American Beef and Foreign Sugar.

The meeting of the national live stock exchange at St. Louis last week took decided action upon the inhibition against the importation of American cattle by foreign countries, notably Germany, France, Belgium, Denmark and Austria, on account of the tariff regulation by the United States placing duties upon raw and refined sugars imported from those countries. The exchange will petition Congress for the repeal of the tariff levying differential duties upon refined and raw sugars. A memorial to Congress sets forth their purpose to be the obtaining of relief from the unfortunate embargo placed on live stock, dressed beef and hog products, on account of duties imposed by the recent tariff act upon raw and refined sugar from Germany, France, Belgium, Denmark and Austria, thus practically closing those markets to the United States, continuance of which means disaster to the farming and live stock interests of this country. The memorial continues:

"From 1840 to a very recent date we have enjoyed a large business with these countries, particularly Germany and France. This was undoubtedly because of the fact that in the new tariff no duty was imposed by the United States upon sugar. Under those circumstances these countries could well afford to adapt their farm lands and their efforts to raising beets for sugar production and depend almost entirely upon us for their animal food supply. Heretofore we have been enabled to send our products to them, while they in return sent raw and refined sugar to the United States.

"The recent placing of a tariff on raw sugar has destroyed this commerce, for it is an unquestionable fact that the action of these countries is wholly and entirely due to the attitude of our tariff measures in relation to the exportation of sugars, and it must be conceded that livestock and dressed beef shipments will continue to suffer so long as the present laws on sugar are in force. The excuse which is given by those foreign countries for their action in excluding our animal product is on account of Texas fever, but this is understood to be a mere subterfuge. From 1890, when the exchange of commerce went into effect, up to a recent date, these countries had not discovered an unhealthy animal among all the cargoes which we have exported, nor a diseased piece of meat. Indeed, the rigid inspection in this country which is given to all such products before shipment abroad is sufficient guarantee of the quality and the healthy condition of all our animal food products, especially when coupled with the fact that the best grades of cattle and dressed beef are shipped abroad. In fact, we do not export Texas cattle.

"The motive of the foreign countries mentioned is found in the fact of our placing this obnoxious tax on their raw and refined sugars, and should this be removed or modified at once we know there would be no further fault found with our cattle and hogs. We urge immediate action on the part of Congress toward repealing the duty on raw sugar, and modifying that on refined, thus restoring our pleasant commercial relations with these countries; also the farming districts of this country will be very greatly crippled and our livestock interests very badly injured; as our home consumption is not sufficient to absorb more than a small percentage annually of what we raise. Millions of dollars worth of cattle and hogs and their products have been exported annually from this country to these foreign countries, and until the existing embargo is raised from our cattle, dressed beef and hog products, the loss of this outlet will be very great and cause irreparable injury."

Value of Royal Crowns.

The least important country owns the costliest regal gems. They are all an expensive luxury for the people of those backward countries which still prefer to have kings to presidents. One of the most costly crowns in existence is that of the King of Portugal, the jewels of which are valued at $8,000,000. The crown which the Czar of Russia wears on special occasions is also one of the most precious in the world. The cross which surmounts the crown is composed of five magnificent diamonds resting on a large uncut but polished ruby. The small crown of the Czarina contains, according to authorities, the finest stones ever strung.

The crown of the Queen of England which is valued at $1,800,000 contains a great ruby, a large sapphire, sixteen small sapphires, eight emeralds, four small rubies, 1,360 brilliants, 1,273 rose diamonds, four pear-formed pearls and 269 of other shapes. In his state clothes, including the crown, the Sultan of Johore wears diamonds worth $12,000,000. His collar, his epaulets, his girdle and his cuffs sparkle with the precious stones. His bracelets are of massive gold and his fingers are covered with rings which are almost priceless. The handle and the blade of his sword are covered with precious stones.

The most costly insignia of princely dignity, however, is that of the Sultan or Maharajah of Baroda, in India. The chief ornament is a necklace of five strings containing 500 diamonds, some of which are as large as hazel nuts. The upper and lower rows consist of emeralds of the same size.

Any one who has children will rejoice with L. B. Mulford of Plainfield, N. J. His little boy, five years of age, was sick with croup. For two days and nights he tried various remedies recommended by friends and neighbors. He says: "I thought sure I would lose him. I had seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised and thought I would try it as a last hope and am happy to say that after two doses he slept until morning. I gave it to him the next day and a cure was effected. I keep this remedy in the house now and as soon as any of my children show signs of croup I give it to them and that is the last of it." 50-cent bottles for sale by Jessen & Derge. dec

Mrs. Lizzie Karr, widow of a San Francisco police officer, and well known as the matron of the receiving hospital there, is in Chicago, a badly deceived woman. She accuses W. C. Faye, formerly a traveling man, and now connected with an electric burner company, as the one who has trifled with her affections. He is 50 and has a wife and grown daughters. Mrs. Karr went out to the family home and asked Mrs. Faye to identify several letters which she claimed were in Faye's handwriting, and in which he called the fair widow his wife. The letters were not acknowledged, but the atmosphere in the Faye household immediately became quite tropical. The widow says that two months after her husband died in San Francisco, and while she was at the receiving hospital, she became acquainted with Faye, who laid claim to being a great medium. During their spiritualistic seances, in which many messages arrived, supposedly from the dear departed, the two became intimate. Later Faye brought a spirit communication, in which she was told that it would be quite proper to marry again. Then and there the two plighted their troth. Faye shortly afterward went on a business trip and on returning found the widow anxiously awaiting him. For some time past he has avoided her and his letters have been cold and comfortless. Mrs. Karr, about six months ago, visited wealthy relatives at The Dalles, Or., but finding that she could not forget Faye, decided to find him if she had to travel over half the world. She found some of the letters marked St. Louis and she went there. She then heard that he was in New Orleans, and she took the next train for the Crescent City. After a weary chase she returned to San Francisco. Word reached her that the gay deceiver was in Chicago. Ten days ago she packed her valise and went in search of him. She says she will become a detective, hunt the wide world over for him and find him if she can.

Havemeyer Makes Money While Crying Bankruptcy.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—For weeks Mr. Havemeyer has been vociferously proclaiming that the sugar industry was practically on the age of bankruptcy. The managers got together to decide on the dividend, but while they talked, the floor of the Exchange bore evidence that a big following of brokers had been let into the secret of just what the sugar managers were going to do. There was some talk of opposition to the Havemeyer plan, but none of the managers would talk. The fact is, after sugar had declined to 89 on transactions of about 175,000 shares, or near half the entire common capitalization of the trust, there came a voice from the board room that the dividend should remain as at present, 7 per cent per annum on the preferred and 12 per cent on the common.

In declaring a common dividend it was not even termed a quarterly dividend, and then the explanation was tacked on to the declaration that the dividend was "on earnings prior to September 1st." The gigantic turn had been made and the street sees a 12 per cent stock selling at less than 90, while an 8 per cent stock, such as the New York, New Haven & Hartford is quoted at 193. The difference in these figures measures the distrust which the investigating public have for Havemeyer and his partners. A monopoly which admits of a speculative profit of millions in a few months in these time, even with legislative assistance, is a very fine field to work, and the Havemeyer people are working it for all it is worth.

Miss Ging's Murder.

C. A. Blixt, engineer of the Ozark flats, who is accused of having murdered Katherine Ging at the instigation of Harry Hayward, in Minneapolis, broke down and made a confession in which he charges Hayward with committing the murder. Miss Ging was Hayward's mistress. According to his story he was sent by Hayward to the scene of the murder. Hardly had he arrived than Hayward drove up with Miss Ging. When within fifty feet of him a shot was fired and Hayward alighted from the buggy.

"The deed is done," said he; "get in and drive it around until it is dead and then dump it out."

Blixt took Hayward's place in the buggy and drove along the road for a mile until he became satisfied that Miss Ging was dead. Then he drove back and when near the place where the murder was committed he rolled the body up in a robe and pushed it out of the buggy into the road. He then drove along until he reached the Lyndale-avenue car line, when he turned the horse loose and went to town. The murder was committed shortly after 7 o'clock and as soon as Blixt got into the buggy Hayward walked to Hennepin avenue, where he took the daughter of a prominent lawyer to the theatre.

Loved in the Lock-up.

WICHITA (Kan.), December 11.—A romantic wedding occurred at the Kansas State Penitentiary, the contracting parties being Arthur Winner and Miss Charlotte Moore. Winner was sentenced to life imprisonment twenty-two years ago for arson, murder and robbery. It was one of the most famous murder cases tried in Kansas. Miss Charlotte Moore was convicted ten years ago as an accessory to the murder of Major Johnson of Junction City, and her case was also famous at the time. When she arrived at the penitentiary Winner fell in love with her and she reciprocated. Marriage seemed to be hopeless, but Winner was released last May and Miss Moore was released in July. Since then they have corresponded, and they agreed to have the marriage ceremony performed at the penitentiary, the scene of their first love and all the troubles of their life. Winner is now a salesman for shoes made at the penitentiary. Some distinguished visitors, who played a part in the release of the couple, attended the wedding.

SNAP SHOTS AT THE NEWS

John Craig the triple Los Angeles murderer was sentenced on Saturday to be hanged in State prison, the date of execution to be filled in later. Saturday was the eleventh anniversary of Craig's marriage day.

Tully P. J. Long, by Rachel M. Wright, his guardian, has brought suit in the Superior Court of Sacramento against the State of California to recover $10,000 damages alleged to have been sustained by the plaintiff on September 12, 1891, by reason of the breaking down of the grand stand at Agricultural Park, in the capital city, whereby his right leg was broken and he was made a cripple for life.

E. H. Schaeffer, of the law firm of Eggers & Schaeffer of San Bernardino, who was arrested and taken to Marion county, Ill., a few days ago charged with embezzlement, was, upon his arrival there, discharged by the court, and has returned to his home. He has brought suit against the complainant for $28,000 damages to his reputation. The dispute grew out of a charge for attorney's fees in the settlement of an estate, which Schaeffer contends were wholly legitimate.

Melvin E. Hatch of Sacramento, a member of the Board of Mediation of A. R. U., was acquitted by a jury of the charge of murder preferred against him as a result of the train wreck at Woodland during the recent strike in which Engineer Clark and four United States soldiers were killed. Harry Knox, chairman of the Board of Mediation, and three other A. R. U. men are to be tried on similar charges. S. G. Worden, one of the accused strikers, has already been convicted and sentenced to be hanged.

