Candidates Unopposed in Tomorrow's Trustee Elections

Holve, Coons Seeks AUHS Positions, Thompson, Mary, Elementary Posts

Two unopposed positions for Anaheim Union High School trustees and for Anaheim Elementary school trustees will come before voters tomorrow.

Candidates for the two high school positions will be Rex Coons, local building contractor and former chairman of the elementary board; and Al Holve, prominent Anaheim citrus rancher and business man.

There is no competition either for elementary posts with Joseph Thompson and incumbent John P. Mary Jr. lined up for the posts.

Although five names appear on the ballot for high school trustee, voters were warned that only two are now officially running for election, since candidates Jack Polley, Dick Henning and Art Shipkey have officially withdrawn. This leaves candidates Holve and Coons unopposed for the two open posts.

Civic leaders throughout the city today urged each and every voter to exercise their voting privilege and cast their ballots tomorrow. Polls will be open in the seven unified voting districts between the hours of 7 a.m. and 7 pm.

Voters are urged to check the map running on page 4 of today's Bulletin for detailed areas of voting precincts. If in doubt, a call to the Anaheim City Hall or City School office will clear up any doubt as to the location of a polling place.

Polling places include:

Precinct 1. Abraham Lincoln school, 1400 East Center St.

Precinct 2. Thomas a Jefferson school, 504 East South St.

Precinct 3. Benjamin Franklin school, 521 West Water St.

Precinct 4. Horace Mann School. 931 North Palm St.

Precinct 5. George Washington school, 233 East Chartres St.

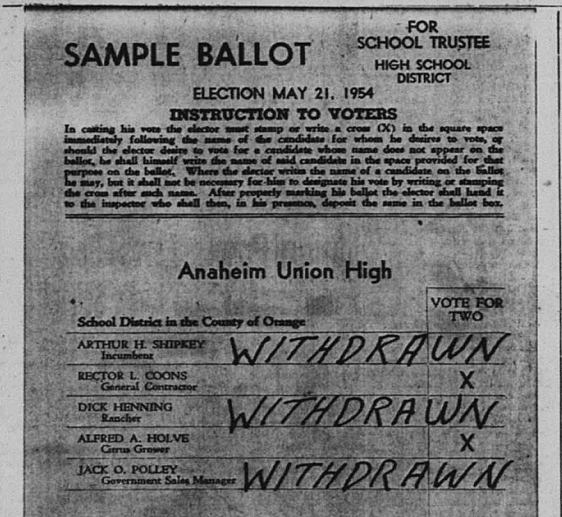

Precinct 6 Loara school, 9461 South Loara St.

Precinct 7. 8151 Moro Lane. Freeway Park.

Precinct 6 includes all of the old Loara school district while precinct 7 includes the Orangethorpe district south of Houston St., not in Anaheim school district prior to consolidation.

Residents in the old Orangethorpe school district — that area south of Houston between Dale and Lemon will vote at 8151 Moro Lane in Freeway park. Katella voters will vote for trustees for the elementary school board but not the high school board. They will also vote on the bond issue in the June 16 elementary bond election.

Voters are cautioned that the June 16 elementary school bond election has no connection with tomorrow's voting. A separate election is planned to present the elementary program to the public.

Charred Corpse Found in Ruins Of Burned Shack

SANTA ANA, (OCNS) — The charred and grisley corpse of an elderly Santa Anan puzzled police and fire authorities today.

The body was discovered early this morning sitting among the embers of a flame - gutted shack at 815 North Daisy St. The body has been tentatively identified as that of 55 - year - old Evaristo Avila Rivas by relatives.

The smouldering corpse was found sitting on what appeared to be the blackened timbers of an orange crate. The building had collapsed around the body and only the charred remains poked above the mound of smoking rubble.

The fire reportedly began shortly before 2 o'clock this morning. Firemen say the structure went down in flames almost before they could reach the scene.

The body was sitting complacently, as if waiting for death on its grisley perch. The clothes were entirely burned away and the body was scorched beyond recognition.

However, police learned from a relative that the elderly Rivas had been living in the shack for the past four years. The building had no electricity and Rivas reportedly used a kerosene lamp to light the place at night.

The kerosene lamp, however, was known to be broken, and it was reported that Rivas frequently used matches to illuminate the building.

The Orange County Coroner's office reports that Rivas died of fourth degree burns over the entire portion of his body. They say that investigators have been unable to find any evidence of foul play and the death will be termed "accidental".

Coroner's deputies say they cannot find the cause of the fire.

Mayor Named in Report Of Santa Ana Crash

SANTA ANA (OCNS) — Helen Ruth Kato made an accident report to Santa Ana police — almost two months after the accident in which she says she was struck by the mayor of Anaheim while driving across an intersection.

The 54-year-old Santa Ana nurse told police that she was crossing Broadway Avenue at 15th Street, and had looked both ways. But when she started across the intersection, she says, her car was smashed into by an auto being driven by Mayor Pearson, 56, of 665 North Helena street, Anaheim.

She says she didn't think much about the accident — although both cars were hauled away to the garage — until her insurance company insisted she have a medical examination to determine if she suffered any injuries in the crash.

When she went to the doctor's, she says, she found she had received a bruised arm, leg and chest.

House Committee Moves to Put All Workers Under Old Age Insurance

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Ways & Means Committee pointed the way today toward coverage of virtually the entire working population under the federal old age insurance program.

The committee voted Wednesday to put the nation's 3,600,000 farm operators and the 500,000 professional self-employed — including doctors, dentists and lawyers — under the Social Security system.

The 4,200,000 employes of state and local government units, including school teachers, firemen and policemen, could obtain coverage on a voluntary basis.

The committee-approved plan would leave only federal employes on Civil Service members of the armed forces and some part-time workers including some agricultural laborers as about the only groups of any size left completely out of the Social Security system.

Some 48,000,000 persons already are covered in an average work week. President Eisenhower proposed that coverage be extended to some 105,000,000 additional persons.

The committee agreed to go along with the President's recommendations in every major respect except one — it has not yet decided what to do about some 2,600,000 imigrant agricultural workers who don't work for the same employer long enough to meet the requirements for coverage.

If the committee agrees to cover this group by liberalizing the present law coverage will be almost universal on either a compulsory or a voluntary basis.

Candidate Henning Issues Statement

Because five names will be on the ballot tomorrow when voters go to the polls to vote for men to fill two vacancies, and because of the existing five - man ballot, Dick Henning, a candidate, who withdrew from the race last week issued the following statement:

Anaheim Bulletin

Dear Sir —

My letter to your paper May 10 stated that I had withdrawn as a candidate for election to the Anaheim High School Board of Trustees.

As my name still appears on the ballot I wish to say that if elected I will not serve.

Sincerely,
Dick Henning

Capitol Denies Knowledge of Plea Made by McCarthy

WASHINGTON (UP) — The White House said today it knew of no direct request by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy to explain his side to President Eisenhower before the Army-McCarthy row "exploded" publicly.

But Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty would not discuss McCarthy's claim that an effort for an appointment was made through Victor A. Johnston and Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, the President's liaison man with Congress.

Johnston is director of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee. McCarthy said that sometime between Jan. 22 and Feb. 24 he asked Johnston to seek the appointment through Persons.

"No Request" Heard Of

Hagerty said he new of "no request by the Senator at that time for an appointment with the President."

The Wisconsin Republican told reporters he tried to arrange the appointment because he thought the President "was not getting all the facts, and before we had a spectacle here, he should get my version.

McCarthy said sometime between Jan. 22 and Feb. 24 he asked Victor A. Johnson, director of the Senate GOP Campaign Committee, to seek the appointment through Maj. Gen. Wilton B. (Jerry). Persons, the President's liaison man with Congress.

"Jerry, whom I like a lot, hasn't called back," McCarthy said.

Not a Snub

But McCarthy said he did not consider this a snub since the President is "a busy man.' He said he could not remember the exact date he sought the appointment, but said it was "well before this thing exploded."

McCarthy meanwhile, said was "at a loss" to decide whether to go ahead with the Army - McCarthy hearings because of a presidential order forbidding testimony about a high level administration conference last Jan. 21 on the dispute.

He would not give a flat yes or no on whether he and his staff will boycott the stormy hearings which are to resume Monday. But McCarthy said the President's secrecy order was "completely unfair to my staff" and said Mr. Eisenhower was "making a grave mistake."

"I can't understand someone saying in one breath, 'I want all the facts on the table, I want the investigation to continue,' and in the next breath saying, 'I will not let the facts come out,'" McCarthy told reporters.

Pre-Registration for Kindergarten Scheduled

Pre-registration for kindergarten for the fall term will be held in all Anaheim Elementary schools except Fremont, beginning Monday, May 24, and continuing through Friday, May 28, between 9 a.m. and 12 noon, officials revealed today.

Parents having children who were born on or before Dec. 1, 1949, are urged to register their children.

The following information should be furnished by the parent for each child to be registered.

1. Birth certificate, Baptismal certificate, or other proof of birth.
2. A list of illnesses and significant accidents.
3. Immunization and vaccination records.
4. The child's home routine.
5. The physical condition of the child.
6. The name of the family doctor.

Registering a child at this time will be of great assistance to the school system in that the district may have a reasonably accurate estimate of the number of kindergarten pupils who will attend school here next year, and thus be enabled to make the necessary preparation during the summer months, official said.

Parents are asked to register their child at the school in their attendance area.

Hanoi Near Panic As Rebel Force Moves East

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—The vanguard of Communist Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap's victorious Red army approached the outer defenses of the Red River Delta today.

Hanoi, the key to French defenses in North Indochina, was near panic.

Corsair fighters ranging west along Colonial Route 41 said the advance elements of the Communist hordes which crushed Dien Bien Phu have pushed three miles beyond Moc Chau. They now are only 75 miles from Hanoi itself.

Dien Bien Phu Reds

These troops were described as the vanguard of four divisions moving eastward after their victory at Dien Bien Phu.

Rumors swept Hanoi that Chief of Staff Gen. Paul Ely had arrive to direct the French evacuation of Tonkin Province in which Hanoi is located.

Communist leaflets circulated through the native quarters saying that Giap was about to launch a sweeping offensive against the rice rich delta.

Other propaganda leaflets claimed the Hanoi-Haiphong highway and railroad, which connect this inland capital with the sea, will be cut shortly and the city isolated.

Population Jittery

The French population of this city was on edge. Panic was narrowly averted during the night in one night club when the proprietor announced he heard all civilians had to be evacuated from Hanoi within a month.

"Meanwhile," he said "We are offering free champagne to everyone so the Viets (Communists) won't get it.'

Business has come to a near halt to be evacuated from Hanoi stand-still. Contracts are being cancelled daily. Housewives have loaded up on canned goods. The men of the city have accumulated hand grenades and pistols

Travel agencies said they are swamped with demands for steamer and airplane tickets.

Veteran Benefits May Be Increased

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House Veterans Committee was reported ready today to approve a general increase in veterans pensions and compensation.

The boost would run as high as 20 per cent, average more than 10 per cent, and add an estimated 290 million dollars to pension and compensation costs now running about $2,500,000.000 yearly.

Virtually all the 3,676,672 ex-servicemen and their dependents receiving monthly checks from the Veterans Administration (as of March 31) would share in the increase, committee sources said.

Rep. Edmund P. Radwan (R-NY), the bill's sponsor, and committee Chairman Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass) joined in a forethe House. So far in this Congress the veterans committee has been reported under pressure not to recommend any legislation calling for big new spending.

Some committee Democrats were reported suspicious of the pension bill. They wondered whether the plan might be to report it from the veterans committee and possibly pass it in the House — where members could go on record for it — and then let it die in the Senate.

Mrs. Rogers and Radwan denied any political motivation. They said the bill was designed to restore pensions and compensation to the "real value' they had in 1940. They said the increases were calculated to offset inflation since that date.

Hint U. S. Probing Arms Shipments to Guatemala Reds

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States has asked Sweden for information on the 4,900-ton Swedish freighter that delivered a cargo of arms to Guatemala, informed sources revealed today.

The request is considered a tip-off that the United States has launched a thorough investigation of how the arms were shipped from Russian-controlled Poland to Guatemala.

"The data could be used in any formal action against Guatemala that the American republics might take under the Rio Defense Treaty. American officials said the pact may be called into play by any one of the parties although the United States does not plan to take the initiative for fear of appearing to dictate to its neighbors.

Informants said Sweden has been asked to report on what it knows about the activities of the Swedish ship, Alhem. The request, it was learned, was made immediately after the State Department announced Monday night that the freighter was unloading "a large shipment of armament consigned to the Guatemalan government."

Georgia Seeking Way to Sidestep Segregation Rule

ATLANTA (UP)—Georgia today called a conference of top legal officers of 17 states to search for a legal way to sidestep a Supreme Court ban on segregated classrooms.

A conference of attorneys general of all states affected by the Supreme Court's ruling last Monday was set here for next Wednesday in a move by Gov. Herman Talmadge to muster united opposition.

A move began in Georgia at the same time to convene a special session of the state legislature to amend Georgia constitutional law to permit Talmadge to be elected for a second term.

This move, publicly endorsed at its beginning by at least six state representatives, was made on its face at least to prolong his leadership of the deep South's opposition to de-segregation.

Talmadge, reportedly willing to be "drafted' for another term if it can be legalized, declared that "so far as I am concerned Georgia is going to resist mixing the races in schools even if it is the sole state in the nation to do so."

While several state legislatures were on the verge of convening special sessions to seek legal ways of bypassing the Supreme Court, Louisiana's became the first to consider taking an official stand.

Shocked Officers Find Two Victims Of Crash Uninjured--But Naked

SANTA ANA, (OCNS) — California Highway Patrol officials are today getting over the shocked surprise that dumbfounded them in the wee hours of yesterday morning when they investigated a crash in the Santa Ana Canyon area. Officers report they found an automobile with four occupants had turned over three times on Highway 14, near Esperanza road. The crash was unusual but it was the occupants that startled them.

The driver and one other occupant were nude.

According to the official record which was made public today Highway Patrol officers found the Charles Wilks family unhurt after the crash. But the driver 29-year-old Charles Leffingwell Wilks and his 2 - year - old daughter Nora were naked. Mrs. Dorothy Wilks and their 4 - year - old son John were clothed, but police say the two adult members of the family were strongly intoxicated. They were so intoxicated, said the officers, that they couldn't remember where Mr. Wilk's clothes had been left.

