WESTMINSTER, SANTA ANA, ETC.

Extract from Major Truman's "Semi-Tropical California."

Leaving Anaheim in search of further information, my first trip brought me to a region of country lying a little to the south-west, known as Westminster colony. Some four years ago, Rev. L. P. Webber, a Presbyterian clergyman, formerly of Salem county, New Jersey, secured some seven thousand acres of the lands of L. A. & S. B. Company as a site of a colony of agriculturists. He reserved to himself, as I understood it, the right of imposing certain restrictions upon the manufacture of wine or the distillation of spirits upon the lands of the colony, as also the privilege of deciding who should and who should not become purchasers of any portion of the lands. I did not find Mr. Webber, to whom I would naturally look for exact information in the premises, at home, and therefore am compelled to deal in generalities, for I found it extremely difficult to obtain statistics in that part of the country. I was credibly informed, however, that only about one thousand acres remain unsold out of the seven. Parties were sinking an artesian well upon Mr. Webber's premises at the time of my visit. They informed me that there were about forty wells in the colony, ranging in depth from sixty-five to two hundred and twenty-five feet; that the flow from four of these wells is sufficient to irrigate one hundred and sixty acres each, and that the average flow is sufficient to irrigate from forty to sixty acres each. The lands of the colony are of the very first order as regards fertility and adaptability to the production of grain, roots, grasses, etc., as well as the hardier fruits. Experiments are being made with the semi-tropical fruits, but the result cannot be known for some time yet. A neat and commodious school house stands in the centre of the town plat and is also used for purposes of divine worship on the sabbath. It cost about one thousand five hundred dollars, and speaks well for the character of the colony. A good school house is the best advertisement a new settlement can have. Westminster is only the pioneer of a dozen similar colonies which will spring up on the west side of the Santa Ana. Returning to Anaheim, I partook of a good dinner at the Planters' Hotel, and retired early. The next morning I started for Richland. The gentleman who drove the buggy headed straight for the old Rodriguez crossing, and we were soon in Richland.

There is no mistake about the nomenclature in this case. A prettier valley does not lay out of doors. It seemed however, as if everybody who could give me any information was away from home. But a word or two about the valley. Seen from the crossing of the Santa Ana river, it rises gently to the foot-hills four or five miles distant dotted here and there with farm houses of far more than ordinary pretensions as regards architecture and finish. I cannot say that I like the prevailing brown, which seems to have been chosen as the proper colored paint. White would have formed a much prettier contrast to the emerald frame in which the picture is set. We drove to the store, which is in the centre of the settlement, hoping to be able to obtain a few items, but the proprietor was absent with a party engaged in determining the route of a ditch sixteen miles long, which is to bring water to this and the adjoining settlements of Santa Ana, Tustin City, etc. I met a gentleman near by, however, who seemed fully competent to tell me all I wanted to know, and made known to him my mission and my desires in the premises. To all of which he replied: "I have been here but little over a year. I mind my own business, and don't concern myself about my neighbors." This was not very encouraging nevertheless I could not help thinking what a treasure such a man would be in some communities.

Captain Glassell, the agent of the tract, was also absent, and the best I could do was to look on and admire. The farms are generally small. The roads and by-ways are laid out at right angles, and if I traveled through any one of them, both sides of which were not planted with gum, walnut, locust, willow, sycamore or some other forest trees, I do not know it. Along some of them I noticed that gum and walnut trees were planted alternately, so close together that by the time the walnut trees are in bearing the gum trees will necessarily have to give way and of course will furnish fence posts, lumber, etc. Almost every house had its flower garden in front, and masses of verbena, gilli flower, heliotrope and other bright bloomers, lent a delightful variety to the charming scene. Thousands upon thousands of fruit trees have been set out, and the work still goes on. Richland proper is about three miles square, and embraces about 7,000 acres only 1,500 of which remain unsold. There is a town plat in the centre of forty acres, with iron supply pipes in the principal streets. Unimproved land is held at from fifteen to twenty-five dollars per acre. After it has been plowed once, nothing short of sixty dollars can touch it. Improved places, when they change hands, readily bring one hundred dollars per acre. All of these improvements are the work of less than three years. There are about one hundred families in the settlement and, as may be expected, they have built an elegant and comfortable school house. I look upon the growth of Richland as being quite as phenomenal as the locality is beautiful; and upon the latter score I have simply to remark, that, being in a measure wedded to a love of Hogarth's line of beauty, I am not, as a general rule, an admirer of level tracts or valley scenery. But there is an indescribable charm about Richland. Let those who doubt it go and see for themselves. If concerning it, I cannot conscientiously exclaim with the poet,

"There is not in this wide world a valley so sweet."

I am certain there is no lovelier one. And yet it is only one of the beautiful localities to be found in the peerless region. There is no computing the riches of Los Angeles county by ordinary methods of calculation.

