Thousands Jam Disneyland at Preview Opening

Hundreds More Await Big Opening of Park Today

Disneyland, Walt Disney's long-dreamed-of magic kingdom, became an arena of confusion and frustration yesterday during the "invitational press preview," dedication ceremonies and coast-to-coast television program when more than 30,000 persons elbowed and crowded to see the sights of the "wonderland."

The scene was expected to be repeated today when the gates opened to the general public at 10 a.m. Anaheim police reported this morning a line of traffic extending more than two miles down Katella avenue waiting for the gates to open, many of whom had waited all night long in the line of cars outside the gates.

Invited to yesterday's "press preview" were some 5000 news writers and photographers from throughout the nation and 30 foreign countries and their families. However, there were also approximately 25,000 additional guests including employes of Disney Studios, commercial firms that are exhibitors in the park, ABC and state and civic officials.

Traffic Jammed

One of the first headaches encountered yesterday was the traffic described by police as the "worst traffic mess we've ever seen." Cars were bumper to bumper on all roads leading to Disneyland in long lines creating a traffic jam and short tempers in the 87-degree temperature.

Once inside the park, long lines waiting to get on the rides and into many many of the exhibits greeted one at every turn. All restaurants had extended lines of patient people waiting four abreast for a chance to eat.

Children were probably the most disappointed guests because of the inability to get near the rides. Tears were evident on many tykes' faces because they couldn't take a ride in a covered wagon or enter the magic realm of Fantasyland. That portion of the park was kept closed until the television broadcast when 500 Anaheim children dashed across the castle draw bridge to officially open that section. Following the end of the telecast, huge throngs of people jammed onto the entrance bridge. Many of the rides in Fantasyland, designed primarily for the children operated only a short time and were occupied mostly by adults.

Some Miscues

The telecast went off fairly well although there were some miscues and disjointed segments. ABC TV officials expressed confidence that when the final tally is completed the show will have drawn the largest television audience in the history of the industry.

A galaxy of movie and television stars were present at yesterday's preview opening. Among them were Bob Cummings, Art Linkletter, Danny Thomas, Irene Dunn, Fess Parker (Davy Crockett) Buddy Ebsen, Carlton Heston, Lana Turner, George Gobel, Tennessee Ernie, Peter Lorrie, James Mason, Maureen O'Hara, Marie Wilson, Eddie Fisher and Debbie Reynolds, Ken Murray, Ronald Reagan, Frank Sinatra and many, many more.

Despite opening-day confusion, the guests appeared impressed with Disneyland and hailed Disney's mecca of enjoyment.

Because most of the park is leased to commercial firms selling their wares, not much of the park is free. Rides range in price from 25 to 50 cents with most pegged at 35 cents for adults and 25 for children under 12.

Disneyland officials anticipate 40,000 customers per day and claimed the average cost per person would be $2.

The park stands about three-quarters completed and late Saturday workmen were still painting, planting vegetation and finishing details for yesterday's show. The smell of wet paint was evident throughout with much of it still wet.

Disneyland Keeps Local Police Busy

"Don't ask me how many calls we had from Disneyland yesterday," Anaheim Police Captain, "Tommy" Taylor said today, "Don't even lead up to it."

Roland Weir, 10831 Harbor, phoned Anaheim police late in the afternoon, yesterday, to report he was holding a small boy who had apparently wandered off the Disney grounds and was lost from his parents.

At 5:45 p.m. yesterday the Disneyland Police station was holding about 15 lost children.

Carl Anson Walker, 20112 Santa Ana Avenue, Santa Ana, worriedly told local police last night at 8 that he believed his car had been stolen off the Disneyland parking lot. Police, however, assisted him in his search, and the car was located in the vast lot, just where he had parked it.

Police answered a call from Disneyland and Harbor Avenue residents at 7 a.m. today to break up the impending traffic jam near the playground's entrance. Cars were lined up from the entrance as far back as Katella and police said that most of them had been parked there all night.

HELICOPTER MAKES INAUGURAL PASSENGER FLIGHT—Walt Disney welcomes young Edward Albert, Jr., 4, to Disneyland as he steps down from the helicopter which made its inaugural passenger flight to Anaheim from Los Angeles International Airport today. Others pictured are Clarence Belinn, president Los Angeles Airways; Margo Albert, entertainment star and mother of young Albert, Carl Miller, president Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce; Disney, and Charles A. Pearson, Mayor of Anaheim. Young Albert is the son of movie star Eddie Albert. (Bulletin Photo)

Hearing Set Tomorrow On City of Dairyland

SANTA ANA, (OCNS) — The County Board of Supervisors will hold a public hearing at 2 p.m. tomorrow on the proposal to carve a sixth-class city out of approximately two and one-half miles west of Buena Park.

The city claiming more than 600 residents would be known as Dairyland.

Tomorrow's hearing is for the purpose of allowing property owners to voice their objections to being included in the projected city.

After the hearing supervisors then can set an election date. New boundaries may have to be established.

County Clerk B. J. Smith said the election probably will be slated late in September. Time for filing of council nominations and publishing of notices must be allowed after the supervisors schedule the election.

Two Motorists Killed in Crash West of Atwood

SANTA ANA (OCNS)—Two persons were killed and 28 others injured in Orange County rural road accidents between noon Saturday and 6 a.m. today, the Highway Patrol reported.

Death struck down two motorists in a thundering, head-on collision on Placentia-Yorba Blvd., west of Atwood, early yesterday.

The patrol identified the dead as Anthony Earl Pall, 33, 3537 Lime Ave., Long Beach, and Roy Leonard Coronado, 24, 1933 Esperanza, Anaheim. They were killed almost instantly, according to the coroner's office. Bodies were removed to McCormick Mortuary, Fullerton, pending funeral arrangements.

The accident occurred at 1:15 a.m. The patrol said Coronado was east-bound on Placentia-Yorba when his vehicle apparently crossed the double line.

Coronado's new auto skidded 141 feet and struck Pall's head-on, the patrol said, belting the latter's vehicle backward 45 feet.

Pall's machine flipped over on its top. Both vehicles were totally demolished.

Passengers La Velle Coffman, 35, of Compton and Laura Jean Singler, 31, 3582 Howard Ave., Los Alamitos, suffered injuries when a car driven by Dalla O. Donald, 50, of Compton collided with another last night at Highway 39 and Orangewood Ave.

Laura Jean Singler had possible major injuries and was taken to Orange County Hospital. Mrs. Coffman was hurt to a lesser degree and was to see her doctor. Driver of the other involved car was Virginia Hale Lee, 36, 724 N. Linden Dr., Beverly Hills.

Driver Lydia E. Ramirez, 19, and passenger Madeline Rodriguez, 16, both of 10021 Berry, Anaheim, were ambulanced to Orange County hospital for treatment of minor injuries after a three-car accident on Coast Highway near Laguna Beach.

Van Nuys Man Dies In Santa Ana Crash

SANTA ANA (OCNS)—A 37-year-old Van Nuys man was killed in a freeway crash at Santa Ana yesterday. Taken to Winbigler's Mortuary was the body of Ray Winfrey Holbrook, who's car apparently went out of control near Fourth Street, hit the center island and blew a tire, then careened across the freeway into a light standard.

Holbrook's body was pitched out of the vehicle. The light pole and the automobile crashed on top of him, killing him instantly.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF

QUESTION STUDENT ABOUT MISSING GIRL

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP)—Burton W. Abbott, 27, a University of California accounting student, prepared today to submit to lie detector and psychiatric tests in an attempt to clear himself of suspicion in the mysterious disappearance of Stephanie Bryan.

Stephanie, 14, disappeared April 28 while on her way home from school.

63 DEAD IN CASABLANCA RIOTS

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP)—France fired Casablanca's principal police commissioner today in the wake of race riots that have turned the city into a bloody battleground.

The latest uprisings raised the total dead to at least 63 in four days. Unofficial reports set the death toll as high as 200. At least 125 persons have been wounded.

STRIP TEASERS SEEK HIGHER PAY SCALE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—More than a dozen strip teasers today planned ways of winning higher pay scales for performing bumps and grinds in Los Angeles.

Jennie Lee, founder and president of the League of Exotic Dancers, called the protest meeting because she said Los Angeles burlesque dancers are the lowest paid in the country.

NEW AIR FORCE ACADEMY PLANS REVEALED

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force today disclosed revised plans for its new academy buildings. They showed smaller expanses of glass. Gone was the controversial chapel that some persons said looked like an accordion.

Silver Bonus Pot Increased by $10

Each week $60 instead of the former $50, will be tacked to the Silver Bonus, beginning this week.

This increase has been made possible by the five new Silver Bonus merchants in Anaheim.

The increase brings the jackpot for this week to $130.

See tomorrow's Silver Bonus page for bigger selections at bigger values with the big new giant weekly gift award.

Temperatures Again Hit in High 80's

Continued warm, sunny weather prevailed over Southern California today following a week end which sent thousands to the mountains and beaches.

Anaheim awakened early this morning to temperatures that could neither be classified as warm or cool, but by 11:30 a.m. today the mercury had climbed to 84 degrees, only two degrees less than yesterday's high at 2 p.m. of 86 degrees.

Coastal areas got some haze during the early-morning hours today but otherwise skies were clear and temperatures warm.

Thousands of persons took advantage of Sunday's fair weather and flocked to the mountain and beach resorts. At least 53 bathers were pulled from the water by lifeguards working the surf from Zuma Beach to Long Beach.

Temperatures remained high Sunday with Daggett leading Southern California at 108. It was 104 at Blythe and 101 at El Centro.

Weather

Mostly sunny today and Tuesday with occasional fog or low clouds near coast. Little change in temperature. High today near 85 Civic Center and 75 at the beaches.

Anti-Polio Shots Resume Tomorrow

SANTA ANA (OCNS)—Clinics for the second round of anti-polio shots in Orange County will be established in Santa Ana, Anaheim and Alamitos School districts tomorrow.

Approximately 7366 first and second graders needing second shots of the Salk vaccine were to be inoculated in Brea, Buena Park and Fullerton. Northern County students began filing through the clinics at 9 a.m.

