[FROM WEDNESDAY'S SEMI-WEEKLY.]

—Mr. R. Luedke went to Silverado yesterday.

—Downey City has contributed $58 in aid of the relief fund for the fever-stricken southern people.

—The vessel now at Anaheim Landing, discharging lumber for A. Guy Smith & Co., will be loaded with grain for northern ports.

—Judge Athearn killed a large seven-year-old rattlesnake in the Santiago Canyon yesterday.

—Those desiring to purchase coal should apply to Mr. H. Cahen, the Black Star Company's agent in Anaheim.

—General Banning will assume charge of the wharf and lighters at Wilmington on the 1st of October.

—County Surveyor Jackson is now engaged in surveying a road between Anaheim and Silverado.

—The Black Star Coal Company have appointed A. M. Thornton their agent in Los Angeles.

—The third social party of the Fairview Recreation Club will be given at Grange Hall on the evening of October 11th.

—Religious services will be held at the school house on Sunday, Sept. 22, at 2:30 P. M., sermon by Rev. I. M. Leihy. All are cordially invited.

—The visit of the editor to Silverado will, we hope, be considered a sufficient excuse for the paucity of local news in this morning's paper.

—Five Chinamen, arrested in Anaheim for disturbing the peace, had a trial before Justice Humphreys of Santa Ana, a change of venue having been taken. They were convicted and fined $12 each.

—E. R. Nichols, a former resident of Tustin City, and son-in-law of Col. Tustin, is a candidate for the Arizona Legislature from Williamson valley, in that territory. C. M. Marshal, formerly of Orange, but now of Chino Valley, A. T., has been nominated for Senator.

—The Riverside Press wants the people of that town to subscribe $1000 to build a road to Silverado. It says that a road could be made through the mountains that would reduce the distance between Riverside and Silverado to 23 miles.

—At a meeting of the Magnolia Social Club on Saturday, the following officers were elected: Adolph Rimpau, President; C. E. Leonard, Vice President; J. J. Hill, Secretary; H. Cahen, Treasurer. A meeting of the Club will be held this evening.

—We have always several hundred dollars worth of stationery on hand for use in job printing. We solicit the patronage of our friends and the public. Bill heads, letter heads, envelopes, business cards, circulars, posters, etc., printed in the best style and at very low rates.

—The Thespian Club have decided to give their entertainment on Wednesday evening, October 9th, so as not to interfere with the ball of the Fairview Recreation Club. The latter should show their appreciation of this courtesy by attending the entertainment in a body.

—In the assault and battery case of Humboldt vs. Conrad, which was tried in Santa Ana on Monday, after two unsuccessful attempts to get a verdict in Justice Athearn's court, the jury disagreed—9 for conviction and 3 for acquittal. Judge Humphreys dismissed the case.

—In a communication to the Express Mr. H. D. Barrows takes the ground that water for irrigation should be held, transferred, and controlled under the same laws as those which govern real estate—should be, in fact, real estate; and that taxes should be levied only on that portion of a man's property which he owns after deducting the indebtedness and incumbrance upon it.

—Bank Commissioner Murphy has examined into the condition of the Farmers' and Merchants's Bank of Los Angeles, and has published his report. He finds the bank to be thoroughly solvent, and says that "the prejudicial rumors which shook the confidence of some in this institution have no foundation in fact."

—Mr. M. A. Mendelson returned from San Francisco on Sunday evening. He has purchased an extremely large stock of clothing and gents' furnishing goods, which he is now unpacking. His store has been enlarged by taking out the partition which divided it from the old telegraph office, and he is now able to display his goods to great advantage. Give him a call and convince yourself of the fine quality of his new goods.

—It is not very long ago since the editor of the Times charged us with being guilty of bad taste in certain of our writings. Time, which rights all things, has given us an opportunity to retort. What greater evidence of bad taste could be found than was presented in the Times of last Thursday. It copied Major Toler's short articles, descriptive of the various towns in the county, all except the articles relating to Anaheim. You shouldn't have done that, neighbor.

—Through the courtesy of Assessor Fischer we have received the following statement from the assessment roll of Anaheim school district, just completed:

Real Estate	$143,773
Improvements	120,925
Personal Property	85,467
Total	$350,165

The school trustees will have a meeting in a day or two and decide upon the tax levy.

WHAT IS BEING DONE AT THE MINES.

The Prospects still encouraging—The Great want of the District—Various interesting Notes regarding the Mines.

The drive from Anaheim to Silverado is not by any means a long or unpleasant one. The distance is only twenty-five miles, and the road, with the exception of a few miles, is what may be called good. For nearly all the way a cool wind sweeps down the canyon; and during the last week, when the thermometer in Anaheim climbed to the dizzy height of 104°, Mr. Taylor, the driver of the stage from Anaheim to Silverado, tells us that he experienced no unusual heat.

The stage which leaves Anaheim at 7 o'clock every morning arrives at Silverado at noon—just in time to be greeted by the noisy clamor of the dinner bell.

Our visit to the mines was rather ill-timed. We arrived on Saturday, and during the afternoon the miners held the meeting noted elsewhere. On Sunday the various claims were deserted, the miners being at their devotions.

THE FLORENTINE MINE

Was the only one we thoroughly examined, thanks to the courtesy of Messrs. W. E. and A. C. Taylor, the principal owners. As our readers know, the ownership of the Florentine is in dispute, being claimed by Harvey & Thistlewaite and others. The title will be passed upon by the District Court in a few days. Notwithstanding the dispute, the Florentine Company have worked energetically to develop the mine. They have had five men at work for some time, and the tunneling done at various places on the claim will aggregate about one hundred and fifty feet. They made several small tunnels on top of the hill to ascertain the dip of their ledge, and having done so they are now tunneling into the side of the hill at a distance from the top of 150 feet. This tunnel is now in forty-five feet, and it is estimated that before striking the ledge they are seeking for, about thirty feet more of tunnel will be required. The ledge once found, they will take out ore sufficiently rich to ship to San Francisco for milling. The company sent a carload of ore to that city some time ago, and the returns, judging from the energy with which work has since been prosecuted, must have been very satisfactory. The paying vein is from twelve to fourteen inches wide. Assays of rock from this mine run all the way from $100 to $200 to the ton, and unless the knowledge of mining experts is at fault the ledge will be found to extend all through their claim. The Taylor Brothers themselves possess a mining experience which enables them to judge of the extent and prospects of their mine, and they would not spend money in the way they are doing were they not confident that a bonanza would eventually reward their exertions. A patent to the mine will be applied for next week.

THE MOUNTAIN

On which is located the Florentine, Harvey & Thistlewaite, Dunlap & Flanigan and other mines of known richness, abounds in mineral. There are croppings on every foot of it; it is streaked with little seams of mineral. Even a novice can scarcely fail to comprehend the vast amount of mineral which lies in this huge mountain.

A great quantity of rock is on the dump of the Dunlap mine, and the quality is very rich. There is about two feet of water in the tunnel. The presence of water is said to be indicative of the permanence and richness of the ore vein.

For the reasons stated at the beginning of this article, we did not visit the other mines of the Blue Light Company. We have however arranged with our Silverado correspondent to give us a weekly letter, with information in regard to the work being done at the various mines, character of the ore, etc.

The Ophir mine, owned by Pullen & Hill, is doubtless very valuable. It and the adjacent Emma mine differ from the others in being

GOLD MINES.

An assay of Ophir ore, made by Thomas Price of San Francisco, gave $40 gold and $6 50 silver to the ton. The Ophir is tunneled about thirty feet. The gold-bearing vein in the Emma is from 13 to 15 inches wide. Messrs. Hill & Pullen have a very pleasantly situated camp, and the presence of Mrs. Hill and Mrs. McDermott gave it quite a homelike appearance. Mrs. Hill has been in the mountains for a couple of weeks, and finds it so invigorating and agreeable that her stay will be prolonged indefinitely. Mr. McDermott and wife went up on Saturday and returned on Sunday.

The Taylor Bros. also own the Southern Belle mine, and are very sanguine of the prospect. They have two men constantly at work developing it; in fact 800 pounds of ore were brought down on Monday to the arastra, and we may receive some information as to its richness in a few days. The Lake and Sears mine is conceded to be one of the best in the district, and is being vigorously worked. The Huntington mine is also a promising one. They are now at work on an incline and have attained a depth of forty feet. The silver vein varies in thickness, but it is always rich.

THE GREAT WANT

Of the district is a mill, and unless one is speedily erected there will be an exodus of miners. On the other hand, the capitalist could hardly be expected to invest his money in a mill until the mines are better developed, and the sooner the Silverado ans recognize this fact the better it will be for them. There are probably a hundred locators who, having made a few feet of hole—just sufficient to show a vein of silver ore—are now sitting down, awaiting the building of a mill before they take any ore out. These people should remember that before capitalists can be induced to invest in a mill they must be fully satisfied that there is sufficient ore to keep it at work. A great many of the miners recognize this fact, and the great necessity of a mill is impelling them to develop their claims as far as their pecuniary condition will permit. Unfortunately, the financial condition of the mass is scarcely equal to developing a silver mine.