The Coroner's jury impaneled to investigate the death of Thomas Couts, who was found dead in bed at his home in San Diego county on Thanksgiving morning, with a pistol bullet through his heart and a pistol lying on the floor six feet from his head, have, after careful consideration, rendered a verdict that deceased came to his death by a gunshot wound through his heart inflicted by some person unknown. The jury are satisfied of the innocence of the young Mexican who had been suspected.

The cruiser Olympia, the largest cruiser built upon the Pacific coast, will soon be ready for service. She was launched over two years ago, made her successful trial trip a year ago and has since been waiting for her guns, four of which are on their way hither from the East. The Olympia would be a valuable addition to the American fleet in Asiatic waters, and it is believed the administration desires her speedy completion that she may hasten to the scene of the oriental war. Her armament includes ten 5-inch guns and four 8-inch guns.

Charles Smith, a colored barber of Butte, Montana, has been carrying on a bold system of robbery by chloroforming strangers who got into his chair when he happened to be alone, and then going through their pockets and robbing them. His last victim was J. R. Dempsey, who inhaled so much of the drug that he did not recover in the usual time, and Smith pretended that Dempsey was drunk, and dragged him into a back room, where he recovered. When he did so and found that he had been robbed he complained to the Prosecuting Attorney, with the result that an investigation developed how Smith was getting rich so fast.

Miss Celia Flower, belonging to a family of social standing in Detroit, left her home to spend the day with a friend. The night after she entered the railway station at New Haven, on the grand trunk road, some distance north of the first-named city, and asked to get warm. She had evidently slept on the frozen ground outside for several hours. Some hours later the section hands saw her walking along the track. As a fast passenger train approached she rushed forward and leaped before the locomotive. The locomotive struck her, and from the injuries received she died. On her person were $50 in gold and an unsigned letter from a Toronto man. Her family are unable to throw any light on the suicide. She was vivacious, popular in society and well balanced mentally.

A tall elegantly dressed woman stood on the corner of Lafayette and Nostrand avenues, Brooklyn, the other evening, scattering silver coin by the handful among a crowd of youngsters. She was about 30 years of age. Her features were clear cut and refined, and a mass of rich chestnut hair was twisted in a knot at the back of her head. She was plainly intoxicated, and was taken in charge by a policeman. The Captain was surprised at the apparition of a fashionably dressed woman in such a plight. He noted curiously every detail of her black silk dress, with its trimmings of lace and jet. His astonishment increased when he began to figure up the possible cost of her magnificent fur wrap and the value of her diamonds and other jewels that sparkled on her fingers or glistened at her throat. The value of the gems could not have been less than $3,000. The woman gave the name of Mary Brown, residence Hotel Vendome, but she afterwards admitted this was not her name. In her pocket was found a draft for $1,000, issued by a San Francisco bank and made payable at a big financial institution in Wall street, in favor of Miss Mary Woumack. The woman passed the night in the station house and was fined next morning on a charge of intoxication. She escaped with a homily on the evils of intemperance. At the Hotel Vendome it was stated that Miss Mary Woumack had been staying there for some months. She arrived last August from San Francisco and at once engaged a suite of the most desirable rooms in the building. She did not seem to have any visitors and lived when in the hotel in quiet but luxurious seclusion. The clerks knew little about her except that she had always paid her bills promptly and never in any way misconducted herself. They were much surprised when they heard of her arrest.

A gale of wind blew so strongly on the Yolo plains between Sacramento and Davisville last Friday night that Ben Charmack, a Woodland resident, while going from one car to another was blown off the platform and killed. Charmack left the smoking-car to get his ticket from his overcoat in the passenger-coach and as he was passing from one car to the other he lost his balance and was blown off the platform. Two men saw him go off the platform and gave the alarm. The train was stopped and backed up for a mile, but the unfortunate man could not be found. The crew of two incoming trains also kept a lookout along the road, but the man was not seen. The railroad company sent out an engine and crew to search for him. The night was bitterly cold and rain fell heavily. At a late hour the dead body was found alongside the railroad track.

It is believed Charmack committed suicide. When the conductor came around he had neither money nor ticket. A friend offered to pay 50 cents, but the fare to Woodland is 70 cents, and the conductor would receive nothing else. The friend said that he would pay the fare to Davisville, but the conductor refused to accept it. Charmack started to the rear car to find a friend from whom he could borrow 20 cents, and that was the last seen of him alive. The Coroner's jury will investigate.

Gov.-elect James H. Budd declines to name any of his appointments for State officers until after his inauguration. In discussing measures of economy relating to the State government, he expressed his intention to curtail the practice of lavish entertainments at the public asylums, prisons and other State institutions. He says that these fetes given by directors and superintendents cause the squandering of thousands of dollars of State funds. After a mere cursory examination of the expenditures by commissions and other State institutions he declares that, at a glance almost, he could readily see where $100,000 a year could be saved to the State without in any way interfering with the efficiency of any of the administrative departments of the State.

A score of young Detroit bachelors, some of them members of aristocratic and wealthy families, have organized a bachelors' mutual benefit and matrimonial encouragement association. The object is to accumulate a trust fund by monthly dues of $2, to be known as the "conjugal jackpot." Of this fund 25 per cent is to be paid over on the day of marriage to the successful young woman who opens the jackpot by entering into matrimonial alliance with any member of the association. The remaining 75 per cent is to be held for the benefit of future contracting parties. No bachelor who is engaged is admitted to membership, but any young man over 25 years of age of good character and heart whole is eligible. Among the charter member are leading young society chaps of Grand Rapids, Ann Arbor, Lansing and Detroit. Applications are coming in rapidly.

In the Kansas City county jail, with prisoners in the surrounding cells for witnesses and Judge Kreuger for officiating clergyman, Minnie Brown, aged 16, was married to William Huke, but two years her senior, who had been arrested and charged with robbery. They had known each other from childhood, and when Huke was arrested a few days ago, charged by the firm for which he worked with grand larceny, she refused to believe that he was guilty. To emphasize her confidence in her lover she prevailed upon her mother to get a license for her. Mrs. Brown finally consented, and accompanied by her daughter went to the jail, where the brief ceremony was performed. The evidence against Huke is strong, and will likely send him to the penitentiary. Mrs. Brown is thinking of placing herself in a dime museum.

Eddy Redway, who plays in "1492," was cowhided in his dressing-room after the matinee at Indianapolis the other afternoon by Nellie Jackson. Miss Jackson is understudy for Marie Hilton, whose serious illness at St. Louis has brought her to the front. After Tuesday night's performance she and friends were celebrating in their rooms. Redway's room was next, and he remonstrated against the noise, declaring that Nellie was a person who could not pass in good society, or words to that effect. She gave Redway twelve hours to apologize, which he neglected to do. After the matinee next day she entered his dressing-room while he was peeling off his shirt and began to cut him across the back. He caught her, but she broke away and gave him several cuts over the face before the property-man rushed in and separated them.

The case of J. H. Coleman against the estate of John G. Downey is occupying the attention of the Los Angeles Court. The plaintiff claims that in the years 1863-1864 he handed over to the late Governor Downey the sum of $5,000 in trust for him, and of this amount he has received only $600 in return.

September 1, 1891, the late Governor Downey employed him as his companion and while the position was sufficiently onerous his salary has never been paid. He therefore claims $4400, being the balance yet due on the trust money deposited with Governor Downey, and $7230 salary as companion up to the time of the Governor's death. The defense make a general denial to the several allegations, contending that the claim for the balance of money deposited in the hands of the Governor is barred. While denying that the plaintiff was employed as companion on salary, a counter-claim is set up that Coleman owes $100 on a promissory note dated November 7, 1893, and the Court is asked to award this amount with accrued interest.

Rev. Conrad Haney, one of the most prominent of Chicago divines, eloped with Mrs. George W. Brandt, wife of the manager of the Price baking powder company. Haney was pastor of the aristocratic Union Church on Lake avenue, and was recently prominently spoken of as the successor of Prof. David Swing in the pastorate of Central Church. He left a handsome wife and four children, and is said to have taken all available funds with him, leaving his family destitute. It was stated that Brandt had suspected intimacy between his wife and the preacher for some time, and he followed them and caught them together at a down-town hotel. There was a stormy scene and Brandt gave the minister twelve hours to leave town. Haney did not wait so long, but fled immediately, accompanied by Mrs. Brandt.

William Folcke who was committed to the insane asylum at Highlands some time ago, returned to his home in San Diego, having escaped by tying his bed-clothes together and lowering himself out of a window. His derangement was due to overwork, and his recovery was speedy, but to his appeals for another examination no attention was paid, and, after enduring months of enforced treatment for insanity after he was well, he lost heart, and decided to free himself, if possible. He was five days on the road afoot to San Diego. His family is in reduced circumstances, and the birth of twins to his wife recently served as an additional stimulus in his attempt to escape. Arriving at home he advised the asylum authorities of his whereabouts, and he was arrested at their instance, to be returned to the asylum. Physicians and county authorities who have examined the man will take measures to secure his release, for it is believed that his actual recovery can be made plain to the asylum authorities.

California is making a valuable showing in the eastern food market this winter and of a character, too, that will be welcome in the condition of some fruits that have not turned out well. Heavy supplies of the new crop of dried fruits and raisins have gone east from California thus far since the season opened. The receipts of raisins at New York have been 264,720 boxes and bags, chiefly boxes, 116,000 of which went through to the New England states. The totals of dried fruits, including peaches, apricots and prunes, were 154,444 boxes and bags, 46,554 of which were shipped direct to New England. Besides these articles there have been received nearly 20,000 bales of hops and 41,500 barrels of wine. The shipments are by no means over, as much will be added to the eastern stock during the winter.

The Grand Jury paid their respects to those candidates who failed to file a statement of their campaign expenses in conformity with the purity of election law. They find those candidates to be H. W. Keim, candidate for Tax Collector; J. D. Chaffee, candidate for Coroner and Public Administrator; W. A. Bear, candidate for Supervisor, Fifth District; M. L. Rogers and T. Baxter, of Anaheim judicial township; N. C. White, Joseph Rouse and R. J. Bedford of San Juan judicial township, candidates for justices of the peace; and Frank Carpenter of Silverado, F. Cummins of Tustin township, J. Lowrey, E. Webber and Frank Salter of San Juan township, and E. Woodman of Westminster township, candidates for constables. We have seen no report of Pap. Cooke's account. How much did you blow in, Pap?

