SLAYERS OF L. A. POLICEMEN CAUGHT HERE?

LOCAL ANAHEIM MAN MAKES NEW CONFESSION OF MURDER OF GIRL

George Christian Now Admits That He Was Unaided in Slaying of Mystery Girl.

One of the two questions facing authorities seeking to solve the mystery of the New York murder on October 6 or 7 last of a girl known as Leona or Grace Mayfield of Los Angeles was wiped from the slate late yesterday afternoon.

"Who was she?"

"Where is James?"

James, named as an accomplice in the "confession" of George Christman, former Anaheim automobile mechanic, when the latter strangled to death the mystery girl in front of a West Fourteenth street rooming house in New York City, slipped into oblivion, as the result of a new confession.

In the latest revision of the circumstances made by Christman, who was lodged in the Los Angeles county jail for the theft of an automobile under the name of George St. Jean, Christman absolutely repudiated, according to deputy sheriffs, the accomplice in the crime.

Alone In Crime

Christman acknowledged, they said, that he and he alone strangled the girl and disposed of her body.

This confession, which was signed by Christman early last night, was taken in writing by Deputy Sheriffs Harry Wright and Steve Strong. They were assigned to the investigation of the case following revelations of yesterday morning, because they had previously arrested Christman on a grand larceny warrant.

That James actually exists and admitted to Christman in the new confession, the deputies said. But he had no part in the murder, they claim.

On the theory that Christman was describing himself in speaking of James, the two deputies swung to admission from him, they said, that they were correct in this belief.

He admitted, they said, that he himself was the counter man in a New York City dairy lunch; the man whom in his previous "confession" he had designated as James.

Cut Up Body

He went on to tell, they said, how, after strangling the girl, he took the body into a dingy room, cut it in two at the waist, and then methodically disposed of both parts of the body.

The torso and upper half of the body was that found by the laborer, Ignazio Castelluccio in the stagnant pool at Hawson street and Jackson avenue boulevard. Christman yesterday told the deputies he could not tell them the names of the streets.

The legs, the deputies said he told them, were placed in satchels and dropped into the Hudson river. These satchels, as far as New York police department records show, never were found.

Judge Cox Dismisses Charge Against Stocks

Because the complaining witness could not identify him as the man who passed a fictitious check, the charge against Reginald Stocks was dismissed when Stocks appeared before Justice J. B. Cox yesterday afternoon for his preliminary examination.

AUTO ASSOCIATION TO HOLD MEET HERE

The big "stunt" of the Orange County Automobile Trade Association will be pulled off at the Anaheim Union High School next Tuesday night. There will be a "feed" and "talkfest," according to announcements sent out today.

"Business is fine" will be the keynote of the occasion which is in the nature of a get-together meeting of the automobile employers and employes of the county.

According to Harry D. Riley, one of the live wires in the trade, it is expected that 200 guests will be in attendance. The banquet will be served by the members of the Ebell Club and the music will be furnished by the Fellinge orchestra, which is to be employed regularly at the new Elks club house.

The Orange County association is a county-wide organization for the purpose of promoting the interest of automobile dealers and automobile owners. There are fifteen members of the organization in Anaheim.

Speakers will deliver addresses at the banquet as follows:

J. M. Thompson, branch manager, Willys-Overland Pacific Co.

H. J. Bants, manager Weinstock Nichols & Co

M. E. Drum of San Francisco.

An interlocutory decree of separation was granted to Alma Irland from Clarence Irland of Huntington Beach. Irland was ordered to pay $45 a month for the support of the minor child of the couple who will be in the care of the mother.

Alice E. Cordes of Santa Ana was awarded a final decree of divorce from William A. Cordes.

RAMIREZ SENTENCED TO TERM IN PRISON

Because his past record was not good and showed that he had been in trouble before on several occasions, the petition of Jesus Ramirez for probation on the charge of grand larceny was denied and he was sentenced to from one to ten years in San Quentin today by Superior Judge R. Y. Williams.

Rameriz was charged with robbery, which was proved to be grand larceny following his capture after a chase which resulted when he snatched the purse of Mrs. Sarah Listner, of Anaheim, from her hand, Sunday morning, September 18.

Rameriz was found to have been in jail in Corona on several occasions and had been in Riverside County jail on various charges. He was said to have been a pool room loafer in Anaheim.

EBELL CLUB'S BAZAAR IS BIG SUCCESS; DANCE TONIGHT

Members of the Ebell Club are meeting with gratifying success with their bazaar, which is being held in the new Buick building on South Los Angeles street. Both financially and socially the results have been splendid, it is said.

The domestic science department is principally responsible for the bazaar. These members have been working for many months to prepare the articles that are being sold.

The bazaar will close tonight with a "jitney" dance. There will also be fortune telling, cards and plenty of entertainment. Many beautiful and useful articles will be sold at auction.

The proceeds of the bazaar will be added to the building fund of the club. The club has 200 members and is accomplishing a great many things for civic betterment.

Santa Ana Householder Says Charge Is Unjust

Indignant denial is made by G. M. Hartley of 701 South Ross street, Santa Ana, of the written accusation filed with the police that the family living at that number was in the habit of burning rubbish at unlawful hours. Mr. Hartley states that while it might have been true that rubbish was burned on one occasion at an unlawful period of the day, to charge that this was done at 701 South Ross street "nearly every night" is characterized by the householder as unjust.

The report which was quoted was made by a Santa Ana policeman.

BURCH MURDER CASE WILL REACH JURY NEXT WEEK

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—The case of first degree murder against Arthur C. Burch will be completed by the middle of the week, District Attorney Woolwine said here today.

The major structure of one of the most remarkable cases of circumstantial evidence ever pieced together in California courts is already complete.