There is nothing in the transition from Richland to Santa Ana to indicate the crossing of a division line; but upon reaching the latter town, the tourist finds himself among a grove of ancient gnarled and venerable sycamores, which add a certain picturesqueness to the landscape. Arriving at Santa Ana, however, I found myself again in an artesian well district. There are two in the town within one hundred yards of each other. I could obtain no reliable estimate of the number which have already been sunk, but they are numerous. Water is obtained at a depth varying from sixty to three hundred feet. From one of them a constant five inch stream leaps up to the light of day. Embracing the settlement known as Gospel Swamp, there is here a settlement probably nine miles square—the home of over one hundred families. The farms vary in size from forty to two hundred and fifty acres, although the average would probably be from eighty to one hundred. So far as my observation extended the houses are neat and comfortable. The price of land varies from $20 to $100—the average, probably, from $50 to $80. There are two school houses, neat, well built and commodious. As is the case in Richland, the road-sides are planted with forest and nut-bearing trees, and these, together with the fruit trees—of which every farm, however small, has its quota—must be numbered by the thousands. Barley, oats, rye, corn, wheat, beans, and potatoes are the staples, and the crops are bountiful. These settlements are the work of less than four years. Mr. McFadden, the owner of a large tract some two miles southeast of Santa Ana, has associated with him Mr. Collins, an experienced dairyman of Marin County, and they, with a herd of two hundred cows, propose to go into the business of cheese making. They are milking but eighty cows at present. Mr. Hamill has also gone into the dairy business on a smaller scale. These gentlemen are but the pioneers of a host who will soon follow them in this direction. They will not rely upon the natural pasturage, which is green the year round, but will plant largely of corn, pumpkins and beets to serve as stock feed. The corn crops of this section are spoken of as something enormous. I heard of stalks seventeen feet high, with five ears to a stalk. This, I thought, was pretty good for high. A ditch sixteen miles long is in process of construction, and this too, together with the supply from artesian wells, will render this region independent of drouths. Circumstances prevented me from examining the resources and surroundings of this section as fully as I would like to have done, but I saw enough in my hurried visit to convince me that the praises bestowed upon it by its citizens were well deserved. I was informed that at the residence of Mr. Bowers, near Santa Ana, banana stocks were growing which had remained absolutely untouched by the frost, and at the same place could be seen tomato vines, upon which were blossoms and green and ripe fruit.

Keeping along in a generally southern direction from Santa Ana, the tourist comes upon a strange-looking Mexican town called San Juan Capistrano, about thirty-three miles from Anaheim.

The Mission of San Juan Capistrano, or the remains of the Mission, situated in the town of that name, is another of those old ruins whose history constitutes a page in the early tales of California.

On the first day of November, 1776, the site was selected by the padre Gorgonio, who at once made arrangements for the commencement of the work. This was nearly twenty-two years before the building of the Mission of San Luis Rey; and at this time it was the intention of the padre in charge to make this Mission the most pretentious of all the edifices that had been erected. This was the seventh in regular order—the Missions of San Diego, San Carlos de Monterey, San Antonio de Padura, San Gabriel, San Luis Obispo, and San Francisco de los Dolores, being already built or in process of erection.

These old ruins perpetuate the name and memory of a Franciscan friar of renowned eminence and reputation—San Juan, who was born in Capistrano, Italy. In his youth he was Platonic, and was seldom seen away from his home or school, although reared in a family celebrated for its wealth and great social worth. San Juan was at first educated as a lawyer, but from the start evinced a dislike for his profession and grew morbid and morose as he penetrated the mysteries of the bar. Time passed on, and he practiced and gained a great case, in which a powerful man triumphed over one who was weak. This disturbed his little remaining peace of mind, and he at once abandoned the law. Subsequently he joined the order of St. Francis, and in a short time became a very holy man. He died a great number of years ago, leaving none to excel him in virtue, genius and profound wisdom and education.

As I have stated, it was proposed by the padre Gorgonio to erect a pretentious-looking edifice at the place, and so he did. The church building was one of the noblest in its exhibition of workmanship. It was built of lime and stone, and was one hundred and fifty feet in length, one hundred in width, and had systems of corridors six hundred feet in total length. The interior of the church was as spacious as many of our modern cathedrals, being nearly eighty feet from pit to dome. The walls, which are still standing, were of great strength, being nearly five feet in thickness, and as tenacious as concrete. The buildings were thirty years in process of erection, the resident and officiating friars for most of that time being padres Amunte and Magartegui. No church was so elaborately furnished; there being more imported woodwork about it and the adjoining dwelling than in any of the other Missions, a large portion of which remains and is in a good state of preservation.

On the morning of a December Sabbath, in 1812, at precisely seven o'clock, and when the church was filled with men and women singing psalms to God, an earthquake occurred, during which the building was destroyed, and forty-seven persons perished. As this earthquake destroyed nothing else in the town, and as the dome of the church was imperfectly constructed, the impression is, and always has been, with those who are acquainted with the facts, that the catastrophe was less the effects of the earthquake than anything else. The old padre, in his notes upon this subject, says that the dome was not only imperfectly constructed, but that it slightly leaned from perpendicular. Nothing else about the church sustained the slightest injury. It seems that the roof of the building was surmounted by five domes, in the centre of which was an immense tower or belfry, the latter of which was of heavy masonry. This tower was erected upon six columns, which, receiving the vibration, caused the tower to reel and fall, and, falling, broke in two, one part crushing in the roof and the other dropping on the outside into the street.

