City Council Attempts to Obtain Release From Edison Company Electrical Contract

ANXIOUS TO HURRY UP PROJECT

Discuss Plans for Hour and Half Last Night; Meet Again Thursday

The next question before council: "Can the city obtain release from its contract with the Edison Company, so it can manufacture its own electrical energy?"

Council last night for an hour and a half discussed plans for municipal project. Councilmen are anxious to proceed at once in view of the emergency but find they must ascertain attitude of the Edison company.

The city's contract with Edison expires April 1, 1926, about 21 months. If the Edison is found amenable council will probably call a bond election and get the power onto the lines as early as possible —by Oct. 15. If the Edison company sticks to the contract council may decide to lay up construction operations, hoping for a better market for the 30-acre sewer issue.

In view of the Edison company's slower famine and the fact that it is constructing steam plants and rehabilitating old plants, council is hopeful that the company will co-operate with the city by releasing it from the contract.

If the company were arbitrary, council might go to the railroad commission with the problem inasmuch, it is claimed, as the company has broken the contract:

1. By assessing surcharge with consent of railroad commission.

2. By continuing to serve several pumping plant customers inside city despite contract stipulates city should have this business which would mean a profit to the city. The city has protested at times to the company for release of these plants to the municipal lines.

Summing up, council is of the opinion that it could at least manufacture 25 per cent of its power since the Edison has admitted its inability to furnish all the city needs.

Council will meet in adjourned session next Thursday night to consider the Edison's reply and, perhaps to take the first legal steps to call a bond election. By that time, City Manager J. W. Price will have detailed plans to lay before board.

The electric generator in the city power house will be put into operation tomorrow, V. W. Hannum, superintendent, declared today. It is a 60-cycle machine and will be worked on a 50-cycle schedule. Its prodution is 60 kilowatts per hour. This added output may bring down Anaheim's consumption easily to its apportionment. One of the city's four pumps can be operated with it.

Tonight all of the 50-odd filling stations in the city will close at 8 o'clock instead of 10. The reduction of around 75 per cent in juice used for lighting to around 500 kilowatts is general among the stations. Lee's service station claims to have taken the lead in the play to close at 8 o'clock and to have done most of the work in lining up the various stations.

No more water can be pumped in June by the ranchers connected with the So. Calif. Edison Co. system except for domestic purposes, effective today. That is, no more use of electricity for irrigating will be permitted. Notices now a coming in regarding the omi of operations two days each

Claim Power to Stop Third Party

NEW YORK, June 27.—Claiming the power to prevent the launching of a third party in the national political fight this fall, six leaders of railroad labor organizations today announced they would be favorable to the third party if William Gibbs McAdoo is defeated for the presidential nomination in the Democratic national convention here.

The leaders claimed to have enough votes to control the convention of the conference of the progressive political faction at Cleveland, July 4, at which it has been predicted Sen. Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin will be named as the presidential candidate of that party.

$900 TAX ON FORTUNE TELERS

Fortune tellers and clairvoyants will have to pay a license of $900 each quarter under an ordinance introduced in city council last night by Councilman Elmer Knipe of the ordinance committee.

"We believe this high license will tend to keep such out of the city," declared Knipe.

Mediums and clairvoyants connected with established church organizations do not pay the tax.

Councilman A. A. Slaback reported that the sump hole in the industrial district, which contained the refuse from the chemical plant and from which emanated a strong stench, has been drained and should give no more trouble.

Councilman Dean Hasson of the improvement committee moved to grant the request of petitioners for a sidewalk on the west side of So. Olive-st. between Santa Anast. and Wated-st. The city attorney was instructed to inform the S. P. Ry which owns much of the frontage.

Map of the Huntoon tract of tenlots on the west side of So. Palmst. was presented.

Mrs. F. A. Backs, Jr., and A. B. McCord were reappointed library trustees.

A letter was read from Fullerton city council endorsing Mayor Metcalf's suggestion of daylight saving.

The ordinance calling an election in the Industrial Site addition for July 29 was passed.

City Manager J. W. Price reported that the city was still using more than its quota of electricity and stated more economies must be practiced. He suggested further shortening of the bathing hours at the plunge and the elimination of theater matinees. The plunge now is closing at 8:30, an hour earlier than formerly. Park Supt. Guyai stated plunge receipts were falling off by the loss of 50 bathers nightly on account of the earlier closing.

"We might as well close at 7 p. m. as at 8:30 as that hour and half is our quietest period," he said. "Many out of town bathers come about 8 p. m. but decline to enter the water when they learn the plunge is closed at 8:30. Other plunges in So. Cal. are open until 10 or 10:30.

Guyaie stated another reason for lessening of plunge receipts was the newly installed lockers. Bathers now use this instead of paying for a dressing room.

Manager J. W. Price was instructed to arrange for Saturday afternoon off for employees of departments who want to work nine hours daily the first three days each week. With daylight saving, the morning and three in the afternoon and three in the forenoon.

Council voted to endorse the appointment by Marshal Bert Moody Hurley as motorcycle officer succeed Jack Pickell, who be appointed to the county ad Marcus Andrade. Since e's absence from the force ated the Mexican district s clean as before.

BROOKS MUST ABSTAIN FOR 8 YEARS

Truck Driver Guilty On Manslaughter Charge Can't Touch Drop

Under probation for a term of eight years, on the condition that he totally abstain from intoxicating liquor: Benjamin S. Brooks, Los Angeles truck driver, convicted by a jury in the superior court of manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Stena Duncan of Montebello, today, was a free man.

Mrs. Duncan was killed on the San Diego highway when Brooks car collided with that in which she was riding with relatives. The jury which heard the case wrestled with the verdict for over 34 hours and finally found Brooks guilty as charged with the recommendation for leniency. After Attorney L. A. West for Brooks had moved for a new trial and the motion had been denied, he asked Judge F. C. Drumm, before whom the case was tried, to grant probation.

Mrs. Lucille Brooks, wife of the defendant, was beaming when she thanked the judge for his action in freeing her husband. Her demeanor was in strange contrast to that at the time of the announcement of the verdict, when she sobbed in the courtroom and nearly collapsed when led away by friends.

LIONS MOVE TO CONSERVE POWER

The Lions' club is there with both feet in the movement to conserve electricity. At the luncheon meeting today this resolution was passed: "That members of the Lions' club as a club and individually lend their best efforts to promote any concerted action by the counties of So. Calif. to relieve this condition." In the preamble to the resolution the shortage of power and need of conservation are emphasized.

The next meeting falling on July 4, the club thru Courtney H. Clarke, will suggest a joint meeting with the Business and Professional Women's club which meets on Thursday.

Several children who have benefited by the work of the Orange-Co Crippled Children's Relief Ass'n were present in behalf of the minstrel show tonight at the high school auditorium. Some of them entertained with piano selections.

Charles Moore gave an interesting craft talk.

Art Coons, the speaker of the day, spoke on the need of a better understanding between seller and buyer, employer and employee, and advocated the adoption of a general code of ethics similar to those of the luncheon clubs broad enough to apply to any situation.

The next ball game will be played probably with the Realty Board. The Lions defeated the postoffice nine and were beaten by that of the Frank P. Taggart Co.

Al Smith, Governor of New York.

FOREST FIRE IS RAGING UNABATED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—The worst forest fire in central California raged on today unabated as scores of fire fighters and hundreds of ranchers fled from the onrushing wall of flames which continued their advance thru Santa Clara county and into portions of Stanislaus county over a 15 mile front.

Thousands of cattle in the foothills in the vicinity of Mount Hamilton were reported in danger with hundreds reported by the volunteer fire fighters as having already perished.

Lick Observatory, which was saved yesterday by a fortunate change of wind, was definitely out of danger today, altho watchers at the scientific institution were still able to note the progress of the blaze from their homes on the mountain.

More than 1000 organized fighters were endeavoring to stop the blaze and many others are independently aiding in the fight. It is estimated that approximately 2000 are at work fighting the blaze.

With the blaze definitely out of control due to dry vegetation resulting from the drought, it was predicted today it might continue until the banks of the San Joaquin were reached.

In other sections of California blazes of lesser importance were being fought but because of the relative value of the land in the rich Santa Clara region the efforts of the authorities were mainly directed toward that area.

CONVENTION OVER

LOS ANGELES, June 27.—Delegates to the first annual convention of the Council of Catholic Women, diocese of Los Angeles and San Diego, were on their way home today, following an interesting session.

A feature of the convention was the passing of a resolution denouncing immoral literature and pledging the organization to fight for legislation prohibiting distribution and sale of salacious publications.

"SHEIK" GETS LONG TERM IN PRISON

Court Recommends Eckert Serve Every Minute of Six Year Sentence

Sterling Eckert, alias Kelly, 22, known as the "palmistry sheik" today faced a term of six years six months in prison with a recommendation from Superior Judge Z. B. West that he serve every minute of the time.

Eckert, his long hair brushed back from his forehead, took the stand and denied that he had been so much of a lawbreaker as Deputy Dist. Atty C. N. Mozley made out. He said that he had been arrested for shoplifting in Milwaukee with another man and had pleaded guilty on the recommendation of the public defender.

He told his own counsel that he had only been arrested twice, once in Chicago on a pandering charge and the Milwaukee occasion, but Mr. Mozley brought out that he had been arrested several times.

"Oh, I didn't think these times important enough to consider," Eckert replied and stroked his long black locks.

Mozley grilled him severely. He asked Eckert if he had ever been married other than the three times on public record in his bizarre case and Eckert fairly yelled "No! Only three!"

Judge West stated that if he had on record the testimony of certain witnesses who testified for Eckert at the first hearing on his application for probation that he probably would issue some bench warrants on perjury charges but in the absence of the stenographic report he could not do so.

Mozley alleged that one Pat Short who had said he was the "pal" of the "sheik" was in reality not even on speaking terms with him, and an aunt of Eckers' who testified for him had told the sister of the last girl he married that any girl ought to know his character from his looks and was a fool for marrying him. Mozley alleged further that Short had served a term in the penitentiary and had been arrested for attempting to stab his brother.

"Do you know what a sheik is?" Mozley queried.

"I do," replied the alleged bigamist. "I absolutely deny that I am anything of the sort."

An asserted auto ride from Seattle in the car of a Mr. Hurd was detailed by Mrs. Carruthers, the sister of Irene Dixon, Miss Dixon became Eckert's third wife. Hurd told her, she said, that Eckert encaged bassaie in a car of a man who had advertised for Los Angeles board persons and that in the same seat with him was a young girl and her mother and that the driver had to move Eckert into the front seat because of his love-making to the girl enroute. Eckert recommended, Mrs. Carruthers said, that when Hurd passed a wrecked car that he stopped and stripped it of accessories and tires. Eckert made no denial of these charges.

Mozley scathingly accused the "sheik" of marrying a girl for a home and as soon as she was about to become a mother, leave her. Eckert testified that

Convention Pulse too Jumpy For Any Definite Diagnosis

NEW YORK, June 27.—An International News S-rvice poll of the outstanding men at the convention today developed merely that the Democratic pulse is still to jumpy to attempt any definite diagnosis.

Altho balloting probably will begin tonight or tomorrow, the convention leaders—publicly at least—are still committed to their original choices, or are touting a number of dark horses with no particular choice.

Some of the old Wilsonites are looking in the direction of James M. Cox of Ohio, who carried the Democratic standard four years ago.

Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, will place Cox in nomination today, and he, of course, is definitely committed.

Josephus Daniels, ex-secretary of the navy, said:

"The dark horse reaches the same heights today as he did in Baltimore it may give impetus to the candidacy of Cox. And Ohio is a pivotal state."