The prosecution will call three or four more supplementary witnesses, Woolwine said—then rest its case.

With no superior court session today, both defense and prosecution were completing plans for the final few days that will mean freedom, the insane asylum or the scaffold for the minister's son and college honor man charged with the murder of John Belton Kennedy.

When Judge Sidney Reeve reconvenes court on Monday, the prosecution will launch an attempt to strengthen its last point against Burch—that of the disposition of the gun with which he is alleged to have slain young Kennedy.

Already the state has introduced evidence in behalf of the following points:

1. Burch came to Los Angeles at Madalynne Obenchain's request, bringing a shotgun.

2. He and Madalynne watched Kennedy from Burch's room in the Russell hotel.

3. He was hopelessly infatuated with Madalynne, while the latter had lost faith in her sweetheart, Kennedy.

4. He was at Beverly Glen two days before the murder, asking where Kennedy's cottage was located.

5. He was at the scene of the killing just before and just after it occurred.

6. Madalynne spoke to him after the shooting; later dropped a note warning him to be careful.

NEW TRIAL DENIED MAN IN DAMAGE SUIT AT SANTA ANA

Superior Judge R. Y. Williams today denied the motion for a new trial made by Attorney W. I. Gilbert for the defendant in the case of Blanche E. Newton against A. N. Cox. Insufficient evidence was given as the grounds for the motion for the new trial, and that the verdict was against the law, irregularities in the trial were unfair, the damages excessive and that witnesses changed their stories.

A twenty-day stay of execution was granted when the motion was denied. Damages in the case were fixed by a jury on November 3 in which Mrs. Newton was awarded $8000 and Mr. Newton was given $3112.60. Mrs. Newton had asked $15,000 and her husband $112.60.

The damages are the result of a collision of the Newton and Cox cars at the intersection of Grand avenues and Seventeeth street, Santa Ana.

ANAHEIM MAN LOSES COAT IN LOS ANGELES

This is not just the time of the year that a man likes to part with a $90 overcoat without some sort of consideration. And yet that is what Otto Lowenstein of the Sanitary Delicatessen did on his visit to Los Angeles yesterday.

Mr. Lowenstein parked his car at 219 West Second street, left his overcoat in the car. When he returned to the car five minutes later, the coat was gone. He offers a reward of $25 for the return of the coat.

POLICE DOUBT STORY OF SLAYING OF BANDIT

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 10.—After a futile all night search, officials of the state penitentiary, here today were inclined to doubt the story of J. C. Howard, convict, that he had killed Tom Slaughter, notorious bandit, who captured the jail and escaped with a half dozen prisoners early yesterday.

Posses hunted the woods where Howard claimed he killed the desperado late yesterday. No trace of Slaughter's body nor that of the negro convict, who Howard said fell beside Slaughter, was found.

Prison officials feared that Howard's tale is only another Slaughter trick.

Howard, with Jim Wells and Clifton Taylor, negro members of Slaughter's party, surrendered last night at the home of Steve Ferguson, a farmer, near Benton.

The two negroes corroborated Howard's story—that he shot Slaughter in the back and then fired two more shots into his body.

Put Nuts, Candy Orange, Trinkets in Stocking for Poor Boy or Girl

In answer to many inquiries regarding the Christmas stockings for boys and girls who are to be made happy on Christmas, inquiries that show an interest in the plan and which indicate that there are scores who wish to comply with the request, The Herald again briefly outlines the idea.

It is asked that all who feel they can afford to give a pair of stockings to some poor boy or girl this Christmas do so through the medium of this newspaper.

One of the stockings should be filled, just as Santa Claus would fill it. It should be a real Christmas stocking with nuts and perhaps an orange, maybe and trinkets dear to the heart of a child. There can be some little presents too, carefully wrapped, for half the joy after all, is in opening the package.

It rests with you what shall go into the stocking—the one which it will be a joy for you to fill. You perhaps have children. If so, then you know what to put in. It should be filled with the things which your children would like to have.

This newspaper will see that the stockings are distributed on Christmas where they will do the greatest good, to children who really need the stockings and who will glory and delight in the presents which are stuffed into one of the stockings.

You, no doubt, will welcome this opportunity to make some poor boy or girl happy on Christmas. It isn't much of a request to ask of you. You will, without doubt, have as great a joy in filling this stocking for some unknown child as in any gift you make this Christmas.

If you know a poor boy or girl who should have a pair of the stockings, send his or her name to The Herald, or tell the youngster to call Santa Claus at 650.

Many Temporay Homes are Being Builtin Anaheim

Building permits issued since the first of the month by the city engineer's office have been confined for the most part to small residences. Twenty-one permits were issued from December 1 to 15, to $16,300. Of this amount, $12,675 is for residences, $550 for garages, and $3075 for improvements.

Classed among the residences it is noted that a number of buildings will be used only temporarily for residence purposes, the idea being to erect buildings that will be used as garages when the permanent residences are constructed later. Six buildings of this character appear in the list and are estimated from $500 to $1700 each.

Kidnaper of Wife Is Released When Found With Bride

With all the happiness of their recent honeymoon restored and the couple living happily together in a house at Seal Beach, while offices sought for them throughout Southern California, the kidnaping charge against Hallis Plaskett, in which he is alleged to have abducted his wife against her will, was dropped today.

Plaskett was taken at Seal Beach last night by Undersheriff E. E. French on the warrant which had been issued on a complaint charging him with kidnaping his wife. The complaint was sworn to by the mother of Mrs. Plaskett, who apparently had not realized that the marital differences and the newlyweds had been settled before their disappearance.

Plaskett was held in the county jail over night, but was released this morning when he was arraigned before Justice J. B. Cox. His wife, who was alleged to have been abducted, was overjoyed to see him and was anxious to do all within her power to free him. The mother-in-law failed to appear and the case was dismissed by Justice Cox.

