It is said that in a multitude of counsel there is wisdom, and in the hope that we may be of some benefit to the farmers of this State and add something to the prosperity of the whole country we venture to suggest a plan by which the farmers can check the concentration of capital in the cities and retain it in the country for the general development of our industries and resources. First—we would suggest that in each of the agricultural counties of the State the farmers unite together and establish

A FARMERS' CO-OPERATIVE BANK.
With a capital stock of from $10,000 to $50,000 all the stock to be subscribed by the farmers themselves, in sums of $100 and upwards, according to ability. There are but few farmers who cannot spare $100 in a cause like this, and if the average of subscriptions should be $200 it will only require 500 farmers to become stockholders, to give the bank a capital of $100,000 while 1,000 subscribers will increase that sum to $200,000, and this will make a very respectable amount for a country bank.
This bank should be made the general bank of deposit for all the farmers of the county, and these deposits it is reasonable to estimate would average $200,000, which would give the bank a working capital of $400,000. These banks should pay to their depositors a small interest on deposits for say 30 days or more, and being owned by the farmers themselves, will be controlled in their own interests and in the interest of the county. Under the same control and connected with the bank should be erected a warehouse, to be used as a receiving, shipping and distributing house.

In addition to the ordinary banking business, such as deposits, loaning money to the farmers, mechanics and manufacturers, and drawing checks, etc., a bank so organized and prepared with such facilities should be made the commercial agent and commission house of the farmers of the county for the purchase of seeds, agricultural implements and machines, and pay

Practical Suggestions.

FARMERS' BANKS AND WAREHOUSES.

In a late number of the Record we reviewed the causes which have of late years, in all countries been operating to bring population and business and wealth from the country and concentrate them in the cities. We now propose to call attention to a movement, which, if properly and judiciously managed, may be made the medium by which this depopulation of the agricultural districts, and the overcrowding of the cities may be checked, and the natural equilibrium of business and property and capital be restored.

We refer to the great movement of the farmers—the organization of the Farmers of Husbandry, and the concentration of their business into the hands of monetary and commercial agencies. As intimated in our former article, one of the principal reasons why so many young people become tired of country life is the want of social recreation and enjoyment in the country. Farmers devote themselves too closely to hard labor from early morning to late in the evening, day in and day out, from one end of the year to the other. They do not take time enough from their physical labors to allow themselves to consider property, even whether the labor they are doing, or the manner in which they are doing it, will bring gain or loss to their estates. They have formed a habit of plodding thoughtlessly through the year, and allowing those who work less with their hands and exercise their social and intellectual natures more, to reap too great a share of the profits of their labor. One of the chief objects of the Order of the Patrons of Husbandry is to correct this habit—to call the farmers, their wives and families at stated times away from their everlasting work, work, work, and induce them for a short period to forget care and trouble, and in a friendly and social manner to meet with brothers, sisters and friends, and in the kind spirit of emulation and improvement interchange views and experiences in that pursuit in which all are interested. With proper management and a little forethought the Grange may be rendered a place of pleasant resort to both old and young, and may be so conducted as to throw around the different rural occupations all those real attractions of which the greatest of poets in all ages have sung. By comparison of notes as to the best modes of performing the various operations of the farm; the best varieties of grain to be sown; the best time and the best manner of plowing and sowing; the various operations of the orchard and vineyard; the kinds of fruit and the best modes of cultivation; the different breeds of stock and their several advantages—all these are subjects of great interest to all engaged in agricultural pursuits, and they and kindred subjects may be discussed and illustrated in the Granges and be rendered of great benefit to all. From these Granges may turn their attention to other subjects more immediately bearing upon the relations of the farmers with other pursuits and the whole scope of the causes which operate against the country and in favor of the city may be considered in detail.

A SUGGESTION.

It is said that in a multitude of counsel
in each of the agricultural counties of the
tablish

With a capital stock of from $10,000 to $50,000 all the stock to be subscribed by
the farmers themselves, in sums of $100
and upwards, according to ability. There
in a cause like this, and if the average of
require 500 farmers to become stockholders,
to give the bank a capital of $100,000
while 1,000 subscribers will increase that
respectable amount for a country bank.
would give the bank a working capital of $400,000. These banks should pay to their
depositors a small interest on deposits
controlled in their own interests and in the
receiving, shipping and distributing house.

ness, such as deposits, loaning money to
the farmers, mechanics and manufacturers,

and all other necessities that may be required through it, in quantity or wholesale, and thus through this medium, and the business of the farmers may be done direct with manufacturers and wholesale dealers, and the profits that now go to the retail middlemen would thus be saved to the farmers themselves. For what commissions the bank may be authorized to charge will go to the stockholders and farmers themselves—in the shape of dividends.