"I am instructed for McAdoo and I am for him. He is a real Progressive Democrat," Bryan said.

In senatorial circles there is much talk of Senator Ralston of Indiana, Walsh of Montana and Robinson of Arkansas.

Senator Dill of Washington leans toward Ralston.

Senator Wheeler of Montana, eliminating Al Smith entirely, is of the opinion that the nominee will have to beat McAdoo, Davis, Ralston and Walsh to win.

Senator Bruce of Marland saw a chance in Thursday's demonstration for Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland.

Atlee Pomerene, government counsel, is looking toward Cox.

Senator Swanson of Virginia is an enthusiastic supporter of his colleague, Senator Carter Glass.

George E. Brennan, boss of Illinois, is publicly for Al Smith. It is generally understood, however, that if the Smith boom dies he will go for Ralston.

Senator Caraway of Arkansas is boosting his senatorial associate, Joe Robinson, minority floor leader.

COUNCILWOMAN REMOVES CHIEF

SEATTLE, June 27.—No important changes from the policy of Police Chief W. B. Severyns who was removed a few days ago by Mrs. Bertha Landes, councilwoman and acting mayor, in the absence of Mayor E. J. Brown, are contemplated by Claude G. Bannick, police captain, who is in charge of the force in the name of Mrs. Landes.

Bannick, in outlining his policy today to the city council department and efficiency committee, reiterated severyn's request for additional patrolmen.

Mrs. Landes is nominally in charge of the police force but declares she will not interfere with Captain Bannick.

L. A. MUST REDUCE ST. CAR SERVICE

LOS ANGELES, June 27.—In the campaign to conserve electric power, made necessary by a shortage due to reduced water supply, Los Angeles and vicinity will be practically without transportation, lights and power after July 1.

Already the streets and beaches have thrown off their lights, even electric signs being dimmed.

July 1 the reduced street car service will go into effect with adoption of the skip-stop system. More than 750 trainmen will be thrown out of employment temporarily, as a flat cut of 25 per cent in car service will be made.

HONOR MATTEOTTI

ROME, June 27.—Work was suspended in Rome, Italy for one minute at 10 o'clock today in honor of the memory of Socialist deputy Giacomo Matteotti who was kidnaped and killed a fortnight ago.

One faction of the opposition leaders is demanding resignation of the Mussolini ministry and dissolution of the national (Fascist) militia.

Premier Mussolini refuses to resign and is already planning to reorganize the militia and make it part of the regular army.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY

FRESNO, June 27.—The desire of Mrs. John W. McElroy to return to the old family home at Pendleton, Ore., caused a double tragedy here today in which she was slain by her husband, who then committed suicide.

Their 14-year-old son, John, Jr., nearly lost his life in a battle to prevent the father from shooting the mother with a shotgun. According to the boy, who was knocked unconscious by a blow from the butt of the shotgun with which McElroy, a blacksmith, shot his wife thru the back, his parents quarrelled all night over the desire of Mrs. McElroy to go back to Oregon.

After shooting Mrs. McElroy, the man blew off his own head. The boy will recover.

ARIZ. WILL CLOSE BORDER AT 9 P. M.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—All Arizona ports on the Mexican border will be closed at 9 p. m. in the future, the U. S. customs service announced today.

The ports of Douglas, Nogales and Naco are affected.

This action leaves but three Mexican ports open until midnight and these will be closed soon, it was indicated.

SILZER GETS 30-MINUTE UPROAR

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, June 27.—While the platform builders continued to wrestle with the league of nations and the Ku Klux Klan, the Democratic national convention today made slow progress toward getting rid of all the necessary oratory that must precede balloting on these two main fights.

Four more names had been dropped into the garden hopper by 2:30 this afternoon—ex-Governor James M. Cox of Ohio; Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska; Governor Fred H. Brown of New Hampshire, and Governor George S. Silzer of New Jersey, with more to come.

Today's session was featured by enthusiastic demonstrations for these favorite sons, but there was nothing approaching the McAdoo or Smith demonstrations which preceded them earlier in the convention.

New Jersey put on a colorful show for Silzer. Hundreds of loyal Jerseyites followed the example of the Smith cohorts yesterday and slipped into the garden to whoop things up "for George." Yells, songs and music they staged a 30 minute show that kept the delegates amused and entertained.

Montana sent William Mallonev to the platform to second the nomination of Governor Smith. Maloney had yelled so hard for Al Smith yesterday that he had lost his voice. It could not be heard three feet from the stand and he finally gave it up and abandoned his speech.

The chair desires to announce," said Walsh, "that his colleague from Montana came to the platform to second the nomination of Governor Smith of New York."

Loud cheers and applause greeted this.

Governor Sam Stewart of Montana was then introduced and he seconded the nomination of McAdoo.

The feminine contingent of Missouri resumed their chant:

"We're not scared when the east says boo,

"The south and west want McAdoo."

After five minutes, Walsh put a stop to it with vigorous rapping of his gavel.

Nebraska was called and Eugene D. O'Sullivan of Omaha took the platform and placed the name of Governor Charles W. Bryan before the convention.

There were cries of "hurrah for Bryan" as he came forward but whether for "Charlie" or "Bill" there was no way of telling.

The hall was noisy during O'Sullivan's address and this drew a rebuke from Senator Walsh.

While Bryan was being placed in nomination, Joseph B. Shannon of the anti-McAdoo leaders of Missouri, circulated on the floor [illegible] (Continued from Page 6)

Six More Presidential Sweepstakes Entrants Are Added Today

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, June 27.—With 16 names thrown into the presidential arena the Democratic national convention adjourned at 5:55 o'clock this evening until 9:30 a.m. tomorrow, when the delegates will again assemble to take up the hectic work of adopting a platform over which there is severe fighting and nominate a presidential candidate, over which there is more.

The adjournment was accomplished after seven hours of hectic oratory and was by mutual agreement between the McAdoo and anti-McAdoo forces.

The McAdoo leaders served notice they would oppose a night session if it was intended to start balloting before the platform was adopted. Confronted with this ultimatum and appreciently not desiring to risk another definite test of strength, anti-McAdoo leaders agreed.

In the seven hours of constant oratory today, six more names were added to the presidential sweepstakes—James M. Cox, of Ohio; Gov. Charles W. Bryan, of Nebraska; Gov. Fred Brown of New Hampshire; Gov. George S. Silzer of New Jersey; Sen. Carter Glass of Virginia and John W. Davis of West Virginia.

The list of 16 as finally completed consists of five senators, six governors and five Democrats in private life.

The session was slower than usual getting under way today. It was 11:40 when the gavel fell. Sergeants at arms, more dutiful than yesterday, scurried down the aisles pushing delegates into their seats and shouting "order, order!"

To their aid came uniformed city police, also more dutiful than yesterday. It took five minutes to obtain order and then the Rev. Dwight Wiley, a Presbyterian minister, was introduced to deliver the invocation.

After a series of announcements, the roll of states was continued.

Minnesota was called and sent forward William J. Quinn, an alternate of St. Paul to second the motion of Governor Al Smith.

The band struck up "The Sidewalks of New York" but it was soon over and the roll call proceeded.

Mississippi yielded to Ohio and Newton D. Baker took the platform to speak for James D. Cox. He was accorded a spontaneous and genuinely warm welcome.

More than 1000 delegates rose to their feet and applauded as Baker smilingly took up his position before the amplifiers.

Baker was listened to with rapt attention. His speech was the first before the convention that wholeheartedly and unreservedly endorsed the league of nations. Other speakers, keynote or nominators, have scaled around it cautiously until the platform builders have fought their fight.

His first direct mention of the league by name evoked a short-lived demonstration. Ohio and southern delegates leaped to their feet and cheered. Most of the de-

ORE PASTEUR AID OR MAD STONE USE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 27.—e "mad stone," supposed to have passed out when the last as burned, has reappeared Illinois. Belief in it has be-ome so prevalent and its use so widespread that the state depart-ment of public health has launch-d an educational campaign gainst it.

The "mad stone" is a pebble, sup-posed by the simple minded to possess power to cure hydrophobia or rabies. Numbers of these stones are reported in different parts of the state following an epidemic of rabies among dogs and others animals. Usually they are in the hands of some convincing individ-ual who is willing to give "mad stone treatments" for a suitable fee.

These treatments are often ac-companied by mysterious rites re-minded of the practices of the Indian medicine men. The "mad stone" is placed against the wound made by the "mad" dog's teeth. If it sticks to the wound, the "madness" is said by the stone's owner to have been transmitted from the animal to the person, and further treatments, always at the specified fee, are necess-ary. When the stone no longer sticks to the wound the patient is "cured."

Belief in the potency of the "mad stone" is as fervid as it is widespread, according to health department officials. A Harris-burg, Ill., woman, bitten by a rabid dog, scorned the Pasteur treatment and went to her death with unshaken faith in the mar-velous stone. An owner of a "mad stone," living in Freeport, Ill., was so confident in its pow-ers that he offered to send it to the health department to be sub-jected to exhaustive tests.

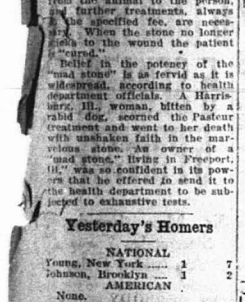
QUITS CONGRESS SCORING "BLOCS'



Artist's character sketch of Henry L. Jost.

Too many blocs, too little inde-pendence of action and too much courting for the results obtained are the reasons given by Representa-tive Henry L. Jost, Republican, Fifth District of Missouri, for his retirement from congress. Although has assurances of reelection, he says, he will not be a candidate in November.

NOTABLES, GATHERED FOR DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION, ARE "SNAPPED" AT SMITH AND McADOO HEADQUARTERS

The lower photograph shows Governor Alfred E. Smith, and Franklin D. Roosevelt, his cam-paign manager, talking over the situation at the Smith headquart-ers in New York. Above are seen David Ladd Rockwell of Chicago, national manager of the campaign of William G. McAdoo, with Rich-ard F. Hobson, naval hero of the Spanish-American War, who is a delegate to the convention. They were photographed at the McAdoo headquarters. Also at the McAdoo headquarters (in insert) was Ed-win T. Meredith, former Secretary of Agriculture, who is a delegate from Iowa.

Sergum Sprout

The N. Y. Milk show is over and a tidy sum is the result. There are other results: first, the colored middleweight championship changed hands; secondly, Young Stribling won an unpopular de-cision over Tommy Loughran; thirdly, Gene Tunney proved that Erminio Spalla, the Italian, is not a championship possibility, and Harry Greb still remains supreme in his class.

The Gans-Estridge battle was the most wicked of the evening. Estridge was a better starter and finished stronger than the champ. Gans made a noble stand in the fourth, fifth and sixth rounds but the Harlem Hurricane was too young and strong so the colored people have a new champ.

Young Stribling got in bad with the fans by using his head as a battering ram and other un-sportsman like tactics to win over Tommy Loughran who took the place of Paul Berlinbach. When the referee gave the decision to Stribling the fans booed lustily. While Stribling elected to box, the bout was a wounderful exhibition of scientific boxing.

Spalla could not find Gene Tun-ey and after taking a severe thrashing for seven rounds decid-ed to make the match a mixed bout. He secured a head lock on Gene and floored the light heavy. The referee would not stand for wrestling so Spalla got the hook and Tunny received credit for a technical knockout.

Moore looked for time in the early rounds to be the Pittsburg windmill's master but after a flur-ry Greb settled down and gave the Englishman a neat and sound thrashing. Greb is the most un-popular great fighter of the day but his unpopularity does not im-pair his ability. He just kept on knocking off tiny and all comers.

