ADVERTISE IN THE SEMI-WEEKLY GAZETTE.

Kleinigkeiten.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S SEMI-WEEKLY.

—C. C. Angle and Arnold Staub left for Yuma on last Thursday in their own team.

—John T. Gordon, of Azusa, has been appointed a Notary Public.

—The Cemetery Association will hold a postponed meeting on Saturday the 22d.

—Mr. W. E. Taylor is in town from Silverado. He is as sanguine as ever of the great future of Anaheim's mining suburb.

—"Four 5 cents a glass; lunch 10 cents a plate" is the announcement which now hangs over Mr. Mossman's saloon.

—The Irish residents of Los Angeles will give a ball on the evening of St. Patrick's Day, March 17th.

—Mr. J. de Barth Shorb, of San Gabriel, is shipping oranges largely to Salt Lake City this season.

—We acknowledge the receipt of a complimentary invitation to attend the entertainment and ball to be given by Confidence Engine Company in Los Angeles on Saturday.

The lecture which was to have been given by Rev. Mr. Halliday on Tuesday evening of last week was postponed until further notice.

—Mr. Henry Wartenberg, a brother of our Town Marshal, died at the French Hospital on Monday morning, aged about 50 years. He has been an inmate of the Hospital for the past four month.

—Mr. Timo. Lynch, of San Francisco, a former resident of Anaheim, was in Los Angeles a couple of weeks ago, but his time was too limited to permit of his visiting his friends here.

—Mr. W. H. Swan, of Spadra, has consigned to Mr. A. G. Beebe a lot of strawberry plants of a variety which is said to produce a fruit nearly as large as a hen's egg, and of fine flavor. The plants are fresh and vigorous, and should meet with a ready sale.

—In our advertising columns will be found a notice of Sheriff's sale of the property of the Cajon Irrigation Company, to satisfy a judgment rendered by the District Court in favor of Messrs. P. Davis & Bro. The sale will take place on March 15th.

—Mr. J. C. Langenderfer was called to San Francisco suddenly on Monday by the intelligence that his sister was dying. He does not intend to return until the latter part of the year. Mr. Langenderfer was a popular young man, and his departure is generally regretted.

The third game of base ball between the Analecin and Garden Grove Clubs will be played here on Saturday, commencing at 1 o'clock P. M. Each club has won a game, and the "rubber" will be warmly contested. A committee has been appointed to prepare seats for the convenience of spectators.

At the meeting of the stockholders of the Cajon Irrigation Company, held on Saturday, an assessment of $50 per share was levied, payable immediately. The proposition of J. W. Shanklin to surrender 60 shares of stock, representing $6000, in consideration of his being granted a perpetual water right for his land, was accepted.

—Mr. Thistlewaite of Silverado says that authentic information has been received to the effect that a five stamp mill will shortly be put up at the mines. The manager of the project, Mr. Bray, has been seriously ill in San Francisco for some time, otherwise the mill would probably have been in operation some time ago.

—Mr. Stevens, of the Globe Iron Works, San Francisco, accompanied by Mr. Dunlap, visited Silverado during last week. It is very evident that strong influences are being brought to bear upon San Francisco capitalists to induce them to erect a mill in the district, as several capitalists who are known to have a penchant for such enterprises have visited the district at different times during the winter.

—The Black Star Coal Mining Company have up to the present time been fortunate in having no trespassers upon their domain, but the recent developments, which have made it certain that an immense bed of coal exists in their vicinity, have also attracted a number of prospectors to the neighborhood. Four of these men, Sims, Mnir, Hammond and Howe, have located on the Company's land, and although they have received verbal and written notice to that effect, they still remain. One of the men is a discharged employe of the company, and all, we believe, hail from Los Angeles.

—Gentlemen from Texas Hill inform us that the way for the iron horse is being rapidly prepared. Rails are now laid fourteen miles east of that point, and graders cover the ground to Gila Bend. By the first of March the eastern terminal station will be moved 30 miles east of Texas Hill. There is no knowledge at the fort that the work will be pushed beyond Maricopa Wells this season. It is noticed that as the road advances the stations along the old wagon road are generally vacated, and it is presumed that when the road reaches Maricopa, there will be few if any stations kept up. Mr. Strobridge, the energetic builder, says there are no obstacles ahead to prevent rapid progress, and if the iron reaches him rapidly enough he will be at his season's terminus on time.—Herald.

THE MASQUERADE BALL.

The Most Successful Party ever given in Anaheim—Nearly Three Hundred Participants—The Characters Represented.

The ball on Friday evening last was from all accounts the affair of the season, and will long be remembered with pleasure by all who participated therein.

The hall was tastefully decorated with evergreen, and the Decorator-in-Chief had taken the precaution to add to its general appearance by placing some large colored pictures in conspicuous positions around the sides.

Shortly after seven o'clock the throng commenced to arrive and continued almost uninterruptedly until after nine o'clock. At that hour there were eighty maskers on the floor and the spectators numbered at least two hundred.

The March was announced to take place exactly at nine o'clock, and thanks to the able management of Mr. M. A. Mendelson, aided by Mr. Adolph Rumpan, this was a perfect success, the evolutions being accomplished with commendable promptness and regularity.

The ball of last year had no doubt given our masqueraders an idea of how such an affair should be conducted, and that the lesson was well learned was shown by the ease with which the various characters were personated, entirely lacking the stiffness and formality of last year.

The old adage, that no two persons think alike, was exemplified at this time, allowing the costume to be an emblem of the thoughts of the wearer, for while one would represent the Rev. Mr. Moody, perhaps the very next character would be a gentleman from Sing Sing, while a Sister of Charity would be confronted by a "gemmen of cullur."

In such a motley collection it would be difficult for us to particularize any one, but must content ourselves by saying that we saw no personation but what we considered well carried out in every respect; and while it was simple enough to get an idea of the character represented, it was next to impossible to obtain any clue as to the personnel of the wearer.

At twelve o'clock came the unmasking, and there was then the usual mirth, in some cases perhaps accompanied with a little chagrin at the wildness of the surmises in reference to whom certain maskers were.

After a bountiful supper at the Anaheim Hotel, the dancers returned to the hall, where in company with the dancing portion of the spectators, who until now had been excluded from the floor, the festivities were kept up with unabated ardor until the break of day warned the weary and foot-sore to be away to their homes.

Take it all in all, the ball was a perfect success, and the Magnolias have the satisfaction of knowing that their efforts to please have now, as well as in former instances, been appreciated.

The Club desire to return their sincere thanks to their patrons, as well as to those who kindly assisted them in decorating the hall for the occasion.

From the descriptive cards furnished by the GAZETTE we are enabled to give a partial list of the characters represented and the names of the personators.

The Water Question.

EDITOR GAZETTE:—An article signed X appeared in your paper of Feb. 12th, containing statements so peculiar that the following reply is deemed necessary. "X" says "they (the taxpayers) are justly opposed to a project whose supply is limited and a matter of continual cost, as compared with the idea of the introduction of water from the Water Co.'s ditch where the supply would be unlimited, and the cost of which would be merely nothing after the first expense of introduction. Then the whole of the town might expect to reap of its benefits, etc. That from the Water Co.'s ditch with unlimited supply for the whole town, would cost about three thousand dollars, with no expense following it." The italics are mine. The assertion that the supply from the Water Co.'s ditch would be unlimited is pure bosh; at this time, it is beyond the power of any one to say positively whether the supply will be unlimited or not. "With no expense following it." Would it cost nothing to keep a large shallow reservoir, as proposed, free from sand and sediment? Would it fill and discharge itself without supervision? Would the pipe from such a source remain free and unobstructed? Would the water rise up out of the pipes and distribute itself upon the streets, extinguish fires, etc?