LUMBER PRICES JUMP HERE; WILL GO STILL HIGHER

There is a strong demand for lumber and building material in Anaheim and the tendancy of prices is upward, according to Henry M. Adams of the Adams-Bower LumberCompany who is a close student of the lumber market. Two advances have been announced this week on certain classes of lumber and other increases are expected to follow. The rise in price is caused, Mr. Adams says, by the demand, especially for clear material from foreign colntries, especially Japan, which have been receiving large shipments recently.

There has also been a revival of building activities in San Francisco and the northern part of the state, which has been lagging far behind Southern California in building operations.

The Adams-Bowers company received yesterday seven car loads of Oregon Pine which indicates that they are taking advantage of a rising market.

POLICE TIGHTEN NET OF EVIDENCE AROUND 2 MEN NOW IN S. A. JAIL

Detectives Are Working On Theory That Gun Found Here Was Used In Shooting Tuesday Night.

With the net of evidence linking them with the shooting of two Los Angeles policemen Tuesday night gradually tightening, detectives are working on the case of H. Harrison and Scott Douglas, taken Thursday afternoon on the boulevard near El Toro by County Motorcycle Officer O. K. Carr.

The gun found on Harrison was said to be the same kind as that used by Officer Brett, one of the murdered policemen. It is a T. and L. of .38 caliber. The shells used by Harrison were 32-20 models and could be used in this model gun.

The fact that the manufacturer's number had been filed off, obviously within a day or so of the time of the slaying of the officers, is also considered an important feature of the case. Two notches on the under side of the gun are thought possibly to have a bearing on the case.

Threatened Officer

Harrison, the man with the gun, was searched first when the two were stopped by Carr. He was later heard to remark that it was a good thing for the officer that he was searched first. From this it was inferred that Harrison would have had no compunction against using the gun on the Orange County officer if the opportunity had occurred.

Four detectives from the Los Angeles police department joined the two men last night and grilled them thoroughly, reviewing their actions for the two days previous. The prisoners were unable to give a good account of themselves and the detectives are looking up their records in an effort to determine whether they might have been involved in previous difficulties.

Cartridges Investigated

As a means of securing a further clue to the situation, an effort was being made to learn the type of cartridge used by Brett in his gun. If it is found that the 32-20 variety in the possession of Harrison was used it is expected a strong point will be made. The use of 32-20 shells in this model is not common. The shells are of a higher power than is usually used in revolvers and were originally intended for a rifle. Only a few loose shells were found in the possession of Harrison.

Neither man is able to give a clear account of why they happened to have the gun in their possession. They claim to have acquired it from a friend to whom they loaned money when it was given as security.

One Was Movie Actor

Harrison and Douglas claimed that they were on their way to San Diego where they were to be given jobs. Douglas stated that he had been a newsboy for a Los Angeles newspaper until a few days ago when he quit his job and started for San Diego. Harrison claimed to have been working as an extra in moving picture studios near Los Angeles.

The truth of the stories told by the prisoners, who are spending ninety days in the county jail on vagrancy and concealed weapon charges, will be investigated during that period.

There were a number of beautiful floral offerings and the funeral service was beautiful and impressive. Interment will be in the Fair Haven cemetery.

LA HABRA NEWS

Miss Margaret E. Livingston, county librarian, was the principal speaker at the Parent-Teachers association meeting. She urged on the mothers the necessity of a close supervision of their children's reading and told them that the free county library was at their disposal. She also recommended a number of volumes suitable for children. A committee was appointed by the president to take initial steps toward preparations for a show, to be put on by the organization. The committee is composed of Mrs. Terry, Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Brown. Fourteen new members were registered for the day.

The Women's Club held their regular Thursday meeting at the social hall with Mrs. Harold Peabody in charge of the program. The first of the meeting was taken up by the reports of committees. Mrs. W. Rhoades reported receipts of $40 from the sale of tickets for the "Old Nest." A report by district conventiondelegates, Mrs. J. L. West and Mrs. W. L. Rhodes, proved very interesting to the members that could not attend the convention. A piano duet by Mrs. H. Peabody, and Miss Myrtle Lutewiler, a reading by Pansy Robbins and a southern dialect story by Lillian Johnson followed by an address by Miss Anita Sheperdson of the Fullerton Union high school, made up the program. Miss Sheperdson's subject, "The Greater Task," was a very illuminating expression if the Effect of Environment of the home life on the average student. Miss Sheperdson showed where the parents might make the home life and the school standing better. She said that as a rule nothing but a "jazz baby" could come from a home that was filled with nothing but jazz music, flamboyant calenders for art, and a family that went every night to the movies. A point upon which she also touched was that there is too much in the modern high school child's life to distract its attention from school, such as many church affirs, soriety and school activities and the like, which take the child away from the home.

The home of G. W. Young on Erna street was sold to Roy Bawer of Santa Ana Tuesday. possession to be given soon.

Mrs. Etta Tower, president of the Woman's club, and Mrs. W. L. Rhodes were guests at the reciprocity day entertainment of the Whittier Woman's club Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Schallert of Appleton, Wis., are recent arrivals here. Mr. Schallert expects to go into gusiness soon.

A literary maq found himself in the company of a youth with whom he experienced some difficulty in finding a suitable topic of conversation. He tried books.

"Have you read anything good lately?" he asked.

"Indeed, what was it?"

"Well, I forgot the name."

"Who was the author?" hopefully.

"Well, what was it about?" desperately.

"Indeed, I've forgotten." Long pause—then, eagerly, "it had a red cover."