"We didn't want to put them in jail,' said a highway patrol spokesman, "because of the children and the dog." The spokesman said the officers brought the family to the Orange headquarters of the patrol and attempted to find some clothes for the two nude Wilks'es. "Their car was demolished and we had to find some way of getting them to their Baldwin Park home."

The patrolmen began to cope with the problem when officers, who reported in to their headquarters, were confronted with two nude Wilkses — and hurried off to find suitable wraps before the feminine office staff arrived. Finally, the officers loaded the family and the dog into a patrol car and sped them off to Los Angeles.

"The dog wasn't housebroken, either," sighed the spokesman, "the whole episode created somewhat of a problem."

Claim Business Decline Halted

By DAYTON MOORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Government economists said today the latest federal reserve board report shows the business decline has been halted.

Construction work continued at a record high during the past six weeks, the board said. And the adjusted industrial production index did not decline for the first time since last July.

Government economists cited the report to support their contention that the business dip has hit bottom. But they do not expect any immediate upsurge to new peaks of prosperity.

They generally foresee business continuing at about the present levels until next fall. A definite upturn might start then they said.

Continued gains in privately financed construction accounted entirely for the value of contract awards increasing substantially in April. The number of private housing units started rose seasonally to 109,000, slightly more than a year ago.

The production index declined from 125 to 123. But this was normal for this time of the year and, after seasonal adjustments, the index figure still was 123 the same as in March.

The adjusted index has been sliding since last July when it hit the all-time high of 137 for the second time in three months. It was 136 in April, 1953.

However, the decline slowed down at the end of last year and since then has dropped only three points below December's 126.

The industrial production index measures the output of the nation's factories and mines with the 1947-49 average taken as a base figure of 100.

Solon Calls for 'Harmony' Talks To Unite Allies

By DONALD J. Gonzales
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich) called today for a "harmony' conference of the free world to heal the current split in the Allied front against Communism.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) at the same time warned Britain that it will be the "loser' if it refuses to join in the Southeast Asia defense alliance the United States is trying to create.

The two congressmen spoke out as President Eisenhower called conferences on the Indochina crisis with his National Security Council today and with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and New Zealand's external affairs minister, T. Clifton Webb, later today.

Eliminate Discord

Ferguson, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, urged a conference of Western powers so the Allies can "get together psychologically as well as militarily." He did not elaborate but he indicated such a parley might eliminate some of the divisions now plaguing the Allies at Geneva and in Southeast Asia.

Smith, who heads the Senate Far Eastern Affairs Subcommittee, said the United States must go ahead with the creation of the proposed alliance even if Britain doesnt join.

Smith said he believes Britain has made the "mistake" of dragging its feet because of domestic politics and eventually will join the alliance because of the vast interests it has at stake in the area.

Australia Holds Back

The President and Dulles attach high importance to New Zealand's reaction to the proposed Southeast Asian pact. They were said to believe its approval would be one of the most important boosts attainable at this time. Australia is expected to hold back on any firm commitments pending the outcome of its elections late this month.

Upon his arrival here Wednesday night, Webb said New Zealand is "anxious" to see the pact formed. But he said it would be "disappointing if the British did not decide to join. Webb expressed hope that some arrangement could be made "by which Britain would also be a member," if the pact is formed.

Thailand Princess Loves Life at Exclusive Missouri Girl's School

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UP)—A great granddaughter of the king of Siam who introduced the first English school teacher to his country a century ago is a college freshman herenow, right down to the saddle oxfords and bobbysox.

She wears a tiny locket on a chain around her neck with a tinted picture of King Mongkut, the progressive monarch whose life inspired the movie "Anna and the King of Siam" and the hit musical "The King and I".

Except for that bit of family history, Princess Payomsri Svasti, 22, carefully copies her freshman classmates at Stephens College in clothes, jewelry and even campus slang. Nobody calls her princess, at her request. She prefers "Lek," a family nickname.

Sophisticated Teens

The petite princess from Thailan as Siam is now known officially, is amazed at the sophistication of American teenagers, amused at the misconceptions of her new friends about life in Bangkok, and frankly unable to recall how many wives or how many children King Mongkut had.

"It is difficult to explain how I am related to the present king because there were so many children," she said apologetically. "The king who abdicated in 1935 was my uncle. That was the last under monarchy. Now we have king under constitution."

She had just come from swimming class when she was interviewed in the student lounge. Her saddle shoes looked suitably scuffed, though she bought them after she arrived last February. Her blue fleece sports coat, she said, came from Shanghai.

"I thought the girls would be more naive," she explained, pronouncing the last word carefully. "I brought only simple clothes. If I had known how sophisticated they are I could have brought more of my clothes. Most things I wear in Bangkok are suitable here."

She chose college here instead of England because she has only two years to be trained in a special field, the princess said.

Eldest Child

"I am the eldest of six children, and my father says each of us can have only two years abroad," she said. "In England I think I learn too slowly. So I came here. I think we need very good nursery schools in my country, so I decide to major in child study."

The gentle-mannered princess is amazed at the friendliness of the people who pass her on the streets.

"You walk by and say "Hi" without knowing each other," she said. "Sometimes you don't even care how they are and you say, 'How do you do and how are you?'"

Fireworks Stands on Ranch Lands Outlawed by County Supervisors

SANTA ANA—Curtailment of fireworks stands by Boy Scouts, veterans' other organizations in Orange County appeared certain today as the board of supervisors laid down a policy that there will be no stands in any but established business and industrial zones.

It means that Scouts and veterans who usually set up fireworks stands on ranch properties—where there is plenty of parking — can't operate this year unless they change their locations, County Counsel Joel Ogle said.

Supervisors said there will be "no variances" granted to circumvent their ruling.

Meanwhile the board decreed that the fireworks sales will be supervised as to fire safety, by the County Fire Department. Permits for stands are free, but a $25 bond or cash deposit is to be required for cleanup of premises. Property owners, however, will not be required to post such bonds.

First permit approved went to Lee C. McClelland, Olive druggist.

AEC to Receive Billion Dollar Plus Appropriation

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Atomic Energy Commission today was assured its biggest appropriation in history, more than one billion dollars.

The funds were contained in a six billion dollar money bill voted by the Senate yesterday to operate the AEC and more than two dozen other independent federal agencies in the new fiscal year starting July 1. The measure now goes to a House-Senate Conference Committee to thresh out differences with the House version.

Most of the $1,232,780,300 the Senate voted the AEC will go for its weapons program, including the testing of a wide variety of atomic and hydrogen bombs. This compared with $1,189,960,700 approved by the House, $1,342,000,000 requested by President Eisenhower and $1,087,781,000 provided for the current fiscal year.

The Senate vote on the independent offices appropriatin came just after the House had completed congressional action on the first regular appropriations bill of the session, a $3,332,732,700 measure to run the treasury and Post Office Departments next year.

Reds Attempt to Gain Huge Estate

NEW CITY N.Y., (UP) — Rockland County (population 89,276) stood up to Soviet Russia (population 193 millions) today in a matter of some $45,000.

"If this money were turned over to the Russian authorities it would be used to kill our boys and innocent people in Southeast Asia,' said County Treasurer S. J. Ciancimino. "I will fight this to the last ditch."

The money in question is the estate of a Russian immigrant, Jacob Monich, who died at the age of 72 last September after 40 years in this country. Monich lived frugally and to himself. He had never followed up on an application for citizenship filed 20 years ago. Ciancimino discovered his only heirs were sisters and other relatives still living in Russia.

He's willing to give the money to them, but not to their government.

Ciancimino said he was trying to get in touch with the heirs through the U.S. Embassy in Moscow.

Earlier this week the Soviet Embassy in Washington sent a local lawyer into Surrogate's Court to demand an accounting of the state and the names of the heirs.

"I will never give them this information," Ciancimino said, "because I feel they would take the money for the state and some harm might come to the rightful heirs.'

The court ordered both sides to file briefs.

Anthony Eden Calls Meet With Russ And Chinese to Bring Indo-Truce

GENEVA (UP) — British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden sought to meet today with Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Red China's Chou En-Lai in an effort to learn whether they sincerely want to negotiate an end to the Indochina War.

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, whose country has lost tens of thousands of its soldiers on the Indochina battlefields strongly supported Eden's move.

The United States was lukewarm to the idea but Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith went along with Eden on the understanding there would be no compromise on fundamental principles.

Conference Recess

Eden, a prime mover of the West's strategy at the Geneva Conference, made talks with Molotov and Chou possible by arranging a "day of grace for private contacts."

In doing so, Eden caused a 24-hour recess in the secret "restricted talks" on Indochina that started Monday and produced nothing tangible but hard bargaining.

Red Harrangue

The United States, France and Britain were dismayed at the Communists' Geneva delegates' return to propaganda speeches yesterday. The conference had been put on a "restricted basis Monday with hopes that Communist delegates would stop hunting headlines.

But Pham Van Dong, "acting foreign minister" of the phantom Communist Vietminh "government" in Indo-China, ended the businesslike handling of the restricted talks by rebashing mother-eaten Communist arguments and charges in a harangue that lasted one hour and forty minutes.

College Paper Charges Sell-Out to Politics

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UP) A University of Virginia official said today a newly publicized campus sex scandal is being investigated. He refused to comment on a student newspaper charge about an approaching "sell out" to "political pressure."

Colgate W. Darden Jr., university president, said the reported incident involving 11 students and a teen-age girl "is now in the hands of the board of visitors." The board is the university's highest disciplinary and policy-making body

Darden said he did not feel he "is at liberty" to comment on charges published by the campus newspaper, The Cavalier Daily, that "political pressure" has been brought upon university officials to prevent the dismissal of the 11 male students.

The editorial was itself the first published mention of the affair and gave no details, but widespread reports said a young woman who came here to attend a university dance in April went to a men's dormitory where the incident occurred.

Anaheim Men Nabbed By Fullerton Police

FULLERTON (OCNS) — Two Anaheim brothers were arrested here last night, one under the ABC Beverage Act and the other for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Rudy G. Delgado and his brother, Albert, both of 217 La Palma Street Anaheim, were arrested last night in a cafe on South Spadra Road by Stg. Vern Stock.

According to police, Rudy Delgado, 19, was drinking beer in the cafe when police officers arrived. The bartender told police the drinks were ordered by Albert Delgado, 27.

Irish May Defeat Eamon De Valera

DUBLIN, Ireland (UP)—Mounting returns from Ireland's general election indicated certain defeat today for the government of Brooklyn-born Prime Minister Eamon De Valera.

Latest figures from the country's complicated balloting system showed De Valera's Fianna Fail Party had won 57 of the 146 seats in the House compared with the combined opposition total of 67.

De Valera picked up support from only one of the three independents who had backed his policies in the previous Dail (parliament).

The combined opposition headed by former Premier John Costello's Fine Gael (United Party) were running as much as 25 per cent ahead of their vote in th last election and seemed certain to sweep into power.

Costello's party won 43 seats, the Labor Party took 14, the Farmers Party, 17, the Independents 5, and the Republicans, 3, with almost two-thirds of the returns counted.

Though 33 more constituencies had yet to declare their results, veteran political experts already talked about the "end of an era," the end of a 25-year reign of power for the half-blind "Dev."

Most observers believed the 71-year-old De Valera will not run for office again. He has governed since 1951, when he regained power from Costello, with a slender two-vote majority given by two independents who supported his government.

De Valera himself was re-elected for the 17th time in his County Clare constituency, but polled 1,171 less votes than in 1951, whereas Costello was reelected with a thumping increase.

Two Admit Charges of Drunk Driving; Fined

Two persons, admitting guilty charges of drunk driving before Municipal Judge Ronald L. Tiday today, were fined 150 or 30 days in the county jail in addition to suspension of driving privileges, court attaches announced.

Loretta May Dawson, 43-year-old Los Angeles housewife nabbed by Buena Park officers May 1 paid the $150 fine imposed by the court and received a suspension of license for 90 days.

Jailed in lieu of the $150 fine was Oliver Raymond Jenkins, 43, Artesia, also arrested by Buena Park public safety officers yesterday. He was given a provisional suspension of driving privileges, which allow him to use his car during the 90-day period for purposes of transportation to work.

Two Delco Employes Win Promotions

Two employes of Delco Battery Operations were recently assigned new responsibilities by R. A. Daily, resident manager.

John A. Wallace has been assigned the position of foreman in the inspection department. His former position of foreman in the receiving and shipping department has been filled by the promotion of James C. Rinker who was previously assigned to material handling. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace reside at 1461 Wedgewood Drive, Anaheim, and Mr. and Mrs. Rinker reside at 225 N. Vine Street, Anaheim.

Daily stated that these announcements come on the eve of the completion of the installation of the equipment and production facilities.

Idaho River Rises As Bonners Ferry Residents Flee

BONNERS FERRY, Ida. (UP)— Amphibious trucks rumbled into this town of 1800 persons today and residents pulled out as the Kootenai River rose past the flood stage.

Water was seeping through dikes guarding the town despite mountains of sandbags and a spokesman for the Army Engineers predicted, "those dikes will never hold."

The river rose to 33.3 feet. Idaho State engineer Mark Kulp said the dikes protecting the town could withstand a 34-foot level for only a short time. Official flood level is 31 feet.

Predict 34-foot eyel

The Weather Bureau predicted the 34-foot level would be reached today with still higher water to come.

Several hundred acres of farm land south of Bonners Ferry was already inundated and 40,000 acres of rich farm land was threatened should the dikes break.

Schools in the town were closed and the Great Northern Railway had discontinued running trains through Bonners Ferry until the water recedes.

Store owners in an eight-block downtown area moved their stocks to higher ground and some closed their doors.

The owner of the Bonners Ferry theater posted a notice on the marquee reading "Doggone you, Kootenai, stay in your own bed," then removed the theater seats and closed up shop.

A record snow pack in the mountains wilting under soaring temperatures was responsible for the Kootenai rampage and other swollen streams and rivers in the Pacific Northwest.

At Lewiston, Ida., the Snake River below its confluence with the Clearwater River was still further upstream the Clearwater had inundated farm land near Kamiah, Ida. No damage was reported. Orofino Ida., was threatened but water had not yet reached flood stage there.

Merchandising Groups Endorse Sen. Kuchel

Five state-wide organizations have today added their memberships to the mounting list of groups which have endorsed the candidacy of U. S. Senator Thomas H. Kuchel on both the Republican and Democratic ticket at the June 8 primary election.