The Mission of San Juan Capistrano, like all of the others, saw its best days from 1820 to 1834, the latter year being the one in which the Mexican Congress made its crusade against the whole Mission system. During the latter year of its successful existence, padre Jose Maria Salvides was the priest in charge, and is said to have been one of the most hospitable and generous of men. Like Antonio, of San Luis Rey, he took in the stranger and the traveler, and extended to all the comforts of his establishment. He kept a smaller retinue of servants than his brother Antonio, and was less a patron of horse racing and bull fighting, and in a multiplicity of respects less a monarch.

After the earthquake, that part of the building used as a granary was fitted up for the exercise of religious ceremony; no attempt at repair ever having been made, by the padres in charge, of the church building. All of the other houses, however, were fitted up in a substantial and elaborate manner, the corridors being erected so as to form a hollow square; said square, like the one of San Luis Rey, being devoted to the pastime of bull fighting.

In 1830 this mission owned or controlled several large tracts of land, over which pastured 40,000 cattle, 70,000 sheep, 5,000 horses and a large number of mules, oxen and hogs. From the date of its foundation up to this time there had been 4,700 natives converted and baptized, 1,702 marriages, and 5,947 deaths. In 1831 there were 1,400 residents of the Mission, including 350 young girls and misses in the nunnery.

The gardens and grounds comprised eighty acres, the former containing 400 old olive trees, all of which are in excellent bearing order. There are also quite a number of pear trees remaining, as in most of the gardens, this being the favorite northern variety of fruit with the old padres. Several acres of these gardens were devoted to the vine, all trace of which, however, are gone. Remains of several palms may be seen, while the "century plant" thrives and blossoms yearly.

This Mission had a large soap manufactory, and also made large quantities of cloth and shoes; while its carpenter and blacksmith shops were the most extensive of any of the Missions. The San Juan river, running as it did, and does, all the year round, was very favorable for artificial irrigation, a means of improvement which the old padres always took advantage of.

The fall of the Mission of San Juan Capistrano took place in 1833. The padres in charge watched the performances of the Mexican Congress in its debate upon the dividing up of the Mission property with great anxiety; and when the law passed giving the Indians each an individual interest in their great possessions, padre Salvides at once determined that the dividends should be small. He at once shipped to Spain all of the pictures and ornaments of the church, and gave out contracts for the immediate and indiscriminate slaughter of all the cattle, sheep and hogs, and for the transportation of several shiploads of hides, tallow, soap, oil, grain and wines; so that, upon the arrival of General Jose Figueroa, hardly anything was left but the neophytes themselves. Thus fell the Mission of San Juan Capistrano.

A few months prior to the Mexican war, the Missions of San Juan Capistrano, La Purissima and San Miguel with all of their beautiful grounds and gardens, were each in turn sold at public auction. The property here, including three gardens containing eighty acres of olives, and other fruits, was purchased by Don Juan Forster, now residing at Santa Margarita, this old home of Don Pio Pico, for eight hundred dollars. The buildings of the Mission were also included in the purchase, except a habitation for the priest, an apartment for a school-room and a room for an office for a Judge of the Peace. To-day, this $800 purchase is worth what the figure would describe with two more ciphers annexed; and this is but a small patch of Don Juan Forster's possessions—bless his old soul.

One of the most beautiful drives in Southern California is from San Luis Rey to San Juan Capistrano, and most especially that portion of it along the beach, and up the mouth of San Juan River. In approaching the town from this point, the tourist is first attracted by a great oven-shaped building, which proves to be the ruins of the old Mis-

SATURDAY...DECEMBER 19, 1874.

THE office of Health Officer was abolished by the Common Council of Los Angeles a short time ago, because that official insisted upon a too rigid compliance with the sanitary ordinance. Now that the city is being dubbed by newspapers published in rival health-resorts as the dirtiest town in Southern California, the Angelinos want the Health Officer reinstated, and are circulating a petition to that effect.

AN Eastern statistician figures up that Boston has an average of one arrest for drunkenness each year in every sixteen of her inhabitants; Providence has one in twenty-two; New York has one in twenty-seven; San Francisco has one in twenty-nine; Louisville has one in twenty-nine; Rochester has one in thirty-one; Washington has one in thirty-two; Detroit has one in thirty-four; St. Louis has one in forty-two; Cleveland has one in forty-two; Brooklyn has one in sixty-four; Cincinnati has one in eighty-three.

HON. J. CAMPBELL SHORB, of San Francisco, one of the princes of eloquence of the California Democracy, made a beautiful speech at the railroad mass meeting in Los Angeles last Saturday, and demonstrated conclusively, at least to himself, that the Independence Railway would be a success, for the reason that broad-guages were always failures and narrow-guages a success. Unfortunate railroad! before this was proved the Directors had intended to make it the usual broad-guage.