A sculling match was arranged between an Englishman and an Irishman. The Englishman won with ease, and at no time was he in danger of defeat. Moreover, in a spirit of fun and bravado, he stopped two or three times in his course, bidding the Irishman in his rear to hurry up. After the race the Irishman came in for a good deal of chaff in view of the overwhelming defeat he had suffered. But he merely shrugged his shoulders. "Faith," he said, "if I had had the long oests that he took, I could have beaten him easily."

Fordson TRACTOR

*625[00]
F.O.B. Detroit

"Henry Ford Was Right When He Said:

'The Tractor will enable the farmer to work fewer hours in the day, giving him more time to enjoy life. I believe the tractor will make farming what it ought to be —the most pleasant, the most healthful, the most profitable business on earth'.''

This tractor has done much—very much—in bringing true Mr. Ford's prophecy; for in it is a machine which has harnessed one of the most dependable, efficient, adaptable, economical sources of power in the world—a machine that saves from thirty to fifty per cent of the farmer's time — a machine which many farmers claim plows, harrows or drills as much ground in the same time as four, six or even eight horses. And more —a machine that takes care of every power job on the farm.

Call and let's talk it over, or telephone or drop us a card and we will bring the facts to you.

Bovine Tuberculous Yields to Active Testing Campaign

For many years after the agitation regarding bovine tuberculosis began, there were very few people who entertaind the hope that it would ultimately be eradicated. Now, after many years of effort, first unsuccessful but now giving great promise of success, there are many who firmly believe that the time is coming when this scourge of live stock will be conquered.

Tuberculosis May Be Banished

This change of attitude has been brought about largely through the efforts of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Repartment of Agriculture, co-operating with the various state officials, which have been so successful that within a period of four years, during which the work has been directed toward ultimate elimination, several thousand herds have been accredited as being free from the disease and a number of sizable areas in different state contain practically no tuberculous cattle. These results have demonstrated conclusively that if sufficient funds are made available, this menace to human health and to the success of live-stock farming may be done away with in a practical manner.

Tuberculosis of cattle is one of the few farm problems that appeals with almost equal force to city people, for the healthfulness of milk and meat is of vital importance to them. This fact ought to make it easier to get the support necessary for putting through such a country-wide program against the disease. The cattle resources of the country are of the utmost importance, and measures to reduce the risk of loss represent nothing more than common sense.

Insurance Feature Appeals

There are more than 66,000,000 head of cattle in the country worth nearly $3,000,000,000. Aside from the health aspect of the problem, the insuring of this vast amount of wealth against loss ought to appeal to all classes of people as a necessary measure for the good of the nation.

At the present time various states and federal agencies are testing about 150,000 cattle a month and eliminating those that are found to be tuberculous, but it is expected that in the near future probably 1,000,000 head will be tested monthly by the combined forces. On that basis it is easy to see that great progress will be made toward getting rid of the plague, for the evidence obtained shows that the methods now in use are practical. When the campaign began most of the stress was laid on cleaning up individual herds, and this was the only practical thing to do as not enough sentiment had been aroused to make it possible to get general support for a campaign in any locality. But the advantage gained by cattle breeders who were able to advertise tuberculosis-free herds was so great that skeptics were convinced, and now many localities have taken up the problem and are rapidly cleaning up all herds within teir boundaries. In fact, at the present time this method of cleaning up circumscribed areas is the predominant one.

Nine counties in the United States have now completed one or more official tuberculosis tests of the cattle within those areas, and about 50 counties are now either engaged in this work or are getting ready to take it up. In some of the counties the supervisors appropriate funds to employ inspectors who help the state and federal officials. In others the farm bureaus have taken the job in hand.

Hillsdale County a Model

One of the best examples of what a county can do in getting rid of this destructive disease is found in Hillsdale county, Michigan. On October 24 a campaign was launched with the idea of cleaning out all the diseased cattle. A force of 30 county, state, and federal inspectors was organized. They divided up the territory, giving a part of a township to each man. The county farm bureau furnished automobiles tat were driven by the farmers who were leaders in the communities and had influence with the live-stock owners. By November 5 every herd in the county had been tested.

There were 2,339 herds, containing 15,773 cattle, and 375 reactors were found. This means that about 2.4 per cents of the cattle in the county had the disease—a rather low percentage. In sections where the disease is no more extensiv than this, the cost of clean-up is almost negligible when compared with the good that must ultimately come from it. In this county the farmers and breeders, and in fact all the people of the county, were enthusiastic, which helped a great deal toward getting the work done in such a short time.

Other Counties Become Interested

Some of the most progressive live-stock counties in various parts of the country are now taking up this problem of getting rid absolutely of tuberculosis. They have decided that it is the most feasible and practical way of carrying on the work. What was accomplished in Hillsdale County is being carried on at the present time in more than 20 other counties of the same state. Similar work is being done in New York, where 10 counties are engaged in area eradication.

Detailed information regarding plans for tuberculosis eradication may be obtained free from the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

W. J. Bryan's father once missed several large hams that had been hanging in his barn loft. He suspected that the thief did not live many miles away, but he made no direct charge against any one; in fact, he refrained from mentioning his loss to a single soul. A few days later his neighbor called. "Say, judge," said the man, "I heard you had some hams stolen the other night." "Yes," replied the judge very confidentially, "but don't tell any one. You and I are the only ones who know about it."

There was an amusing ending of a civil case tried in a Wyoming court. It was an appeal case, and on one side was a testy lawyer and on the other a number of inexperienced attorneys. The arguments on both sides had been heard and the case closed for judgment. Suddenly one of the inexperienced lawyers got up and addressyer stood it for a moment, but, losing ed the court once more. The testy lawpatience, he also arose and addressed the court in this wise: "Your honor, I would beg, with all respect, to point out to the court that my learned friend opposite is entirety out of order in addressing the court, and, if I may be permitted to say so, the court has no right to be listening to him." The court, who at that time was writing, put his head out in a belligerent way and said: "Mr. Smith, it is a great piece of impertinence on your part to assume that the court is listening to him."

