18 Face Death in Besieged Prison

DEER LODGE, Mont. (UPI) — Rebellious convicts at Montana State Prison today freed one of 18 hostages who promptly walked back inside the prison to save the others who were threatened with death by hanging or homemade incendiary bombs.

"It's tight. It's tighter than hell for them," prison sociologist Walter Jones, 24, said.

"I'm going back in and try to get them out."

He pleaded with officers in charge of 200 national guardsmen and other law enforcement men not to storm the walls in efforts to smash the riot which broke out late Thursday with the slaying of Deputy Warden Ted Rothe, 40.

"They're shook. The inmates there are in control and they're shook."

He said that even as he spoke "the specter of death hung over 17 hostages still in the cell block."

Ready For Executions

"Five are set up to be hanged," he said. "The rest are set up for home made incendiary bombs."

Several hours before Jones was freed, the prison Catholic chaplain, Father Gerald Lynam, emerged from a meeting with the convicts with an optimistic report. He said "everything looked good. I think we made some progress."

Later three newsmen entered the prison to hear the prisoners' grievances.

A convict spokesman said over a loudspeaker that their complaints included poor food, placing young lawbreakers in with older men, not enough television and radio and inadequate medical and sanitation facilities.

Before returning inside the 90-year-old fortress-like prison, Jones raised his hands in a helpless gesture to newsmen, the wrist links of handcuffs dangling from both arms. He said the chain connecting the two cuffs had been cut, but the cuffs were still on his wrists.

The tall husky, 1958 graduate of Montana State University said "All the hostages are alive and well. They treated us good. They gave us coffee and sandwiches."

"Take It Slow and Easy"

He said the prisoners had many demands and "I'm going to push their story."

"It's a big thing. He (the ringleader) is putting a lot of trust

Castro to Answer Commie Charges

By JOSEPH U. HINSHAW
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro goes before the U.S. newspaper editors today to answer charges that Communists have infiltrated his government.

The bearded 32-year-old Castro also is expected to spell out in his lunch speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors (ASNE) why he believes the U.S. press has not given a true picture of his revolutionary regime.

Castro probably will be asked during a question and answer session after his speech to justify his mass executions of followers of former dictator Fulgencio Batista. Castro's forces toppled Batista's government on New Year's Day.

The prime minister, here for an 11-day good will visit, promised to speak for 30 minutes. But he has been known to speak for three or four hours on other occasions.

As usual there was no prepared text for Castro's remarks. Castro, wearing his famous jungle green, open - collared fatigue uniform, was expected to speak in English and answer questions in Spanish.

A controversy over broadcast coverage of the appearance was settled when the society agreed to let radio and television services record Castro's speech on tape and film for later airing.

Castro chatted with newsmen after having lunch Thursday with Acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

Without directly criticizing the American press, he complained that people in this country have not been informed "of the complete truth of what is going on in Cuba."

He said, "I hope I will now be able to reach the U. S. people and explain what we stand for."

CONSPICUOUS LOOT TAKEN BY THIEF

BUENA PARK — Has any body seen a red dwarf mule?

Larry Kincheloe, of 8751 Westminster Blvd., Westminster, reported to police yesterday that his very rare mule, valued at $1,000, was reported missing from a pasture at 7281 Knott Ave.

The victim explained to police that he had pastured his dwarf animal and three "standard" mules and had returned daily to check their feed.

Yesterday he discovered the little one missing.

U.S. to Conduct Arctic Air Search For Space Capsule

VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. (UPI)—The United States will conduct an aerial search over the vast top of the world Arctic wastes for the space capsule ejected from the Discoverer II satellite, using some foreign air bases if possible, it was disclosed today.

There was no direct word here on progress toward finding the 160-pound scientific package, but the Norwegian government at Oslo said it would give permission to U.S. planes to search in the Spitsbergen area.

The capsule, capable of carrying living organisms in orbit around the earth, was ejected from Discoverer II Tuesday somewhere in the polar region about 30 hours after a successful launch.

The feat was accomplished by means of a preset automatic device which worked after plans were abandoned to recover the capsule in the vicinity of Hawaii.

But the vastness of the polar region—out of range of Hawaii-based aircraft and Navy surface units—gave scientists only a remote chance of achieving the world's first actual recovery of a capsule from space.

Placentia Abandons 300-Acre Annexation

Placentia's 300-acre uninhabited annexation worth approximately $300,000 was abandoned at a council meeting yesterday at noon, it was revealed today.

Annexation 59-1 is bounded by Madison Ave., on the south and an extention of Citrus on the north, and lies between Valencia on the east and Sierra Vista and Placentia Ave., on the west.

Council reportedly indicated that the City does not desire to annex any area until such time as the concerned parties are agreeable to coming in.

The board attributed the March 22, 1958, crash in which Todd and three others died near Grants, N.M., to a combination of the overloading and engine failure.

Proposed Freeway Projects In County Under Discussion

By Orange County News Service

Plans for two proposed freeway projects were aired yesterday afternoon in Santa Ana by State Highway officials as they met with county and city officials.

The information meeting was called by the highway officials to talk about plans for the widening of the Santa Ana Freeway from South St., in Anaheim to the Santa Ana River, and the development of Brea Canyon Road in Los Angeles County from the Orange County line to 5th St.

In Orange County, the Brea Canyon route became known as the Orange Freeway, which in addition to linking Brea, Placentia, and other cities to the Santa Ana Freeway, will carry traffic to and from the Pomona Freeway.

Both projects were described as being five or more years away, depending on the availability of funds by the highway officials. They presented talks on the two projects and displayed maps showing the proposed routes.

The meeting itself was described as requirement if the two projects are to qualify for federal funds under the Federal Act of 1956.

Specifically, the Santa Ana Freeway project calls for the widening of 3.64 miles from four to six - lane standards. This project was described as being further along than the other and was reportedly about five years off.

For the freeway section, right-of-way acquisitions for two sections are under way and there now remains the development of specific plans for the project. The plans will be ready for bids when and if the money is allocated for the project by the State Highway Commission.

Term Nixon's July Trip to Soviet Well-Timed Diplomatic Maneuver

By WILLIAM THEIS
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon's announced July trip to Moscow was viewed in Washington today as both a personal political bonus and a well-timed diplomatic maneuver.

Informed sources said Nixon probably will be accompanied by his wife, Pat, when he flies to Moscow for the July 25 opening of the American National Exhibition.

Three aspects of President Eisenhower's announcement that the vice president will go to Russia were underscored in official quarters.

—The assignment thrusts Nixon, who already has visited some 40 countries, more forcefully into the foreign policy arena in advance of the 1960 presidential conventions. It gives him another leg up over any other GOP contender, including Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

—Timing of the announcement served to counteract any letdown abroad from the resignation of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

—Like Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan's visit to the United States in January, Nixon's Moscow trip will enable the vice president to weigh the real intentions of Russian leaders in negotiating at a summit conference.

During the recent Eisenhower-Macmillan talks in Washington, there was a reported discussion that Nixon might be called upon to sit in for the President should constitutional duties or illness require him to leave a summit conference. Nixon, it was reported, also could be used at a later high-level conference — should one be held—to implement summit decisions.

No other vice president in the country's history has had as much in-job training for the presidency as Nixon.

Eisenhower said Nixon will remain in Moscow for three or four days. There is no intention now to have him visit other major European capitals.

Couple Report Seeing Suspect Take 'Fix'

A 26-year-old Anaheim man is in Orange County Jail today on charges of possession of narcotics.

Charles Winship of 12802 Midway Dr., was arrested by Anaheim officers after two witnesses reported they had allegedly seen him take a "fix" in his parked auto.

Mr. and Mrs. James Farrington, both 28, of 1507 W. Cerritos Ave., called police yesterday afternoon after they reportedly watched Winship from a front room in their home.

Police reports show that the Farringtons said they watched with binoculars as Winship tied a rubber tube around his arm and used a hypodermic needle to inject something into his arm.

Mrs. Farrington said she then saw Winship throw something out of the window of his car into the nearby orange grove.

Officers checked the grove and found a hypodermic syringe and a brown bottle. The evidence was turned over to the Sheriff's crime lab to determine the contents of the two items.

Winship was arrested last evening by officers from a description of his auto and a personal description from the Farringtons.

Mine Guard Killed in Battle With Strikers

WHITESBURG, Ky. (UPI) — State police today held three suspects in the shooting of a mine guard killed in a gun battle with striking United Mine Workers members.

The victim was James Ottis Adams, 41, Dongola, Ky., who drove a truck and acted as a guard at the Little Shepherd Mine Co., five miles north of here. His death was the second fatality in the weeks-long eastern Kentucky coal strike.

Police arrested on charges of wilful murder Harrison Stidham, Verlin King and Democrat Hillman, all of Marow, Ky., and members of the United Mine Workers Union.

Police said the three men drove up a dirt road to the mine and blinked their car lights. An unidentified guard, thinking it was the usual signal by an incoming truck, put his head in the truck window.

One of the men in the car hit him in the face, police.

Adams then drove up in a truck and the strikers threatened him. Police said Stidham got out of the car and told Adams to get out of his truck.

There was an exchange of gunfire, police said, and Adams fell over the edge of a ramp leading to the coal tipple.

The Little Shepherd mine is one that has not signed a contract him in the face, police said.

On March 31, a mine owner at Stinking Creek in Knox County was killed by pickets.

Pickets left many mines Thursday following the granting of a 15-day restraining order by a federal court. The order forbids interference with the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, whose operations had been tied up by pickets at rail switches.

Chief point of dispute in the strike is a contract clause calling for a $2-a-day pay raise, which smaller operators claim they cannot meet and stay in business.

HOSPITAL BAFFLED AS BOY WON'T EAT

What appeared to be the beginning of a hunger strike turned out to be only a case of misinformation at Anaheim Memorial Hospital, last week.

Six-year-old Peter McGraw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip McGraw, 408 Empire, Anaheim, was a patient suffering a possible skull fracture after he fell about six feet from a roof.

He refused to eat his breakfast and even turned down a special plate of jello and ice cream the nurses offered him. When his dinner plate was taken to him, he still refused the food. "What's the matter?" the nurse asked him, "aren't you hungry?" "Yes," he replied, "I sure am very hungry, but my mommy and daddy didn't leave me any money for my meals."

Britain 'Unhappy' Over U.S. Flights

LONDON (UPI)—Britain was reported still "unhappy" today about U. S. high-level flights to Berlin over Soviet opposition but anxious to avoid an open break with Washington. The United States insisted the flights would continue.

Moscow Radio said U. S. defiance of Russian efforts to impose a 10,000 - foot altitude limit on flights to Communist - encircled Berlin is merely a sample of America's "deliberate policy of provocations."

The Berlin Communist organ Neues Deutschland today echoed the Moscow line, describing the high-altitude flights as "American provocations in the air corridors" linking the former German capital with the West.

It said Wednesday's Soviet-harassed U. S. flight at the "forbidden height" of 25,000 feet was a "provocative violation of safety regulations."

The West Berlin newspaper Der Tag expressed concern over Britain's apparent unwillingness to stand up for Allied rights in Berlin.

Der Tag said the dangerous methods Russia is using to block the exercise of legal rights, rather than U. S. steadfastness, creates the chief threat to the East-West negotiations that begin in Geneva May 11.

"It is deeply disturbing that Britain does not realize this," the newspaper said.

An English-language broadcast by Moscow Radio heard here Thursday night linked the U.S. refusal to accept a 10,000-foot ceiling on Berlin flights with America's defense of Communist-threatened areas in Asia and the Middle East.

It blamed "U.S. brass hats" for the American refusal to give in to Russia's demands.

The British press and radio also charged that America's high-altitude flights to Berlin were ordered by generals acting independently of the White House and the State Department.

POST SEEMS ASSURED

Herter Has Health Okayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, his health newly approved by doctors, rested today at a South Carolina plantation, apparently assured of the nomination to succeed John Foster Dulles.

High administration officials said they considered it certain that President Eisenhower would name the 64-year-old Massachusetts politician-diplomat to the post. A physical checkup Wednesday showed no condition which would interfere with his carrying out the duties.

Herter, accompanied by his wife, slipped away from Washington Thursday night for a week-end rest at her family's plantation home at Green Pond, S.C.

This is only about 100 miles from Augusta, Ga., where Eisenhower is vacationing. But Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty declined to discuss the possibility of an Eisenhower-Herter meeting this week end.

The State Department did not announce Herter was making the trip until he had left his office for the railway station, apparently in order to avoid photographers and reporters.

Herter planned to be back in Washington about noon Monday and officials said they expected announcement of his appointment at that time. However, there was some speculation the President might make the decision known earlier.

Herter's most recent physical examination reportedly revealed no ailments other than the arthritis of the hips which has afflicted him the past 15 years. Doctors have said Herter's arthritis is not "progressive" and causes him no pain unless he stands for extended periods.

The acting secretary walks slightly bent and uses arm crutches to get about.

Dear Abby...

The Right Sense of Values

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm burned up about that mother who signed herself WORRIED because her daughter was marrying a farm boy and she was afraid the farmers would ruin her wedding by showing up in overalls. I was raised on a farm and I wish I were back on one now.

Those shallow city folks with their cocktail parties don't know what living is until they've wrapped a new-born calf in a blanket in the wee small hours of the morning or looked out at daybreak to see a flock of baby chicks picking up feed. That woman ought to follow those overall-clad fellows around and learn to appreciate what they represent. Thanks, Abby, I feel better now. GRACE

DEAR ABBY: I had to laugh at WORRIED'S letter. She was afraid because they were farmers that the groom's mother would come to the wedding in her calico dress and sunbonnet and the father would march in with his boots caked with manure. Then this stupid woman, pretending to be so sophisticated and fashionable, referred to a lady's evening gown as a "formal" and a man's dinner jacket as a "tux." I am surprised that the daughter of such ignorant and narrow-minded people had sense enough to pick a college-bred farm boy. Best wishes. LAURA

DEAR ABBY: An old school chum moved very close to me and we decided to have our hubbies meet. The second time we got together she decided that she liked my husband better than she liked her own. My husband is flattered by the way she plays up to him and her husband is so dumb he doesn't know what's going on (or doesn't care). I don't mean to imply that there is anything serious between them, but I am afraid there could be. My husband says I am being foolish. She keeps calling me to get together. Should I discourage seeing them or do you think I am unnecessarily jealous? P.S. She sent him a very suggestive valentine. BEING CAREFUL

DEAR BEING: If there is the slightest doubt in your mind about your school chum's intentions, avoid her. Better to use a fly swatter now than a cannon later.

DEAR ABBY: I want to entertain for a friend of mine who is getting married. There have been a lot of showers for her and some of the girls can't afford to go any more. Can you think of something that won't cost the guests very much, but will be a nice way to honor a bride? THINKING

DEAR THINKING: How about a RECIPE shower? It won't cost the guests anything and all brides welcome good recipes.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ELSIE: The way to a man's heart is through the holes in his head.

TV in Review

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UPI)—CBS-TV's Playhouse 90 bit off quite a chunk Thursday night, perhaps too big a chunk for a 90-minute drama. But I must say despite its dramatic flaws, "Judgment at Nuremberg" succeeded in clutching me hard for its full span.

It's strange that a play about the German war trials should strike me as courageous only 14 years after World War II, but this is a pretty topsy turvy world and the ball has taken some peculiar bounces. As "Judgment at Nuremberg" pointed out, I. G. Farben is now on our side and history, indeed, does run a curious course.

As for "Judgment at Nuremberg," Abby Mann's script dealt with the trial of four German jurists and within its frame it touched upon a question that must continue to haunt all contemporary men; the responsibility the individual must bear for the crimes of his community.

The stuff of the play was pretty uncompromising. Most of us would prefer to forget Buchenwald and Dachau, but Thursday night their horrors were etched out on some Army Signal Corps film of haunting power. There was also much talk, tough and unsettling, badly needed on that faucet of pap, television.