Miss Josephine Brand of Lawrenceburg, Ind., was robbed of $10,500 in cash on the streets of Cincinnati one night last week. Miss Brand is a teacher, and had added to her savings a small inheritance from her father. She kept her money in the Central Trust vaults. Intending to have the money reinvested, she drew it, putting it in three rolls, which she placed in a hand satchel, and she went out to catch a train. In a crowd some one came behind her, seized her satchel, jerked it off her arm, pushing her violently forward, and escaped without leaving a clew. The police think it was a random grab of a hungry tramp, who was not at all aware of the richness of the steal. Miss Braud diverted pursuit of the thief by screaming and fainting. She was carried to the nearest drugstore, and was subsequently sent to Lawrenceburg in a state of nervous prostration.

Harry McKay, the 17-year-old son of Mrs. Henry McKay of Chicago, went to a cigar store and there met a number of boys of his age, one of whom standing near the cigar lighter, took a penny from his pocket and held it over the flame. It soon became hot and burned his fingers, and the other boys laughed at what they considered a good joke. Some of the others took pennies from their pockets and all had lots of fun getting their fingers burned. McKay did not have a penny piece, but he did have a piece of copper which he had been carrying for a year or more. So he pulled it out and held it in the flame of the cigar lighter. Almost instantly there was an explosion and a great report, and the young man was thrown clear across the room. Showcases were shattered, windows were broken and everyone in the vicinity came running in, all certain that some one had thrown a dynamite bomb. The boy was picked up, cut and bleeding and suffering intense pain. He was carried to a doctor's office and subsequently sent home. He is just able to distinguish with one of his eyes. He had made a pocket piece of a dynamite fuse.

The east-bound Texas and Pacific passenger train was held up at a trestle seven miles west of Fort Worth, Tex., at 5:30 o'clock Thursday evening. Several shots were fired from the front end of the train, and the passengers were warned to keep their heads in the windows. The train was detained ten or fifteen minutes, during which time those who caught glimpses of the proceedings saw three masked men with guns leveled, marching the engineer and trainmen in and out of the baggage-car. When they finished their work the robbers made the engineer back the train over the trestle, and while it was crossing they disappeared in a thick forest. The passengers kept so close in during the robbery that they did not know much about what was going on. The robbers had possession of the express car until they accomplished their object. One valuable package is known to have been obtained, and the safe of the messenger was carried off. Upwards of $100,000 was secured. The whole thing was done so quickly that there was little of a story to tell. Later developments show that the robbers got $31,000 in gold certificates going from San Francisco to Washington to pay for bonds.

Count Ferdinand de Lesseps, the celebrated French engineer, died in Paris Friday night. During the night he received the last sacrament. De Lesseps' greatest achievement was the construction of the Suez canal, joining the waters of the Red sea with the Mediterranean, which was formally opened November 17, 1869, with great ceremonies, in the presence of the Empress of the French, the Emperor of Austria, the Crown Prince of Prussia, Prince Amadeus of Italy, Prince William of Orange and many other distinguished personages, who were entertained with magnificent hospitality by the Khedive. De Lesseps has been decorated by almost every sovereign of Europe. In February, 1870, the Paris Geographical Society awarded him the Empress' prize of 10,000 francs, and in July following the honorary freedom of the city of London was presented to him. Since the completion of the Suez canal he has suggested a number of important projects, including the conversion of the Sahara desert into an inland sea; the cutting of a ship canal through the Isthmus of Corinth, to connect the Gulf of Lepanto and Egina, and a Central Asian railroad to unite directly the south of Europe with India, but his most important project, and one in which he was interested up to the time of his death, was the Panama canal, which yet remains to be pushed to a successful completion.

Legislation Costs Money.

The United States Senate is the most expensive legislative body in the world. Its bill for mere incidentals runs up to more than the total cost of the British House of Lords.

There are 88 members of the Senate, whose salaries aggregate $440,000 a year. It spent last year on the salaries of its employes $418,000, while the House of Representatives with 356 members, only spent $415 on its clerks and attendants. It takes $130,000 to pay the mileage of the House members, that of the Senate amounts $45,000. Summoning up, it is calculated that each Senator costs the country about $12,000 a year, making the aggregate for the whole body about $1,056,000 per annum.

But this criminal waste does not stop with the Senator's life. He comes high, even dead. A Senator who dies must be embalmed at an expense ranging from $50 to $100. He must have a casket to cost $320; kid gloves in quantities must be provided; attendants and hangers-on of various kinds are paid a per diem from the time the breath leaves his body until he is put in the ground. Carriages must be provided for all who may wish to ride. If he is to be taken home, Pullman cars must be had for the funeral party, at an expense of $1,000 to $2,000 or more. It matters not, as the cost is to be loaded upon the shoulders of Uncle Sam. Meats and lunches for the trip, with the liquors to wash them down, run up to hundreds more. The Government is even asked to pay the ministers who say prayers.

We are in the habit of holding up our hands at the cost of royalty in Europe. Extravagance of this sort would produce a revolution in England. It is calculated that the House of Representatives costs about $2,500,000 a year. Thus our Federal Legislature costs us in bulk between three and a half and four millions of dollars, the cost increasing steadily every year. Add to this the cost of about fifty legislative bodies in States and territories, and it will be admitted that law-making costs us a pretty penny. The annual expenses of running the British Parliament is about £100,000 or $500,000.

The Christmas number of Town Topics reaches us in particularly attractive guise, its handsome colored cover attracting the eye as readily as the excellence of the contents appeals to the mind of the reader. In its 48 pages of choicest reading matter are to be found stories and poems, tragic, sentimental and humorous, by the clever contemporary authors, including Bret Harte, Walter Besant, Bliss Carman, etc., etc., as well as a series of ably-prepared reviews of the doings of the year 1894 in the realms of society, music, the drama, literature and the fine arts. There is also a goodly collection of the bright verses and witticisms that have earned the paper its high reputation, most of the latter being turned on the customs and traditions of the time. One may safely say that a glance through the pages of this number will be certain to add to one's enjoyment of the holiday period of mirth and rejoicing. Friday evening, while on his way home from Pomona, Judge Seely of Chino was held up by two highwaymen and relieved of his gold watch and $26. The men were not masked and the officers have a good description of them.

EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS.

THURSDAY..............DECEMBER 13, 1894.

ON the very heels of Mr. Havemeyer's statement that the Sugar Trust was on the verge of collapse comes the telegram announcing a 12 per cent dividend by the monopoly. Need there be any further evidence to prove that the statement of this sugar baron, to the effect that the refineries have closed down because of the insufficiency of "protection," is calculated to mislead the people in his evident attempt to saddle them with reproach? What with protecting these millionaires already to the strangulation of our beef and hog interests in France, Germany, Austria and Belgium and other foreign lands, and to the extent of the material appreciation in the price of sugar paid by the poor, the closing down of these refineries should emphasize the fact that, as the President says, sugar presents a hopeless case for reasonable legislative aid.

The protection to be accorded the Sugar Trust—as well as that accorded other "protected" industries—should be placed at the very minimum figure consistent with placing them upon an equality with their foreign competitors. Is not the fact that this monopoly's dividend of 12 per cent, when business is so depressed as to result in the closing of their refineries and to place their affairs, as Havemeyer tells us, upon the verge of "collapse"—isn't this sufficient to illustrate the fact that these people are already quite sufficiently "protected?" This amassing of great wealth in the hands of the few, to the impoverishment of the many, aggravated by the turning out of employment of thousands of laborers that the rich may reap their illegitimate reward at the expense of the poor, to say nothing of the legions of unemployed roaming the country at large, may yet result in open rebellion—that has been the history of these struggles from the time of the beginning. Let us have free sugar, and a bounty to the sugar producer, viz., the farmers who grow the beets and cane.

THE GRAND JURY REPORT.

The Grand Jury return no indictments, differing in that particular from their illustrious predecessors of a year ago, who returned seven, none of which, however, could be made to "stick" in court. They considered the propriety of returning one or more, notably a charge of bigamy already referred to in these columns, but on account of a lack of evidence and a virtuous desire to keep down the expenses of the county to the minimum notch, they studiously refrained from so doing, the nearest approach to this feature of Grand Jury work being the deprecation of the practice by an officer and a Justice of the Peace of this township—the names are not furnished—of taking money from arrested parties and pocketing the same without bringing the accused to trial. This cannot be too severely denounced, but the blame it seems to us falls more severely upon the Justice, who ought to have known and probably did know better, than upon the youthful officer who was probably not aware of the illegality of his action.

The Grand Jury refers to the reprehensible practice of some of the Justices fining prisoners in an amount sufficient only to cover the costs of the action, without regard to the gravity of the offense. This abominable practice should be frowned down, and the punishment in all cases be made to fit the crime.

Our city bastile is found to be a disgrace to civilization. But the Grand Jury fail to tell us whether we should house our criminals in upholstered apartments, and in the absence of any recommendation to that effect, the bastile will probably stand, a terror to evil-doers of high and low degree. Prisoners have been known to weaken at the knees, and cry out aloud in their anguish, on seeing the yawning chasm of this useful apartment house in the maintenance of the law, that they would never do it again, and, boisterous when arrested, they are very contrite and meek and broken spirited in the justice's court in the morning. If they wish to escape the terrors of the jail, let them so deport themselves as to take no chance of being placed within its whitewashed walls. As to sanitation and ventilation, it is probably as satisfactory as the average jail, and we never have a jail delivery, as they do every once in a while at Santa Ana. Prisoners placed in the bastile remain there until called for. It is our purpose to keep the premises as clean as possible, but the tramps who infested the jail previous to the committee's examination, are responsible for much of the blame which is heaped upon us. This brings us to the suggestion that the Supervisors and councils of incorporated towns should confer as to the best mode of dealing with the tramp question. These arrogant nuisances should not be dealt with in any chicken-hearted way. They steal everything they can lay their hands upon, frighten women, and when in superior number have been known to "stand up" people in approved fashion. Many of these Weary Raggleses now infesting Orange county are criminals, and most of them would not work if given a chance. A temporary chain gang is the only solution to this vexatious question.

Sixty-eight indigents, of whom more than half are Mexicans, cost the county $556 27 per month, an increase of $125 27 per month over a year ago, when we had 47 of these poor people amongst us. In addition $735 was expended during the year for "special" and "urgent" cases—over a hundred dollars per month altogether. The county receives from the State an allowance for indigents 60 years of age and over, and for orphans and half orphans kept out of poor farms, which has amounted during the year to $3,960. We think the indigent list could be very advantageously pared down. It is growing constantly, like a noxious weed, and mendicants spring up all around us like mushrooms in the night. Let us deal with liberal spirit toward the poor, but let no advantages be taken with our bounty.