There probably would be more woman inventors if they were anxious to discover new wrinkles.

SUCCESS

Don't say he's a failure—it 's not yours to say;
For just what he is much depends on the way
You reckon what's failure and what is success.
And we're all of us failures perhaps, more or less.
Now there's Thomas Lincoln—perhaps in his day
Some local appraiser found quick tongue to say:
"That's Abe Lincoln's daddy—aint had much success,
Might say he's a kind of a failure, I guess."

Yet, considering Abe and the work that he did,
We owe his dad something, if his light was hid
Down under a bushel, and it seems to me
That Abe was a mighty good-sized legacy
To a right needy world; and perhaps if you had
Been alive in the day of Columbus's dad,
Some smug social jurist had said, with grave stress:
"That's old man Columbus—he aint a success."

Yet Christopher did quite a job in his day,
And we owe his dad something I'm tempted to say.
So I'm not admitting that Abe Lincoln's dad
And old man Columbus were much to the bad.
You can't tell by looking on top of the row
In which hill the biggest potato will grow,
The vine that looks shriveled may grow the big spud,
And the big stalk have nothing but nubbins and mud.

And smooth little fellows with tight little wads
And snug little fortunes and smug little gods,
Have filled up the world for some ten thousand years,
Have smiled little smiles and have cried little tears.
They have made little piles and have breathed little breaths,
They have lived little lives and have died little deaths,
And have filled little graves and were straightway forgot—
And would you say they were successes or not?

The prizes were won by Thelma Lakeman of the girls' division, Hugh Kuyler of the boys', Mrs. J. C. Idlor from the mothers, and E. A. Davis from the fathers. A keen contest was then waged between the girls and boys clubs, the latter winning by three points. This was followed by the roll call of all the pupils from the four clubs. The twelve having the highest grade were chosen to appear on the recital program. They were Neva Fay Gerts, Frances Hels, William Newson, Ramona, Reona and Orena Bever, Marjorie Heusted, Pearl Fay, Cecil Harowitch, Howard West, Max Knox and Katherine Anna McCullah.

The Buster Boys' Glee Club sang two numbers which were enthusiastically received. Old Santa then appeared and delighted the hearts of old and young with his holiday gifts, apples and popcorn. A beautiful Christmas tree and festive decorations added to the evening's enjoyment.

Fashions for Americans

Ribbon Plays an Important Role in Present-Day Apparel

WOMEN are just beginning to realize the varied and attractive possibilities of ribbon as a dress fabric or dress trimming, and this season sees some lovely evening gowns in which gorgeous ribbons play an important part. The one shown in the sketch features a spangled bodice with long side panel of ribbon forming a train, the skirt being a dainty panelled affair of chiffon.

One of the advantages of using ribbon for panels, trains, etc., is that its edges are all finished, it supplies its own lining, usually, and it is really rather a time saver for the home dressmaker. Then, too, ribbons come in such lovely and unusual colorings and designs that very unusual gowns may be made from it.

Fur and fabric coat manufacturers find ribbon very desirable in dressing up the linings of these garments. Sometimes a coat will be lined with plain satin, crepe de Chine or other silk fabric, with a deep border of gorgeous brocaded ribbon finishing the bottom, front edges, and if flared sleeves are used the edges of the sleeve lining.

Handsome brocaded ribbons are also very effective in the development of vestees, waistcoats and other dress accessories.

A very smart and graceful dinner gown recently seen, in which ribbon played a part, was of American beauty chiffon cut with round neck, short sleeves and a straight skirt with cascade drapery at one side. Gold and black brocaded ribbon was used to form two front panels reaching from the skirt hem to the bust line, and a girdle of ribbon was caught about the waist and fastened at one side, two loops of the ribbon drooping over the cascade side drapery of chiffon.

GREATER NASH AUTO FORERUNNER OF 1922

Announcement is made by the Nash Motors Company of a new series of six-cylinder cars which in appearance, riding comfort and mechanical excellence eclipse anything that heretofore has borne the Nash nameplate. The announcement comes as a distinct and sensational surprise to the automobile industry. Introduction of this series at this time means that Nash is the first in its price-field with a new model for the 1922 season.

Leader of Dozen Years

Twelve years ago when C. W. Nash became identified with automobile manufacturing a new force came into the industry. The public is familiar with the record he has made and in the industry he is an outstanding figure. With the announcement of the greater Nash Six comes the crowning achievement of his career.

"Introduction of the new Nash series at this time means that a man can buy now, enjoy the use of his car all winter and insure against delayed delivery in the spring," said C. B. Voorhis, vice-president and general sales manager of the Nash Motors company. "The new and greater Nash Six beyond question meets the demand for increased value with a new standard of riding comfort, a vast development in performance and striking distinction in appearance.

Body Lines Beautiful

"New straight-line bodies and lower top distinguish the five and seven passenger touring models; the sedan body is lower and similar refinements in appearance have been added to the sport model, coupe and roadster. All cars are equipped with parking lights of attractive design and all have silvered outside door handles. The new spring suspension gives the Greater Nash Six riding qualities heretofore believed impossible of attainment.

"In the touring cars the unusually wide tilted front seat, the roomy forward compartment, the wide rear body is lower and simplier refinedilrs and large single window add and convenience."

Has New Spring Suspension

Two of the outstanding features of the new Nash 691 are its electrical equipment and its new and wonderful spring suspension. The adoption of the Delco Electrical equipment means thoroughly reliable ignition as well as certain and easy starting at all times.