Where "Judgment at Nuremberg" went wrong was in its ambition. In its earnestness, it tried to touch upon too much territory —the problem of German rearmament, the problem of the unpopularity of the trials, the guilt the world must bear for Hitler, the tricky issue of unwitting guilt. As a result, "Judgment at Nuremberg" seemed patchy and not quite congealed.

The performances were four square with Claude Rains, Paul Lukas and Max Schell carrying the main burden. In a minor part, I liked Marketa Kimbrell.

I have one further note to make and it involves one of the most disturbing cases of commercial censorship I've ever encountered on TV. In the final scene, part of a Claude Rains speech which referred to Nazi "gas chambers" was blipped out. Why? Well, one of the sponsors of Playhouse 90 is the American Gas Association. Shame on everybody concerned.

NBC-TV's Laugh Line, which curtsied in Thursday night, is the sort of thing TV refers to as a hot weather show.

This usually means a show which isn't so hot, but this seems happily untrue of Laugh Line. It has a young, fresh panel in Elaine May, Mike Nichols, Dorothy Loudon and Orson Bean, an inoffensive emcee in Dick Van Dyke and a basic gimmick — working out captions for living cartoons—that is punchy and inventive.

It's worth a look-in.

Jerry Lewis paid a surprise visit to NBC-TV's Treasure Hunt while it was being taped Thursday and took over the show for 15 minutes —You'll see the episode on April 28 . . . Norry's body was found shortly after the murder, but remained a mystery until a police trail recently led to Miss Bjorkland, through the special in the gun's bullets.

Manned Rocket Project Revealed

By CHARLES CORDDRY
United Press International

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — The Defense Department has started a long-range project to develop piloted combat vehicles that can maneuver in outer space like fighter planes in the atmosphere.

The improbable name given the manned rocket project is Mrs. V, meaning "maneuverable and recoverable space vehicle."

Details of the nearest approach yet to a Buck Rogers space ship were disclosed today at the first World Congress of Flight by Rear Adm. John E. Clark, deputy director of the Defense Department's Advanced Research Projects Agency.

Clark indicated that work on Mrs. V would start "during the coming year" and that the military space ship will take up where civilian space agency's Mercury Project for manned satellites leaves off.

Clark said that if Russia is first to put a man in space and safely return him the psychological impact will be tremendous.

"Such manned satellite flights could bring the Communist bloc within close reach of military control of space if the United States is not equally capable," the admiral said.

All space exploration to date has involved either satellites that are kept in orbit by balancing centrifugal force and gravity or so-called lunar probes which follow ballistic or bullet-like paths.

Mrs. V, however, will be a maneuverable space ship which pilots can use for what Clark called "strategic or tactical situations in space."

He said the Defense Department project was being timed to take maximum advantage from Project Mercury which is expected to put men in orbit in about two years.

House Committee Works on Jobless Pay Boost Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After nine days of sharply-conflicting testimony, the House Ways & Means Committee goes behind closed doors today to start hammering out a plan to beef up the unemployment compensation program.

One proposed standby system would lengthen the duration of jobless pay in bad times. Under this plan, the federal government would channel money to the states for longer benefits to the jobless whenever unemployment in the nation, a state or a local area climbed to a certain figure.

Organized labor wants a federal law requiring the states to increase the amount and duration of their unemployment payments. It seemed clear the committee would not go along with this.

There appeared to be some chance the group would approve an Eisenhower administration proposal that would extend the jobless insurance program to employers with one or more employees instead of the current four or more limit.

Other congressional news:

Housing: Democratic leaders said they expected the House Rules Committee eventually to release the temporarily sidetracked multi-billion-dollar housing bill. They said the rules group would have to unbottle the measure for floor action because it contains legislation everyone agrees must be enacted in addition to its public housing and other controversial spending proposals. The committee refused to clear the bill for floor action Thursday by a 6-6 tie vote.

ICA: The International Cooperation Administration awaited a Justice Department ruling on a House demand that it open up the personnel files of two former U.S. officials who were pressed to resign after they became interested in an alleged foreign aid scandal in Laos. The agency rejected the demand by Chairman Porter Hardy Jr. (D-Va.) of a House government operations subcommittee pending a Justice Department ruling.

Secrecy: A half-dozen editors and journalism educators gave their views on freedom of information and government secrecy to a House judiciary subcommittee.

Committee Okays Track Tax Bill

By JAMES C. ANDERSON
United Press International

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown's bill to increase state taxes on racetracks by $12,400,000 a year was past its first hurdle in the Legislature today despite vigorous opposition.

Representatives of every racetrack in the state plus horsemen, breeders and harness race operators and even a man who claimed to represent the $2 bettor testified against the bill.

But on a 10-6 vote, the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee Thursday approved the measure by Assemblyman Thomas J. MacBride (D-Sacramento).

The bill is part of Brown's 256-million-dollar tax program.

The governor, in a recent speech at Santa Barbara, warned the public to keep a sharp eye on racing interests and on the beer and oil industries to "see if they are willing to bear their fair share of the tax program."

Tracks' Opposition Evident

Judging from the opposition at the committee hearing Thursday, the racetracks want no part of a tax boost.

The MacBride bill would increase the state's share from betting from 13 per cent to 45 per cent. It also would take a bigger cut out of breakage, the odd pennies left over because race bets are figured in units of 10 cents and a larger cut when the parimutuel handle goes above 50 million dollars.

MacBride listed net profits of Santa Anita compared to its net worth as 22.1 per cent and said that a share of stock purchases when the track was built in 1934 at $5,000 would be worth $70,000 today and would have earned another $100,000 in dividends.

But Gwynn Wilson, General Manager of Santa Anita, said an investment in such blue chip stocks as American Airlines, Goodyear, IBM or Santa Fe Railroad all would have earned more than racetrack stock.

Revenue Cut Threatened

Wilson argued that any increase in the state's take from tracks might cut down on the number of bettors and result in reduced revenue.

Other witnesses echoed his testimony.

Before the bill was passed by the committee, Assemblyman S.C. Masterson (D-Richmond) offered an amendment to kill a provision in the bill which would eliminate the funds now going to the wildlife preservation fund.

His amendment was defeated, 12-5, after Department of Finance officials said wildlife preservation projects still could be financed but would have to be approved by the Legislature in the budget.

Another Brown tax bill, one to increase inheritance taxes by four million dollars a year, also moved ahead in the low house. It was approved by the Ways and Means Committee and sent to the Assembly floor.

Labor Chief's Pardon By Knight Ruled Legal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —Attorney General Stanley Mosk ruled Wednesday that former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight acted legally in granting pardons to two San Diego labor leaders last Dec. 23 in the closing days of his administration.

San Diego District Attorney J. Don Keller had contended the pardons were not valid because the labor leaders, Mack Osslo and Arthur L. Meyer, did not file written notices in applying for their pardons.

The two were convicted in 1956 of conspiracy to commit assault during a jurisdictional labor dispute.

Mosk said Knight had the right to pardon Osslo and Meyer even though they had not gone through with usually prescribed procedures.

American Industry into Greatest Modernization of Plants Spree

By Sylvia Porter

American industry is now firmly into the greatest spree of spending for modernization of obsolete plants and equipment in history—a development of major bread-and-butter meaning to every wage earner, businessman, future job-seeker in our land.

A full two-thirds of the $10.5 billion that manufacturing companies plan to spend on plants and equipment this year and in each of the next three years will go for making factories more efficient, putting in cost-cutting equipment, McGraw-Hill reports today in its 12th annual survey of business spending plans. Only a minor one-third will go into expansion of the plants.

This marks a spectacular switch from the way industry has allocated its funds in other spending cycles since World War II. Industry's prime aim today is not to expand its physical capacity to produce.

Its prime aim is to modernize existing plants so it will be able to raise output AND pay higher wages and meet fierce competition at home and abroad AND still make satisfactory profits.

Why is this so important to you? Here are three giant reasons why:

(1) This "cements" the economic advance of 1959-60, for every factor making for a rise in the economy to new heights this year and next is now in place.

Spending by consumers has been zooming for months; spending at all levels of government has been climbing too. Now spending by businessmen for restocking their shelves with goods and for plants and equipment is also on the rise. These are the three forms of spending which determine a nation's economic trend and, with all three pointing up, this can only mean the whole economy is pointing up right into 1960.

(2) But it also means that as the factories are modernized fewer and fewer workers will be needed in manufacturing to turn out more and more goods.

The basic reason joblessness remains sickeningly high even though our production is at an all-time peak today is just this—greater and greater efficiency—and the basic reason is growing stronger, not weaker. A significant part of the McGraw-Hill report is its disclosure that manufacturers expect their sales to be up 9 per cent this year—but they expect to employ only 3 per cent more workers. They expect their sales to go up an additional 18 per cent by 1962—but they expect to employ only an extra 8 per cent more workers by 1962.

We are building up to a grim pattern of chronic, long-term unemployment in the '60s as our labor force balloons while our industrial plants become vastly more efficient.

(3) And that leads directly into what almost certainly will be the most important economic and social challenge of the new decade—how to absorb our workers into our increasingly efficient industrial nation.

We won't be able to duck the challenge. We'll have to meet it. And, of course, the only way to meet it is through speeding up the growth of our economy.

In many ways, it is a deeply encouraging report that McGraw-Hill gives us today. Overall, business now plans to hike its spending on plants and equipment 7 per cent over 1959's levels against a projection of a 4 per cent rise by the Government only a few weeks ago . . . Already, spending plans for 1960 are above those for 1959, emphasizing that this really is a new cycle of spending. . . And spending on research into new products is again at a new peak, heading higher and higher.

This assures the 1959-60 uptrend—mighty, mighty encouraging news indeed! But in our glee over this we dare not ignore the fact that a temporary drop in joblessness to a reasonable low of 3,000,000 this fall is not going to obscure the long-term threat of unemployment.

We can properly debate the ways to achieve a faster rate of growth. But in view of this survey's message, no informed observer can question the imperative need for the faster growth to create the jobs Americans need.

FJC Sets Biennial Open House For May 1; Activities Listed

Plans for the biennial open house at Fullerton Junior College, the FJCee-orama, set for Friday, May 1, were pronounced as close to completion this week.

The program of activities, demonstrations, and exhibits will cover every phase of college life, according to Kenneth Helvey, chairman of the event. All classroom areas will be open for inspection with materials on display and instructors standing by.

Highlights of the FJCee-orama include a full-length Modern Dance Concert in the Little Theater; a one-act play in the administration building lounge; special films in the English, art, business education, agriculture and vocational nursing areas; a demonstration of police radar equipment by the evening Police Science classes; a continuous program of music and short acts from the state of the student center; an exhibit showing plans for the new Hornet statue; and exhibitions by student clubs and organizations in the student center.

Other activities to be included will be a demonstration of the college's IBM machines; a display of Japanese ceremonial dolls in the college library; a "Know Your Art" quizz in the ceramics division with ceramic prizes for winners; a demonstration of the library listening room by language students; a miniature three-bedroom house showing home safety done by the professional nurses; demonstrations of all business education business machines; a large specially landscaped area done by ornamental horticulture classes; and demonstrations in science laboratories and technical education shops.

The college geology department will boast perhaps the most unusual exhibit, a miniature "real live" volcano that spouts flame, smoke and ash.

Meanwhile, vocational nurses will give blood pressure tests to visitors and present a demonstration of bathing and caring for babies.

Evening Junior College classes will center their activities in the college library with demonstrations and exhibits from classes in china painting, ceramics, rug-making, vocational catering, flower arrangement, textile painting, restaurant management, and sewing.

Two model homes under construction by building trades classes will also be open for inspection.

New Stockings Last Longer, Says Expert

Willena Todd Sturgis, executive assistant to the editor-in-chief of a national fashion magazine, reports that keeping legs in fashion and budget under control is no longer a problem. Vanette's Contemporaries, she says, have "mileage that is more than five times that of any other stockings."

"As a fashion magazine, whatever you wear comes in for close scrutiny," says Mrs. Sturgis. "With the first cablegram from Paris that skirts were knee-length, legs came back into focus, and with them, stocking problems. Stockings once were quite an item in my budget, but not any more, because I was introduced to Contemporaries. Where my stocking mileage used to be about a week, I'm now safe with Contemporaries for longer than a couple of months."

Vanette Contemporaries are guaranteed to give satisfaction or money is refunded. They come seamless or seamed and may be found at the SQR Store in Anaheim.

Thailanders Study at Claremont

Among the nine foreign students currently enrolled at Claremont Men's College are two young men from Thailand, both in the field of international relations. Both in their junior year at CMC, the two plan to enter government service when they return to Thailand on completion of their studies.

Phisit Pakkasem, who hails from the town of Chiengmai, had two years of college in Thailand, worked for the U. S. Embassy in Indochina before coming to Claremont. "College in Thailand is more serious," he says, in speaking of differences in campus life between America and his own country. Noting that there is more emphasis on social activities here, Phisit says he likes dormitory life and "getting to know American boys." After graduation from CMC, he plans to study for his master's degree before returning to Thailand to work for the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

From the town of Nakhon Ratchasima, where the famous Thai silk is manufactured, about 200 miles from Bangkok, comes Sugit Sopon, here on a Frank Bell Appleby Fellowship. Sugit, who played soccer last term with the Pomona College team, finds that students "study faster in America," cover more ground in less time than in his native schools.

Sugit's brother is in government service in the Ministry of Education as a "teacher," though not in the usual classroom sense. He goes from village to village helping the people to improve the standard of living, teaching them sanitation, health habits, and also crop improvement.

The majority of the Thailand population, Sugit says, is Buddhist, with Christianity the second largest religion. Sugit, himself, is a Buddhist.

Students to Observe 'Day of Don' at SAC

Memories of early California will be revived when Santa Ana College students observe Day of the Don on Friday, April 24, to make more meaningful the Spanish traditions long enjoyed on the Don campus.

Many of the men students have grown beards for the contest judging and Spanish costumes will be much in evidence during the afternoon and evening events. Various intramural sports events, some involving the faculty, have been scheduled, climaxing with an escort dance in the Student Union, sponsored by the Circle K Club. Music will be provided by the Continentals.

Sons of Norway Scandinavian, American Smorgasbord Slated

Smorgasbord in authentic Norwegian style will be featured by Solbakken Lodge 64, Sons of Norway, Saturday at 6:30 p.m., with all members participating in the preparation and serving of delicious Scandinavian and American foods at the Fullerton Ebell clubhouse on Chapman Ave.

Loraine Gulbrandson, social director and general chairman, announces that co-chairmen include Mmes. Egil O. Disen, Al Bim, Oscar Leland, Frank Moerke, and Paul Brattlof.

A program of musical numbers will be presented followed by dancing to the music of Wayne Crowl's three piece orchestra until midnight.

At the business meeting of the lodge an insurance representative of the home office of the Supreme Lodge of Sons of Norway, Minneapolis, Minn., Earl Johnson, discussed the plans for hospital insurance which will be available for lodge members in the immediate future. Also present at this business meeting was Marcus Karlstad, 6th district organizer, who was entertained in the Leland, Moerke, and Aksel Oas homes in the area.

News Letter Plans

Planned election of a name for the Solbakken news letter which is currently being sent to members every month was postponed until the May business meeting. Names may still be submitted says President Moerke.

Guests from Long Beach, San Pedro, Van Nuys, Los Angeles, Pomona, and Glendale attended this meeting which was of vital importance to Sons of Norway members.

Looking ahead socially, Solbakken Lodge has plans in addition to this annual traditional Smorgasbord Saturday for a May 17 party in remembrance of Norway's independence day and a sixth anniversary dinner in June. Sons of Norway lodges in Southern California are also planning a "Kretsstevne," a combined picnic or social affair to be held this summer. Aksel Oas and Mr. and Mrs. Sverre Krogsrud attended a planning session for this event Sunday in San Pedro.

Freya Club meetings in the homes of Mesdames Brattlof and Leland set up final plans for this annual Smorgasbord which has become a tradition among Orange County Scandinavians.