Francis Hunter, one of the American aces in the tennis world, was eliminated in the Wimbledon tournament by Old Norman Brooks, a luminary 20 years ago. All teh rest of the American play-ers weathered the day. Hol-Wills is improving her play day by day and is figured to be in the finals.

Old Walter Johnson pitched his 105th shutout victory in the major leagues yesterday against Phila-delphia. Washington lost the second game but remained in the lead. The American league race is so hot that some of the teams are going to find the going too fast and there will be a break. Some team is bound to slump soon as the pace is killing.

The Giants are piling up a com-fortable lead in the national. The Cubs are still in hailing distance but have been losing ground the last few days.

The Seals have been too strong for the Indians so far in their crucial series this week. With any kind of pitching the Seal punch will carry them through. The Tigers are still in third place the they have lost two out of three.

Supporting the claim that this is a country of opportunity is the fact that of our thirty presidents only twenty have had college edu-cations.

S. A. RIVER DIKE IN BETTER SHAPE

The protection work along the Santa Ana river presents a very different appearance now from what it did a year or more ago, Fritz Yungbluth, chairman of the district committee, said today. A quantity of tin cans, old brick, pieces of broken cement sidewalk, etc. has been dumped in, furnish-ing an excellent buttress for the piling between it and the road. A good deal more of such stuff is necessary, however, and will be welcome.

A man has been on hand to supervise the placing of the mate-rail.

The fire of a few weeks ago did very little damage to the piling.

The next step of consequence will be the improvement of the road, which has become quite nec-essary, according to Secretary Geo. W. Reid of the C. of C.

Tagging All Bases

The Senators retained their lead in the American League pen-nant race when they broke even in a double header with the Ath-letics, while the Tigers in second place, remained idle. The Yank-ees dropped their sixth straight and slid into fourth place, the Red Sox being third.

In the National League the Giants gained a full game on the Cubs when they defeated the Braves while Chicago was losing to the Pirates. The Giants now lead by three and a half games.

EARLY END FOR ENERGY FAMINE

The electric energy famine in So. California will be solved pos-sibly by October and certainly by Jan. 1—solved for years to come. The solution will come thru use of Florence lake, which holds 96,000 acre feet of water. A tunnel is being constructed with six shifts per day at work, four hours each, and progress of 100 feet per day thru solid granite with a bore of 15 feet in diam-eter is being made, said to be a world's record.

This astonishing statement was made last night at the monthly meeting of the Associat-ed C. of C. in the Elks Club by President J. A. Smiley, of the Farm Bureau. The water from the lake will be used again and again, operating five different plants, strung in a line down the mountains.

Smiley insisted that the pre-sent famine was not due to the drought nor to any inefficiency of the Edison Co., but to the fact that So. Calif. had grown too fast for the company to keep pace with it.

Smiley outlined the present situation as it affects Orange co. and told of the measures already taken, including the appointment of the conservation committee. He will speak tonight at a joint meeting of ranchers and mer-chants at the Placentia C. of C. at the Placentia Cafe. Tom McFadden of Placentia and Ana-heim told those present that everybody might as well comply with good grace in the conserva-tion program. Otherwise the swit-ches would be pulled and they would get no juice at all.

All but one of the county's chambers had a delegate or dele-gates present, about as fine a showing as has been made, and a representative of each, the secre-tary in most cases was invited to speak. Speeches covered the work of each chamber, opinion on pow-er conservation measures and Or-ange co harbor development. Ap-proximately 100 were present, in-cluding the usual sprinkling of la-dies. President L. F. Coburn of Orange presided.

Secretary George W. Reid of the Anaheim C. of C. told how the local chamber had reached a rec-ord membership of 98 or 99 per cent paid up.

The harbor development talks of the secretaries and delegates eventuated in decision to appoint an industrial committee to work with the harbor committee in get-ting industries for the county at the harbor and elsewhere. These remarks had their inception largely in a trip from Newport to Los Angeles harbor yesterday aft-ernoon starting at 1 o'clock, at-tended by 125 to 130 members of chambers, some 10 from each. There they were taken about by harbor officials, who rehearsed the history of development.

Jay H. Wallace of Newport Beach made his usual speech on the development of the county's harbor and its prospects.

Reports of committees were largely perfunctory.

Upshaw Says Attempt Made to Buy His Support for Smith

NEW YORK, June 27—Charg-es that three New York men had approached Rep. Upshaw of Georgia, a vice presidential can-didate, and offered him the sup-port of New York and other states if he would support Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York for the presidency were made by Phineas V. Stevens, chairman of Upshaw's campaign committee.

Stephens said "a prominent New York attorney and two other men" called on Upshaw twice, and promised to "deliver him the vice presidency if he would desert the McAdoo ban-ner and assist in lining up the southern delegations for Smith."

The trio assured Upshaw they represented "prominent business influences in New York and had ample funds," Stephens said.

Upshaw was shocked by the affair, Stephens said, and in-formed his callers "there were not enough voters or dollars in New York or other eastern states to make him change his princi-ples."

Stephens said the three men said they were attracted by Up-shaw because of his known "dry position" and were anxious to have him the running mate for Smith.

POEMS THAT LIVE

RECOMPENSE

The gifts that to our breasts we fold
Are brightened by our losses;
The sweetest joys a heart can hold
Grows up between its crosses.

And on life's pathway many a mile
Is made more glad and cheery,
Because for just a little while,
The way seemed dark and dreary.

A Little Talk on Thrift

By S. W. STRAUS
(President American Society of Thrift)

"Stop the leaks!"

This is a lesson that has been impressed on every American school boy and school girl, yet it is a lesson that is lost sight of by all too many persons.

It is not a mere school-book platitude. "Stop the leaks!" This is one of the fundamentals of all success.

No business is so powerful and prosperous that this principle can be ignored.

It is the leaks often that cause failure where there is otherwise every apparent reason for success. Lincoln's famous letter of recom-mendation for a fellowtownsman illustrates the point. While a young lawyer in Illinois he re-ceived a letter of inquiry regard-ing the standing, responsibility and character of a certain man in the town to which he made the following reply:

"Dear Sir: Yours of the tenth received. I am well acquainted with the gentleman named, and know his characteristics. First of all, he has a wife and baby; to-gether they ought to be worth $50,000 to any man. Then he has an office, in which there is a table worth $1.50 and three chairs worth, say $1. Last of all, there is in one corner a rat-hole which will bear looking into.

"Respectfully,

"Abraham Lincoln."

Nothing could be said against the man, excepting that he did not understand how to stop the leaks. A few days ago I had occasion to inquire about a certain man, and the answer I received was, "Lots of ability but no stability." No stability because he could not stop the leaks of unimportant matters which warped his judgment, un-dermined his will and distorted his character.

Leaks may consist of misspent

BAKER SEEN AS COMPROMISE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

Mrs. Newton D. Baker and children (left to right): Newton D., Jr.; Margaret and Elizabeth; the Baker home in Cleveland, and Baker at work in his office in Cleveland.

Ohio's delegation in the Demo-cratic national convention will "stick to the finish" for James M. Cox, nominee in 1920, but if the time comes when the fight to nominate Cox is hopeless, it will swing its strength to Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, in the hope of making him the party standard bearer.

Ohio politicians see Baker's "dark horse" chances for the nomination as excellent, figuring that neither McAdoo nor Smith will be able to win the ne[cessary] two-thirds votes, and th[at] Mc-Adoo would turn the de[legates] pledged to him to Baker [in] the event of a hopeless deadl[ock]

SEEKING TRACE OF EARLY MAN

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—Roy Chapman Andrews, discoverer of the 10,000,000-year-old dinosaur eggs, will set out shortly for a journey into Central Asia in quest of the remains of primitive man.

Andrews, who is to lead the fourth Asiatic expedition of the American Museum of Natural History into the Boli desert, is starting more than six months ahead of his colleagues to negotiate advance diplomatic and transportation arrangements. He will sail from here soon.

"We are going to a place where we believe human remains are most likely to exist," Andrews said, "and, while it is something of a gamble what we shall find, we are convinced we will be seeking in the right place."

The third expedition, which discovered the mastodonic eggs in Mongolia, failed to find the remains of the "first man," but Andrews believes his party will unearth them in strata of a primitive period. When they are found, Andrews thinks, they may throw light on the church controversy now raging between the Modernists and the Fundamentalists.

The party will invade the Gobi desert, and, because of the severe winter climate north of the Himalayas, it will be able to work only in the summer.

Colgate university purchased on of the dinosaur eggs for $5000, which helped to swell the fund of $256,000 raised to defray the cost of the expedition, which may last five years.

HENS DECLINE TO OBSERVE SUNDAYS

Two birds entered in the farm bureau egg-laying contest at Pomona overlooked the usual days of rest and laid 30 eggs in May. Many others observed but two days' rest, among them a Rhode Island Red belonging to Ferd Heying of Anaheim.

The average egg production per hen for the Orange-co entries since the beginning of the contest last fall is 95.01. This is not particularly high, which may be accounted for by the fact that at the beginning of the contest it was unusually hot and dry at Pomona. Perhaps that is why some of them are working so busily now to redeem themselves.

Attacks of chickenpox cut into production also and it is suggested as a possible remedy that the birds be vaccinated against chickenpox just before being entered at the contest next time.

The Leghorns led last month with 70.81 per cent; Anconas coming second with 63.71 per cent; and Rhode Island Reds third with 57.74 per cent.

Records were kept during the hatching season from January 23 to May 12 of fertility and hatchability of eggs from the experimental pens where different feeds were fed. The pen fed green sprouted oats as part green feed gave the highest per cent of fertility.

URGE FACTORIES TO SEEK ORIENT TRADE

BOSTON, Mass., June 27.—"No man can be a foreigner who buys American goods, whether he lives in China or Europe. But the man around the corner, to whom you never sell a dollar's worth, may be a total stranger in a commercial sense."

This was the foreign trade slogan expressed to me by Walter F. Wyman, the export manager of Carter's Ink Co., of Cambridge, Mass. Thru the adoption of intensive methods, Mr. Wyman declared, New England has greatly expanded its foreign trade in recent years, and there are today more manufacturers in New England with an export volume of 25 per cent or more of their production than in any other section of the country.

Few American manufacturers realize that they can balance their business in goods for which there is seasonal demand by cultivating outside markets, Mr. Wyman declared. Thus the manufacturers of heavy clothing, whose home markets are severely restricted for six months of the year, can build up well-rounded 12 months' business thru the cultivation of foreign markets. "There are many markets in the world, and all of them do not enjoy prosperity or suffer depression at the same time," he said.

PLATFORM READY SAVE TWO PLANKS

NEW YORK, June 27—The Democratic platform for the 1924 campaign was completed today save for the two great controversial issues—the Ku Klux Klan and league of nations planks—after a national convention's platform builders.

The two disputed planks will be considered against this afternoon by the committee on resolutions in secret session but a final decision undoubtedly will be given in the open by the convention itself.

The sub-committee of 14 Democratic 'master minds" who drafted most of the platform, met again this morning in an effort to effect compromises.

The dispute over the klan plank aroused more controversy than the league issue. The sub-committee was reported as standing ten to four against including the klan's name in a denunciatory plank. The four more violent anti-klanmmen insisted upon a specific indictment of the klan and threatened to carry their fight to the floor of the convention.

A small but determined minority kept the league an open issue. While a great majority of both committees favored a foreign affairs plank gently pushing the league into the background, this minority held out for a flat declaration in favor of immediate American adherence.