Fifteen thousand dollars were expended upon the roads of the county, a thousand dollars in our road district, $950 at Buena Park, and $1,538 79 at Fullerton. The figures are given in full in a tabulated statement appearing upon the first page, together with the receipts and disbursements of the county for the year. The Grand Jury are of the opinion that if these expenditures had been made judiciously and the work done systematically, the roads had been in much better condition. We have no doubt of it. The operations of the present road law have therefore not resulted beneficially, and its immediate repeal is recommended. The amount expended on the Santa Ana river to prevent its overflow was $15,378 25, and the work done appears to be of only temporary character. No permanent benefit in the opinion of the Grand Jury can be derived on these river expenditures unless the channel be opened and kept open the entire distance to the ocean.

The assignees of the B. F. Seibert bank failure at Santa Ana a dozen years or so ago—Messrs C. F. Manser and C. W. Wilcox—report cash on hand $9,102 90. All the deposits on hand draw interest at the rate of 3 per cent, compounded semi-annually, and amounts, at the present time, to $552 91. This interest the assignees say belong to the depositors, having accrued upon their money. After the payment of the first dividend this money slowly accumulated until 1892, since which time little has been collected or received. A bank in liquidation is very slow work, to be sure.

The county roads have been driven over, and some are found to be in fair condition, some are middling, and some—notably the one between here and Santa Ana this side of the bridge—is very bad indeed. The bridge itself is found to be quite as bad as the road leading up to it, some of the piling having disappeared, leaving it unsufficiently supported. No permanent relief can be expected until the county road is removed from its present location along the railroad track and a new bridge constructed a half mile north. The first bridge below the Yorba crossing is in need of immediate attention, and that below Mr. Kirby's place at Peralta over the water ditch is unsafe, and a new bridge is recommended.

The report is interesting reading even if there are no indictments.

A LITTLE LEAVEN leaveneth the whole lump. By request of the Christian Endeavor societies we place at their disposal a column to be dedicated to their uses, and to be filled up with bright, crisp Endeavor news. Mr. Holcomb of Fullerton has been selected as editor, and his first contribution would seem to prove, what we have all along known, that in the editorial chair he is easily abreast of any of the best of us! We hope the column will be conducive of good to all Christian Endeavorers in this part of the county, by whom the column will be read, if no other part of the paper, serving to bring them together into closer bonds of Christian good-fellowship, and that they may all profit by the interchange of views of one society with another. And we hope they will all become readers of the best paper in the county—we are too modest to say which it is.

A SAN FRANCISCO dispatch of Saturday says:

> It is positively denied to-day that Claus Spreckels has purchased from Richard Gird the Chino ranch of 40,000 acres, in San Bernardino county, with the beet-sugar factory, Chino townsite, the Chino Valley Railroad and other appurtenances.
> Robert Oxnard, a brother of the Messrs. Oxnard, who own the beet-sugar factory at Chino, and who is associated in business with Claus Spreckels, was interviewed at Spreckels' office to-day. He said: "No such negotiation has been made, and none is in progress or in prospect."

This is evidently somewhat mixed. Spreckels has not purchased the sugar factory, of course, and no report to that effect has been given out. He was understood to be a purchaser of the ranch, or a large part of it, and as it is known that he has for some years past been anxious to invest in beet land hereabouts and the Chino ranch was for sale cheap, it will take more than the above denial it seems to us to set the matter at rest.

A later dispatch in line with that quoted above is to the effect that Spreckels' check was for investment in Government bonds, but a gentleman in position to know tells us that Spreckels already owns the Chino refinery, or a large part of it, and there is no need of his purchasing what he already owns! But the question arises, Did Spreckels buy the ranch, and what is he going to do with the land on the Alamitos west of town bonded by him some months ago?

CONSIDERABLE interest is being taken here in the efforts of the people of San Francisco to provide a ward for incurables at the Children's Hospital in that city. Some of the charitably disposed ladies and gentlemen of this city have taken the matter in hand and already quite a neat sum has been collected to be forwarded to San Francisco. All moneys left at this office will be included in the total amount, and the names of the donors published with the amount of their contribution. The San Francisco people are working enthusiastically with this humane point in view, and their efforts have been cordially seconded on the part of the people of the State. Let us add our mite for the establishment of a ward for incurable children.

A Jockey with a Princely Salary.

NEW YORK, December 9.—A seventeen-year-old boy will leave this city for San Francisco to-morrow whose actual earnings this year were more than the combined salaries of Senators Hill and Murphy, and whose earnings next year will be greater than the salaries of half of President Cleveland's Cabinet.

He is a pleasant, smooth-faced, well behaved little boy, whose total height is only five feet two inches, of which three feet and half an inch are legs. His arms are two feet five inches long, while his weight is only ninety-six pounds. It is this liberality in legs and arms, with the accompanying absence of flesh, which enables the boy to make more money than all these political gentlemen.

The long-legged boy's name is Henry Griffin, and he is the greatest lightweight jockey in America. Griffin goes to the Bay District track to ride for Tom Williams. He will be accompanied by Jimmy Rowe, who will be associate judge.

Griffin will ride for Gideon & Daly next season and this firm will pay him $16,500 for his services. In addition to this salary he will get from them $25 for every winning mount and $10 for every losing mount. He will probably be paid anywhere from $6,000 to $10,000 by some one of the big owners for second call on his services, and in addition can ride for any outsider when his employers have nothing in the race.

As Griffin will average four mounts a day, and as he receives handsome presents from men who back their horses, it will readily be seen that his income next season will be more than $30,000. This will be the largest salary ever made by a jockey in this country, far surpassing the earnings of McLaughlin and "Snapper" Garrison when they were in their prime.

The Commercial Bank of Newfoundland, having headquarters in St. Johns, N. F., has suspended payment owing to the failure of several of the largest fish exporting houses to respond to their liabilities to the bank. This has involved other banks and has crippled some other concerns there. Four have closed their premises and others will close. Small depositors are demanding gold from the Union and Savings banks, and the gold reserve is being steadily drained. If they are able to meet the run everything is safe. But the chief danger is the difficulty of getting more gold into the country. At present the people are very peaceful, and seem unable to appreciate the gravity of the situation. Business men are trying to effect an arrangement with London bankers or with Canada concerns, which will be urged to extend business to St. Johns.

While workmen were engaged in digging a canal from the rear of the city of New Orleans to Lake Ponchartrain they struck a cannon ball about the size of a man's fist. Save for rust it was as well preserved as the day it was fired from Pakenham's cannon at the battle of New Orleans in 1812. There is no doubt of its authenticity, the stamp of the maker giving conclusive proof. About 200 yards further was found a second ball similar to the first.

A man whose name is withheld by the officials of the bank rushed up to the cashier's window in the Sprague National Bank, Brooklyn, on Monday, and asked if one of his checks had been dishonored. He was informed that his account had been drawn. The cashier produced sundry checks bearing the name of the depositor. The latter assured the cashier that there were checks amounting to $600 he had never signed.

"Well," said the paying-teller, who had just come upon the scene, "they were all presented by your son."

The discovery of the forgery was communicated to the directors of the bank and the subject discussed. While they were in session a young woman entered the bank and inquired for Mr. Sprague. When the latter returned to his office he held in his hand a check for the amount covering the forgeries. The woman left immediately, and the directors were informed that the intended wife of the forger had made the loss good.

A committee of the faculty of the University of California met to consider the complaint of Rev. J. W. Campbell of Los Angeles, against students who hazed his son. Herbert Anthony, who introduced the resolutions expelling young Campbell from the associated students, recounted the actions of Campbell leading to his expulsion. Anthony also stated that young Campbell had conducted a gambling room on Shattuck avenue where he supplied liquors to the students, fleecing all who came to his net and indulging in other illegal and immoral practices. On hearing this Mr. Campbell withdrew his charges and stated that he would take his hopeful son home with him and administer to him a good course of sprouts.

Company A Second infantry, Fourth brigade, of Sacramento, is no longer in the service of the State as a portion of the National Guard, having been mustered out of service on account of its action at the time of the railroad strike. Some 50 members of the company signed the roll of a new company, and it is understood they will ask for re-admission to the National Guard.

The Board of City Trustees met in regular session on Tuesday evening, present Trustees Lewis, Conrad, McWilliams and Helmsen. In the absence of Chairman Rust Trustee McWilliams acted in his stead.

Marshal Steadman reported the collection of $307 61 for water and licenses.

Treasurer Cahen reported a balance in the treasury of $3,919.77.

The Committee on Public Improvements reported that they had graded a number of streets and have placed them in as good condition as possible under the circumstances. The committee also reported that the city team had recently been "mowed" and that several other minor matters had received their attention.

Ordinance No. 105, relating to the issuance of municipal bonds, was passed. Also Ordinance No. 106, closing up certain streets in Vineyard lots D 6 and E 6. The Clerk was instructed to notify Messrs. Garnsey and Rimpau, the owners, to deposit the sum of $60 in bank to defray the expenses of the reversion of the lots to acreage property.

The committee appointed to select a site for the electric plant suggested that the plant be located on the site of the present water works, the power-house to be located on the northeast corner of the lot. Plans for the building will be submitted later on.

Mr. Chas. Federman having refused to pay his monthly license to carry on his dry goods business, claiming it to be excessive, it was ordered that the City Attorney take the necessary steps to collect the same, should he fail to pay by the 15th instant.

The Papillian Horse Co. being also delinquent in their license, they were subjected to the same order.

Painter Nemetz asked for permission to build a stable on his premises on Center street, the same to be covered with corrugated iron. Granted.

It appeared that last year during a scarcity of coal E. J. Pellegrin, who was then acting as Chairman of the Finance Committee, gave Wommer & Halpin, who were then in the coal business, the privilege of borrowing coal from the city, the same to be returned, as the order read, "when the borrowers received a lot from the railroad company;" but as the firm has never received "the lot" the same has not as yet been returned. About five and a quarter tons were borrowed, and the city is now in a quandary as to the manner of getting it back, since the firm have gone out of business. The matter was left to the Finance Committee, who will take it out of Charlie Wommer's wages.

The matter of raising Lemon street, between Chartres and Center, in order to drain off rain water, was left to the Committee on Public Improvements. At present a large pond of water gathers in the depression at that point during the rains and the citizens have asked that the matter be remedied.

The contract between the city and Griffes & Sumner of Los Angeles, pertaining to the construction of the electric light plant, was read. The name of E. C. Sharpe appears as the electrical engineer, but as he has not been employed by the city in that capacity, it was ordered that his name be erased. An engineer will be selected at some future time.

As the contract has already been signed by Messrs. Griffes & Sumner, and who have furnished their bondsmen—James A. Griffes and Fred Baker of Los Angeles—the question arose whether the bondsmen would consent to the erasure of Mr. Sharpe's name. The Clerk was instructed to write the parties concerning the erasure. If objection be made, a new contract will have to be drawn or new sureties provided.