THE POPULATION

Is composed in the main of farmers from the various parts of the country. One meets familiar faces at every turn. Anaheim, Westminster, Santa Ana, Orange, Tustin, Newport, Downey and other towns in the county are largely represented, and when early winter rains give warning that the soil is once more ready for the plow, there will be a very general temporary abandonment of the various claims, unless, indeed, a mill is by that time established, and the ore is found to be as rich as is now supposed.

There is undoubtedly plenty of ore that will yield from $40 to $50 per ton, but it don't pay to ship rock to San Francisco unless it yields at least $75 per ton. It has been suggested that a concentrator, such as is used at the Silver King mine in Arizona, would be a great benefit to the district. The concentrator reduces eight tons of rock to about one ton. This would permit the shipment of low grade ore until a mill is established. The cost of a concentrator is about $1500. This sum could probably be raised among the miners in Silverado, and a joint stock company formed, if some one would take the lead.

THE TOWN OF SILVERADO

Is as unlike a mining camp as could well be imagined. The presence of women and children has a depressing effect on the forty-niners, of whom there are not a few in camp. One of them was sitting in front of a saloon on Sunday, entertaining a small audience with reminiscences of his mining experience in early days. "We didn't have any of them ar things about," said he, pointing the finger of scorn at a group of women and children, "we could git drunker'n a biled owl, an' rip an' tear around quite promiscus, but when a feller comes to this here town he's got to keep his face clean an' take his pizen like a sneak, 'count of them ar wimmin." Another cause of grievance to that ilk is the quality of the whiskey. Through a mistaken notion of the requirements of the camp, the saloon keepers all have a very good quality of liquor. This does not suit the Argonaut; indeed, it is one of his pet grievances that he cannot get the bug-juice of pioneer days—the kind, he explains, that used to knock a man half way round the block.

Mr. Tony Faber, of Los Angeles, opened a saloon on Saturday. There are now five in the camp. In fact, business houses of every kind are in excess of the requirements of the place. For obvious reasons, money is not a whit more plentiful than in other places in the county, and for equally obvious reasons the business in a mining camp should be done on a cash basis.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES.

Up to last Saturday evening two hundred and eighty locations had been made in the Santa Rosa District. On the Recorder's books the names of about three hundred and twenty mine owners are recorded.

Shrewsbury Canyon is now the objective point of nearly all prospectors. It is said that the number of people in that Canyon actually exceeds those in Silverado. Huge stories float over the intervening mountains into Silverado of the rich strikes being daily made. The locations in Shrewsbury's are said to be three feet deep, and more is being piled on every day.

A new district, to embrace Shrewsbury and part of Ladd Canyon, will be organized in a day or two. It will be called Trabuco District.

Some of the incorporators of the Blue Light mine are men of wealth and enterprise, and it is confidently asserted that they will put up a quartz mill within three months. It may be here remarked that a recent statement that the principal place of business of this corporation would be in San Francisco is a mistake. Los Angeles will be the headquarters of the corporation.

Unless one is thoroughly acquainted with the country, mountain traveling is beset with difficulties and danger. Four young men came into Silverado on Saturday night with clothes "all tattered and torn," and in a state of great physical exhaustion. They had started from Temescal in the morning, but, losing their reckoning, had wandered about the hills all day without food or water, until by a lucky accident they found the trail to Silverado. Geo. Hawkins and I. H. Gilman had a similar experience. They were on horseback, but suddenly came upon a precipitous bluff, which barred their further advance. They had to retrace their way and make a fresh start in another direction.

Not only is great physical labor required to visit the various mines, but a resident of the valley labors under the disadvantage of being oppressed by the mountain air. The higher up one goes the greater is the oppression—a feeling is experienced similar to what would be felt if a great weight should be laid on one's breast. But the discomforts and labor involved in a climb bear a sweet recompense in the easy and rapid descent, half a dozen yards at a stride—or slide.

The miners at work on the American Union, in Shrewsbury Canyon, were visited by a grizzly two nights in succession last week. His presence was made known to them by a very unpleasant smell, said to be characteristic of grizzlies. It was too dark to see him, but they smelt and heard him. A big fire was built; each man picked out his tree, to be ready for any emergency, but the fire prevented his grizzlyship from making a charge. In the morning his tracks were found but a few feet distant.

Among the new discoveries, of which information was brought to camp on Saturday, were the following: Charles Cunningham brought in some very rich ore from Shrewsbury Canyon. He says there are hundreds of tons lying on top of the ground. Martin Benson, formerly of Anaheim, made a rich discovery between Silverado and Shrewsbury. He had been at work on the American Union, and while on his way from the mine to the camp, sat down on a convenient rock to rest and refresh himself. He picked up a small piece of rock at his feet, found it to be rich in silver, and further investigation showed that he had accidentally stumbled upon a very rich body of ore.

Messrs. L. Halberstadt, John Oefinger, and J. J. Hill, of Anaheim, are the owners of two very promising mines, the Nora and Isabella. The latter is being thoroughly prospected by Halberstadt and Oefinger, and it gives us pleasure to record that the prospect of its being a rich mine is very flattering. Mr. Oefinger is an experienced miner, and he is very sanguine of the future of the mine. We are under many obligations to Messrs. Halberstadt and Oefinger for courtesies shown us during our stay.

Stevens & Whitehead made a location in Silver canyon recently, but as it was found that their location conflicted with another made by Huntington and others, the conflicting claims were united and they are now known as the Consolidated Black Lode. The ore is said to be as rich as any that has yet been shown in the district.

Messrs. Simpson & Lascelle entered into a contract some time ago to run a tunnel thirty feet, the consideration being a one-half interest in the mine. The rock was very soft and loose, and the tunnel had to be well timbered as the work progressed. They had about finished the thirty feet, when through some negligence they did not timber the last foot of excavation. In the night the water broke into the mine, washed away the supports, and totally destroyed the tunnel. The only pleasant feature about the affair is that the disaster occurred in the night, when none of the men were at work. Otherwise there might have been loss of life.

J. Charleston, of Los Angeles, has entered into a contract with the Virginia Company, on the Thanksgiving Lode, to run a tunnel 40 feet, for a one-third interest in the mine. Stewart & Co. have contracted with the Silver Star Company to sink a shaft on the Mayflower mine until paying ore is reached. For this they will receive a one-third interest in the mine. Many contracts similar to the above are being made every day.

On returning from a hunting expedition the other evening, the popular Deputy Recorder, H. S. Knapp, (may his tribe increase,) retired to rest. As he was about dozing off into a sleep he felt something crawling on his leg. He nervously grasped the unpleasant thing and threw it from him. Procuring a light he looked in the direction in which he had thrown it, but discovered nothing. Some time during the night, his room-mate, Recorder Clark, arose to take a drink of water from a glass which he had filled the evening before, and had put on a shelf near the bed. By the dim light he saw a dark object in the water, and upon examination it was found to be a tarantula—the same which Mr. Knapp had repudiated a short time previous. Mr. Clark, not being fond of "tarantula juice," quenched his thirst from another glass.

A stage line from Los Angeles to Silverado is the latest. The proprietor answers to the suggestive name of Walker. The distance is fifty miles, the fare is $3, and it is proposed to run the stage three times a week. One station is at Hindesville and the other at Keith's, near the picnic grounds. Few people nowadays care to travel such a distance by stage, even to save a dollar or two. Nearly all the travel to the mines is by way of Anaheim. The stage which leaves Anaheim every morning seldom has less than three or four passengers.

It was our fortune to stop at the Gillett House, where we found every comfort and convenience. Mr. Gillett is an experienced hotel keeper, and his wife is an amiable lady, and has a knack of fixing up appetizing dishes for her guests. We liked her bread so well that we prevailed upon her to tell us how she made it. She gave us a recipe for making yeast, which we will publish one of these days for the benefit of our lady readers.

The Miners' Meeting.

The meeting held at Silverado on Saturday was rather a lame affair, and the prospects at one time were that none would be held. We are indebted to Mr. W. E. Taylor for the following report of what was done. What wasn't done would fill a volume:

SILVERADO, Sept. 14.

Pursuant to call, a miners' meeting was held this day, and was duly organized with Mr. Simpson in the chair and W. E. Taylor as Secretary; J. J. Guinn, F. A. Clark, and G. E. Shinn, tellers. On motion, duly seconded and carried, it was decided that the by-laws be read. Said by-laws being read, the following amendment was offered by Mr. H. Cassidy: "It shall be the duty of every locator of mines in this district to produce sufficient evidence to show that the locator is entitled to record, and the evidence shall be the sworn testimony of at least two disinterested men." The ballot resulted in 40 votes in the affirmative and 12 in the negative.