Anaheim's clinic tomorrow will be held in Washington School. It will be for Anaheim and Katella districts. In Santa Ana, the clinics will be conducted in Martin school, Alamitos clinic will be conducted in Marie Hare school. Cypress, Centralia, Los Alamitos and Alamitos children will take the shot.

It was re-emphasized today by county health officer Dr. E. L. Russell that no first shots will be given. If a student missed a clinic in his area there's no chance for a makeup at this time.

Wednesday clinics are slated for Westminster, Garden Grove and Orange.

Two Anaheim Firemen Hurt Fighting Blaze

Two Anaheim firemen were slightly injured at about 7 p.m. Saturday, one struck by falling glass, and the other hurt when a roof caved in under his weight while he worked to extinguish a fire in a store room at 1940 E. Anaheim-Olive Road.

Cause of the fire, Fire Chief, Ed Stringer said, has not yet been determined, but two trucks were rolled on it. The fire lasted only shortly more than 20 minutes.

The injured men were Chuck Revell, 1533 E. Elm street, whose right forearm was lacerated by glass falling from a picture frame within the burning structure; and Don Berger, 560 S. Dickie, who suffered ankle burns, and burns to his hands when he suddenly dropped to his arm pits though a section of the roof weakened by the fire.

Both men were treated at Anaheim Community Hospital and released.

Opens Confab With Plea For Cold War Armistice

GENEVA UP—President Eisenhower opened the Big Four summit conference today with a challenge to Russia to agree to a free, unified Germany and to controlled disarmament that would guarantee against "frightful surprises" in this atomic age.

The President's speech, while challenging, was far from pessimistic. And the eight-point program he proposed for a cold war armistice was in keeping with the cordial atmosphere in which this first top level conference since Potsdam's disappointments opened in the Palace of Nations.

Mr. Eisenhower emphasized the cordiality of the conference opening by shaking the hand of Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov in what the President's press secretary described as "a very enthusiastic" meeting between the two World War II comrades.

Opening Speeches

Then the Big Four, President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Anthony Eden, French Premier Edgar Faure, Soviet Premier nikolai Bulganin and their respective staffs of advisers and consultants assumed their seats at the conference table.

Mr. Eisenhower and Faure made their opening statements during the morning conference session. Eden opened the afternoon session with a speech that flatly offered Russia the following:

1. "A security pact of which those around this table and a united Germany might be members."

2. Discussions on "the total forces and armaments on each side in Germany and the countries neighboring Germany." This, he said, would entail "reciprocal control to supervise the arrangement."

3. "We should be ready to examine the possibility of a demilitarized area between East and West."

Challenge to Russia

Soviet Premier Bulganin was scheduled as the day's last speaker.

Mr. Eisenhower, keynoting the conference, called for a "new spirit."

He urged the heads of governments to "generate and put into motion the new forces needed to set us truly on the path to peace."

"All humanity will devoutly pray" for this, he said.

Mr. Eisenhower frankly challenged Russia to "improve the international climate" by cooperating with the West in a workable program of disarmament and the use of atomic energy "for constructive purposes."

The American chief executive, speaking with obviously deep conviction and sincerity, laid before the three other chiefs of governments his eight-point program for achieving peace.

Eisenhower's Program

His eight-step plan for bringing an end to the cold war was:

1. German reunification, following free all-German elections.

2. An East-West security system in which a united Germany would be free to choose its own allies.

3. Recognition of the right of the Soviet satellites to choose their own forms of governments.

4. Removal of "communication and human" barriers separating the Soviets and the West.

5. An end to international Communist subversion.

6. Limitation of armaments.

7. A higher standard of living for under developed nations.

8. Development of peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Faure addressed the conference immediately after Mr. Eisenhower had concluded his 1300-word summary of American objectives.

RETAIL HEAD — Al Cotler (above) was elected new chairman of Anaheim Retail Division of the Chamber of Commerce at the meeting of the Division last week and Martha Schumacher, former chairman, received a plaque from Chamber's President, Herb Perry, in recognition of a year of "work, well done." At the same meeting, held at Dorothy Wade's Restaurant, the Division concluded arrangements for Anaheim stores to remain open on Mondays until 9 p.m. The new night shopping hours will become effective July 25.

Probe Plane Crash That Killed 22

CHICAGO (UP)—A coroner's jury today investigated an apparently normal instrument landing of a Braniff Airways' Convair plane that crashed Sunday and killed 22 persons and injured 22 others.

It was one of Chicago's worst plane crashes.

The two-engined airliner roared out of a fogged and smoke-hazy sky on a flight that started at Dallas, Tex., and clipped a filling station electric sign. The impact shot the plane into a street bordering Midway Airport, through a fence and sent it bouncing in pieces into the airport. The wreckage caught fire, but flames were put out quickly which saved many from death.

There was no indication of any trouble prior to the crash. Preliminary investigations showed the plane was making a normal instrument landing according to schedule.

The inquest to investigate the crash was called by Cook County Coroner Walter J. Mc Carron for today.

All but one of the dead and injured was aboard the plane. The exception is Mrs. Sara Ellis, 39, Chicago, who was thrown from an automobile by the force of the crash as the vehicle waited in the street for a traffic light. She was treated for cuts and bruises in a hospital.

The dead included Troy K. Lindsey, 23, Midwest City, Okla., who was enroute to the Chicago Cardinals professional football training camp Lindsey, 245-pound guard and line backer, had played with Central State College. He had signed with the Cards as a free agent two weeks ago.

"PACT WITH GOD!"

Housewife Pledges Fast 'Unto Death' To Protest Drafting of Only Child

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—A devout housewife declaring she intends to fast "unto death" today entered the third full day of her hunger strike protesting the drafting of her only child.

Slender, dark-haired Mrs. Martha Blumenbach, 52, was reported weak but still determined to fulfill a "pact between myself and God" as a result of the induction of her 26-year-old dentist son.

Her husband, Earl Blumenbach, a well-to-do businessman, said his wife had consumed nothing but a little water since 5:30 p.m. Friday, the day their son, Dr. Thomas E. Blumenbach, was drafted.

She did not feel strong enough to attend church Sunday and spent most of the day resting, he said, but was in good condition under the circumstances. She is a member of the Unity Church.

Asked if a doctor had been called, he said, "That hasn't been necessary, yet."

Mrs. Blumenbach said she would try to attend to her usual duties about their large home in an exclusive residential area of Coral Gables, Fla., while fulfilling her "pact" to starve "unto death."

She said her father committed suicide in protest against the entry of his eldest son in military service during World War I and that she made her pact when the draft law of 1940 was enacted.

The father and son, both deeply religious, indicated they sympathize with her motive but the elder Blumenbach said "The whole thing is very upsetting—I'd rather not talk about it."

Judging for Miss United States Begins Today in Miss Universe Fete

LONG BEACH, Calif., (UP) — Attention in the Miss Universe pageant shifted from foreign to domestic beauties today when judging began in the Miss United States contest.

Winner of the miss United States title will be decided Wednesday and she will participate in preliminary judging which starts Thursday for the honor of the most beautiful girl in the world.

Following a morning rehearsal session, the 75 Miss Universe entries visited Universal-International Studios where they met several motion picture stars.

A crowd estimated at more than 500,000 lined a 15-block parade route yesterday to get a look at the entries. The parade lasted nearly two hours.

Leading the procession of colorful floats was Miriam Stevenson, Winnsboro, S.C., last year's winner.

Only one of the bathing suit-clad girls appeared on the verge of fainting from the humid 84-degree heat. Sirkku Talja, Miss Finland, finally asked that her float be stopped temporarily. She wiped her face with a sweater and then continued in the parade.

Some of the girls, however, were reddened by the bright sunshine. Commented one of the foreign entries:

"Now I know why you call California sun-kissed."

In addition to the girls there were 15 marching bands and novelty floats. But the spectators were busy using cameras in an all-out picture onslaught against the shapely beauty contestants.

Judging from the response of the record-size crowds, blonde, curvy Carolann Connor, Miss Georgia, will be one of the favorites. She quickly caught the favor of the crowds with her ready smile.

Others who appeared to be crowd favorites included Jean Dernago, Miss Massachusetts; Yolanda Mayen, Miss Mexico; Barbara Gurley, Miss Tennessee; and Keiko Takasashi, Miss Japan.

12 Russian Farmers on Visit to Iowa To Find Out What Makes U.S. Tick

DES MOINES, Iowa (UP) — Twelve Russian farmers bounced across Iowa's tall-corn country today in a tractor-drawn flat bed wagon and found out what makes America tick.

The Russians, accompanied by three Soviet newsmen, got their month-long tour of the nation's breadbasket underway with a visit to the 160-acre farm of Richard L. Alleman, a 35-year-old Army veteran, near Slater, Iowa, north of here.

Their main purpose was to learn how America builds up huge food surpluses while Soviet production lags.

And Alleman said he and his family would be happy to answer all the questions they might ask. He said he felt "quite honored that the delegation of Soviet experts picked his farm to visit.

Alleman, who served with the Army in Alaska; his wife, Verda, 23, and their two children, Bruce, 3, and Sherry, 1, wore their everyday clothes for the Russians' visit.

The delegation got right down to business today following an enthusiastic welcome by Iowa residents and officials upon their arrival Sunday night.

They were to return from the Alleman farm at about 5 p.m. EDT; attend a luncheon addressed by Profs. Herbert Howell and College; then a news conference, and finally wind up the day with a dinner sponsored by the agriculture committee of the Des Moines Chamber of Commerce.

Sunday night's cordial welcome was in direct contrast to the booing given Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov when he passed through the Midwest recently on the way to the tenth anniversary celebration of the United Nations in San Francisco.

A crowd estimated at 2,700 persons waved and applauded the Russians as they arrived here by plane in ill-fitting suits but wearing broad smiles.

Burned Dwelling Brings Damage Suit

SANTA ANA, (OCNS) — Claiming the defendant permitted fire to leapfrog from his property to theirs causing extensive damage Henry Mang and Minnie B. Dierberger of Anaheim, today filed a $25,100 suit in superior court here Friday.