Bills to the amount of $355 71 were audited and ordered paid.

The board adjourned to Friday evening and decided to push the matter of laying the cement walks on Los Angeles street.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR COLUMN.

[Address all communications to or correspondence for this column to C. E. Holcomb, Fullerton, Cal.]

INTRODUCTION.

For some time past the writer has been troubled by this thought: Here are a number of Christian Endeavor and other societies for young Christians in the northern part of Orange county. We are all striving to do our Master's will, working to the best of our ability in our own individual society. We are not acquainted with fellow members of neighboring societies. We do not know what they are doing nor how they are doing it. A union is out of the question, because we are so far apart. The only way that the writer could see that this fellowship and organization could be brought about would be by securing space in a good newspaper with a wide circulation throughout this section. The editors of THE GAZETTE have in the very kindest manner possible placed this space at our disposal. We must use it by filling it full of interesting matter pertaining to our local work and make it as bright and lively as possible. We want every society in this part of the county, viz., Anaheim, Buena Park, Westminster, Alamitos, Olive, Fullerton, Garden Grove and any other locality that has an active society, to elect a reporter, who will keep this editor supplied with information in regard to each society. We want to know the interest manifested in your meetings, the manner of conducting, new ideas in regard to committee work, if any special work is done, what is it, and how do you do it. We want to know how to be good citizens, and there are just lots of things that we all know a little about, and if each tells the little that she knows it will make a great deal in the aggregate. Let us all earnestly strive to make this means a great benefit to us.

The quickest, if not the best, way to start a thing, is to start it. Consequently without waiting to make a thorough organization before starting this column, the writer has taken the liberty to start it. Won't every C. E. society give him a boost?

It is very easy for an endeavorer to pray for God to bring the unconverted into the church. How would it do to pray that God would send the endeavorer to the unconverted with an invitation to come to the church. It is personal work that counts. We are the Lord's messengers.

Dr. Chapman said that every Christless world's bible is the world's eternal doom. The Word of God is the Christian's bible; the Christian is the world's bible. Do we as Christians study our bibles as carefully as the world studies theirs? Are you a Christless world's bible? The judgment of the world is keen and merciless and I am afraid usually correct.

You will notice that the pronoun "she" is used in place of the customary "he" in this column. Perhaps you would like to know the reason why. Did you ever stop to think which sex is doing the most work toward elevating humanity and bringing it nearer to the church? Do you know that the men are in the minority as church members? That they are in the minority in temperance, missionary and educational work? One man can get up and make more noise than a dozen women, but when it comes down to patient, persistent, tiresome but effective Christian work it is nearly all done by the women. If this is so, and we all know that it is, isn't it small recognition to give her the courtesy of the pronoun?

You should always remember that the devil is too much of a gentleman to stay where he is not wanted. Has he taken up his habitation in your heart?

⁂

Fullerton C. E. met last Saturday to elect officers and transact other business. The following were elected to office for the ensuing six months, commencing Jan. 1, 1895: C. E. Holcomb, President; J. H. McDermont, Vice President; Mrs. S. F. Daniels, Treasurer; Miss Florence Priest, Secretary; Mrs. Starbuck, Corresponding Secretary. The action of the delegation at Santa Ana pledging $2 50 for the work for the convention for the ensuing year, and the purchase of a largest sized pledge-card to hang in the church was ratified by the society.

⁂

Mrs. Starbuck, the Misses Grace McDermont, Clara Schultz, Messrs. J. H. McDermont, E. R. Ford and C. E. Holcomb from Fullerton, Miss Beaizley, Mr. and Mrs. Keiffer and Miss Jones from Anaheim, two ladies from Buena Park, and I believe good strong delegations from Westminster and Alamitos were present at the district convention at Santa Ana. We must all get acquainted through this column.

⁂

Our subject for December 16th is, "Different ways of rejecting Christ." Actions speak louder than words. Don't let the world read by your actions that you are a Christless bible.

⁂

Fullerton C. E. is progressing. A strong Junior Endeavor will be organized next Sunday at 3 P. M., with Mrs. Starbuck Superintendent and Miss McDermont Assistant. We have a new scheme. I believe in dividing the work of Superintendents of Junior work. The Senior society has 26 members on the active list, and 2 applications on December 9th makes 28.

⁂

We had the pleasure of attending the Endeavor anniversary of the Anaheim Presbyterian C. E. last Friday night, and listened to an interesting address by the Rev. A. W. Rider of Los Angeles, the thought being discipline of the individual to meet the crisis in life and the benefit of organization in evangelizing the world. Rev. Beaizley gave a very interesting talk on "What are you going to do with the old folks? What use are they?" Scripture says, "Tell him, let not him that putteth on the harness boast himself, but he that putteth it off." The old folks' work is nearly done. They have accomplished much, yet there is much more to do. They have planted deep with words of wisdom and sown wide the fields with golden grain of gospel truth, and it remains for the young people, Christian Endeavors, to reap the fields of ripened harvest. Without boasting we will say, that we young people propose to take the work up where it has been left for us by the old folks, carry on what they have begun, perhaps sow in new fields now for junior endeavorers to reap by and by. May God give us strength and wisdom to do our part as thoroughly in the future as has been done by the old folks in the past.

We want to hear from every Endeavor society in the northern part of Orange county by the next issue of this paper. In this connection Y. P. S. C. E. means, You people send communications early. Let us fill this column with crisp, fresh local C. E. news.

The "Jewish cities of refuge" formed the subject of discourse at the Presbyterian church last Sunday evening. The pastor, Rev. T. Beaizley, gave the first of ten lectures. The discourse was suggested by Joshua, 20 c. From a very early age human life has been held sacred. There has long been an unwritten code of blood revenge. It has been found in many countries. This unwritten code antedated Moses, who recognized its foundation in justice, and instead of suppressing it, undertook to regulate it. In doing this he provided protection for the unintentional murder and insured a fair trial for one who of set purpose took human life. The cities of refuge were of divine appointment. Their appointment suggests the sacredness of human life—the sacredness of innocence, and they teach that divine revelation, not human passion, is to be the guide of life. Such a plan cannot be attributed to human philanthropy. Philanthropy is not its own creator. Mercy is divine. A clear distinction is to be made between justice and revenge and between revenge and avenge. Avenge may be a human act in behalf of the oppressed. Revenge is a base passion. Justice is noble and pure. Vengeance is corrupt. Justice will practice self denial to give fair play to all. Vengeance will practice self-denial to hurt another. Sometimes we hear "revenge is sweet." Ask to whom, or to what noble sentiment, power or taste? Revenge may be sweet to an Indian, but to an intelligent, well-balanced man will it be so? The practice of so many citizens carrying arms is worth attention. Is the practice a threat, a challenge or a defiance? Does it betoken a high grade of civilization or the opposite? Cities of refuge were found only in the promised land. There have been so-called sanctuaries in many countries, but can a true asylum—the right of sanctuary and protection be found among any people who ignore God? The cities of refuge were not in one tribe only. No one people can monopolize God's provisions. They were found only in connection with the priesthood. With the priesthood comes the idea of atonement. This idea runs through all God's plans for human welfare.

German Lutheran service next Sunday at 2 p. m. in the Episcopal church by Rev. J. Kogler.

GEO. GARLICH ACQUITTED.

—George Garlich's second trial on a charge of disturbing Herr Binder's peace and quiet up in the classic precincts of Soquel canyon a week ago came up for hearing before 'Squire Pierce and a jury Saturday morning, and in less time than it takes to tell it he was acquitted. The jury deliberated upon whether they should charge Binder with disturbing the peace himself, but brought in no indictment. It was shown that George went up the canyon to mildly protest against Binder's cutting timber on a piece of land which he was negotiating to buy. Binder threatened to get his gun, called George names which no gentleman would permit to come out of his mouth and chased him off the place. When George came to town, greatly vexed at the turn of affairs, he found Binder had preceded him and sworn out a warrant of arrest, charging him with disturbing the peace and quiet of the canyon. Binder charged him with threatening to burn down his bee houses, but he tells us he did nothing of the kind.

The first trial occurred last Tuesday and resulted in 11 to 1 for conviction, and George informed us you could knock him down with a feather when he heard the verdict. But he came out of the second trial with flying colors, being promptly adjudged innocent of the charge, the action being plainly one of pure maliciousness. Probably if the evidence had all come out at the first trial he would have been acquitted then. Mr. E. W. Champlin was the juror in the first case who could not agree with his associates, and his view is thus fully borne out by the second jury. Mr. Garlichs will purchase the tract of land in question and will settle down and become a staid and proper member of society.

To-Night—Reiser's Opera-House.

The Americus Vaudeville Company which appears to-night comes highly recommended. The Los Angeles Herald designated the company as the best organization of its kind that ever came to this part of the State. The San Diego Sun says it is the best company that ever appeared in that city. Among the company is the wonderful Arbno, premier hand balancer of the world, Herr Franz Hell, the world's greatest fluegelhorn virtuoso, the famous Americus Comedy Quartette and Silvers and Emmery, the Australian marvels in their astonishing double ring performance, Miss Inez Dean, the California society contralto, and Miss Emeril, the champion contortionist of the world. To conclude with the farce comedy, "The New Mule."

PLACENTIA POINTERS.

SEVENTY FAMILIES NOW WHERE ONCE OUR CORRESPONDENT' COULD COUNT BUT ONE—THE ORANGE GROWERS.

Those who are living here do not notice how the country is gradually filling up with people, but our attention has been called to the matter by an old resident who had been absent some time and returning more distinctly noticed the many new houses and strange faces. We remember the time when there was but one family in what is now the boundary of Placentia school district. Now we can count seventy families and there is still room for more. We do not think that it is claiming too much to say that in all California there are seventy families, who include the entire population of one district, that are more comfortable, contented, happy and prosperous than those who live in Placentia. There seems to be harvest here at all times and seasons. From January to July the orange crop, estimated this year to be two hundred carloads, besides thirty or forty carloads of cabbage. From July to November the grain—barley, wheat and corn, castor beans, raisins and wine grapes, all bring in money and are industries of note. The nut crop comes in later and averages about thirty carloads, which will, before many years, increase to one hundred carloads, each car bringing from $1,000 to $1,400. The months of December and January are devoted to a general cleaning up of the surplus and preparations begin for sowing the new crop.

The wool industry and the hundreds of tons of brea or asphaltum that is hauled away from here annually is no small item and increases the revenue considerably.