☞ We solicit the patronage of those who require anything in the job printing line. We have hundreds of dollars invested in job printing material, and our facilities are such that we can afford to do every kind of printing at very low rates.

A THEOLOGICAL DISPUTE.

Was J. Smith an Inspired Prophet?—The discussion of the momentous Question.

GOSPEL SWAMP, Sept 10th.

EDITOR GAZETTE:—Thinking you would like to have an account of the famous and long talked of controversy which has now begun between Elder Clapp of the "Re-organized Church of the Latter Day Saints" and G. L. Russell of the "What is it," I will now proceed to give you a sketch of the first tilt held by these redoubtable champions. It took place last Tuesday at the school house, five and three-quarter miles southwest of Santa Ana. The champions both entered the arena on time; the house was crowded by the elite of Fountain Valley and the Swamp; a few benighted Gentiles were observed from Santa Ana and a newly converted son of Israel—surnamed Yeliab, who also hailed from that modern Sodom, presided over the deliberations of the meeting. He was flanked on his right by Bro. Burton, a disciple of Joseph Smith, and Bro. Russell of the "What is It" and on his left by Elder Clapp. Bishop Moosser, Colum Smith and Bro. Dameron were among the prominent personages noticed in the audience.

The question under discussion was whether Joe Smith, the founder of the Mormon church, was an inspired prophet or not. I do not know whether I have given the exact language or not, but this is the gist of the question. After being introduced by Bro. Yeliab, Elder Clapp opened the tournament by shivering his lance against his opponent's helmet by stating that the discussion or the evidence for or against the probability of Joe being inspired or not, should be confined to the Gentile Bible.

Mr. Russell followed the Elder and repudiated any knowledge of such an understanding and proceeded to cite authorities disproving the divinity of the Prophet Smith. (Each speaker, I will here observe, occupies one-half hour at a time; the debate to continue two hours each night.) After Mr. Russell's time had expired, the Chairman, Bro. Yeliab, proposed that all should rise and sing a doxology. There were several different tunes started; Bro. Yeliab, however, held his own for a while with the following: [Which is suppressed by ye editor.] * * * * * "Scme say"—Here Bro. Burton recovered from his astonishment and gave Bro. Yeliab a vigorous dowse, which doubled Bro. Yeliab up on the floor, and sat down on him until some vigorous lunged Bro. started the good old fashioned doxy. After this was finished Bro. Burton let Yeliab up, who proceeded to brush his pants and re-adjust his dickey and resume his position as Chairman of the meeting. On re-introducing Elder Clapp he took occasion to rebuke the congregation for any levity which they might hereafter indulge in. "I have no doubt" says he, "that both the speakers will say some very ridiculous and risible exciting things"—(here Bro. Burton gave his coat tail a vigorous pull) "That is—er—I mean—er—(another pull) hem, hem—allow me introduce you to Elder Clapp, fellow citizens.

Bro. Clapp occupied his half hour in repudiating one of Joe Smith's original Apostles, Orson Pratt, and denying that Lucy Smith, the prophet's mother, ever wrote his biography, which Mr. Russell had exhibited. The latter closed the debate for the night by showing that Joseph's "Dowser" or divining rod was not of first-class quality, or he would have discovered the cloven foot of Orson Pratt, whom his opponent now sought to repudiate. The meeting was then closed until Wednesday night 7½ P. M. early candle lighting. GENTILE.

Anaheim's Generous Response.

The following communications explain themselves:

ANAHEIM, Sept 7, 1878.

Mr. Aaron Stein, San Francisco.

Dear Sir:—I send you to-day by Express $32.00. Other Relief Associations had canvassed before we did; that is the reason why I could not collect more. Yours

A. LANGENBERGER, Agt.

Mr. A. Langenberger, Agt. at Anaheim.

Dear Sir:—Thanks for the above remittance ($32.) We note your apologetic remarks, and concede their force. At the same time the field of suffering is so large, and the call for help so loud and urgent, we hope you will not yet relax your efforts.

Yours, AARON STEIN, Tr. R. Fund.

Another list has been started by Mr. Langenberger, and those who are able to give can have their contributions forward free of charge by Wells, Fargo, & Co.

At a meeting of Anaheim Lodge, No. 207, F. and A. M., held on Monday evening, $20 was donated out of the lodge fund for the relief of the fever-stricken South. This makes Anaheim's contribution $152, as follows:

Proceeds of Entertainment	$100.00
Collected by W., F. & Co's. Agt.	32.00
Donated by Masonic Lodge	20.00

This is a much greater amount than any other town in the county has contributed, excepting Los Angeles.

—At the meeting of stockholders in the Anaheim Water Company, held on Saturday, 32 shares were represented. The contract entered into with the Cajon Company, which was given to our readers last week, was read and ratified unanimously. The deed from the Cajon Company was also ratified, so that Anaheim now owns a half interest in the Cajon ditch. The Cajon Company, of course, are required to finish the ditch to the western boundary line of Shanklin's land, which they expect to do in two months. Action on proposed alterations in the by-laws was postponed until next Saturday.

—Anaheim is making a united effort—through its town Board of Trustees—to secure ample space at the coming Fair, and make a grand combined local exhibit.—Republican.

Important Insurance Decision.

EDITOR GAZETTE.—A very important case of claim against an insurance company has lately been decided by the U. S. Circuit Court of San Francisco, which will undoubtedly be of great interest to all who are, or will hereafter become insured; as it makes a precedent in favor of the insured for all cases to come hereafter. As all these companies have ever proven to be on the stealing path, we think it proper to give it publicity, and submit to you the paper with synopsis of the decision by the above Court, stating here that F. A. Berlin was the learned counsel for the plaintiff and that to his knowledge and caution is due the success of this case. With the belief that Mr. Berlin has proven himself the true and faithful champion defender of the poor insured, we take great pleasure in recommending him to all those who may find themselves imposed upon by that huge elephant—fire insurance companies. A. B.

V. D.

In the Circuit Court of the Ninth Judicial Circuit of the United States.

In and for the District of California.

Peter Richards, use of Elizabeth Bittner, plaintiff, vs. The North British and Mercantile Insurance Co., defendant.

This case was removed from the District Court of the 17th Judicial District of California, in and for the county of Los Angeles. After its removal to this Court the complaint was so amended as to set forth all the facts upon which the defence relied in order that the merits of the case might be determined upon a demurrer. The defendant demurred, and the point raised upon the demurrer was whether the following condition of the policy had not been broken and therefore the policy rendered void, viz: "Upon the passing or entry of a decree of foreclosure or upon a sale under a deed of trust; or if the property insured be assigned under any bankrupt or insolvent law, or any change take place in title or possession....whether by legal process or by judicial decree, or voluntary transfer or conveyance; or if this policy shall be assigned before a loss, without the consent of the company indorsed hereon....the policy shall be void."

At the time the insurance was procured the legal title to the property was in Peter Richards, but Elizabeth Bittner held a mortgage upon it. Of this fact the insurance company had notice, and the policy was made payable in case of loss to Elizabeth Bittner. Before the expiration of the term of the policy, Elizabeth Bittner foreclosed her mortgage upon the property, a decree was entered and a sale made by the Sheriff, and Elizabeth Bittner became the purchaser.

Before the expiration of the period of six months allowed to the mortgagor for redemption, and during the life of the policy, the property was totally destroyed by fire. A demand was made upon the company for the payment of the policy, which was refused by the company upon the ground that the policy was voided by the entry of the decree of foreclosure.

Upon the hearing of the demurrer Judge Sawyer (Justice Field of U. S. Supreme Court concurring) overruled the demurrer upon the ground that there was an insurable interest in the mortgagor until the time for redemption from the mortgage sale had passed, and that the policy being payable in case of loss to Elizabeth Bittner, she was insured as well as the mortgagor to whom the policy was issued, and that therefore the policy was not voided by the entree of the decree of foreclosure in Elizabeth Bittner.

Irrigation Statistics.

In the recent trial of the Los Nietos water case in the District Court the following testimony, given by Mr. Craigue, an expert in the science of irrigation, proved of such interesting character that we obtained a copy of it and are thus enabled to present it to our readers. Mr. Craigue said:

A volume of 61¼ cubic feet would cover 366 acres four inches deep in twenty-four hours. Allowing a rotation of twenty days it would irrigate 7,320 acres. One cubic foot of water per second will cover six acres of land four inches deep in twenty-four hours. In Lombardy, which is a country where irrigation has been more systematized than in any other in the world, they produce rice crops which require an immense amount of water, of which an idea may be formed from the fact that the water is kept standing on the rice crops to a depth of ten inches for a period of ten weeks together. There this allowance or calculation is that one cubic foot of water a second will irrigate seventy acres of land. In the south of France, where they irrigate from a branch of the Rhone, the allowance is two hundred acres of land to one cubic foot per second. That is the best result that has been obtained. They produce maize, castor beans, cotton, pulse, and some grains which we are not familiar with. In the south of France there is a peculiar wind called the "Mistral" which causes an immense evaporation. Probably for the same kind of crops a larger quantity of water is there used than would be required in other countries. Taking the basis of 200 acres per cubic foot per second, the Los Nietos ditches would irrigate on an average 13,400 acres.