The new Nash springs are revolutionary in contrast to former spring construction. They consist of 15 long thin leaves—a rebound leaf that actually does the work of shock absorbing, a master leaf and 13 thinner flexible leaves.

As a finishing touch to this new model the great Nash perfected valve-in-head motor has been refined to the highest degree, giving remarkable power, flexibility and ease of control.

Features of New Model

Briefly told the following features are also embodied in the greater Nash Six:

New and doubly powerful emergency brake on transmission.

Accurate gasoline gauge on dash.

Low front seat with unusually broad cushions.

Parking lights on cowl.

New curtains perfectly fitted.

Low tilted windshield.

Pocket in left front door for tools.

Those who have seen the greater Nash Six declare that its general acceptance as the outstanding motor car value today is beyind question.

The biggest potatoes of the year, weighing from two to five pounds each, were served on the Foch-American Legion Special en route from Minneapolis, Minn., to the Pacific coast. The "spuds" were so big that they required an hour and a half in the baking.

Selected by L. K. Owen, superintendent of dining cars on the Northern Pacific railroad, the biggest of the tubers was served Marshal Foch, whose amazement was evident.

Training allowances for sick and wounded ex-service men will not be reduced twenty per cent, according to C. R. Forbes, director of the Veterans Bureau, who has informed the American Legion that this move never has been considered.

Ninety per cent of the 100,000 disabled men now being trained receive $100 a month.

Jardiniere Falls From Window, Woman Is Hurt

LONG BEACH, Dec. 10.—A claim for damages on account of injuries caused by a peculiar combination of circumstances, has been settled here out of court. The claim was brought by Mrs. Lester Favire of this city against Dr. J. H. McKellar, a prominent eye specialist who conducts offices in Long Beach and Los Angeles.

It appears that on October 29, a jardiniere was standing on the window sill of the doctor's reception room, placed there by the janitor or the office secretary. A patient sat down on one of the chairs, pushed it back against the window sill and struck the jardiniere, which fell out of the window to the sidewalk five stories below, striking in its fall Mrs. Favire, who chanced to be passing at the time, a glancing blow on the arm. Fortunately no serious injury was caused.

Nine I. W. W. Sentenced On Sedition Charges

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—Sentence of from one to fourteen years was pronounced yesterday upon nine members of the I. W. W. organization accused of distributing revolutionary literature and promoting seditious movements in Southern California. Superior Judge Willis, in whose court the men were given trial, passed judgment. Those sentenced were William Baker, Ben Wittling, R. Bendig, Abraham Shocker, Edward R. Peters, Henry Matlin, James Olson, W. I. Fruit and Louis Allen. They will be taken to San Quentin the first part of next week, Sheriff William I. Traeger stated.

One day the telegraph clerk at the nearest civilized spot received a telegram from the negro foreman of the railway constructors:

"White boss dead. Shall I bury him."

"Yes," wired back the clerk. "But first make sure that he is quite dead. Will send another white boss tomorrow."

A few hours later another telegram came from the foreman: "Buried boss. Made sure he was dead. Hit him on the head with a shovel."

This Tells How To Clean Furs in Your Own Home

Furs may be cleaned by washing in gasoline or in suds made with castile soap and a little borax, followed by several rinsings in clear water. Is a helpful suggestion from the biological survey, United States department of agriculture. It is best to hang them out of doors to dry. When dry or nearly so, they require to be stretched and rubbed on the flesh side to make them pliable again.

Fur garments may be brightened by sponging them with gasoline and then rubbing corn meal into the fur while it is still damp to take up the particles of dirt that have been loosened. Gasoline should never be used, of course, where its fumes can come in contact with fire.

Another way of cleaning fur superficially is by means of naphthalene crystals thoroughly rubbed into it. The pulverized crystals and the dirt which has been dislodged may be removed by whipping, brushing with a whisk broom, or by a vacuum cleaner.

Italy's Deficit In Year Is 10,721,000,000 Lire

Rome, Dec. 10.—The minister of the treasury presented his financial statement in the chamber of deputies yesterday. For the financial year of 1920-21 the deficit amounted to 10,721,000,000 lire instead of the estimated 12,141,000. This was due to the fact that although expenditures increased, the revenue yield amounted to 18,071,000,000 lire instead of the estimated 10,806,000,000. The estimated deficit for the year 1921-22 is approximately five billion.

Studebaker Dealer

Makes an Important Announcement Concerning the Used Car Values

Popularity of This Make Having an Unprecedented Effect on Used Car Market.

The fact that Studebaker cars are now generally recognized by discriminating buyers as the best new car values on the market, enables the Studebaker dealer to collect as "trade ins" on new Studebaker cars, an excellent assortment of high-grade used cars. On account of this unprecedented Studebaker popularity, these high-grade cars were taken in at fair market values.

Studebaker dealers are in the new car business and make their profit selling new cars—not used cars; therefore all used cars traded in on new Studebakers are sold at actual cost.

If the used car buyer selects wisely and buys from a reliable dealer at a fair used car market price, he should be able to buy more real automobile value for a price from $500 to $900 than he could get in any new car at this low price.

Here are a few of these choice bargains; come in and look them over—we have many more from which you can choose.

1920 Studebaker Light Six Coupe

LEADER OF THE WORLD

"In the light of events of the last few weeks, I can no longer couple Great Britain and the United States as equals. I must confess the United States has taken the leadership of the world."

These are the words of Arthur J. Balfour. There is not a living Englishman from whose lips they might have come with greater significance. Balfour is typical of English pride. He has all the patriotism of his class. He is marked by hauteur that is a habit of that class, implying a belief in individual and national superiority. Such a tribute never could have been won from him as a courtesy. It embodies his beliefs. It was definite recognition of human circumstances as this generation has seen them wrought into new proportions and new relationships.