PC Professors To Get $2000 College Awards

Two Pomona College faculty members, Dr. F. Raymond Iredell and Dr. R. Nelson Smith, have been named to receive the college's 1959 Distinguished Professor Awards of $2,000 each, Pomona President E. Wilson Lyon announced today.

The awards are made under a fund established several years ago by R. J. Wig, of San Marino, president of the college's board of trustees, and the late Mrs. Wig, to honor distinguished members of the faculty in appreciation of outstanding service to the college.

Dr. Iredell, professor of philosophy and dean of the faculty, has been a member of the Pomona faculty since 1925. He will retire in June. Dr. Smith, professor of chemistry, has taught at Pomona since 1945 and is spending this year in England on a Petroleum Research Fund fellowship to continue his research in surface chemistry.

Both Iredell and Smith hold B.A. degrees from Pomona College. Iredell received his master's degree and doctorate at Harvard, and Smith obtained his advanced degrees at Stanford.

Ramona Story Inspired by Two Prosaic Entries In San Jacinto Township Court Docket in 1883

The Ramona Outdoor Play, a famed romance and tragedy out of colorful California history, to be staged in the Ramona Bowl, April 18, 19, 25, 26 and May 2 and 3, is based on Helen Hunt Jackson's appealing novel, inspired by two prosaic entries in the San Jacinto township court docket in March, 1883.

They stated in spare legal language that an Indian, one Juan Diego, had been killed by Samuel Temple, a white man, and that Temple's plea of justifiable homicide had been accepted by the court and he was freed.

From this Helen Hunt Jackson wove a tale of Juan Diego and his lovely wife, Ramona, their rapturous union and the resulting horror when Juan Diego was slain. The novel was credited with prompting the Federal government to ease the lot of the persecuted redfolk in the west.

For the purpose of the play, Juan Diego becomes Alessandro, and is portrayed by Maurice Jara. Ramona is portrayed by Raquel Tejada.

The play, enacted on a mountainside stage, with majestic snow-capped Mount San Jacinto as a backdrop, not only tells the story but the episodes are interspersed with spectacles of dancing girls in gay Spanish costumes, and daring dashes of horsemen up and down the slopes. Guitars give a musical motiff to the scene.

The Spanish setting of the Ramona Bowl is blessed with such excellent acoustics that no microphones or amplifying of any type are used.

Baskets of white stocks and gladioli and lighted tapers formed the setting at the First Presbyterian Church for the evening nuptials uniting Karen Jo Howard and Neal Leon Klein, both of Anaheim. Dr. Arthur M. Stevenson performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Howard of 9791 Harle Ave. and her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Klein of 535 W. Victor.

Traditional White

Given in marriage by her father, the bride entered the church wearing a full length gown in traditional white fashioned of lace and tulle over taffeta with lace bodice, tapered sleeves, stand-up collar and lace and tulle skirt trimmed with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. A Juliet cap trimmed with seed pearls held her fingertip veil to her short, dark hair, and a white-bound prayerbook covered with a white orchid and lillies-of-the-valley completed her ensemble.

Three attendants, dressed identically, attended the bride. Their ballerina gowns were fashioned of smoke-blue crystalette, and blue halo clips held short circle veils to their hair. They all carried bouquets of carnations and gladioli.

Attendants Named

Matron of honor was Mrs. Stanley Klein, sister-in-law of the bridegroom. Bridesmaids were Miss Thelma Lyon of Buena Park and Miss Janet Lee Wilson of Anaheim. Flower girl was Penny Hummel, cousin of the bride, who wore a fluffy white organdy over blue taffeta.

James Lynn Kirkhart of Anaheim served as bestman, while Jerry McMahon and Stanley Klein, brother of the bridegroom, both of Anaheim, escorted guests to their places.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Howard chose a beige crystalette sheath dress with matching hat and gloves and a corsage of pink rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue sheath dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Special guests attending the wedding were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Olive Edwards; an uncle, Jack C. Edwards; and a cousin, Clinton Edwards, all of Portland, Ore.

For a honeymoon trip to Palm Springs, the new Mrs. Klein later changed to a soft blue suit with white accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a former resident of Portland, Ore. Prior to her marriage she was employed by Pacific Telephone in Garden Grove. Her husband is an Anaheim native and is a graduate of Anaheim Union High School. He attended Orange Coast College and is now employed by North American in Downey.

Disney Buys Historic Golden Oak Rancho

The famous old Golden Oak Rancho, historic site of the first recorded gold strike in California, has been bought by Walt Disney Productions as part of the Disney entertainments and a permanent motion picture location.

Purchase price of the 315-acre property, $300,000, is said to represent more gold than was ever taken from the shallow creekbed of Placerita Canyon near Newhall through 1842-43.

The rancho was purchased from Lloyd Earl through the realty firm of Coldwell, Banker and Company. In addition to its planned use as location for Disney pictures, the extensive buildings, stables, paddocks, lush meadows and corrals will be a holding ranch for polo ponies and thoroughbreds.

First Disney production company to use the location will be the "Toby Tyler" unit, scheduled for film scenes late in May. "The Swamp Fox" also will move into the meadow area around the first of June for a week's stay.

The claimed original live oak, now well over 150 years old, and which gave name to the discovery site, is still standing.

According to legend, Valquero Francisco Lopez pulled up a wild onion and found gleaming nuggets at its roots while hunting stray horses in 1842.

Officials Discuss Two New Freeway Projects

City Engineer Thorton Piersoll reported his city's cooperation for the project, but asked about the possibility of a connection to the highway at Katella.

District Engineer L. Gilles said the Katella connection was not included in the present project, but was under consideration by the highway division.

On the other project, plans call for the development of more than four miles up to freeway standards.

In this project, county and Brea city officials hailed the close cooperation between all the bodies involved in developing the route for the Orange County section of the freeway.

Placentia Editor, Cecil Rospaw, complained that city officials of this city had not been contacted in the development of an underpass that will throw a heavy volume of traffic onto Primrose St. Because of this, Placentia city fathers have not taken action on a freeway agreement with the state, presently in their hands for about a year, it was disclosed.

Development of the Diamond Bar Ranch area in Los Angeles County will be greatly enhanced by development of this north-south freeway, as well as the proposed Orange County State College in Fullerton, it was outlined.

18 Face Death in Besieged Prison

in me in my going back in. . . We are on our way up."

"We can't put up any more front," he told prison officials. "Let us work. I don't want anyone taking the power out of the Warden's (Floyd E. Powell) hands. The minute they do—rush the walls—we've all had it."

Jones looked at a National Guard colonel and said, "Colonel, remember to take it slow and easy."

Jones listed these grievances made by the prisoners: Sentencing of first offenders who are only 18 or 19 years old to prison; toilet facilities in the old cell block; dislike of the new director of the state Parole Board, and the Parole Board's policies.

He said he agreed with "some" of the prisoner's demands.

"There's time for a change," he said.

Lots of Tension

Jones said he was the only one of 18 hostages who was tied, although he indicated the men prepared for hanging were restrained to a certain extent.

Of his treatment he said "I can't complain. But there is a lot of pressure and a lot of tension" inside the walls.

Jones said the Parole Board policies should provide for parole of the man instead of the offense.

"This thing is going to change either by a riot or by a slow process," he said. "That's why I'm going back in. We've got to avert a riot or any more violence."

Jones was dressed in a grey flannel suit and his eyes were bloodshot as he talked to newsmen and law officers. He explained that he had been chosen spokesman for the prisoners because "I'm sort of in between the inmates and the administration" in that he deals with both sides.

When he returned to the prison through a tunnel leading to a barred door in the meshall, Jones was to act as spokesman for the convicts in their meeting with reporters.

A Col. Foster of the National Guard asked newsmen not to use Jones' statement in order to protect Jones and the other hostages. However, the information was released by another news service (not United Press International).

Father Lyman, the chaplain, entered the prison shortly before dawn with Warden Powell and former Warden William C. Benson to meet with the convicts, presumably including ringleader Lee Smart, 19, the slayer of the deputy warden.

Democrats' Countywide Dance Series Slated

There will be games, cards and dancing to the orchestra of Joe Kemper. Muriel Dinwiddie, of the Buena Park Democratic Club, is chairman of the dance. Margaret Waller, of the Buena Park Democratic Club, is in charge of the arrangements and William Thomson, of the Santa Ana Democratic Club, is ticket chairman.

In order to raise funds and interest for the 1960 election campaign, Lester Van Tatenhove, Chairman of the Orange County Democratic Central Committee, announces that it is planned to have a Democratic Party and Dance every three months.

Tickets may be obtained from any member of the Orange County Democratic Central Committee or the President of each of the local Democratic Clubs.

Chamber Adopts Budget For Current Year

Based on a realistic income of funds, the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce adopted a budget of $42,700 for the current year, last night. Income was listed as membership dues totaling $27,350, City of Anaheim $15,000, and anticipated income from new members at $350.

Dues income can be considered 100 per cent collected with the exception of a small number of delinquents.

Major items of expense on the budget are salaries, $26,220, with employes reimbursable account $2,400, membership relations and promotions, $1,000, office expense and literature, $6,000, rent $2,000 and telephone and telegraph $1,200.

Biggest problem for the chamber this year will be the acquiring of new quarters. The current location lease expires July 31, and no option for renewal was written into the current lease. It is the desire of the Chamber, said President Clyde Cromer, to stay within the present area, if possible. The Optimist Club building has been suggested as a possible temporary location.

Charles Pearson reported that advisability of the Chamber recommending the aquisition of the land surrounding the present Anaheim - Fullerton Municipal Court, for the purpose of parking for the La Palma Park stadium and to be offered as an enticement to the county to build two additional courts that will be established within the next month by the State Legislature for Orange County, if the proposed bill is passed by the Senate and Assembly.

Such lands could be obtained through the use of the Urban redevelopment program now under study, and would erase a great eye sore at the main entrance of the city. Pearson stated that there is a great advantage to having the additional courts within the city boundaries. Walt Taylor explained, in commenting, that there is a difference between the planned Superior Courts and the municipal court plan, and that the two should not be confused in making the study and recommendation.

Legislative committeeman, John Kent, reported briefly on the court situation and said additional study and recommendation would be forthcoming.

Paul King reported on the proposed park expansion recommendations which would include a golf course and a regional park to be developed along the Santa Ana River, proposed expenditure to reach a total of $1,700,000.00 for land acquisition.

The Monthly meeting was held at the Anaheim Bowl, with President Clyde Cromer presiding.

Chairman of the meeting will be Lyle Huggins, State Director of the California Association of Insurance Agents.

British Crew Fires Thor from California

VANDENBERG AFB (UPI)—A British Royal Air Force crew Thursday successfully fired the United States-made Thor intermediate range ballistic missile out over the Pacific Ocean.

It was the first launching by a British crew of the Thor. The 65-foot weapon capable of packing a nuclear warhead streaked its full 1,500-mile range.

"It was a magnificent achievement," said Thomas Cochrane, deputy chief of information for the British Air Ministry. He was one of about 20 British newsmen and officials to witness the firing at this base about 170 miles north of Los Angeles.

It was the second successful firing of the Thor here. A U.S. team launched one last Dec. 16. The Thor also was used as the first stage of the two-stage Discoverer rockets, one of which blasted a 1,600-pound satellite into orbit around the earth on Monday.

Edison Pays County $1,227,290 in Tax

A king - size check for $1,227,290.50 was presented to Orange County Friday as the final installment of Southern California Edison Company's local property taxes for 1958-59.

Edison District Manager J. A. Long made the payment to Don S. Mosley, tax collector of Orange County, of which the electric utility company is one of the biggest taxpayers.

The first installment of Edison's local ad valorem taxes was paid on Dec. 10. The two payments total $2,458,946.25 a record amount paid here by the company.

Long noted that about half of the taxes Edison pays in this county goes for the "support of local schools. On this basis, he said, the company is paying for the education of approximately 2,853 school children of this county this year.

Edison also pays property taxes in 12 other counties, and the total for 1958-59 is $31,536,503. This compares with $26,851,813 for 1957-58. With state and federal taxes added in, the company's total tax load for last year alone was $73,119,089 — the equivalent of 28 cents of every dollar of revenue, he said.

HORNET HIGHLIGHTS
By Andy Estrada

An "FJC Springtime Sports Queen" will be chosen at the annual Associated Student Body Dance to be held tonight in the men's gym from 7 to 12. "Lovelier Than Springtime" is the theme for this year's dance with music being provided by the popular Elliott Brothers band.

FJC's annual Spring Sing is set for Thursday night in the FUHS auditorium. Competing clubs will be Olympia, Kappas, Thetas, Vets, Hornet Knights and Vocational Nurses. A winner will be announced at the completion of the program. Tickets are on sale for the price of 50 cents to hear these fine clubs sing. The program is open to the public.

Next Wednesday, April 22, will be Fullerton's annual Business Education Day. Approximately 400 students, faculty and business people will participate. Theme for the day will be "Selling Yourself in Business." Events for those taking part include a breakfast, panel discussions and a field trip to the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles. Many students from surrounding high schools have also been invited.

Olympia Men's Organization is sponsoring an Olympic Fund Raising campaign to help send United States athletes to the 1960 Games in Rome. Members have prepared jars for distribution around campus and in downtown stores. Other plans include a door to door campaign and visiting several community service clubs.

The second on-campus polio clinic will be held in the Health Center on Wednesday, April 22, from 8:30 a.m. to 12 p.m.

AROUND AUHS
by Sally Smith

Colonyville had the pleasure of viewing an assembly presented by the Fullerton Junior College bands Friday, April 3. Many swinging numbers were played and the student body seemed to enjoy the program.

Anaheim High had such difficulty in deciding on a valedictorian that eight (count them, eight!) seniors have been presented this honor. They are: Bonnie Frazier, Jeri Hein, Cathie Morris, Carol Robertson, Gary Rodgers, Carol Stevens, Sharon Troutman and Tom Wilt.

Connies and Clems of the music department at AU took a recent trip up to the bay area for a tour and, from all reports, a fabulous time must have been had. The choirs left at 6:30 Monday, March 30, and returned late in the evening on April 1.

The junior class spent last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday taking Iowa State tests while the hardworking seniors and sophomores watched travelogues and motion pictures.

Preliminary drill team tryouts were held a week ago after school in the big gym. Girls from Fremont and Brookhurst, as well as AU, tried out for this group. It is, indeed, an honor to attain a position on the team and any girls chosen may be proud of themselves.

Jeanne Rae Sampson was the top winner in the NOMA spelling contest by spelling two groups of 100 words each completely right.

WESTERN WHISPERS
By Cassie Brewer

The Girls' League and Boys' League are holding elections next Tuesday for their officers for next year. All of the offices will be filled with fine students from Western when the results are known. We wish them the best of luck, and may the best man win!

Craig Finefrock has been selected from all of the outstanding male students at Western to represent us at the coming Boys' State convention to be held this summer for two weeks. Craig is very worthy of this honor. He is making excellent grades and is a well-rounded person too. We are proud to have Craig represent us and are sure he will do a fine job.

There is a dance tonight in the Western High School gym. It is being sponsored by the Westernettes and promises to be a lot of fun for everyone. It begins at 8 p.m. and ends at 11:30 p.m. The theme is Wafikiki WingDing. It is sport dress, bermudas, jamaicas, capris, etc. It is a vice versa dance with girls asking boys for dates and footing all of the bills. Price is 50c stag and 75c couple. See you there tonight!

The Foreign Student Exchange Committee has raised enough money to bring two foreign students to Western next year.

Our senior rings will be here in another four or five weeks so if you owe a balance on them, better start saving now.

The A Cappella Choir at Western hosted two choirs from Anaheim last Tuesday night. They provided a delicious potluck dinner and there was dancing too. Also the groups did some fine singing for each other. It was a very successful evening of songs and fun.

FREMONT FLASHES
By Pam Baier

Mr. Joseph Kellebar of Pacific Telephone Company presented a program Wednesday on "World Wide Telephones." Two trans-ocean calls were placed by members of the student body to friends and relatives in Hawaii.