CENTRAL BANK.
The several county banks being established we would suggest the establishment at San Francisco of a central farmers' bank, of from $500,000 to $1,000,000, a larger proportion of to be owned and controlled by the county banks and the balance by the farmers of the entire state in small shares for the transaction of all business of the State, such as drawing bills of exchange on the Atlantic States and other countries, importing seeds, agricultural implements, etc., and for shipping products. This central bank should be the commercial agent of all the county banks, and should receive, aggregate and execute their orders the same as the banks receive, aggregate and deliver to the central bank; the orders of individual farmers.

LOCAL WAREHOUSES.
In connection with the local banks, each county and under the same management and management we would suggest the building of warehouses they may be found necessary for the storage of grain in bulk or in sacks, and points as will best accommodate the business of the county. Whenever possible these to be on navigable waters, in connection with the central bank, the building of general warehouses, and points on deep water as will best moderate the different sections of the State.

ADVANTAGES.
From such a system of co-operation banking and warehousing the following prominent benefits, among others, may be secured to the farmers:

1st. The purchase of seeds for wheat, potatoes, cabbage, and all other agricultural products handled in sacks first cost necessarily brought down, and consumers added, saving all profits of merchants and retailers—the purchase importation of agricultural implements direct from the manufacturers, without the intervention of the middleman, saving of the manufacturer of all his own State, thus creating a home market for our agricultural products, and giving general stimulus to all classes of industry. All these articles imported and sold directly by rail or water to local points through which the orders received by the central bank.

2nd. The storage of grain and wool, with all other agricultural products, in warehouses of the farmers, with needades thereon to enable the owners to hold for a remunerative price, and final sale through the medium of banks, direct to the consumers, in every country there may at the time be greatest demand, and the best price obtained.

3d. The aggregation of so much business in the hands of an organization working through a single medium, will enable the farmer to secure better and ocean freights upon the very low terms the capital invested in such business can perform such services. The carrying business, both to and from the farm, inland, could be so regulated as to pass, in a great measure, with the freedom of railroad cars being run light-half-loaded either way, and on the whole, so that shipping would be under the necessity of making voyage in ballast as now, in pursuit of business, and thus the actual cost of conducting the commerce, both inland and at sea, would be reduced materially, and this would tend to accumulate in the pockets of the producers, and would indirectly benefit the consumers of our products throughout the world.

4th. Such an organization of the farmers of California would give them a voice in the world over, command all necessary capital for any legitimate business as a counter to the lowest rates of interest granted by the largest capitalists to the farmers responsible and favored borrowers.

5th. The system would present a medium of co-operation, not only as between the producers and consumers of agricultural products, and as between all manufacturers and the farmers—the consumers of the manufactured articles, but it would also serve as a medium through which the land, for a money circulating medium, could be compassed and harmonized with the world over, and the different sections of the State. To illustrate: the counties of Sonoma, Napa, Butte, and Yuba and other counties have good crops this season, and the farmers of Sonoma and Yuba counties in the San Joaquin Valley are delicient. Money will then be plentiful in the former and scarce in the latter, through the medium of the capital bank, it may be drawn from the local banks of the former counties and loaned out to good security through the bank of the latter, and then all would be accomplished and the producing capacity of the land kept up.

6th. By this system the money accumulation and banking systems of the State would be changed, and instead of the capital of the State being locked up in vaults of the few in the large cities to be used in stock jobbing, speculation, and for the oppression of the poor, the development of the legitimate development of the best resources of the State, the capital will be distributed in the country and directed to the most improvement, such as immediate production and improvement of farms—to irrigation and reclamation, canals, etc., etc., and to the development and utilization of water power, building up home manufactures, and thriving inland towns and cities.

7th. Such a system combining the pecuniary interests and moral and political power of the State in one grand scheme of practical co-operation for the general good will command respect and consideration everywhere, and should be become necessary to use their power, will give them aggravated the control of every department of the State Government.—Sacramento

"On Right into Line."