They named La Vern Page of Yorba Linda defendant. According to the plaintiffs they owned property at 11552 Ball Rd. which was damaged by flames.

Mang owned a residence worth $12,000 and furnishings in it valued at $7000, according to the complaint. Minnie Dierberger allegedly owned $6000 worth of furnishings in the dwelling.

The plaintiffs claim the defendant started a fire on property adjacent to theirs on Sept. 14, 1954. Page failed to properly tend the blaze which was located in brush and trees. They claim, as a result, the plaintiffs allege flames hopped to their property and destroyed the dwelling.

Polio Patient Shows Improvement After Bearing Child Under Hypnosis

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A 32-year old woman who gave birth to a baby boy under hypnosis while critically ill with polio showed much improvement today.

Doctors said the mother, Mrs. Edward Schwartz of Dallas, still was critically ill. But they said she showed an immediate improvement as soon as the baby was delivered Sunday, a month early.

Doctors said the baby was "very healthy." Nurses said the baby is "stout-lunged," and "howled for a bottle" Sunday not too many hours after his birth.

The delivery of the baby was made by a staff of experts from the University of Texas' Southwestern Medical School here. A psychiatrist performed the hypnosis for the delivery.

"Now we have four sons," Mrs. Schwartz beamed, as she spoke her first words after the delivery. Later she told her husband, a jewelry salesman, that it was the most painless childbirth of the four she had known.

Doctors said that "as far as we know" Mrs. Schwartz was the first polio patient ever to deliver a baby under hypnosis.

Mrs. Schwartz was eight months pregnant when she was stricken with paralytic spinal polio last Tuesday. Since then, she has been in critical condition and had much difficulty in breathing.

Doctors said pressure of the unborn child against her chest area made breathing almost impossible. They induced her labor with drugs and delivered the baby with instruments.

An immediate improvement in her breathing was noted after the birth, doctors said.

Two Pay Fines for Drunk Driving

Philip James Arbiso, 6112 Western avenue, arrested July 3 at about 11:50 p.m. on Highway 39, near the intersection of Chester, appeared in Anaheim-Fullerton Municipal Court Friday pleaded guilty to two counts of drunk and drunk driving and was fined a total of $184, and placed on two years summary probation, but his driver's license was not suspended.

Joe Clyde Goodwin, 27, 7074 Stanton Avenue, Buena Park, arrested on the same charge as Arbiso, in Buena Park, was fined $184, received a year's suspension of his driver's license and was sentenced to three months in the County Jail, suspended.

John Schultz, 46, 1011 North Marvard, Fullerton, received a reduction in his fine on the charge of being drunk in a parked car, 12:45 a.m., July 10 in Fullerton. Originally the fine was set at $100, but it was brought down to $50.

Arrested at 2 a.m., July 10, on Highway 39 near Lincoln Avenue charged with being drunk in an auto, John Luther Mauldin yesterday was fined $100. Mauldin lives at 10442 Knott Avenue.

You and the West profit when Standard changes a dollar

Like you and your family, Standard Oil Company of California has to have money coming in to keep going. And like you, we must divide every dollar of this income into quite a few pieces to keep the bills paid. Our budgeting is naturally on a large scale, but the result is about the same: most of the money Standard takes in goes right back into circulation. And when a sum like $1,229,000,000 (our total income last year) goes into circulation, its benefits are broad and deep. Practically everyone in the West shared, directly or indirectly, in Standard's good year. We thank you for your patronage that made it possible. And we'd like you to know that a sizable piece of change from each of our dollars goes for things that improve service to you: research facilities for development of better products at low cost; new plants to make them more available; widespread exploration for new petroleum fields to help keep America's oil barrel full. To do these jobs, now and for the future, here's how we changed a Standard dollar:

38¢ from every dollar went for wages, services and goods. Of this $471,500,000 the largest item was for payroll, vacations, sickness payments, other employee benefits. Most of the rest went to buy supplies, from paper clips to steel, bought locally when possible. Standard was a customer of thousands of Western firms.

2¢ to working capital and debt. This $20 million increased inventories of products for future sale and included payments on debt.

13¢ paid for other new construction and exploration. It cost $162 million and it included money for refineries, pipe lines and for drilling wells in the search for new oil.

10¢ was set aside for depreciation, to help replace facilities as they wore out. A great deal of this $119 million went to workmen, technicians, and suppliers.

8¢ for taxes was divided among the U.S. government, states, counties and cities. Standard's tax bill came to $101,500,000 ... enough to build plenty of schools, bridges, park equipment, etc. Standard also collected product and sales taxes for federal, state and city governments.

22¢ went for crude oil. To supplement our own production, Standard bought millions of barrels from hundreds of independent producers. This cost $268 million — an important item to producers' profits and their employees' paychecks.

7¢ of every dollar, or $87 million, was left to divide among our owners, Standard's 117,035 shareholders, in return for the use of the money they have invested in the Company.

STUDENT NURSES' APPRECIATE—Ten student nurses received grants-in-aid (scholarships) of $150 each from the Florists' Telegraph Delivery association at the Rodger Young Auditorium banquet with Dick Braskamp, past president of the Western Hospital association presenting certificates to winners. Andrade's for Flowers in Anaheim, chairman of the scholarship fund for Southern California unit of FTD, with Betty Bock of Alhambra, University of California Medical Center, placing her beautiful lei around his neck, a gesture of appreciation to LTD for the grants-in-aid. Witnessing the rite were (left) Marlene Huhn of Los Angeles, Mt. St. Mary's college; and Carol Richmond, Maupin, Ore., Los Angeles County General hospital, three of the scholarship winners. Heading the list was Thano Peratus, Orange County General School of Nursing, who plans to go to Greece as a male nurse in the U. S. Foreign service.

Internationally Known Dutch Conductor Comes to Hollywood

Eduard Van Beinum, world-renowned conductor and musical director of the Amsterdam Concertgebouw, who is coming to the Hollywood Bowl direct from Europe for his debut, will conduct the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra in the first of four concerts Tuesday. The celebrated Gregor Piatigorsky, world's foremost cellist, will be featured soloist, playing Dvorak's Concerto for Cello and Orchestra in B Minor.

Van Beinum will also conduct the orchestra in two works by Luvig van Beethoven, the Overture to "Coriolanus," and the Symphony No. 3 in E Flat Major "Heroica."

Marjorie Lawrence, well known dramatic soprano will be soloist Thurs., July 21 when Van Beinum makes his second podium appearance. Miss Lawrence's selections will include "Thou God Most High" from the Oratorio "Belshazzar" by Handel; and Act 3, Scene 3 from Wagner's "Die Walkeure."

Van Beinum will conduct the Overture to "Anacreon" by Cherubini; Mendelssohn's Symphony No. 4 in A Major (Italian); Overture and Venusberg Music from "Tannhauser" and Prelude to "Die Meistersinger," both by Wagner.

The third "Pops" concert July 23 will see singer Anna Maria Alberghetti and her entire family as featured artists.

Give Fair Non-Competitive Exhibit Details, Deadline

A variety of educational and non-competitive exhibits will be included with the 1955 Orange County Fair Flower show, according to Mrs. Weston Walker, supervisor of the amateur division.

In addition to the individual competitions and the organizational feature displays, there is to be a series of interpretive floral compositions depicting communities of Orange County. Display niches have been provided for Santa Ana, Orange, Newport Beach, Costa Mesa, Laguna Beach, San Clemente, Westminster, Anaheim and Fullerton.

Members of Orange County garden clubs will staff an information booth, while the Santa Ana Public Library will offer a display of gardening books and magazines. Joe Littlefield, the gardening authority, will be in the information booth all day Thursday, Aug. 11.

Other special displays will include cacti and succulents by Cactus Pappy of Anaheim; Japanese flower arrangements by Mrs. George Ichien of Santa Ana; hibiscus display by Lydia Caroline Davis of Santa Ana; herbs by the Orange County Herb Society; birdhouses and garden shrines by John Lutz Sr.; geraniums by H. W. Longfellow, farm adviser; and an educational exhibit by the Orange County Bird Club.

Parky, the Cleanup Kangaroo, and the Litterbug will be displayed by Arthur Chase of the Los Angeles Recreation Department.

Advisers of the Santa Ana Junior Gardeners will conduct afternoon workshops for children wishing to learn how to make dish gardens, corsages, flower leis and garden scrapbooks.

Deadline Date

Deadline for all entries is Friday, July 22. Entry blanks may be obtained from the Fair office. Mrs. Walker urges non-competitive entries of plants and flowers not listed in the current premium book in order to expand the scope of competition for the 1956 Flower Show.

First judging of the Flower Show will be conducted at 6 p.m. Monday, Aug. 8, in advance of the formal preview at 8 p.m., sponsored by Soroptimist International of Santa Ana. All persons desiring invitations to the preview and the premiere performance of "Bouchard Returns" may inquire of any Soroptimist member or address requests to Soroptimist International, Soroptimist House, 216 S. Broadway, Santa Ana, or to the Fair, 20301 Newport Blvd., Costa Mesa.

PINK AND WHITE—Lovely in a gown of portrait styling Miss Marilyn Schimming became the bride of Bill Guss from Long Beach in an eight o'clock evening ceremony at the Grace Lutheran church. (Arsene photo)

Eight O'Clock Rites Read For Marilyn Schimming, Bill Guss

Saturday night at eight o'clock Miss Marilyn Schimming, wearing a portrait gown of palest pink embroidered nylon tulle over white satin was given in marriage by her father, Henry A. Schimming, as she stood at the altar of the Grace Lutheran church to repeat vows with Bill Guss of Long Beach. Officiant was the Rev. Harry F. Stief with double ring nuptials read.

Created with the influence of a Paris designer the bride's dress was exquisite with its queenly collar accented by the nun's pink satin brocaded flowers. This detail was repeated at the deep pointed neckline to the bodice, the fitted waist, shoulder and wrist of the long pointed sleeves, with the embroidered flowers also enhancing the loveliness of the floor length bouffant skirt. Elbow length, her silk illusion net veil fell from a matching embroidered cap, beautifully trimmed with sequins and pearls. She carried a cascade of stephanotis arranged with a huge white orchid, which she later wore as a corsage on her honeymoon costume.