A suggestion is made by a correspondent of a French paper that bodies might with advantage be buried in the sea, which he considers to be the natural cemetery for the dead. He proposes that funeral boats large enough to contain several bodies, be periodically despatched from convenient places on the seashore, and that the bodies be committed to the deep at such a distance from the land as will prevent all possibility of their interfering with the public health. The Japanese seem to have adopted some such system; for the schooner Parallel, which arrived at San Francisco on the 22d ult., reports that on the 7th of July, off the coast about 100 miles north of San Francisco, she fell in with a Japanese junk. There was not a living person on board, but a number of corpses were found, some shackled together. They must from their appearance been dead at least a month. Many of the bodies were dressed in costly materials. There was no food in the vessel.

THE HORTICULTURAL FAIR.

Since our last reference to the Horticultural Fair, steps have been taken to carry out the plan suggested by us to secure a full and commendable exhibit of Anaheim products. Mr. L. W. Kirby, the President of the Board of Trustees, has written to the Secretary of the Society to engage a space of thirty feet along the aisle. Anaheim recognizes the fact that the space at the disposal of the Fair managers is limited, and is thus moderate in its demands, so that other communities may not suffer for want of room. It is certain that a much larger space could be filled, if the object was merely to gather together a conglomerate mass of articles without reference to their merit. What is proposed, is to have on exhibition samples of soil products, the handiwork of our mechanics and manufacturers, and articles of like solid worth. We want our wagon-makers, harness-makers, blacksmiths, gunsmiths, shoemakers, cabinet-makers, jewelers, bakers, millers, coopers, and other mechanics and manufacturers to expend their ingenuity and skill in the production of something in their line. We want our nurserymen to send their nicest and biggest trees; our florists to send their choicest flowers. An especially fine display of Anaheim wines and brandies must be made, and our agriculturists must see to it that a fine show is made of grain and vegetables. Fruits, fresh and dried, must be shown in abundance. Apiarists must send neatly packed honey. In fact every trade, profession, and industry ought to be represented.

It is very important that the ladies should contribute liberally. Few things at a Fair attract so much attention as a nice display of needle-work, embroidery, shell and flower work, quilts, and articles of that description, in the making of which women excel. And to our certain knowledge there are ladies in Anaheim whose skill in preparing jelly, jam, preserves, pickles, etc., would assuredly give them a premium. We furthermore call upon the ladies to devise ways and means for getting away with the $50 baby carriage which is offered as a premium for the handsomest baby.

The Board of Directors of the Horticultural Society has appointed committees in the various towns in the country to work up local departments. The committees in this end of the county are as follows:

Anaheim—R. Melrose, W. R. Olden, and A. Langenberger, to co-operate with the Town Council.

Santa Ana—Frank Cobler, Nap Donovan, and Dr. Elemendorf.

Orange—James H. Hall, Dr. J. V. Truesdell, J. W. Anderson.

Westminster—Thos. Edwards, Rev. Robt. Strong, J. F. Marquis.

Garden Grove—Con. Howe, with power to appoint two other members.

Tustin City—Andrew Mills, H. K. Snow, L. J. Colby.

The committees are appointed for temporary work only. They can be re-appointed by the citizens, or can be remodeled by them. The object is to set the ball in motion, so that each locality will be represented. The Board of Trustees of Anaheim held a meeting yesterday afternoon, to act on the suggestions we had the honor to make last week, but at the present writing its action is unknown to us.

MR. SAXTON comes to the defense of the maligned oleander, and adduces facts from his own experience to prove that its presence in an orchard does not result in an increase of scale-bug, that pest of orange trees. There is still another charge which has been made against this beautiful tree that we hope can be disproved. Every little while an item appears concerning the poisonous qualities of the oleander. It is said by a correspondent of the Horticulturist that cattle have been poisoned by eating grass grown near an oleander hedge, and we remember to have read of several instances where persons have been poisoned by handling the flower. These cases of poisoning, however, have all occured in places other than Southern California, and we are fain to believe that the oleander of these parts is as harmless as it is beautiful.

—Mr. Wm. R. Olden, who is authority on all matters pertaining to the southern end of the county, states that, this year, the water in the Santa Ana river is lower than it was ever known to be before by even the oldest inhabitant. This, in view of the abundance of rain last Winter, is inexplicable. What is true of the river holds good with regard to the farming lands generally in that section. They are dryer and require more irrigation than they did even in the dry season last year. Will some savant please rise up and tell us why this is thus?—Express.

Certainly. Whenever we are called upon to enlighten the ignorant we readily respond. We explained some time ago that the reason why the water is so low in the river is because nearly all the rains of last winter came from the west, and decreased in volume as they neared the hills—the source of supply of the river. Ask us something hard.

Transfusion of Blood.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 18.—Dr. Samuel Coppin to-day at 12 o'clock transfused at Orleans Infirmary eight ounces of blood from the arm of a healthy, stout laborer at Gay's Refinery, into the veins of E. J. Gay, sick and very low of yellow fever. The object was to sustain life in the patient to see if the kidneys would act, which, however, they refused to do, and at 11 P. M. Mr. Gay died.

To the Wine-Growers of California

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10, 1878.

GENTLEMEN: I feel it my duty to call your attention to the urgent necessity of looking well into the treaty that is now being proposed to enter into between the United States and France. Either there must be a great apathy amongst the vine-growers of our State, or they must be unaware of the utter ruin that menaces their interests, should that treaty be ratified by our Government. To make you understand the full extent of your danger, it is only necessary to mention that in this treaty it is proposed to reduce the duty on all French wines in casks to twenty cents per gallon; on wines in bottles to fifty cents a dozen; and on brandies and spirits to $1 per gallon! Need I say more?

You have labored hard and devotedly, some of you for twenty years, to bring your vineyard and wines to the point of perfection at which they have arrived. All these years you have struggled against a blind and unjust prejudice—against Time, usurious rates of interest, low prices, a slow appreciation of your efforts by men of wealth, and a still slower one by our Government. It is not enough to have your vineyards decimated by the ravages of that dreadful scourge, the phylloxera, but it is now proposed to sweep away at one scoop the entire results of your hard labor and long struggles. And this is to be done without consulting either you or your interests; by a single stroke of the pen; by the ratification of a treaty devised by cunning minds, and made plausible by the artful tongues of your foreign competitors! And will you stand idly by and see it done?

I am informed that after M. Leon Chotteau, Delegate from the commercial bodies of France, submitted his views upon this treaty to the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, that that body gave him its endorsement!

Do you not see your danger? This endorsement is to be used against you. And so is that of every Chamber of Commerce in the United States, which may have been either selfish enough to give its endorsement for its own advancement, or blind enough not to see the utter annihilation of one of the greatest future interests of our country.

You have no time to spare; the Senators and Congressmen of the Pacific Coast, who have always been your truest friends, are yet amongst you; but their stay will not be long, and it behooves you to act at once. I know that, owing to the vintage, but few of you can come to the city, and it would therefore be almost useless to call a meeting of the State Society. But gather yourselves together in local clubs and societies; collect your arguments; give your views, and, above all, make them strong and to the point. Send these either to your Coast Representatives at Washington, or authorize some person or persons in this city, or among yourselves, to wait personally upon our Senators and Congressmen, and make them fully aware of the dangers that menace your very existence.

Should this treaty take place, a few more short years will count wine-making in California a thing of the past! And all your toil, all your sacrifices, and the best efforts of your lives will have been spent in vain.

Very truly yours, ARPAD HARASTHY.

[For the GAZETTE.]

"What are you doing with that plant on your grounds?" said a passer-by to a neighbor the other day, referring to an oleander in bloom. "I wouldn't have one on my place for five hundred dollars." And that is a growing sentiment in this county; but the writer considers it entirely erroneous, as the prejudice springs from an idea that this beautiful flowering shrub, so ornamental for nearly the entire year, is the generator of the scale-bug, that pest of the orange, lemon, olive, and perhaps some other of our valuable trees. Now, my experience concerning it is as follows: Four years since I had brought from San Gabriel some twenty to thirty orange trees of from four to six years growth, the branches of which were covered with that nuisance, while the foliage was blacked with a smut or soot-like covering decidedly unattractive to the eye, to say the least. During the rainy season this was partially removed, only to be renewed, however, at a later period. Both these disagreeables remained for two years, since which time there has been very little appearance of either. At the first there was not an oleander on my place, nor within a half mile of it. Since then I have them placed here and there among the orange trees or elsewhere according to convenience and taste. Their beauty no one will deny, while as regards the scale bug, only a close scrutiny can detect any at all—not one-fortieth part the number on an ordinary orange tree of similar size. Others whom I have consulted give similar testimony. Therefore spare your oleanders, and protect that showy bird, the Oriole, which you may see hopping along the branches busily picking the scale bug therefrom.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Fall and Winter Materials, Costumes; Millinery.