Several tons of turkeys were shipped to Los Angeles for Thanksgiving.

The Placentia orange growers, including those of Fullerton, have perfected a strong local organization, embracing all of the large groves and nearly all the small ones, excepting the Gilman place. The estimated number of cars now in the association is 220. The directors for the ensuing year are: W. F. Botsford, M. Benchley, A. McDermont, S. Ross, C. W. Leffingwell, W. M. McFadden and Wm. Crowther. W. F. Botsford is President, L. B. Benchley Vice-President and Mr. Essic Secretary. If a suitable packing-house cannot be rented the association will build one of its own. The Citizens' Bank of Anaheim has been selected as custodian of our money.

Mr. C. Woodward is on the sick list.

Mr. East has the frame of his cottage up, has graded his roads, is grubbing out the unsightly trees and otherwise improving and beautifying his home.

Mr. Welton, who has been living on the Olinda ranch, has moved to the Messmer or Jonathan Kraemer place.

The Grand Jury did a wise thing in recommending grading done on the road leading to the upper bridge between Placentia and Olinda ranch. For years an effort has been made to get a passable road in that direction, but the powers that have been refused to give the necessary relief. We trust that Mr. Potter will give the matter his attention as soon as installed as Supervisor, as work is needed there at once.

The glorious rain has put nearly everybody to work. Grass is shooting through the ground and in two weeks stock will be living on new feed. The vision of $20 a ton for hay has vanished and those who have a surplus will now begin to unload.

Mr. Essick's mother has arrived from Crawfordsville, Ind., and will spend some time with her son and family.

The lecture of Rev. E. R. Watson of Santa Ana before the Placentia literary society on the 14th was largely attended and highly appreciated. The music furnished for the occasion by Messrs. Walter and Ed. and Miss Crowther was excellent. The subject of the lecture was "The spirit of religion of the early settlers of the American colonies and its influence on our civilization." After the lecture Amos Wright, W. M. McFadden and Thos. Strain discussed some of the points made.

BUENA PARK.

There is to be a social at the hotel Friday evening and everybody expects to go and have a good time. These are the places where old-time friends go to have a social chat.

Mr. B. F. Pritchard had a raffle last week for a hammerless Ithaca gun. Dick Vanhuysen was the winner, and he has had several offers for his prize but none yet came up to its value.

Miss Estelle Smith, who has been visiting Mrs. A. B. Badgerly since last spring, has returned to her home in Butler, Mo.

Our esteemed fellow-citizen, Mr. Joseph Speidel, recently received news of the death of a beloved sister and the serious illness of his aged mother. He has the sympathy and condolence of his many friends in this community.

Since the rain here the farmers are rejoicing and our young merchants' faces are wreathed with smiles.

Miss Lucille Charter, from La Harpe, Ill., is at the Park House visiting her sister, Mrs. Sailor, and will remain during the winter.

Mrs. Logan is visiting with Mrs. Pitblado.

The Park House is receiving quite a number of guests, and travelers report it a pleasant place to stop at, both man and beast receiving the best of attention.

The change in the church services from morning to the afternoon has made some difference in attendance, but after hearing one of Rev. Willett's sermons no one would remain away. The church congratulates itself on having secured one of the ablest speakers in Southern California.

Sunday School is held every Sabbath at 1:30 p. m.; preaching at 2:30; Y. P. S. C. E. at 7:30, and Social Family Circle Thursday evening at 7:30, taking up the subject of the international lessons.

"Governor" Whitaker was over this week, and everyone was pleased to meet with him. Hotel life agrees with the Governor, and it is said Frank Whitaker takes to his position in the Hotel Balmoral as though to the manor born.

A letter received from Miss Cora Champlin announces her safe arrival at home. Though enjoying the reunion with friends she misses our genial clime.

Surely none of our people need go to Los Angeles for books, stationery, toys, jewelry, etc., when they can be got at cost at 222 West Fourth street, Santa Ana, where W. R. Gilson is selling out everything on account of ill health. nov29-4t

The State of Illinois is without an executive head, says a dispatch of Tuesday evening, and there is nobody in the State qualified under the law to act as his substitute. Governor Altgeld is at the Hot Springs, Lieutenant Governor Gill is in California, Senator Coppinger, President pro tem of the Senate, is on Federal duty in Canada, and nobody knows where Speaker Crafts is.

—The election notice for abandonment of operations by the irrigation district appears among the new advertisements on the second page this morning. The election must be carried by a three-fifths vote.

—Our merchants are preparing for the Christmas holidays, and are receiving goods suitable for presents. There is no need for going away for your presents, as the different stores in town offer sufficient inducements to keep your money at home.

—At the meeting of the Masonic lodge Monday evening the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: H. W. Chynoweth, W. M.; S. Holman, S. W.; H. A. Stough, J. W.; W. M. Higgins, Treasurer; Joseph Helmsen, Secretary.

—The case of Pritchard vs. Whitaker Bros. of Buena Park, appealed from the Justice's Court in this city, was tried in the Superior Court on Thursday and resulted in a verdict for the defendant, confirming the judgment of the lower court, for $131 and costs.

—Tuesday evening was showery and the dark clouds portended a heavy downpour during the night. But the clouds dispersed and the moon shone brightly. Yesterday we had a raw wind, the boreal blasts presaging the fall of snow in the hills.

—Mrs. John Kuebler yesterday swore out a complaint charging Capt. Remick with maintaining a nuisance in keeping some pigs at his place near the corner of Broadway and East streets. The case comes up before Judge Pierce and a jury this morning.

—Thursday morning the uncommon phenomenon of a beautiful rainbow arching in the northern sky was witnessed by many, and its beauty as well as its rarity commented upon. The rainbow was a portent of the further showers that ensued upon its disappearance.

—Jack Hunter is short forty sacks of seed barley stored at La Habra which he intended putting in for next season's crop, but which some unconscionable thief prevented by making away with it some few evenings ago. Jack would have procured a combination safe had he known thieves were so near him.

—Juan Reyes brought into town from Yorba on Tuesday the scalps of fourteen coyotes, which he has been industriously gathering with the aid of his shotgun for many moons past. Juan has a blushing damsel waiting for him up in the Yorba hills, and he says he will marry her when he gets the $70 which the scalps entitle him to.

—The St. George Tennis Club of Fullerton will give a musical and literary entertainment at Chadborne's Hall on the evening of the 21st for the benefit of a charitable object. There will be a select musical program by amateur and professional talent, and the excellence of the entertainment coupled with the charitable purpose had in view, ought to result in a large audience. Tickets, 25 cents.

—Dr. George McMurray, the well known veterinary surgeon and dentist, has located here, with headquarters at Lewis' stables and will give his attention to diseases of the horse, making dental work a specialty. Dr. McMurray is known as one of the most experienced veterinary surgeons on the coast, and has been uniformly successful in his practice. He is an authority on horse flesh, and any work entrusted to his care will meet with prompt attention.

—What proved to be the heaviest rainstorm that we have had in several years began as we were going to press last Wednesday evening, at which time we reported something less than an inch as having fallen. The storm continued during the night and Thursday morning, when the total precipitation amounted to a fraction over three inches. During the week showers have increased this to 3 66. The outlook for a favorable year was never better.

—At the meeting of the committee on the enlargement of the irrigable area of the water company on Saturday it was resolved to increase the boundaries east, west and north, deferring the increase toward the south until some future time. The matter will come up for further discussion at the meeting next Saturday, at which time all those interested should be present and give the board the benefit of their views.

—The poverty party given by the ladies of the Episcopal Church at the Del Campo last Thursday evening was a very pleasant affair. The costumes worn were in the main ludicrous indeed, and all were bent on passing the evening in true Arkansaw fashion. Virginia reels and Old Dan Tucker dances were freely indulged in and were much enjoyed. The affair was quite a success financially, and the ladies who had the party in charge are deserving of praise for their entertainment.

—Well, well, well! Just as we expected! Here is our old friend Wm. Schwenckert writing us from San Francisco not to forward his paper there further, saying that he has given up the idea of living there—don't like it at all—and has decided to come to Los Angeles, adding that Southern California is the only country on earth after all! We knew all along that Schwenckert couldn't stay away, and we are glad to know he is coming back—he is in Los Angeles by this time. He left the city on Saturday on the Pomona, and his family will follow to-day on the Santa Rosa. He adds that he will be down to see his friends in Anaheim occasionally.

—At the recent Christian Endeavor convention in Santa Ana the following officers were elected for the Southern California district: President, C. B. Morris of San Bernardino; Recording Secretary, Miss Minnie Ross of Pomona; Corresponding Secretary, Miss M. Phoebe Jones of Anaheim; Treasurer, Walter Koethen of Riverside. Vice-Presidents—W. P. Gulick, Riverside county; W. S. Edwards, Santa Barbara county; Miss Bertha Isenberg, Ventura county; Miss Jessie Chambers, Los Angeles county; Miss Estelle Conaway, San Bernardino county; J. H. Bronwer, San Diego county; Miss Susie Ross-Lewis, Orange county.

—A copy of Mr. Stephen E. Kieffer's new map of Orange county, showing the different judicial townships, Supervisor districts, incorporated towns, etc., has been received at this office, and a more valuable piece of office furniture, if we may be permitted to so refer to it, can scarcely be imagined. This unique map ought to be on the walls of every office in the county, as it shows at a glance what had hitherto been a vexatious question, viz., the exact location of the lines dividing the several political divisions of the county. Mr. Kieffer has drawn the map in the happiest vein of his particularly meritorious workmanship, and a more striking example of the draughtsman's art, as well as a more useful map in every particular, it would be indeed difficult to find.

—That Mr. Beebe of the candy kitchen has been compelled to work all night for several nights consecutively during the week to keep up with the demand for candies, is not to be wondered at if all of his wares are possessed of the same uniform degree of excellence as characterized the tray of candies brought into our office on Monday morning. A Los Angeles friend in at the time assures us that no finer candy is made in the angelic town. Mr. Beebe's candies are "out of sight," to employ an expression frequently used concerning them, and for his very generous donation he has the thanks of the force.

—Clarence Groat found his runaway mare at Olive, after looking in vain for her all over the country for several days. The animal was taken up by a rancher on the hill who thought, after keeping it two or three days waiting for the owner to come and get it, to set out himself in search of him. He went over to Orange, whence the news spread quickly to Santa Ana, and Doc. Garner telephoned Groat over that the mare had been found, and Clarence went up and got it. The mare is a valuable animal, quite speedy, and though its owner would have taken $75 for her while she was lost, it is doubtful if much less than $300 will purchase her now.