Bridegroom's Gift

Adorning the neckline of the sheer yoke of Miss Schimming's gown was a single strand of matched pearls, a gift from her bridegroom. She wore a watch borrowed from a close friend, Mrs. Donald Mauerhan, which originally belonged to her mother.

Miss Schimming had Miss Linda Lutz as her honor maid with Miss Mary Lou Love, Miss Bette Heinz of Riverside, a cousin of the bridegroom as bridesmaids. Their gowns were in the bride's chosen color of soft pink and were identically designed from nylon dotted Swiss over crisp and swishing pink taffeta. Ballerina in length the gowns were further styled with the portrait neckline, to the snug bodice, the skirt fashioned with row on row of the pleated nylon tulle. Their head-dresses were in the pink shade.

Young Miss Lois Schimming, sister of the bride, was the junior bridesmaid. Her floor length frock of pink nylon dotted Swiss over taffeta had a quaint touch with its pointed collar and short puff sleeves edged in pink and white embroidery. There was a wide band at the hemline of the skirt and her head band was in the matching pink color. Miss Lutz carried pink roses in her bouquet with other attendants bouquets formed from white gamellias tinted in pastel pink.

Niece of the bridegroom, Margaret Heinz, her formal frock identical to the junior attendant's, was the flower girl. Her white basket was filled with pink blossoms and as she left the church at the end of the ceremony she walked with Master Mark Stief, who had served as ring bearer.

Ugene Guss of Long Beach attended to groomsman duties for his brother and ushering was by Donald Mauerhan, Erland Eberhard and Lowell Fickle.

Pink, White Decorations

Simplicity was the keynote for the pink and white decorations for the altar and the church parish hall where the wedding party was held.

At the head of the long sanctuary aisle were multi-lighted candles in candlelabra with baskets of pink and white flowers adding to the impressive architecture of the altar.

Cousins of the bride, the Misses Barbara and Norma Schimming dressed in identically fashioned pink-toned ballerina length dresses were the acolytes. They wore wristlets of baby pink roses.

The wedding song, "O Perfect Love" was sung by Mrs. Donald Mauerhan and Mrs. Dale Wolin before the entrance of the bride with her father. The Grace Lutheran choir, of which the bride is the regular organist, sang "The Wedding Prayer" as the young couple knelt to receive the nuptial blessing. "The Lord Bless You and Keep You" was the choir benediction song. Organist was Mrs. E. L. Hoffman of Bellflower.

Mothers Wear Blue Gowns

A dress created from pale blue lace and linen was worn by the bride's mother as she her husband stood with the newly-weds in the receiving line at the reception. Her hat was of white feathers and her accessories in blue and white. Gardenias and stephanotis formed her corsage.

Mrs. U. C. Guss, mother of the bridegroom, also chose a blue lace and linen dress for the occasion, her corsage created from gardenias and stephanotis. Also present was the grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Ray Walter from Riverside. She wore a printed French voile, her corsage, pink rose buds.

A pink and white pedestal cake, blending with the table and hall decorations in the same colors, centered the beautifully appointed bride's table. The cake was the culinary art of the bride's uncle, J. Vest of Lynwood. Serving hostesses were Mrs. Mauerhan, Mrs. Milo Saiben, Mrs. Albert Heinze, Mrs. Lawrence Brummett. They were assisted by Mrs. George Salisbury, Mrs. Palmer Saunders and Mrs. Raymond Heinze.

Bride's Honeymoon Dress

The new Mrs. Guss is a graduate of Anaheim High School and Fullerton Junior college and is presently employed as secretary to Drs. Claud Steen and F. Lynn Arthress of Fullerton. When she bade farewell to her friends as she left on her honeymoon she was wearing a blue and white cotton print dress with bolero jacket, the orchid from her bouquet as her corsage.

Her bridegroom, the son of Mrs. Guss and the late U. C. Guss of Long Beach, is a graduate of Long Beach Poly High and FJC. He served three years in the U.S. Air Force and is now employed at the Orange County Wholesale Electric Company in Santa Ana.

Pirate in Fair Show Named

Jim Hollenbeck of Santa Ana will appear in the title rôle of "Bouchard Returns" as the swashbuckling pirate when this traditional pageant is presented at the Orange County Fair, Aug. 9-14.

The pageant will be a completely new show this year, with an off stage narrator to supply the story of the pirate legend. With Hollenbeck in principle roles are Marion, Caracausa of Anaheim, Babs Jackson of Newport Beach, Joyce Anger of Huntington Beach and Joyce Riemer, the production choreographer. Hal George of Santa Ana will narrate the show.

Donna Elaine Newton Weds on Parents 50th Anniversary Date

Significant was the date of July 15 for Miss Donna Elaine Newton as she recited her marriage vows with Kenneth Elgin Hannibal for it was the silver wedding anniversary date for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Newton. The rites were performed in the gardens of the Newton home at 423 South Illinois St., with the charm of the South present. The date had further sentiment as it was the Mrs. Newton's birthday anniversary.

Gay and festive were the decorations, which blended beautifully with the natural shrubbery and flowers in the yard. Planned and arranged by close friends of the family, the touch of silver accented the white hybrid gladioli, stock and Marconi daisies set amidst woodwardia and ferns.

The bride's entrance was lighted by hurricane wrought iron lamps. The rites were read by the Reverend Ashby of the Southern Baptist church of this city.

Sentimental, too, was the interesting broach pinned to the neckline of the uniquely styled bolero jacket of the bridal dress. It was highly treasured by Miss Newton as it was symbolic of her ballet profession.

Portrait Bridal Ensemble

A tiny lace covered pillbox held the bride's filmy nylon tulle veil to her blond hair, her sparkling loveliness accented by the high styling of her gown. A figure-moulded bodice, bouffant Cinderella-length skirt of white polished cotton combined with pointe-de-sprie lace, was fashioned into her gown. The sleeves to the cut-away lace bolero, were long. A crescent bouquet of stephanotis with miniature white anthirium clustered around ivory tinted grapes, tied with black ribbon, was carried by the bride, who was escorted to the garden altar by her father. She wore a silver anklet, a favorite jewel-piece of her mother's.

Southern Belle Gowns

Carrying out the influence of the South, the attendants to the bride wore southern-styled gowns. The bouffant skirts were street length with the cummerbunds and capes of matching stripe. Flower clusters fastened their capes at the neckline and their gloves were white nylon net, their shoes white pumps. They carried Southern Belle natural straw hats filled with Marconi daisies.

Miss Bin Young was the maid of honor, the color of her dress, soft lavendar. Mrs. Al Wentworth, from Hollywood, and Miss Virginia Lee of Anaheim, both wearing rose pink gowns, were bridesmaids. All Attendants' gowns were fashioned by the bride's mother.

Little Miss Marilyn Pietrok, dressed in a replica of the gowns worn by attendants, served as flower girl.

Darryl Brewer from La Habra was best man. Richard Greenwell and Leonard Ingraham, both of Anaheim attended to ushering.

About Bride's Mother

Mrs. Newton carried an old fashioned nosegay with silver accent. A summer blue cotton silk cocktail suit was chosen for her daughter's wedding. With it she wore a contour hat of white satin and a cluster of stephanotis, tied with silver ribbon, was her corsage. Her shoes were blue and other accessories in white.

Mother of the bridegroom, unable to attend, sent her greetings to her new daughter-in-law from the bridegroom's family home in Texarkana, a border city of Texas and Arkansas.

The lovely garden yard was also the setting for the reception with Mrs. R. J. Grange, aunt of the bride, attending to serving. A close friend of the bride's family, Mrs. Nathan Lehman attending to the guest book. Pink flowers festooned the bride's reception table with the beautifully frosted cake, the bridal motif again accented by the silver tone for the Newton's wedding anniversary, cut by the bride and then the bridegroom.

Legend of Couple

When the young couple left on their wedding trip, Mrs. Hannibal was wearing a smartly styled lime green pure silk dress and carried a white linen coat. She is a graduate of Anaheim High school, where she will be remembered for her work in majorettes. She was formerly with the Anita Riedra Ballet studio of Hollywood.

Her bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hannibal of Texarkana graduated from the schools in that mid-west city and from Nort's East Louisiana college. He has been active in little theater work.

The young couple have planned their first home in Fullerton and will be at home after July 25.

DEEP SENTIMENT—Miss Elaine Newton, now Mrs. Kenneth Hannibal, chose her parent's silver wedding anniversary as the day for her marriage.

"Sunshine and Shadow," a book by Mary Pickford, is her autobiography. There is more than a history of motion pictures wrapped up in the career of America's Sweetheart. Here she tells also the personal story of her life, a life that has been full, exciting and productive.

Broadway Hit Opens August 15

Announcement was made today by Joseph Justman that Jack Present and Harry Zevin, executive producers at the Carthay Circle Theater, have completed negotiations for four more Broadway hit plays which will be presented, for the first time in Los Angeles, at the Carthay Circle beginning Aug. 15.

Opening attraction of the new series will be "Lunatics And Lovers," hilarious comedy by Sidney Kingsley which is currently in its 28th week on Broadway. Second in the series will be "King Of Hearts," a comedy hit of the past season which is about to be made into a film with Bob Hope and George Sanders. This play, written by Jean Kerr and Eleanor Brooke, opens for a four week run on Sept. 12.

October 10 will see the Pacific Coast premiere of "The Tender Trap," a romantic comedy which recently closed a lengthy Broadway run and is currently completing a road tour in Chicago. This Max Sauliman-Robert Paul Smith comedy is about to go before the cameras at MGM with Frank Sinatra and Debbie Reynolds in the top roles.

The final production of the season, opening on Nov. 7, will be a dramatic hit which is currently doing record business on Broadway, the title of which cannot be announced at this time for contractual reasons.