MATERIALS.

For the first time in their lives, the Scotch find themselves a fashionable people, for this fall and winter there will be a run upon Highland plaids, which, made up in short kilt costumes, will be variously fashioned in imitations of the national garb of Scotland. But the patterns are small, and the colors subdued—quiet shades of blue or green; red if introduced being in a narrow streak which gives only a slight relief. In very different style comes India camel's hair, which ranks as an elegant and leading fabric. The texture of this class of goods are long hairs lying flat on the surface. Bourrettes material have had their day, and soon will be too old-fashioned for a present even to a poor relation; so my good reader, if you contemplate such a donation, hasten to make it, or if you intend wearing out your bourrette costume, don't be too nice about it, and put it right on, and have the good of it while you may. "Suitings" are now the desire of our eyes, and derive their name from a resemblance to the mixed goods worn by gentlemen. This in so far as the grave colored are concerned, but many of the new suitings are quite bright, showing all colors mixed in a hap-hazard way. Other new fabrics display a wool surface covered more or less thickly with small buds and leaves en satin; others again remind one of old-fashioned vestings, while we find corduroys brought out especially for vests. Rich materials show small regular figures formed of minute loops which are made by means of fine wires over which the thread is woven. Subsequently of course, they are withdrawn. Handsome styles have a surface of rich wine color, which shows through the raised figures above, and just here I may add that various shades of wine color and garnet deepening almost into black will be very fashionable. Among standard black goods, the grand opera cashmeres and alpacas, as also the beavers, mohairs and sable brilliantines rank foremost for durability and elegance.

A word about new costumes. Here we have the Duchesse polonaise, which combines two different styles, a basque and apron front, with polonaise back. The Esmeralda overskirt is stylish and graceful, being very long with a plastrow down the middle of the front, the side pieces laid in plaits, and the back irregularly draped. The Jessica basque is new and very pretty, and the Lauretta jacket is a charming model for an out door garment in light cloth or en suite with the costume.

MILLINERY.

Owing to kind attention from Messrs. Worthington and Smith, I have obtained information as to elegant styles in Fall and Winter millinery. Felts are shown again in black, dark colors, and different shades of gray, cream color, and white. Velvet laid plainly on the frame will be much worn, but some bonnets are covered with figured velvet. Shapes are often similar to those of the summer, but in addition there are striking novelties, as for example, that which coming low at the back, close at the sides, and flaring high over the forehead, is a re-production of what our grandmothers or great-grandmothers wore. Oftentimes it is tied on by a ribbon passing over the crown. Flowers are disposed in a pronounced bouquet on the top of the bonnet, or in heavy spray on the side, or again a cluster of ostrich tips in place of the bouquet is very fashionable. But the greatest novelty perhaps are feather bands in which bright plumage is mixed together in cashmere designs. Ostrich plumes are laden with jet or gilt, for gilt is still very fashionable. Ribbons are extremely rich, velvet on one side and satin on the other, or sometimes four colors are combined; two on one side, and two on the other. Pompadour ribbons are brightly flowered. Corduroy, striped velvet, and tinsel velvet are new for trimming. Reddish wine shades and garnet are the leading colors.

LUCY CARTER.

COLUMBUS (O.), Sept. 17—On Saturday morning last Edwin French, an old and well-known citizen of Cleveland, died at the residence of his son-in-law in Willoughby, 13 miles east of here. This morning early it was discovered that the grave had been robbed. Detectives were at once set at work and this afternoon the body was found in a tank underneath the floor of the Homœpathic Medical College of this city. The grave had been robbed between 1 and 2 o clock at night and the body brought to the city in a carriage and thrown into the tank, and the floor put back and nailed down. J. E. French, son of the deceased, immediately swore out warrants and nearly a dozen people, including the Dean and members of the Faculty, the Janitor and several students of the college, were arrested. The Faculty disclaim all knowledge of the body-snatching, and say they are entirely ignorant of the whole affair.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—According to the Tribune's table, New York has contributed $238,000 to the stricken South. The following is the total death list to the end of the week: New Orleans, 2,081; Baton Rouge, La., 30; Plaquemine, La., 37; Morgan City, La., 8; Port Eads, La., 8; Memphis Tenn., 1,985; Grenada, Miss., 223; Holly Springs, Miss., 76; Vicksburg, Miss., 566; Canton, Miss.; 54; Port Gibson Miss., 96; Ocean Springs, Miss., 9; Greenville, Miss., 49. Lake. Miss., 12, Hickman, Ky., 26; Louisville, 7; Gallipolis, O., 9; Cincinnati, 5; St. Louis, 10; Chicago, 1; Cario, Ill., 3. Total, 5,305.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 17.—The Grand Lodge of Old Fellows to-day elected John B. Harmon of California Grand Sire. The other officers were re-elected. Amendment changing the title of the supreme body from the Grand Lodge of the United States to that of the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Old Fellows was adopted by a two-thirds vote. This action gives great satisfaction to the members from foreign jurisdictions.

Gustave Mahe, President of the French Savings Bank, San Francisco, committed suicide in rooms over the bank, on Tuesday evening. Financial troubles are supposed to have caused the act.

Both of the San Bernardino daily papers announce that they will suspend publication after the 28th instant, because of the hard times.

The whisky made by the "moonshiners" of Carolina and Georgia is thus described: To an educated New York or Kentucky palate its taste is cumplessey and disagreeable. It scorches the gullet on its way down and makes a man feel as though he was carrying a redhot grapeshot in his stomach. A Kentuckian says he felt as though he had swallowed an electro cat backwards. Three fingers will upset a stranger, but a genuine mountaineer never succumbs to less than half a gallon. It is frequently sweetened with honey or molasses. This improves the taste, and makes it an insidious drink for novices. Well-sweetened, it will throw an unsuspecting Yankee under the table quicker than eggnog.

Horace Greeley, when he was a local editor, said: "We never say anything that any body does not like but we hear of it—everybody tells us all about it. If, however, we once in a while say a good thing we never hear of it; no one seems to notice it. We may pay one a hundred compliments and give him a dozen puffs, and he takes it as a tribute to his greatness, and never dreams that it does him any good; but if we say something this man don't like to see, how quickly he gets mad and flares up about it. Our evils are daily charged up to us; apparently we never get any credit for what good we do." We know it is the truth, for experience has taught us that.

Stockton Independent: The sheep-shearing match that took place at French Camp on Saturday between Thos. King and G. Caruthers, for a purse of $500, was won by Thomas King. The shearing began at half-past 8, and at noon King had sheared 31 sheep and Caruthers 30. A truce was declared for dinner, after which shearing was resumed and continued until ten minutes past 2 o'clock, when King had sheared 45 sheep to 41 sheared by Caruthers. The latter then gave up the contest, as his hand gave out.

It seems that genuine wine vinegars can be readily distinguished from the spurious kinds. Mix the wine vinegars with an equal quantity of potassium dichromate and boil for about a minute. The solution, if the quality of the vinegar is what it is sold for, assumes a dark red. When wine vinegars are treated with plumic acid they yield an abundant precipitate.

Said an aristocratic little Boston miss: "Ma, if I were to die and go to heaven, should I wear my moire-antique dress?" "No, dear; in the next world we shall not wear the attire of this." "Then, ma, how would the Lord know I belonged to the best society?"

Alexander Austin, ex-Tax Collector of San Francisco, committed suicide at San Mateo by shooting himself. A recent Supreme Court decision, compelling him to pay $300,000 taxes paid under protest, is supposed to be the cause of the suicide, as the money cannot be found and was probably squandered.

Kleinigkeiten.

—San Diego city warrants are selling for 25 cents on the dollar.

—In Justice Athearn's court on Thursday, Conrad entered a plea of guilty of assault on Moran .He was fined $25 and costs.

—Charles Trapp, an employe of the New York Brewery, died in Los Angeles on Wednesday of congestion of the brain.

—Messrs. Culter & Parker, of Westminster, are building an iron running gear for Mr. Cowan. These gentlemen are doing fine work and are building up a large trade.

—Our coopers are kept busy at this season. Mr. Westphal is turning out large quantities of wine pipes, and Mr. Wille is busy making honey barrels.

—Mr. John Gwin, of Anaheim, has on exhibition at the Mechanics' Fair at San Francisco samples of Odessa wheat grown in Anaheim.