With Mr. Bill Cullen in charge, the Fremont Student Body taped a "People on the Street" program. At lunch, everyone said a "hello," and then sent it to Robert Olsson, who replied. (We hope that Mrs. Taymond, Mr. Balsir, and Mrs. Bartunek "got his message," when Bob told them to take it easy on the homework)!

Last Saturday saw the Girls' Service Club off to Hollywood for a day of fun and frolic at the Cinerama South Seas," and the Farmer's Market. Chaperoning were Mrs. Lillian Bartunek, and Mrs. Caroline Stellhorn.

Fremont is nonchalantly taking baseball season in her stride, after snipping Servite 'way behind. It looks like a promising team with such outstanding players as John Baton, George Knox, Bill Burns, etc., under the coaching of Don Colburn.

BANTER FROM BROOKHURST
By Cheryl Meier

Baseball season has arrived! Here are some important dates to mark on your calendar. Home games are: Spartans vs. Marshall of Pomona, April 21; Spartans vs. Smedley of Santa Ana, April 30; Spartans vs. Fremont of Pomona, May 4. For any of you anatomists, the heart of the team is composed of the following: Ron Yeti, pitcher; Red Winn, catcher; Stan Quast, first baseman; Dave Bell, second baseman; Brad Ralston, third baseman; Charley Aquinaga, shortstop; Mike Bierney, left field; Mel Lofquist, center fielder, and Hans Tromp, right fielder. Hans, incidentally, is the only eighth grade player on the Varsity Team.

The Journalism Department has been sponsoring a candy bar sale so that it will be able to make a contribution to the ninth grade project fund. From only two days' sales, the profit is near $40 and there have been about 2,000 candy bars sold! The sale will continue on Monday and run throughout the week.

Queen Coronation coming up! At the ninth grade Spring Dance, which is to be April 24, one of the five semifinalists, who are Pauline Tandberg, Kathy Littlejohn, Joan Valusek, Carolyn Penrod, and Cheri Ross, will be crowned Queen of the 1958-59 year book. This is one dance that you won't want to miss! Dress for the girls is simple, cotton party dresses. Good luck to Cheri, Pauline, Joan, Carolyn and Kathy!

TRIDENT TALK
By Elizabeth Katz

Sad or glad news will be coming our way as the report cards have been mailed. Those eligible for the Honor Society at our school are signing up for it.

The Student Body and Faculty at Trident were very pleased to learn that Shennaz Kadri had been picked "Teen of the Week" as she is very deserving of the honor.

Our orchestra under Mr. Cook's supervision will welcome the new students for next semester at Trident with musical selections tomorrow morning. Linda Johnson and Deitra Black will entertain them with the "Mexican Hat" dance.

Sally Schwartz, violinist with Trident orchestra will be entered in the Musical Arts Association Auditions at Orange Coast College, April 26 as a pianist.

Bye! Now!

WHAT DO WE HAVE HERE? — The Senior Science and Biology classes at Anaheim High traveled to "Calico," near Barstow, visiting old mines. Here the students are seen coming out of an old mine shaft, where they witnessed various ores and minerals. William Goodman, adviser to the group briefed the Connies and Clems on what they were seeing. (Bulleteen Photo by Larry Secrist)

Two Westerners Seek Spots in Research Program

By Cassie Brewer

Every summer 25 young men, who have a talent for math and science, are chosen to participate in a program running from June 23 to Aug. 11 at Thatcher College in Ojai, an extension of Cal Tech.

The boys first fill out applications stating why they are interested in this school and then they take an entrance exam. On the basis of these two things 71 boys were accepted this year for interview.

Among these were two young men from Western.

Roy Loftquist and Bill Griswold were selected to remain in the finalists. Both boys attend Western and do exceptional work in the science and math field.

They filled out forms, took tests, and wrote statements about themselves. Finally they went for an interview with Mr. Strong, head of the Entrance Administration Department of Cal Tech.

The Ojai Summer Research Program sponsored by Cal Tech is put on each summer to develop increased interest and enthusiasm in the scientific field. The daily program is well balanced between recreation and work.

We are very proud to have a couple of our boys get as far as they have. We hope they will be among the chosen 25. We all wish you the best of luck!

The conference program began with registration in the Bridge Auditorium, an opening session, and then continued with a tour of the campus.

Teen Tributes

By Judy Willis

SHEHNAZ KADRI
. . . teen of week

Selected for distinguished scholastic achievements is Shehnaz Kadri, Teen of the Week.

Enrolled as a member of Trident Junior High school's seventh grade class, Shehnaz Kadri has been selected as the recipient of Trident's coveted Student of the Month award. Shehnaz received the certificate of outstanding accomplishments on the basis of her scholarship, citizenship, leadership, school participation, and courtesy. Informed of receiving the award during a school assembly, Shehnaz comments that she was "very surprised, but very happy" to receive the honor.

Coming to the United States in September of 1957, Shehnaz now resides with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Syed S. Kadri and younger cousin Tariq, at 11681 Jewel Lane, Anaheim. Having attended a privately operated school near Bombay, India, Shehnaz, comparing the school systems, states that this country's educational program is much "easier compared to India's." "In India, it's a privilege to go to school, and students take advantage of it." "There are few public schools in India," explains Shehnaz, "and elementary, junior and senior high schools, as in the United States, are combined in one 12 year school system." Shehnaz began to learn the English language during her first year at school in kindergarten. In her third grade year, she began to learn the language of Marathi, and in the fourth grade, the Hindu language was taught to her. Shehnaz presently speaks fluent English, Hindu, Marathi, and Urdu, and she possesses a readable comprehension of the Arabic tongue. At the age of 13 years, Shehnaz has the benefit of knowing five languages.

Shehnaz comments that "Indian schools teach more than American schools in the lower grades. Her school schedule in India included subjects as geometry, physiology, hygiene, sewing, history, geography, and general arithmetic. At Trident, her subject schedule lists history, geography, reading, English, homemaking, orchestra, general math, and physical education.

Future plans include finishing her education in United States schools. Shehnaz tentatively plans to become a doctor and then to return to India.

Top ranking scholastic achievements and an avid interest in homemaking have resulted in Shehnaz's membership in Trident's Honor Society and Homemaking Club.

Gatherin' Gab

By Marcy Allen and Judy Willis

Greetings, fellow teenagers!!! How did the past glorious week end leave you aside from the troublesome sunburns and other "minor" miscellaneous ailments? Of course, by now you're probably thinking only of your hastily made plans for the approaching week end. Right? But, enough of that—until next week. Now it's time to report on last week ends festivities.

Word has reached our "little!" ears that the Latin Club of AU had a real swinging party with Peggy Murphy acting as hostess. Of course, with "Bermuda!" Bill Daly, adviser, in on the festivities—well, there just couldn't possibly have been a dull moment. How about it, gang? Bill Does, Desmond Booth, Steve Janwick, Bernie Johnson, Delores Johnson, John Boire, Don Dontis, Dennis Clauson, Pat Gifford, Phyllis Chiarro, Gene Gott, Mary Acqueno, and Bonnie Sedloff were the participants in this pizza - filled party.

MARCY

Golfing seems to be gaining a foothold with Anaheim teens pastime pleasures. Sandy Kelsey and Johnny Fenn journeyed to Willowick to get in a few practice shots in this popular sport. Sandy, why 12 tries for a four par course?

Alice Acosta and Fred Arciniaga decided to see what was new in the land of "stars"—Hollywood, so they took a little sight - seeing of the glamour capital.

Sandy Heroy and Manuel Acosta traveled to the Orange Drive-In to see Susan Hayward in her academy award winning role — her role in "I Want to Live." Beverly Brown and Gary and Murrietta Lilies and Harry Owen were also among the many spectators.

Roller skating was at it's usual fast pace at the Santa Ana Skate Ranch. Gretchen Schmitz, Pat Northup, and Leonard Bedwell were only three of the many skating enthusiasts at this happy gathering place.

Sharon Kennedy and Dwain Rupert, Merrill Campbell and Rich Gimino, Shirley Shakolan and Bob Budwig, and Jean Barney and Alex Frew were only four local couples who saw "Gigi," the award winning picture, at the Anaheim Drive - In.

Saturday night found Pat McKinney, Ione Lilies, Jack and Ed having a fun - filled evening at the Long Beach Pike.

Anaheim Memorial Hospital's Junior Guild recently had it's fashion show. Anaheim teens participating were Sue Doeks, Flora Jones, Pam Fowler, and Teddy Hill.

That's all for this week. So-long, gang.

QUAD-HOP DANCE SLATED TOMORROW

Another Quad-Hopper Dance will be held tomorrow night, from 8 to 11:30 p.m., at Carpenter's Hall on Vermont St. in Anaheim.

Students from the four Anaheim high schools, Anaheim, Western, Servite, and Marywood, will be admitted with the price of admission, 80 cents, and a membership card which may be obtained at the door.

Sponsoring the dance are the Anaheim Sertoma Club and the Anaheim Youth Council.

Brookhurst Band Raises $1,400 For Uniforms

By Cheryl Meier

The Brookhurst Spartan Band, after a year and a half of effort, has accomplished its goal in raising $1,400 for the purchase of the band uniforms.

The members of the band began their money-raising project by installing and operating a popcorn machine on the Brookhurst campus. By the end of last year, after about six months of "popcorn profits," they still didn't have enough money to purchase the uniforms.

Recently the band has been selling candy bars on the campus, and with continued popcorn sales again this year, plus the profits gained by sponsoring the Brookhurst Faculty vs. the All-American Redheads game, they have at last succeeded in gaining the appropriate sum needed.

Through their own efforts, the 70 band members have finally reached their goal; they have raised $1,400 and they have purchased their green, and white braided uniforms.

The only outside help that the Spartan Band received was from the Band Parents Club which was organized this year, and they gave great support in obtaining the uniforms.

Since the organization of the band, during the 1957-58 school year, it has marched in the 1958 Halloween Parade and has appeared at several athletic events. The Spartan Band will be featured at the Annual Spring Concert in May and sometime this month, will also entertain elementary school students in this area.

The Brookhurst Spartan Band, under the leadership of Drum Major Dennie Dyer, is to be congratulated for its outstanding efforts in school spirit!

Other members of the cast include Renee Tschachtli, John Kelly, Carol Schott, Patricia Holochwost, Carolyn Oswald, John Heinz, Marilyn Charron, Bob Belew, and Kathleen Stoughton. Strictly Military

By 2nd Lt. Eric Fussell

Many people have come up to me ever since the day publicity on the forthcoming Military Ball was released. The majority of these people were confused as to the presumption that only military personnel were invited. Let me clear up this matter by simply stating that all persons, military minded or civilians, are cordially invited to attend the Anaheim-Western Military Ball. I would also like to add the fact that civilians will receive the same honors as any military personnel, if not more, and also to receive additional information, don't stop reading now.

ERIC

The Anaheim-Ball has been set for the night of April 25, Saturday night from 8 p.m. to midnight. The dress will be formal for all military personnel, and semi - formal for the civilians. Since our theme is "Trade Winds," a complete illusion of being located or stranded on some tropical island will be created. As a matter of fact, we have even arranged to have as entertainment, genuine Hawaiian performers. And for great dance music, our own Anaheim High School Dance Band will be another attraction.

I would like to emphasize the fact too, that special catering will be taken care of at each of the various tables to be placed on the second level of the Anaheim Gymnasium.

Yes, for a great time and a night you'll always remember, be sure to attend this year's annual Military Ball, April 25. One item that I left out, but is very important, is the fact that a queen will be crowned that night.

Anaheim High is to have its bivouac this year at Camp Pendleton. Both Anaheim High and Fremont Jr. High will leave the school May 1 and return May 3.

On the advisory level for both schools will be Lt. Hicks, commandant, Lt. Merritt, in charge of the ninth grade, and Mr. Olsen, in charge of the eighth grade. Only cadet officers will be in charge of Anaheim, a somewhat older class of cadets, and better prepared. According to statistics, Fremont will be the "underdog" or less prepared of the two schools. This is not a slanderous accusation, but facts speak for themselves.

Our cadet armory at the high school is slowly being reconditioned this year. Much of the work, if not a majority, is being done by the cadets after school. The school has furnished the paint, tools, etc., and we furnish the manpower. There are no complaints from the cadets though, because they are earning after school service hours which won't hurt their future promotions in the least.

Road Clatter

By Jerry O'Keefe

In the above picture we see Dick Waters, young Anaheim striper, working on Dave Vosburgh's '51 Ford. This picture was taken at the Hi Magazine Car Show last month where Vosburgh was an entry. Dick is a senior at A.U and is known by the nickname "Moses." His car is a '48 Ford, which has tuck-and-roll. Waters has done all his own work including a '55 Ford grill, nosing, decking, frenching of head lights, striping, scalloping, and the name "CLUNK." Dick is now in the naval reserve at Santa Ana. Future plans for Dick's car are: new Olds engine, gold paint job, rescalloping, and entering of the car in car shows.

New Clubs

Juggers of Anaheim, are a new club, but seem to be on the right road to becoming one of the best. They have already joined the O.C.C.A. (Orange County Car Club Association), and they have also participated in two Poker Runs and two car shows. Paul Samson, a member of this club, was entered in the Hi Magazine Car Show, and, in a future article, I will have a picture of his very beautiful '50 Ford.

One of the newly organized clubs in Anaheim are the Competitors. The Competitors have been formed a few short months, and in this time they have obtained shirts, plaques, and courtesy cards. They are members of the Orange County Car Club Association, along with three other Anaheim clubs. They attended the car show in Santa Ana last month and the Poker Run in Tustin, this month.

American Schools Living in Past, Cambridge University Professor Says

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — The trouble with America's schools, according to a distinguished British observer, is that they are living in the past.

This critique may surprise Americans who are accustomed to blaming "progressive" modern methods for all of the ills of U.S. education. It is, however, the considered view of Prof. Denis W. Brogan of Cambridge University, a peppery and perceptive critic of American life who is sometimes called "the foreigner who knows America best."

Brogan is on his 31st or 32nd visit to America (he has lost count of the exact number). He is delivering a series of lectures at Rutgers University here on "The American Crisis."

Part of that education crisis, he believes, lies in the failure of U.S. schools to respond to the new challenge that now confronts them.

From here on it will be Brogan talking:

In the past, the primary job of American schools was producing "good, loyal American citizens," and equipping them to earn a good living.

An Old Idea

This dedication to the school system to social and economic goals was not a new idea cooked up by modern advocates of "life adjustment education." It was the dominant philosophy of American education from the time the first colonial schools were established.

These early schools "aimed at producing a Bible-reading society, a society with common ethical standards, with a common attachment to American political institutions."

The "democratizing" function of American schools became ever more important as waves of immigrants poured into the country. The schools deserve great credit for the outstandingly successful job they did in "making Americans out of millions of the children of immigrants who had come to the golden shore with inadequate preparation for a way of life so different from what they had known in Europe."

What is unfortunate is that American schools today are still concentrating on their original function, and have failed so far to rise to an urgent new challenge that confronts them.

"The United States is now rich enough, unified enough and mature enough to ask its schools to lay less stress on making good Americans and more on making critical, technically competent citizens.

Life-Or-Death Significance

"The United States today is living in a new, dangerous, unpleasant world, and its educational system is involved in a competition that ultimately has life-or-death significance for the nation. If the present school system is not producing an adequate supply of first rate scientists and technicians, it is by that fact condemned. This may be a new job for the schools, but it is assuredly one that must be tackled soon if the United States is to survive."

The most conspicuous shortcoming of U. S. education is that "the boy and girl at the high school stage is not stretched enough." Even if all of the curriculum reforms proposed by Dr. James B. Conant in his recent report on high schools were put into effect tomorrow, "the pupil in the American high school is not going to be overworked."

Really bright boys and girls are the principal victims of a school system that subjects all students alike to "the lockstep of promotion by age and the temptation of snap courses." For their benefit and for the future of the nation, high schools must begin to bear in mind that "hard work and great effort are not un-American."