The group was led by Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war who announced he would appeal to the convention if he lost in committee.

The milder league plank, favored by most platform builders, would pledge the democratic party to "favor co-operation with or without participation in such organization, including the league of nations, as may be helpfully functioning in the social and economic rehabilitation of the world on such terms as will protect the sovereignty and independence of our government."

On every other plank, including prohibition, agreements were reached by the platform builders.

The dry issue was settled by endorsement of a general law enforcement plank, without specific reference to the 18th amendment.

The platform contains 35 subdivisions. It opens with a strong tribute to the memory of Woodrow Wilson, which was adopted with a round of applause.

Planks setting forth Democratic campaign principles, comparing Republican and Democratic records, pledging honesty in government and condemning Republican mal administration and proposing tax and tariff reforms were adopted without a ringle dissenting vote.

When the agriculture program was reached the first split occurred, a minority arguing for endorsement of the Curtis-Aswell farm relief bill. They were defeated but a definite program of relief was proposed, featured by lower freight rates, federal aid for co-operative marketing and the opening of European markets.

Plank after plank was adopted without serious opposition until one was reached in which William J. Bryan proposed the government should pay publicity expenses of candidates for congress. This created a considerable stir and led to the biggest controversy of the night.

Bryan demanded its inclusion in the platform, along with a clause limiting campaign contributions as expenditures, "so that the poor man can get elected to congress."

Bryan was supported by Senators King of Utah, Caraway of Kansas and Owen of Oklahoma.

The committee overwhelmingly repudiated the proposed plank. Bryan sufferred another defeat a moment later when the committee also voted down a proposal to include a plank favoring a national primary law for direct presidential primaries.

A strong labor plank was then adopted. Proposed by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts it endorsed the 48-hour week collective bargaining and the right of labor to organize.

An effort to add a clause endorsing the child labor amendment to the constitution was defeated. The opposition, led by Senator Stephens of Miss., contended the amendment was in violation of the democratic states' rights principle.

At the insistence of Senator King of Utah the committee then endorsed a plank calling for the granting of independence to the Philippines.

A strong railroad plank also was endorsed, including a demand for either repeal or amendment of the Esch-Cummins law, revocation of the guarantee clause and the revision of freight rates.

Planks on reclamation, national conservation and an endorsement of waterpower projects were adopted without opposition.

The Muscle Shoals plank was finally adopted, pledging the Democratic party to complete or lease the Alabama project "for the manufacture of commercial fertilizer at the lowest possible cost, for the benefit of American farmers."

The immigration plank placing the party on record as favoring "Asiatic exclusion" was adopted, altho a group, led by Congressman Sabath of Illinois, demanded the Democratic party be pledged against any immigration discriminations.

Bryan won a victory when his anti-war plank was adopted. It called for the drafting of "all other resources" whenever manpower is called to the national defense.

The commerce's planks on disarmament and a war referendum were also written into the platform. They called for a national vote upon war and pledged the party to further reductions of "armament by land and sea" but to "maintain an army and navy adequate for national defense."

A merchant marine plank was adopted, condemning the "vacillating Republican policy" and favoring a larger mercantile navy under the American flag.

Other minor planks were adopted quickly. The last hour of the session being spent in ratification of the sub-committee's recommendation without the formality of debate.

SMITH'S NOISE MAKERS ABSENT

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, June 27.—Amid another Niagara of oratory, the Democratic national convention assembled in Madison Square Garden today to witness the tossing of another hatful of dozen names into the fight-scarred presidential arena to add to the ten already in.

A storm was gathering outside the garden as the delegates met. The heavens were black and beginning to spill the first drops of an approaching thunder storm. Inside the air was heavy and sticky and rumbling too, with the noise of approaching conflict.

There was none of the riotous crashing of the old garden gate by the cohorts of Governor Smith this morning, such as marked yesterday's colorful session. Yesterday was "Al's Day." Today belonged to someone else, Davis perhaps, or Senator Thomas Walsh, or Senator Carter Glass or Governor Silzer or James Cox.

All these names were to go into the political pot during the day. And in addition there was "Bill" Bryan's brother, "Charley," who governs Nebraska and has come to this convention as the "farmer's candidate."

Workmen were busy when the first delegates arrived this morning, fastening the state standard of Colorado to the floor with heavy baling wire. There have been several fights in the Colorado delegation over whether the standard was to be borne in the parades. Today the Colorodoans had their standard fastened in such a way that if it is moved the removers will have to take Governor William E. Sweet along with it. It was wired to his chair as well as fastened to the floor.

The garden was washed clean of yesterday's litter and straightening. The only reminder of the Smith show was a huge banner hanging askew fro mone of the balconies which carried the legend, "Al Smith always wins."

Friends of Governor ("Brother Charlie") Bryan were busy on the floor before the session began, distributing cards which told of his availability.

"A pivotal candidate" from a "pivotal state," who could be counted on to carry other "pivotal states" was the description of him printed on the cards—born in Illinois, reared in Nebraska and next to the farmer.

The Jerseyites came in with great armfuls of placards bearing the likeness of Governor George S. Silzer, their favorite son, whom the drys describe son, whom phrase "as wet as the Atlantic Ocean."

He is to get Jersey's vote on the early balloting. Later it will swing to Al Smith.

Tom Taggart, the veteran pilot of many candidates, now backing Ralston, was a busy figure on the floor as the delegates drifted in. He circled the floor, shaking many hands and telling the delegates how vigorous is the Hoosier senator, despite his advanced age. He visited Texas, a McAdoo state, and Pennsylvania, a Smith state, in his rounds.

CRIPPLED KIDDIES IN SHOW TONIGHT

Introducing to Anaheim Miss Mallie Taylor, the interloctitor of the unique minstrel show produced by the older crippled children of the Orthopaedic Hospital School of Los Angeles, known as the Orthopaedic Hospital-School Senior Alumni.

Miss Taylor has developed a remarkable talent in recitative song during her long years of physical inactivity, and she will render several numbers which will delight her audience. While still confined to a wheel-chair, Miss Taylor is now beginning to reap her reward for courage during the years of corrective procedure. She has been a patient of the Orthopaedic Hospital-School since its inception, and her restoration to a normal physical activity has entailed much endurance and patience.

These years of physical disability render the crippled child a big reward in character, if the means of cure can be given them and opportunity for development and self expression also be provided. This is the task of the Orthopaedic Hospital-School, where more than 2000 crippled children are registered for treatment.

It will be interesting to Anaheim citizens to read that the three daughters of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Bever, 204 So. Ohio-st, will have a place in the program Friday evening. Miss Orena Bever has been a patient of the Orthopaedic Hospital-School for some time.

Come and hear and see this minstrel show. The performance will begin at 7:30 o'clock tonight at Anaheim H. S. auditorium to permit the cast to return to Los Angeles and the hospital-school as early as possible. The admission price is 25 cents, and the funds raised will be used for welfare work. A crippled child deserves our best encouragement in the struggle for normal independence, and these minstrel players are well able to entertain you. You will carry away courage, new appreciation, pleasure and a memory of a joyful good time.

GARDEN GROVE TO SELL SEWER BONDS

The issue of 20-year 6 per cent bonds, $28,000 worth, of the Garden Grove sanitary district will be advertised for outside the town next week, bids being invited to be received by July 7. The district hopes to obtain a premium on the issue.

Part of the proceeds will be used to construct what Sinclair Woods, a leader in the project, described as "an outfall sewer of their own," to extend along Taft and Berano-aves, connecting below Seventeenth-st with the joint outfall of Anaheim, Fullerton, Orange and Santa Ana. This will accommodate a large share of the population living on low land and will eliminate the need of a booster pump.

The new sewer connections will accommodate a population of around 2500 and will replace private cesspools and septic tanks.

tunity to revising the culti-the recommended practice of ucive to better production but lessened costs.

ore effective pest control er attention should be given e condition of the pest before l money is expended towards rol. In many cases hundreds dollars could be saved by the wers if recommendations were ht from the Horticultural missioner and his inspectors the proper time of fumigation their recommendations fol-ed. Observations during the t season have clearly disclosed ineffectiveness of control mea-es where the grower has paid attention to the life cycle and ceptibility of the pest infesting grove. Small fortunes could saved during the past year by ny growers had they secured recommendations of the hortitural office as to the time of nigation of citrus or spraying walnuts.

Closer attention to trunk and ot diseases also is an important tor towards reduced production
ita. There are too many exams of neglected trees, showing k of attention. Such diseases as scalyb ark, shell bark, gummosis and related diseases can in a large majority of cases be satisfactorily controlled if taken in time. Too often has the grower overlooked the importance of checking these diseases in their incipiency, allowing them to get three or four, or five years start before control measures are practiced. When control measures are resorted to in advanced stages of the disease it costs from five to ten times the sum required if handled earlier.

Thus it will be seen from the above brief statement of the various factors involved in efficient crop production, that there is room for considerable improvement in the general practice of the average farmer. It behooves the industry to practice economy, particularly in times when crop returns are below normal.

PAYS $3.66 PER 100 FOR ORANGES

The J. McInnes packing house at Orange has shown a remarkably good record for returns for valencia shipments to date. Altho this firm has not shipped as many cars so far as at the corresponding date last year because of market conditions, yet it has made an excellent record on fruit consigned for the growers.

Three cars shipped from an orchard in No. Orange-co showed an average of $3.66 per 100 pounds for all grades and sizes. The check for the fruit was in the hands of the grower within 20 days after the fruit was shipped.

Altho operating on this plan for the immediate present, this firm remains a cash house, and will continue to buy for cash in the future.

Mr. McInnes also stated that the few citrus growers who have been inclined to complain of the light setting of fruit for next year are somewhat premature. He pointed out that, after the June drop, the setting usually looks lighter than it does a few months later, and that it is impossible to forecast the size of the next crop, even approximately, at this time.

TO DEMONSTRATE TRAFFIC SAFETY

In cooperation with The Plain Dealer, the police department tomorrow will stage a safety exhibit with 7-year-old Bobby Dusevoir, young moving picture star, at the wheel of a car, giving the proper signals at turns and otherwise helping to teach the public, particularly youthful drivers, the rules of the road.

The boy now is making a picture called "Safety First," which will be used in a big campaign against reckless driving.

Jack Pickell, city motorcycle officer, always has stood for the position that the public must cooperate with enforcement officers if the law was to be obcyed thoroly.

City Marshal Bert Moody and Pickell are lending their best efforts to the demonstration.

AUTO PLATES LIKE YELLOW JACKETS

SACRAMENTO, June 27—Auto plates for 1925 will carry black numerals on a yellow background. It was announced today by Will R. Marsh, chief of the division of motor vehicles.

Pneumatic-tired trucks and other commercial vehicles, however, will be given plates in which red and white will be the colors.

Experts declare that the combination of yellow and black for passenger cars will afford a higher degree of visibility than any other possible combination of colors, for surpassing the green and white plates now in use.

Orders will soon be placed for the 1925 supply of plates and motor vehicle departments in other states have been notified that California has made selection of yellow and black.

Mrs. Gertrude Brown, widow, has filed as candidate for sheriff of Klamath county, Oregon.

NOTICE

The Shell Company of California, who operate gasoline service stations thru out Southern California was the first company to voluntarily offer a reduction of 100 per cent in its service station lighting; provided all other service stations would do likewise.

The acute shortage of power, due to lack of water, coupled with a desire to co-operate with the power company prompted this action. Specifically, the offer is to open all service stations at 7 a. m. and close them at 7 p. m. under which arrangement no lights would be used at all.