W. D. Hadeler, executive secretary of the California Grocers Association, informed Senator Kuchel that besides his organization the groups which have endorsed his candidacy are the California Federated Institute, California Retail Hardware Association, Retail Tobacco Dealers Association and the Automotive Maintenance and Garage Association.

East Garden Grove Area Residents May Give Up Fight on Rezoning

GARDEN GROVE — Residents of the east Garden Grove area were undecided, today, whether to reopen their fight to rezone all the boulevard from Ninth St. to Haster St., and rezone Harbor Blvd. from Trask Ave. to Lampson Rd.

They had but a compromise from the board of supervisors, which rejected the Orange County Planning Commission recommendndations as well as those advanced by property owners.

Supervisors agreed to rezone only Garden Grove Blvd. on both sides, rejecting the Harbor Blvd. proposals.

Their order applies to the boulevard excepting at places where there has been residential or multiple - family developments.

Supervisors required a 220-foot setback to provide for the eventual widening of the boulevard, but there was no discussion as to when any road work would be undertaken. It has been talked of for a long time, but there is no concrete plan of action to push it through.

As to rezoning of Harbor Blvd., the supervisors asked for a "precise plan" before the county's planning commission before any decision is made.

Property owners on the east side of Garden Grove reportedly will prepare the precise plan soon for presentation to the commission.

When the rezoning proposal was before the commission, the planners approved business only for the Garden grove - Harbor Blvd. intersection.

North County Voters Face Financial Issues

FULLERTON (OCNS) — When Northern Orange county voters go to the polls in school district elections tomorrow, they will pass on several financing issues.

In Fullerton, voters will approve or reject a $750000 bond issue for construction of new elementary school facilities.

LaHabra voters will pass on a proposed tax increase of 50 cents per $100 assessed valuation for a school expansion program.

Voters at Brea will be asked to vote on a $750,000 bond issue to finance a five to seven - year increase program. The money is earmarked for additions to the grammar school and for the construction of a new elementary school.

In Buena Park, voters can take their choice on the question of increasing the board from three members to five.

A bond issue of $85000 is proposed to voters of thhe Yorba Linda elementary district.

Rails Advance On Stock Market

NEW YORK (UP) — Rail and oil stocks featured a renewed advance on the stock market today.

Rails, with gains of a point or so in issues such as Santa Fe Baltimore & Ohio, Rock Island, Illinois Central, Union Pacific, New Haven, and New York Central, climbed to their best average levels since March 27, 1953.

Industrials, which underwent a brief, sharp reversal just before the close yesterday recovered most of their losses with leading stocks up fractionally and special issues a point or two higher.

Oils were strong spots, with gains ranging to more than two points in Kern County Land and seaboard oil.

Chrysler sparked initial dealings with a gain of a point in active trading, and held most of the rise. New York Central, however, was the active leader. Interest in the stock was renewed as proxies for 800,000 shares of disputed Central stock were turned over to purchasers Clint W. Murchison and Sid W. Richardson, backers of Robert R. Young in the fight for control of the Central by Chase National Bank, under a court order.

The music department of the First Methodist church of Santa Ana will present the "Requiem" by Johannes Brahms Sunday, May 23 at 7:30 p.m. Brahms' most important choral work and the most widely known composition of the mass type since Beethoven will be sung in English by the Sanctuary choir with a complete symphony orchestra playing the difficult and musically satisfying score under the able direction of the churches minister of music, David Young. Slate Comedy 'On Borrowed Time' at Coast College

The three - act comedy "On Borrowed Time" by Paul Osborn will be presented at Orange Coast college May 26 - 29, it was announced, today.

First presented in New York in 1938, the play has since been revived and filmed successfully. It tells the story of the affection that has developed between an older man, Gramps, and his grandson, Pud. During the course of the play an attempt is made to gain control of the boy by Aunt Demetria who is, according to Gramps, "an old plasmire."

Cast members are Ellen Reichert as the shrewish Aunt Demetria, Gene Benedict as Gramps, Ray Middaugh as Mr. Brink, and Barbara Pletts as Granny. Others are Mary Hammond as Marcie, Jerry Evans as Dr. Evans, Jack Starr as lawyer Pilbeam, Bill Skiles as Mr. Grimes, the somewhat demented asylum keeper, and Bing Starr as the sheriff.

David Grant will play the role of Pud. The production is being directed by Robert Kest, college drama director, and will be staged in the chapel. Reservations should be made at the college business offices for all performances, according to Kest. General admission is 75 cents.

Charles Lawrence Is Student Director of Blue and Gold Show

Colorful costumes, gay tunes, and intricate dances will enliven "Fiesta", the 1954 Blue and Gold show produced by Fullerton Junior college students and to be presented for the public Thursday evening, May 20, at 8 p.m. in the FUHS auditorium.

Recreating the gala mood of a music fiesta in Rio de Janeiro, the annual all - student variety show will be presented Friday morning to FJC students. It is a yearly highlight of festivities marking Blue and Gold Day on campus in honor of the college's traditions.

Student director of the show is Churck Lawrence of Anaheim, who also prepared the script. Student music director and band conductor is John Wimber of Anaheim, who arranged a number of the musical selections and wrote two tunes of his own for the show. Mrs. Esther Hatch is general faculty adviser of the show; other advisers are Kenneth Helvey, Denver Garner and Alex Omalev.

Opening the show, "Flying Down to Rio" is one of the show's highlights, featuring the Singing Hornets and the Women's Ensemble (men's and women's octettes) and the band.

Members of the modern dance class will furnish dance numbers for the show. Featured are Virginia Ellis, Janet Kerridge, Mary Schlagenhauff, Betty Zincke of Fullerton and Tamara Tutschulte of Anaheim.

Included in the cast, in addition to those already mentioned, will be Andy Clay, Marion Caracausa Pat Wichkam, Red Gianelli all of Anaheim and other talented students on the FJC campus.

John Wimber and Dave Brokenhagen, both of Anaheim will be in the instrumental music aggregation.

'Tops of Pops' Student Mardi Gras to Be Staged Tonight, Saturday, King, Queen Coronation Slated

"Tops of Pops" the makes its debu at the Anaheim High school auditorium Friday night and Saturday nights with the Anaheim High school students, authors and directors, working under the supervision of Sheldon Disrud, head of vocal studies in the music department. Announced will be John Brooks. The entire program is on the scale of a television broadcast, with songs from the 1900s to the present moder nera to be presented.

Highlight of the Friday evening performance will be the crowning of the King and Queen of this modern stage Mardi Gras.

Performing will be members of the Girls Glee clubs, Boys Glee club, A Cappella choir, Mozart choir, special band group.

First era on the evenings' spectacular presentation, which is credited as moving and entertaining from "To the 'Nth Degree" will be such songs as "Casey" and "In the Good Old Summertime" along with favorite waltzes that have lived through the ages.

Second era will transport the audience into the Army camps during World War I when the men, then as now, had one thought, "home." Songs will include "Paper Doll," "My Buddy," "Somebody Stole My Gal," and others of equal melody and interest.

Flapper Period

The "flapper" era comes next with the songs taking back many memories to such songs as "Ain't She Sweet," "Mountain Greenery," "Yes Sir, That's My Baby," and the Charleston dance which today is again gaining momentum but on a 1954 basis.

Second World War, when the majority of the girls were still left to take care of the homefront, will be another period to be staged in song and action. The melodies will include "Dream," "In the Mood", "Old Black Magic", "You'll Never Walk Alone" and the dance, New Yorker.

The King and Queen of this stage "Mardi Gras" event will be crowned at this climatical period in the program Friday night, the identification held secret until the evening performance. Typical of New Orleans setting, authentic costuming will be much in evidence.

Songs to be presented will be "Louisiana Hayride," "Shrimp Boats," "Way Down Yonder in New Orleans," and others. Finale dips into the future with the song, "Beyond the Blue Horizon" appropriately selected for interpretation.

The show tickets will be available at the office both evenings with students and the school office handling the "ducats" reasonably priced before concert time.

Hospital Supervising Nurse Is Home From National Convention of ANA at Chicago

Miss Alice Coppess, R.N., supervising nurse instructor at Orange County General hospital, who represented the local District Nurses' Association at the American Nurses' Association 1954 Convention in Chicago has just returned.

She states the 1954 convention was the largest in ANA history, with more than 9,000 professional nurses registered. It was one of the most significant from a standpoint of progressive action and planning for the future, Miss Coppess said.

This was made plain to all when Mrs. Elizabeth K. Porter, retiring president of the ANA, in her annual report, told the convention: "High standards of professional practice, such as have already been achieved, must be extended and assured of increasing development in the years to come."

In the continuing campaign to provide better patient care for the public, the assembled delegates approved establishment of a research foundation to finance further studies for improving nursing service; voted to establish demonstration projects to give assistance to state nurses' associations in the development of their economic security programs; approved a program to train leaders to aid State Nurses' Associations in forwarding their economic security programs; urged better licensing laws covering all types of practitioners of nursing; and considered the role of nursing in the care of the aged.

Nine California nurses were chosen for national offices.

Miss Shirley C. Titus, executive director of the California State Nurses' Association, was elected as a result of their re-election as chairmen of three of ANA's seven occupational nurse sections. In Southern California, they are Mrs. Mina Kenworthy, Downey, general duty section; and Evelyn M. Hamlin, La Honda, institutional nursing service administration section.

Sacramento Boots Hollywood Out Of First Place in Coast League

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The Sacramento Solons booted the ball all over the diamond and the Hollywood Stars out of first place in the Pacific Coast League last night.

The Solons batters and fielders accounted for 11 runs, seven for themselves and four for the Stars, to give Marino Pieretti a 7-4 victory for his seventh of the year—a win that leap-frogged the Sacs into first place.

Pieretti was outstanding in all departments, pitching, hitting and booting the ball. He allowed the hard-slugging Stars only two singles, doubled home three runs in the big Sac inning and contributed two of the six Sacramento errors that gave Hollywood four unearned runs.

There were changes further down the PCL leader, too. Oakland went 13 frames to score a 2-1 win over San Diego and pass Seattle's Rainiers who were blanked 4-0 by Los Angeles. Portland kept pace with the Angels by stopping San Francisco's six-game winning streak with a 5-4 decision.

Pieretti, whose 7-1 record is one of the big surprises of the astounding Sacs, allowed only a bunt single by Dick Smith in the sixth and a line single to left in the seventh by Dale Long. However his two errors afield helped nullify his fine pitching until the eighth.

In that frame Pieretti doubled with the bases loaded to drive in three of the four runs as the Solons finally took a lead for the first time in the contest.

Hollywood also committed three errors during the sloppy game.

Art Cuitti's single following Sam Chapman's leadoff double in the 13th gave the Oaks their victory over the Padres. Chapman had driven in the run in the bottom of the ninth that balanced Dick Sisler's sixth inning home run and prolonged the game.

Art Schallock, down from the New York Yankees, was the winner in relief.

The Angels got only three hits off Tommy Byrne of Seattle, but two of them were homers, a two-run blow by Max West and a solo clout by Dave Cunningham.

Combined with the eight-hit shutout pitching of lefty Joe Hatten, it was enough to move the Rainiers out of the first division.

Glenn Elliott took the win as the Portland Beavers at least postponed the hopes of the San Francisco Seals for getting out of the loop cellar. Adrian Zabala, pitching in relief of Ken Holcombe, was charged with the loss. The Seals outhit Portland 10-6 but also outerrored them 2-1.

Field of 11 Possible for Saturday's Preakness

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP) — With the favored Correlation, Hasty Road, Admiral Porter and Jet Free already entered, a field of as many as 11 starters appeared possible today for Saturday's $100,000 Preakness at Pimlico.

There was some doubt about whether Hasty Road, the probable second choice in the mile-and-three-sixteenths classic, would run, even though officially entered Wednesday. Harry Trotek, trainer of the Hasty House farm colt, said Wednesday just before leaving for Chicago, that Hasty Road might be scratched.

Trotek said that Hasty Road did not like the Pimlico track and owner Allie Reuben might wish him withdrawn.

Nation's Crack Teams Practice for Tomorrow's Coliseum Relays

LOS ANGELES (UP) — The nation's crack relay teams got in their last practice licks today for the 14th running of the Coliseum Relays tomorrow night.

The relays plus a big list of special events are expected to attract close to 50,000 fans who hope to see a few world records either broken or tied.

The classic mile relay will provide some of the toughest competition with seven teams entered. Hot footing it for honors in this event will be Illinois Morgan State, Southern Methodist Abilene Christian, Southern California, Occidental and Fresno State. Best time in the event this year was clocked by Morgan State, a 3:11.3, compared to the record 3:10.1.

The sprint relays and the two mile may draw some more top attention. USC and Texas will be shooting to beat the Trojan's own marks set in the 440 and 880—40.5 and 1:24.0, respectively. Texas has been whacking away at the marks for years and may have its best chance tomorrow night. The Longhorns hit 40.3 in the Kansas Relays but the mark was not accepted because of wind on the long straightaway of the track. Texas also clipped off a 1:24.8 in the 880 relay just .8 off the record.

In the field events, the high jump and discus shape up as two bell ringers. USC's Ernie Shelton, who hopes to make the world's first 7 ft. leap, will be pressed by Chuck Holding of East Texas State. Holding, in fact, has a better mark than Shelton, having cleared the bar at 6-10 a quarter inch edge on the Californian's top jump this season. Shelton hit 7 ft. in a practice session but flicked the bar with the tip of his toe going down.

The big boys, Parry O'Brien, Fortune Gordien, Leon Patterson, Des Koch and Ron Drummond will be the featured attractions in the discus with Gordien given the edge.

Gordien, of the Los Angeles Athletic Club had a top qualifying toss of 175 feet, 8½ inches yesterday.

Koch placed second with 163 feet, 8 inches, closely followed by OBrien with 163 feet, 6 inches. The marks will count toward final results if they are not bettered.

TABLE TREATS
FROM THE FAMOUS M.C.P. KITCHEN LABORATORY
COPR. 1953 MUTUAL CITRUS PRODUCTS, CO. ANAHEIM, CALIF.

THE BEST JAMS OF ALL ARE NOW MADE WITHOUT COOKING OR BOILING!