Even at the college level, there is "a great deal of waste effort in American education."

Higher Education Mis-Directed

"To be brief and frank, much of higher education in America is designed to soothe envy, to gratify social ambition, to train manipulators of not very difficult techniques."

There has been a notable indifference in American education to the achievement of "true excellence, as contrasted with mere competence." National pride has tended to hide the results of this attitude. Few Americans realize "how comparatively little the United States has contributed to the basic scientific ideas of the world."

Brogan concludes that American schools, in order to do the new kind of job that now confronts them, must overcome a distinctive American aversion for recognizing that "there is such a thing as 'undemocratic' superiority in mental equipment."

"Some people simply have more brains than others, and a nation that expects to survive in this competitive world had better be prepared to give exceptional people exceptional educational treatment. If that be treason, make the most of it."

Anaheim Girl, 5, Becomes Citizen in Court Ceremony

By Orange County News Service

Although there were 56 people present in the court of presiding Judge John Shea Wednesday afternoon for citizenship ceremonies, two pretty little girls, one from Costa Mesa, and the other from Anaheim, received a good share of the attention.

The young ladies, both from Seoul, Korea; joined the 54 other Orange County residents in the ceremonies, held in Superior Court in Santa Ana. The new American citizens represented 19 different countries.

Following the program, 5-year-old Jane Marguerite Clark, the new daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Donald Clark, 927 W. Sycamore, Anaheim, and 6-year-old Kim Minda Sawyer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Thorton Sawyer, 979 E. 19th St., Costa Mesa, chatted with Judge Shea, and had their pictures taken by countless photographers.

For both families, who met for the first time yesterday, it was indeed a happy occasion, one that will be remembered a long time.

The new father of one of the girls, J. Donald Clark, a business manager for a doctor in Los Angeles, explained how he and his wife decided to adopt a little girl to balance their family of three boys.

Through a college friend in Korea, Clark learned about little Jane Marguerite, who was living in an orphanage in Seoul. Soon they received a picture of the lovely little lass—and they were sold. She arrived in the United States more than two years ago and is now an important part of the Clark family.

Jane attends kindergarten at Patrick Henry School in Anaheim and according to Mrs. Clark has made a wonderful adjustment to her new home.

When she arrived she only knew a few words—but in two months it was amazing to see the progress she had made explained Clark.

With them yesterday was a scrap book with pictures and other documents relating to the "Jane Marguerite Clark story." In the book went the signature of Judge Shea, plus other items presented the new citizen at the ceremonies.

Although many of their experiences were alike, the Sawyers were able to adopt their new daughter through Harry Holt of Oregon, whose efforts in aiding Korean children has gained him national attention.

Also the parents of two boys, the couple received little Kim about two years ago. A first grader at the Harper Elementary School, she has made a wonderful adjustment to her home and school life, relates Mrs. Sawyer.

Like Jane, her vocabulary was only limited to a few words when she arrived—but today her English puts a lot of natives to shame. Artistically inclined, she likes to draw, music, and singing and dancing.

Sawyer, a Marine engineer, has been a resident of Costa Mesa since 1944.

As part of the procedures yesterday, the new citizen had her name changed from Yung Ja Lee to Kim Minda.

Canada and Great Britain had the largest number of citizens yesterday, 18 listing as their place country Canada and nine from England. Mexico was next with seven.

As a part of the services, Judge Shea presented a talk on the responsibilities of citizenship. Officials of the American Legion and other organizations were present to honor the new citizens and present them with gifts.

Dog Show Slated for Disneyland Tomorrow

Semifinals and finals of the second annual "Kids Amateur Dog Show" will be held Saturday and Sunday in Holidayland at Disneyland.

A total of 75 dogs, survivors of competition in Orange County cities, are entered in the week-end festivities to select "champions" in the following categories: best costumed, best trick dog, largest, smallest, "Shaggiest Dog," most obedient, best groomed, and dog with most spots.

Following registration, a "Parade of Champions" will be held each day at 11:15 p.m. on Disneyland's Main Street. Judging will take place in Holidayland beginning at 2 p.m. Semifinals are scheduled Saturday, with the champions to be selected on Sunday.

Members To Conduct Survey In Effort To Block Trend of Increased Costs

Seeking a means to block the spiraling trend of increased costs and taxes to support the public schools system, the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce voted unanimously last night to recommend a study and investigation of greater use of existing classrooms, basically a twelve-month, mandatory four-quarter semester system.

Bill Walker, a member of the Education and Culture committee of the Chamber reported for Mowry Smith and stated that the basis for their recommendation was the fact that the recent $28,000,000 bond issues for the elementary and high schools placed school construction in the category of big business and that though the study may not reveal immediate savings it may offer material for use in the future that will save the tax payer money.

Currently, Walker stated, the physical plants of the schools are vacant approximately three months during the year, and it is this period that might be used to effect some relief.

The report on which the motion was based stated that instead of the customary semester plans now in effect, "let us assume a radical change over to a mandatory four-quarter system. Under such a system, each student would be required to attend three quarters each year. The student load could be staggered in such a way that an equal number of students would attend a given school, each of the four quarters. This would effect, utilize the school plants 100 per cent instead of the present 75 per cent."

Dollar Saving

In dollar saving, using the Anaheim High School system for an example, "let us assume the proposed $20,000,000 construction program could be cut to $11,250,000 and still double the student capacity.

"The use of the plant for the additional three months would provide space for 2,500 students making it necessary to provide new space for only 7,500 instead of 10,000 students.

"If it would require $20,000,000 in new buildings to take care of 10,000 students under the present system, then it would cost only $15,00,000 to take care of the 7,500 students.

"Under the mandatory four-quarter system this $15,000,000 would be reduced by 25 per cent or $3,750,000 leaving a balance of $11,250,000 needed for new construction."

It was pointed out that this is theoretical since there is included in the building program replacement of unsafe structures, remodeling, and modernization of present structures. It was also pointed out that there would be an increase in salaries and educational costs due to the 12 months program, but considered slight in view of the savings.

Vacations could be staggered so that families having more than one child in the system, the eldest would set the quarter pattern and all other children in the same family would follow this pattern to keep families together.

In passing the motion it was pointed out that this is strictly a study and not a recommendation at the present time. Recommendations were requested to be completed prior to December, 1959 with contact to be made with the Associated Chambers of Orange County, the California State Chamber, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and other interested bodies.

Hope to Renew Chapman Construction Soon

ORANGE (OCNS) — Corrective measures were already being studied today in hopes of beginning work again within the next two weeks at Chapman College dormitories.

Wednesday afternoon the City of Orange issued a "stop order" on all construction at the dormitory project north of Walnut Ave., between Shaffer and Grand. This was due to an engineering report terming certain core tests not up to building code regulations.

Robert Grant, civil engineer for Rule and Conkle, architects, said today he hoped to have his engineering analysis submitted to the city by Monday. He said the corrective measures that he will suggest will cost under $10,000.

City Building Superintendent George Shattuck issued the stop order Wednesday after conferring with city councilmen. The council members felt they had a definite responsibility to the community to make such a decision.

Fair Board Hopes To Build New Junior Building

The Orange County Fairgrounds board of directors is in line today for a financial windfall which may make possible construction of a new Junior Exhibits Bldg., to brighten the fair site in time for the 1960 fair.

In its meeting Wednesday night, the board agreed to sell 11.99 acres of land fronting on Newport Blvd. as right-of-way for the super freeway proposed by the State Highway Division.

Exact purchase price has not yet been spelled out by the Highway Division, but the transaction will net several thousands of dollars for local use, according to Steward W. Yost, secretary - manager of the fairgrounds.

Net proceeds of the sale will be sent to the State Treasury as a special deposit, said Yost, and the money will have to be used for capital improvement of the fairgrounds. Probably the funds will be used to construct a new Junior Exhibits Bldg., he said.

Another fairgrounds improvement project already is under way, it was reported at the board meeting. The Boeck Co., of Orange has begun grading operations in preparation for laying 180,000 square-feet of blacktop paving in the parking lot and surrounding new livestock facilities at the Costa Mesa fairgrounds.

The board approved agreements for use of fairgrounds facilities for three special events:

Girl Scout Art Show, May 8 and 9 in the Fine Arts Bldg.; horse show, August 14, 15 and 16 in the Arena under sponsorship of the Canon Riders Club; and benefit horse show, September 13 in the Arena sponsored by Mesa Boots and Saddle Club for Orange County Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Drunk Driving Charge Jails Anaheim Man

By Orange County News Service

An Anaheim motorist, Billie Joe Button, 35, 9352 Broder St., was booked for drunken driving yesterday after his foreign sports coupe hit five parked cars on Lincoln Ave., just east of Dennl St.

He was one of six persons injured in traffic accidents reported throughout the county by the California Highway Patrol.

Button was treated at county hospital and then booked at the county jail. A pedestrian, Bobby Sorden of Garden Grove was knocked down and bruised by one of the parked cars as it was pushed along by Button's vehicle.

At 10:15 a.m., Wednesday, Ruth Smith, 49, 140 N. Cleveland St., Orange, was seriously injured when her car was struck head-on by another on Tustin Ave., a quarter mile south of Santa Clara Ave.

The other motorist, Carl Morgan, 27, of Chino, sustained minor injuries. Both were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

The Highway Patrol report indicated that Morgan's car went into an uncontrolled skid as it passed over an 840-foot oil slick on the pavement.

The unusual accident began when a truck preceding Morgan suddenly lost all the oil in its hydraulic lines. As the oil spilled onto the pavement, the truck driver, Aubrey Keith, 52, Downey, pulled off the road onto the shoulder.

FIGHT STARTS EARLY

Lane Risks High Rank In Hollywood Tonight

Kenny Lane, the number one lightweight contender, risks his lofty rating against fourth ranked Johnny Busso in a 10 round national TV bout tonight at Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Because of television, the match will start at 7 p.m., preceded by a four rounder at 6:30 p.m. Regular prices of $3.95, $2.95, $1.95 and $1.25 will prevail.

Lane, 26-year-old southpaw from Muskegon, Mich., will be making his first start of the year. He last saw action on New Year's Eve in Miami, decisioning Carlos Ortiz. Kenny has an overall record of 55 wins against five losses. He has been campaigning as a pro since 1953.

Is Hopeful

The crafty Midwestern is hopeful a victory over Busso will insure another title meeting with Champion Joe Brown. Jack (Doc) Kearns, Lane's veteran manager, says he will guarantee the titleholder $75,000. Brown won a disputed decision over Lane last July 31 in Houston.

Busso, a native New Yorker, is also shooting for another title match with Brown. Johnny dropped a close 15 - rounder to Brown in his last effort, Feb. 11 in Houston.

Tall for a lightweight (5'9"), the 24-year-old Busso holds a non-title win over Brown. Johnny also has defeated Carlos Ortiz, Larry Boardman, Orlando Zulueta and Lahouari Godih. He has a 35-8-1 slate.

Rathmann, Nation's Top Daredevil Said to Be Afraid of Automobiles

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Clyde Beatty, who walked into a cage, full of lions and tigers with the aplomb of a man in the Easter parade, once was asked whether there was anything he feared.

"Yes," he replied, "lions and tigers."

And that's the way it is with pink-cheeked, blue-eyed Jim Rathmann, one of the world's top auto racing daredevils.

Mild-mannered Jim is the man who last June won the Miglia de Monza in Italy with a world record average of 166.788 miles per hour, which means speeds of 195 miles an hour on the straightaways; has driven 3,870 competitive miles at Indianapolis and currently is looking forward to his 10th ride in the famed 500 on Memorial Day.

Jim's afraid of automobiles.

"Don't let anybody tell you that they aren't scared as they wait for the start of a race," he says quietly. "You think of everything that could happen and you've got those butterflies real bad until they cut you loose and the race is on. After that you're too busy to be scared."

Starts At 17

Jim and his brother, Dick, who is three- years his senior, are known as The Racing Rathmanns. But in this case it was the elder brother who followed in the younger's footsteps.

"I started when I was 17," says Jim, who is 30 now. "At first it was hot-rodding and then I just graduated into midgets and big cars. Dick started two years after I did."

His brother, you may recall, was involved in the first lap pile-up at Indianapolis last year which claimed the life of handsome Pat O'Connor. Jim was running 15th at the start and whizzed past his brother's battered car in fifth position after that spectacular crash.

"Man, was I worried," he said. "I knew it was Dick's car and it was several laps before my pit signalled me that he was all right. But you have to keep right on going anyhow, even at a moment such as that."

Jim will drive Sunday in the 100-mile Indianapolis Car event at the Trenton, N.J., Speedway in his final race before heading for Indianapolis. Meanwhile, and until the Indianapolis event is over, he admits to being "afraid of everything and everybody."

"The slightest accident or mishap can put you out of the 500," he explains.

Like three years ago when his brother had qualified for the Indianapolis race. Three days before the event, Dick drove into downtown Indianapolis, backed into an alleway to turn around and was attacked by a gang of young hoodlums. One threw a brick and Rathmann was struck on the eye. It required 13 stitches and scratched him from the race.

Jim trains assiduously for the 500, working every night with a special weighted driving wheel to strengthen his arms and watching his diet. You can imagine how demanding it is of the driver when you consider that in the 500 he will wear out nine special Firestone racing tires, enough rubber to carry a passenger car 50,000 miles. But while he has to be an iron man on May 30, until then he'll treat himself with the caution of a hypochondriac.

"I'm scared I'll get hurt," he said. "And I'll stay that way until we barrel into the first turn."

STORY, NEAL WILL RUN

Orange County Athletes to Spark Mt. San Antonio Relay Events

A pair of amazing teen-age high jumpers, Paul Stuber of Bellflower and Joe Faust of Culver City, threaten to steal the limelight in the high school division of the First Annual Mt. San Antonio Relays April 24-25.

Thirty-one CIF teams thus far are entered in the prep division, and there'll be such boy wonders as Dale Story, the 4:15.1 Orange miler; Leroy Neal, Fullerton distance star; Larry Canova, Bellflower halfmiler and Sprinter Pat Moore of La Habra, but the spotlight rightfully falls on the pair of jumping jacks.

Relays Director Hilmer Lodge thinks so highly of Stuber and Faust that he has moved the prep hig jump to Saturday afternoon from Friday so that more fans can appreciate what America has coming up in the future.

Last year when a 18-year-old, Stuber jumped 6-9 to place second to Charlie Dumas in the National AAU's and earned a trip to Moscow on the USA team for the Russian dual meet. Among those young Stuber kept off the American team was John Thomas of Boston, sensation of the indoor season.

Despite his youth Stuber didn't falter in Moscow, clearing 6-7, the same height as Dumas and the Russian Igor Kashkarov.

Faust was only 15 last year when he beat a field of college and ex-college stars in the district AAU championships at Occidental, clearing 6-8¼.

With such boys as Stuber and Faust around the future for American Olympic teams looks secure in the high jump.

Story will come down to the halfmile in the Relays to anchor Orange High's fine two-mile relay team in the race that comes Friday night at 8:15.

Stanford University yesterday entered an 11 - man team in the university - open division, headed by a sprint relay team anchored by Dean Smith.

THE LITTLE BOY IS THE BIG BUY

I'll Handel This

By LEONARD R. HANDEL
(Bulletin Sports Editor)

The coming Floyd Patterson-Brian London heavyweight title bout is drawing about as much interest as a five-part lecture on the love life of the South African mud turtle.

Seems that for some strange reason those close to the fistic whirl are not overly-impressed with the ability of London — and there are even those who are casting some dubious glances in Floyd's direction.

These people are of the opinion that Floyd is probably the only heavyweight titlist in 'lo these many years who has protected his laurels through a fight with an amateur-professional and a few professional amateurs.

Be this as it may, the title tiff-figures to be a rather interesting tussle.

London is currently in New York prepping for the bout, which many believe will last about as long as an ice cream cone at a third grade picnic.