THE tone of that part of the President's message relating to the troubled condition of affairs in Cuba has given offence and created alarm among the Spaniards in that little isle. Private letters received from officers on board the fleet at Key West state that rumors are prevalent that the Spaniards in Cuba are busily engaged in quietly arming and placing their naval vessels in fighting trim, and accumulating large stores of provisions and other supplies. The letters say further, that the Spaniards anticipate a speedy action on the part or the United States toward granting belligerent rights to the Cubans.

A CORRESPONDENT of the London Times, indorsed by that journal as thoroughly trustworthy, states that the actual number of the regular German army is 1,324,940 men, out of which 401,659 are always on active service, and 394,000 men can be mobilized in eight days while the remainder can be mobilized in a few days more. The new law regarding the Landstrum will add about 300,000 to the disposable force. The number of recruits who present themselves annually is 364,000, but large reductions are made for various causes, and the number actually enrolled yearly is less than 150,000. The cost of the German army is about $80,000,000 a year, and that of the navy $10,000,000, but this year the total demanded for military purposes will reach $125,000,000.

WE have before us a copy of the Granger's Guide, a monthly journal, published in San Francisco, under the auspices of the "Granger's and Peoples' Union Immigrant Aid Society," and devoted to the dissemination of reliable information regarding Agricultural California among the farmers of the Northwestern and Eastern States. In addition to this newspaper, which will have a circulation in the East of one hundred and fifty thousand copies, the Patrons of Husbandry have also established in San Francisco an Immigrant Aid Department and a Land Agency in furtherance of the same design—the prevention of imposition upon immigrant farmers and to assist them in securing the most eligible locations at the cheapest rates. As the association is directly under the patronage and supervision of the State Grange of California, it commends itself most heartily to the approval of all members of the order, and should not only receive their good word but their practical assistance as well.

A VERY affecting incident took place at Staten Island recently. Judge Charles Middlebrook, a prominent member of the Masonic order, and one of the most popular men on the island, died very suddenly. His funeral took place under the auspices of the Masons, and an immense concourse of people attended to pay the last tribute of respect. Rev. Dr. Brownlee, a very warm and devoted friend of the deceased, was engaged in preaching the funeral discourse, when he suddenly hesitated and looked wildly around the room. His expressions became so incoherent that he was persuaded to retire to his home by one of his friends, and another pastor finished the exercises. He explained that Dr. Brownlee's mind had suddenly become clouded and confused, that he had forgotten who it was that had died and all the attendant circumstances of the situation. This was of course a sad announcement, but it was followed half an hour later with the more melancholy intelligence that Dr. Brownlee had been stricken with paralysis.

FROM AN OLD CORRESPONDENT.

VENTURA, Dec. 10th, 1874.

EDITOR GAZETTE.—Your weekly visits since our departure have made us glad, and as we read of your prosperity in your enlarged head and body and new cognomen, we feel proud to know that all the region must be advancing in proportion.

The interests of Southern California are all in one; what will destroy one portion, will likewise do violence to all the rest. This county is the youngest of all her surrounding sisters and ought to be the pet, but we hear the scolding and abusive voice of the oldest member of the family (Santa Barbara,) venting the feelings of a jealous heart and courting from her, many who come from distant shores to see, admire and win the warmth and beauty of her smiles.

Ventura is now on the alert. Like the slumbering lion, she has awakened from the sleep of a century, and shaken from her mane the dews of darkness, and now comes forth to meet the light of advancing progress. A bank has just been opened with a capital of $250,000, which begins in lively style. About twenty new houses are now in course of erection and many more in contemplation. One great difficulty is that persons coming from the East can not be accommodated with homes at any rent. A very extensive business in all departments is done here. In proof—the "Pacific" landed 280 tons of freight here yesterday. Large quantities of oil, wool, grain, stock, and honey are shipped from here. Several large tracts of land have been recently placed in market and a large number of sales been made. Real estate is high and going higher, and the demand increasing every day. Our population is swelling very lively by the "coming men and women" of the icebound East. One man by the rapid flight of the transportation train reached here so suddenly that he still wore his sealskin cap, with ear flaps, and seemed rubbing his hands in the warm sunbeams of one of our western winter days. We now number about 1,500. We get water for the town by a ditch from Ventura river, 6 miles long, which lands a splendid quality on the hill right over town, from thence it rushes through pipes into our kitchen at a cost of $2 00 per month. No more at present.

THE WINE TAX.

WE deem it of sufficent importance to this community to publish the following editorial artic'e from the San Francisco Call of December 13th. The petition to Congress asking for an increased duty on foreign wines received the signature of every wine-grower in Anaheim:

Among the unfinished business of the first session of the present Congress is a bill to impose an increased duty on foreign wines. It had many warm friends—none more so than the delegation from California—but failed to pass because of the organization of importers against it, and a clash of interests between the home producers. During the Congressional interim an attempt was made by the principal wine-growers in the United States, through the medium of circulars addressed to their co-laborers, to reconcile all pending differences, and requesting the exertion of a combined effort to secure the objects set forth in the bill. This was represented as all the more necessary because the importers have a fund to back them, and a paid agent to attend to their interests at the National Capitol. In response to the call of the circulars, a meeting of wine-growers assembled at the rooms of the American Vintage Company in New York on the second of November, and effected an organization to be known as the "American Wine-Growers' and Dealers' Association." Among its proceedings was the passage of a resolution authorizing the Chair to appoint a committee to draw up an appeal to Congress, and an address to wine-growers throughout the United States, urging their co-operation, and asking them to raise a fund with which to send a Committee to Congress. Mr. F. Sigrist, of Napa Valley, was chosen First Vice President of the new organization. The following Californians were chosen honorary Vice Presidents, to wit: Charles Krug, St. Helena; G. Grezinger, San Francisco; J. J. Sigrist, Napa; S. Lachmann, San Francisco; Charles Kohler, San Francisco; B. D. Wilson, Los Angeles; B. Dreyfus, Anaheim; L. J. Rose, Los Angeles; Mat. Keller, Los Angeles; H. Dressell, Sonoma.