Now let us see what it will cost to supply the whole town with water, for this, bear in mind is the proposition of "X." There is within the corporate limits of the town about twenty miles of streets; it would be necessary to lay pipe through each of them, in order to "supply the whole town with water." Good water pipe of wood or iron is worth in San Francisco per foot as follows: 2 inch 12½c, 3 inch 20c, 4 inch 30c; twenty miles of 2-inch pipe at 12½ cents per foot would amount to about $13,200; 3-inch pipe would come to $21,120; and 4-inch pipe, the kind proposed, would amount to the snug sum of thirty-one thousand six hundred and eighty dollars. And this is but one item of cost. No account has been taken in this estimate of laying the pipe, freight, hydrants, connections, site for reservoir, etc. This added to our school and water liabilities would make this a desirable town to emigrate from. "X" may try to evade the issue by saying that he did not mean to introduce all the pipe at present. View it in the most favorable light and it would be an entering wedge to ultimately pry from thirty to fifty thousand dollars from the taxpayers of the town. And for what? A reservoir depending upon a ditch fourteen miles in length, built on steep hill sides a great portion of the way, with 600 feet of flumes, said ditch depending upon a river supply which, although sufficient for purposes of irrigation, will probably fail for a greater or less period in extremely dry years, and with a pressure from said reservoir only sufficient through wooden pipes (see Trautwine) to discharge at the junction of Center and Lemon Sts. at a height to be of any service, twenty gallons per minute. A brilliant result truly, considering the outlay. This reservoir scheme would be monstrous if it were not supremely absurd.

"X" says the well and pumping process will cost from two to three dollars per day." A proposal has already been made to furnish a bond, fuel, and keep the tank filled for $300 a year, or less than one dollar per day. In his last article (Feb. 13th,) "X" speaks of "a portion of the Town Trustees, etc." I would beg to inform the gentleman that this is a government of the majority—not of a minority. The point upon which rests the success or failure of the project in hand is, whether a well can be obtained for a reasonable outlay, capable of furnishing the amount of water required. The Board will endeavor to ascertain this fact before they incur any further expense than the cost of said well.

TRUSTEE.

Effects of the Late Frost.

The San Francisco Bulletin of the 13th inst. has five columns of correspondence from orange growers throughout the State, being answers to a circular sent to them by the Bulletin asking, 1st,—The lowest readings of the thermometer in their respective neighborhoods during the late frost; 2d—The extent of the damage done to trees of the citrus family; 3d—And whether the trees are planted on high or low ground, and their ages; 4th—Have the frosts of this and previous winters been sufficiently severe to preclude the successful cultivation of orange and lemon trees without protection.

The responses from Los Angeles county are made by ex-Gov. Downey, G. A. Moorehouse, Thos. A. Garey and O. W. Childs, Los Angeles; L. J. Rose and Gen. Stoneman, San Gabriel; and Wm. R. Olden, Anaheim. The testimony of these gentlemen is to the effect that in some parts of the county young trees in nursery and lime trees were badly bitten, but bearing trees were not affected. Mr. Olden's remarks are here given in full:

December 15th, 32°; 19th, 30°; 25th, 32°; 1879, January 9th, 34°; 10th, 32°; 11th, 34°; 15th, 31°; taken from a self-registering thermometer in the open country outside of Anaheim in orange grove. (No cold weather since January 5th.)

2. No orange or lemon tree within a circle with a radius of five miles from Anaheim has been frosted in the slightest degree. Even lime trees, bananas, tomato and potato vines are untouched. Oranges and lemons never have been injured in Anaheim, which is protected by a range of hills north of town which keep off the mountain wind.

4. Neither orange nor lemon trees have ever been injured in Anaheim or vicinity by a winter frost. A few trees on the outside were injured by an April frost four or five years ago, but were not damaged materially, and that is the only instance of damage in this vicinity in 29 years.

In summing up the testimony presented, the Bulletin says:

The conclusion to be drawn from this mass of testimony is that orange growing is no longer an experiment in the north, and that notwithstanding the severe frosts of such winters as this, oranges and lemon trees can be profitably cultivated in nearly every county in the State. By selecting favorable locations, no district from San Diego to Siskiyou, except it be situated in the high Sierra, need be without these most beautiful and useful fruits. One point brought out by these reports will be a surprise to many, namely, the very little difference in the severity of the frost and in injury to young trees, in the northern compared to the southern parts of the State.

The orange is the hardiest member of the Citrus family and will endure a much lower temperature without serious injury than is generally supposed. It will be noticed that not one of the above statements mentions any material damage to bearing trees and very little to trees over four or five years of age. It is evident that nothing but very young trees require protection at all, and then only in unusually severe seasons and when growing on low ground. The general verdict is in favor of seedling trees as being the more vigorous and hardy, while many cultivators believe such trees, though longer in coming into bearing, in the end are more reliable and productive. The temperature has not been sufficiently low at any point from which we have heard, to determine exactly how many degrees below freezing a bearing orange tree will survive. During the great frost in Florida in February, 1835, at St. Augustine, the mercury fell several degrees below zero, killing nearly all the trees in the State, some of which were a hundred years old, down to the ground. Most of the roots of these trees sent up sprouts, which in 1842 were in full bearing. In that State orange trees have been known to shed their entire foliage from the effects of the frost and still produce a crop of fruit, the ensuing summer. It is therefore quite evident that the cultivator of the orange in this State has little to fear from the frosts of ordinary winters.

The lemon is much more sensitive to cold than the orange, probably from its tendency to continue to grow late in the season, generally throwing out new wood and blossoms all through the winter months. It will, when young, require protection in many localities where the orange passes the season unscathed. Sufficient evidence, however, has been brought out to show that this fruit can, with little trouble, be grown over a large area in the central and northern parts of the State. The citron and lime are still more tender than the lemon, and their culture will be attended with difficulties in most situations north of Point Concepcion.

—A lodge of Good Templars was organized at Westminster last week, with twenty-two charter members. The following officers were installed: Andrew J. Compton, W. C. T.; Mrs. C. M. McCoy, W. R. H. S.; Miss H. E. Lenner, W. L. H. S.; Miss Mattie McCoy, W. V. T.; James A. McFadden, W. Secretary; Miss B. M. Leffler, W. A. S.; Rev. S. B. King, W. F. S.; Miss Mary King, W. Treasurer; John A. McCoy, W. M.; Jessie McCoy, W. D. M.; Jos. Caldwell, W. L. G.; E. H. Leffler, W. O. G.; Geo. G. Neal, W. Chaplain; R. L. Harris, P. W. C. T.

—Immediately around Wilmington 3,000 acres of new land have been broken and planted. The season has been quite favor able, and with the old land in cultivation our section is destined to make a fine showing in the crop reports after next harvest. In every direction we see the husbandman at work, and it is generally believed that the crop of 1879 will be almost double that of 1878. There is every reason for encouragement and our people can laugh at hard times. —Wilmingtonian.

—Mr. Herman Morris, one of the most accomplished journalists of Los Angeles, spent a couple of days in Anaheim last week. Mr. Morris's society is much sought after in literary circles, and anything emanating from his pen is invariably well received by persons of taste and discrimination.

—Ex-City Tax Collector Cairillo, of Los Angeles, on Monday was held in $3,000 bail by Justice Trafford, to appear before the Grand Jury on the charge of defalcation.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Walking Clubs—Cooking Clubs—Street Costumes—Other Things Notable.

REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE GAZETTE.

COOKING CLUBS.

If you want to be fashionable, you must forthwith learn how to cook. In other words you must join a cooking club. Such notable society consists of from four to six young ladies, usually, but not always unmarried. They meet at each other's houses every week or fortnight, where the young lady hostess is expected to have in readiness a supper prepared by herself. Sometimes the supper may be cold, again it is warm, and so may be imagined a demi-toilette is considered quite dressy enough. Now comes in a chance for the wearing of enchantingly pretty little aprons, and 'tis an opportunity which is not neglected. The ball of face is arranged in this wise: Each member writes out one on a menu card, and deposits the same in a box, from whence it is afterwards drawn out at random, and the supper prepared according to the card drawn. Every lady has, furthermore, the privilege of inviting a gentleman, and altogether these little affairs are as interesting and as profitable as may be imagined.

WALKING CLUBS.