However, in taking a look at the entire setup one gets the impression that maybe Patterson is being given a bad rap.

Look at it like this.

Floyd has fought all that have come within a deserved shot at his title.

He had defeated all of them, which is all one can ask.

The mere fact that there is no one worthy or capable of fighting for the title is not Floyd's fault.

One major item in his favor is that he is still extremely young and for this reason figures to be around for quite some time.

Could be that somewhere today there is a young lad who will one of these days give Patterson a real fight.

However, it does not seem likely that this will be London — and the same goes double for Ingemar Johansson.

Johansson, like London, built up a fine name for himself in Europe but it would be rather hard to determine just how strong this should figure.

Like we have said before.

Patterson can only fight those who come along.

When men the caliber of London and Johansson are rated as title contenders it just goes to prove that the fistic whirl is going in a downward type direction.

It will be interesting to see what happens to both these men.

At least we can be certain that we shall see two crown defense scraps.

Which is an improvement for us home TV fans.

SPONSORS NEEDED

Let's not forget that the Anaheim Park and Recreation Department is still looking for sponsors for their Summer program which is going to start in a very short time.

Like we said.

The program is one of the best in Southern California and for this reason deserves to be supported.

For the small sum of 45 dollars a service group, business firm or for that matter any organization can sponsor a team of 15 youths.

These youngsters will compete in all forms of athletics and in doing so will be working under trained personnel.

The Summer vacation layoff is usually a period where youngsters are forced to seek ways of amusing themselves.

In Anaheim the Park and Recreation Department presents a program whereby a youth can develop his ability — or at least realize which sports are his favorites when he is still young enough to do something about it.

So, why not call Lloyd Trapp and offer to sponsor a ball club? The number is KE 2-1321.

Tell them Ole Len sent you.

DODGERS MEET

This week end will bring the first opportunity many fans will have to watch the 1959 edition of the Los Angeles Dodgers in action.

They will be meeting Chicago's Cubs in the Coliseum Caverns, which means that a real good turnout should be the result.

Those Dodgers have been having a rough time as the season starts but it is the considered opinion of the writer that things will improve.

Sunday should realize a record crowd at the local ball park which is a good thing for all concerned.

Usually Sunday mornings find the writer improving his gutter ball so he can howl in the Junior Chamber Headpin Tournament.

However, this week end we shall journey to Memorial Coliseum to watch the Dodgers in action.

Should be fun.

Anaheim Nine Defeats Fullerton Club, 5-4 In Marathon 12-Inning Contest at La Palma

INDIAN NIPPED — Nipped at the plate is this Fullerton Indian as catcher Tom Lambeth puts the ball on him to retire the sliding Tribesman.

Coach John Wallin's Colonists went on to defeat the Tribe 5-4. The locals meet Huntington Beach Monday afternoon on the Oilers' diamond.
(Bulletin Photo)

Scoring the winning run in the last of the 12th inning, Anaheim's Colonists nipped a fighting Fullerton Indian club, 5-4 in a marathon contest at La Palma Stadium, yesterday.

By virtue of their victory the Colony now sports a Sunset League record of two wins and a single defeat, while the Injun's Circuit tab is still unmarred by triumph.

Wild Game

It was a wild and wooly ball game with both clubs threatening to crack the thing wide open on numerous occasions.

Winning pitcher, Clint Stark, started on the hill, went into right field and later in the game back to the mound to finish off and grab the decision.

Stark has now been involved in all of the local forces three Circuit games, winning two and losing one.

It all started out quietly enough with Anaheim jumping to a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the second.

Don Grothe, leading off, singled and moved to second on a walk to Chuck Smith.

He went to third when Glen Herbel bingled to load the bases and stayed there as Tom Lambeth fanned.

Grothe came steaming home a few moments later when Benny Ramirez also walked.

More Runs

The Colonists appeared to have the game "iced" when they scored two more in the bottom of the fourth.

Smith singled, went to second on a sacrifice by Bill Bielefeld, who had come to pitch, and to third on an infield out by Tom Lambeth.

Ramirez then cracked a grounder to third, which was booted and Smith came home.

Benny stole second and Brad Harker cashed him in with a sharp single.

Brad was out when he tried to stretch his base blast into a double.

Just when it appeared the Colonists were going to be home free, Fullerton went on the war path in the top of the fifth, when with one out Tom Givens walked.

He went to second on a base on balls to Joe Aversa and the bases were loaded as Belcher also walked.

Glen Vaughn did likewise as he was passed, and Givens was forced across the plate with Fullerton's first run.

Run

Nick Aversa popped to third and then with two down and the bases loaded, Bob Campanis slammed a ball to third base, which Rickie Scheffler threw wildly to first and both Aversa and Belcher came home.

The score was now knotted at 3-3.

Things settled down until the 10th when both teams hit for a single-ton.

Fullerton tallied on three walks and a fielder's choice.

Then in the last of the frame Grothe singled, went to second on a base blast by Smith and came steaming all the way in on a pinch hit single by John Avitia.

The issue remained in doubt for a short time and then Anaheim came up with their winning run in the last of the 12th.

Bob Baker walked, swiped second, and moved to third when the catcher threw wildly.

Denis Vollom, who went in at first, walked as did Avitia, and the bases were loaded.

Baker was out in an attempt to come home and just as it appeared that the game would continue until early morning, Ramires was hit with a pitched ball and Vollom came home with the winning run.

Anaheim will now prepare for their Thursday tussle with Huntington Beach High School on the Oiler's diamond.

Western Nips Orange In Extra-Frame Tilt

Competing in their second straight extra-inning contest, Western's Pioneers defeated a scrapping Orange High School club, 3-2 in the victor's diamond yesterday.

It marked the second time in as many starts that the local forces have gone over the normal route as they dropped a close decision to Rancho Alamitos earlier in the week.

Coach Roy Merk's Pioneers jumped off to an early start against the tough Panthers as they rallied for a pair of runs in the very first inning.

First Run

Butch Barthel reached first when his fly ball to right field was booted by the pasture patrolman. He went to second on a walk to Ben Fischer and scored on a single by Dennis Painter.

On the same play, when the Panthers attempted to catch Fischer going into third, the throw was wild and Ben came steaming home with the second tally.

Orange hit for a run in the fourth when Jerry King singled went to third when Tom Lietfus reached base on an error by shortstop Barthel and came home on a base knock by Dick Ritter.

The Panthers added their second and tying run in the sixth when Jake Ritter tripled and came flying home on a sacrifice by King.

From that point it was a scoreless battle until the last of the eighth when with one out Tim McManus reached base on a boot by shortstop Pat McKee.

Winning Run

He advanced to second on a walk to Keith Davis and the sacks were jammed when Fischer also walked.

Painter ended the game with a sharp single into right field and the decision was Western's.

Winning pitcher for Western was John Henyan, who came into relieve starter Roger Aquinaga.

Receiving the loss was Bob Fick, who pitched a good ball game in defeat.

Throughout the contest Western acquired eight hits, while Orange was able to grab three.

The Pioneers will now face La Habra's Pioneers Tuesday at La Habra.

While the Pioneer varsity was downing their opponent, Coach Dave Hernandes' junior varsity was clipping the Panthers by a 7-3 score.

They now sport a record of seven wins and three losses and are leading the Freeway League.

Winning pitcher in that game was Don Bodkins.

Grover Nutt Refuses Bolsa Grande Post

ORANGE (OCNS) — Grover Nutt definitely confirmed his remaining in Orange as head football coach for the Orange High School Panthers.

The OHS coach officially declined an offer from Garden Grove Union High School District. Both Nutt and Myron Green, Principal at new Bolsa Grande High School, said Nutt had refused the Bolsa job.

Coach Nutt was offered his choice of two positions. He could have had either the head football coaching post or Athletic Directorship.

Originally, Nutt had been told the two jobs would be combined but the Garden Grove school board decided the posts should be separated.

Colonist Sophomores Defeat Fremont Club

Fremont visited their big brothers on the high school field and were defeated 3-0. It was simply a case of not enough hits and a first inning error that allowed two runs to score, that got the Junior Colonists in a hole from which they could not recover.

John Goodell pitched good ball for Fremont as he allowed only two hits, while his teammates were collecting three off the Soph's Robertson. Fremont never seriously threatened as they could not advance a runner past second base all afternoon. The Soph's added their final tally in the fifth inning as Dean Reinaman singled and later scored on an infield out to make the final tally 3-0.

Goodell struck out six and walked four while Roberton struck out seven and walked only two. Leading hittier of the day was Dennis Wolin as he collected two of Fremont's three hits. Charlie Dean also singled for the Junior Colonists while Ken Eldred collected the final hit for the Soph team.

Local Netters Lose to Fullerton; Huntington Beach Next Match

By BILL PIPER

Losing three singles and two doubles, the Anaheim Colonist Varsity tennis team was defeated 6-3 by the hard hitting Fullerton staff, on the local club's courts.

The Junior Varsity team, displaying good strategy and form, overwhelmed the Indians 5-4. This is quite a big win for Colonyville's netters.

Don Klias, playing first singles, blasting his top spin serve to Fullerton's Swenson and following it to net smashed a 6-0, 6-2 win for Anaheim.

Stan Kula following at second singles easily defeated R. Hall 6-2, 6-3 for another Colonist win. But then Anaheim experienced the lost of both doubles teams; John Easton gave Anaheim great hope as he beat Weaver straight sets, this made the points tally to Anaheim three, Fullerton four.

Hope faded even worst for Anaheim as Chuck Osborn lost to McAulay 3-6, 3-6. Brian Stieler, twisting his leg badly the second set, was defeated by Long in the third set 2-6. This gave Fullerton a 6-3 win.

Anaheim's next match will be against the Huntington Beach Oilers.

London Starts Training Schedule

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Former British Empire champ Brian London, holding the greatest chance of his life in his fists, today embarked on the concentrated training schedule he hopes will carry him to the heavyweight championship of the world in a title bout with champion Floyd Patterson.

London planned to do seven or eight miles of roadwork and some light boxing with his younger brother, Jack, who will fight on the supporting card at the Coliseum.

London, 24, announced shortly after his arrival Thursday from New York that he would work out even his first night in his training quarters at Municipal Gardens, a city-owned recreation center.

"This is the greatest chance of my life," he said.

Tomy Lee Heads Derby Prep Field

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Top-weighted Tomy Lee heads a list of seven Kentucky Derby hopefuls today in Keeneland's Stepping Stone, a seven-furlong prep for the May 2 racing classic.

Iron Liege and Tim Tam won the Stepping Stone the past two years and went on to take the first jewel in turfdom's Triple Crown.

Lack of Depth Causes Mater Dei Parochial Loss to Pomona Club

By BOB LUSKEY

The old bugaboo, lack of depth, hit Coach Jack Dennen's Mater Dei track team once again yesterday afternoon when strong Pomona Catholic trimmed the Monarchs 61 and a half to 42 and a half in a Parochial Leaguer on the losers' oval.

Just as last week when they were edged by champ St. Francis 62 to 51, it was a combination of lack of depth and poor showings in the field events that proved to be Mater Dei's undoing.

The Monarchs and Spartans both grabbed off six first places in yesterday's meet but it was the losing Orange Countians who prevailed in the running events and the sports in the field.

In the running races the local forces were paced by Lee Raab, Bob Kennedy, Ray Sanchez, Chuck Baer, and Bill Hafferman.

Raab, clocked at 15.6, won the 120 high hurdles while also placing third in the 180 lows. Bob Kennedy was the big Mater Del scorer yesterday, winning the 100 yard dash in 10.3, and 180 low hurdles in 20.3, while finishing second in the broad jump.

Sanchez copped the 880 in 2:07.0 while Chuck Baer turned in his usually fine showing in the 440 with a 51.9 reading. Hafferman tallied in the mile with a not so spectacular 5:02.6 reading.

In the field events the Monarchs failed to come up with one First and had to settle for "place" finishes by such Monarch gaspers as Kennedy, Al Gonzales, Frank Yagge, and Mike McCarthay.

Gonzales collected a second in the shot put while Yagge and McCarthay both reaped thirds in the pole vault and high jump respectively.

The setback, Mater Dei's second straight, left the Monarchs with a Parochial League mark of two wins in four outings. The locals have beaten St. Paul's and St. John Vianney while bowing to Pomona and St. Francis.

Next Friday afternoon the Dennen thin clads will take on San Gabriel Mission at three thirty at Mater Dei in the final P.L. dual meet of the season. Following that circuit finale with the up and down Pioneers the Monarchs will compete in the Parochial League Trials a week from Tuesday at Pomona Catholic's Spartan Field.

Mikkelson May Coach Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)— Minneapolis Lakers veteran Vern Mikkelsen is only one of several persons being considered as successor to John Kundla as coach of the National Basketball Association team, according to Laker President Bob Short.

Short made the statement Thursday after Kundla, who recently quit the Lakers to coach the University of Minnesota basketball team, listed Mikkelsen as his most likely replacement.

Fattened Dodgers Meet Chicago In Coliseum Encounter Tonight

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Dodgers, fattened up by a brief diet of Cardinals, tonight take on bigger game when they encounter the burly Chicago Cubs.

Both the Dodgers and Cubs named pitchers who have not yet worked this season to take the mound.

For the home club it was big Stan Williams, the no - wind up hurler who beat the Cubs both times he faced them last season. The visitors named Dick Drott, familiar to local fans as a former Los Angeles Angel.

The Cardinals in dropping last night's game, 7-6, set baseball records as rookie manager Solly Hemus used 25 players out of 29 on his roster to set a major league record for a nine inning game, and by using eight pinch-hitters he set a National League record and tied a major league mark.

Despite an uphill battle in which the Cardinals pushed across two runs in the ninth, they could not make up for the barrage of homers off the bats of the Dodgers.

For the second straight night, centerfielder Don Demeter and rookie third baseman Jim Baxes hit homers, with each driving in three runs while rookie Ron Fairly also homered for the Dodgers.

Third baseman Ken Boyer hit a homer for the Cardinals and Chuck Essegian tripled to score two runs.

The Cardinals used six pitchers but starter Ernie Broglio who worked only one inning and gave up three runs was charged with the defeat while Johnny Klippstein the third Dodger hurler, was credited with the win.

Manager Walt Alston was forced to bench Duke Snider Thursday because his ailing knee bothered him. And Alston said Norm Larker would replace Gil Hodges at first tonight as the veteran had a bruised hand and sore back.

TOURNAMENT TRIMMED

CHARLOTTE, NC. (UPI)—The Carrousel basketball tournament will be cut from eight to four schools for next winter's renewal. The tournament also has been slimmed from three days to two, Dec. 29-30.

OVERCOMES HANDICAP

Disabled Man Develops Hobby Makes and Polishes Rock Spheres

By JIM MOORE

What does it mean to be totally disabled?

What does it mean to have to stay home and not go out and work for a living? After several years of working and enjoying friends and hobbies, suddenly to have to go to bed and not get up for several months? This can be demoralizing to a person that has been so active all his life.

Even after the doctor says a little activity can be undertaken, being restricted to one's home means that a whole new life has to begin.

Such is the case of an Anaheim resident who has found a new life, discovered a host of friends and made himself into a useful citizen rather than a burden on his wife and friends.

This is the case of Elven Olmstead. He resides at 1731 W. La Palma.

The victim of a near fatal heart condition which will leave him incapable of holding down a job from now on, Elven has made himself the envy of rock hounds throughout the community, because of his own capabilities.

Elven and his wife, Daisy, have found the type of companionship that few married couples know. Each is an avid rock hound and has quite a collection.

Elven specializes in making rock spheres. What's so outstanding about that? Just this! All the equipment that Elven uses was made by him. He has grinders and polishers and all sorts of machinery used in the processing of stones for display work.

How It Began

It all began in 1957 when hunting for rocks in the wayside areas of Southern California became a part of the Olmsteads life.

Rocks from all over the area were gathered. Even some from out of state were picked up and taken home by the couple.