In the meantime the wine-growers and wine merchants of this city have not been idle. Last week several gentlemen having a large stake in the issue, bestirred themselves to get a meeting together for the preparation of an address to Congress, which they desired to have forwarded at the earliest possible moment. It is believed that by working together the different members of Congress representing wine-growing constituencies will be able to secure at least a portion, if not all the assistance required to foster this rapidly expanding industry in the United States. They have a convincing argument in the fact that when procured from first hands, the American wines—particularly those of California—are absolutely pure.

Mr. Shaug called upon us yesterday and exhibited some fine specimens of cinnabar which were taken from the mountains about six miles west of San Fernando. It is claimed by experts that the ore is genuine and rich in quicksilver. There are, no doubt, large deposits, as the ledge can be traced for 7,500 feet, Upon this five claims of 1,500 feet each have been located by Mr. Shaug and party. The ore is to be smelted in a day or two to test its value, and we will then be able to give more accurate information concerning it. If the discovery should prove to be a good cinnabar mine it will pay several handsome fortunes to its owners, and, at the same time, make a valuable acquisition to the mineral wealth already known to exist in this range.—Herald.

The mania for markmanship in the East, has developed the practice of "shooting at a noise" by target companies. The marksman is blindfolded, aimed, whirled about, and ordered to fire at a target indicated by a continuous rapping on it. CENTINELA COLONY!

6 Miles from Los Angeles.

The Home of the Orange and Lemon!

AUCTION SALE

—OF—

Town Lots

—AND—

5, 10, 20, and 40 acre Farms.

Will Commence on

Monday, Jan. 19, 1875,

At 12 o'clock, M.,

And continue FIVE DAYS. The sale will take place on the Rancho. Parties desiring to purchase SHOULD BE ON THE GROUND a few days prior to the sale, in order to EXAMINE THE PROPERTY.

Title.

United States Patent.

Situation.

"Centinela" with the addition of the "Sausal Redondo," contains 25,000 acres. The boundary of the Rancho commences three and a half mile from the city limits of Los Angeles, and extends to the Pacific Ocean.

Topography.

"Centinela" is made up of one broad, level, fertile valley of over twenty thousand acres and beautiful, fertile rolling hills near the Ocean.

Semi-Tropical Fruits.

There are a few bearing orange and lime trees upon the Centinela, and the fruit they produce is of the largest and finest quality. There is an orchard containing 5,000 orange trees three years old, and 1,700 almond, lime and lemon trees. The almond, lime and lemon tree will bear fruit in 1875. The orange trees will bear in five years. There are 7,000 three year old orange trees in the nursery near the orchard. Fig, pepper and guam trees grow without irrigation. The entire orchard can be taken care of by three men with six horses. The orchard will be kept undivided by the Company, to save the expense of each shareholder having a few trees to take care of. Each share will entitle the owner to about 15 trees in the orchard and about the same number in the nursery. The almond, lime and lemon trees will yield an income of $100 per annum, or $300 per share for those now planted. There are flowers in the garden in bloom every day in the year.

Sheep.

A flock of about 14,000 sheep will be kept undivided, to save expense to the shareholders. This will give about 30 sheep to each share. The sheep will produce an increase and wool over $2 each, yearly, over expenses. They will be grazed upon fallowing and unsold lands of the company. The "no fence" law is in force in Los Angeles county.

Climate.

The climate of the "Centinela" is without exception the finest and most equable in the world. It varies but little throughout the year. The mean temperature is about sixty degrees. The mercury falls but little below sixty degrees in winter, and rises but little above sixty degrees in summer. You sleep under one pair of blankets and with your bed-room window open every night in the year.

Agriculture.

The soil of the "Centinela" is admirably adapted for all kinds of grain, vegetables and fruit.

Water.

The Centinela creek rises upon the Rancho and runs through the northern portion of the tract. It affords an abundance of clear spring water. The source of the Centinela creek consists of several natural artesian springs, showing that artesian water can be obtained by boring.

The Town.

A square mile is laid off at an eligible point on the tract, with lots 25x140, avenue 100 feet, and streets 80 feet wide. A stream of water can be brought in so as to supply every lot with crystal, cool, sweet water.

Provision will be made for a College and Farm school.

A large lot will be set apart for each religious denomination. A block will also be given for the erection of a large hall by the different Fraternal, Grange and Temperance societies.

Fare.