WHY IS THIS SO? Because it's the cooking and boiling that causes loss of fresh fruit flavor. M.C.P. PECTIN'S original, exclusive uncooked jam recipes (introduced a year ago) do away with this . . . make jams with 100% fresh fruit flavor; use less fruit and sugar, yet get more jam (for nothing is cooked away). And imagine — no working over a hot stove! Make your FRESH BERRY JAMS the M.C.P. uncooked way . . . and see the difference!

HERE'S THE RECIPE*

1. Wash, stem, crush thoroughly enough berries to make 4 level cups; put in 2 or 4 qt. kettle. Sift in slowly 3½-oz. package M.C.P. JAM AND JELLY PECTIN (no other will do), stirring vigorously. Set aside 30 minutes, stirring occasionally to dissolve pectin fully.
2. Add 1 cup light corn syrup. Mix well.
3. Measure exactly 5½ level cups beet or cane sugar into dry dish; gradually stir into crushed berries. Warming to 100°F. (temperature for baby's milk) will hasten sugar dissolving. No hotter, please!
4. When sugar is dissolved, jam is ready to eat. Makes 6 full pints. (Note: For Strawberries, add ¼ cup lemon juice in Step 3, after sugar is dissolved; mix well.)
5. Because these are uncooked jams, never store them on pantry shelf. They won't keep without refrigeration. To keep for a month or more, chill for 24 hours in freezer, or freezing or ice cube compartment of refrigerator. Then, store as you do milk and use as desired.

IMPORTANT! Complete recipes for both cooked and uncooked jams are now being packed in the M.C.P. PECTIN package. If recipe folder you get does NOT include the uncooked jams, write M.C.P. Co., Anaheim, Calif., and they'll be sent promptly.

WHY NOT GIVE THE YOUNGSTERS A TREAT THAT'S GOOD FOR THEM?

PURE LEMONADE! . . . Everyone likes it, and it's so wholesome, too; not like so many beverages that taste good but aren't really so good for us. However, lemonade made with M.C.P. CANNED LEMON JUICE is pure . . . for M.C.P. LEMON JUICE is pure, unadulterated, full-strength, rich in Vitamin C. It's NOT "reconstituted" juice . . . contains no preservatives of any kind, such as unwholesome sulphur dioxide or benzoate of soda. (Watch out for this in buying lemon juice, canned or bottled — read the label carefully.) M.C.P. LEMON JUICE costs less than home-squeezed . . . is ready for instant use for every household need. Write for a FREE Recipe Folder to the M.C.P. Kitchen Laboratory, Anaheim, California. (There's M.C.P. FROZEN LEMON JUICE, too. If your grocer doesn't stock it, he can get it for you.)

Cleveland Threatened by Yankee Steamroller

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

Belatedly, but with the same old devastating force, the Yankee steamroller is in high gear again, leaving the fans in town after town with their hopes crushed and a feeling that it will be the same old kind of a monotonous pennant race in the American League.

It is an old familiar pattern. Enthusiasm ran high in Cleveland, Detroit, and Chicago as those teams started out brilliantly and dominated the early phase of the race. The Yankees faltered. They couldn't even win at home. Then they launched a Western trip in Cleveland and the Indians took the first game.

Boom. The Yankees rebounded to take the next two. On they moved to Detroit where the Tigers were in first place, a completely rejuvenated team from the second division laggards of the last two seasons. The old crusher rolled into action and the Tigers were tamed three in a row. In Baltimore, where the fans are still a little awed just to have a big league team, they were satisfied for a double header split with the Yankees, but at Chicago, last stop on the first Western tour the fans hoped for a "kill."

Chicago Fans Suffer

The Chicago fans sufferd most of all because the White Sox had two games all but won, yet lost both in the final innings as the Yankees ended their trip with 8 wins in 10 games, just a length behind first place Cleveland. The Indians are on top only because of a seven game winning streak that started — significantly — the day after the Yankees left town.

An error by shortstop Al Carrasquel led to two unearned runs in the eighth Wednesday as the Yankees tied the score at 2-all, then they won it 3-2 in the ninth when Gil McDougald was hit by a Billy Pierce pitch, took third on Andy Carey's single and scored on a force out as reliever Bob Grim gained his second victory.

Cleveland also scored two unearned runs in the eighth to defeat the Red Sox 53, while Detroit beat the Athletics 4-3 on Al Kaline's bases-loaded single in the ninth, and Baltimore topped Washington 5-3 on an eight-hitter by comebacker Joe Coleman, who won his third in a row and fourth of the season.

Cards In First

In the National, the Cards took over first place with a five-hit, 3-0 victory by Vic Raschi over the Giants, his fifth in a row and his first shutout. The Braves defeated the Phillies 6-2 on Warren Spahn's seven-hitter; the Cubs set back the slumping Dodgers on four hits, 9-3, with a fantastic nine run inning in which they made only three hits; and Pittsburgh edged Cincinnati 3-2 on Max Surkont's eighthitter for his third win.

Two errors by shortstop Milt Bolling paved the way for Cleveland's winning inning as Bob Lemon pitched his sixth victory, a four-hitter, and Al Rosen hit his sixth homer in five games for a league pacing total of nine.

Baltimore made six straight singles good for four runs in the sixth to wind up its home stand with seven victories and three defeats. All of the hits—by Dick Kryhoski, Sam Mele, Bob Kennedy, Vern Stephens, Clint Courtney, and Billy Hunter—came with two out. Roy Sievers homered for Washington.

Ray Boone, who walked and took third when catcher Wilmer Shantz erred on Walt Dropo's attempted sacrifice, scored Detroit's winning run on Kaline's hit. Boone and rookie Bill Tuttle made three hits each for the Tigers. Don Bollweg hit a homer for the slumping A's.

Red Schoendienst and Rip Repulski hit Cardinal homers and Raschi himself drove in the other run with a single in beating his opponent, Sal Maglie.

Dodgers Fal Apart

Dee Fondy's three-run homer was the big blow as the Dodgers fell apart and, riot only committed three errors, but yielded four walks and a wild pitch. Billy Cox hit a Dodger homer. Bob Rush, yielding three of Brooklyn's four hits, gained his third victory.

Ed Mathews hit his seventh homer and added a double to pace Spahn to his fourth victory at Philadelphia.

Dick Hall hit a two-run single in the fifth to tie the score at 2-2 for the Pirates then Surkont squeeze-bunted home the winning run. Singles by Sid Gordon and Toby Atwell and a hit batsman had loaded the bases.

Wednesday's Star: Vic Raschi of the Cardinals who pitched them into first place with his first National League shutout and his fifth straight victory a 3-0 five hitter over the Giants.

Anaheim Golfers Hold Field Day At Meadowlark

Anaheim's Golf Association was slated to wind up its annual elimination tournament today when members hosted the La Habra Par Boilers for the territorial championship at Meadowlark.

The AGA hoped to avenge a defeat suffered last year.

The windup of the tourney, which began last week, was to feature the playoff between Bill Payne, winner of the second flight and Dick Gay, winner of the first flight in which he defeated Dick Glover, 2 and 1 over the weekend.

Tee-time today was noon and dinner is slated for 6:30 tonight.

The Payne-Gay playoff was to feature the play today which includes the Blind Bogey, low gross and low net. The low net will win the Troutman and Scholz Perpetual trophy. The trophy and other merchandise prizes will be awarded at the dinner.

Colonist Netters Edge by Fullerton

By FRED FISCHLE JR.

The Anaheim Colonist Net team gained undisputed second place in the Sunset League Tuesday. The Anaheim Netters edged Fullerton by a 5-4 score on the loser's courts. Anaheim started slowly being behind 3-1 early in the match.

Merle Meyer was the only early Anaheim win. Then Mike Bouck, playing first singles, won his match easily to pull Anaheim within one point of the Indians. Steve Morris played a hard fought three set match only to come out on the short end. While all this was happening, second doubles, Don Lee and Gary Bonner, were wearing down their opponents. Lee and Bonner won the three set match to tie the score at four a piece. This left the heavy burden on Barry Ryan. With both teams gathered around the court, Barry came through with an easy victory in the third set to give Anaheim the match. The Colonist Jayvees were beaten 7-2.

Hornet Tabbed All-American in Four Positions

FULLERTON, (OCNS) — For the second time in Junior College history, an individual has reaped the fruitful awards of being selected an All - American in four different positions.

In the recently announced 1954 All - America Junior College swimming team, Fullertons Jim Stevenson grabbed four first string positions, equaling a feat turned in by Roy Brown of Fullerton three years ago.

Stevenson was rated first in the nation in the three short events 50, 100 and 220 - yard freestyle as well as the 150 - yard individual medley.

The only other Hornet to gain a first place rating was Jerry La Bonte in the 200 - yard breast stroke. He had the fastest time in the nation with an effort of 2:31.2s

The other Eastern Conference swimmer to rate a first team position was Orange Coasts Buddy Belshe. He topped the list in the long 1500 - meter free style as well as in the quartermile.

Fullerton's Bob Foley and Ernie Contreras were both on the team. There was no differentiation between first and second team divers. They were listed alphabetically.

There were only two other states represented on the All - American selections. Swimmers from Michigan and Illinois were able to crack the tough California - dominated team.

Annual selections are made on the basis of time recorded in competitive junior college meets held throughout the year. As usual, and normal, Fullerton dominates the selections, thanks to Coach Jimmy Smith. Compton's Ed Holston made this year's selections.

Anaheim Courtmen Clean Up on Oilers

By FRED FISCHLE JR.

The Anaheim Colonist courtmen racked up their fourth straight win as they defeated the Huntington Beach Oilers, 7-2. Yesterday's match was a make-up of the first Sunset League match, which was rained out. For the Colonist it was a fairly easy match. Mike Bouck, Varsity Captain Barry Ryan, and Steve Morris, playing first, second and third singles respectively, and second doubles, Don Lee and Gary Bonner, gave their opponents only seven games, while the Colonist were collecting 48 games of their own. Merle Meyer and Jay Lillywhite also won, but it took a bit longer. The Colonist Junior Varsity white-washed the Oilers 9-0. Warren Ashworth won the only three set match of the day.

Anaheim Merchants Warned to Watch For Much-Wanted 29-Dollar Forger

Have you seen the 29- dollar man?

Your assistance has been solicited by Police Chief Mark Stephenson and police investigators thruout California in identifying and apprehending this unknown man.

He has been cashing fictitious checks not only in Orange county but in entire state of California and Eastern States since June 1947.

He has recently passed checks in Anaheim, Newport Beach and Garden Grove—in the past month—according to the sheriff's office.

Law enforcement agencies have used every means to take this man out of circulation—with negative results.

Now you, the merchants and potential victims are the last hope in trapping this elusive criminal who has defrauded the Orange County merchants of thousands of dollars.

You may be next—watch for this man. He is back again.

Here is his description:—round face, very prominent, pleasant acting, hairy chested American male 40 to 45 years 180 to 200 lbs. dark hair five nine inches to six feet tall, muscular build—not fat—so ordinary his victims seldom can describe him.

He passed more than 450 checks between June, 1947, and May, 1952, and countless others to this date using approximately 336 aliases. He has been known to strike any month of the year, any day of the week and almost any hour of the day. His favorite time is at the peak hour of business.

He particularly like ladies ready-to-wear—children's dress shops—small groceries, feed stores, garden supply centers, paint stores, hardware, gift shops, nurseries.

He has not been known to hit large chain markets.

He never has any identification with him, using the excuse his other clothing is home.

He represents himself as a carpenter, painter, roofer, cement worker, gardner, doing work for the party whose name is forged as the maker of the check. This is usually the name of a doctor, a contractor, real estate man or any well known business or professional man in the area where the check is to be cashed.

He makes it a point to learn something of current interest about the person whose name he uses as maker of the checks.

He has been consistant in the use of doctors' names. Under the heading of doctors, let us remember — osteopaths, chiropractors.

Although he started "business" at $20, he has pushed up to the $80 and $120 category with variations.

His handwriting is sometimes disguised, but carries some of the main characteristics:

Numbered over 100, but less than 500, a long comma after the day of the month, any two names as payee, never a middle name or initial. The amount is always for even dollars, followed by a period. And the symbol 00 00 or 00 100. The written amount is always followed by a long snakey or wavy line extending to the end of the space. He has never been known to use the symbol 00.000 on this line.

His method is always the same—does not retain in a locality for but a short time.

Authorities say the subject will run like a deer if he realizes he is under suspicion.

They say make every effort to hold him—he is the subject of warrants all over California and in many Eastern states.

Motels—hotels—auto courts to be alerted.

Say the law enforcement agencies:

"Let's take this man out of circulation."

Draft Quota to Be Raised in July

WASHINGTON (UP) —The Defense Department announced today that the Army will draft 23,000 men in July, a boost of 5000 over the recent monthly calls.

The increase has no connection with the Indochina crisis, it was said.

The Army has been drafting 18,000 men a month since last February. The increase scheduled for July will bring the figure back to the monthly rate which prevailed for several months through last January.

Higher calls will be necessary beginning in July, start of fiscal 1955, because of the two-year up-and-down cycle fixed by two-year draft terms. Large numbers of men were drafted when the Korean War started in June, 1950. On alternate years since then, the Army has had to have higher draft calls to replace men released from service.

As a result, defense officials said, the higher draft calls starting July 1, are necessary despite the fact that the number of men in the Army is still being reduced under the administrations "new look strategy."

Army strength, about 1,500,000 men at the start of the year, is scheduled to be down to 1,423,000 by the end of next month and eventually will be reduced to about one million men under present plans.

Today's Lingo Baffles Scribe

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UP) — Same scene: Ten years later.

A long-legged blonde lounges in the house mother's easy chair. She looks disconsolate as girls come down the winding stairs in the adjoining hall to meet their dates.

"I was shafted," she says and sighs deeply.

"You were what?"

"I got the shaft," she says patiently starting at a streak in the sorority house wallpaper where the upstairs shower had overflowed, as it does every year.

It's happened. You've come back to visit a familiar place after what seems only a few years. You feel the same. The girls you see look like other University of Missouri coeds you used to know living in the same rooms.

But you no longer speak the language. You swallow your pride.

"Would you spell that, please?"

The blonde looks up, bored. "S-H-A-F-T," she says. "Why?"

"Does that mean..." you begin, and then the housemother comes to your rescue.

Jilted

"That's what the girls say now when they've been jilted," she explains sympathetically. "It really is a rather new expression."

"So what else is new?" you ask casually, trying to slip into some kind of slang.

"There's nothing new around this dumb place," the blonde says, "not even the boys. There must be more good looking men around SOME place than they have on this campus."