The tragic thing that makes hopeless stay-at-homes of some people, struck the happy couple. Olmstead suffered a near disastrous heart attack.

Now, under the care of a heart specialist, Elven has rediscovered his place in the community life and the lives of those who knew him before the heart muscle was stricken.

After having spent months lying in bed, incapable of working or doing much of anything, rocks have become one of the most important parts of the Olmsteads' living habits.

Specialty of the Olmstead house are rock spheres. What is a rock sphere? Most of us have played marbles as youngsters. Just take a marble, any size, enlarge it to about ten to 20 times its size, depending on the size of the marble you have in mind, and you have an idea of the size of a rock sphere.

You don't have a rock sphere, however. Marbles, for the most part, are made out of glass.

A rock sphere, naturally, is made out of rock and can be made from any kind of rock. It's very simple . . . to explain. However, making a rock sphere can be quite a lengthy process.

Depending on the size of the sphere with which you wish to end up, you make the size of the first few cuts to coincide with the approximate size of the finished product.

Several cuts are made on a piece of rock to form a cube. Then the corners of the cube are cut off, giving the rock the beginning shape of a sphere. This is repeated until a rough sphere is formed.

Then the sphere is cut down and the rough corners are ground off and the sphere begins to take on a smooth appearance.

Polishing

Now, all that remains is the polishing. This is accomplished by placing the sphere between two pieces of pipe which are connected to a pulley device. Tension is maintained against the sphere, causing the friction between the pipe ends and the rock to wear off the rough edges, making a smooth surface. The medium between the pipes and the rock is a cutting agent in water which acts as an abrasive, thereby polishing the smooth surface of the rock into one of marble-like appearance.

Sounds easy, doesn't it? It isn't. The process takes hundreds of hours of work of hand cutting, grinding and finishing, before the final step of polishing can be done.

This is the type of thing that Elven does now. The only difference between Elven and other rock hounds, is that it takes him much longer to accomplish the same job.

The reason, of course, is the work time limit by which Elven has to abide, for he can only work a few hours a day.

To offset this handicap, Olmstead is visited by his fellow rock hounds regularly. They bring him specimens of rocks from their own trips to the desert and other areas, to keep him supplied.

Gem Show

Elven and his wife plan to have an exhibit in the Orange Coast Mineral and Lapidary Society's Gem and Mineral Show, to be held this coming Saturday and Sunday at the County Fair Grounds in Costa Mesa.

They, along with other members of the Orange Coast Mineral and Lapidary Society, will display their handiwork in the Agricultural Building.

Saturday, the exhibit will be open from 10 a.m., until 10 p.m. Sunday, the exhibit runs from 10 a.m., until 6 p.m. There is no charge and the public is welcomed.

Missionary League Elects New Officers

CYPRESS — The Bethel Lutheran Women's Missionary League held a special meeting Tuesday to plan the work the women will do at the church on Saturday, April 18.

Officers for the next term were elected at this meeting. Mrs. Ray Edwards was elected President, Mrs. Ralph Tennant, Vice President, Mrs. Charles Bott, Secretary, and Mrs. Fred Mikoleit as Treasurer.

The ladies of the organization will attend the Rally being held at Trinity Lutheran Church of Santa Ana on Monday evening April 27 at 7:30.

Funds from Dance to Equip Parochial School

PLACENTIA — St. Joseph's Catholic Church is sponsoring its first dance at the Elk's Club in Anaheim, Saturday, April 18th, 9:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m.

Art Castillo, chairman of the dance committee, has gone all out to make this affair a successful one, because it is planned to hold a dance annually and make it an affair to look forward to by all the friends and members of St. Joseph's Parish. Refreshments of coffee and cake and snacks donated by the ladies of the Church, will be available. For those attending the dance and not wishing to dance, a room has been acquired with card tables for playing bridge, canasta or any social card game.

Funds derived from this project will go toward the equipping of their school, which is nearly completed. They plan to start sessions in September of this year, which will include only primary grades at first. In order to help facilitate the opening of the school, the dance committee hopes to sell all tickets to have the time necessary to purchase the furniture and blackboards.

There are still a few tickets available and may be purchased from any member of the dance committee for a donation of $1.50 each, or if possible reserve them and get them at the door the night of the dance, Castillo said. There may be a few to be had at the door on Saturday night, but the committee cannot promise, Castillo added.

Castillo is in charge of the dance orchestra and the enthusiasm and zeal of his committee has promised a wonderful evening for all. The affair will be informal wear—no jeans, and men are required to wear a tie.

Working on the committee with Castillo are Mrs. Wilbur Schaner, Mrs. Norman Nichols, Mrs. Art Winney, Mrs. Carl Tice, Fred Ysias, Al Castillo, Mrs. Del Beiseranc, and Rudy Rodriguez.

Lax School Discipline Penalty Set in Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill which would threaten the loss of public funds to any state school which knowingly allowed hazing was passed Wednesday by the Senate.

The bill was introduced by Sen. Edwin J. Regan (D-Weaverville), who said, "We have to curb the sadistic impulses of some students in the schools."

Nursery School Mothers Plan for Coming Year

YORBA LINDA — Organizational plans for the forthcoming school year were discussed by members of the Yorba Linda Community Nursery School at a meeting of the group last Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Leonard Dueker.

A number of returning mothermembers in addition to seven new members who have enrolled their pre-school children for the fall term, will hold a meeting next week to make further plans for the coming year.

The nursery meets three mornings a week in the yard of the Yorba Linda Woman's Clubhouse with mother-members assisting the director of the school. Pre-schoolers between the ages of three and kindergarten age are eligible for entrance.

Mrs. William McCormick, president of the group, presided over the business meeting which heard reports from Mrs. Herman Anderson, director, and Mrs. William Paul, Jr., vice-president.

Members present were Mmes. Tom Rogers, Louis Schoonover, Art Young, Harry Ebeling, Don Hollowell, Dick Shook and Allan Birmingham.

Centralia PTA Officers Installed Presented With State Bear Flag

BUENA PARK — Presentations of two Honorary Life Memberships and the installation of the new officers for the coming year, highlighted the April meeting of the Centralia PTA held on Monday evening in the school auditorium.

Mrs. Paul Callaway, librarian for the Buena Park District and Mrs. Fred Kawanami, 7340 Crescent Ave., were the surprised recipients of the honorary life membership awards. These were conferred upon the two honorees in special recognition of outstanding service to children and youth in the community. Mrs. Callaway's recognition came as her encouragement in the library field to the children in the schools throughout the city. Making the presentations were Mrs. Wilbur Martin, president of the Dysinger PTA and a long-time friend of Mrs. Kawanami and Kenneth Holland, principal of the Centralia School making the presentation to Mrs. Callaway.

Mrs. W.C. Liesch, junior past president of the Buena Park Council of PTA's and the installing officer used "A Book" as the timely theme for the installation ceremony with Mrs. Edward Leahy, president of the Centralia PTA assisting. The officers, as they were installed were given their counter-part of the "book" each placing within the covers of the book their place, thus binding the group into a harmonious body.

Officers installed were: Mrs. Frank Russell Neiderman, president, her office representing the cover of the book; Mrs. H. E. Brewer, first vice-president, and Mrs. Kenneth Wion, second vice-president, their offices were typified as the dedication of a book; Mrs. Michael Gullon, secretary, whose part of the book was the chapter; Mrs. Prentice Moreland, treasurer, the pages of a book; Wallace Donavan, auditor, was likened to the appendix of the book; Mrs. John Goode, historian, whose office was compared to the index or the table of contents; Mrs. Richard Sisman, parliamentarian, was the title of the book, and to the members Mrs. Liesch asked for the support of the general membership, for without their support and faithful attendance the book cannot be written. This "book," a volume of this year's service will be added to those already on record, with the same pride of achievement that has marked the previous year's accomplishments.

Mrs. Sylvia Meyers, a member of the Fullerton chapter of the Grace Parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West and a native of Centralia District, made the presentation of the State Bear Flag to the school.

The sixth grade class gave a choral reading of Rudyard Kypling's "If" following the singing of the Pledge to the Flag and reciting the American's Creed.

Guests introduced were members of the local library board of trustees, Mmes. John Fowler, James Calder, Melvin Perry and Mrs. Callaway. Mrs. Perry spoke briefly on the coming library board election and the services it offers the community. She announced this is National Library Week. Introduced from the School District office were Glenn H. Dysinger, Sr., George Williams and Miss Beth Krosen.

Mrs. Leahy announced open house will be held April 28, and May 4-6 as the dates for kindergarten registration for the Centralia School. Refreshments were served by the fourth grade room mothers.

The Coast Guard is always one of the Armed Forces, but for peacetime police purposes it is a unit of the Treasury Department. In war it is transferred to the Navy Department.

The Question

The following, taken from an editorial in the Michigan Times of Grand Rapids, deserves, we believe, very careful thought:

Just about everything in this country has been getting bigger.

This trend, the economists confidently tell us with hardly a dissenting voice, is not only sure to continue but to accelerate. They blue-print a future of ever-increasing incomes, ever-improving living standards, the mass enjoyment of luxuries which would have been beyond the imagination of man not long ago.

This is fine. Yet a nagging question arises—while just about everything is getting bigger, is the greatest resource of all getting smaller? That resource is the individual. Is the individual in very real danger of being dwarfed by the bigness around him, and of being reduced to a statistic?

It's easy enough to say that it can't happen here. Easy enough, but untrue. This nation was founded on certain concepts—the fullest freedom for all, an unflagging sense of the spiritual nature of man, a passionate regard for the worth of every individual human being. But these, like all other concepts and philosophies, will wither away to nothingness unless they are eternally prized beyond all else and faithfully protected.

If, for instance, we give government the initiative and the power to regulate and dominate our lives in the name of security, the ultimate end will be the security of the penitentiary. The rights of man can be lost overnight by the sins of omission as well as commission. A people whose eyes and minds are fixed on material ends alone will not long remain a free people.

We never had a more urgent need to uphold the age-old principles and convictions that make for the only worthwhile kind of progress—confidence in something, faith in ideals, fairness, the determination to defend what one believes to be right.

Walt Whitman wrote a century ago: "The whole theory of the universe is directed unerringly to one single individual—namely to YOU." Man in the mass must never hide the face of the individual man."

FROM The Mail Box

Dear Sir:
Re: The Mail Box letter T.S. Boss (4-17-59)

Much has been said about the laws pertaining to the riding of bicycles on public streets. Some states place the bicyclist on the left side of the road facing traffic while others (California included) stress the right side, riding with traffic.

Is it the law, or its interpretation, which is at fault?

The California Vehicle Code treats the ridden bicycle as a vehicle. Let's consider the law as it pertains to an auto (a vehicle), which states that vehicles will travel on the right side of the street.

All autoists have the use of the traffic lane on the right side of the street. Should not the bicycle (also a vehicle) have this same right?

The driver of an auto who overtakes another auto would not expect its driver to pull off the street to allow him to pass, but the average autoist who overtakes the bicyclist occupying the same lane will slow down, quietly approach, and because the cyclist ahead occupies very little space on the extreme right side of the lane, he'll attempt to ease by, quietly.

You might well imagine the tingling spine experienced by the bicyclist when his peripheral vision catches the "half a ton of rushing steel." The intensity of the spine tingle and his resultant action is entirely dependent upon his past experiences and present skill as a rider.

Suppose a tank truck (another vehicle) were occupying that lane ahead. The far - below-average driver will slow down and wait for the approaching traffic to clear before he will attempt to pass a tank truck.

Shouldn't the bicyclist be allowed the same courtesy as the tank truck?

Perhaps the Anaheim Bicycle Safety Program will help our autodriving public as well as our bicycling youth.

Sincerely yours,
Eldon Hauck
(For the Committee) Anaheim Bicycle Safety Program

P.S. The committee is unanimous in its desire for the people of Anaheim to offer suggestions and criticism toward the perfection of the program; and realizes that such a program cannot be successful without the continuance of the wholehearted cooperation it has received in the planning stages.

Your Birthday

by Stella

FRIDAY APRIL 17 — Born today you have a vigorous inquiring mind and must have something interesting to do all the time. You cannot endure monotony and if things are dull where you are then you will start something to liven them up! You have a keen mind for business and will probably prosper. But you also have a deep love for the arts and may even have some talent yourself. If this is not developed it is likely that you will become a sponsor of others who are even more talented.

You of the fair sex are loving and affectionate always finding your greatest happiness in having your own home. Still it would be wise for you not to wed in haste since you are inclined to put those you love on a pedestal. Be sure your idol does not have feet of clay before you commit yourself to a lifetime of unhappiness. Once you have made your choice of a marriage partner your loyalties would cause you never to make a change!

It is likely that you will be happiest living in a country environment since you find the beauty and constant changing of nature a continual inspiration. You tend to be moody and must fight against periods of depression. Take a positive attitude toward life.

Among those born on this date are: Thornton Wilder author; Artur Schnabel pianist and composer; Henry Vaughan Welch poet; Adrian "Cap" Anson baseball player; J. P. Morgan financier.

To find what the stars have in store for you tomorrow select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Saturday April 18

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 20) — Be conservative and rather cautious in money matters just now. Don't overextend yourself.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21) — Plan a pleasant Saturday schedule of relaxing recreation. Best to postpone business until next week.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Plan to spend the week end in pleasurable relaxing recreation. Get out of doors too.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — You may need to call upon common sense to guide you today. A conflict of interests can prove confusing.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Do all necessary shopping before lunchtime and be ready to enjoy yourself socially this evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Morning has the best outlook. Don't get involved in a dispute over money in the afternoon.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — You can travel this week end and not be overly extravagant and still have a good time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Hang on to your temper no matter what happens. If you are calm others will stay cool too.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Use good judgment in planning your day and you can enjoy it thoroughly with friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — Pay attention to healthful demands. You can always do your best when you are feeling fit.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20) — Complete Saturday duties in the early morning and you can use the balance of the day for fun.

Western Effect

NEW YORK (UPI) — TV westerns are apparently proving a blessing to the small arms business. Industry sources predict production of pistols this year will increase 10 per cent to 500,000, with western-style six-shooters accounting for 150,000 to 200,000 of the total.

Farmer McCabe

Harry S. Truman has been popping around southern California like a fish cork here lately. Naturally the press has pumped and pumped H.S.T. for any inside information as to who he thinks will be the next Democratic candidate for President. "I ain't saying," said Harry, "but there's one thing for sure — whoever he is, he'll be the Man of the Hour." Just about then a dozen phones began to ring. Over half of the Senate wanted to tell H.S.T. that they were available . . . You see, some darned correspondent had a hidden mike connected to an open telephone line in Washington, D.C.

Assignment: Washington

by Ed Koterba

WASHINGTON — There's nothing like it. Going into orbit on a flying scooter, I mean.

I took this newest space vehicle for a trial spin, floating over the marble floors of the old House Office Building with the greatest of ease.

It needs no expensive fuel to run it. It operates on the cheapest type of power — common, ordinary air. It has no moving parts.

Above all, I can now soberly report that wheels on things like automobiles are on their way out. Authority for this is none other than the man who invented the air scooter, Andy Kucher, Ford Motor Company vice-president in charge of engineering and research.

Andy, a lanky gentleman with gray sideburns, brought the scooter, together with a model of a fancy red and black car, around to our Congressmen of the Science and Aeuronautics Committee.

The man from Detroit hoped that no one would get the impression his company was switching from V-8s to scooters. In fact, he said, the scooter is just a prototype for big, wingless, flyable automobiles.

Just why he brought his brainchild to Congress wasn't quite clear. But the lawmakers did have fun sailing that scooter across the Congressional halls.

Rep. James G. Fulton (R., Pa.) even got to hamming it up, flying around with no hands. This demonstration struck the first 'note of space realism for these gentlemen who've been talking matter-of-factly in terms of trips to the moon and Mars.

At that, they didn't get far off the ground, since that scooter hovers only at the height of 51 1,000ths of an inch — about the width of a sheet of 15-pound bond writing paper.