—We take pleasure in directing the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Gray Brothers & Ward, the well-known cement builders of San Francisco and Los Angeles, who have been doing such good work in cementing our ditches for some weeks past. This firm of cement contractors does more work in their line than probably any other firm in the State. They laid the foundation of the big Crocker and Mills buildings and the new French hospital in San Francisco, and their signs may be seen all over the city where their men are at work. They are now engaged in laying the foundation for the new ferry house and depot at the foot of Market street, the bonds for which we all voted against two years ago, but which, now that this excellent firm is doing the foundation work for, has lost many of its terrors. The firm is ready to give estimates on jobs large or small, and are first-class people to do business with.

—A young lady living near the southwestern outskirts of the city on retiring the other evening was startled to hear the voices of several tramps in the front yard. There was no one in the house except the heroine of this story and her mother, the boys being all away, and when therefore she heard one of the tramps remark that he had a key that would fit any door, and a concerted movement of footsteps was heard toward the front porch, there was occasion for no little alarm. The lady quietly procured her brother's shotgun and lifting the window blazed away with both barrels, careful to aim in the direction, however, in which the visiting tourists were not. Such a scatterment of tramps was never heard, and on looking about the yard next morning for evidences of the slaughter, a sack of tobacco was found which the tramps had left behind them in their mad flight. That young lady has solved the tramp problem, and probably they will give the premises a wide berth hereafter.

—On the night of June 14th a charge of powder was ignited at Mrs. Menzel's front door, at her residence near the Southern Pacific depot, shattering the door, blowing her out of bed, littering the premises with splintered debris and shaking the house from floor to roof. The lady narrowly escaped serious if not fatal injuries. A man named "Black Bart," alias "Wild Bill of Texas," was suspected, he having had an altercation with the Menzel boys the previous evening, and having been heard to threaten to blow their house up, and he was arrested by Marshal Steadman while preparing breakfast at his camp on the line of the cement ditch near Brookhurst early the next morning, having been tracked thither from the scene of the explosion. Although the circumstances pointed unerringly to his guilt, there was not enough evidence, in the opinion of the District Attorney, to convict him, and he was discharged.

Recently new evidence has been obtained against him, and some days ago Constable Landell went down to San Diego, whither Wild Bill had in the meantime transferred the base of his operations, and rearrested him. On Monday Judge Pierce bound him over to appear before the Superior Court.

—Without doubt the social feature of the holiday season will be the masquerade ball to be given by the Fullerton band at the St. George hotel on New Years' eve, December 31st. That the old year will be danced out and the new year in in mirth and jollity, goes without saying. The hotel is the ideal place for a ball, Fullerton boys are the ideal young men to arrange the details, and the band is the ideal musical organization for the furnishing of the musical part of the evening's entertainment. That old reliable dude, Charley Stone, who is the premier among floor managers, will be in charge of the floor, and that fact alone is quite a sufficient guarantee that that part of the festivities will be in capable and painstaking hands. Billy Hale will be inspector, Walter Crowther will lead the orchestra, and Ollie Schumacher will manage the finances, and what better set of young men does one want? The band has furnished us with music times without number, notably for the military parade Thanksgiving Day, and our people should reciprocate by turning out in force and attending the masquerade. Let's all go to the ball!

—Mr. Timo Lynch breathed his last on Wednesday evening. There had been no hope for him for a day or so. He was taken with a stroke of paralysis of the brain a few mornings preceding his death while getting out of bed. He had been complaining of dizziness for some few days, and on attempting to arise was overcome with paralysis, and at no time had there been any hope for his recovery. He lingered with the shadows of death gathering about him, and succumbed but a few hours after being stricken down.

Mr. Lynch was a native of the city of Cork, Ireland, and was aged 69 years, 1 month and 20 days. He was a man of parts, having a collegiate education and an extensive knowledge of men and affairs. He was one of the agents of the Stearns' Ranchos in the early 70's and was stationed in Anaheim in charge of that extensive property. He was later employed in the law department of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and continued in that employment until the accession of Mr. Huntington to the Presidency of the road, when many changes in the personel of its employees went into effect. He shortly thereafter came to this city to reside and has since lived in quiet seclusion at his comfortable home in West Anaheim. He was a wide reader of books and papers and had a very fine library and collection of newspaper clippings which he valued highly. He leaves a wife to mourn his untimely taking off.

—After lingering for some weeks with a bad attack of typhoid fever Frank Smythe yielded up life's struggle shortly after 10 o'clock Monday evening. His condition had been low for a day or two past, so much so that recovery had been despaired of, yet for an hour or two immediately preceding dissolution he seemed to brighten up and gave every indication of a turn for the better. He raised himself in bed and conversed freely with the members of the family, but soon after the final summons came and he passed away peacefully as if in sleep.

In the busy days of the last beet shipping season can be traced the germs of the disease which finally proved the deceased's undoing. Eager to get his crop into the warehouse before the final closing day, he was up betimes, working early and late to that end, and succumbed to physical exhaustion. Two hemorrhages preceded dissolution, and though everything was done to comfort the sufferer, it was of no avail, and he passed away in the hope of eternal salvation. Deceased was 34 years of age, and had been a resident of this city for a number of years. He was universally esteemed by a wide circle of friends, who deeply deplore his untimely end. The funeral occurred from the residence of Mrs. Smythe, mother of deceased, yesterday morning, the remains being followed to their last resting place by a large concourse of sorrowing friends.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. Scott and family contemplate removing to Los Angeles.

Gus Strodthoff has taken a position in Dickel's grocery establishment, the increased business making necessary the employment of another clerk.

Rabbi Edelman of Los Angeles was in town a few days ago to administer the initiatory rite of the Jewish covenant to the child of Mr. and Mrs. Salzman.

Mr. James A. Whitaker is now located at the Hotel Balmoral at Pasadena, having removed thither after disposing of his recently acquired property at Orange.

Frank Ward was down from Los Angeles Tuesday paying off his hands on the cement ditch work. The happiest time in his life he says is when he is paying off his men.

Mr. A. Rubins who owns a place at Orangethorpe has decided to try his luck at Redlands, whither he took his departure some days ago. He has rented his place to a Mr. Williamson and reckons on being gone for a year.

Prof. Frantz was up to Los Angeles on Monday to invest in a new billiard table to be added to the barber shop and pool establishment over which he and Prof. Cooper preside, equally proficient each in the art of handling either the razor or the cue.

H. P. Larsen has been confined to his residence for a month past with a carbuncle that at one time threatened serious consequences. He is able to be out again and will soon be able to resume his work which has suffered serious interruption during his indisposition.

Capt. Halpin took his departure on Saturday for San Francisco, where he goes on a sojourn of a week or ten days. He went up by water, taking the steamer at Redondo, and will probably return next week.

The Captain drops us a line from the Occidental and says they had a pretty rough passage down, but he arrived without any mal de mer. He was going to the Baldwin Theater that evening.

Mrs. and Miss Reid, wife and daughter of Druggist Reid, left yesterday for their old home in Ohio, where Dr. Reid has preceded them. They will remain a while in Iowa visiting friends. They had intended starting Tuesday, but arrived at the depot a short time after the train pulled out.

Collector Witte of the irrigation district informs us taxes are coming in slowly, many of the taxpayers no doubt holding off until the last week in December. Quite a large amount has been collected, however. The Santa Fe railroad company has written to ask the amount of their taxes and have signified their intention of pungling up before the end of the year.

Herman Dickel is receiving his stock of holiday goods, which are now being placed on display. The stock embraces a comprehensive assortment of useful as well as ornamental articles, fancy goods, candies, Christmas tree candles and adornments, etc., and offers a very tempting display to intending purchasers of presents for the holiday season. Read his new advertisement and then call and see him at the old stand.

Messrs. Jahn, Entenman, and Haberstro of the Los Angeles Turn Verein were in town on Sunday instructing the local branch of the society in advanced turning exercises. As a consequence renewed interest is being taken in the orginization. These visits will be repeated once a month or so, and there can be no doubt of the benefit to result to our Turn Verein therefrom. Theodore Blumhardt is interesting himself in infusing new life into the organization, and should have the cordial assistance of the citizens in his good work.

"Blind Tom," the celebrated negro pianist, will appear at the Opera-house on Christmas eve., the 24th. This will furnish a rare treat to the musically inclined, Blind Tom being one of the world's greatest pianists, playing the most difficult compositions from memory. A new piano will be brought over from Santa Ana for the occasion. The entertainment will be late enough to enable those attending Christmas tree exercises to arrive at the hall in time for the performance.

Mr. Gilman was in town from Placentia on Tuesday and represented that inasmuch as his wife had presented him with a new baby boy on the day before election and no mention of the event had appeared in the GAZETTE, the editor owed him an apology. It is rather tough on the youngster, but we reckon we will have to put the heft of the blame upon its pa, who forgot to tell us of the interesting event until the boy was large enough to remonstrate upon the omission of mention of his arrival in the birth column. We doff our hat to the youngster, and promise it shall not occur again.

Stephen Kistler, at the Boston Bakery, has as fine an assortment of Christmas cakes and candies as can be found in Southern California. Besides his usual line of cakes, pies, fresh bread, etc., which we all know to be most excellent, he has added a line of lebkuchen (the celebrated Christmas honey cake) and pepper-nuts, without which no Christmas celebration is entirely complete. He has a very fine line of candies and all kinds of decorations for Christmas trees, glass balls, candles, candle holders, etc. He announces that he will have a Christmas tree on exhibition at the bakery and invites all to call and see it. Herr Kistler has the finest line of goods that we have seen in Anaheim, and ought to enjoy a very liberal holiday patronage.

Mr. McCullough writes from Los Angeles to say that he does not receive THE GAZETTE most of the time until Fridays afternoon, and asks why he cannot get it regularly on Thursday, as sometimes the postal authorities get a rustle on and deliver it to him on the day of publication. The same complaint has been made to us before, and the answer has been in all cases, as it is in this instance, that the postoffice is at fault. The papers leave here in all directions on the first trains going out of town Thursday morning, and if Mr. McCullough does not receive his copy until Friday afternoon, it shows a culpable negligence on the part of the postoffice that merits an investigation by the authorities at Washington. All subscribers in Los Angeles should get their papers before noon on Thursday, as the papers leave here on the 8:15 Southern Pacific train. Subscribers at Fullerton, whence we also hear complaint occasionally, should receive their papers by 1 o'clock at the latest, as the papers are sent over by the noon Santa Fe train. We shall bring this matter to the attention of the postal authorities at Washington, to the end that the culpable parties may be located if possible and the influence of the department exerted to getting them a job picking oranges.