Since the last issue of the CALIFORNIAN, the political parties of the county have completed their preliminary arrangements for the contest, occurring in September. The Democratic, disregarding the expressions of disapproval uttered by the people through their newspapers, have adopted the Crawford county system of making nominations, and require that each voter at the primary election should pledge himself to support the nominees of the party. This required pledge will result in making the whole matter, a party in the county, as it is well known that, by a proper manipulation of the floating purchasable vote, Los Angeles can always nominate its own men; consequently those who regard their word, will refuse to attend the primaries, if by such action they may possibly commit themselves to the support of candidates not only unpopular but unworthy. The Republicans, although desiring to the people in the manner of holding the primary election, having selected the convention system, present to their followers the same objectionable requirement. It is contended by the adherents of either party that such a pledge is absolutely required to reserve the party organization intact. Unfortunately for the correctness of their reasoning, those whom they attempt in this manner to keep in the ranks—worthless or better, are the only members of a political organization, who invariably disregard all pledges. It is just and proper that such a method of procedure should be tried; but when, as in this instance, repeated trials have demonstrated the ineffectuality of the test, it is to say the least of it—very foolish of political leaders to court disorganization and possible defeat by pursuing a policy so extremely unpopular with the conscientious and honest adherents of their party.

"There is but one God and Mahomet is his prophet"—there is but one true political faith and the orders of a central committee enunciate the principles of the party, was for a long time the rallying cry which proved efficacious in preserving party alignment unbroken, and which served as a cloak, beneath which personal ambition and personal aggrandizement trampled over State or county; but the evil consequences, which have arisen, and which are hourly and daily developing themselves, from an unthinking obedience to the mandates of corrupt politicians have become so patent to every one throughout the whole country—from New York to San Francisco, and from Chicago to New Orleans, that it requires no inspired prophet to foretell the commencement of the reaction. In this age of intelligence, it is practically impossible to exact from the masses even the blind, unquestioning obedience, characteristic of political partisans of twenty years ago. Men reason for themselves and will accept no political faiths, founded on any base but the public good, and no party leaders, whose public life develops an undue regard for the interests of self. They correctly believe that the corruption and malfeasance in office, which have brought discredit and ignominy upon our National councils and upon our Federal officers, have arisen from a disregard of principle in the conduct of county elections and an indifference to the moral qualifications of men, who aspire to fill local offices. To eradicate these evils therefore, from the body politic the fountain heads must first be purified; local offices must be filled by honest and capable men for the benefit solely of the public; county inducements and county Treasuries must be rededicated to their legitimate channels; the control of the ballot box must be taken from the political vampires that infest the towns; in this manner, the first step, successfully accomplished, a national purification will naturally follow.

Although the command has been given to close the ranks of each party, and preparations are being made to conduct the present campaign on purely political grounds, we believe that there will be a strong defection exhibited. The final result will no doubt be fore-shadowed at the primaries by the nonattendance of the citizens of the country sections. These men are organizing clubs and "Granges," not only for the purpose of diffusing agricultural knowledge, but in order to unite to crush the over-weening power, at present in the hands of politicians. Not bound by any pledge, they reserve for themselves a freedom of action, and at the election, men of either party, who are capable, intelligent and worthy, will be selected to serve as guardians of home interests. To such men the CALIFORNIAN, as the servant of the people, promises a hearty and cordial support, believing that its interests will be best safeguarded by identifying them with those of the good and politically pure men of the county.

Sensational Correspondence.

A letter, written by a gentleman living in the colony of Westminster appeared a few weeks ago in the columns of the Daily Transcript of Oakland. It was copied, subsequently by the call of San Francisco and the Pacific Rural Press. Its tendency was to create in the minds of strangers an impression, highly injurious to Los Angeles county and particularly to that portion of the county of which Anaheim is the center, containing, as it did, assertions which were entirely without foundation except in the imagination of the writer. When our attention was first called to the letter, as it appeared in the Call, we deemed it unnecessary to notice so foolish and absurd an article except in general terms, censuring the style of sensational correspondence indulged in by certain portions of every community, who rely upon the extravagance of their statements, to render palatable their productions. Since that time, however, the article in question has achieved so wide a circulation, that it has become deemed necessary by the Southern Agricultural Association of this county to publicly denounce its substance as false and malicious in the extreme, and to censure the journals publishing it. Although the Pacific Rural Press, a paper purporting to be published in the advancement of the agricultural interests of the State deserves respect for the careless manner in which it indulges in an injustice upon a certain section, unthinkingly and without proper proof, still its error must be acknowledged to be one of judgment only. The real culprit and the one, who deserves the severest censure is the actual writer of the article. It is his duty, in order to make reparation for the evil he has caused, to publicly retract in the columns of the Transcript the assertions made by him, whilst we quote his own words—falsely under an impression of the state of affairs in the county since bound to be mistaken, and to confess that the excuse scribbled, which impelled him to appear in print, has caused him to commit not only a rash and foolish, but a criminal act. Although a signant of the writer's name, we refrain from mentioning it as we deem it to be our duty, only to condemn the wrong, and by our silence, to afford an opportunity to the wrong-doer to use, without actual compulsion, the only means in his power to condone his error.