Parties desiring to visit the land should take steamer from San Francisco to Los Angeles; fare, $12. By inquiring at Temple & Workman's bank, in Los Angeles, they will be directed to the Rancho. Apply to

WM. H. MARTIN,
GENERAL AGENT,
California Immigrant Union, 534 California Street, San Francisco, between Montgomery and Kearney streets, or TEMPLE & WORKMAN, Bankers, or Gen. SHIELDS, Los Angeles, or L. ABBOTT, Corresponding Secretary State Grange Immigrant Aid Association, Santa Barbara.

P. S.—A second sale will take place on the Rancho, commencing on Monday, the 8th of March, 1875.

Further particulars will be furnished by the land officers and directors of the Centinela Land Company, of Los Angeles, who are: F. P. F. Temple, President; F. P. Howard, Vice President; J. S. Slauson, Los Angeles County Bank, Treasurer; J. M. Griffith, of Griffith, Lynch & Co.; Gen. J. H. Shields; O. W. Childs; D. Freeman, on the Rancho; W. H. J. Banks, Secretary. 8tf

SATURDAY....DECEMBER 19, 1874.

Kleinigkeiten.

—There is a package at Wells, Fargo & Co's. Express for J. H. Goldsworthy.

—Among our visitors during the week was Robt. N. White Esq.

—A letter, addressed to Mr. L. F. Baker, is held for postage at Anaheim Post-office.

—By this afternoon the track of the Anaheim Branch will be laid within 2½ miles of the depot.

—The Christmas goods, just received by Clark & Co., are the most stylish and appropriate ever brought to Anaheim.

—If you want a stylish calendar for 1875, call at Heimann & George's, or at Blanken's drug store and get one. They are the product of our job office.

—The Santa Ana Dramatic Club gave an entertainment last evening, which will probably be criticised by some of our correspondents next week.

—R. Luedke is opening a very fine assortment of Christmas goods, selected with his usual taste, whilst in San Francisco recently.

—Our thermometrical record shows the past week to have been the coldest spell, experienced here for several years. And still it was hardly cold enough for a fire.

—C. A. Denslow, a practical gunsmith, has opened a shop on Centre street, near Higby & Cullum's stable. His advertisement will be found in another column.

—The country around Anaheim is a paradise for sportsmen. Messrs Hawley and Curtis, during a four hour's hunt the other day, brought down forty ducks and about as many geese.

—The regular meeting of Anaheim Lodge of F. & A. M. will be held this evening at the usual hour. Among other important business to be transacted is the election of officers for the ensuing year.

—Our job office printed tickets during the week for the first social ball to be given by the Santa Ana Young Men's Association, on Friday, December 25th, at Granger's Hall, Santa Ana.

—The Westminster post-office has received all the necessary blanks, mail-bags, etc., and now enjoys the luxury of a daily mail. The office is at the co-operative store and T. C. Hull acts as Deputy Postmaster.

—One of our lady friends has been so unfortunate as to lose her scrap-bag. It was of yellow Java canvass, worked with red worsted, and the finder thereof will be liberally rewarded by returning the same to the GAZETTE office.

—On next Tuesday evening at 7:30 the pupils of Fairview school, Miss M. Austin teacher, will give an exhibition. An admission of twenty-five cents will be charged, and the money realized will be applied to the purchase of books for the school library.

—Mr. Tim Boege has sub-divided a portion of his property, situated near the railroad depot, into half-acre lots, which he offers for sale at marvellously low figures. As the depot buildings are located on a part of this same tract, this "addition" presents itself most advantageously to all those to whom it is an article of faith that the railroad makes the town.

—Presbyterian services at the usual hour to-morrow morning and evening .....Rev. Gustav Borchard will preach at the Presbyterian Church at 3 o'clock P. M. to-morrow. A collection will be taken up for the purpose of purchasing the necessary books for the Sunday school, and for Christmas presents. German Sunday school at 2 o'clock. On Friday, December 25th, Mr. Borchard will hold Christmas services both for the Sunday school and congregation, at 7 o'clock P. M. All are cordially invited.

—We have received from an anonymous correspondent a communication in which he gives his views as to the best method of conducting public "Christmas tree festivals." As we hear of no steps being taken to have a celebration of that character, we do not deem it necessary to publish the communication; and, in fact, we would not publish it under any circumstances, as it ought to be well understood by everyone that it is an inflexible rule in newspaper offices to publish no article unless accompanied by the name of the writer.

—Mr. Hutchins, living near town, has had the misfortune to incur the animosity of a parcel of Indian vagrants, because he did not wish them to incumber his land with their vagabond presence. To revenge themselves and to vent their spleen they waylaid this gentleman as he was returning home a few nights ago, and two of them undertook to give him a drubbing. Not succeeding very well, they called for assistance, and with the aid of an additional four of the brotherhood, accomplished their purpose, although not without receiving many tangible proofs of the vigor and courage, with which their dastardly attack was resisted.