—In the assault and battery case of Riepe vs. Conrad, tried before Justice Bailey on Wednesday, the jury rendered a verdict of guilty. The Judge imposed a fine of $70 and costs.

—The San Luis Rey correspondent of the San Diego Union says that Procopio, or "Bustamente," the horse-thief, is now somewhere in Los Angeles county. He passed through from Smith's mountain by way of Digger Canyon.

—Rev. J. A. Mitchell, late Pastor of the Anaheim Presbyterian Church, will leave on Friday for Amador, Amador county, to which place he has been called by the Presbyterian congregation there. We wish him success in his new field.

—A son of Mr. Campbell, who resides near Anaheim, was bitten by a spider a day or two ago, and it was feared at one time that serious consequences would ensue. Dr. Ellis, who treated the case, says that the boy's pulse got down to 54, respiration to 42 and temperature to 60. He is now, however, recovering rapidly.

—Mr. T. P. Hinde, of Anaheim, writes to the Rural Press to say that "the encalyptus in New Zealand is almost a nuisance to some people in their gardens because of the seedlings. Wherever the seed drops you may look for a tree, the steady periodical showers of rain germinating the seed very rapidly. Having been in New Zealand, I have seen this for myself."

—Under the caption of "a large honey yield," the San Francisco Chronicle copies our item in relation to raising of honey and the manufacture of honey barrels in Anaheim. The San Diego News copies the same item, prefaced by the following remark: The following from the Anaheim GAZETTE would seem to warn us that we have to look carefully to our laurels in regard to the yield of the honey crop.

—In referring our readers to the advertisement of Mr. M. A. Mendelson, of the Merchant Tailoring Emporium, we take pleasure in endorsing his statement that his new stock is very large and complete. He has some very elegant suits of ready-made clothing, while his stock of piece goods cannot be surpassed. And in order to make quick sales he has marked down his prices to the very lowest figure. Call at the Emporium and inspect the stock.

An Unpleasant Situation.

We had a very strange experience while coming down from the mines on Monday. About a mile out from Silverado the stage overtook three miners on their way to their claim in Shrewsbury Canyon. They had been to town for supplies, which included provisions, whisky, and something in a sack, which we noticed was handled rather carefully; all the more noticeable because the miners "were use fou, but just had plenty." They asked the driver for "a lift" to the mouth of the canyon, which privilege was, of course, readily accorded. They sat on the rear seat. The drive was over the worst part of the road, and the bumping and jolting was terrific. Disjointed scraps of the conversation going on back of us reached us now and then, and we were soon made aware that a discussion was progressing as to what was likely to happen if the sack aforementioned was to fall from the holder's hands to the bottom of the stage. They all seemed to agree that something fearful would be the result. The only point in dispute seemed to be in regard to the degree of damage that would be done, but a compromise was finally reached in the understanding that it would only knock —— out of everything within two hundred yards. At this point we were constrained to ask what was in the sack, and the reply was that it was Giant Powder cartridges. Pleasant, wasn't it? A sackful of explosives in the hands of reckless, devil-may-care young men, and in a stage traveling over a rough and rugged road! We fancied that Taylor drove more carefully after that, and that he was especially careful to pick out the softest spots on the road until we reached the mouth of the Canyon and our friends left us. We never parted from anybody as willingly as we did from these three honest miners, and if this paragraph ever happens to meet their eye (which is extremely doubtful, as we have a firm conviction that they have been blown into smithereens by this time), we hope they will forgive our unrestrained exultation at their departure.

An Almost Fatal Adventure.

EDITOR GAZETTE.—A young lady gave her consent to a ride with me on the seashore, Sept. 18th. We enjoyed the drive from Bolas Chica to the strait which connects the ocean with the bay at Anaheim Landing. The evening was far advanced, with the fog already come. Fearing I would lose the way from Bolas Chica on, as indeed the fisherman did within 100 yards from his own gate, as he took us home, and knowing that the water between the bar and the wharf varied from six inches to many feet, I determined to cross the strait and come into the Anaheim Landing road if possible. In one direction the water looked so sandy, I thought it quite shallow, and started across. The way was easy for a few minutes; the water becoming deep, I tried to turn but could not. Then I urged the horse (Topsy) to swim, hoping to reach the other shore by simply getting wet. The horse swam well, but the water deepening, Topsy gave up, fell back, and commenced to float. I saw the horse was drowning; we were standing on the buggy seat with the water waist-deep, as we threw off our outer clothing. The tide carried the buggy into deeper water, when pushing off from the top of the seat we hoped to reach the land. In swimming, my feet became entangled in the lady's dress, and I sank. On coming to the surface, I gasped out, "Try to float!" The lady was perfectly composed, and at once her face was turned to the sky, without bearing her weight upon me, until my feet became disentangled. But I now made the almost fatal mistake of losing sight of the shore, and taking her in the direction of the buggy cushion and robe, which were going out fast with the tide, but which I supposed were drifting toward shore. This strength expended was all wasted, and there was little left to turn in the right direction. Utterly exhausted, we came near enough to touch the bottom, when her first breath was an exclamation of gratitude to God. On the bank we knelt; we were saved, saved, commonly speaking, because of the lady's calmness and presence of mind, in simply holding to my clothing instead of seizing me and preventing my swimming. Also because she could listen and float when my feet became entangled and we were on the eve of drowning. Once on the shore, my voice was drowned in the noise of the waves, and the fog was too heavy to signal to the Landing for help. We walked toward Mr. Clawson's (the fisherman's) house till we were both too exhausted to go on; and the wind and fog and darkness were frightful—the moon not rising till 11, and then very dim. For the third time I went from the shore to the top of the sand hills to call for help. The fisherman's house was three miles away, but the fisherman was passing at a distance on his way to the night's work with his net. He waited for us, threw out the net, took us to his house and, after some hot tea and stimulants, we went to the house of the Rev. Mr. Marquis in Westminster, where the lady received every possible care.

On hearing the news, four young men very kindly offered to go with me to the shore to look for the horse and pick up the lost clothing. At 2:30 we had found nothing but the buggy cushion. Two of the young men spent the rest of the night on the barley sacks so as to be present when the tide was up, at the dawn of day, and things would be washed in.

If I should not be heartily grateful to all from whom we have received such kindness, this lady would never speak to me again. Neither will she allow me to forget Topsy. When we stood on the top of the buggy seat, with the water nearly to the arms, and pushed away, the horse of course was in water too deep to stand, and so, with its head thrown back, was choking, gasping for breath, and we left it drowning, as the lady said, "poor Topsy."

Imagine our surprise next morning to find Topsy alive and "waiting for the wagon"—I mean the buggy. I explain it in this way: when we stepped from the buggy, the weight was less and the animal could float more easily. The strong tide drifted the horse and buggy to more shallow water, toward the bar, where, getting breath, the animal was able to swim and pull the institution to shore—though with difficulty. For afterward we saw where in the night the animal had walked about seemingly confused and nowhere to go—probably hunting for us.

J. A. MITCHELL.

WESTMINSTER, Sept. 18.

EDITOR GAZETTE:—It is desirable, and in a measure a necessity, that the following statement of facts be made public in view of the appearance in last week's issue of the GAZETTE of the article of J. M., which, if it means anything, means that the session of the Presbyterian Church here, by garbling the record, has endeavored to create a false impression in regard to the action of Presbytery, and that they were actuated by an improper motive in so doing. The facts do not warrant any such statement. The session earnestly desired the publication of the full proceedings of Presbytery, and believes such publication in justice due them. If Presbytery deemed it wisdom to justify the course of the session by positive action, it was eminently proper that the session should have the benefit of such action by having the same made known. While, as a simple matter of fact, by pigeon-holing the proceedings in the desk of the stated Clerk, it was of about as much value to them as if the session of Presbytery had been held in China and the proceedings recorded in the Choctaw language.

To J. M.'s reference to Presbytery directing the session to institute judicial proceedings, etc., and his venturing the opinion that an earlier action by the session would have probably saved trouble and division, we would say that he is one of quite a number who, after division has been accomplished, is able to tell just exactly how it could have been avoided; but all appear to lose sight of the stubborn fact that no charges have ever been preferred against this "certain party." And, lastly, the object of publishing the extract from the minutes of Presbytery, criticised by J. M., was not to "herald a victory," but simply as the least that ought to be done under the circumstances in justice to the Session.

ONE OF THE SESSION.

—Mr. William Niles, of Los Angeles, was in Anaheim yesterday. Mr. Niles is the pioneer poultry dealer of Southern California, and we have been reliably informed that his imported fowls have no equal in any of the poultry yards of the State. When the proper season arrives, Mr. Niles will let our citizens know through the GAZETTE what he is prepared to do for them in the poultry line.

REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE GAZETTE.