Editorial Notes.

The Los Angeles Republic, the official journal of the Mexican government at Matamoros, in speaking of the McKim's expedition against the Kickapoo, calls upon Mexico to exact immediate reparation for the violation of her soil and demands of the country that it show the spirit of 1846. The Mexico of to-day, succeeded in losing a large slice of its territory by an exhibition of spirit. The frontier Mexican States, approaching the impolicy and weakness of their general government, are ripe for secession; the claims of our country against Mexico are many and just, and are being prosecuted in a spirit of moderation and equity; strains indicate the direction of the wind; annihilation by us is considered merely a question of time. Let Mexico beware, lest by hasty and indiscreet action it precipitate the accomplishment of a result, to which the anarchy and disorganization, existing in its midst, is slowly but surely driving it.

There is not the slightest doubt that the Chinese question will be henceforward in a sadly muddled condition. We see by telegrams from San Francisco that the Anti-Chinese Society will send the Rev. Mr. Starr of that city to Oregon for the purpose of obtaining an expression of opinion from the people of that State against Chinese immigration. Now that the persons have taken hold of the subject, a more intense spirit of intolerance, ignorance and fanaticism will influence all who oppose the introduction of the Chinese, as a laboring class. Why cannot these men confine themselves to their legitimate sphere, as teachers of religion and leave to public men and statesmen the solution of political problems.

NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

(From the Express and Star.)

Albany, June 10.—The Court of Appeals has given an unanimous opinion granting Stokes a new trial. Bets have been made on the final decision resulting in favor of Stokes.

San Francisco, June 11.—Four of our prominent Chinese merchants will send by the steamer Quong Se to China for a million Chinese type, intended to publish in this city a tri-weekly paper, devoted to the interests of their people in this city and State. The first number will be issued about the 30th of September next.

James Brennan, who was arrested with Manning for the murder of Ah Tick, will be examined before the Commissioners of Lunacy to-day. The case of the co-defendant, Manning, has been continued until next week.

Frank R. was, the editor of the Indian Gazette of the Pacific, has just been arrested on a charge of a horrible outrage on the person of a little girl seven years of age. She had been in the habit of visiting his office. As a consequence of his act, the child lost the sight of one of her eyes and will probably lose that of the other. R. was much excited, and protests that he is wholly innocent of any crime whatever.

Yreka, June 11.—Captain Jack has made a speech to General Davis, in which he lays all the blame for his going to war on the Klamath Chief, Allen David. He says that David told him not to lower his gun like a squaw, but to fight like a man, and said he would join him against the whites, as he was then selling property to buy guns and powder. Jack reiterated the statement that the soldiers fired first on his men, at Lost river; also, that he did not shoot Canby, but was told by Allen David to do so, and told others to do so. That Bogus Charley and Slacknasty Jim killed Gen. Canby.

Chicago, June 11.—A Washington special says that those who pretend to know, are already predicting that Captain Jack will not be hanged. The adherents of the peace policy will claim that Gen. Canby was acting simply as a Peace Commissioner when he was killed, and not as a General of the Army. Therefore, that a Military Commission to try his slayers has no legal right.

Washington, June 10.—The massacre of the Modoc prisoners is denounced by every one, and Sherman, with the military, and Attorney General Williams, with the judicial authority, will use every effort to punish the culprits.

Information has been received that the Government of Great Britain has made arrangements through the Bank of England to pay the $15,000,000 constituting the Geneva award, on the 13th of September, in gold.

The Postmaster General has decided not to abrogate the postal contract, but to give contractors time to procure better paper.

J. A. Bingham has accepted the Japanese Mission.

Memphis, June 10.—The cholera is spreading. There were 18 deaths yesterday. It is abating in Nashville.

Newark, N. J., June.—A passenger train from New York collided with a freight train east of Newark to-day, one engineer was fatally wounded and a large number of passengers bruised, but none killed.

New York, June 11.—Nathan Bartman has shot and killed James McAdams.

The cholera excitement in Memphis is abating. The cases are decreasing rapidly.

Nashville, June 11.—The Annual Universal Peace convention adopted a resolution, thanking Grant for his Indian Peace Policy.

Barris, Ont., June 11.—James Caruthers was hanged to-day for the murder of his wife.

Halifax, June 12.—The fire in the Lunan Coal Mine is extinguished.

Constantinople, June 11.—The Sultan has granted the Khedive of Egypt an independent internal Government.