Again we find it quite as fashionable to walk as to cook. The club being formed of both ladies and gentlemen, on certain days they meet at an appointed rendezvous and set out on a tour of so many miles. Morning is the usual time for these walking matches; and a stout luncheon ordered in advance is prepared at some country hotel or farm house. Those who are unable to return by foot have carriages in waiting. Perhaps the comfortable and decidedly strong minded looking ulsters of gray and brown which are now so fashionable have had something to do with the present fancy for walking; perhaps 'tis the fancy for walking which brings about the demand for ulsters. At any rate, they are greatly patronized and as a practical garment I can hardly say too much in praise of them. They seem just the things in which to do battle with the slush and snow, and besides this they are economical, for one can wear a dress whose best days have departed, and who is to know anything about it, for the ulster covers it all up. So do the circular wraps of thick woolen cloth, but then a wrap deprives one of the use of one's arms and is a bulky garment for all slender figures. Still a wrap is so easily thrown off and on, that it must therefore be regarded as very convenient. Writing of street costumes reminds me of a tasteful outfit recently worn by Miss W—— of Madison Avenue. The design was the Carita princess dress with Atheline jacket, made up in dark green plaid trimmed with black velvet. Her younger sister, a pretty school girl still in short dresses, wore a dress of figured wool combined with brown velvet made with Alia overskirt and Barbara jacket. A walking costume worn by Mrs. A—— of Thirty-third street deserves mention. The skirt of course was short with plaited flounce of garnet satin, and with this was worn the Lucinde polonaise made in combination style of garnet satin and brocade. The bonnet was garnet felt trimmed with satin ribbon and ostrich tips.

NO FLOWERS.

One may walk a long distance on Broadway or Fifth Avenue, or may survey an entire assemblage at a theatre or concert, and see not a flower upon bonnet or hat, yet one large rose or a bunch of roses or violets at the throat gives an exceedingly woman-like finish not only to an indoor toilette, but to the masculine ulsters just mentioned. The adoption of tulle string, brought under the chin and tied in the most becoming of bows is another way in which we know that inclination for delicacy of finish, which grows spontaneously in the female heart. There is a rage for them and they are attached to bonnets of all kinds—even dark colored felts or velveta. Veils of white tulle are also quite fashionable, and sometimes the two ideas are united by bringing the veil over the face, crossing it at the back and tying the ends into a bow under the chin. Breton lace of fine quality is also used on bonnets, giving a softened finish to the severity of a winter costume.

EXTRAVAGANCIES.

In a mention of some extravagancies, I said nothing of ribbon at $30 a yard. Yet such an article is shown by a leading house. Furthermore, I have been shown a pair of garters marked $100, and told that a pair has been made to order that sold for $1500. Whence such costliness? it may be asked. Solely in the gold wrought or jeweled clasp, for the remainder is but plain elastic, albeit of the finest quality. But as any one may see, if jewels are once brought in, there is really no limit to the possible cost. Should any of my readers desire further information on topics mentioned here, or any other subject indeed, I will be happy to reply to letters of inquiry. Address can be furnished by your good editor. LUCY CARTER.

—About a year ago one of our prominent German citizens received a letter from Fatherland, making inquiries regarding the facilities for and the practicability of establishing a beet sugar factory in California. The letter was favorably answered, and the result is that the parties came to Los Angeles, viewed a tract of 800 acres in the southern part of the city, and expressed their entire satisfaction therewith. The land is strongly impregnated with alkali, which renders it all the better for the purpose desired. Negotiations for its purchase are now pending, and in a short time the projectors of the work will leave Germany, in a chartered vessel, with a complement of skilled operators, and set to work at once on their arrival. They represent a large capital, which will be invested in the business, and none but white labor will be employed.—Star.

—An informal meeting of Democrats was held in Los Angeles on Saturday to take into consideration the forming of a Democratic Club. A committee was appointed to report on organization, constitution and by-laws at an adjourned meeting on Monday.

The Queen's Executioner.

William Harwood, the Queen's executioner, was born near Horncastle, and has resided there all his life. He is 53 years of age, stands 5 feet 7 inches high, and weighs 180 pounds. He is a man of powerful frame, and comes under the head of "wiry" in build. With iron-gray hair, benevolent countenance and pleasing manners, he is by no means the type of man the popular idea would mould of an executioner. Well but plainly dressed in garments of country fashion, with ample collar and the old style neck-stock of our fathers, he looks more like a Methodist local—i. e., lay preacher—than anything else. He is in fact a devout member of the Methodist Church, and is regarded by his fellow-townsmen in Horncastle as a most estimable and worthy citizen. His account of how he became an executioner is interesting. He had all his life been a careful student of anatomy, and when he heard of Calcraft's intended retirement, it was, as the Puritans use to say, "Borne in upon his mind" that under Providence he could accomplish a work of public usefulness by conducting executions in a scientific manner with a minimum of suffering to the unfortunate criminal. Marwood is a man of religious mind, who believes that he is doing his duty to both God and man. He has done his best to divest executions of odious features. In Calcraft's time the rope was only two or three feet long, and when Calcraft had drawn the fatal bolt he used to descend the scaffold, and, seizing the victim's legs, swing on by them until death was a certain fact. This seems incredible, and yet it is true. Marwood's rope is alway eight or nine feet long, and he asserts that by his process death is instantaneous and that there has never been a mishap. Marwood appears to have studied every process of decapitation and hanging with a view of arriving at that which is least painful, and he affirms that by his system the victim suffers far less agony than by the guillotine, the ax, or the "short rope." In support of these views he furnishes abundant anatomical and other reasons and states that he has satisfied the Government Medical Department thereon. Mr. Marwood in narrating his varied experiences with the great criminals of the day, says that there are three principal causes of deadly crime: First, drink; second, jealousy, and, third, bad training. He says that he has often felt as he was discharging his duty that the parents of the criminals were the real executioners of their son or daughter, so the case might be. He says that the worst criminals are those who were badly brought up. They are generally the most hardened and unrepentant.—Corr. Philadelphia Times.

CARQUINEZ.

New Railroad Town on the Northern Road.

(Benicia New Era, February 8.)

As a new terminus of the Northern Railway, on the Contra Costa shore of the straits, is likely to become a place of considerable importance, some description of it may be of interest to our readers. The ferry connection from Benicia is not with Martinez, as has generally been reported by the Press, but at a point some three and a half miles below there, opposite the lower part of the town of Benicia, and in a direct line with the track after rounding Arsenal Point. This place formerly known as Bull Valley, but named by the Railroad Company Carquinez, has been selected, after a thorough and exhaustive survey of the straits, as being the only feasible crossing and possessing advantages over any other to be found, and in doing this the company have shown that they would not be influenced by any offered indemnity, but have kept steadily in view the future good of this most important national highway. The valley is but a few hundred feet wide, and extending back for half a mile with several lateral branches, and then for a mile or more, ending in the hills. Along the shore is a bold water front which the company have purchased from Mr. Piper, owner of the ranch, a mile in length and several hundred feet in width, where will be constructed their wharves and warehouses. First and most important will be the slip for the immense ferry now building at Oakland, which is to transport all the overland freight and travel across the straits. The distance between Carquinez and Benicia varies but little from one mile, and the crossing will be made in from five to seven minutes. The extent of frontage owned by the company is sufficient for an immense business, and the boldness of the water is such as to bring vessels of any size near the shore with very little expense in building wharves, while the current is sufficiently strong to keep the channel always clear. It is more than probable that within a very short time facilities will be provided there for shipping grain from the San Joaquin, as it can be done more cheaply, and will relieve the press of business at the Oakland wharves. The Company have now a large force of graders at work cutting down the hills and filling the cove, which will make some ten acres of level ground inside the track. They have also huge piles of lumber, and are constantly buying more, which indicates the extent of the improvements contemplated.

NEW YORK, February 10th.—General Sherman has written to the Atlanta Constitution a long letter warmly commending the soil, climate, healthfulness and resources of Northern Georgia to emigrants. No single region on the continent holds out as strong inducements. The present population has not done justice to that region. He deprecates class distinctions, and says the attempt to build an aristocracy on the ground of slave-holding ancestry will result in a ridiculous failure. He advises them to let up on carpet-baggers. Not one in fifty of the men who built San Francisco and other great Western cities were natives of the place. All substantially were carpet-baggers.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—A Herald Washington special says: Statistics disprove the the universally received statement that the Indians are decreasing in numbers. The latest returns show that they are sensibly and measurably increasing, there being now a total of 170,000.