The threshers are still busy. There are over 10,000 sacks of barley at Anaheim Landing, and still it comes. The pressure will be relieved by the shipment next week of some six thousand sacks.

The hot weather ended last week Thursday. It left its mark on the late planted corn and pumpkins; and even on the foliage of trees. Some apples were cooked on the trees, on the side nearest the sun, and peaches shriveled. Now we have comfortable days again, and nights that remind one of early frosts.

At the Company Store is a Bartlett pear weighing 15 oz; a quince (one of fifty-three on a small tree) weighing also fifteen ounces; and a Yellow Bellflower apple, 13 oz, the last two from Mr. Van Anda, who is owner of the fine orchard planted by Con. Howe.

Rev. S. B. King announced last Sunday his resignation of the pastoral charge of the Presbyterian Church and he will preach his final sermon next Sunday. During his residence here of over four years he has commanded the respect and confidence of the entire community, which recent events have not shaken. The hall will doubtless be crowded to hear his parting words.

A meeting of the congregation of the Presbyterian Church will be held in the Hall next Tuesday at 2 P. M.

We understand that Rev. J. A. Van Anda has been appointed by the Conference to the charge of the M. E. Church here for the third year.

The Methodist Social will be held next Tuesday evening in Mr. Steinart's new house. A supper including good oysters will be given. The programme will be toasts and responses, with music, etc.

The Bermuda grass of which Mr. Olden has been writing to the GAZETTE and Rural Press certainly deserves trial. It is growing luxuriantly for Mr. Little of Garden Grove on land too alkaline for shrubs or trees. How strong alkali it will stand is the point to be tested, but the indications are very favorable for its use on land that will only grow tumbleweeds and perhaps on land even stronger still. It does not seem to root as deep as salt grass, and hence could be more easily eradicated by dry plowing. It is fine and sweet to the taste, and is said to be eaten eagerly by stock of all kinds. Mr. Little very kindly authorized me to say that persons desiring roots or cuttings for trial can have them without charge "for the good of the country." It will make an excellent lawn in our climate. But its greatest use will be in our spotted pastures, making every foot available. Let it be thoroughly tried.

Fires and rumors of fires is the watchword at present. Last week a fire started on the Blaisdell ranch, and burned over a strip of ground a mile wide by two long. No loss, except stubble and seed for next year's volunteer crop. Mr. Mason, with all the help he could gather, is said to have fought and successfully stayed its further progress. A fire near the Alameda rancho was fought by sheep-shearers for three days before it was stopped, and a large amount of grain is said to have been burned.

On the 13th inst. the mercury reached 102 degrees at Norwalk. A couple of horses died from the effects of the heat.

Mr. Martin of this place lost 20 stands of bees, killed by the hot sun. The honey melted and ran out of the boxes.

Last Sunday as Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins were riding out, while turning a short corner at full speed, Mrs. Hawkins was thrown out of the vehicle, but sustained no injury further than a sprained wrist, which was certainly remarkable, considering the circumstances.

The following was kindly handed in by the Secretary: On the 14th inst. Little Lake Spelling and Social Club held its first meeting. The following officers were elected: Mr. Isbell, President; S. Bush, Vice President; Mrs. E. H. Ward, Secretary; Mr. Taber, Treasurer. Committee on Programme: Mrs. Ward, Misses Bush and Eaton, and Messrs. Ward and Bush. Members: Mesdames M. E. Decker and E. H. Joy, jr., Wilson, Taber, J. Isbell, D. K. Ryler, J. Joy, Lake Houghton, Walter Martin, G. A. Millard. After spelling down, in which Mrs. Decker was allowed the laurels by the opposite side withdrawing on account of the lateness of the hour, there were declamations, dialogues, music and speeches, when the club adjourned to meet on Sept. 21, at which time the following programme will be carried out: Opening song, Work and Win; declamation, G. A. Millard; dialogue, girls; recitation, Minnie Decker; speech, Edward Ward; dialogue, boys; violin solo, Mr. Isbell; recitation, Silas Joy; declamation, Walter Martin; speech, James Joy; recitation, Miss Ella Eaton; duet, Mr. and Mrs. Decker; selection, J. R. Bush; dialogue, L. Houghton and others; reading of Little Lake Journal: charade, Mrs. Ward and others; closing song, Work and Win, No. 2.

Little Lake school house has an organ.

The trustees and friends of education met on Saturday last and transplanted ten very large pepper trees around the school house. The trees were kindly donated by Mr. Page.

A Retrospect.

EDITOR GAZETTE.—Musings, after forty years of experience, enables one to judge of its merits and results in the past. Taking a brief review of the marriage institution, we find it varying in forms and customs in its different nations and ages. From the time when a man would take his bride by force and drag her to his home, she becoming his wife, until the present time, when custom and law has pronounced them one, and that one by the man, laws have been changing for the better until it is possible now for a truly mated pair to stand as equals. It is to be hoped that the human race will yet become wise enough to live up to a standard like this: What Love has joined together let not discord part asunder.

Looking over our family record, we find that in the past forty years the product of our union has produced the sum of 322 years of human life, with all the attending toil and care resulting; 300 years of active labor to the world, and not one day in prison; not one confirmed invalid or deformed person in the family of 25 parents, children and grandchildren; and, strangest of all, there are not one so good but they might be better, and none so bad that they might be worse. With thanks for the many comfortable tokens of Woolen, we remain, as ever,

[FROM LAST SATURDAY'S SECOND EDITION.]

WANTED.—A boy to learn the printing trade. Apply at the GAZETTE office.

—In Anaheim on Wednesday the thermometer reached 104 decrees; on Thursday 102, and yesterday 101.

—A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Black Star Coal Company will be held on the 27th inst.

—The Probate Court has heard and allowed the final account of A. W. Steinhart, administrator of the estate of S. Goldstein, deceased.

—The schooner Hayes has arrived at Wilmington from Coos Bay, with 226,000 feet of lumber for A. Guy Smith & Co. This is the second cargo that Messrs. Smith & Co. have received within a month.

—We must ask the indulgence of our kind correspondents. There are a number of interesting articles on file, which will be published just as soon as we can make room for them.

—A partial list of articles dealt in by Mr. H. Cahen will be found in our advertising columns. His store has never been so well supplied as it is now, and it will well repay one to make an inspection of the stock.

—An orange orchard for $100 per acre is an offer which has never heretofore been paralleled. But unless a purchaser is found soon it will be withdrawn from the market. Full information given on application at this office.

—A correspondent of the San Francisco Chronicle says that leaves of the blue gum, made into tea, will cure yellow fever. We knew it was only a question of time until some lunatic obtruded the eucalyptus cure once more upon a suffering public.

—The Thespian Club of Anaheim are rehearsing nightly for an entertainment which they propose to give on October 11th. The programme will comprise an olio, a temperance drama entitled, "Fruits of the Wine Cup," a farce, "The Quiet Family," and a social dance. We predict a crowded house, and an enjoyable evening to those who attend.

—For some time past an individual has been prowling about the premises of some of our citizens during the night. He has twice narrowly escaped capture by Officer Bohn, and that official proposes to put a stop to the unknown's midnight peregrinations in a very summary way, if the practice is continued.

—Messrs. Goodman & Rimpau have been quite successful in purchasing barley. They have bought an enormous quantity, but their cry is still for more. Those who have choice lots for sale ought to consult them, as they offer the outside price for good barley.

—One hour after the first paper in the case was filed yesterday, our District Court entered a decree of divorce. Quick work that, distancing even the lightning pace of Chicago.—Herald.

—If one will give the subject a moment's thought he will be surprised at the number of exhibits which, with proper effort, Anaheim could send to the Horticultural Exhibition. In speaking of Anaheim, we of course mean Anaheim school district. Just at this moment the following articles occur to me: Wheat, barley, corn, rye, oats, grapes, raisins, fruits of all kinds, fresh and dried; wine, brandy, beer, artesian well pipe, honey and honey barrels, harness, lime juice, trees from the nurseries, corn meal. Half a hundred articles might be added to the list.

—On motion of Supervisor Ott, the Board of Supervisors rejected the claim of N. M. Norcross for damages on Santa Ana road district.

—The fire in the Santiago Canyon destroyed 75 stands of bees on Mr. Witte's rancho. It is said that he sold the bees the day before they were destroyed.

—The horse Gibraltar, owned by G. O. Tiffany of Los Angeles, won the trotting match at Oakland on Thursday. Time of the best heat, 2:24.

—Mr. W. A. Morrison is at present building several new wagons at his shop on Centre street.