It works this way: on the slick metal bottom are three flat discs. In each of these metal pads are 10 pinholes. Through the holes is forced about 90 pounds of air. (The Ford people brought along their own air tanks and hoses.)

The force of the pinhole wind suspends the vehicle. Thus, it literally floats on a cushion of air.

Eventually, the auto people plan to build a vehicle that carries 40 passengers. Forward motion will be generated through turbine engines and the vehicle will be pushed by jet air at speeds of up to 500 miles an hour.

There's one catch, though. As it is now developed, you can't steer the space vehicle, so they propose putting it on an overhead monorail.

"Someday," said Mr. Kucher, "you'll be able to ride from Washington to New York, a distance of 250 miles, in less than an hour." The car will ride on a space cushion around the rail. Of course, somebody has to build that monorail first.

The next step will be to do away with the monorail altogether. Rep. Fulton foresaw a great future in cars with air power. When two cars are coming head-on along a road, he said, it would be possible for one to jump over the other.

But, meanwhile, he said, how about making land-locked cars safer? Wouldn't it be wise, he said, to design cars with big V-shaped, plowshare-type bumpers so that when there's a head-on crash, one car would be swept aside by the other?

The auto man said he hadn't thought of that. But he did invite the imaginative Congressman up to his plant in Michigan to look over some of the company's many safety secrets that have not yet been made applicable in ordinary cars.

THE Family Scrapbook

Monday Morning Malingerer

Through the years, parents have been aware that some children are susceptible to Monday-morning headaches, stomach upsets or other physical ailments. And it hasn't taken us long to realize that such illnesses have something to do with the fact that school is "taking up."

But it isn't always the school experience itself that is to blame. Dr. F. A. Dunsworth, writing in the Canadian Medical Association Journal, rightly points out:

"Something else about his life may be bothering the child and he uses the school situation as an outlet for his upset. Parents faced with the problem might ask themselves if they have been too overprotective or too indulgent . . . if they have inadvertently shown a preference for a brother or sister or has recognized the needs of the malingerer."

We need to realize that these symptoms are not just "made up" but arise from the child's fear or anxiety. Together, teacher and parent should try to determine just what is producing anxiety. For while we should firmly, though kindly, insist that the child go to school, it is most important that we try to eliminate whatever brings on the Monday-morning illness.

Capitol Dispatch

by David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Unlike the treatment he gave scores of his fellow countrymen whom he ordered executed without fair trials, Fidel Castro is being given a chance to face his accusers in the United States.

For Cuba's dictator is himself on trial now in the court of public opinion in this country. He has an opportunity in the next few days to make speeches before press organizations here and in New York and before some college audiences as well. He can reply to the charges made against him in the news dispatches of recent weeks telling of the perfunctory trials and his application of the death penalty in more than 500 cases.

But the major indictment against Fidel Castro is that he has done irreparable harm to the prestige of the government of Cuba in this hemisphere and throughout the world. Americans used to feel that they could go to Cuba without fear and with a feeling that this next-door neighbor to the United States was a friendly one. Today there are confirmed reports about Communist infiltraton in Cuba. In fact, there are plenty of comments by Fidel Castro himself showing contempt for the United States and for Americans in general. These are unlike the utterances of any man who has previously headed the Cuban Government in the more than 60 years of its existence as an independent country.

The Cuban leader keeps arguing that the dictator who preceded him was guilty of many crimes and sins against the Cuban people. But Anglo-Saxon principles of common law have for centuries set forth the truth that two wrongs do not make a single right and that even the worst criminal is entitled to a fair trial.

Fidel Castro is reported to be planning to ask the United States Government for financial aid. This is surprising in view of his hostile comments about the United States. It reveals an amazing unfamiliarity with the reaction in this country to what has happened in the last few months in Cuba.

The Washington Government has had to deal with dictatorships in Latin America for many years, and it tries to steer away from any intervention in internal affairs. This course is criticized at times by those who have big investments in a particular country and who usually come forth with the suggestion that America deal with the existing government and let the question of democracy or dictatorship be handled by the citizens themselves.

But the moral force of the United States is being exerted today on the side of decency and freedom for the people of every country. When Deputy Premier Mikoyan came here from the Soviet Union not long ago, it was not widely publicized in advance that he was largely responsible for the murder of many Hungarian citizens. When the people in America did get the facts, there were many emphatic expressions of disapproval.

Fidel Castro comes to visit the United States under somewhat different circumstances than did Mikoyan. The American people have been fully advised that the Castro idea of justice is to place before a firing squad anyone he pleases who had sided with the predecessor government. Certainly, the Batista government, which had been formally recognized as the ruling regime, may have carried on a vendetta against its enemies, but whatever happened was carefully hidden from view. Unfortunately for Fidel Castro perhaps, the stories of the 500 or more executions of Cubans have been widely printed. The American people know what happened. Had they been told about Batista's misdeeds at the time, they would have felt the same shock. But it is no excuse to say that Castro is justified now in ignoring the simple principles of justice just because Batista was a tyrant, too.

The United States Government, since the days of President Wilson, has endeavored to discourage military revolutions as a means of changing administrations in the countries of Latin America. Back in 1913, the United States refused to recognize a government in Mexico headed by General Huerta because he rose to power by assassination of President Madero. This policy of non-recognition was subsequently modified as revolutions increased in Latin American countries. Indeed it was argued that a revolution to upset a dictator and to bring a Democratic form of government was to be condoned as a necessary step and that recognition should not be withheld from such a regime.

It would be much better, however, if in all cases of revolution only "de facto" recognition were given to new governments and if "de jure" or lawful recognition were accorded later only when an election had been held that was universally accepted as a reflection of the true will of the people uninhibited by any form of coercion of the voters. In recent years, expediency has seemed to get the upper hand. Fidel Castro's behavior, therefore, may bring about a restoration of the moral principles to which the Department of State used to be dedicated a few decades ago.

K.O. Declarer
With Uppercut

It's hard to see how South can be defeated at his fine game contract. The trumps break normally, and he should lose only two spades and a diamond. However, good defense will floor him.

Opening lead — ♠ K

When this hand was played recently in the annual Intercollegiate Bridge Championships, many players got to the fine game in hearts. In a few cases, the West player found the best line of defense.

West leads the king of spades and continues with the queen. Then he should lead a low spade!

The idea is to force East to ruff. East should have the wit to understand that his ten of hearts is going to be pickled sooner or later, and that he may be able to do some good by ruffing high rather than low.

When East ruffs the third spade with the ten of hearts, South's game goes out of the window. He must over-ruff, and then West has sure trump trick with his jack of hearts.

One Last Try

South can make one last try for his contract. He should realize what West has in mind and should therefore lead West for J-x-x of hearts. South should over-ruff the ten of hearts with the ace and should lead a low heart casually towards dummy.

An alert West must play the eight of hearts to force out dummy's queen. But if West carelessly plays the four of hearts, declarer finesses dummy's seven and steals the game right back.

This didn't happen very often in the 176 participating colleges. Once or twice, however, East ruffed with the deuce instead of the ten of hearts, allowing South to make the game despite West's excellent defense.

Daily Question

Partner bids one heart in third position, and the next player passes. You hold: Spades J 9 4 2 Hearts Q 7 5 Diamond K J 10 3 Clubs A 3. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two notrump. In standard bidding, this shows about 11 or 12 points — just short of an opening bid. This kind of bid is somewhat dangerous, because your partner may have a shaded opening bid in third position. This is one of the weaknesses of standard bidding.

Child Centers OK'd For $1,105,700 Aid

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Superintendent of Public Instruction Roy E. Simpson has announced certification of $1,105,700 for support of child care centers during the last three months of the current school year.

A total of $4,688,365 was apportioned by the legislature to maintain the centers during this school year. A balance of $105,165 remains and will be used for the final apportionment.

Child care centers school districts to serve the 28,000 children of parents working or who are undertaking veterans training or fulfilling an essential job.

The program, first authorized by the legislature in 1946, is financed by parent fees, state funds and some district support.

The National Education Association says at least 1,200 pupils and 40 teachers are needed to support the services a modern school should provide.

Elusive Average Man Sought by Business

NEW YORK (UPI) — The so-called "average American consumer" is getting harder to define and manufacturers may have to probe his environment and the social and personal forces which direct his life, goals and ambitions, a marketing study points out.

Now that a day laborer can earn as much as a professional, income group breakdowns — once an accurate index — do not necessarily indicate what type of furniture, appliances or rugs will be bought, it was noted.

Ray Vines "THE WIZARD OF AUTOCREDIT" says:

"DON'T FALL FOR THE PHRASES THE BARGAIN BOYS STRESS . . . YOU GET WHAT YOU PAY FOR— NO MORE, OFTEN LESS!"

HERE'S A PAIR OF MISLEADERS:

Normal Down Payment
So called "normal" down payment usually amounts to one-third or more of the total purchase price. That's why the advertised payments are so low.

NO DOWN PAYMENT
Most dealers send the customer to one loan company to borrow the down payment, then sell the contract on the unpaid balance to a different finance company. (Also called 100% financing.) This calls for a payment to each company each month!

USE THIS SENSIBLE, LOW INTEREST WAY TO BUY A CAR . . . MY POPULAR, EXCLUSIVE

EXAMPLES

CAR PRICE	CASH OR TRADE	MONTHLY PAYMENT
$1784	$178	$53.97
1884	184	57.13
2240	224	67.76
2492	249	75.38

TIME 10 36 PLAN

10% Cash, Trade or Equity delivers . . . 36 months on the balance. ★ NO SIDE LOANS! ★ NO CO-SIGNERS! ★ NO WAITING . . . DELIVERY NOW! Always everybody can buy a new car under this plan.

YOU CAN BUY HERE AND GET DELIVERY TODAY

1. Even if you don't have the 10% but expect money from a tax refund or other source in the near future.
2. Even if you owe more on your present car than it's worth.
3. Even if you've no past credit or if you've been refused credit elsewhere.

IF . . . you need and want a car and talk and act like a sincere person who intends to pay for it!

Anaheim Builder Heads Drive in San Diego

George M. Holstein III, head of George M. Holstein and Sons, one of Anaheim's largest home builders, was named building fund chairman for the current Hillside Hospital Expansion in San Diego.

Holstein who is building the vast Lama Palisades development in San Diego, will direct the campaign in that city to secure funds for the hospital building program with more than $250,000 the goal.

The Holstein organization has been building homes in the Anaheim area since shortly after the war and is currently selling the Lincoln Park Mutual Homes on Euclid and the Anawood development on Euclid in the West Anaheim area. In all the Holstein organization has built more than 1,000 homes in Anaheim.

Mechanical equipment has been developed which is strong enough to pick up and carry a tree weighing as much as 40 tons, according to the Davey Tree Expert Co.,

NEW RESTAURANT — "Feed the Family" has been the motto of Art Burke and Frances Phelps — and they have been doing this successfully for more than 30 years. They operate the famous Hollandaese Restaurants in Downey and Bellflower. Pictured above is the latest addition to their restaurants — the Hollandaese House, fashioned after a Stagecoach Stopover eating place, once familiar to the passengers of the Wells Fargo Stagecoach Lines. This is now under construction at Ball and Brookhurst in Anaheim — one of several shops that will soon open in the Corral Shopping Center. The Hollandaese House will serve breakfast, luncheon and dinner, and will feature "Chuckwagon Brunches" on Saturdays and Sundays. A plus which is unusual enough to make it outstanding is the "Cowpokes Room" where little ones can amuse themselves with games and various riding contraptions while Mom and Dad enjoy that final cup of coffee.

Research Studies Show $73 Billion Building Market Forecast in 1959

Private and public building and remodeling — modernization will total $73 billion in 1959, according to research studies by Building Supply News — leading building industry dealer publication. Legislative action, population increases and mobility, increased employment, income and plant expenditures, BSN's editors point out, are economic indicators that add up to continued increases in the building industry.

Gross estimate forecasts for 1959: Private building total, $35.7 billion; public building total, $16.8 billion; remodeling - modernization $20.5 billion.

Forecasts show an overall building market gain of 6 per cent, a residential market gain of 5.5 per cent, non-residential gain of 1.1 per cent, and a remodeling-modernization gain of 10 per cent. The East North Central states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin will lead the nation in remodeling-modernization with $4.-89 billion. Indications are that the Pacific states of Washington, Oregon and California will show the greatest number of housing starts in 1959 with 264,800.

Much of the credit for industry gains in these areas is attributed, by building industry leaders, to home-selling campaigns that inform people of the values gained by buying now. "Smart people build or buy BEFORE a boom!" a concept presented to the building industry by the editors of Building Supply News, is universally heralded by state home building associations as a generating force behind the movement of homes.

California Tabbed For Housing Growth Leader

An estimated 19.7 per cent of all housing starts in the country will be in California during 1959. A recent study by the research department of Practical Builder—the industry's largest builder publication—pointed to California as the growth leader, with 237,000 anticipated housing starts. Second place is expected to be Florida, followed closely by New York, Texas, Illinois and Ohio.

Notable leader in construction activity, PB's study pointed out, is housing with a 1958 increase of 6 per cent in dollar volume and nearly 15 per cent in starts. The rate of housing starts in the last half of 1958—approximately 650,000 units — established the high point in recent housing market trends. This period was the strongest and most vigorous last-half since 1950 . . . 25 per cent of the same period in 1957.

Private and public building is expected to account for $52.5 billion of the anticipated $73 billion building market in 1959 — remodeling-modernization will account for the remaining $20.5 billion.

While brightening economic factors make 1959 prospects favorable, industry leaders are quick to give credit to the builders themselves for their active participation in merchandising the values to be gained by buying a home now. From Alaska to Florida, from Maine to California, builders are adopting the "Smart people build or buy before a boom!" campaign, presented to the industry by Practical Builder magazine. Based on current extensive industry use of this campaign, it is authorities' estimate that "Smart People" posters will be viewed daily by more than 45,000,000 people in 1959.

English Use Special Term for Heating

It's called baseboard heating in the United States, but the English call it "skirting."

In some respects the English term is more accurately descriptive than the American name, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out.

A properly installed baseboard heating system "skirts" the outer walls of a room, the Bureau explains. In fact, one of the chief advantages of baseboard heating is due to its strategic location around the perimeter of the room where it delivers the heat where the cold comes in.

If you are discussing heating systems with an Englishman and he starts talking about his "accelerator," don't think he has suddenly changed the subject to automobiles.

In England, the accelerator is the pump or circulator which forces the hot water from the boiler to the heat distributors in a hydronic heating system.

Another difference between the American and the English hydronic heating system is the use of towel warmers as part of the heating system in England.

Towel warmers are installed in English bathrooms. Hot water from the boiler is circulated through them for the purpose of warming towels. Because English rooms normally have a lower temperature than American rooms, towel warmers are regarded as necessary in Merrie Old England.

The first workmen's compensation act in America was passed in Maryland in 1902. But it was declared unconstitutional in 1904.

SMALL TALK in the PATIO by ROY L. KIRK

Hi Gardeners!. How does your garden grow? Without much rain, things are sure drying out. Watering is a very important procedure in the growing of plants in California. A few tips are: don't sprinkle, water deep and keep a mulch on the soil to protect the suns rays from baking and drying out. Water early in the a.m. if possible. Don't keep soil soggy wet. Watering in the evening is o.k. but don't put plants to bed wet. They like to be dry at nite and besides this causes fungus on many plants.

Plant Zinnias, Asters, Petunias, Marigolds, Begonias, dwarf Dahlias, and many others, now for summer and fall bloom and color. Remember, plant early! Don't wait till you see them in bloom somewhere else then want to plant for your color. Many calls have been asking, why are my Hibiscus dropping buds and flowers. This is because of the weather, warm days and cool nights. When the weather straightens out, your plants will be o.k. This same condition causes carfiations to split too.

Keep your spray guns working watch for bugs and fungus. Keep snail poison out.

Fertilize dichondra lawns at this time. Plant Roses, from cans and in bloom now.

See you next week,
Anaheim Garden Doc.