A WANT SUPPLIED.

We are now preparing to issue from our job office a small pamphlet containing a number of articles descriptive of this section of Los Angeles county. It will contain just the kind of information sought after by intending immigrants. The character of the soil will be described; the prices of improved and unimproved lands will be given; the productions of the country will be enumerated, and the climatic attractions set forth. Short descriptive articles of Westminster, Garden Grove and other places will be given, written especially for us by our correspondents. Anaheim will be written up not only by the editor, but by Mr. Wm. R. Olden, and altogether it will be a compact and comprehensive little volume, which will, we predict, find its way into the most remote corners of the earth.

It will be a valuable advertising medium for those who have land to sell, as it is designed to fall into the hands of those who wish to buy and settle here. Applications for advertising space should be made without delay.

THE readers of the GAZETTE could not have failed to note the very remarkable report made by the committee on seedling lemons, at the Riverside fair. The committee, it will be remembered, thought the seedling lemon entirely worthless and unworthy of recommendation. As might have been expected, the report was received with marked disfavor, and the result was that the whole subject was referred back to a committee consisting of the two committees on seedling and budded lemons, which committee was enlarged by the addition of three more persons, viz.: W. S. Chapman and L. H. Titus, of San Gabriel, and Richard Melrose, of Anaheim.

The report of the Committee on Comparison of Seedling and Budded Oranges was referred back to the committee, which was enlarged by adding thereto the names of H. K. W. Bent, of Los Angeles, H. J. Rudisil, of Riverside, and N. W. Blanchard, of Ventura county. This committee and the Committee on Lemons are to meet in Los Angeles on Friday, March 7th, to act upon samples of fruit to be sent to the Society from different parts of the State, and to report to the annual meeting of the Society, to be held next day.

The Committee on Comparison of Budded and Seedling Oranges, which made their report after we had retired, said that they had tested ten seedlings with ten different budded varieties, with the following result: The seedlings mere found superior in six cases, no difference in one, inferio in three. The three superior varieties are the Malta Blood, Navel and Du Roi. The difference, however, was but slight.

We may be permitted here to remark that the GAZETTE is the only paper that has published the committee reports in full.

Flax Seed.

Mr. Geo. H. Peck, agent of the Pacific Oil and Lead Works, San Francisco, in a letter to the GAZETTE concerning flax culture, says: "Mr. A. Moore, of Pescadero, in April, 1878, sowed flax seed on low and damp land. Thinking it would not come up, in May he sowed on the same land fifty pounds of barley to the acre. The result was no weeds, but seven hundred pounds of plump barley and one thousand pounds of superior flax seed to the acre. Barley thus sown banishes the weeds. On upland about thirty-five pounds of flax seed should be sown to the acre, and if there be danger of weeds, about twenty-five pounds of barley should be put with the flax. On strong, damp lands as high as sixty pounds of flax seed may be used. Experience shows that ground may be too well smoothed for sowing. The best ground to sow on is where the plow has left it even. Flax will easily bear two inches covering. It is best to harrow in the seed, and if not likely to rain soon, drag it over. A machinist, accustomed to such work, is here with the view of making an attachment to a thresher which will separate barley and flax from each other, and at the same time throw out all foul seed. The attachment makes the flax seed clean and marketable at the thresher without any afterwork and at much less trouble and expense than heretofore. The best land for flax is loam with a tendency to clay. Flax should be sown as early as possible, it being a cold weather crop. Owing to the backwardness of the season and the prospect of spring rains, several parties will chance the putting in of this as late as the first of March. On the coast, where fogs prevail, the sowing on damp land may be deferred to May. In Los Angeles county, flax is harvested about the middle of June. On the coast the harvesting may be as late as September."

Mr. Peck is putting 80 acres of his farm at El Monte into flax.

Dennis Kearney's Trip.

The line of Dennis Kearney's southern trip has been definitely settled upon, and the agitator will start on or about March 1st. From San Francisco he will go first to Redwood City, from there to Santa Clara, to San Jose, to Gilroy, to Watsonville, to Santa Cruz, to Hollister, to Salinas City, to Monterey, to Soledad, to San Benito, to San Miguel Mission, to San Luis Obispo, to La Purissima, to Santa Barbara, to San Buenaventura, to Los Angeles, to Anaheim, to San Juan, to Santa Margarita, to San Diego, to San Bernardino, to Bakersfield, to Kernville, to Visalia, to Sycamore, to Fresno, to Merced, to Mariposa, to Modesto, to Sonora, to San Andreas, to Stockton, to Lodi, to San Leandro, and closing at Martinez. He will probably arrive home in May.—S. F. Call.

RIVERSIDE REVISITED.

A Review of the Citrus Fair held last week.

EDITOR GAZETTE.—Some four years ago I visited Riverside for the first time. It was then an aspiring village on the site of the present town, which then showed much sign of life and energy. But I confess (although I knew that improvements had taken place) my surprise at their extent and the thorough and substantial manner in which they had been made. This is particularly the case in the Arlington settlement, where the roads are kept in admirable order, and are in marked contrast to those in old Riverside, which are now rough and full of mud holes.

RIVERSIDE

Has been fortunate in being settled with a population of a most desirable kind—Northern and Eastern people of considerable means and culture, and all of the improvements in the settlement are of the tasteful and substantial description that would be expected from that kind of people. Naturally, in a settlement devoted to the culture of fruit, the planters must have an income to depend upon whilst they are waiting for their trees to bear. And although men of small means probably find it hard to wait for "the good time coming," still as a settlement it is an undoubted success, and I wish that Southern California had many thousands more of the same kind of people to plant and improve vacant lands.

THE CITRUS FAIR.

Was magnificent. I doubt if anything equal to it has ever occurred in the United States. All sections of Southern California sent their best specimens of citrus fruits, and the display was surprisingly fine—far beyond what I had expected to see. Considering the fact that this is the first year that her trees had borne to any extent, Riverside did admirably. Being at home, she exhibited as much as all the others together. The show of raisins was remarkable. In this product I think Riverside takes the precedence of any other part of California. She should work this lead and make it one of her specialties. The market is large and they can hardly be considered a perishable product. The display of other dried fruits was creditable.

There seems to be a disposition on the part of those who control the Southern California Horticultural Society to avoid a fair contest of the merits of the different kinds of orange trees. Last fall at Los Angeles the trees budded on the China lemon stock were not permitted to compete with the trees budded on orange stocks. This was wise, if not fair, for the superiority of the China lemon trees was so manifest that there was no possible chance for the trees on the orange stock to get a premium. By ruling them out the latter had the field to themselves. The idea seems borrowed from

THE RACING FRATERNITY,

Who will always rule out a dangerous horse who might win, if they can invent any excuse for doing so. In competing for the premium at Riverside the same plan was adopted. It was decided by the Society that, in order to make the competition equal and fair, the specimens of the different fruits selected for the committee to test should be known by numbers, which of course would conceal ownership or locality, and as Mr. Rudisill of Riverside had the record of all the exhibits, he was appointed to choose his own assistants and select the specimens of each kind of fruit. He had no instructions to exclude any kind of oranges, but without instructions or authority he ruled out from competition several very large and handsome lots of oranges from Anaheim and Orange, on the ground that they were not true oranges, being from China lemon or other stocks. It struck me that as the oranges in question were

PARTICULARLY FINE SPECIMENS,

They might have been dangerous competitors to Riverside, but the rule that was good against Anaheim and Orange was not enforced against Riverside, for I find from a statement in the San Francisco Bulletin that "the Da Roi orange that took the second premium was from a tree budded on China lemon stock grown in Riverside." The information accompanied a box of specimen oranges sent to that paper from Riverside, and ought to be correct. Will Mr. Rudisill please explain why an unfair and unauthorized rule should be enforced against Anaheim and Orange and not against Riverside? But it is none the less a victory for the China lemon orange, which it is so strenuously insisted is an inferior fruit.