WESTMINSTER ITEMS.—I am sometimes afraid that these lists of mere local items are of very little interest to your readers; and they must seem sometimes to be quite egotistical, but as we live in a day and generation when "if a man bloweth not his own trumpet it shall not be blowed," we itemizers of the various localities elevate our horns and blow toward the four corners of the earth. Not that Westminster and vicinity needs any brazen notes of praise; the time for that is past. Words are now of little use. More can be learned of our progress and prosperity during a few hours spent in viewing our country than could be learned from columns of printed matter. We begin to feel that our days of trials are past, and that our efforts are being crowned with success. The place which was thought to be a desert and a waste is now blooming and blossoming like the rose. This vast tract, which was a few years ago abandoned to migratory herds of sheep and cattle, where prowling wolves and carrion crows made day and night hideous, in their quarrels over starved and starving animals, is now the home of hundreds of contented, happy people. The way seems clear for all who wish to sit under their own vine and fig tree, and enjoy in this delicious and healthful climate that rest which is so soothing after years of toil. To the small band of pioneers, who endured the severe disappointments of these years ago, who by energy, perseverance and determination overcame the many obstacles in the way, who now can almost see the fruition of their hopes, this hour is one of joy and heartfelt thankfulness. But to items: At an election for officers of the co-operative store, Mr. W. G. McPherson was elected President, John Torrey Jr, Secretary, and Sampson Edwards, Treasurer. Mr. Thomas C. Hull was elected manager of the store vice John Torrey, resigned.....Mr. Robb is putting up a new store on the town site.....Town lots are selling at a lively rate, and are advancing in price rapidly.....Carpenters are in great demand and enough cannot be obtained to do the work required.....Unimproved land is selling at from eighteen to forty dollars per acre.....The corn crop is about gathered, and many plows are turning over the soil. Thousands of acres will be planted in corn, barley and potatoes.....Mr. Stroug, our efficient superintendent, has all the business he can manage, and by his energy, skill and uniform kindness is winning golden opinions from all.

THE FAIR.—The limited space at our disposal forbids an extensive mention of the Fair in aid of the Episcopal church, which took place on Wednesday evening. It was admirably managed, well attended, and the most extraordinary facilities furnished for the speedy disposal of superfluous cash. Rebecca disposed of lemonade from the mysterious depths of a wash-tub at one end of the room, while at the other end fair hands dispensed hash, etc., to the hungry crowd. Along both sides of the room were tables filled with various articles, but chiefly the diminutive garments which delighteth the heart of the matron. The Art Gallery was well patronized, as were also the Post-office and Fortune-teller. The receipts of the evening were as near as can be ascertained about $370, and we presume about $50 will cover the expenses. The management have every reason to feel grateful for the liberal spirit manifested by the people.

SCHOOL EXHIBITION.—The teachers of our Public schools have had their pupils in training several weeks preparing for the exhibition which is to come off the evening of the 29th. An admittance fee of 50 cents will be charged. The money so raised will be expended in procuring dumb bells, erecting swings, turning bars and other gymnastic apparatus. Our schools have long needed such apparatus. The school grounds are too limited to admit of games at ball without damage to the building. The spirit of improvement that has infected our town this summer has absorbed all the vacant land in the neighborhood of the school-house. Our juveniles must have some means of exercising their muscles, and a gymnasium affords the best. We hope that everyone interested in the success of our schools will turn out to the exhibition. We think we can safely promise them the worth of their money in entertainment and amusement.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A Short Postponement of the Fifth Gift Concert.

As a manager of the gift concerts given in aid of the Public Library of Kentucky, my position creates an important trust in behalf of the Public Library and the ticket-holders of the fifth gift concert. The Public Library of Kentucky and the ticket-holders are jointly interested in the amount of the drawing. The larger the fund to be distributed in gifts the greater will be the gift awarded to each lucky ticket-holder and the more the amount realized by the Library. To have a full drawing is so manifestly to the interest of those interested in that, rather than have a fractional drawing on the 20th inst. I deem it due to the trust confided to me by the ticket-holders and the Public Library of Kentucky, that a short postponement be made to enable me to dispose of the unsold tickets and have a full drawing. Though the very large amount now in bank would enable us to distribute handsome gifts, yet we should feel disappointed in this our last concert, should we be compelled to make a fractional drawing, however large.

We have received so very large a number of letters from all parts of the country from those most largely interested, urging a postponement if all the tickets be not sold by the 20th, that we feel strengthened in our sense of duty to the ticket holders and the Public Library, to make the postponement. Under the circumstances, we have determined in the interest of all parties, to postpone the concert and drawing to Saturday, February 27, 1875, at which time the drawing will positively take place, and in the interests of good faith toward ticket-holders, we pledge ourselves to refund to any ticket-holder his money upon presentation of his ticket, should the drawing for any reason fail to take place. The past, we feel assured, will be sufficient guarantee to all interested that they will be fairly and honestly dealt with. The money paid for tickets is safely reserved against all contingencies until after the payment of the gifts, after which the expenses are to be refunded, and the Public Library is to be paid in full.

THOS. E. BRAMLETTE.

Physiologists say that our Bodies are renewed once in seven years. The material of which they are reconstructed is the blood, and unless it be fully charged with the elements of vitality, the strength and health of the system decline. Of all blood deuterents, Dr. Walker's Vinegar Bitters is the safest and most infallible. There is no disease, arising from depravation of the blood, which it will not speedily cure.