Just then a brunette wearing a short white organdy formal and bright green satin pumps comes and stands in the doorway, waiting graciously to be admired.

"Your petticoat," she says, and lifts the edge of her skirt to count them off. She looks at the blonde in her snug shorts and loose T-shirt and smiles kindly.

Her date steps up behind her, looking scrubbed and too young in his white summer tux jacket, and shows only mild interest at the petticoat count.

"It's all right," the girl says ignoring the boy and addressing the visitor with wilting respect. "We're pinned."

The shafted blonde stood up. She was well stacked, as they used to say in the olden days of the early 1940s.

"Nice to have met you," she said politely. "I think I'll go watch television. I guess you didn't ..."

No, we didn't have a television set when I was in school. Wanna make something of it?

Rhee Needs Two-Thirds Majority in Today's Vote

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

President Syngman Rhee of the Republic of Korea is not quite sure how old he is, but he always is sure what he wants.

In today's election for 203 members of the South Korean General Assembly Rhee wants a two-thirds majority.

American political experts predict that he will fail. They say he may not even get a majority.

But even if he does fail, it will not be for want of trying. And in any event, Rhee will remain Korea's head man. His four-year term as president still has two years to run, and he rules with an iron hand.

Rhee's political opponents charge that Rhee's Liberal Party used terroristic tactics in the election campaign.

Police stood by while hoodlums beat up opposition campaign workers. The campaign manager of one opposition candidate died after a night in jail. The opposition said he died as the result of a beating.

Silent Election Observers

The government announced proudly that the election was being held "under the observation of the United Nations." But the observers could do little more than look on. They could not even speak Korean.

However, American officials see good reason why Korean elections are tough. For one thing, Korea has had but six years of democratic government. For another, Korean leaders were reared in a tough school. China and Japan dominated their country for centuries.

Rhee is as tough as they come. He has undergone torture, imprisonment and exile in 50 years of fighting for independence.

Rhee knows he was born on March 26 but is not sure which one. Officially his age is 79. But to congratulating officials last March 26, Rhee said:

"I don't know whether I'm 78 or 79. Maybe I'm 80."

After the death of an elder brother, Rhee became the only son in his family for the sixth generation. Married to an Austrian, he has no children and his line dies with him.

Rhee entered the independence movement when he was 19, and he was a leader at 20.

Tortured Daily

Rhee was arrested and tortured daily for seven months. He was kept in handcuffs. His feet were shackled to the floor. A 20-pound weight was hung round his neck. His fingers were mashed. Lighted sticks were thrust under his finger nails. He still has a habit of blowing on his fingertips, unconsciously, to cool them.

After seven years in prison Rhee was freed under an amnesty. He came to the United States and studied at George Washington University, Harvard and Princeton. He spent about 30 years in exile altogether, many of them in the United States. He worked always for Korean independence, demanding recognition as President of the Korean provisional government which patriots had formed in Seoul in 1919.

Junior High Curriculum Explained to Parents

Parents of sixth seventh and eighth grade children, from the five elementary schools who will send students to the new Western Junior High School next September, heard R. K. Wines, principal designate, Tuesday discuss the proposed course of study at Magnolia school auditorium.

Covering the curriculum grade by grade, and subject by subject Wines explained all phases of the study program and answered questions from the floor.

An interesting discussion followed concerning the proposed course of study and other activities which will be offered the students at the new plant. In answer to a question concerning the opening date, Wines stated the school definitely would open in September.

Those districts, sending students to Western include Cypress, Magnolia, Savanna, Centralia, and Los Alamitos (ninth grade only).

Wines was introduced by Mrs. Verner Neher, president of Magnolia Parent Teacher Association. More than 100 attended the meeting.

Fire Chief Warns Of Fire Danger

CYPRESS—How will your house burn when it catches fire- - -hot- - - humidly — and fast or just a small controllable blaze?-

It's not hard to tell which it will be according to Fire Chief A. E. Arnold. Any firemen can tell long before fire ever strikes.

"We know from the records of the National Fire Protection Association that there are close to 1000 home fires every day," he said. "One house will have only a small fire and the next one will be gutted before anything can be done. In the answer" he added. "Most folks' be warned," don't realize how much rubbish they have around the house They just dont reconize the old mattresses in the attic or old clothing in closets and stored furniture in the basement as rubbish. But that's what it is. And nearly everytime, it means the difference between a small fire and a bad one."

"The fire department wants to help every householder eliminate this serious hazard to life and property," the Chief said.

This is one of the main objects of the home inspection campaign which the department is conducting in cooperation with the International Association of Fire Chiefs. The campaign is aimed at cutting injuries and deaths to children from home fires.

State Makes Allocation For County Fairgrounds

HUNTINGTON BEACH — State Sen. John A. Murdy Jr. of nearby Smeltzer today disclosed location of $225,000 by the State Board of Public Works for permanent construction at Orange County Fair grounds.

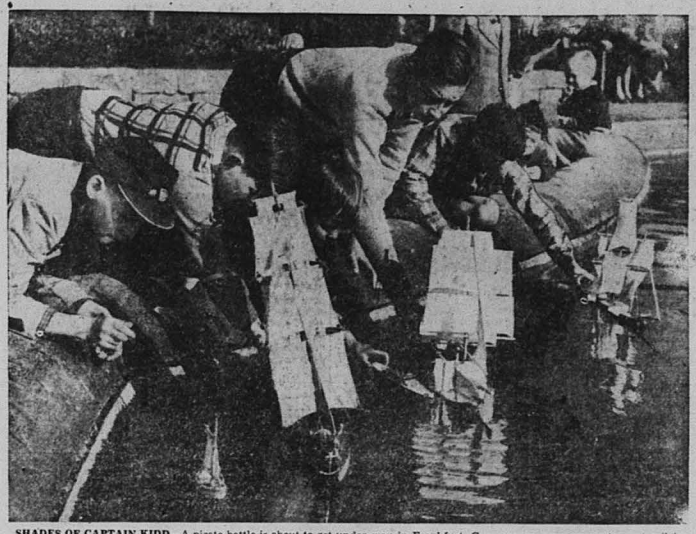

Murdy said that the sum is the balance of a $300,000 fund earmarked last year by the Legislature for construction of an exhibits building.

Plans now are being prepared by the state's Division of Architecture for the building, to be 120 x 320 feet in size.

Bids will be asked within a few weeks, Murdy said, and construction will start after the Fair has its mid-August run.

The big building will provide quarters for commercial exhibitors who now are accommodated in a large tent; it will be built near the tent site.

Included in other improvements on the Fairgrounds will be additional barns, a 9000-seat amphitheatre, and landscaping, all to be ready for the Aug. 10 opening.

Top Communist Complains About UP Story on Swith of Tactics by Reds

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)— On the letter head of the American Communist Party, of which he is the only top man neither jailed nor a fugitive from justice, William Z. Foster addresses a complaint about a United Press story of May 10.

The story reported that the American Communists suddenly had switched tactics and were proposing a "marriage of convenience" with the Democrats to lick the Republicans in 1954-56—A temporary, loveless affair. Foster objected that such was not the position of the Communist Party "as expressed in its recently published draft program, 'The American Way.'" He said the May 10 story was pro-Republican nonsense.

The American Way

The story in question was based on the pamphlet entitled "The American Way" which was circulated with a covering letter over Foster's signature and which he accepts as the authentic program of his party.

The pamphlet is a 27-page affair published by New Century publishers, 832 Broadway, New York, at five cents a copy. It is too long to be quoted here in full, but the following quotations are among those which may be cited as proof of the immediate Communist strategy in this country to join with the Democrats to oust the Eisenhower administration from power. That doesn't mean the Reds particularly like Democrats, but only that they hope to make use of one major political party to oust another as a long-haul part of the effort to establish a new wholly left-wing major party in the United States.

The quotations:

Defeating McCarthyism requires turning of the present administration out of political power, first by changing the composition of Congress in 1954 and then by electing a new administration in 1956.

Two-Party System

"To unite a new political majority for 1954 and 1956 requires recognition that the two-party system remains the form through which the overwhelming majority of the American people now express themselves in politics. There is no immediate prospect that decisively large masses will break away from the existing two-party structure.

"Under these circumstances the decisive sections of organized labor, without which a mass third party is impossible, will first attempt to fight out the issues within the ranks of the Democratic Party."

WRONG ADDRESS

Views of The World as Seen Through the Lens of the News Camera

AUF WIEDERSEHEN—Members of the 1954 German-Austrian Himalaya Expedition got a send-off by friends when their train left Munich, Germany, for Genoa, Italy. There the mountain climbers boarded a ship for Pakistan. The targets of the expedition are several 22,000-foot-high mountains in the still unexplored Karakorum region of Pakistan, including Mt. Rakaposhi.

NOT FOR US—Georgia's Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook (above) maintains the position that the United States Supreme Court decision outlawing school segregation "does not apply to Georgia." He also contacted 17 other states and was told by each attorney general they would definitely not intervene in segregation without further litigation.

IN A WHIRL—All work and no play make anyone dull and Pvt. Philippe DeConinck, 21, a French soldier in Berlin, spends spare time in a gym. He straps his feet to the frame, grasps the handles and spins around the room in a large metal hoop. If it tips over, sawdust on the floor makes a happy landing.

FOR FUTURE YEARS—Sitting on the steps of the United States Supreme Court Building in Washington, Mrs. Nettie Hunt seems to be trying to explain to her 3½-year-old daughter, Nikie, the meaning of the high tribunal's decision that segregation in public schools is unconstitutional. Though she's probably too young to understand now, Nikie will undoubtedly see concrete results of the historic ruling by the time she's ready for school.

PROUD MONARCH—A sincere warm feeling of joy is expressed on the face of Queen Elizabeth II as she acknowledges the tumultous greeting accorded her on her return to London from a six-month around-the-world tour of the British Empire. Her return to England was witnessed by more persons than had ever seen any other event in British history—including the Coronation. Seated beside the queen is the Duke of Edinburgh.

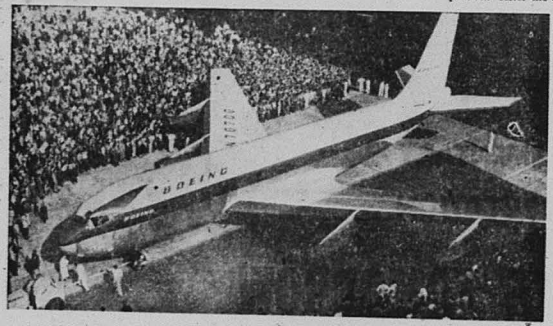

OVER THE COLOSSEUM—When Fabio Peteriva, the "Spider of the Dolomites," announced he would climb the 2000-year-old Colosseum in Rome, a mob of curiosity seekers gathered to watch him, left. Peteriva's ascent climaxed a convention of 50,000 Alpine veterans in The Eternal City. A switch of rules by Italian officials allowed him to climb the walls by using a filed-down pick-ax. After the conquest of Mount Everest, about all that remained to be conquered in this manner was the Colosseum.

ENTHUSIASTIC DISSENT—This was the scene in San Francisco as another of the city's famed cable car lines was replaced by gas buses. Here, cable car enthusiasts swamp the "Hyde-st grip" as carmen try to get "Old No. 51" into the barn for the last time. Police finally broke up the demonstrators and the line became history, but only after a battle.

FIRST AMERICAN JET LINER—The United State's first entry in the jet airliner field rolls off the assembly line at Renton, Wash. The huge four jet liner will cruise at 550 m.p.h. Used as commercial transport, the plane is expected to make transcontinental flights in less than five hours. The plane was christened Stratotanker and Stratoliner Mrs. William E. Boeing.

JUST WENT NATURAL—Actress Jan Sterling's part in The High and the Mighty called for a dissipated-looking face. Jan admits that she didn't use special makeup (left). She just didn't use any. Jan is shown (right) made up for more glamorous role.

MOVING DAY—Fishermen used huge nets to scoop up fish in the gardens at Versailles, France, because there were too many of them. They were transferred to a place where fish were needed.

POINT OF ORDER—Army Counselor John G. Adams (right), who refused to tell Army-McCarthy investigators about the Jan. 21 "top level" conference in the Justice Department, waves a copy of a letter from President Eisenhower as basis for his refusal. Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (left) leafs through the letter, which ordered government employes not to tell investigators anything about conversations within the executive branch. McCarthy asserted the directive had drawn an "iron curtain" around the hearings.

ALL HANDS RESCUED!—This air view shows the wreckage of Gar Wood's twin-hull experimental ship, Venturi, which broke up in heavy seas off the coast of Florida. All nine persons aboard the ship, including the 73-year-old Wood, were rescued. The 188-foot craft was launched in 1944.

TROOPS RIDE 'BELOW' IN NEW ASSAULT CRAFT—A new amphibian assault vehicle, the LVTP-5 (above), is tested for the Marine Corps off Camp Lejeune, N. C. The vehicle is a modern version of the LVT (Landing Vehicle Tracked) combining the amphibious qualities of the LVT with improved speed range and maneuverability. Assault troops ride inside. It is now in production for the Marine Corps. (Defense Department photo from NEA Telephoto.)

Asia for Whom?

Canada's U. N. Ambassador Lester Pearson said what should be repeated often by Western diplomats, namely, that the cry of "Asia for the Asians" which the Reds are constantly voicing really mean "Asia for the Cominform".

America has proved in the Philippines that she has no desire to stand in the way of Asiatic peoples seeking their independence. Britain has demonstrated the same thing in India and Burma. France, belately, has made a similar move in Indo-China by agreeing to give the country its independence within the French Union.

It is apparent, therefor, that the West is not trying to maintain colonialism in Asia as the Communists charge. But what needs to be made apparent to the people of Asia is that the Reds are endeavoring to establish a colonialism of their own over the entire continent.

Meantime the conduct of the Communists at Geneva is proving to be just what could be expected. And this conduct, this resistance to any fair settlement of the Indo-China problem, such as permitting free elections under impartial international supervision, should spur the Western nations into accepting the Dulles proposal for a defense aliance in Southeast Asia.

Unless they stand solidly together now there will soon be little left to stand for in Asia.