With regard to the difference in flavor between the oranges grown on China lemon stocks and those grown on orange stocks, it is in my opinion formed from what I consider an unsatisfactory and insufficient test, to wit: tasting unripe fruit, that the latter has a slight advantage in flavor. This I concede, but on the other hand the former makes a tree of more vigorous growth and bears larger and much handsomer fruit, that I think the advantages more than counterbalance the disadvantages. Nine purchasers out of ten are governed by their eyes, and will buy the largest and handsomest fruit in preference to smaller, even though it may be better flavored.

FROST.

What I saw of the effects of frost at Riverside agrees entirely with my theory of the cause. The lower lands of the settlement, which were overflowed by the frosty night-air from the mountains, were badly damaged, whilst the higher land above a certain level entirely escaped; even the lime trees show little damage. I think that the planting of thick hedges of Monterey cypress would be a good thing for Riverside. They would answer for a fence and windbreak, and would also protect their young plantations from frost. For any of these purposes the cypress is far superior to the eucalyptus, which I consider a very much over-estimated tree.

Respectfully, WM. R. OLDEN.

The Wheatland Recorder says a retired fireman is an ex-spart. Wat-er joke! Fire away, somebody else.—San Francisco Bulletin.

ORANGE.

The Soil, Climate, and Productions of this Noted Settlement

BY DR. E. M. JOSLIN.

EDITOR GAZETTE.—At your request I have prepared a short article in reference to the soil, adaptations, and resources, and the price of lands in Orange, with the inducements to those seeking homes in California for settlement.

Orange is thirty-three miles southeast from Los Angeles, on the south side of the Santa Ana river; comprises a tract of country measuring about six miles from north to south, and about the same distance from east to west. It is bounded by the foothills of the Santa Ana mountains on the east, from which the land descends to the ocean, with a gradual slope of about twenty feet to the mile. It is distant from the ocean about fourteen miles. In climate it is unsurpassed by any like section of the world. The thermometer generally ranges throughout the year from 45° to 95°, and the trade winds, which give us a regular daily breeze from the ocean during most of the year, convey a sufficient amount of moisture to render the air balmy and pleasant at all seasons. It is never so warm as to be oppressive to field laborers, and we are exempt entirely from storms of thunder and lightning, and the electrical tornadoes which in other sections of our country are yearly visitants, carrying desolation and destruction to fields, forests and the abodes of men. We are also exempt from those terrible floods that yearly inundate such large sections of the country east of the rocky mountains. There are here no sources of malarial poison, and we are almost entirely exempt from disease except in the persons of emigrants from the East and other sections.

THE SOIL.

But as people cannot live on climate alone, I will speak of the soil and its capabilities. The soil is various, consisting of a fine, gravelly earth, a rich, sandy loam, and a mixed clay. All the soils are deep and unexcelled in richness. The entire section is watered by the Santa Ana river and the Santiago creek. The water is brought from the Santa Ana river in a canal 14 miles in length, and 10 feet wide by three feet deep, and affords at all times an abundance of water to irrigate every foot of land in the district. This canal was built and is owned by the people of the district, and the water regulations are such that no one can use the water for purposes of irrrgation except their land is covered by the stock of the company. Every acre of land in the district is easily irrigable, and this arrangement compels all land owners to become stockholders in the company.

PRODUCTIONS.

Although the productive capabilities of the soil are almost boundless, yet the chief adaptation is to the culture of semi-tropical fruits. Of these the orange, lemon, lime, olive and grape take precedence. This section is entirely exempt from destruction by frosts, and while almost all other sections of the State have during the past two months suffered from the blighting effects of cold, Orange has escaped. Our trees and tender-est plants have continued to grow and show no mark of injury. The district has been settled five years, and the shipments of oranges alone this year numbers about 70,000 by count, which have netted from $2.50 to $5 per hundred, and I was informed by one of our citizens that from lime trees four years old, covering about a fourth of an acre, he has received for the fruit, net, four hundred dollars. There are now set and growing about 120,000 orange and lemon trees, and the greater part are of the choicest varieties of budded fruit. The finest raisins of this or any other country are grown and made here, and yearly find their way to the markets of the world.

The district is rapidly filling up with men of intelligence and culture. Already three churches are organized and the M. E. Church has a commodious house of worship. A graded school consisting of three departments is maintained and ably conducted by old and experienced teachers.

THE PRICE OF LAND

In Orange ranges for unimproved from $25 to $75 per acre, according to location. In general, however, $25 to $40 per acre is asked. But few improved places are for sale. The value of such would depend upon the kind and amount of improvement, age of trees, etc. The population of the district thus far are mainly Eastern people who have brought with them their civilization. To our Eastern friends who contemplate locating in California, we present the attractions of Orange for their consideration. The Southern Pacific Railroad runs within one mile of the village and carriages are always in waiting at the station for the conveyance of passengers.

THE POPULATION

Of Orange numbers about fifteen hundred. At the centre is a commodious Hotel, two stores of dry goods, groceries, etc.; one for the sale of agricultural implements, one drug store, one shoe shop, one large blacksmith establishment, a post office, express office, etc. Were I to describe the natural scenery of the district and its surroundings it would occupy too much space, and I will therefore simply say that it is surpassingly grand and beautiful.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 16.—The Secretary of the Chinese Legation visited the Mayor today. The visit was known to but few, as it was the visitor's desire to avoid all forpal reception, he having been unfavorably impressed with the idea of being made a public exhibition of. His sole desire was to see the inside life of American homes, and in this he was gratified. All who came in contact with him were much pleased with his gentlemanly bearing and intelligence. In reply to the question as to which was the best tea, Oolong, Young Hyson, etc., it being supposed that Chinamen would be authority on such subjects, he pleaded his ignorance and said those names were unknown in China; they were only made for outside. He also acknowledged unfamiliarity with the tree plant, and, on being shown one, stated it was the first time he had ever seen it.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

About 3 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon the ferry steamers El Capitan and Alameda, plying between San Francisco and Oakland Point, collided in mid passage, in a dense fog. The boats remained fast to each other for several minutes, and it is owing to this circumstance that no lives were lost. El Capitan sunk to the hurricane deck in twenty minutes. The wreck has been brought to Meigg's wharf.

The Constitutional Convention has ordered that the proposed constitution be printed in pamphlet form, and that a copy be mailed to each voter in the State.

There was a slight skirmish at the Capitol Sunday morning. Some of the delegates to the Convention got into a dispute as to what was the value of a certain mining stock some years ago, and high words were passed between them. Klein called Rengal an ignoramus, and the latter threw a cane-bottomed chair at Klein. The chair missed the mark and struck Delegate Turner of Sierra, an innocent non-combatant. Wellin and Beerstecher interfered and prevented the effusion of blood.

News was received at Sacramento on Sunday of the death on Friday at Kansas City, of Judge Louis Ramage, aged 63. He was recently District Judge of the Sixth Judicial District, Yolo and Sacramento counties. He was widely known and greatly esteemed.

The jury in the Caulfield murder case on trial at Sacramento, went out Saturday at 6:20 P. M. It came in Sunday at 12:55 P. M., and announced it could not agree, and was then discharged. It stood seven for acquittal to five for conviction. The five at last voted for manslaughter.

Mr. J. A. Johnson writes from Washington to his paper, the Oakland Times: "I have just had a chat with Mr. Page. He will be a candidate for re-election. Believing that he cannot afford to retire under fire of the enemy, and that his constituents will return him for another term, he considers it his duty to himself and the District to make the fight, though he had intended to be a candidate for Governor at the next election.

Northern Arizona received its share of moisture during the month of January. The snow and rain-fall during the first month of 1879 is double what it was in the same month in 1878. The ground is now good and moist, and the indications point to the coming season as one most favorable for the farmers of Yavapai county.