To be accorded first place among the nations of the earth is a proud distinction. It is a place hedged about with responsibilities of incalculable moment. Leadership wisely executed, may show the way to peace, prosperity would follow as a matter of course. With the world no longer engaged in war, nor harrassed by thought of war, nor burdened by the cost of preparation for war, its energies could be so turned to production and to culture and education, that the moral and mental complexion of the universe would be changed.

When one President sought to establish a League of Nations, it was a tactic recognition of the duty of leadership. When a later President called a conference to deal with the subject of disarmament, it repeated the recognition. The United States had not proclaimed itself leader, but there was an awareness that such was the position it had attained. The announcement had to come from other lands; now it has come.

Leadership is more than the mere fact of being rich, strong and resourceful. A nation might have these attributes, and still lack the quality of leadership; might seek to stand aloof, and have none to lead; a mere selfish aggregation of humanity.

The signs are that the United States will not waste the opportunity that, under providence, has honored its career. It is strong enough to lead, and it has the will to lead. It can afford to be just, to be generous.

Just now it considers an association of powers for purposes all benign. There are discordant voices raised to declare that it should drop all such effort, and look out for itself, letting the others drift; remain prepared to subdue them by force. Compliance with this demand would not be leadership, but shirking; the loss of opportunity, and in the end, failure.

THE MATTER OF TITLES

A freckled-faced American youngster never objects to being called kid. The chances are that in speaking of himself and his comrades he would say "us kids." Call that same lad a lamb, and there would be as large a riot as he could be capable of inciting.

One might have supposed that to be placed among the sheep rather than among the goats, would be construed as a compliment. Never by the small boy, however. Not that he wants to be anybody's goat either. The term "kid" he considers of quite sufficient dignity.

Recently a wife complained in court that her husband called her a cow. She protested against this perse. The offense was greatly emphasized by the fact that at the same time the husband was calling her cow, he was calling a woman, wholly outside the domestic circle, his kid. The latter woman appears not to have been displeased.

The questions that arise perhaps belong to the domain of psychology. Why should "kid" be acceptable and "lamb" taboo? It is safe to inform a favored one of the gentler sex that she is a kitten, but tell her that she is a cat, and be prepared to run. Perhaps the maturity implied by "cat" is what causes the trouble.

However, this could not explain the resentment at being called "cow," for "calf" doubtless would be equally unacceptable.

Anybody with nothing else to think about might think about this.

The Los Angeles Express is calling attention to the high rates prevailing in eating places. It shows for example that the profit on the humble squash is 2566 per cent. Chicken, the article on which there is a profit of only 220 per cent, has a lonesome record. The patron who eats tomatoes is settling on the basis of 2400 per cent profit to the house; lettuce, 1100; potatoes 1566 per cent. Consumers were aware that they were being "touched," but the magnitude of the touch will surprise them.

Between Ourselves

By Della M. Stewart

An odd story is going the rounds of the press concerning the New Jersey woman who felt that her husband, because of his constant fault finding, no longer loved her, and determined to rid him of her presence. Leaving her once happy home, she left a note telling him of her decision and ended the note with a woman's postscript: "You will find your soup in the oven."

She hadn't ceased to care for his stomach's welfare. It wasn't the work that caused her to leave. At the very last, with spirit crying out for a readjustment of life, she had thought of material comfort for him. Of course this probably was just the result of habit, but what did the habit indicate? Effort to do her share, kindness of thought, fair dealings. Just where did the break between this and endurance come?

Foolish to try to fathom? Maybe. But so many domestic difficulties hinge on such small things. Don't they? So many more domestic battles are fought concerning the little failings of one or the other, the little readjustments of family machinery. What is it that makes living together possible or impossible for a couple? Of course there are major causes at times. But how often it is that minor incidents stretch patience to the breaking point!

It seems tragic for two human souls to quarrel because the coffee isn't to the liking, or because John will leave his cigar ashes on the library table, or because Mary fidgets while the evening paper is being read. Out of such infinitesimal causes grow the rifts in harmony that shatter the sweetest of dreams.

Why not "remember the soup" instead?

The wife of a Scotch farmer had a tongue that cut like a knife. One day the minister passed the farmstead and noticed the farmer standing calmly in midst of a heavy downpour of rain.

"Why on earth don't you get indoors?" he queried.

"Oh, sir, it's all richt," replied the farmer; "I'm sheltering frae the storm. Man, I tell ye it's naething outside tae what it is inside."

The mother was sitting on a park seat. Her small son began an argument with another youth.

"Who're yer punchin' of?" he demanded truculently.

"Tommy," said the shocked parent. "Your grammar! You should have said, 'Of whom are you punching?'"

We read that passage to a bank clerk the other morning.

"Aw cut that dialect stuff and get down to English," he said.

"Don't you know Chaucer?" we demanded.

"Say," he replied, "D'y'a think I know every guy who has an account here?"

CHATTERER LISTENS TO THE SMALL VOICE

THE very first of the little meadow and forest people to see Chatterer the Red Squirrel after he had safely reached the Old Orchard was Tommy Tit the Chickadee. It just happened that Tommy was very busy in the very apple tree in which was the old home of Drummer the Woodpecker when Chatterer reached it. You know, Chatterer had moved into it for the winter just a little while before he had been caught in the corn crib by Farmer Brown's boy.

Yes, sir, Tommy was very busy indeed. He was so busy that sharp as his bright little eyes are he had not seen Chatterer racing along the snow-covered old stone wall. It wasn't until he heard Chatterer's claws on the trunk of the apple tree that Tommy saw him at all. Then he was so surprised that he lost his balance and almost turned a somersault in the air before he caught another twig. You see, he knew all about Chatterer and how he had been kept a prisoner by Farmer Brown's boy.