Good Business

The gathering of more than 200 business executives at a meeting sponsored by the Stanford Research Institute, which is devoted to the social sciences, points up the increasing attention to the personal factors in business. Industry today is more than ever concerned with helping its employees get along better with the public and amongst themselves. It makes for greater harmony, fewer mistakes, better pay and better business. Management is also going in for more employee training. One railroad, for example, reported saving a quarter of a million dollars by training a group of workers to do the job better they had always been doing. When a California firm started a "service and courtesy" campaign the idea proved catching, for the signs placed on the counters displaying those words began to disappear and show up in various stores and shops. Business is not a thing apart. It's people. If there were no people there would be no business. Hence the more that is done to improve the human factors the more it will not only improve business but make life itself more worthwhile.

High Registration

Politically speaking, California is a crazy mixed up place. The voters are predominantly Democratic but vote predominantly in the Republican column in State contests and very often in national tests. We have two Republican senators, a Republican governor and the State Legislature has a Republican majority as has our congressional delegation. To further confuse the picture we have a report on California registrations which shows that the GOP has made a bigger gain than the Democrats since 1952, but the Demos are now doing better than their opponents. To put it another way, the Republican registrations in California since 1952 have climbed 158,856 and the Democrats 115,157. But since the first of the year the score is 98,493 new GOP registrations and 175,561 Democratic. (The reason for this latter figure for the Democrats exceeding their net registration increase since 1952 is explained in the fact that they lost ground during 1953.) After reading this article we're sure it will all be very clear to you. Then you can explain it to us.

SONGS OF A SONNETEER

By R. LOUIS SCOTT

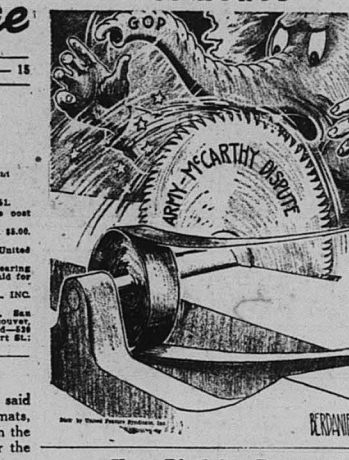

"TRUTH IS A PRUDE . . . !"

When we recall the scenes of yesterday
Fond memory is prone to make them seem
Fairer by far than those which come our way
Along about now! Fabrics from a dream
Are woven round each trifling incident
Until its time-worn facets flash and gleam
With glamor; we are rarely quite content
To let Truth strut her beauty in the nude:
Whatever she may lack—our dreams invent!

We would not make vain efforts to delude
Nor would we strive your sentiments to sway:
Facts are but skittles and Truth is a prude—
So grab the salt-cellar without delay—
When we start off on tales of yesterday!

Laughter in Hell, (Caxton), the story of an American prisoner of war camp in Tokyo, is so interesting it seems a pity it is not better written. It is the story of Navy L. E. L. Quirey and Marine T-Sgt. H. C. Nixon as told to Stephen Marek.

At Umeda, near Osaka, the chief problem was staying alive. The prisoners, mostly sailors and marines assigned to work the docks took to stealing food in wholesale lots. Since food was scarce in Japan they soon found themselves running a large-scale black market with the guards the police and even the prison commandant in their power.

The horrors of such notorious camps as Tangagwa are almost glossed over in this book, and the savage beatings administered by guards at Umeda are noted only as one of the routine occurrences to which the prisoners became accustomed. . .

The idea that a super-truth drug, injected into the veins would prove terrifying provides the theme for Jack Guinn's satiric fantasy, The Caperberry Bush (Little Brown).

It is the story of Dr. Tibor Pojar, a federally subsidized refugee scientist with a peace complex, who developed the potion that gave its takers an overwhelming desire to confess their sins. Naturally their careers were revised drastically.

Pojar ran away with the only existing sample of his babble juice when he learned that the government wanted to use it for military purposes. He couldn't resist the temptation to try it out on a random group of "guinea pigs"—a bookie, two politicians, a publisher and a gangland bookkeeper. The results were so startling that the city where he was operating was swept by panic.

The situation is developed against a realistic newspaper background and provides a platform for a number of wryly effective comments on the petty hypocrisies of modern life. On the whole a hilariously entertaining book.

In a charming short novel, Around a Rusty God (Dial), Augusta Walker has compressed a few months in the life of a young Chinese boy. Beng Gow was a thoughtful and kindly youngster who acquired two little goats through a strange coincidence. As the goats grew up so did Beng Gow, learning through simple observations all he needed to know of life in the swarming Chinese village, where hunger was accepted as natural. Miss Walker has lived in China and taught at Lingnan University, Canton. She tells her story simply but with overtones of larger meanings, and sometimes sly asides, as when a Chinese woman explained to Beng Gow how it was, that the head of the local university did not know some basic facts of life. "It is better not to be so bright," she said, "because it comes out the same as being foolish."

Othman's Views on Washington Scenes

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

WASHINGTON — Sen. Joe McCarthy had on his traveling suit—the old blue gabardine with the shiny seat and elbows—but he didn't take a walk.

His fellow senator instead shut down until next Monday their hearing into his big argument with the Army while they clarify (their word, the President's attitude toward the proceedings.

And I suppose I'm a dope, but I can't understand what all the shooting's about. Seems there was a conference back in January at the office of Attorney General Herb Brownell and some other administration stalwarts, where the boys agreed it was a good idea for Secretary of the Army Robert Stevens to write out the story of his troubles with the gentleman from Wisconsin. So Stevens did exactly that.

Sen. McCarthy calls the document so prepared a smear on himself and his committee investigating communism. So along came this inoffensive-looking little man, John Adams, the Army counselor, to say last week that there was such a conference and to mention the people who were there.

The senators, especially the Democrats and Sen. McCarthy, demanded to know who did the talking, and why, and in particular who ordered the Army to spell out its charges against Sen. Joe. That, as the dramatists say, set the stage for a melodramatic morning.

The gentlemen were sitting there under the TV floodlights when in walked Adams with a letter from President Eisenhower saying this meeting of his helpers was strictly confidential and not one word about it should be made public. The President backed th's up with a 10-page memo from his attorney general, citing precedent all the way back to the days of George Washington.

The Democrats agreed that if the President felt this way and stuck to it, they'd never learn all he facts about the alleged blackmail of Sen. McCarhy by the Army. Or even about the senators alleged pressure on the Army to give favors to Pvt. G. David Schine.

So then Sen. McCarthy had his say. Maybe had been missing the wrong villain, he said. Maybe Secretary Stevens hadn't been out to ruin his committee; perhaps the Secretary had been following instructions from on high.

And yet, said Sen. Joe, he could not believe that President Eisenhower could do anything so stupid. He said the President was too intelligent a man to issue such a letter, if he'd really known what was going on.

So everybody sat there a while, figuratively biting his fingernails. Nobody knew quite what to do. Sen. McCarthy got a five-minute recess—which extended to 15—to confer with his chief counsel, Roy Cohn. When he returned he still hadn't decided what to do.

The other senators argued about closing down the hearings overnight, but finally decided to take a long lunch hour to decide whether there was any reason left for prolonging the hearings. Sen. Joe shed his coat and leaped into a taxi with most of the members of his staff.

The other gentlemen argued for 90 minutes about what to do, if anything, and then decided to knock off for a week, while Chairman Karl E. Mundt (R., S.D.) tried to persuade President Eisenhower to reveal at least something about what went on at that meeting of his advisers.

What I can't quite fantom, myself, is why anybody believed this private meeting of officialdom on what to do about Private Schine and related matters should be publicized. Forcing the conferees to talk, it seems to me, almost would be like making a wife testify against her husband. Or how can advisers advise, if they can't get together quietly to make up their minds?

The answer, if any, will be forthcoming next week.

As It Was Told To Me

By HARMAN NICHOLS

WASHINGTON (AP)—My first introduction to the Bethesda-Chevy Chase rescue squad was on Nov. 1, 1949.

There had been an explosion and fire, which didn't amount to much at the post office department. I huffed and puffed the four blocks to the scene. When I got there the rescue squad was on the job already and it had come some 10 miles from its headquarters at Bethesda, Md.

I'd no sooner returned to the office when the boss thumbed me to the airport. That was a lot more serious; 55 dead in an air crash.

I thought I got out to the airport pretty fast. But the rescue squad got there ahead of me.

Squad History

I got to looking into the history of the Bethesda-Chevy Chase rescue squad the other day, and it is a fascinating organization. The fellows who work on the crew are volunteers. They work for the love of doing something worthwhile for their felow men. The taxpayers pay not a nickel.

The volunteers are on call to get kids out of locked bathrooms, give artificial respiration to folks who might drown, and run up a ladder to rescue old folks from burning buildings or scare a kitten out of a tree.

Each of the vounteers spends a night a week (or a day, if he is making a living working nights) on the job. They range in age from 18 to 36 and are husky.

And how does the squad keep going with modern equipment like lifeboats, fire-fighting gear, and rubber boats, uniforms and a big white truck? Only through public subscription, with nobody getting a salary.

Follow the Rules

When a man volunteers for the squad he has to go through a period of training on life-saving. And when he is accepted, he must follow the rules. If he fails to show up for duty, he must appear before a trial board, and may be suspended.

The founder of the squad is Chief Donald W. Dunnington. In 1938, he went from door to door to gather funds from his friends and neighbors to finance the operation of his tired old ambulance, which he was operating himself. Friends kicked in. So did neighbors.

They have been kicking in ever since.

Dunnington likes to tell about one of his bell-ringing deals.

He went to see a woman and asked her would she please give a little for a nice cause?

She slammed the door in Don's face.

A few hours later the newly formed rescue squad saved the life of the woman's mother.

"She wasn't so stingy after that" Don told me, "and has been a contributor ever since."

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — A 63-foot long creature with 10 arms is the most terrifying movie star in town today, but close up he turned out to be full of hot air.

For the movie version of the classic book by Jules Verne, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," producer Walt Disney built the biggest monster in celluloid history.

The gorilla of "King Kong" was a foot-high miniature, but the phoney squid that tries to swallow a submarine in the Disney epic had to be full size because Kirk Douglas and James Mason battle it.

Man Made Squid

Special effects wizard Bob Matey, whose previous creations include werewolves and man-eating plants, made the giant squid. He stirred a brew of lamanac, lucite, piano wire, boiling oil, rubber, steel and glass cloth.

Six weeks later the monster, the color of seaweed and the size of a diving bell was lowered beside a submarine floating in 12 feet of water on sound stage 12. The two-ton creature has 10 tentacles. Each is 40 feet long and weighs 175 pounds and curls in a terrifying manner. The squid's eyes are yellow, bloodshot and the size of portholes. From its huge mouth darts a snapping beak.

Remote-Controlled

But the secret of this life-like monster is his wrigglings are made by remote control. The monster is filled with airhoses and 24 men at a control board release air pressure to direct every flip or lunge of a tentacle.

Today the magic-makers shot a scene for the sea-horse opera of the two-foot actors trying to save the submarine from the squid. Douglas and Mason were out playing golf.

"Too dangerous for stars," explained second unit director Jim Stevens. "Those are doubles who are stunt men. They get $100 a day."

Machines While Spray

Six huge fans, or wind machines, whipped up a blinding spray across the stage. A revolving thrasher churned waves. The huge CinemaScope camera protected by a hood, bobbed up and down to create the effect of a heaving sea. Ten screaming stunt men atop the storm-tossed submarine writhed in the grip of the squid. Its tentacles wrapped around the bodies of the men and tossed one into the water.

At noon the roaring stopped and technicians in rubber coats and boots dashed out for lunch, leaving the monster quiet. I was not paid $100 a day for this task, but I put on a bathing suit and splashed through slimy water to inspect the villain. If the air had failed in one 175-lb. tentacle, my boss would be looking for somebody else to write a column under water.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Your Congressman

JAMES B. UTT

In spite of the clamor made by various groups in an effort to gain political advantage, the recent revisions to the Internal Revenue Code will actually benefit the taxpayers in the low income brackets to a greater extent than those in the upper brackets.

The provision allowing a child as a dependent even if he earns more than $600 will benefit 1,300,000 taxpayers. One and a half million retired persons on pensions will receive a tax reduction. Eight and a half million will benefit from the larger deductions for medical expenses. Over a million and a half will receive a deduction for interest under installment purchase contracts.

A half million farmers will benefit from the allowance for soil conservation expense. Partial relief from double taxation of dividends will benefit six and a half million people, the majority of whom are in the low income bracket. Nine and a half million individuals and 600,000 corporations will benefit from the more flexible provisions for depreciation.

Simply increasing the exemptions as some legislators are attempting to do would excuse millions of Americans from paying any Federal income taxes at all. This would shift a share of the National Defense burden from these individuals to their fellow citizens and most important it would take away from them a direct concern with Government spending.

As soon as further reductions in Government expenditures are in sight this Administration is determined to make further reductions in taxes. Again this will not be done by eliminating all taxes from a few, but rather by helping all by a further reduction in rate.

PROSPERITY:

Even many of those who were the most vociferous in their depression mongering are now beginning to admit that no depression is in sight. During the month of April, according to official figures revealed by Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks and Secretary of Labor James Mitchell, there were 260000 more Americans back at work than during March.

At the same time it was reported that total employment in the United States is now just short of 61 million which is an increase of almost a half million during the month. The difference between the drop of unemployed by 260,000 and the half million increase in employment is explained by the fact that additional people, college and high school students largely, have entered the labor market and have found work.

According to the Associated Press, Thomas C. Carroll, Detroit President of the AFL Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, declared that "Our Nation's economy is as sound as it has been the last twenty-five years, maybe sounder." He continued "A smoke-screen about our economy is being spread to put the people into a state of uncertainty. As a matter of fact defense plants could be shut down and the workers absorbed in such needed projects as new roads, new housing, river and hydro-electric power developments, and park and recreationa facilities.

The early April count of unemployed totaling 3,465,000 was only 2.1 per cent of the country's present total population of 161,500,000 people. This is compared with the unemployment figure for pre-war 1939 of 9½ million people which represented 7.2 per cent of the total population of 130,900,000 people.

During the seventeen months in which I have served as Representative of the 28th Congressional District, I have received over 6,000 pieces of correspondence from constituents. These have all received answers, mostly within 24 hours of their receipt. In addition I have received over 14,000 pieces of mail from outside of the district, a great deal of which required answers and some of which required legislative action.

I have had to handle over 400 cases which involved contacts with various Governmental agencies. These included over 80 cases concerned with military, 48 veteran problems, 33 military academy requests and 28 Civil Service problems. Many of these cases required an extensive investigation and I am happy that I was able to obtain satisfactory results in a large percentage.