Last Thursday afternoon, Mr. Dunlap of Emmet, San Benito county, returned from hunting and carelessly stood his loaded gun on the floor in a corner of the sitting room, where it was found by his son, aged three years. The little fellow blew into the muzzle, when the gun slipped and was discharged, instantly killing the child, the shot passing entirely through his head and lodging in a door.

As a Delegate to the Constitutional Convention has asserted that our Judges do not labor faithfully, the following facts from municipal reports of 1877-8, pages five and six, are pertinent: Number of cases brought in the several District Courts—Fourth, 915; Twelfth, 1,101; Fifteenth, 506; Nineteenth, 1,049; Twenty-third and Third, 1,127. Adjudicated—Fourth, 318; Twelfth, 493; Fifteenth, 153; Nineteenth, 380; Twenty-third and Third, 333. Amount of money judgments—Fourth, $985,384 20; Twelfth, $1,223,484 11; Fifteenth, $429, 215 25; Nineteenth, $985,187 26; Twenty-third and Third, $265,664 86. In addition to this Judges Daingerfield, the Twelfth, and Dwinelle, of the Fifteenth, hold courts in San Mateo and Contra Costa counties respectively. The above record is one of which the people may well be proud.—Post.

At a late hour on Saturday afternoon the House bill to restrict Chinese immigration, by limiting the number of immigrants of that class to not more than 15 on each vessel, passed the Senate by a vote of 29 to 26, the majority being a trifle larger than the friends of the measure had been led to anticipate. The amendments adopted are three in number. The first directs that prompt notice of the Act and its provisions shall be given to the Chinese government; the second excludes shipwrecked Chinese from the operations of the bill; the third permits Chinese to come to this country for educational purposes, all such to be provided with certificates from their Government. There is little danger of any opposition in the House to these amendments. The concurrence of that body may therefore be safely relied upon, and in its present form the bill may be regarded as beyond the reach of Congressional danger.

Kleinigkeiten.

—We acknowledge a call from Mr. S. N. Cochran, of Westminster, on Saturday.

—The Los Angeles Woolen Mills give employment to fifteen girls and boys.

—The young Democracy will hold a meeting in Anaheim next week—the day to be announced hereafter.

—The following proceeding was had in the District Court on Thursday: Lawrence vs. Lawrence—Motion for alimony granted. Defendant ordered to pay plaintiff $30 per month, commencing March 1st, 1879.

—An entertainment will be given at Garden Grove shortly for the benefit of the organ fund. The chief attraction will be a comic song (in character) by Mr. Con Howe. The announcement of this fact is sufficient to insure a crowded house.

—Mr. J. W. Lowe of Santa Ana informs us that the citizens propose to compel the Chinese laundrymen to remove their establishments to the outskirts of that town, if they can discover any legal method of effecting the removal. The stench arising from their washhouses is offensive and deleterious to health.

—H. C. Bingham, who was a resident of Anaheim some years ago, was found dead in his bed at the White House, Los Angeles, on Tuesday. He has been living in the vicinity of Wilmington for some time past, his old habits of dissipation still clinging to him. The coroner's jury returned a verdict that the deceased was a native of England, aged about 45 years, and that he came to his death from causes unknown.

—It is said that the citizens of Santa Margarita are on the qui vive at the prospect of being honored with a visit from Dennis Kearney. The Mayor has called an extra session of the Council, for the purpose of arranging for the proper reception of Mr. Kearney, and there is no doubt that in this instance, as in others, the Santa Margaritans will spare neither pains nor expense in emphasizing their respect for Great Men.

—The San Francisco Chronicle says: By an error in the published report of the proceedings of the Convention on Saturday, Delegate Evey was credited with introducing an amendment to the Constitution providing that counties shall not be divided or have any portion taken from them unless a majority of all the qualified electors of the county or counties, acting at a general election, shall vote therefor. His motion was to strike that provision out. He is from the southern part of Los Angeles county, where division is sought, and that enactment would probably defer division. Hence, he was put in a false position.

Beekeepers' Association.

At the beekeepers' meeting in Los Angeles last Saturday, the package question was discussed. Samples of cans and cases were exhibited, Messrs. A. Guy Smith & Co. of Anaheim showing some cases. A motion was carried that the Secretary solicit sealed proposals to furnish cans, cases and barrels, up to the third Saturday in March, 1879, under the following specifications: Square cans, size 14x14x14, or 120lbs; 12x12x12, or 80lbs; also 12lb and 5lb cans, with screwed tops, and 1lb cans with soldered tops. The 120 and 80 pound cans to be a perfect cube, with entrance for filling screwed down, so that the cap will not project above the surface, all cans to be made of good material and warranted not to leak—cases of sizes to hold 1 can of 120lbs, 1 can of 80lbs, 6 cans of 12lbs, 12 cans of 5lbs, 24 cans of 2lbs. Barrels to be made of good material, well hooped, and to hold 25 gallons. The association unanimously favored the 80-pound can for shipping purposes.

EDITOR GAZETTE:—Your notice of the District Court granting the petition of the Trustees of the First Presbyterian Church of Westminster to mortgage their property, may give an impression that this church is creating a debt, which would be incorrect.

It is perhaps not generally known that the Presbyterian Board of Church Erection require all churches to whom they grant aid to give a mortgage on the building, to the amount of the aid granted, as a protection, in the event that the property should at any future time pass out of their hands. This act of the Court was simply to enable the Church to comply with the conditions of the Board. J. M.

The Buffalo Colony.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The plan of the California colony organizing in Buffalo is stated to be as follows: Capital stock, amount to be hereafter named, divided into a given number of shares, with so much of the capital paid up as may be requisite to purchase a tract of land, to be cut up into farms of from ten to eighty acres each; the location of land to be decided by the members themselves. Competent persons will be sent through the country to mark out suitable locations and report to the members thereon. After purchasing a site the farms will be auctioned off to members. A resident manager will be appointed whose principal business will be to make such improvements on each farm as the owner may desire.

REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE GAZETTE.

Dry, bright, warm weather prevails. We get along very well without the expected rain, but would be thankful for two inches more before the close of the rainy season. Past experience warns us that after this date rains are doubtful, and we may not have any more. Early sown barley on our lands will make a good crop without more. Early sown barley on our lands will make a good crop without rain, and irrigated corn lands may be too dry. Late set trees will need early irrigation.

F. A. Land has a new well on his place near town, five inches open flow over a four-inch pipe at 114 feet. This is enough water for forty acres. The well was promptly capped.

We are sorry to hear of the serious illness Mr. Calvin L. Porter. He has been moved here from Pasadena in hopes the change may be of advantage in arresting the course of disease.

It is worth noting that the freight on bundles of trees from San Francisco by railroad is thirty-five dollars a ton. We were obliged to import some persimmons, pear seedlings, etc., and this is the modest rate at which the railroad serves the public. Some of our people save two dollars in going to Los Angeles by railroad by taking the cars at Wilmington instead of at Anaheim. It is only eight miles farther to drive, and the ride can be taken after breakfast to connect with the morning train from Wilmington, instead of before sunrise.

The outlook at the Landing is not very encouraging. The bank of sand which closed up the old inlet to the lagoon last winter has not been washed away this winter as was hoped, on account of our mild winter, but is settled firmer than ever. Farmers are hauling large quantities of grain to Wilmington, and our stores get their supplies in that way. If the landing has to be given up, a freighting company to Wilmington will be a great convenience.

The mosquitos that were grafted on last year's stock have begun to prick up their ears, and their tuneful notes may be heard on the breeze. The crop promises well, judging by the first fruits, but it is slow work harvesting them by hand. Their propagation is apparently so easy that the man who will invent a header for them has a fortune before him.

If we had known that the Riverside Fair included Northern fruits also, we would have disputed the prize with Riverside in apples. Mr. John Davis has some White Winter Pearmains perfectly sound at this present writing, and without any special precautions in keeping them. We venture the prediction that in five years we will find by experiment even better keeping apples and be able to supply the market.

Westminster Nursery is experimenting in Virginia, Georgia and North Carolina apples, but it will take some years before plantations of the right kind will be in bearing. In the meantime we cannot go astray in Yellow Newtown Pippin, and White Winter Pearmain, with enough Willow twig, and Limbertwig and Jonathon to meet the indications in their favor.