"Why! Why-ee! Is this really you, Chatterer?" he exclaimed. "How ever did you get out of your prison? I'm glad, ever and ever so glad that you got away."

Chatterer flirted his tail in the saucy way he has, and his eyes twinkled. Here was just the best chance ever to boast and brag. He could tell Tommy Tit how smart he had been—smart enough to get away from Farmer Brown's boy. Tommy Tit would tell the other little people, and then everybody would think him just as smart as Uncle Billy Possum, and you know Uncle Billy really was smart enough to get away from Farmer Brown's boy after being caught. Everybody knew that Chatterer had been a prisoner, and now that he was free everybody would believe whatever he told them about how he got away. Was there ever such a chance to make his friends and neighbors say, "What a smart fellow he is"

"I—I——" Chatterer stopped. Then he began again. "You see, it was this way; I——" Somehow Chatterer couldn't say what he had meant to say. It seemed as if Tommy Tit's bright merry eyes were looking right into his head and heart and could see his very thoughts. Of course they couldn't. The truth, that little small voice inside, which Chatterer had so often refused to listen to when he was tempted to do wrong, was talking again. It was saying: "For shame, Chatterer! Tell the truth. Tell the truth." It was that little small voice that made Chatterer hesitate and stop.

"You don't mean to say that you were smart enough to fool Farmer Brown's Boy and get out of that stout little prison he made for you, do you?" asked Tommy Tit.

"No," replied Chatterer almost before he thought. "No, I didn't. The fact is, Tommy Tit, he left the door open purposely. He let me go. Farmer Brown's Boy isn't half so bad as some people think."

"Dee, dee, dee," laughed Tommy Tit. "I've been telling a lot of you fellows that for a long time, but none of you would believe me. Now I guess you know it. Why, I'm not the least bit afraid of Farmer Brown's Boy—not the least little bit in the world. In the little forest and meadow people would only trust him instead of running away from him, he would be the very best friend we have."

"Perhaps so," replied Chatterer, doubtfully. He was very good to me while I was in prison and—and I'm not so very much afraid of him now. Just the same, I don't mean to let him get hands on me again."

"Pooh-" said Tommy Tit. "Pooh-I'd just as soon eat out of his hand." "That's all very well for you to say when you are flying around free, but I don't believe you dare go up to his house and prove it," retorted Chatterer.

"Can't now," replied Tommy. "I've got too much to do for him right now, but some day I'll show you. Dee, dee, dee, chickadee! I'm wasting my time talking when there is such a lot to be done. You didn't know that Farmer Brown's Boy and I are partners, did you?"

A young golfer, a hopeless novice, possessed good intentions. His first job after joining a golf club was not to study the game, but to study the club rules. He was a stickler for obedience.

He went round the course alone at first, having no desire to worry his friends with his bad play. When at last he saw him returning they were surprised to find that he was wheeling a big wheelbarrow.

"What on earth have you got there?" they asked.

"Turf," replied the novice. "I'm going to replace it."

CULTURAL BACKGROUNDBANK CLERKS AND THE

A bank clerk should never, no never, be rough—
He should hold to good manners quite tightly;
When a stranger requests some hard cash, don't be gruff;
Always say, "Help yourself," politely.

• • •

The demand of the hour in the bank clerk market is for clerks who are cultured. The day of the tart, curt, and even snippy clerk is at an end. So sayeth the vice-president of one of the country's largest banking institutions, sounding the need of a cultural background as a part of every bank clerk's equipment.

• • •

Which is as it should be. Bank clerks are notoriously rude. It is hard enough for a man to go into a bank where he has no money and ask for some without being refused gruffly. Most of us have reached the point where we don't mind being turned down, but we do object to the lack of courtesy.

"Will you please cash my check for $100, my dear sir?" the applicant should ask.

"May I, without offense, inquire if you have any money here, sir?" the courteous clerk should reply.

"It pains me to say, thank you, that I haven't a nickel in this or any other bank," the applicant should reply.

"I'm awfully sorry, sir," the clerk should answer (if he has any cultural background at all), "and it grieves me great pain to be unable to accommodate you, but the fact is, my dear sir, in the words of Keats: 'He who asks for funds without a quid, asketh a thing that can't be did.'"

"I thank you just the same and bid you, if I may, a polite and affectionate good day," the applicant should reply.

"Don't mention it," the Cultural Background should return, "and I assure you that if at any time you should deposit any money in this bank I will be very pleased to honor your check for any part of it. Remember me to all the folks. And I hope I have not offended you."

"Not at all. As a matter of fact, having no funds here I felt I wouldn't get any from you . . . my idea was to see if you had a cultural background. S'long."

• • •

It is the claim of the bank officials who sound the new demand that bank clerks should study the works of the old English masters.

"They should read every morning a passage from Chaucer's 'Canterbury Tales,'" the official says. "If they would read such a passage as 'When that Aprille with his shoures soot the drought of March hath perced to the roote' they could not fail to sense the beauty of language."

Have a Smile

A man went to order a wedding cake the other day.

"I'm getting married," he said to the girl in the bakery, "and I want a cake."

"Well, it's the latest thing!" said the girl, "to have wedding cakes in harmony with the bridegroom's calling or profession. Thus, a musician has an oat cake, an athlete a cup cake, a man who borrows money from his friends a sponge cake, and so forth, and so on. What is your calling, please?"

"I'm a pianist " answered the happy young man.

"Then, of course," said the girl, "you'll want a pound cake!"

"O, I'm in such a perspiration!" cried a high school girl as she fanned herself with her tennis racquet.

"Miss Frankland," rebuked the austere head mistress. "I hope I shall never again hear such an expression. Kindly remember that oxen sweat, men perspire, but young ladies glow."

The less religion a man has the more he thinks his wife ought to have.