AUGUST WEDDING—Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Rowland of 225 Damron St., Porterville announce the engagement of their daughter, Sherill Ann of Anaheim to Don James Faulkner of Santa Ana. Plans are made for an Aug. 28 wedding at the Capilla de San Antonio. The bride-elect attended schools in Porterville. Her bridegroom-elect, the son of the William L. Faulkners of 1129 Kilson Dr., Santa Ana, has enrolled in Santa Ana college for the fall term. He served four years with the U. S. Air Force. (Arsene Photo)

PET SHOW DIGNITARIES—Petite Miss Ming, the Siamese kitten, one year old last Easter and the pet of Lynn Long walked off with sweepstake honors at the annual recreation pet show at the Anaheim City Park. Miss Genevieve, a four month old Dachshund belonging to Marilyn Mayberry, was rewarded with the grand sweepstakes. Tired from the heat Genevieve seemed little interested in photography. Both pets were beautifully marked and trained. (Bulletin photo)

Set Berkeley Meeting

Top mathematicians from all over the world are gathered on the Berkeley campus of the University of California for the second half of the Third Berkeley Symposium on Mathematical - Statistics and Probability.

Probability theory will be the principal topic for discussion at this half of the Symposium. During the first half, which was held last December, visiting mathematicians were concerned primarily with the application of statistics.

The Berkeley Symposia have become world famous among scientific circles as unique opportunities to exchange new ideas in the field. These meetings, which are held every five years, are organized by the University's Mathematics-Statistics Laboratory under the direction of Professor Jerzy Neyman. Both parts of 1955 Symposium are sponsored by the American Mathematical Society and are generously subsidized by the National Science Foundation, the Air Research and Development Command, the Office of Naval Research, and the Office of Ordnance Research.

Foreign visitors to the summer section of the Third Symposium are among the world's best scholars in the field. England, France, Switzerland, Algiers, Spain, and South Africa will be represented. Several scholars from the University of California and other American institutions will also deliver technical papers.

Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) —My heart palpitates for the nation's athletes today because they may take to heart what is being said about heart trouble.

A Philadelphia specialist named Dr. David Gelfand asserts you can correct heart trouble by acting normal and mild when you don't feel that way. His advice is to go ahead and blow your stack, even at the boss.

Maybe he's just fed up with the Phillies and figures this is a good way to get some new baseball talent in his town.

It might work, even on quiet Mayo Smith. But the consequences could be much more explosive in some of the other dugouts around the league. Consider, as example, the hectic case of the player who "blew his stack" at Leo Durocher.

It might ease the player's heart but there is a question of what would happen to his ears, eyes, nose and throat, not to mention other portions of his anatomy. Leo is not one to be bothered by the Marquis of Queensbury when somebody hollers "that she blows."

A Number of Others

There are a number of others, like Churck Dressen and Lous Boudreau, who are accustomed to sending as good as they receive, if not quite some better. And looking back into the past, imagine what would have been the result of a fractured stack against such as John McGraw and Joe McCarthy.

Pro basketball players will drool at the thought of somebody "telling off" Red Auerbach of the Boston Celtics and what college man, even a big wheel, would dare glare into the icy optics of Eddie Hickey, the "Little Napoleon" of St. Louis, or the well-named "Phog" Allen, the Kansas version of the five o'clock whistle.

Consider Biggie Munn, now. In his days as a football coach, Biggie had some mastodons under his direction. But I'd bet on Biggie and the Munn version of the flying tackle against just about anybody except, possibly, Antonio Rocca.

The "boss," in the case of ballplayers, is, of course, the umpire. Quite frequently, as the doctor may well know, they blow their stacks at the man in blue. It may be good for their hearts but I can't think of many times when it helped the blowee, or his team.

A Sock And A Pink Slip

Among athletes, the guy who blows his stack at the boss is not only in danger of getting the pink slip but he also well may get a whack on the kisser. This makes it tougher than on the average citizen, but he has his troubles, too, when you figure he might wind up doing his heart a favor to his stomach's disadvantage.

The good doctor has a fine idea because, as they say in the current song, "You Gotta Have Heart." It would be a medical phenomena, though, if you didn't. It's sort of like levitation. Fine, if it works.

Anaheim Juniors Off Against Whittier Club

Anaheim's junior boys' tennis team got off to a bad start as they took an 8 to 1 drubbing at the hands of the Whittier team in the opening round of the summer Twilight Tennis League. Phil Fenton was the only winner as he defeated Richard Ludhole in a one-sided 6-1, 6-1 victory.

The League is an annual summer series designed for junior players who are holding summertime jobs, with matches starting at 5:30 in the evening. Girls play on Tuesday evenings, with the boys taking to the courts on Wednesday. Anaheim's boys draw a bye in next week's schedule, with a home match on the local courts the following week.

BUENA PARK RECREATION

Junior Diamond Team Wins Five Straight

BY BETTE JO SMITH

BUENA PARK — Recreation Park's Junior baseball team won its fourth and fifth straight games of the season by defeating Downey, 25-1, and La Habra, 6-6, last week.

The Downey team did not furnish much competition for the locals as the Buena Park team scored in every inning. The big gun for the Buena Park team was Tim Ankerson who blasted two long home runs to drive in five runs. Tony Ankerson was the winning pitcher, allowing but three hits.

The La Habra game was an entirely different story with the locals staging a deperate rally in the last inning to overcome a three-run La Habra lead. Buena Park started the rally with one away in the last of the seventh with the first two batters reaching first base on walks.

The next batter was on by an error, filling the bases and the La Habra pitcher proceeded to walk the next batter to force in a run, making the score 6-4.

At this point, Leon Porter blasted a double to left center scoring two runs and tying the score and with Porter on second and Tolbert on third big Tony Ankerson blasted a home run over the left field wall producing three runs.

Don Bell, who divided pitching chores with Tony Ankerson, also garnered a home run in the sixth inning.

Final score of the game was 9-6 in favor of Buena Park Juniors.

Second Round Begins

The second round of the City League Softball program began this week with the Knights of Columbus finally coming into their own with a 17-3 victory over the Poor Sad Dads. Vern Gess pitched a gobd game for the Koc K of C team while Schroder made several sterling plays at the hot corner for the winners.

The P.S.D. team had one bright minute in the game when their big first baseman, Vernon, blasted a home run over the left center field fence. This was reported to be the longest ball ever hit on the recreation park diamond.

Foertmeyers Takes Second

In the playoffs for second place in the first round, the Foertmeyer team beat the Legion by a 14-3 score behind the stellar pitching of Bill Alahouse. By taking this game, the Foertmeyer team won second place trophies for the City League.

Buena Park Red Devil Pee Wee softball team opened its league schedule last Tuesday with a 16-9 trouncing of Anaheim's Roaring Rainbows. Ronnie Lyster went all the way on the hill for the Devil's, giving up only five hits. However, 12 bases on balls kept him in hot water much of the time. Air tight fielding by his mates, who committed only one error, held Anaheim down. Lyster struck out four in a good opening game performance.

Larry Hauptman, Zeke Halem, and Mike De Luca were big guns in the Devil attack. Hauptman gathered four hits in five attempts, driving in three runs. Halem got three singles in four times at bat. De Luca's home run with two mates aboard drove in the last three runs in the Devil's 10 run third inning.

Fagan Denies Report Seals Up for Sale

HANA, Maui Island, T.H. (UP) — Paul Fagan said today he has heard nothing about a report that Oscar Salenger and Rogers Hornsby are interested in buying the San Francisco Seals.

"No one has gotten in touch with me," Fagan said. "If someone wants to take the club over, I don't know who it would be."

Fagan, who sold the Seals two years ago to the "Little Corporation" headed by Damon Miller, still owns the Seals Stadium. The "Little Corporation" holds a lease on the stadium. It has three years to go. ep

PACIFIC COAST LEAGUE

Rainiers Now Foam To Top

By DON THACKREY
United Press Sports Writer

The hopped-up Seattle Rainiers foamed to head of the Pacific Coast League yesterday by collaring Oakland twice while San Diego went flat before the San Francisco Seals.

The Suds bottled up Oakland's hitting power and won 4-2 and 3-2 at the same time that San Francisco was shaking up San Diego 5-1 and 9-5. It left Seattle a game and a half ahead instead of a half game behind.

Portland and Los Angeles split a wild pair with the Beavers winning 9-5 and then surrendering a five-run lead to lose 9-8. Hollywood edged by Sacramento 2-1 and then dropped an 11-inning affair 4-3.

Vern Stephens, who has done it many times before, broke up the first game against Oakland with a first-inning home run. There were two men on base at the time and Stephens' blow provided the margin for John Oldham to take a win while pinning a loss on Charlie Beamon, Oakland's rookie phenom. Beamon was pulled after the first inning with a sore shoulder.

In the second contest Lou Kretlow of Seattle and Chris Van Cuyk of the Acorns put on a pitching display but Kretlow got the nod on a last inning run scored on a single by Bob Balcena.

San Francisco pounded out 15 hits off Lloyd Dickey and T. Herrera in the first game that included home runs by Jim Moran and Bill Serena. Jim Walsh got the win with a seven hitter—aided by help in the ninth.

In the second game Seals Dave Melton, Ted Beard and Mike Baxes whacked the ball out of the park as part of a 12-hit display to give reliever Don Fracchia the nod over Cal McLish. Steve Nagy and Fracchia limited the ex-leaders to five hits in the nightcap.

Glenn Elliott stumbled and staggered in the first game against Los Angeles but brought home the bacon with an 11-hitter. Ed Mickelson and Sam Calderone homered for the Portland cause and Steve Bilko and Bob Usher each hit four-masters in the bottom of the ninth to ignite a short-lived Angel rally.

Staghound Displays Trophy of Transpacific Yacht Victory

HONOLULU UP—A beaming Southern California businessman whose first love is yachting proudly displayed today the trophy signifying that his tiny ketch, the Staghound, won the 1955 transpacific yacht race.

Ira P. Fulmor was jubilant at his "darkhorse" victory yesterday, his second in a row. He won the 1953 race and placed second in 1951.