I have introduced 32 bills, some of which have been signed into law by the President Several have been included in other legislation which has either become law or is in the process of doing so.

I took an active part in the successful fight to return the valuable tidelands to California and my bill to authorize the construction of the De Luz Dam to provide additional water for both Camp Pendleton and the Fallbrook area is close to final passage by the Senate.

In the Ways and Means Committee I have been active in obtaining reduced personal income taxes and the reduction in excise taxes which will be of assistance to everyone in the nation.

American Commies Throw In Lot With Democratic Party For Victory

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Communist party in the United States suddenly has switched tactics with a public proposal of a political marriage of convenience with the Democrats. The objectives are Republican defeat this year and in 1956.

The Communist program is the pre-war popular Front scheme warmed over. The Popular Front was a device by which the Communists, in France for example, joined with all other left of center political groups in seeking political control. The Reds similarly supported Democratic candidates in the United States between the time Hitler invaded the Soviet Union in 1941 until the war was won.

The immediate Communist political plans in the United States are detailed in a pamphlet, "The American Way," now being widely circulated by mail.

"The immediate objective in 1954," the pamphlet states, "must be to prevent the Eisenhower administration and Congress from taking the country further down the road to McCarthyism.

"Defeating McCarthyism requires the turning of the present administration out of political power, first by changing the composition of Congress in 1954 and then by electing a new administration in 1956."

The pamphlet cheers the New Deal, the Fair Deal and Franklin D. Roosevelt, but has no kind words for former President Harry S. Truman.

"What is needed," it continued, "is a new administration which starts to build again where the New Deal left off. To unite a new political majority for 1954 and 1956 requires recognition that the two-party system remains the form through which the overwhelming majority of the American people now express themselves in politics. Under these circumstances the decisive sections of organized labor, without which a mass third party is impossible, will first attempt to fight out the issues within the ranks of the Democratic party.

"The key to both crucial 1954 and 1956 elections lies in the ability of organized labor to come forward as a distinct political force even within the framework of the present two-party system. Its objective must be to help bring about a regrouping and realignment within the Democratic party nationally and the Republican party in local areas."

But the pamphlet explains that is only a temporary program. The ultimate objective is a new party to be called the Farmer Labor party.

"As the American people succeed in electing a new administration and blocking the immediate menace and war," the pamphlet continues, "a new stage in the struggle will begin to unfold. It is then that the perspective of subsequently electing a new type of government, a Farmer-Labor government, will begin to arise in our country.

"We are ready to work with all Americans--------."

This summons to coalition warfare against the Eisenhower administration is bound with the Communist party line, including recognition of Red China, freedom for convicted Communist conspirators and such. It probably means that the Communists will throw their scattering votes to Democratic candidates in many congressional contests next November and that there will be no Communist or Progressive party candidate for president in 1956.

The Communist-sparked Progressive party cast 140,138 votes for its presidential candidate in 1952 in 28 states. Of these, 64,211 were cast in New York state where the Red vote clearly could be a balance of power in a close election. The same is true of California where the Progressive party cast 24,106 votes. New York has 47 and California 32 electoral votes.

Princess Margaret Eyes Spinsterhood

LONDON (UP)—One of the first problems Queen Elizabeth II must turn to on her return to the House of Windsor from a world tour will be the future of Princess Margaret.

Time is marching on for the little Princess who will be 24 next Aug. 21. This is quite an age for female members of the blood royal to reach unmarried.

Some of the franker members of the court are beginning to whisper the word "spinster."

Those who have observed the princess closely in recent weeks report she looks happier than for a long time. At least she doesn't appear to be at all worried about spinsterhood, if that is to be her fate.

She dances a lot, runs around often with Peter Ward and Viscount Hambleden, two of the more light-hearted members of her set. She also goes out with, and this perhaps is significant, young married couples.

A girl of marriageable age usually does not spend that much time with married persons, so goes the court thinking, if she is looking seriously for a mate.

Of Huge New Program Phone Company Tells

LOS ANGELES (UP)—The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. today announced a $175,000,000 construction and expansion program for 1954-55, including installation of 185,000 telephones in Southern California.

Vice President James S. Cantlen said most of the installations will be made in the San Fernando Valley and in San Diego and Orange counties.

New facilities will be constructed in Riverside, Hawthorne, El Segundo, South Santa Ana, South Alhambra, Rialto, Palmdale, Orange and El Centro.

Burmese Actress Claims Liver Is 'Seat of Love'

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON (UP) — The first time Win Min Than said "I love you with all my heart" she laughed so hard she fell out of Gregory Peck's arms.

"What's so funny?" asekd the star.

"Loving with the heart, that is funny," said the Burmese beauty with the bewitching body.

"Everybody knows you love with the liver."

"I've heard about palpitating hearts, but never palpitating liver."

Director Bob Parrish chimed in: "And I've heard of broken hearts. Don't tell me that in Burma unrequited love means a broken liver."

Win Min Than fixed her occidental colleagues with two enormous slanting eyes and said that since hers was the more ancient race she knew best to which part of the anatomy love belongs.

"The heart as a seat of love is a western invention," she said. "Long before that when Burmese girls looked into the eyes of the men they loved they said 'I love you with all my liver.'"

"Oh, stop," said Peck.

"It's true, it's logical," the girl retorted. "Real love causes exciting changes in the corpuscles of the blood. As the liver is virtually composed of blood it has greater significance than the heart."

Parrish, who is directing the Burmese girl and Peck in "The Purple Plain" showed signs of impatience.

"You don't have any Burmese objections to kissing?" he asked.

"No," said Win Min Than. "The lips are for kissing. But the liver is for loving."

Then she moved back into Peck's arms, looked into his eyes and said:

"I love you with all my...heart."

Jackie Gleason Reveals Plans For Next Season

By JACK GAVER
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—Jackie Gleason has placed the brace for his once-broken right leg among his souvenirs, but he still isn't ready to indulge in the herculean falls and frantic dancing that have been features of his television work.

"I'm dying to do the falls again," the hefty comedian said as he took a breather from a story conference, "but the doctor frowns on it. I'll probably work in one or two before the show goes off for the summer just to show the audience that I can still do the falls."

Jackie hasn't used the leg brace for two weeks. His limp is almost imperceptible and should disappear completely in a few more weeks.

The comedian explained that the necessity of taking it easy with the leg since he returned to the air March 27 has not been the chief reason for the fact that his programs since then have been dominated by hour-long versions of "The Honeymooners" instead of the medley of sketches and characters that he used before.

"The leg had something to do with it, of course," he explained, "because the Ralph Cramden character isn't as strenuous physically as some of the others. But the main reason we've given so much time to 'The Honeymooners' is that the audience response indicates the viewers want to see more of them.

"This Saturday, for example, we're doing a variety of things, as before, but we'll do more full-length 'honeymooners' for the rest of the season.

Tough To Do

"They are tougher for me to do, actually, because they involve more memorizing of lines and business. It's a tossup in the case of the writers. They get it a little easier in the sense that they have to work with only one basic idea instead of three or four as when we have a number of short sketches, but on the other hand they still are faced with the tough job of trying to be funny throughout."

Gleason said a basic change was planned for next season. There will be full-length sketches of "The Honeymooners" again, but into them will be worked other of the Gleason characters, such as Reggie Van Gleason, The Bartender, The Poor Soul, The Repair Man, etc.

"That is really going to make it tough for me, but I love the idea," Gleason said.

The comedian's last show will be June 26 and he'll be back for CBS Sept. 25. His summer replacement will be his own production package, a variety show headed by Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey and their band.

Constant Threat Faces Red Chinese

Editor's Note:

Though they talk tough and though they confront the Western world with the constant threat of aggression, the Chinese Communists are having their troubles. Material for the following dispatch by the U. P. manager for Hong Kong was gathered from Chinese Red newspapers, diplomatic and military intelligence sources and refugees.

By WENDELL MERICK
United Press Staff Correspondent

HONG KONG (UP)—Two hundred million people in Communist China are hungry.

Discouraged farmers are flocking to the big cities by tens of thousands.

There is lethargy and inefficiency in the factories.

There are not enough trained Communists to run the country.

It is reported that there is dissension between Mao Tse-Tung, the Communist leader, and Liu Shao-Chi, his No. 2 man, on economic policy.

There is no sign that the Red regime is weakening. There always has been hunger in China, there has always been inefficiency and governments always have had trouble in controlling the country.

But the Communists have serious problems to plague them and the problems are not being solved.

The Reds themselves admit that two hundred million out of China's five hundred million people are short of food.

Crops Ruined

Floods, drought and insects ruined much of last year's crops. Food that the people needed was sent to iron curtain countries to pay for machinery for heavy industry.

The farmers have lost their incentive to grow food because taxes are high and because the Reds take all the food a man grows except what he needs for his own family.

The People's Daily and other newspapers have complained of "lethargy" among factory workers and have demanded harder work.

There seems to be loose talk even among high Communist officials. No. 3 man Liu Shao-Chi warned in March that men like Russia's executed secret police chief Lavrenti P. Beria are endangering the plans of the Communist party and must be ferreted out.

Industrially, the Reds are in the second year of a five year plan of development.

Diplomats believe that the Communists may have increased pretension a little bit over that attained under the Nationalist government before World War II.

Conditions Bad

All reports indicate that conditions in China are bad. Yet most experts here believe that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek would not be welcomed with open arms if he returned to the mainland unless he won a quick, sweeping victory.

The only hope the experts can see for the immediate future lies in China itself.

Mao and Liu are reported to be in disagreement. Mao sees the solution of China's future in the peasants. Liu looks to the industrial workers. Mao's land reform and Liu's pro-labor faction may gain power.

Also there are the peasants themselves. There are too many of them to be ignored or to be left hungry. If the peasants lost all hope and all confidence in the Communist regime, the experts believe there might be a collapse.

Firestone Hour Crowded From Radio and TV Time

NEW YORK (UP) — The 25-year old radio "Firestone Hour" and its five-year old television twin will be off the air after June 1 because the National Broadcasting Company has assigned its TV time for the new Sid Caesar show, it was learned today.

The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, sponsors of the musical program which has appeared on the network at 8:30 p.m. Monday nights since its radio beginning, announced at Akron, O., that it had cancelled the program "with extreme regret" because it could not keep its time.

The Doctor Disagrees

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

SHEALY looked down at the papers in her lap without care to say in what way you don't like Dr. Talboy, Mrs. Evans?"

"I'd not want to say anything to insult you, Mrs. Carr."

"Because my name is Carr?"

"That's right. In this town . . . '

"I understand. But while my married name is Carr, my own name is Shelly Arnold. Couldn't we talk on that basis?"

"No, Mo'm, I don't think so," said Dorace sharply. "Because you see, all this is tied up to the fact that you are Stephen Carr's wife. And while he's in uniform, you're carrying on with the doctor who came to do his work. Though so far as anyone knows there was no arrangement that Talboy should take over his wife as well as his practice!"

Shelly grasped and jumped to her feet.

Dorace looked up at her, a cruel smile thinning her lips. "I told you you'd be insulted."

Shelly shivered a little. "But why should you say such a thing to me?" she cried. "You know it's not true!"

"How do I know what's true about you big-shots? I know what kind of talk there'd be if I did any of the things people tell on you and Talboy—and I've been with enough Bob's seen you in the office, calling each other by your first names, and all."

Oh, dear, thought Shelly. Oh, dear.

"He goes in and out of your house as familiar as anything. I've seen his car parked there many a night. I've seen you in that car, too. And then the way he sends you around to tell us women to make our men do what he says at the plant! You tell me to forget your name is Carr. If it wasn't Carr you wouldn't have dared come into our homes this way. But I can tell you one thing, you've lasted too long on that name. We are decent folks; we don't have the money the Carrs've got, but we're decent."

She stood up now, leaning over Shelly, and the veins stood out on her neck as she talked.

"Bob works for the Carrs, but he earns every dime he makes. And not so so beholden to them that he—and a lot o' the other men—don't resent a wife carryin' on with another man while her husband's away fightin' a war—"

"We don't like the man who's foulin' Captain Carr's nest, and I for one am not afraid to say so right to your face. You're rich, and you've had all the breaks in life, but I got something you don't, Mrs. Carr. I'm honest, and I—"

She was still talking when Shelly reached her car, backed it into the rutted new street and drove away. She was both stunned and panic-driven. She wanted to run and run! To drive her car recklessly, wildly —She pulled up, and sat shaking. What was she thinking of? Had she been guilty, she could not be more resentful of the charges.

That weekend Shelly went to the city to see her mother, and to escape any active decision about her behavior toward, and with, Craig Talboy. She went down about once every six weeks, usually going on a weekday. But if she went on Sunday, she could miss a family dinner.

She didn't gain a great deal, because on Tuesday afternoon when she came back from the office she said that Mrs. Carr, senior, had phoned. She hoped Miss Shelly would come out and eat supper with her at six-thirty. She'd be alone . . .

That was an order; Agnes expected Shelly to obey it. As she rode the familiar streets, Shelly saw that only two places had been cut at the dining room table.

She smiled, and went on to bathe and change into a full skirt of quilted yellow chintz worn with a sleeveless black jersey blouse. The weather was cool and pleasant, with a hint of rain. Shelly took her white coat with her, and drove out to the Circle, as always, admiring the neat fields and fences, the restful view across the lake.

May Anna greeted her affectionately, and commented on the skirt. "It looks so nice on you, dear! You wear clothes so well."

She went on to ask for Shelly's mother, and Shelly replied. There was no change.

"I'm glad you could come this evening," said Mrs. Carr's pillow-soft voice as she led the way to the dining room. "Papa is at a Chamber of Commerce meeting. And we had fresh lobsters for Sunday; there was enough left over to make a nice salad."

They ate at one end of the long mahogany table; the meal was perfectly served on place mats of exquisite lace. May Anna's talk darted like a humming-bird from the latest cleverness of Carr Maupin to Kate's decision never to take a negative position with her children, chance to the price of fresh tomatoes in the stores, and a brief description of the Shepherd cocktail party at the club.

This led directly to the subject in hand at the precise minute when she and Shelly were ready to move to the small sitting room.

"Oh, dear," mourned May Anna as they went through the wide hall. "It's beginning to rain. Are your car windows closed?"

"They will be," smiled Shelly. "Don't such things get done automatically out here?"

This pleased May Anna. "Take that chair, dear. How is your new cook working out?"

"Fine, I guess," she waved.