Frightful Loss of Life.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The Abercarne colliery is the property of the Ebbow Vale Steel, Iron and Coal Company, one of the largest iron and coal properties in South Wales. It is situated a few hundred yards from the Abercarne railway station, on the Western Valley section of the Monmouthshire Railroad. The pit, which was 300 yards deep, and one of the largest and best worked in the district, was yielding 1000 tons of steam coal daily. The machinery for winding, pumping, and ventillation was of the best kind, and the use of safety lamps in the mine was rigidly enforced. The cause of the explosion cannot even be surmised. Three detonations were successively heard on the surface. The framework and casing of the pit were thrown to a height of 300 feet above the mouth of the shaft. The colliery employs upward of 1000 hands, of whom 373, taking their turn or shift, went down at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. Twenty-one of this number came up at noon, up to which time nothing had occurred to create a suspicion of danger. At 12:10 P. M. a loud rumbling noise was heard, followed by a series of flames from the pit's mouth and a column of smoke, dust, and debris ascending high in the air. The explosion damaged the winding gear, thus destroying the only means of communication with the men working in the pit. As soon as the damaged gearing could be repaired, working parties were sent down the shaft and 92 men and boys, working within a few hundred feet of the shaft, were rescued, but it became evident, as attempts were made to advance into the workings, that little hope could be entertained of any life surviving. About 400 yards from the bottom of the shaft are the stables and here 14 horses were found, all dead. Beyond this point the explorers could not go on account of the impurity of the air and the prevalence of choke damp. Volunteer explorers succeeded in bringing out 10 or 12 men very much burned; also 7 dead bodies; but it is feared that no others can be, for the present, got at in consequence of the fire extending, and there remains no reasonable hope that any further lives will be saved. The whole district of Monmouthshire is much excited and it seemed last night as if the entire female population of the district had gathered about the mouth of the shaft.

A Cannibal Programme.

[From the Cincinnati Commercial.]

Previous to Kearney's appearance there were loud yells for "Haynes." Mr. Haynes, who is a howling socialist, came on the platform and delivered a ranting and blood-curdling address. He said:

Mr. Chairman: I have not come to take up your time. I have a programme that I want to read before Kearney appears. It is a programme for to-morrow night, in the city of Newport. It is as follows:

First—Soup, made of blood wrung from infants in factories, who are worked 10 hours a day by capitalists.

Second—Roast—Two bank directors will be roasted on interest wrung out of the poor and on coals of luxury.

Third—Boiled Chinamen, with leprosy and diseases for sauce. [Laughter.]

Fourth—Fricasced School Board, seasoned with turnpike monopoly.

Fifth—Iced bondholders' blood, mixed with blue aristocracy. And he will pick his teeth with the bones of the Democratic party, and then fan himself with the plumage and feathers that are picked from the old Republican. [Laughter.]

Managers, Tom Scott, Vanderbilt, and Jewitt; Treasurer, Belmont; Chaplains, Henry Ward Beecher and Joseph Cook.

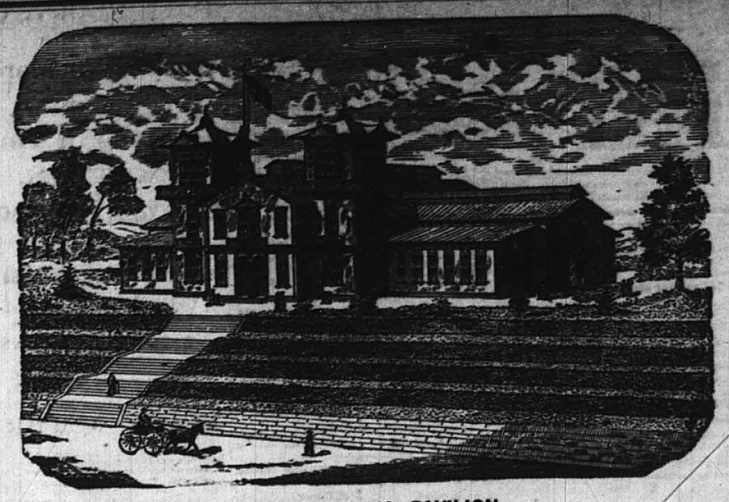

Disinfecting Foul Places.

The Scientific News calls attention to the importance of getting rid of vile smells about dwellings, and makes this practical suggestion: "The article commonly used to disinfect foul places is chloride of lime, but in reality it is not of much value. It may and generally does remove bad smells, but the cause still remains, as the chloride simply destroys the gaseous emanations. The much advertised disinfectants are usually catch-penny nostrums, and unworthy of notice. One of the very best disinfectants is old-fashioned 'copperas,' or sulphate of iron, which may be had very cheap. A barrel of copperas would weigh probably 300 pounds, and can be purchased for a cent and a half per pound. And every family ought, especially in warm weather, to have a supply of it on hand. A couple of handfuls of copperas thrown into a bucket of water will soon dissolve, and it can then be used freely, and is a valuable disinfectant. The best plan is to fill a half barrel or keg with water and suspend within it a moderate-sized basket full of copperas. In this way it dissolves more rapidly than when thrown to the bottom of the wooden vessel, and thus a supply is always at hand ready for use.

Yellow Fever in Ohio.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 12.—H. W. Bielts, of Memphis, who was taken to the hospital on Sunday with yellow fever, died last evening. It is said that a very malignant type of fever has broken out at New Richmond, Ohio, 20 miles from this city. Of six or seven persons attacked, five have died. The patients turn yellow, and, before they die, present the peculiar symptoms of black vomit. Physicians pronounce the disease bilious fever.

Gen. Butler has been nominated for Governor of Massachusetts by the Independent Greenback party.

HORTICULTURAL PAVILION.

Now being erected by the Southern California Horticultural Society, on Temple Street, Los Angeles, only 1,500 feet from the junction of Main and Spring Streets, which is considered the center of business.

The Pavilion Lot has a frontage of two hundred feet on Temple street, and extends back to Sand street, a depth of three hundred and forty feet. The above cut represents the Temple street. The Sand street front is reached by easy grade with no stairs. The Pavilion consists of a main hall, two stories high, with a frontage of 76 feet by a depth of 132 feet, with an annex 30 by 60 feet in the rear, to be devoted to the purposes of a Stage, and annexes on each side 50 by 50 feet, two stories in height, one to be devoted to the purposes of a Machinery Hall, and the other to an Art Gallery. In the angles in front of these annexes, one story apartments will be constructed 40 by 32 feet each, which will be employed respectively for Fine Art and Floral Halls. The Auditorium in the main hall will be 112 by 76 feet, and, with the extensive galleries, will have a seating capacity of 4,000. The Pavilion complete presents a frontage of 176 feet by a depth of 161. The main central hall is now being built, and the wings will be added as soon as the finances of the Society will permit. The Directors intend to build only so far as they can pay, and are firmly resolved to incur no indebtedness.

FIRST ANNUAL EXHIBITION — OF THE —
SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Will be held at the NEW PAVILION during the week

Commencing Monday, October 17th, 1878.

All Premiums will be paid in coin except when otherwise specified. Liberal Premiums are being offered in the following departments: 1st. Agricultural Implements, Vehicles, etc.; 2d. Textile Fabrics and materials from which they are made; 3d. Mechanical Products, Musical Instruments, etc.; 4th. Agricultural Products, Flowers, etc.; 5th. Fruit, Fruit Trees, Raisins, Wines, and Brandies; 6th. Fine Arts.

LOCAL DEPARTMENTS.—In order to give each locality exhibiting products at the Fair ample credit for their productions, each town, neighborhood, or school district applying for space will be allowed a department of its own, which will be properly designated and will be as large as is consistent with the capacity of the Hall and the applications for space.

This is the largest hall south of San Francisco in this State, and the prospects are good that the approaching Fair will be the largest ever held in Southern California. The Central Pacific Railroad Company will transport all articles exhibited at the Fair over their routes, FREE OF CHARGE. Freight being paid on them to the Fair will be returned upon the reshipment by the same owner and exhibition of certificate of Secretary that the same has been exhibited. Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express Company will carry, free of charge, all articles sent to the Fair for exhibition not exceeding ten pounds in weight. Arrangements are being made with the Steamship Company to carry freight and passengers at the usual reductions, particulars of which will be published as soon as definite arrangements are completed.

EXCURSION TRAINS are being organized on all the roads centering at Los Angeles. These trains will carry passengers to and from Los Angeles at less than half the regular rates, and ample time will be given excursionists to visit the Fair and examine the city and county. The excursion train from the north will start from San Francisco. Particulars in regard to the running of these trains will be made public at an early day.

The Society will have in its Pavilion more space than any Fair ever before held in Southern California, and yet the applications for space are so much greater than ever before that those desiring to exhibit should lose no time in making application for space to the Superintendent. Towns and neighborhoods should take steps at once to secure a creditable representation of their respective localities. No charge is made for space or entries. Each exhibitor must hold, however, a Season Ticket, which will cost three dollars. Premium list and Rules and Regulations sent free on application to the Secretary.

The Pavilion will be completed in time for holding the Fair on the day advertised.

J. DE BARTH SHORB, President.