The 39-foot Staghound, sailing out of Newport Beach, slipped past the Diamond Head finish line shortly after 8 a.m. yesterday. She had not been heard from for three days because of radio trou as it was, the Constellation had to take second.

The Staghound's elapsed time — the time it took her to sail from [illegible] Harbor to Hawaii—was 12 days, 23 hours, 9 minutes and 7 seconds. Her corrected or handicap time, and the one which determined the winner, was 8 days, 21 hours, 7 minutes and 55 seconds.

Six Hours Better

The corrected time was more than six hours better than that of the Consteallation.

Early today, it was almost impossible for any of the dozen or so boats still at sea to challenge.

Fulmor said he figured as long as five days ago that the staghound would win the race again this year.

Frank Hooykaas, owner of the Consteallation, was standing on the dock with an armload of leis as the Staghound arrived.

"Hooky, I'm sorry I had to do this," Fulmor shouted.

Hooykaas had been sure of victory until the Staghound appeared out of nowhere to snatch it from him. But he was a good sport about losing. He congratulated Fulmor and draped the leis around his neck.

"I'm going to give you a hit on the head in a minute," he said jokingly.

Fulmor said the Staghound came through the race without mishap, although frequent rain squalls made for a rough going at times, especially on the last night out. He said it was as "black as the inside of a cow" then.

He said the Staghound traveled 2378 miles, averaging 180 miles a day, and a speed of 7.65 knots—"the fastest time we've ever made."

Rams Are Seeking Double-Duty Talent

REDLANDS (UP) — Coach Sid Gillman of the Los Angeles Rams said today he is looking for as many double-duty players as possible.

The Rams currently are in training here for their Aug. 17 date with the Washington Redskins at Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum. They will meet Curly Lambeau's College All-Stars in a tuneup Thursday.

"I don't mean necessarily that every man on my team is going to play two positions," Gillman said, "but we'll be healthier if we can find a lot of versatile players."

Fullerton Tips Hemet

FULLERTON (OCNS) -- Bewitched, bothered and bewildered. That must surely be Hemet's hall players, after having undergone two decisive defeats to Fullerton's powerful Junior American Legion baseball kings.

Saturday, Fullerton's Cardinals rolled over the Riverside County champs at Amerige Park, 16-1. Sunday, the two teams met in hot Hemet. Hot Fullerton won that one, 21-2, to capture their eighth 21st district title in the past nine seasons.

Many Wonders of Disneyland Unveiled in Invitational Preview

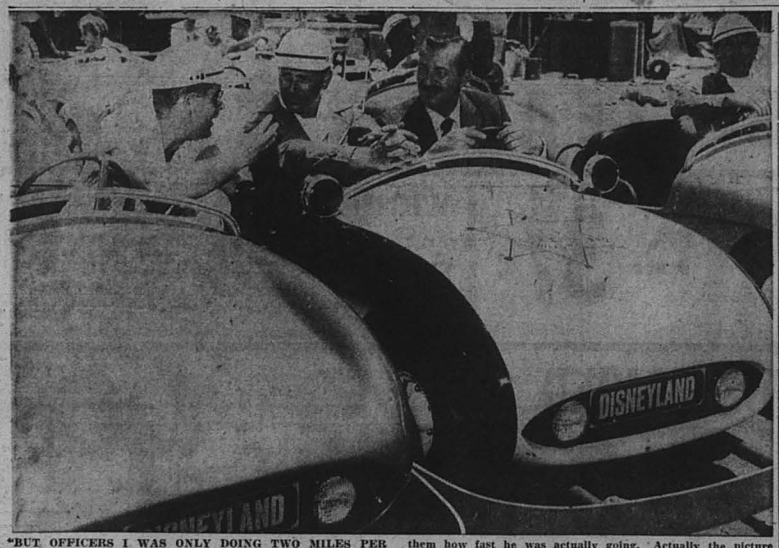

CANAL BOATS OF THE WORLD—Located within the grounds of Fantasyland a few of the more fortunate children board one of the Canal Boats of the World. Thousands jam-packed the grounds trying to see the various displays inside the small world of Fantasy within Disneyland at yesterday's "Invitational Press Preview." Some enjoyed the rides into the lands of Peter Pan, Snow White and through Toad Hall, but more thousands wandered in dazed frustration, unable to wait out the lines. (Bulletin Photo)

DISNEY AND CASTLE—Posing before the "Sleeping Beauty" castle entrance to Fantasyland Walt Disney displays a discriptive folder of information about the numerous enchanting rides and displays in his dream-come-true world of cartoon characters. Massive crowds, however, made it impossible for all but a comparative few to enjoy the various exhibits yesterday. (Bulletin Photo)

"BUT OFFICERS I WAS ONLY DOING TWO MILES PER HOUR"—Doyal Nosekahel and Jerry Colonna, riding in the Disneyland auotopia police car listen to Bob Gurt as he tells them how fast he was actually going. Actually the picture was taken before the parads down Disneyland's Main Street yesterday. (Bulletin photo)

"SINCERELY, DAVY CROCKETT"—Fess Parker, more popularly known as Davy Crockett is besieged by autograph hunters, but patiently stands in the 87-degree heat passing out his signature. Parker appeared in the Main Street parade with his "side-kick," Buddy Ebsen, both in their typical western costumes, shaggy growths of beard and on horses. They turned left at the central Plaza into Frontierland. (Bulletin Photo)

"TIP YOUR HAT"—An organ grinder on Main Street at Disneyland plays music for his monkey who takes in the money, plenty of which finds its way into the small, hairy grip. From time to time the organ grinder says "O.K., tip your hat," and the red and green costumed monkey immediately obeys. One of the most popular attractions on Main Street, both the monkey and his master either disappeared the latter part of the afternoon or were swallowed up by the packed, near savage crowd. (Bulletin Photo)

ATMOSPHERE A PLENTY—Mrs. Cecil Frye of San Gabriel and Mrs. Lillian Freer, El Monte, pose on Main Street of Disneyland in their 1890 costumes, as they engage in a quiet street corner conversation typical of any small city around the turn of the century. However, packed crowds made the authentic replica of a city's main street of 50 years ago a sober, noisy and determined scramble. Picture was taken yesterday before the park opened to the estimated 50,000 "guests." (Bulletin Photo)

The Full Story

Small details were extremely important to newspaper editors of half a century ago, the Wall Street Journal reports. After a little research, the Journal came up with these quotes — noting that economics were often mingled with social affairs. For instance, this wedding: "Miss Jennie Jones and Bob Henry were married at the Jones mansion last night. The bride is the daughter of Constable Jones, who has made a good officer and will doubtless be re-elected this spring. He offers a fine horse for sale in another column of this issue. The groom runs a grocery on Main St., and is a steady patron of our advertising columns. He has a good line of bargains in his ad this week. All summer he paid two cents more for butter than any other store in town. They were married by the Rev. Josiah Butterworth, who last week called at this office and gave a nice order for printing. He is also going in business, and will write fire insurance. So say the business cards we recently printed for him."

Your Birthday Forecast

By STELLA

MONDAY, JULY 18 — Born today, you have a tremendous amount of energy to put into everything you undertake and your powers of concentration are such that you never let go of a job until it is finished to your satisfaction. You have the gift of vision and are able to plan ahead and then follow up your plans with competent execution.

Actually, you men and women differ rather widely in the expression of your basic talents and your temperament. You men are more serious and usually dedicated to some project of importance—are interested in science and philosophy and may make some marked advance in one of these fields. You women are calm and entirely "feminine" and call forth the protective instincts in the more sturdy male. You are fond of beautiful clothes and will wear them well. Rather flirtatious, in youth, once you have selected your mate, you will make a splendid wife and mother.

Both of you have an interest in the occult and may have some gift in this sphere. Whether you use it or not, will depend a great deal upon the circumstances surrounding your environment.

Among those born on this date are: William Thackery, Herman Hagedorn and Rose Hartwic Thorp, authors; John Cruger, Colonial statesman; Peter F. Rothmere, painter; John Paul Jones, Naval hero; and Richard Dix, actor.

To find what the stars have in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Tuesday, July 19

CANCER (JUNE 22-JULY 23) — Love and romance are in the picture as well as excellent aspects for your current job! LEO (July 24-Aug. 2) — Cooperation is the cornerstone today, for domestic bliss and happiness on the home front. VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — There are plenty of opportunities being offered, but you must make sure that you select the right one.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — A fine day for all your best hopes. Make the most of the fine aspects in your horizon just now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Follow that romantic star — and all that you may have dreamed of could come true today. You can hope for it!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Keep your major objective in full view and strive for it actively. You can attain much, I know.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — The unexpected can happen—and sometimes it is a lucky break for you. It could happen today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — There are a lot of romantic ideas in the air today. Be sure that you come up with exactly the right one!

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20) — Don't worry about what may be past but concentrate all your efforts on the present and the future right now.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 20) — You will achieve far better results if you are diplomatic and tactful rather than blunt.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21) — Action is of the utmost importance. Strike while the iron is red hot if you are to reach your objective.

GEMINI (May 22-June 22) — Love and romance are highly favored at this time. You may be making or receiving a proposal.

OTHMAN'S VIEWS

Widow, Widowers, Club Owner Talk to Othman

WASHINGTON.—For 20 years now, I, man and boy, have been favored by occasional visits from Nelle B. Stull of Elyria, Ohio, whose business is love affairs — promotion of.

Love obviously is a wonderful thing. The whole world, including me, has grown older since I first met Mrs. S., with the gleam in her eye and the bangle on her hat. Only Mrs. Stull remains young. She credits this happy happenstance to love, and lovers, mostly not so young.

This time, though, Mrs. Stull has got troubles. Love troubles between a cordial lady in Milwaukee and a frightened man in Kansas City, Mrs. Stull is a marriage arranger. She operates what she calls the Widow and Widowers' Club and the idea of course is to get the former introduced to the latter. Then nature, except in Milwaukee, takes its course.

Mrs. Stull, who is a lady of ample laughter and girth, has arranged maybe 15,000 marriages in her lifetime. So, said she, there was nothing unusual about her putting a feminine client in Milwaukee in touch with a lonesome widower in Missouri.