The overland movement is continued to the full extent of the cars furnished for the freighting thereof by the Central Pacific Railway, not a little going forward from interior points, details of which are not immediately available. Chevalier is very scarce, the crop of bright Bay well nigh exhausted. There is however an occasional lot of Coast offered not altogether desirable. We quote choice bright Bay $1 75@1 80 and Coast Chevalier dark, $1 35@1 45. Bright Bay Brewing is yet firmly held at $1 50, although occasional sales have been made a shade off. Supplies are free, but the market is rather sluggish. Sales for the week in lots aggregate 5,500 sks within the range of $1 35@1 50 for fair to good; choice, $1 60@1 65, latter for Surprise.

CORN.

The offerings are quite liberal, but most of the lots arriving are more or less damp, either wet in the field or in the sack. Sales for the week in lots, 1,400 sks Yellow Southern, $1 40@1 42½@1 50; 150sks Bay, $1 50@1 52½.

RYE.

There is a good demand with sales during the week of 1,500 sks at $1 12½@1 15 ₱ ctl.

BEANS.

Small lots are continually arriving, but nearly all more or less damaged. Those of good quality are picked up readily at hardening rates. There is a speculative demand for Whites of choice quality, but the truth is, there are very few good ones to be had at any price. The crop was thought to be a full one, yet nine-tenths of it was ruined or injured by the early rains before secured from the weather. We quote jobbing rates: Bayos, 2¼@2¾c; Pink, 2½@2¾c; Red, 2@2½c; small White, 3½@3¾c;; Butter, 4½@5c.

HAY.

The supply is fair with small cargo sales at $11@13 for common; $14@17 for good to choice.

SEEDS.

The Alfalfa crop was injured by the early rains; sales making at 15c. Mustard Seed is slow of sale at 2c for Yellow and 2½c for brown.

HOPS.

The market is firm at 32½@35c. Some holders are asking much higher rates for choice.

COTTON.

We note a sale of 25 bales Merced County at 15½c.

HIDES.

There is a good demand for Dry at 19½@20½c for the usual selections; Wet Salted at 9@9½c.

HONEY.

Receipts have fallen off materially during the past month. Stocks are much reduced and prices are firm at quotations. We quote white Comb in frames at 18@22c; dark do 10@12½c; Strained, 5½@10c ₱ lb.

TALLOW.

There continues a fair demand for manufacturing purposes. Sales include 8,000 lbs ordinary at 7c; 25,000 lbs good, 7½@7¾c; 3,000 lbs refined, 9c; 6,000lbs Grease 6c.

POTATOES.

The market is full of inferior "rotten" stock, while choice are scarce. Humboldt, picked and assorted, command $1 62½; Petaluma and Tomales, $1 37½@1 45 ₱ 100 lbs. Sweet $1 25@1 50.

WOOL.

There is rather more inquiry. The sales for the week aggregate 1,500 bales, say 1,500,000 lbs in all, within the range of 12@21½c. Some lots of burry and earthy sold as low as 10@11c.

DAIRY PRODUCTS.

Butter supplies are coming forward more freely and California fresh Roll is selling readily within the range of 37½@55c as extremes. California pickled Roll is nearly out of market, and is quite firm at 42½c. California Firkin is firm and in good demand at 37½@40c. Oregon Butter is scarce, bringing 35@38c according to package and condition. There is a fair supply of Western Reserve on hand, mostly of good quality, quotable at 27½@30c. New York State extra choice is held at 40c. California Cheese is in light stock, and in good demand at 14@16c. New York State Cheese is jobbing at 16@18c. Western Reserve at 16@17c. Fresh California Eggs are quite plenty, and prices have declined to 30@35c. Eastern Eggs just received selling at 25@27½c in order. Oregon Eggs have been selling at 30@35c for choice fresh, though at present the demand is light. We note a sale of 3,000 dozen at 15c for limed.

sion church of San Juan Capistrano, and destroyed by an earthquake, as above mentioned. Upon nearing the ruins, the old walls look like an immense depot, until a close approach dispels the fancy. After the earthquake not a particle of the debris was touched, nor a mark of improvement made, until 1853, when the citizens of San Juan determined to repair the walls, rebuild the roof, and reopen the premises generally. Work was at once commenced, the broken walls being patched and extended with adobes. This, however, proved a failure, as the adobes, not being allowed sufficient time to dry, became shapeless, and fell to the ground in a mass of mud.

The interior of the corridor building in many places, is in an excellent state of preservation. Much of the furniture, which was imported ninety odd years ago, is as substantial as when first manufactured. An old bench, upon which have been seated in succession padres Gorgonio, Amunio, Mugarteguin, Sunea, Barrona, and Salvidea, graces the ruins as an article of school-room furniture.

Around about may be seen distributed large piles of dirt, etc., all of which at one day or another, since 1776, were manufactories, nunneries, workshops, dwelling-houses, etc. This, and the ruins of the church and its corridors, are all that remain of the once rich and celebrated Mission of San Juan Capistrano.