"I'm so glad. Lucie Walsh said she worked for her once, extra, of course, and that she was honest. Honor did look lovely at the Shepherd party."

"Doesn't she always look lovely? Was she always so immaculate? I mean, as a child?"

"Yes, she was. I don't think Eleanor has given parents one minute of worry—except perhaps that she hasn't married. But, that, of course—"

Shelly was expected to understand May Anna's rueful shrug. She did understand it. Shelly had stepped in to spoil things between Stephen and Eleanor— Firmly, she held on to her serenity, listening to the whisper of rain against the trees.

May Anna shifted a little in her armchair. "I'm glad you do admire Eleanor," she said sweetly. "I think she makes a perfect example of what a well-bred young woman should be."

Oh, oh, thought Shelly. She would not get angry, whatever was said! She'd be careful about that! She had learned from Craig, from his humiliating courtesy, that one lost ground the minute emotion was allowed to show itself.

"I've never heard one word of adverse criticism of Eleanor," Mrs. Carr was saying. She rolled a white bead bracelet up her forearm, slid it back to her wrist. "That is quite an achievement in a town of this size, where the faded blue eyes darted a glance at Shelly.

"It's quite an achievement anywhere," Shelly answered pleasantly.

"Yes, but in a city where one may become lost in a crowd, one may risk—shall we say?—the appearance of indiscretion."

Shelly swallowed a brown, sickish taste in her throat.

"I understand completely, my dear," the little velvet-voiced words pounded on her nerves, "the difficulty of a girl like you coming here to live. Especially without Stephen here to help and guide you. That's why I—" She coughed daintily, and continued.

"You grew up in a city, Shelly. There you lived what we would call a gay life." The words hurried a little as if to prevent interruption. "In St. Louis, entertaining is done in hotels and at the big clubs. Your circle of friends is constantly changing. You don't see your friends so often, and they don't see you . . ."

(You know nothing about my St. Louis, thought Shelly resentfully. Its inner core, its inner circle. Just as you know nothing of me. You've never known me enough even to think to ask—and you couldn't know about my city! Hotels, indeed! Why—)

She sighed, and listened again to what Stephen's mother was saying. Maybe she'd get a chance to say there was no difference—really—

". . . but here our standards are simple and strict, Shelly. Here we know the same people all our lives, and they know us. The least thing we do is significant here in Norfolk." Her mother-in-law's tone was one of gentle patience. Just as she might have explained to her little granddaughter that nice little girls did not get their slippers muddy.

"We're very proud of our town," she said to Shelly. "We like to think it is a small, select community of people who have set themselves a very high standard of behavior. That sometimes is called snobbishness. It isn't really. We just want Norfolk to seem better than other places, because it is better. Do you understand, Shelly?

"I think so."

"Well, I wasn't sure."

"Have I done something that doesn't come up to your standards?" She spoke in a voice as soft as the brush of silk . . .

"Oh, I'm sure you've not!" said May Anna quickly. She laughed in a tinkly social manner, and Shelly pushed her slipper soles hard against the floor to brace herself.

"It isn't always necessary to do much of anything," May Anna continued to instruct her. "But it's really much better, don't you think, to avoid the appearance of doing something?"

THURSDAY, MAY 20—Occasionally an evening comes up where more than one program is interesting and a person is caught with the desire to see them all. Tonight is such a case, and unless you keep changing the dial, you'll have three television sets—you're going to have to make a choice. Here they are: The new series, "Justice," which features true stories from the files of the National Legal Aid Association, presents "The Quiet Lie," starring Carrol Naish and Ed Begley over Channel 4 at the 8:30 spot . . . Then, there's many Boxer fans who will not want to miss tonight's episode when musical comedy star Jan Clayton joins Ray. Although a re-run, this show is one of the better in this series, which is TV'ieved over Channel 7 . . . And still another is the presentation on "Four Star Playhouse" which features Charles Boyer in "Backstage" at 8:30. This is the dramatic behind-the-scene story of one hectic day and night in the life of a talented actor-director. This also is a repeat to be shown on Channel 2. No question here. "Dragnet" at 9 over Channel 4.

Following programs are compiled from reports provided by broadcasters. We assume no responsibility for last minute changes on their part.—T.E.D.

Television Work Easy, Say Dance Team of Routine

By JACK GAVER

United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—Others may grouse about the hard work of television, but Bambi Lynn and her husband, Rod Alexander, the dancing couple of "Your Show of Shows," have no complaints. You see, they've worked in night clubs.

"Night club work,' Bambi said, "means that you have to conserve your energy all day to be fresh for the shows at night — every night. You live with the brakes on all the time.

"But in television we can lead fairly normal lives. We work in the daytime — rehearsals — just like other people, and, except for the four nights a month the show goes on the air, we have our evenings to rest or seek a little pleasure just as others do."

Trial And Error

Creating the dance numbers of "Your Show of Shows' is largely a matter of trial and error for the couple. Rod improvises movements and style as they rehearse with a pianist.

"Say that we're preparing a number of ours called "Blue Danube,'' Rod explained. "You can tell from the title that we're using the Strauss music, of course. No problem there.

"But we have to find a pianist to write a prologue and to interpret the music as we visualize it for our particular needs. This often is the toughest part of the whole business.

Story Line

"Then we need a story line. It is more important to have a good story to tell in television than in other mediums for the dance. The story must be simple and contain no subplots.

"In this particular creation, we came up with the story of a poor boy and girl watching rich folk dancing in a glittering ballroom with the girl wishing for a beautiful dress and the boy promising to buy her one when he becomes a millionaire. Then there's a dream sequence in which the two have achieved their desire, fading back to them as they were in the beginning, the girl asleep with a smile on her face."

In working out a routine, they keep no sort of record of the steps they decide to use.

"We just add a second movement to the first," Bambi explained, "then go back and do the two together. A third is added, we go back to the beginning again and so on to the end. By the time we have a five-minute number put together in this manner our muscles have 'learned their lines' — our bodies know the whole routine.'

'Mono,' New Disease Now Hitting Colleges

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Southern California college students who complain of fatigue may be coming down with an infectious disease nicknamed "mono," two university doctors said today.

Dr. Paul O. Greeley, director of the health center at the University of Southern California, and Dr. Donald MacKinnon, UCLA's student health service chief, both reported numerous cases of the strange ailment. Scientific name of "mono" is mononucleosis.

"I guess most people have it while going to school", said MacKinnon. "Some get very sick; most don't even notice it. Its mainly a college disease."

Mononucleosis is not rare and it's not new, the doctors said. They said it is not known how it is acquired, whether its contagious and there is no drug to cure it. Symptoms include a mild sore throat and may be accompanied by a contagious virus infection of the liver.

The usual treatment is bed rest with recovery taking from three weeks to three months.

Jack Benny Confesses His True Age as 60

STOCKTON, Calif. (UP)—Comedian Jack Benny, the perennial 39-year-oldster, aged considerably the other night.

Benny, speaking at a banquet honoring Gov. Goodwin Knight, said: "Incidently, I'm not 39. I really don't mind telling you that on my last birthday, Feb. 14, I was 60.

Collie Culprit Moves Street Flags in Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (UP)—Street department officials were sore because someone kept taking the guard flags from a freshly painted center stripe on West Dodge street.

They finally caught the culprit—a large collie dog which took each flag in his mouth and moved it from the center of the street to the curb.

IF YOU ARE BUYING A USED CAR . . .

The wisest first step in the purchase of a used car is to consult the Cars for Sale columns of the Anaheim Bulletin.

The long list of offers in the classified section each week presents a comprehensive guide to the market and indicates not only the range available, but the prevailing prices for the various makes and years.

The leading dealers, as well as private individuals recognize the Anaheim Bulletin as the newspaper which is habitually referred to by car buyers. For that reason they use it to advertise their keenest bargains.

Village Trembles When Church 'News' Issued

By WILLIAM TUCKER
United Press Correspondent

STONE MOUNTAIN, Ga., (UP) When certain husbands walk shame-faced into the Stone Mountain Methodist Church Sunday the chances are their sins already will have been bared for them by the Rev. Lamar H. Watkins in his weekly church bulletin.

The Rev. Watkins is not a man to pull his punches with platitudes when he can win penitence with a sharp frontal assault from his typewriter.

When the weekly Methodist Church News comes off the pastor's mimeograph this entire village near Atlanta trembles with trepidation. No one — not the mayor, rival ministers, the congregation, nor even little children are safe from his salty barbs.

Hymn Book Worries

Watkins lately has been worried about the hymn book situation.

"There are too many Methodists," he wrote, "who come to church once or twice a year, throw a nickel in the plate and then walk out with 10 or 12 dollars worth of hymn books. Mrs. Hugh Jordan, (he asks a member) what kind of religion is that?

"If you love sacred music and feel that you must have a few hymn books around to tone up the atmosphere of your home, why don't you do the decent and honorable thing?" the bulletin continued. "Exercise a little Christian patience and wait until the Baptists have their revival. Then you can pick up a few hymn books without working a hardship on any of us."

And there's the matter of the street light.

"A street light definitely will be placed in front of the Methodist church," the pastor wrote. "Our beloved mayor has done all he can and now awaits action from the Georgia Power Co.

"Thnk you very much, Mr. Mayor, for these reassuring words. The Methodists are not a cantankerous people. With an Episcopalian running the town and a couple of Baptists drilling our teeth all week, most Methodists in Stone Mountain stay scared half to death most of the time."

Violence Sanctioned

The pastor then poses this question: "Does one human being ever have a moral right to use physical violence upon another?"

Answer: "Why yes, Frances, I think you have a perfect right to do anything you can to get Ogie to church."

The pastor is especially concerned about member Tom McConnell.

"Last Sunday night," he wrote, "a record-breaking crowd jammed into the Methodist church. The report had got out that Tom McConnell was coming.

"Unfortunately this was not true. Tom was down on Jackson Lake. The question was then raised as to what a morally rigid puritan (we are still talking about Tom) was doing on a lake on Sunday.

"Bill Meathoy became very embarrassed. He said he didn't know exactly what Tom was doing down at the lake, but he thought he must have gone to a baptizing. This is probably true. When a man like Tom gets a strong case of religion it's mighty hard to hold him down."

Russian Port of Stettin Revealed As Source of Arms Flow to Reds

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The State Department has just put the spotlight on a port from which Soviet Russia maintains a flow of arms and other strategic materials to Communists all over the world.

Stettin, in the western part of the Baltic Sea, is the port. It is in Polish-occupied Germany but like Poland itself it is under Soviet control. Russia has made it a center for secret arms shipments.

Arms for the Chinese Communists, for the North Koreans, for the Indochinese rebels, for Communist undergrounds in free countries, go out steadily from Stettin.

Reports from West Berlin say that the Communists are sending arms from the great Skoda munitions works in Czechoslovakia, optical and other equipment from East Germany and supplies of all kinds from Russia through Stettin as part of the Kremlin's international operations.

A Major Port

Stettin has been a major port for centuries. It is an important rail center and is the terminus of the Berlin-Stettin Canal system.

During World War II Stettin was 45 per cent destroyed by Allied bombers. Its population fell from 375,000 to 73,000. But it has been rebuilt rapidly and now has 200,000 people. The Russians turned it over to Poland after the war and it has been incorporated into Poland.

The ships which take supplies to Red China from Stettin and other Iron Curtain ports have to run the Chinese Nationalist blockade. Some of them get caught. Only last week the Nationalist navy captured an 8,000-ton Polish tanker. The Poles accused the United States Navy of helping.

But the shipments which go from Stettin to non-Communist countreis also are a matter of concern to the United States.

Crates Labelled Machinery

Crates from Stettin labelled "machinery" may contain arms for Communists in Indonesia, in one of the Middle Eastern countries or a country in the Western Hemisphere. These shipments usually are addressed to an ostensibly legitimate import company to help get them by customs men. Some are seized. Others get through.

The State Department announcement that "an important shipment of arms" has reached Guatemala from Stettin put the spotlight on these operations.

Guatemala is not a Communist country though its government has been accused of subjecting itself to Communist influence. In any event the United States does not want any arms which might reach Communists to be sent to Western Hemisphere countries. The State Department's view of the Guatemala shipment was:

"Because of the origin of these arms, the point of their embarkation, their destination and the quantity of arms involved, the Department of State considers that this is a development of gravity."

There may be more "developments of gravity" from Stettin. A State Department spokesman said Tuesday that the Communist shipment of arms to Guatemala could be considered a threat to the security of the Western Hemisphere.

Gary Crosby Show Big Plans Set

STANFORD, Calif. (UP) Gary Crosby, 21-year-old son of crooner Bing Crosby, will take over his fathers radio show this summer, and he says he plans to "pretty much follow in the old mans footsteps.

The Stanford senior, who finishes college June 1, will take over the half-hour coast-to-coast radio show June 6. Appearing on the first program with him will be his fraternity brother, Ted Devine, son of scratchy voiced movie star, Andy Devine.

"Asked if he was going to match his father's relaxed radio manner, Gary laughed and said, "I sure hope so. It goes over every time."

His three younger brothers and Bing will also be on the program from time to time, he reported. "A real family affair."

The Crosby family's traditional summer on Bing's Nevada ranch will be out for Gary this year.

"We're probably going to be broadcasting from Hollywood," he said. "I'm not sure about the ranch. I'll just have to talk it over with the old man."

Gary is the eldest of the four Crosby sons and apparently the only one planning to go into the entertainment field. He has made guest appearances on his father's radio series during the past two years and has joined Bing on several recordings.

Construction of Private Homes Sets New Mark

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Labor Department reported today that private home construction smashed a 3½-year record in April when there were 109,100 new starts.

It said starts on privately financed units actually rose 14 per cent between March and April and that the increase was general in all parts of the country except the Southeast.

The construction boom this spring is considered one of the brightest spots in the economy. It is credited with helping to stem rising unemployment.

The department announced Friday night that the number of persons filing new claims for unemployment insurance jumped 10 per cent during the first week of May to a total of 327,200.

It said about half the rise came from unemployed who were ineligible to apply for insurance payments before May 1. The rest of the increase stemmed from new job layoffs in the auto, apparel, electrical machinery and aircraft industries.

Despite the rise in insurance claims, total unemployment actu- increased work among construc- ally is considered down because of tion, farm, and various other groups connected with springtime activity. A joint Labor-Commerce department report showed last Friday that the jobless total dropped 260,000 from mid-March to mid-April.