A recent canvass of a large number of gasoline consumers reveals a desire on the part of the public to co-operate to the fullest extent in this crisis.

Due to the necessity of formulating a uniform plan for light conservation at all Shell Company service stations thruout Southern California; a slight delay in cutting down the light was unavoidable. This delay caused the impression in some districts that the Shell Company was opposed to reducing their lights. This however, was in error.

TO FIGHT AUTO THIEVES IN THIS SECTION

The auto thief is to have a harder time, here in Southern California, than heretofore. Federal, state and county officials are organizing to co-operate more closely in apprehending criminals who steal cars and make for the Mexican border. Close watch is to be kept on all roads leading to the Mexican boundary. And prompt notice from the Automobile Club of Southern California, about stolen cars, will be given to authorities, so that all may be on the lookout for the fleeing fugitive who has stolen a car. It is believed that this arrangement will reduce greatly the number of thefts of automobiles in this section.

Stealing of automobiles is a menacing thing. It inspires many a crime. It is a common thing for criminals or would-be criminals to steal an auto and then put forth to hold up a bank, commit highway robbery, kidnap somebody for ransom, or commit the unspeakable crime against a girl or woman. Deprive these daredevils of a machine, and they would not get far in their career of criminality.

There is also the economic loss and the hardship to individual owners in the loss of automobile by theft. This is a big item, as the total value of cars stolen within a year runs Doing things to make others happy sweetens the vinegar out of one's nature.

He is a wise man who knows when to keep silent and has the self-control to remain speechless.

A fine thing to say of any man—"He did the right thing, even though it were to his own hurt." But one is not really hurt by doing the right thing.

Beware the scheme that offers you quick riches with little outlay. There is a vast deal of humbuggery under the guise of giving fortunes quickly or a small investment.

The individual voter should think for himself, and form convictions for himself. This should be a year of independent thought and action in politics.

DOES HEARST FEEL "THE CALL OF THE BLOOD" AGAIN?

WHO'S WHO IN THE DAYS NEWS

ETIENNE CLEMENTEL

No man in the public life of France enjoys to a greater degree the respect of his fellow-countrymen than Etienne Clementel, who has just been appointed minister of finance in the new Herriot cabinet at Paris. Former minister of agriculture and commerce, as well as of the colonies, and more recently president of all the united chambers of commerce of France, he is known to his fellow-countrymen as a very able administrator and as possessed of a particularly lofty and delicate sense of personal honor and integrity.

When, shortly before the war, at a time when he held the post of minister for the colonies an unfortunate second marriage led him to take legal action by which the union was annulled, in spite of the protests of the chief magistrate, of the premier and of his colleagues, he insisted upon resigning at once his cabinet office. His attitude in the matter was thoroughly appreciated, and that he nowise suffered in the estimation of public favor was shown by the universal approval which was shown when Georges Clemenceau, in forming the administration under the regime of which the great war was finally won, persuaded Clementel to join his cabinet as minister of commerce.

And for those who dread that the event of the Herriot administration foreshadows the return to power of Joseph Caillaux, it must be remembered that Clementel was one of that Clemenceau government which had the courage to arrest ex-Premier Caillaux on a charge of high treason, to place him on trial for his life in the senate, to lay bare his record, and to demand his capital punishment which was only averted in favor of a lesser penalty by a very small vote on the part of several senators who lacked the courage of Clemenceau and of Clementel.

The Psychology of Newspaper Advertising

By John Hamilton Curtis

ARTICLE No. 3

MAKING THE PROPER APPEAL

HAVING WRITTEN an advertisement that attracts the buyer's attention and arouses his interest ,the next step is to make the right appeal—the appeal that will fit the goods, fit the buyer and fit the merchant. As arousing interest is only striking a chord of common appeal, so making the proper appeal is only a matter of appealing to the strongest interest.

A store that caters to the middle class of people—that is, the working class—is doing wrong to advertise exclusive ware. The greatest appeals in this case would be economy, also service and satisfaction, which, however, are more universal in appeal, and might be used by the other shops as well. On the other hand, the merchant who caters to the exclusive trade, very rarely should advertise bargain sales, but should appeal to the desire for quality, convenience and exclusiveness.

It is equally as great a mistake to advertise that a cheap automobile gives comfort in riding, has limitless power, lines of beauty, etc. Although some of these things may be true, the cheap car would probably be far outclassed by the higher priced competitor. Moreover, it is making the wrong psychological appeal to the prospective purchaser of the cheap car, who is interested first of all in economy and utility. No other appeal can be as strong as that one. The opposite is true of the exclusive car. Here the prospective purchaser is not interested in price, primarily, but in quality.

As was brought out in the article on arousing the buyer's interest, one of the greatest appeals is the taste. Salt is sold by showing its use in rendering various food products more palatable. Bread is made to look more appetising by covering it with jam. Cooking compounds are sold by picturing fine cakes and pastries, in which the special compound is given the chief credit for the fine baking. This same picture might be used to sell, not only cooking compound, but canned milk, baking powder, flour, flavoring, the cocoanut that is used in frosting, or even the oven in which it might be baked. In each case the appeal is the same—that of the appetite.

Other appeals may be good health, exclusiveness, luxury, comfort, love of family, self pride and even love of self. The appeal should be used that most nearly fits the thing advertised, the class of people who are to be appealed to, and the business man doing the advertising. Only one appeal should be made in any one advertisement. Though it may cover a multitude of facts, and even contain minor appeals, there should be one clear and distinctive appeal which predominates the entire thought of the advertisement.

The next article on the Psychology of Newspaper Advertising will appear in tomorrow's issue of the paper, and will deal with arousing the curiosity in advertising.

The place where a pedestrian is most frequently hit by taxicabs is in the editorial paragraph.

In the old days the man who could get drunk by smelling a cork was scoffed at. These days he's envied.

Men may in time become accustomed to the abolition of free speech, but they never will forgive the abolition of the free lunch.

DINNER STORIES

The young lieutenant had but newly joined the regiment, and as this was his first experience of military life he naturally felt rather awkward and afraid of doing the wrong thing. This was particularly the case in the mess, where he was almost afraid to move for fear of acting contrary to military etiquette.

At last the major, rough but kindly at heart, took pity on him, and, slapping him on the back, said jovially:

"I suppose it's the old, old story —what? The fool of the family sent into the army?"

"Oh, no, sir," replied the young man; "things have quite altered since your day."

The son of the house had been reading of an escaped lunatic.

"How do they catch lunatics?" he asked.

The father, who had just paid a number of bills, waxed sarcastic:

"With enormous straw hats with little bits of ones, with silks and laces and feathers and jewelry, and so on and so on."

"I recall now," the mother spoke up, "I used to wear things of that sort until I married you."

Margaret, five years old, had eaten one of the two boxes of strawberries her mother had purchased, expecting company. Her mother said: "What would you do if you had a little girl and she did a thing like that?"

"Oh, mamma," Margaret exclaimed, eagerly, "I'd make her eat the other box."

The group of dwellers at the seaside was discussing the subject of dreams and their significance. During a pause, one of the party turned to a little girl who had sat listening intently, and asked:

"Do you believe that dreams come true?"

"Of course, they do," the child replied firmly. "Last night I dreamed that I went paddling—and I had!"

SIDEWALKS UPON HAMILTON TRACT

Harold Clairmont, realtor, today took out a permit for installation of sidewalks and curbs for more than 1000 feet facing on the Hamilton tract (no. Palm-st. between Wilhelmina and North-sts. The work will be done immediately.

Clairmont reports considerable inquiry among homeseekers and investors for lots in this North Palm-st. subdivision.

"It is only a matter of a brief time until Palm-st. is paved and that will make it a very heavily traveled thorofare," says Clairmont. "We are selling these lots at $1700 which means a fine investment for somebody."

DEMPSEY AT LAST IN PUBLIC FAVOR

LOS ANGELES, June 27—Jack Dempsey is at last coming into his own.

Yes—perhaps no other—American athletes have been ridiculed, abused and attacked as has the world's heavyweight champion.

Always anxious to be a popular champion, Dempsey has never ever come close to that goal but here in Los Angeles he is steadily gaining in popularity. Working hard to fill a contract with a Universal City motion picture company, Dempsey is leading a simple life, boxing only occasionally for charity.

In two recent exhibitions here within a week Dempsey's appearance alone was largely responsible for raising $62,000. He boosted the Olympic tryouts and aided raising money to pay the Los Angeles quota for the expenses of sending American athletes to France and the champion also appeared in three exhibition bouts at a show arranged for charity.

Dempsey takes some big chances in these exhibition bouts. In one night he met three big, powerful heavies and knocked them all out in jig time, but one false move, one single slip, might have caused him at least a lot of trouble. He might have been socked for a flop and what publicity the story would have received.

The champion's charities cannot be said to be based on a plea for sympathy. Dempsey is rich and need never worry about finanes. So after all one must yield that he works for the unfortunate out of goodness of his heart in a supreme desire to be called a worthy title-holder.

Among the strange birds, beast and fish discovered in Brazil are vampire bats, flat fish with a poison spike in their tails, and vultures which make noises very like dogs barking.

SUGGESTS A NEW VERSE FOR "STAR SPANGLED BANNER"

Lt. Col. Harrison P. Kerrick

An additional stanza to "The Star Spangled Banner" is suggested by Lt. Col. Harrison P. Kerrick commanding officer of the army general depot at Columbus, O., in emulation "of the present day American conception of peace through world unity and international comity."

FIRST CATHOLIC RETREAT IN WEST

PORTLAND, Ore., June 27.—The Servite Fathers of Portland plan to start work this fall on construction of a $5,000,000 Sanctuary of Our Sorrowful Mother, on a 58-acre tract located east of the city.

The sanctuary proper, will be built on the summit of Rocky Butte, a precipitous cliff overlooking the surrounding country. It will be 500 feet long, and two main towers will rise 300 feet in height. Approximately 4000 people will be accommodated in the building.

Seven chapels—each dedicated to a principle of the Catholic faith—will be erected along a paved way leading up to the sanctuary.

The great underwriting will be the only one of its kind in America, and it is the purpose of the founders that it become a shrine of spiritual retreat for thousands of pilgrims annually from all over the United States.

Romanesque architecture will prevail thruout the edifice, and stone will be quarried from the ground surrounding the site. Construction of three chapels will start this fall, and it is estimated that it will take five years to complete the work.

Subscription and contributions are being sought over the entire country for the work.

The Servite Fathers, a Catholic community founded at Florence, Italy, in 1233, have erected a score of similar shrines in various parts of Europe. Patrick Cardinal Hayes of New York is head of the Servite Fathers in America. The shrine has the special blessing and sanction of Pope Pius XI.

MAKE FIRE TRAIL ABOUT STATE HOUSE

SACRAMENTO, June 27.—Construction of a fire trail for the protection of the Sonoma State Home for Feeble Minded Children and the surrounding watersheds, today was ordered by W. D. Wagner, superintendent of the state department of institutions.

New wells are being dug at the Mendocino State Home, the Agnews State Hospital and the Norwalk Hospital, Wagner said, due to the increasing shortage of water.

It is expected by this means to secure a supply of water sufficient for domestic purposes but curtailment of farm work dependent on irrigation, will probably be curtailed.

Boro Budar, an old Buddhist shrine in central Java, is believed to have required more labor to build than the pyramids.

"PUSSYFOOT" AT TEMPLE SUNDAY

"Pussyfoot" Johnson, who speaks at the White Temple Sunday evening, has just returned from Africa, the so-called dark continent, though in a temperance way, according to Johnson, it is not as dark as might be supposed.