The Congregationalists will hold their social in the Hall on Tuesday evening Feb. 25th. After a short programme which will include the reading of the "Morning Star" and some good music, there will be an old-fashioned supper of our grandmother's times served by the ladies in costume; amusing novelties, and a good social time will enliven the remainder of the evening. All are invited to attend.

REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE GAZETTE.

Mrs. Hawkins essayed a drive the other day with a prancing span of bays. She accomplished a masterly upset of herself; and a kind neighbor who helped her back again into the vehicle, received most complimentary epithets therefor, given in good old piratical style. A short distance from the first fall, she in trying to ride in a standing attitude, again found terra firma, where, as all efforts were unavailing to induce her to rise, she remained until the little child that attends school passed on his way home to his lunch when she arose and accompanied him. Willamette's pen cannot trust itself to comment upon the above incident.

A very handsome greenhouse has just been finished at the Hawkins grounds, which are being extensively improved in the most artistic style, new statuary, summer-houses, etc.

The Pallett vs. Hawkins suit is now on the tapis, causing a hegira hereabouts. One of the witnesses was kept upon the stand for three hours the other day. Advices just arrived from the scene of action announce the termination of the suit against Hawkins to the amount of $6000.

A little five-year-old daughter of Mr. Chandony fell from a milking stool the other day and broke her arm.

A cow belonging to Mr. Martin of Los Nietos, and which was being herded by one of the neighbors, has betaken herself (or been betaken) to parts unknown. Perhaps somebody took a sudden fancy for beef.

Mr. Hargrave has a roof upon his new mill.

Saturday the 22d brings the regular meeting of L. L. S. & S. Club a pleasant time is anticipated. An interesting Spelling Club meeting convened last Saturday, enlivened by song and social chat. WILLMETTE.

REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE GAZETTE.

The Directors of the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation Company report that the amount received from the stockholders on the last assessment was about three-fourths of the whole assessment. This, under the circumstances, was encouraging and the Directors from assurances from the few delinquents have given an extension until the 4th of March, by which time they confidently believe every dollar will be paid. When we consider the general poverty of the people, owing to the financial pressure of the times, this speaks volumes in favor of the energy, determination and thrift of the people of Orange. The stockholders are justly proud of their achievement in carrying to completion so important a work, and will exert themselves to the utmost to meet this last assessment which will free them from all indebtedness.

Rev. Mr. Howard is camping in the mountains with his family, and reports himself improving in health. This will be glad news to his many friends, for few men acquire a stronger hold upon the esteem and affections of a people than has been his fortune during the two years of his pastorate in Orange.

According to Madam Rumor a wedding is to come off in our town in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Honey have been down from their eyrie home in the mountains for the past week on a visit to their friends. Their honeymoon is over and yet they say they are perfectly happy. This is as it should be, and should encourage their young friends to go and do likewise.

Your correspondent finds but few items to chronicle this week, and a ride about town suggests the reason. Our people are busy in their rural occupations and pursuits. Everywhere grounds are being improved, homes beautified and the substantial elements of domestic life and happiness engage the attention of our citizens. This is the season for setting trees and many new ranches are being improved and set to semi-tropical fruit. VERITAS.

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE GAZETTE.

So long has the weather been the topic of conversation that we find ourselves unconsciously penning the same familiar thoughts struggling uppermost in our mind. After most delightful showers we are enjoying the warm, delicious balm of the first springdays. It is strange to note the different effect nature produces upon the faces of men. The sombre shades that so long hid the soft blue sky, seem but to lend a radiance to faces hitherto laden with gloom. But the phenomenon is soon explained, when we see with what pride the farmer views his promising acres. The grass is rapidly carpeting the long barren earth. The wild geese flap their wings and with a glad cry settle upon the young and tender grain to feast awhile, inviting the lovers of game by their seeming indifference to dog and gun. Mustard has made its appearance in such promising quantity that a fine field of barley that had been left to volunteer was plowed up. A great deal of barley and corn will be planted about here, some rye and Odessa wheat. Coyotes are contemptuously familiar in this part of the country, defying hounds and fire arms. Not satisfied with nightly raids upon the barnyard fowls, one came almost to our door one afternoon and treated himself to a fine fat hen. Seeing the chickens run, and hearing a noise, we concluded to investigate, and there he was trotting off with his prey. We gave chase, and so closely that he dropped his game and made good use of his legs. He escaped, but we had the chicken dinner.

REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE GAZETTE.

Our worthy friend D. Webster now writes J. P. after his signature.

Farmers are troubled about the rain. We have only had three and one half inches, and some of the barley already begins to show the effects of the warm weather. Unless we have about last rains immediately, there will be no corn raised without irrigation. There is some corn remaining in the country, but most of it is in the hands of farmers who will not sell unless they get a fair price. They are able to hold it for another season and it seems from present indications that the crops will be lighter than they were in 1877.

A. G. Cook Esq. and family arrived on Saturday. They intend to make their home in Garden Grove.

Mr. Angel of San Francisco has purchased land here. He has rented a house and will move his family here immediately.

The Garden Grove boys intend to do their best on Saturday, and we hope they will come off victors; still we shall not be disappointed if they are defeated, as they have very little opportunity for practice. The game of baseball is one of the best games introduced, and we hope the various clubs will keep up their organizations.

There will be a sociable at the school house on Friday evening, Feb. 28. All are cordially invited to attend. JAMES.

UNDER AND BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION issued out of the District Court of the 17th Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Los Angeles, and to me directed and delivered on the 13th day of February, A. D. 1879, for a judgment rendered in said court on the 28th day of January, A. D. 1879, in favor of P. Davis & Brother, plaintiffs, and against Cajon Irrigation Company, defendant, I have levied upon and shall on SATURDAY, the 15th day of MARCH,

A. D. 1879, at 12 o'clock M, proceed to sell at the Court House door in the city and county of Los Angeles, State of California, at public auction to the highest and best bidder for cash in U. S. gold coin, to satisfy said judgment, interest, and costs, and accruing costs, all the right, title, and interest of the Cajon Irrigation Company, defendant, in and to certain real property, situated in the county of Los Angeles, State of California, and more particularly described as follows, to-wit:

A strip of land sixty feet in width, and commencing at a point on the Santa Ana River at a place in said river known as the "Bed Rock Canyon," said point being the point of departure of the water ditch of the Cajon Irrigation Company from said Santa Ana River, and running thence in a westerly direction through the lands of the Canyon de Santa Ana Rancho, owned by Mrs. Yorba de Scully, by John W. Ilsley, assignee of Mrs. Analrua Davila, and the minors Bernardo and Xavier Yorba, by Kalliher and Wartenberg, by Hanson Kyle, as his assignees, by William McKee for himself and as assignee for Mrs. M. J. W. de Shorb, by Prudencio Yorba, by Vicente Yorba, by Tomas Yorba, by Mrs. Y. Y. de Cota, for her assignees, by Marcos Yorba for himself and as assignee of Felipe Yorba, and by Trinidad Yorba for himself and as assignee of Teodocia Yorba, thence still in a westerly direction through United States lands owned by J. W. Shanklin, to the eastern boundary line of the San Juan y Cajon de Santa Ana Rancho, and containing within its limits the water ditch of the Cajon Irrigation Company, together with all and singular the flumes, weirs, earth-works, tunnels, and all other improvements and appurtenances thereto belonging.

Given under my hand at the city and county of Los Angeles, State of California, this the 18th day of February, A. D. 1879. H. M. MITCHELL,

By J. C. Kays, Deputy. Sheriff.

Kleinigkeiten.

[FROM LAST SATURDAY'S SECOND EDITION.]

—Over three hundred valentines were sent through the Anaheim post office yesterday.

—The senior Mr. Montgomery has been very ill for some days past with bronchitis. He was somewhat on the mend yesterday.

—Mr. George Hall was in town last night. He reports the crops at Anaheim Landing in fine condition.