These two carried on the usual tender correspondence (which grew tenderer as it progressed) until finally the lovelorn one from Kansas City entrained for Milwaukee. He took one look at this beloved and fled.

The heartbroken female in Wisconsin called in my favorite expert on matters of the heart and from here Mrs. Stull tells the sorry facts:

"This Milwaukee widow was a nice lady," said Mrs. S. "She had a pretty apartment on the south side of town and it was furnished with beautiful antiques and objects d'art. The man from Kansas City arrived on the big day at about six p.m. and before he'd even taken off his hat, he said, 'What is this, a gifte shoppe'

"That started things off real fine. (Mrs. Stull sighed: the worst was yet to come.) The widow had cocktails prepared, nice, old-fashioned cocktails, with good, healthgiving fruit in them.

"The man objected to the way she'd mixed them. Too much fruit and also too much sugar, he said.

"Bravely, the widow moved on to the snack she had waiting. She had four kinds of cheese, three kinds of cold meats, two kinds of cake, raspberries, and other fruits. She'd pulled down the shades and lit the room with candlelight.

"The rest is almost too horrible to tell. The man ate some of the food and the widow kept pressing more on him and you know what happened. He got an upset stomach and he rushed back to Kansas City and then I was called in.

"I told her she had killed her chances with kindness. Such a snack, indeed. I told her I couldn't have eaten all those things, myself, and I wasn't even looking for a mate. Looking for a mate, you know, tends to make a person nervous.

"Much too much food and drink, I told her. She said everybody eats like that in Milwaukee."

So, said Mrs. Stull, she had decided to write off that Kansas City affair as a total loss.

THE DAVID LAWRENCE DISPATCH

London Worried About Rumors That Ike, Zhukov Are Planning Private Conferences at Geneva

Moscow's announcement that three daily formal conferences in Geneva. As is customary in such international meetings, from 50 to 100 persons are in the conference room at the same time. Obviously every one who speaks is on his guard and there isn't much give and take. It's not easy to make progress that way.

But in between and after the formal conferences, especially at mealtime, there is informality. That's when the real business can be done and that's when it can be determined if there is any elasticity in the Soviet position — any readiness to agree to matters of substance or to develop a procedure that could bring about such agreements later on.

Plainly the Soviets are depending on Marshal Zhukov and his friend "Ike" to do a lot of chatting. The marshal is a member of the Communist Party and must be presumed to be loyal to the military interests of Soviet Russia. He can parrot a propaganda line if instructed to do so and he can follow directions as to what to say and how to say it.

There is no question but that the Russians are after concessions. They want favors on trade — some strategic goods. They want access to raw materials. It is not known what price they would be willing to pay to obtain such things from the western powers.

In the Russian delegation are such English-speaking officials as Andrei Gromyko, who, incidentally, is a good friend of Bernard M. Baruch. At the United Nations meetings there was many an occasion when Gromyko dined at Baruch's house in New York. It is significant that when Molotov was in the United States not long ago he went to Long Island to see Baruch at his summer home. Also, the elder statesman just happened on Wednesday of this week — one of the busiest times for President Eisenhower — to be visiting at the White House. What they said has not been revealed.

It may be conjectured that the play has been Gromyko to Molotov to Baruch, and now Baruch to Ike and maybe back to Marshal Zhukov in Geneva.

All this can be considered healthy in a broad sense because if the Soviet leaders are really bent on making a success of the Geneva Conference, they must necessarily develop a channel of communication, unofficial, informal and private, direct to the head of the most powerful nation in the world, President Eisenhower.

But channels are not so important as what is transmitted through them, and the Soviets will find that Mr. Eisenhower will rarely meet with anyone alone — he has a habit of having Secretary of State Dulles at his side and, if he is alone, he doesn't make deals or agreements. If the Soviets want to make concessions they can discreetly define them privately. The way is open.

Kay Williams Corrects Mistake, Captures Gable

(Editor's note: The third in a series on Clark Gable and his bride. Today—What is Kay Spreckels like?)

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Kay Williams Spreckels captured Clark Gable, their friends decided today, because, for one thing, she corrected an old mistake and played "hard to get."

Gable and the vivacious blonde had an earlier fling at love when the actor returned to MGM after World War II.

"But you know what happens when the girl wants to marry and the man doesn't want to be rushed one close pal of Gable's says.

"This time, 10 years later, she is independently wealthy and was not interested in marriage after her unhappiness with sugar heir Adolph Spreckels II. Gable talked her into marriage. He hesitated before because she was young and an actress, but now she is mature."

What is the woman like who won a second chance to be Gable's wife?

Kay has been described as an "ex-actress." Actually she came from a well-to-do Erie, Pa., family. The intelligent, beautiful girl landed a coveted job on a New York fashion magazine when she was only 23. She also was a top New York fashion model. When she married a boy back home, a big picture magazine covered the event.

After that first marriage failed, Kay moved to Hollywood for an MGM career. Her second conquest was Argentine sportsman Martin De Alzaga Unzue. She left him in three days on a charge he was "cruel." Three years later he claimed he gave her $30,000 in cash and gifts because she promised to re-marry him—but eloped with the richer Adolph Spreckels.

Her marriage with Spreckels was a stormy one, but friends say Kay "tried her best to make it work." At their divorce, Spreckels charged she once tried to romance Gable at their swimming pool (which she denied).

Now Mrs. Gable is a combination of Carole Lombard, Gable's third wife, and Lady Sylvia Ashley, his fourth. Kay is a cheerful, witty "good joe" type who can also put on a simple black Dior dress and pearls and be a charming, perfect hostess.

She is a good mother to her two children, and Gable brags to friends about "the great way she handles her kids." Her pre-Gable home had tasteful, traditional furniture.

Kay is honest, forthright and doesn't like phonies." She is a natural beauty who wears little make-up and simple, expensive clothes. Most of her evening dresses are black and white sheath gowns. She golfs with Gable in a skirt, tailored blouse and cashmere sweater.

Will it last?

"Clark loves to sit back and laugh at her conversation," one friend says. "He seems vastly entertained by Kay. They are very comfortable with each other. They go on hunting trips together and Lady Sylvia never would do that."

Some Hollywood observers point out both are thrice-divorced and Kay has a record of violent marriages. But their friends think the two "are so companionable."

"Why, he calls her 'Ma' and Kay calls him 'Pa'. That's real love," one friend says.

Sunburn Can Be Dangerous—

With the hot summer sun again shining, what can you do about sunburn?

First, let's face one thing. Once you're sunburned, you're burned in every sense similar to other kinds of burns. No lotion or salve will make it disappear magically. Severe sunburn is as serious as any other burn of the same degree.

If you are a blue-eyed redhead or blonde, your skin is most likely to burn with less exposure to sun than brunettes can take. Redheads are most susceptible to sunburn, blondes next, brunettes least affected by sunburn. This does not mean a brunette can throw caution to the winds. It simply means the black-haired, brown-eyed person has more skin pigment that develops a tan to protect the deeper skin layers.

The best way to avoid sunburn is to stay out of the sun, especially on hot still days. Tropical natives learned that long ago.

Short of staying out of the sun, you can do two preventive things; (1) use a protective lotion or cream; (2) limit sun exposure to a definite number of minutes, increasing in five or 10-minute steps each day.

Modern protective lotions or creams contain chemicals that actually filter out some of the invisible, short, ultraviolet light that burns. These chemicals pass a certain amount of the longer ultraviolet that produces tanning of the skin.

Regardless of any manufacturer's claim, no lotion or cream can protect you completely. You can't put it on and then stay out in the hot summer sun all day, without becoming burned. That especially applies if you are a redhead or blonde. These lotions simply allow you to stay somewhat longer without your skin getting enough burning rays to burn.

Also remember that sweating or swimming will wash off most of the protection, since most lotions are water-soluble. That means you must repeat applications.

The nasty, treacherous thing about sunburn is that it doesn't show up for hours after sunning. That means that if your skin begins to get red, you've already had too much. Get out of the sun. Any more will simply make the sunburn worse.

Mild sunburn is a slight skin redness that feels sensitive but blister or peel. If blisters develop and they cover any considerable portion of your body, you need medical attention just as much as if you'd been burned by boiling water. And that's the serious part of sunburn. It so often covers a major part of the body.

More than 20 years ago, Will Rogers said, "I never expected to see the day when girls would get sunburned in the places they now do." And you know how much more abbreviated clothing has since become.

When I was in Florida last May, I saw that many newcomers didnt realize how serious sunburn can be. While walking down the corridor of a hospital, I looked in one ward and saw a number of people whose bandages indicated severe burn wounds. I inquired if these were the victims of a fire. I was told they were "green" tourists who had thought their skins were tougher than the Florida sun.

If you have a slight first-degree burn — one that doesn't blister then you aren't really hurt even though it feels very hot. Any soothing cream will help ease the pain. These include yellow petroleum jelly or some of the creams with a mild local anesthetic, such as butesin picrate.

THE BOSS OF BROKEN SPUR

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

A FEW minutes later she heard the heavy clop of a horse coming up the trail. She knew the tread of Tim Larrabee's old roan. Raising herself on one elbow, she set her eyes run over the chaos of the cabin. It looked as though a violent struggle had been raging there. As the power of thought came back to her, her lips parted in the beginnings of a smile. Maybe she wouldn't have to disappoint Wayne after all. She could still do anything she pleased with Tim. Maybe she could still work out Wayne's scheme the way he wanted it—and pay Kerry Riordan for throwing her off like she was dirt!

She caught the neck of her dress with her hands. A few feverish jerks, and the shoddy cloth was ripped apart halfway to the waist. She snatched the few remaining pins from her hair and tossed it into confusion. She rubbed unmercifully at her eyes till a swift glance at her cracked mirror assured her she looked as though she'd been crying. The picture, she told herself, was good enough to fool Tim. Then, as she heard the clump of his boots outside the door, she crouched forward, clutching the rags of her dress with both hands, and let her whole body begin to shake with great sobs.