Johnson traveled 6350 miles in Africa, and in 66 days made 107 speeches in the interest of world prohibition. Everywhere the people "received him gladly," as he told the story of what America has done in banishing the liquor traffic and of how the rapid spread of prohibition will soon achieve a saloonless world. The wine growers of South Africa were especially interested. Naturally religious and pious, these men, nevertheless, have a vast commercial and industrial interest in the grape business, and hither to have not seen how they could manage to live under prohibition. But Mr. Johnson made a profound impression on them when he described conditions in America, and told them that grape growers in the United States have been more prosperous under prohibition than ever before.

Starting at Cape Town in the extreme south, he traversed the entire continent, coming up the rich valley of the Nile, and at the ancient cities of Cairo and Alexandria told the same prohibition story.

Just as he was honored and feted in India two years ago, so in Africa they received him with high honors, partly as a distinguished individual, partly because he is an American, and partly because of his message, in which all classes were interested.

Even in the Island of Zanzibar, the "Pussyfoot" voice was heard. On his way from South Africa, by way of Egypt, he was marooned on Zanzibar for three weeks. But his fame had preceded him. For the country already had gone dry as to the majority of the population, the Sultan having decreed prohibition to everybody except the Christians (note the word), and that decree extended to 200,000 of the 203,000 population.

Under arrangement of the local Indian and Arab leaders a mass meeting was quickly arranged in Royal Cinema hall, the largest auditorium in the city. It was packed on short notice. The meeting was presided over by Hon. Haythorne Reed, judge of the high court. The Sultan sent two dignitaries from the palace to represent him.

This was followed by a second meeting arranged by the Zanzibar branch of the Aya Samaj, a religious body which is to Hinduism very much what the Reformation was to Christianity. Aryan hymns were sung, and, after Johnson had given his address, an Aryan evangelist, Thakor Pravinsinhji Bhajnik, chanted an original song, composed for the occasion, in which Mr. Johnson was very highly praised.

Johnson says: "As a result of these two demonstrations and several conferences, steps are being taken to form a regular prohibition organization for Zanzibar and to convert the bibulous Christians to abstinence; also, if possible, to bring them under the prohibition law, which many of them quite urgently need."

This world preacher of prohibition—"Pussyfoot" Johnson—is at home again for a short time, in his old-time strength, with a merry twinkle still in his good left eye, and with a stronger and better story than ever of world-wide quest for righteousness. He comes with even more optimism than ever before, and with an appeal for America to consecrate herself to real missionary enterprise in fighting the battle against the organized world liquor traffic. He comes with "the smile that won't come off."

Three years ago in June, July and August just after he had lost his eye, "Pussyfoot" toured all cities in the United States with a population of 100,000 or more, addressing great mass meetings which filled to overflowing the largest auditoriums.

Two years ago "Pussyfoot" toured India, traversing 7000 miles, making 200 speeches and telling the story of American prohibition to 1,500,000 people.

Last year he toured New Zealand and Australia.

FINE ITALIANS $300 ON LIQUOR CHARGE

That it doesn't pay to ride in the same kind of a car as a bank robber, especially if you have liquor in your car, was the decision this morning in Judge Hart's court in Fullerton of four Italians arrested late Wednesday by Marshall Jemison of Orange. The men were P. Veto, Mike Sandi, Peter Carlucci and Pat Vona. They were picked up near Placentia and their car searched because it was the same color as the car used by the Olive bank robber. Whiskey, wine and an automatic were there. They entered pleas of guilty to possession of liquor, and were fined $300. Vona also paid a fine of $25 on the charge of carrying a deadly weapon. The gun was confiscated.

FINE B. B. PLAYERS

On the left the coat shown is green with a collar and sleeve bandings of cocoa squirrel and a wide band of embroidery near the hem. Fur bandings of baby fox and cartridge tucks combined with gold stitching form the trimming.

BROOKS GUILTY

Guilty with a recommendation of clemency, was the verdict of the jury in Superior Judge F. C. Drumm's court, in the case of Benjamin J. Brooks of Los Angeles, charged with manslaughter, after the jury had been out 24 hours. Mrs. Stena Duncan of Montebello, 52, was killed when Brooks drove his car head-on into the other near El Toro. The victim was the wife of the superintendent of the water department at Montebello.

The defence pleaded that a broken tie rod was responsible for the accident, Brooks losing control of the car. The prosecution declared Brooks was under the influence of intoxicants.

WILLS AND FIRPO FIGHT AUGUST 30

TRENTON, N. J., June 27.—Newton A. K. Bugbee, state controller and boxing commissioner of New Jersey, today stated that he would issue a license for the holding of the bout between Harry Wills and Luis Firpo on Aug. 30.

Earlier reports had quoted Bugbee as saying a permit for a Dempsey-Wills fight would be issued.

DEMOCRATS WINDUP WITH 16 MEN NOMINATED

egates sat tight at first but as the cheering continued most of them finally came to their feet.

It was over in a minute. Baker's indirect slam to the klan saying that the principal achievement of the Republican administration seemed to have been the encouragement of "a nationwide secret society that parades in the moonlight apparelled in sheets" evoked warm applause.

The western states generally rose and applauded but the southern states sat fast.

Ohio and New York led a demonstration for Cox when Baker finished.

After about 15 minutes Chairman Walsh rapped for order and the band stopped in the middle of "Beautiful Ohio."

The roll call went on.

Mrs. Miller received the most uproarious applause of the session. She spoke with evident great sincerity and conviction on Governor Smith's religion, she being a protestant herself.

A Smith demonstration was started. Judge Samuel E. Sour of Pennsylvania was then recognized and seconded the nomination of Senator Oscar Underwood of Alabama.

Mrs. Clarence Renshaw of Pittsburg followed and lent her emphasis to the Pennsylvania family troubles by seconding the nomination of Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland.

Mrs. Mary Herbert of Allentown was then recognized and the convention laughed over the succession of keynote speakers, laying bare their badly divided ranks. She took the platform and seconded the nomination of McAdoo.

Daniel Guinan of Mahanoy City, Pa., was then recognized and this produced raucous cries of "enough Pennsylvania," and "no more Pennsylvania," Guinan also seconded the nomination of McAdoo.

When South Carolina was called Mrs. Leroy Springs, who is to be placed in nomination for the vice presidency by her loyal friends, took the platform and seconded the nomination of McAdoo.

Mrs. Springs is an exceptionally good looking woman and she got a great hand from the delegates, following the siege of Pennsylvania oratory.

South Dakota passed. Tennessee sent to the platform Mrs. Geo. F. Milton, wife of the publisher of the Chattanooga News, who seconded the nomination of McAdoo.

When Mrs. Milton finished, a Tennessean, took up the gavel—

Hull Called to Help Break Deadlock Over Platform

MADISON SQUARE HOTEL, NEW YORK, June 27.—Cordell Hull, chairman of the Democratic national convention, was called into conference late today to help break the deadlock in the resolutions committee over the platform.

Hull came to the committee room where there is a bitter fight over the league and klan planks and conferred with Homer S. Cummings of Conn., chairman, and William Jennings Bryan.

Cummings told Hull the committee could not prepare its report before tomorrow morning and suggested that the convention start balloting for the presidential nominee tonight and that the resolutions committee would break in with the platform at 9 o'clock tomorrow and interrupt the balloting.

Bryan echoed Cummings' statement.

Hull assured both Cummings and Bryan that he would ask the convention to start voting tonight. He then left hurriedly again for Madison Square Hotel where the resolutions committee is meeting.

In a private conference with Bryan, Cummings also suggested as a means to speed up the committee's activities that the opposing factions on the klan and league be given an hour apiece to present their views and then allow the committee to come forward with the actual work of putting the platform into final form for presentation.

At 5 o'clock a delegation came over from the convention to urge Cummings to get the platform ready by 9 o'clock tonight. In the delegation were Senators Harrison of Mississippi, temporary chairman, and Gerry of Rhode Island.

Cummings told Harrison:

"Remember, I am not promising, but I now hope to have the platform ready by 9 o'clock tonight."

The committee late this afternoon had approved all planks except those relating to the Ku Klux Klan and the League of Nations, Cummings announced.

ex-governor Benton McMillan.

Texas passed. Utah sent forward S. A. King, who "expressed the mandate of Utah Democrats" by seconding the nomination of McAdoo.

King "named his man" at once and the crowd yelled "that's enough." The delegates were getting tired of oratory but King went on resolutely with a short speech extolling the Californian.

Vermont was called and its chairman said:

"Vermont is happy in the thot that it is not going to make a seconding speech." Roland D. Sawyer, of Massachusetts was then recognized and made a short seconding speech for Governor Brown of New Hampshire.

Virginia came next and her senior United States senator, Claud Swanson, took the platform to place in nomination Senator Carter Glass of that state.

When Swanson finished at 4:13 the Virginia delegation hoisted big white banners stating "Glass will win," "Glass is a leader," and "Glass spells success."

The band played 'Carry me Back to Old Virginia' 'and followed with "Dixie" which produced the inevitable rebel yells.

The whole convention stood up to see the Virginians' show, but outside of a few state standards dipping as a mark of respect, there was no general demonstration.

Governor E. Lee Trinkle of Virginia was then introduced. When Governor Trinkle finished by terming Glass the "little giant" of the old dominion, Virginia sent still another seconder to the platform in the platform in the person of Mrs. Kate Waller Barrett, a white-haired, grand-motherly looking woman.

Washington was called and sent Mrs. Averill Beavers, of Kennewick, Wash., to the platform to second the nomination of McAdoo. She said that much and then sat down and the delegates who had been resigned to another speech cheered her to the proverbial echo.

The name of John W. Davis, the ex-ambassador to Great Britain was tossed into the ring. It was expected to be the last name presented.

BAPTIST CHURCH ANXIOUS TO BUILD

Dr. Foskett will also be with the congregation Sunday morning in the 11 o'clock service.

Rev. V. K. Ledbetter, the recently called pastor, says: "I have never found a more willing congregation with which to labor. They are planning big things with Christ as leader. Surely great things will be accomplished." The public is invited to all the services.

GOOD-BYE PICNIC BY CO-WORKERS

Employes of the Anaheim Feed & Provision Co. and their families, numbering about 40, went to Orange-co park last night to do honor to Miss Flora Lauber, bookkeeper in the retail department of the company. Miss Lauber leaves soon for an extended visit through the east, and the all fair was a farewell to her.

Games and races and other sports filled the evening after a dinner of delicious individual steaks provided by the company. Musicians had been secured for dancing, but repairs to the floor of the pavilion made this out of the question.

30 DAYS IN JAIL; NEGLECTS CATTLE

Harry Kelsey of Cypress, arraigned today before Judge Kuchel on the charge of cruelty to animals, entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to 30 days in the Orange-co jail. The complaint was brot by William Varcos, humane officer, who said that Kelsey had neglected to feed and water 29 head of cattle.

Miss Hubbell is Bride

In the presence of only the closest relatives of the principals, Miss Beulah Hubbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Hubbell, of South Los Angeles-st., and Mr. Peter W. Coleman, of Long Beach, were united in marriage yesterday noon at the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. A. G. H. Bode, rector of St. Michael's, performing the rites.

The rooms were artfully trimmed in pink and blue flowers for the event. The bridal gown was of embroidered lace over pink. She carried gardenias and lilies of the valley.

A wedding dinner was served following congratulations, immediately after which Mr. and Mrs. Coleman left on a motor trip to Yosemite and other pretty spots in California. They will reside in Long Beach.

