the leading role on NBC-TV's "The Californians" and CBS-TV's "The Clear Horizon."

Les Brown, Jr., plays Buzz Cranston on the Gertrude Berg show.

fair's Hawaiian theme. She and her Hawaiian Revue perform free twice daily, July 10 to 15. In the insert is Stan Volora—the Man on the Swaying Pole. One mistake, one error, or one defect will put Volora to his certain death at six-day run of the July 10 to 15 fair at Costa Mesa.

FAIR MONTH

Six Fun Days Open July 10

The most exciting Orange County Fair — the third annual "Hawaiian Holidays" — is being proclaimed by fair officials as the "most jammed packed full of fun six days yet."

The July 10 to 15 display of Orange County lives, combined with Hawaiian decorations throughout the grounds, with exhibitors, fair employees and officials, and visitors alike, all dressed in comfortable Hawaiian style mu-mus, tea-diners, sarongs and bright aloha shirts, promises to be the "happiest of Hawaiian Holidays."

Hilo Hattie and her Hawaiian Revue returns for its third consecutive year to packed audiences in the Amphitheatre, two performances daily.

Crowds will thrill to Stan Volora, the Man on the Swaying Pole. One mistake, one error, or one defect will put Volora to certain death at any of his performances twice daily.

Six round trip tours to Hawaii, one given free each night of the fair, is again highlighted. Lucky winners will jet to Honolulu by Pan American World Airways Jet Clipper. Tours include an arrival transfer with lei greeting; 118-mile Oahu Island Tour; Mt. Tantalus Tour; Cruise of Pearl Harbor; Diamond Head Tour; Philippine Night Show and Polynesian Water Spectacular at Waikiki's Reef Hotel.

The trips, arranged by World Travel Bureau Inc. of Orange County, are co-sponsored by Acme Mattress Co. of Santa Ana and Long Beach, Excelsior Creamery Co., Guaranty Chevrolet of Santa Ana, Kirm Rima Hardware of Costa Mesa, Macco Realty Co., and Roy's Motorcycle & Scooters of Santa Ana.

Live-stock barns are filled to capacity by entries from Future Farmers of America and 4-H Club members who will sell their blue ribbon beef, sheep and hogs at the July 13 Junior Livestock Auction.

The Hobbies Bldg. is crammed with more interesting displays yet assembled.

Artists — the largest show of drawing attention to the Fine Arts Bldg. where competition is between both amateur and professional artists.

The Gem Show is a must on every "rock hound's" list. Big competition for the ladies is the Orange Cake and Lemon Pie Bake-Off — sponsored by Southern Counties Gas Co. and Sun-kist Growers Inc. — takes place at 1:00 p.m., Friday in the new