—At a meeting of the Water Committee of the Town Trustees held on Wednesday, the contract for boring the well and furnishing the pipe was awarded to A. J. Baber for $1 75 for the first hundred feet, and 50 cents per foot additional for all over one hundred feet. The contract will probably be signed to-day, and Mr. Baber will commence sinking the well about Tuesday.

—A very estimable and worthy gentleman of this community has of late been subjected to annoyance and insult at the hands of some unknown persons. Some weeks ago they scratched and injured his newly painted buggy and loosened the nuts in such a manner as to cause the wheels to fall off when the vehicle was moved. On Thursday night the keyhole of his door was filled with dirt, and while he was trying to unlock it stones were thrown at him, the darkness concealing the cowardly curs who thus insulted him. There may be people who see in these occurrences something to laugh at, but in common with the majority of our people we denounce such practices and the sneaking cowards who thus insult a man whose age, character and abilities should entitle him to the reverence of the most intelligent. Should the perpetrators of these annoyances be discovered, it will go hard with them.

The following letter is self-explanatory:

DEAR SIR:—I hereby resign my position as one of the Trustees of the Town of Anaheim. I am unwilling to tacitly acquiesce in the water project of the majority, and resign that I may be at liberty to show up its fallacies as fully as I can.

Yours truly,

J. H. YOCUM.

Anaheim, Feb. 12, 1879.

A premium of five hundred dollars has been offered by the conductors of a sanitary publication in New York, for the best plan of a house for a lot 25 feet by 100 feet which meets all the sanitary requisites, including lighting and warming. The house is to have brick walls, and is to be adapted for tenement use.

You can't have everything you want in this world. Life is like a blanket that is too short; if you pull it over your shoulders, you uncover your feet, and if you cover your feet your shoulders must be bare. However, some cheerful people manage to draw their feet up a little and so pass a pleasant night.

Objections to the Water Project.

EDITOR GAZETTE.—In my last I tried to show the difference in expense of obtaining water for the town from the Water Company, who propose to give all that is needed for nothing, as compared with a well and pump to procure such supply. Since then I am informed by three reliable parties that the source of our deep wells is not unlimited. Mr. L. F. Lewis told me that at one time the wind mill (a small one) exhausted the supply in the well at the Mitchell stables. F. Hartung Jr. says their well has given out by the use of a horse power. John Fischer says that the water in his well falls so low in the pipe that he is at times unable to fill his tank by the slow process of horse power. This for the bad side; and for the best that is known we have the fact that B. Dreyfus & Co. did, on one occasion pump twenty thousand gallons in one day without materially lowering the water in his well. This, however, was done in a day of ten hours or more. Now, with these known facts before us, is it wise for a portion of the town trustees to persist in putting up expensive water works upon such a showing? That these are facts fairly stated can be ascertained by inquiring of the parties named and perhaps others in town.

In my next I will give you some idea of the value of interest-bearing warrants of the town which it will be necessary to issue in order to complete this well and pumping project.

The Man Who Kicked Dickens.

Old Major Throckmorten, keeper of the Galt House in Louisville, is dead. He was a good old man, and Kentucky to the bone. When Dickens came to his house in 1848, the Major gracefully and hospitably received him, while the assembled crowd looked on and listened with admiration akin to enthusiasm: "Mr. Dickens, we are glad to meet you. We know you and admire you, and will reckon it a privilege to extend to you the hospitalities of the metropolis of Kentucky. As your especial host I beg that you will command me for any service in my power to render." Mr. Dickens received this with a frigid stare. "When I need you, landlord," he said, pointing to the door, "I will ring." The next moment the distinguished author was half way out of the window, the Major's boot under his coat tail, and numerous Kentuckians holding the Major's coat tail, for the Major viewed insults from a strictly Kentuckian point of view, and the only mention of this incident in the "American Notes" is that Dickens saw a pig rooting in the streets of Louisville, which proves that great novelists are more careful about their fiction than their facts.—Washington Post.

A WASHINGTON correspondent says: It is currently reported here that Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, who originated the Yellow Fever investigation, is strenuously supporting the measure of constructing refrigerating ships for Southern ports as a means of purifying incoming vessels and practically abolishing the greater inconveniences of quarantine. Practical philanthropy is rare, but Mrs. Thompson has been very fortunate, first in boldly relying on the discretion and talents of Surgeon-Gen. Woodworth, and now in fostering the means suggested by her Commission for developing the power of that natural enemy to Yellow Fever—cold. It is expected that a bill will be brought in immediately so that Prof. Gamgee's steel ship, with its enormous machines, may be available early in summer. Let us hope when the bill is presented there may be little talk and instant action. The sum demanded, $200,000, is a flea bite compared to the pecuniary losses by yellow fever and the cost of death dealing iron clads.

One of the most sagacious men that ever sat in Congress, and at the same time one of the most bitter and unscrupulous of partisans, said, after a thorough study of the Chinese question: "A cardinal principle of our Government, proclaimed in the Declaration of Independence, in the Articles of Confederation, and recognized in our Constitution, is that our country is open to immigrants from all parts of the world; that it was to be the asylum of the oppressed and unfortunate." On this principle the late Senator Morton declared that to exclude the Chinese from our shores by legislation would be to stultify the constitutional amendments and enactments establishing the equal rights of all men, without regard to race or color, and would be "a long step in the denial of the brotherhood of man, and the broad, humanitarian policy inaugurated by our fathers."—N. Y. Sun.

Out of nineteen samples of coffee from New York and Brooklyn groceries sent recently to Dr. H. A. Mott Jr., for analysis, seven were found to contain chicory pure, or chicory and cerials. That some persons like chicory in their coffee seems to be an established, though inexplicable, fact; but, as Dr. Mott remarks, that is no reason why persons of better taste, who prefer their coffee pure, should be imposed upon. The most disquieting discovery thus far made is that blue clay can be so ground, moulded and roasted as to present the perfect semblance of the coffee bean. Fancy beginning the day by swallowing a decoction of blue clay!

A proposition that may startle some folks has been made in the Board of Aldermen of Springfield, Mass. It is to pass an ordinance forbidding screens, blinds, curtains, or any other obstruction to a full view of the interior of barrooms from the outside. The idea is to make the hiding of violations of the Excise law impossible. The liquor dealers view the proposed measure with alarm, not so much because it might compel their obedience to the law, but they have a reasonable fear that comparatively few men would drink so publicly.

Tom McLeavy, an old San Diego merchant, died at Valparaiso recently. He was first officer of the ship Titan at the time of his death.

We call Mr. Ingersoll's attention to the fact that Solom and Gomorrah are to be rebuilt, and respectfully suggest that he announce himself for Mayor.

According to the Washington Republican Gen. Grant has lately written to a friend in that city: "I see they are hammering away at the Army again. There is no peace for the army except in time of war."

A good advertisement in a newspaper pays no fare on railroads; costs nothing for hotel bills; gives away no boxes of cigars to customers, or merino dresses to customer's wives; drinks no whiskey under the head of traveling expenses, but goes at once and all the time about its business free of expenses.

Is not an incurable malady. It is only necessary to have the right remedy, and HALL'S BALSAM is that remedy.

Don't despair of relief, for this benign specific may cure you, even though professional aid fails.

READ THE FOLLOWING:

Dr. D. D. Wright, of Cincinnati, sends us the subjoined professional endorsement. "I have prescribed Hall's Balsam in a large number of cases, and always with success." He adds that "in one case a patient with every appearance of confirmed consumption, was restored to his usual health soon after commencing to take the Balsam."

John Kuhn, of Lafayette, Ind., writes: "One year ago I was to all appearances in the last stages of consumption, and got so low our doctor said I could not live 24 hours." Mr. Kuhn further states that "after taking nine bottles of Hall's Balsam he is now in perfect health, having used no other medicine."

The above brief extracts are taken from a

MASS OF EVIDENCE

which has been accumulating during a period of 29 years, proving the efficacy of Hall's Balsam in all cases where the breathing organs are affected, and showing the estimation in which the remedy is held by the public and the medical profession. Sold by all druggists. Price, $1 per bottle.