Half Dozen Years Old

Little Ruthie Welch, daughter of Reverend Frank Welch of Cypress, was hostess to a merry party of young folks who gathered to celebrate her sixth birthday. The little people played games and later enjoyed refreshments of ice cream and cake. Those present were Audrey Penhall, Orville Wright, David and Wilma McClintock, Mildred and Wanda Batis, Marie Wetherbee, Margaret Riekeep, Virginia and Marion Morris, Helen and Mabel Wicker, Esther Hinshaw, Mary Alice Welch and theHonoree, Ruthie Welch.

Paper Wedding Party

Nobody enjoys a surprise party on the other fellow any more than do Mr. and Mrs. George Lawrence Rains, and frequently they are "at the bottom" of some such pleasant affair, but they were strictly on top last night when they were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Schettler to spend the evening. Their first wedding anniversary had rolled around and their friends thought it a fine thing to celebrate, so the plan was carried to perfection. Through the efforts of the Misses Cornelius and Emma Schettler.

The color scheme was pink and white carried throughout. Light luncheon was served at a late hour and a bride and groom made of pretty paper, formed the centerpiece.

This being the first or paper anniversary, Mrs. Rains received many lovely and appropriate gifts, among them being a great basket of paper roses made and presented by the Misses Schettler.

Those present were the Messrs and Mesdames George Lawrence Rains, M. J. Herzler, M. F. Schettler, Richard Groom and the Misses Emma and Cordelia Schettler.

Indianans Felicitate

Quite 200 former Indianans gathered in Orange-co park yesterday with well filled baskets for a day of feasting and talking, in their annual picnic event.

A program was opened with invocation by Brother Duncan and "America" sung in chorus. Mr. Kistler introduced Rev. Leibfried, who gave a welcoming address. Songs and reading were contributed by members of the organization.

It was decided to set aside the fourth Thursday of June as the day for the annual picnic. Officers elected were president, M. E. Mayhill, Santa Ana; vice president Dr. Freeman Fullerton; secretary, Helen Beish, Anaheim; treasurer, S. Miller, Anaheim.

The benediction by Rev. Hunter was followed by singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," closing the program. The office of the president, 417 North Broadway, Santa Ana, was named as official headquarters.

Party for Knights

Pythian Sisters had another of their happy fraternal evenings when Knights and their families were accorded special honors last night. A short musical program preceded the call to card tables. Totalling scores Mrs. Elsie Armbrust was found to be winner of most points for the ladies, with Mrs. Clara Wilson second and Mrs. Mary Bowman third. C. E. Robinson won men's first prize, H. H. Armbrust second and Will Cperner, third.

Dancing was announced and this pastime was enjoyed from ten to midnight. Strawberry short cake with whipped cream was served by the committee.

Several out-of-town visitors participated in the pleasant event.

Clubs Foster Clinic

The Riell and Friday Afternoon clubs of Costa Mesa are falling in line with sponsoring baby clinics and the first one was opened this morning in the clubhouse there. Dr. Baisch, chairman of the clinic committee of the Woman's Beach club has been active in establishing the department. Miss Idabel Dergan, county nurse, was present to lend her efficient assistance. Children under six years of age were examined and the mothers advised as to their care or treatments prior to their entering school next autumn.

LOCAL MAN CHOOSES ORANGE GIRL FOR BRIDE

IN a pretty home weding Miss Gertrude Cornelius, of Orange, was united in marriage last evening at 5:30 to Mr. Fred Mohr, of Anaheim, Rev. Anderson officiating. Only the families and a few of the closest friends of the two young folks were present. The home was prettily arrayed in summer blooms of various kinds.

Gowned in a pale blue crepe de chine, and carrying a bridal bouquet of gladioli and lilies, the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Thelma, who wore white crepe de chine and carried pink roses. Mr. Lyman Booth acted as best man. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served, covers being marked for Mr. and Mrs. G. Reevis, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Mohr, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Bacus, Rev. and Mrs. Anderson, the Misses Minta Smith, Lydia Mohr, Thelma Cornelius, and the Messrs Carl Mohr, Med Cornelius, Virgil Cornelius, Lyman Booth, Ada, Gladys Hill, Elmer and Calvin Bacus, and the happy young couple. The bride gracefully officiated at cutting her cake.

The young Mrs. Mohr is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Reevis, who resided in Anaheim until about a year ago, then moved to North Shatter-st., Orange. She attended Anaheim high school and was a member of the O. U. H. S. graduating class of two weeks ago. Mr. Mohr is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Mohr, E. Sycamore-st, and also attended the local high school.

He is employed in Torrance, and after a short honeymoon trip they will be at home in that city.

That the bride and groom might feel that no courtesy (?) to them had been overlooked on the auspicious occasion they were forcibly taken on a ride about Orange and Anaheim, accompanied by their associates who were announcing the news with shouts, tin pans and other kinds of revelry.

Pretty Home Wedding

A quiet wedding took place on Wednesday evening about seven o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John McVeigh, of Fullerton, when Mrs. McVeigh's daughter, Miss Anna Petnecky was married to Earl Davis, of Redondo Beach. Rev. M. E. Bollen of the First Baptist church was the officiating minister, and about 18 or 20 guests were present. A luncheon was served later. Japan's loss in the recent earthquake is estimated to be 13 per-cent of the wealth of Japan proper, areas affected and less than 2 per-cent of teh weath of Japan proper.

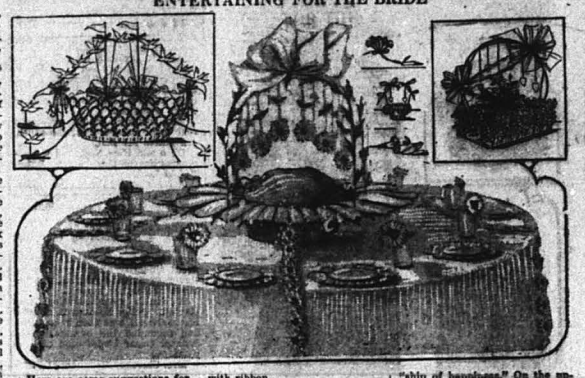
ENTERTAINING FOR THE BRIDE



Here are some suggestions for table decorations to use when you give your best girl friend a bridal shower. In the center is a table decorated for a daisy shower with a big "daisy" in the shape of a basket in the center. It may contain favors, and is made of crepe paper over a round box or pie tin, with wire handles trimmed with crepe paper and tied with ribbon.

At the upper left is a novel idea for arranging the shower gifts in an ordinary clothesbasket converted into a "ship" by means of tissue paper rose petals cut in strips and pasted on to crepe paper foundations. Blue-birds cut from crepe paper and mounted on heavy paper are pasted to ribbons for sails for the "ship of happiness." On the upper right is a shirtwaist box decorated for the same purpose. Wires wrapped with strips of crepe paper are fastened to sides of box to form the handles, which are trimmed with heart cut-outs on ribbons and ribbon bows. On the left of the box are some little place cards or favors all made from wire and crepe paper.

Surprise for Cousin

In honor of her birthday, Mrs. Fred Baum was the honoree at a surprise party given by her cousins, Mrs. Carl Vanata and Mrs. T. L. Hoag at the home of the latter yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Baum arrived in United States about two weeks ago to join her husband in establishing their home here. The occasion was a very happy one as it gave her opportunity to get better acquainted with the friends of her relatives.

As Mrs. Baum is an accomplished pianist she entertained her guests with many numbers. A program over the radio was also a pleasant feature. She was recipient of many pretty gifts, almost all of them china of fine quality.

The hostesses served sherbet and cakes. Red dahlias graced the rooms in tall clusters here and there. Guests included Mrs. Geo. Hamler, Mrs. Mary Zeigler, Mrs. Orin Vanatta, Mrs. Carl Pressel, Mrs. C. Dunlap Mrs. J. Tompkins and Mrs. Anna Fox, who, with the honorees, Mrs. Baum and the hostesses made a very lively party.

Aid Honors Brides

A splendid program was rendered before a goodly sized appreciative audience yesterday afternoon at the church parlor when the Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church held the monthly business and social meeting.

The program opened with a devotional service led by Miss Elise Aubert. All sang the four verses of "Tell Me the Old, Old Story". Miss Aubert gave the history of the song, then told in her interesting way a part of the old story as given in the Gospel of John.

The short business Session was followed by a clever little address of welcome by Mrs. T. H. Walker who included new and old friends, "Our June Brides," Mrs. Herbert Oelke and Mrs. Nellie Downs Harpster, whom she compared to a June rose with a new name but with all the old sweet familiar qualities.

Miss Dorothy Winters delighted her hearers with two whistling numbers, "Song of the Robin," and "By the Waters of Minnetonka". Master Hustin Helling then sang in the finest of tones, "Wonderful One," accompanied on the piano by Miss Mildred Irvin of Bakersfield, who is a guest at the home of the Hellings.

Much amusement was caused by Miss Gretchen Holland's interpretation of "Annie Doleuil's Message of Cheer." To an encore she responded with a piano solo. Miss Mildred Irvin gave a piano solo, playing "The Legend of a Rose."

Mrs. Lloyd Curtis in turn presented those taking part in the program with huge bouquets of flowers. As the audience called for a speech from the guests of honor, the brides, each graciously responded.

A vote of thanks was offered to the hostesses of the day, Mrs. T. A. Hawley, Mrs. Hapgood, Sr., and Mrs. E. P. Hapgood and Mrs. Fletcher, who later served delicious refreshments of ice cream and home-made cakes.

EBELL FRIENDS MEET MEMBERS AT CARD PARTY

THE second of the series of card parties given by the Wave and Means committee of the Ebell club was one of the most pleasant social events of the summer. The Buick sales rooms were contested for the evening by Wm. Gesell-man, and when the card tables were dressed in their best table covers, and the booth containing the punch bowl, over which the Mesdames Theodore, Loudon and Miss Rea presided, attractively trimmed in seasonable colors, the big rooms presented a most "homey" air. The windows were softly frosted, giving a refinement to the pretty scene.

The attendance was large and many of the ladies were their prettiest evening gowns. The decorations were in red, white and blue.

The cakes served with the punch were most delicious, and the club is fortunate in its very close connection with the best bakeries in Anaheim. Those of last evening came from the White Lily bakery, through the membership of Mrs. F. Bonnatt, and for the previous party in the Studebaker sales room, from the Boston Bakery, through Mrs. Lee Etchols.

Five hundred and bridge were the chosen games. Totaling scores, it was found that Mrs. G. M. Simpson has won first in bridge, Mrs. Jack Cole second and Mrs. Luce, third. In five hundred Mrs. Ford made highest, Mrs. Bruce next and Mrs. Holbrook third.

Winners for the men in bridge were Jack Cole, first; Mrs. Gilman Camp, second and Mrs. Marie Young, third, the two ladies serving as substitutes for the men. In five hundred, F. G. Pack made high, Mrs. M. Bayne, substituting, second and S. Yap Ellis, third. Ladies' prizes were all donated, ladies' firsts by Heying Pharmacy and Kemp Bros.; ladies' seconds by Mrs. Jacoby and Miss Rea; men's first by Holland Electric and men's seconds by Kern Oycle Co. and The Wardrobe. Donations were donated by the Mesdames Canby, Bruz, Loudon and Miss Rea.

A neat little sum was realized from the party, which goes jingling on its merry way to join the other dollars in the club house building fund.

STOCK MARKET ADVANCES AGAIN

NEW YORK, June 27.—The stock market swung into another broad upward movement today, embracing every important division of the speculative list with the exception of the rails, before encountering much opposition. The market was active and buoyant.