Kerry pulled up before the Slash T ranch-house in a lather, and ran up the steps almost into Christie's arms. Her kiss was long and satisfactory, and made him feel clean again. She leaned back happily in the circle of his arms, and demanded, "What made you so late? I thought you weren't coming," and then, "Kerry what happened to your face?"

"Just had a little accident," he muttered. "Ran against a mesquite limb."

"Silly!" she chuckled. "After all these years, haven't you learned to duck?"

He'd lied almost without thinking, and her ready acceptance made him squirm inwardly. He didn't want lies between them. He'd tell her the truth—later. But he didn't want to talk about Lita yet.

They sat there on the porch, not talking much, not needing to. Her hand was stroked through his; he could watch her face, serene in the slanting late afternoon light, its strong lines softened by tenderness as she looked at him. The ugly scene he'd been through seemed like a bad dream.

It was like that when they saw the horseman ride up. Christie asked idly, "Who could that be? It's none of our men. It doesn't even look like a cow-pony." And then, as the rider came nearer, "Why, it's Tim Larrabee. What do you suppose he wants here?"

Larrabee reined the big, raw-boned roan horse up in front of the house with vicious sawing of the reins, and thudded to the ground. "Riordan!" he yelled hoarsely. "Come down here!"

His eyes didn't see the girl on the porch, they were mad eyes, such as Kerry remembered seeing once in a steer that another steer had fatally gored.

The only feeling Kerry was conscious of was pity. He came down the steps and spoke gently. "What do you want with me, Tim? I know what you think about your father, but you can't think I had anything to do with it. I wasn't even here—"

"I know who killed Dad," Tim's words came in hard, sobbing gasps, as if he'd been running, "an' he's goin' to burn in hell for it—before I'm through with him. But I'm settlin' with you right now. I told you once before to stay away from Lita."

"Lita? But, Tim, I—" Kerry heard Christie's sharp intake of breath behind him, and it shook him more than the nester's fury. Why had he been such a fool as not to tell her the truth right away? He didn't dare look at her as he stumbled on. "Listen, Tim, I only went to see her today to—"

"You only got about a minute t' live, Riordan," Tim cut him off. "Don't waste it tellin' lies. I been there!"

"Well, whatever she told you—" Kerry's voice dropped away with the desperateness of trying to convince the crazed man before him. No telling what Lita might have said in the temper he'd left her in. But Tim's next words still came like a blow in the face.

"Try t' make out she lied t' me, would you? But I saw her, I tell you—her dress tore half off her—You—" Tim raged. "It's the last time you put your dirty hands on a decent woman. You're carryin' a gun. Reach for it!"

All the Broken Spur outfit had been going needed since Joe Larrabee's death. Kerry's hand went instinctively to his belt, even as he made one last attempt. "Tim, you're crazy—"

The nester's answer made no sense to him. "You're not gettin' away with that this time. I been patient. I know how to use it now."

Tim's gun came clear of its holster. Kerry knew death was looking at him, along that grey steel barrel. His hand moved without any conscious order from his brain—and Rob and Sandy had done their training thoroughly. Two guns spat flame. He was conscious of the searing pain along his side at the same moment that he saw Tim pitch forward.

His gun-hand dropped to his side like a dead thing. He stared down at the big body sprawled in the dirt, face down, arms spread in a last futile clutch at air. A spasm of sickness gripped his throat. He'd seen men die before, but they hadn't been his doing.

Blindly he turned toward the steps. "Christie—I killed him—I didn't want to—" He raised his face to hers with the appeal of a child. What he saw there stopped him as if he'd come up against a stone wall.

Christie was looking at him, her face white and cold and hostile. She was only a few feet away from him, but he felt as though a vast distance was stretching between them. He made a desperate effort to cross it. "Christie, listen—let me tell you—"

"Don't bother lying, Kerry." Her words, icy and tired, seemed like an echo of the dead man's. "You lied to me once today. You expect me to believe you now?"

He stumbled up the steps toward her. There was a sound from upstairs, a feeble cry that ended in a choking moan. His ears registered it, but it had no real meaning. He reached out his hand to catch her arm. She pushed him off. "Get out of my way. Dad needs me."

She was gone. Kerry stood a moment watching the closed door in numb, hopeless misery. Then his eyes fell again on the body. It couldn't be left lying there.

He got into the saddle, trying to convince the crazed man before him. No telling what Lita might have said in the temper he'd left her in. But Tim's next words still came like a blow in the face.

"Reckon it was an accident," he muttered. "Ran against a mesquite limb."

"Silly!" she chuckled. "After all these years, haven't you learned to duck?"

He'd lied almost without thinking, and her ready acceptance made him squirm inwardly. He didn't want lies between them. He'd tell her the truth—later. But he didn't want to talk about Lita yet.

His eyes didn't see the girl on the porch, they were mad eyes, such as Kerry remembered seeing once in a steer that another steer had fatally gored.

The only feeling Kerry was conscious of was pity. He came down the steps and spoke gently. "What do you want with me, Tim? I know what you think about your father, but you can't think I had anything to do with it. I wasn't even here—"

"I know who killed Dad," Tim's words came in hard, sobbing gasps, as if he'd been running, "an' he's goin' to burn in hell for it—before I'm through with him. But I'm settlin' with you right now. I told you once before to stay away from Lita."

"Lita? But, Tim, I—" Kerry heard Christie's sharp intake of breath behind him, and it shook him more than the nester's fury. Why had he been such a fool as not to tell her the truth right away? He didn't dare look at her as he stumbled on. "Listen, Tim, I only went to see her today to—"

"You only got about a minute t' live, Riordan," Tim cut him off. "Don't waste it tellin' lies. I been there!"

"Well, whatever she told you—" Kerry's voice dropped away with the desperateness of trying to convince the crazed man before him. No telling what Lita might have said in the temper he'd left her in. But Tim's next words still came like a blow in the face.

"Try t' make out she lied t' me, would you? But I saw her, I tell you—her dress tore half off her—You—" Tim raged. "It's the last time you put your dirty hands on a decent woman. You're carryin' a gun. Reach for it!"

All the Broken Spur outfit had been going needed since Joe Larrabee's death. Kerry's hand went instinctively to his belt, even as he made one last attempt. "Tim, you're crazy—"

The nester's answer made no sense to him. "You're not gettin' away with that this time. I been patient. I know how to use it now."

Tim's gun came clear of its holster. Kerry knew death was looking at him, along that grey steel barrel. His hand moved without any conscious order from his brain—and Rob and Sandy had done their training thoroughly. Two guns spat flame. He was conscious of the searing pain along his side at the same moment that he saw Tim pitch forward.

His gun-hand dropped to his side like a dead thing. He stared down at the big body sprawled in the dirt, face down, arms spread in a last futile clutch at air. A spasm of sickness gripped his throat. He'd seen men die before, but they hadn't been his doing.

Blindly he turned toward the steps. "Christie—I killed him—I didn't want to—" He raised his face to hers with the appeal of a child. What he saw there stopped him as if he'd come up against a stone wall.

Christie was looking at him, her face white and cold and hostile. She was only a few feet away from him, but he felt as though a vast distance was stretching between them. He made a desperate effort to cross it. "Christie, listen—let me tell you—"

"Don't bother lying, Kerry." Her words, icy and tired, seemed like an echo of the dead man's. "You lied to me once today. You expect me to believe you now?"

He stumbled up the steps toward her. There was a sound from upstairs, a feeble cry that ended in a choking moan. His ears registered it, but it had no real meaning. He reached out his hand to catch her arm. She pushed him off. "Get out of my way. Dad needs me."

She was gone. Kerry stood a moment watching the closed door in numb, hopeless misery. Then his eyes fell again on the body. It couldn't be left lying there.

He got into the saddle, trying to control the effort sent waves of pain through him, but he gritted his teeth and made it, and headed for town. On the way he passed three men of the Slash T crew. "Tim Larrabee's dead up at the house," he told them. "Take care of him," and rode on, leaving them with questions half-asked on their lips.

An hour later a passing rider found Kerry, slumped unconscious in his saddle, and took him to Broken Spur.

Kerry woke up to dull, throbbing pain and a fevered, leaden sensation all through his body, and to an aching depression he couldn't remember the reason for at first. Then it came back to him. He'd killed a man, and Christie despised him. She thought he was a faithless liar, and he'd never get her to believe different—not with a dead man's last words between them. It would have been better, he reflected miserably, if Tim's bullet had finished him. He'd made a mess of everything, and probably always would. He was that kind of fool.

Said petition shall contain a request that the question to be submitted to the electors in the territory proposed to said petition to be annexed to said City of Anaheim shall be, whether such territory shall be annexed to, incorporated in and made a part of said City and the property therein be, after such annexation, subject to taxation equally with the property within the City of Anaheim, and shall be taxed to pay its pro rata portion based upon the assessed valuation of all bonded indebtedness of the City of Anaheim outstanding at the date of the filing of said petition or theretofore authorized.

The reasons for the proposed petition are: That if said territory is annexed to the City of Anaheim, the owners thereof and persons living therein will have the benefit of water furnished them by said municipality in the manner and at the rates established to consumers within said municipality; that said territory will have the benefit of police and fire protection, garbage and trash removal, street lighting, improved roads, and other such services; and that the inhabitants of said territory will have the benefit of being governed by a governmental unit to which they are in fact contiguous.

Report Car Stolen At Local Restaurant

A Texas Oil Company car was stolen from the parking lot of the Clock restaurant at 11:35 a.m. Saturday, Anaheim Police reported today.

Driven by William Samuel Baker, Jr., 683 Catalina street, Los Angeles, the car disappeared while he reportedly was inside the Clock on Manchester near Center street, eating.

Suzan Ball Remains In 'Serious Condition'

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Cancer-stricken Suzan Ball, fighting for her life in City of Hope Sanitarium, remained in "serious condition" today and doctors promised an evaluation within 24 hours.

The 22-year-old actress's right leg was amputated a year and a half ago because of the disease. Recently it was indicated the malignancy had spread to her lungs.