Substantial advances were scored in the railroad shares before the noon hour. Then the specialties, including the mercantile stocks came in for attention and finally the equipment stocks.

U. S. Steel crossed par and gulf states steel made 2½ points at 71¾. Bethlehem was the first to encounter heavy selling but it declined in an orderly fashion and its loss was never more than a point.

With the appearance of a heavy volume of profit taking sales in the fourth hour the market first turned dull and then reactionary.

The mercantile company stocks completely dominated the market in the last hour and their vigorous upward movement diverted attention from the profit taking which featured the fourth hour.

Kresge department stores was by far the most prominent of this group, moving forward briskly to 58½ for an advance of nine points from the previous close. Woolworth at 110, moved into new high ground for the year and Sears Roebuck was active above 98.

Stock sales today 977,100 shares; bonds $30,915,000.

FIND MAN'S BODY

BOISE, Idaho, June 27.—With a bullet hole thru the head, the body of a man, 45, believed to be F. Mills of Seattle, was found just off the highway between Boise and Mountain Home today.

The body was found, apparently a short time after death, by Ray Losher of Portland. It had been dragged across the road.

Deputy sheriffs immediately organized posses which scoured the countryside in the hope of finding the alleged slayer.

Letters found in the man's clothing bore the name of Mabel, who is believed to be the victim's daughter. They were written from a Los Angeles address.

BILLY WHISKERS

BY FRANCES TOZER MONTGOMERY

The officers heard footsteps coming up the secret stairs.

"I am sure that is the Lieutenant coming back," one of them said.

And it really was.

The minute his form appeared on the stairs, the General asked:

"Did you find any trace of him? What did you discover.

"I found this small notebook, written in cipher, with a lady's picture pasted on the fly leaf. I recognized the face as that of the nurse Captain Strongheart is engaged to marry, so this must be his notebook."

"I think you are correct. But where did you find the notebook?"

"On the floor of an underground tunnel running from this tower to the river bank. So I judge he must have escaped that way."

"To make sire he is not shut up anywhere in the castle, I will leave two of you officers with six soldiers to search thoroughly every nook and cranny of the castle before you leave it. Now I must go immediately, with the hope that he has really escaped and is now on the other side of the river. Adieu ,and a safe return to you all."

When the General reached camp he hastened to Headquarters, and when he pushed open the door of his office, who should be sitting there facing the door but Captain Strongheart, perfectly well, but pale and thin from his recent starvation diet! He had had time to reach camp and change his clothes and get something to eat before the General got there, as he had come in a straight line across fields and streams, just as Billy had done when he had delivered the note while the General was forced to go miles out of his way.

There is no use of my trying to tell you how glad the General was to find the Captain well and safe, or how valuable the papers and maps which he had brought proved to be, as you well know just how the General felt and also how glad Captain Strongheart was that he had been successful in returning safely to camp.

After Billy saw the General depart he too started for camp, first stopping long enough to say good-by to all the sheep and the goats, telling them how glad he was to have met them and thanking them for the pleasant time they had given him.

When he went to say good-by to the dog, the dog said he would go part way with him; that he enjoyed Billy's society so much that he hated to lose sight of him for fear he would never see him again.

(But tomorrow Billy and the dog have a new adventure.)

GOV. SILZER EXTENDED 30 MINUTE DEMONSTRATION

carbon copies of a letter he received from R. F. Walker, chief justice of the Missouri supreme court, protesting against the Missouri delegation casting its vote for McAdoo.

The letter aroused keen indignation among the McAdoo faction in the deelgation.

Judge Walker wrote that he made a thoro canvass of Missouri sentiment since the Springfield convention and "the masses of our people do not favor McAdoo's nomination."

The letter served to emphasize the radical factional differences which divide the Missouri delegation.

A second time Chairman Walsh was forced to call the convention to order while O'Sullivan spoke.

The end of O'Sullivan's somewhat lengthy speech was the signal for a demonstration for Governor Bryan, led by the Nebraska delegation. The McAdoo delegations seemed to be following the lead of Tom Taggart and paying all the native sons some compliments against the time when the real voting of this convention begins.

Nebraska started a parade, Georgia fell in behind then Oregon and Montana. Florida dropped in on the second lap. The Nebraskans waved small American flags as they marched. All marchers do in this convention.

When the call of the roll was resumed, Nevada passed and New Hampshire then sent forward Francis Clyde Keefe to place in nomination Governor Fred H. Brown of that state.

New Jersey was called and John A. Matthews of Newark, formally teased Governor George S. Silzer's hat into the ring.

The Jerseyites applauded vigorously.

When quiet was restored, Elmer H. Doran of New Jersey made a short speech seconding the nomination of Silzer, at which the noise broke out afresh.

Congressman Alben W. Berkley of Kentucky, took up the gavel at this point. The roll call proceeded.

New Mexico passed, as did N. Carolin and then North Dakota sent up J. F. T. O'Connor.

O'Connor added North Dakota's endorsement to the McAdoo candidacy. He spoke with great feeling about agricultural conditions in the northwest, particularly in the Dakotas and the state's hard hit in the wheat depression. He dwelt upon McAdoo's record as secretary of the treasury and particularly McAdoo's efforts while in Washington to relieve the credit stringency in the northwest.

New York, New Jersey and other anti-klan states jumped to their feet with cheers. Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Montana, Indiana and all other states stayed in their seats.

New Jersey's state standard was seized and started on a parade around the room. After circling once alone, Pennsylvania came in as did Rhode Island and the Jerseyites took advantage to again cart the picture of Governor Silzer.

Congressman Berkley restored order by heavy pounding with his gavel.

A speech was made inviting all ex-service men to meet at the Imperial hotel tomorrow morning at which time they will endeavor to agree upon an ex-soldier for vice president.

By this time the broad center aisle of the garden was again choked up with casual visitors from Jersey and New York. The Kansas and Missouri delegates began yelling for Barkley to have the aisles cleared. He responded by ordering it done but the police went at the task half heartedly and without much success.

The clerk resumed calling the roll. Oklahoma passed. Pennsylvania sent forward Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller of Pittsburg, who seconded the nomination of Smith.

that the growers were so stirred up over the company's action that it would be difficult to make them conform anyhow. One grower, he averred, had 35 men in the field when the power was turned off. These men had to be paid and the grower lost heavily.

Fleming answered that the company had had no time to give warning.

Garden Grove was made an exception in the case of pepper growers, who claimed that they would suffer a heavy loss if they were forbidden to irrigate.

All over the Santa Ana power district consumers now are drawing on their July quota, Deimling is quoted as declaring.

No switches of any kind for irrigation are being pulled.

Motion picture theatres are not being prevented from getting all the energy they require.

Not only must pumping plants, etc., close down two days each week next month, but they must not operate more than 50 hours during the other four days, A. M. Stanley, secretary of the County Farm bureau, declared today, after conferring with W. L. Deimling, district manager of the So. Calif. Edison Co. On juice borrowed from July apportionment 113,333 kilowatts are now allowed just for the county, against 170,000 to 180,000 recently. The company is carrying a load of about 50 per cent now. Rock crushers are permitted 35 per cent of their normal load in order to look after present orders during the rest of June.

WALTER HAGEN WINS OPEN TITLE

HOYLAKE, England, June 27.—Walter Hagen of New York, American professional golfer, this afternoon won the British open golf title in a thrilling duel with E. R. Whitcombe, English professional.

Hagen won the title by one stroke. The American had to do 77 or better on the final round to defeat Whitcombe, who had a total of 302 to his credit when he finished his two days play.

Hagen played his last round in 77, giving him a total of 301.

The final standings:

1—Walter Hagen of New York, 301.

2—E. R. Whitcombe, England, 302.

Tied for third — MacDonald Smith, Calif., and Frank Ball, Eng. 304.

A huge crowd followed the American golfer when it was seen that he had a grand chance to win. Both Whitcombe and Hagen were extremely nervous and played poor golf when they started on even terms on their final round. Hagen, however, recovered his "nerve" before the Britisher. Whitcombe went out on the last round in 43. Hagen lettered this by two strokes, going out in 41.

Coming back the Englishman played "his game" and shot the last nine holes in 35. Hagen took one more stroke than Whitcombe on the final nine holes.

Hagen's finish was most exciting. Huge crowds pressed up to the last hole. On the final hole he drove well, but was long on his approach. He needed to sink a six yard putt to win and he sunk it.

HAGEN MAKES BID FOR BRITISH OPEN

HOYLAKE, England, June 27.—Walter Hagen, one of the "big four" from America, made a strong bid for the British golf title this morning when he went around the course in 74 for a total of 224 for the 54 holes.

Hagen's good card tied E. R. Whitcombe who was leading the field up to that time.

"Long Jim" Barnes, the American professional was practically eliminated when he took 79 for his third round, giving him a total of 234.

Barnes was weak on his approaches and his putting was bad.

MacDonald Smith of California, one of the American "big four" and one of the favorites, went into a tie with Duncan when he made the third round in 77, for a total of 227.

Franck Ball, also tied Duncan and Smith, turning in a card of 74 for the third round.

G. Gadd had a total of 232 when he finished the third round in 78.

If Hagen can keep his brilliant pace of this morning in the afternoon round, he stands an excellent chance of regaining the championship.

Whitcombe is playing a strong, steady game. He holds the best record of the competition to date with 70 strokes for the second round. If he can duplicate that performance this afternoon he likely will be returned the winner. Mr. Hagen is fighting hard and apparently will give the Englishman the stiffest kind of a battle.

Barnes was eliminated when he played his final round in 75, for a total of 309.

MacDonald Smith also fell by the wayside when he finished with a card of 77 for a total of 304.

Ball made the final round in 77, total 304.

E. R Whitcombe, the leader after yesterday's play, took a 77 this morning, making his total 224, three strokes under Smith and Duncan.

P. Boomer had 229 a morning round of 76.

Gene Sarazen, American professional champion, and Arthur Havers, present British open golf champion, lost whatever chances they had when they returned poor cards on their fourth rounds.

Sarazen made the round in 84 for a total of 242. Havers took an 86, his total being 242.

George Duncan, the British professional, loomed up as a dangerous contender with 74 for his third round for a total of 227. Duncan started brilliantly; he required but 30 strokes for the first 8 holes. On the return he played steady and strong.

Alex Hurd, England, made the third round in 76 for a total of 231.

Despite a record drive of 320 yards during the morning round, Cyril Tolley, former British amateur champion, made a poor showing when he took 80 strokes, bringing his total for the 54 holes to 235.

Duncan finished the final round in 81 for a total of 308. Hagen played superb golf thruout his morning round. His only bad hole was the 16th where he bunkered and took a six.

Gil Nicholls, another of the American stars, had a 79 for the morning round, giving him a total of 232.

CHALLENGE USE OF SUPER - CHARGER

LOS ANGELES, June 27.—Down this way, where automobile racing attracts almost as much interest as Jack Dempsey, a row is waxing merry over the use of Leon Duray of a super-charger on his winning 1925 Miller speed wagon. The super-charger, a device used to increase "pickup" power, has been protested by Eddie Richards, holder of the A.A.A. dirt track records; Ralph DePalma and others, who assert that a decided advantage has been given Duray in permitting him to use a super-charger.

Duray, who speeded home an unexpected winner in the first of the season's races a few weeks ago, gives credit for his supercharger, which, he admits, is a mighty successful affair, to his assistant, Dick Doyle. The device attached to Duray's car by Doyle resulted in the French racing driver turning in a sensational performance, distancing the daredevil, DePalma.

Interest in auto racing is growing in jumps here and crowds at the track are highly enthusiastic.