THE BLACK BOTTLE.

ONE OF THE SUPERSTITIONS OF BELLEVUE HOSPITAL.

Belief That Its Contents Are Used to Remove Uninteresting Patients—The Fatal Bed Superstition—Ignorant Rounders Spread Silly Stories.

No one can be an inmate of Bellevue hospital for any length of time without hearing of the famous "black bottle." The superstition connected with it is very growsome, yet it is believed in implicitly by many of the patients. Briefly told, it is as follows:

The opinion is prevalent among the poor that Bellevue hospital is a school of experiment for the instruction of young surgeons and physicians, and that only cases of peculiar novelty and interest are wanted there. If a patient happens to be a good subject for the operating table or clinical lecture, he or she is welcome to all that institution affords; otherwise the sooner the poor creature makes room for a more interesting patient the better. Nor are the physicians and nurses supposed to entertain any scruples of conscience as to the means they employ in effecting such removals. In cases of lingering sickness where there is no hope of an ultimate recovery they are supposed to hasten the end by administering a fatal dose out of the mysterious black bottle. After taking it the patient falls asleep never to awaken.

This superstition originated from the fact that morphine and other drugs of a poisonous character used in the hospital are always kept in bottles of a particularly suspicious appearance. They are made of dark blue glass, with a corrugated surface, and are distinguished by flaming red labels, on which is printed the emblem of a skull and crossbones, flanked by the word "Poison." Now, it frequently happens that morphine is administered to those who are dying of painful diseases in order to mitigate the severity of their sufferings, but the ignorant patients around do not understand this. They see the nurse take the dreaded black bottle from the medicine chest, measure out a portion of its contents in a glass and give it to their comrade to drink. Then they shake their heads ominously and whisper to one another in frightened tones.

"They are giving him the black bottle. Poor fellow, they are tired of him! He's been occupying wanted room, but he'll be on his way to the morgue soon enough now."

When the sick man dies, the other patients do not attribute his death to natural causes, but to the mysterious poison contained in the black bottle. No amount of reasoning could convince them otherwise. Once a nurse tried to argue an old patient out of the superstition, but he maintained his belief in it as obstinately as ever and answered:

"Don't tell me. I'll believe my own eyes sooner than what other folks say. If there isn't death in the black bottle, why is it marked with a skull and crossbones? And why is 'Poison' printed on it? Tell me that."

It is needless to say that the bottles containing poisonous drugs are so labeled to insure the safety of the patients. The corrugated surface is a further precautionary measure, for no one could be mistaken, even in the dark, as to what such a vial contained. The sense of touch would warn the nurse where that of sight might fail. In Bellevue hospital the greatest care is exercised over poisonous drugs. They are kept under lock and key in a strong closet specially prepared for them in the pharmacy, and the door is furnished with an automatic arrangement that rings an electric bell whenever it is opened.

The black bottle superstition is by no means the only one associated with hospitals. There are certain beds in almost every hospital that are considered unlucky. The old hospital rounders know them and are probably responsible for keeping alive the superstition concerning them. A hospital rounder is a person who makes capital out of a chronic ailment. He makes the rounds of the hospitals in precisely the same way that the habitual vagrant makes the rounds of the police station lodging houses. He is pretty well posted on the affairs of the institutions that have harbored him and takes particular pains to impart his information to the other patients. He treasures in his memory every growsome detail that comes to his notice and that may serve to embellish his stories. If a new patient happens to be brought to the ward of which he is an inmate and laid on the cot that is supposed to be unlucky, he takes advantage of the first opportunity to steal to his side and whisper: "Get them to move yer outer that bed as soon as yer can. Ye're courtin death to lie there. Five have died in it the past fortnight."

Such an announcement cannot fail to inspire the newcomer with terror, especially if he is not educated above the belief in superstitions, yet if the ward is full he is compelled to occupy the unlucky cot, a prey to the most gloomy forebodings. The unlucky bed is always that in which the greatest number of deaths have occurred, and there is generally one in each ward that can claim such a distinction.—New York Press.

An Anecdote of James Payn.

James Payn says that there was a queer resemblance between himself and another Trinity man. "Not only was I often addressed by persons who took me for him, but people used to ask, apropos of nothing, whether I know So-and-so. I remember making a considerable impression upon a chance passenger in a railway train on the Cambridge line, who was staring at me rather hard, by suddenly observing: 'No, sir. I do not know Mr. So-and-so.' It had been the very question he was going to ask me, but my anticipating it seemed to him so uncanny that he got out at the next station."—San Francisco Argonaut.

AN EXTRAORDINARY ROMANCE.

A Contest Over a Land Claim Causes a Reunion In Marriage.

A romance of more than ordinary interest, dating back to the opening of the Cherokee strip, was made public here recently, says an Arkansas City (Kan.) special.

When the great rush was made for the land of the strip, John Bell, from Bloomington, Ills., came to this city and made the race, securing a choice claim south of the Chilicco reservation, but when he went to file he found that a woman by the name of Sarah Bell had filed ahead of him. He returned to the claim and found no one in possession and no signs of improvements, and, of course, thought the woman had made a mistake and filed on the wrong quarter section.

Finally, after waiting several weeks for the matter to be straightened out by the officials of the land office, he decided to file a contest, and a few days later he received a letter from a lady, who proved to be his divorced wife, whom he had been separated from for eight years. She had come here from Bloomington just before the opening, made the race and was one of the first to file, and after securing her papers returned to Illinois to sell her property there with the intention of returning and taking possession of her claim.

Further correspondence followed, but no compromise was effected, and finally Mrs. Bell came here, bought lumber and had a house built on her claim. The date was fixed for the contest, but was postponed from time to time, but was finally to have been decided at Perry one day last week.

The two contestants boarded the train for that place at Newkirk, but before they reached their destination they were both sitting in the same seat, and John had his arm around her waist, and she was sobbing on his breast. The contest was settled.

When they arrived at Perry, they celebrated the anniversary of the opening of the Cherokee lands by being reunited in marriage. They are now living happily together on the new home near the Chilicco reservation.

TIPPED THE CROWN PRINCE.

Texas Jack Rewarded Royalty For Helping Him Out of a Difficulty.

The following story is going the rounds of social circles in Copenhagen:

The crown prince, who loves to take long walks, was promenading the other day along the Strandney when he came across one of the tollkeepers. After paying his tax he began a conversation with the good man, sitting on the bench which the keeper occupied. A few minutes later a rider came running toward them. The crown prince recognized him as Texas Jack, who had ridden in several races recently.

The sportsman neither knew the crown prince nor that he was to pay toll for the privilege of using the street. The keeper was obliged to catch the bridle of Texas Jack's steed, as, speaking no Danish, the latter did not understand the demands made upon him and wished to push by. Texas Jack was growing angry when his royal highness stepped forward and announced in English that users of the way had to pay 10 oere.

Upon hearing this the long haired rider at once put his hand in his pocket, pulled out 25 oere and gave the money to the crown prince. The latter offered to return him 15 oere, but the Yankee, with a majestic wave of his whip, told the crown prince to keep the change as a reward for helping him out of his difficulty.

On the following day the crown prince went to the races. Among the competitors was Texas Jack. A few minutes before he was to show the skill of himself and horse he rode up in front of the royal pavilion to make the customary obeisance to the king. But he almost dropped his reins when, looking up, he saw the man to whom he had given the fee on the preceding day occupying the place reserved for the crown prince. His royal highness greeted him, however, most heartily, and Texas Jack rode away smiling and to victory.—Copenhagen Letter.

A CAT'S FALL.

French Scientists Gravely Inquire Why Puss Always Lands on Her Feet.

The French Academy of Sciences spent almost an entire day last week profoundly discussing the question, Why do cats fall on their feet? M. Marey read a paper and submitted 60 photographs depicting puss in various attitudes while falling about five feet. The first showed the cat with feet in air making a series of desperate appeals for succor; then a somersault was turned with more or less grace; finally the feline reached the ground on its four paws, and then, with tail aloft, bolted into a safe retreat.

There was a great deal of learned discussion as to the cause of the phenomenon. M. Marey thought the problem had been triumphantly solved by puss in the first three feet of the descent. M. Milne Edwards, M. Berthelot and others maintained that the cat uses the hand or other object causing the fall as a leverage for turning round, but this did not agree with the early photographs, in which there is no sign of rotation. M. Marcel Deprez suggested that intestinal movement might account for the phenomenon. M. Marey promised to continue his experiments and to prevent the possibility of leverage by tying the cat and then letting pussy drop.—Paris Correspondent.

Ate Deviled Oysters.

The board of managers of the Thirteen club of New York met in Davis' parlors, Orange, Saturday night and decided to hold a meeting of the club in Orange next June. Just 13 members sat down to the dinner last night. The wine cards were black, in the shape of coffins, with silver inscriptions. The oysters on the half shell were accompanied by tiny red devils in all sorts of attitudes.—Orange Dispatch.

THE MARRIAGE MARKET.

Prices Are Fair For Gilt Edge Stock, but Job Lots Are Cheap.

It is too early in the season to predict what the prospect for business in the matrimonial market will be. Dealers are carrying over large stocks from last year, and the overproduction of debutantes and the importation of foreign fascinators may have a depressing effect upon the market. Dealers are anxious to realize, but the market continues firm, with an upward tendency.

Prim, first class, country bred winners are at a premium. Last season's society whirlers are below par. There is a better feeling in rosebuds, and prices to foreign noblemen are phenomenally low. Mothers-in-law, after having touched bottom figures, A1, are reviving and are quoted at 88⅛, middling 73, good ordinary 61. It is confidently predicted that before the fiscal year ends mothers-in-law will go to 114 unless unforeseen complications arise calculated to bear the market. Fathers-in-law are extremely dull. Small brothers find no market, and maiden aunts are not listed. Gilt edged orphans are scarce and but few offering. The stock on hand Oct. 1, 1894, of good matches among the men is too small to note in a sworn to statement of effects and liabilities.—Washington Post.

Harper's Weekly

IN 1895.

HARPER'S WEEKLY is a pictorial history of the times. It presents every important event promptly, accurately and exhaustively in illustration and descriptive text of the highest order.

The manner in which, during 1894, it has treated the Chicago Railroad Strikes and the Chino-Japanese War, and the amount of light it was able to throw on Korea the instant attention was directed to that little-known country, are examples of its almost boundless resources. JULIAN RALPH, the distinguished writer and correspondent, has been sent to the seat of war, and there joined by C. D. WELDON, the well-known American artist, now for many years resident in Japan, who has been engaged to co-operate with MR. RALPH in sending to HARPER'S WEEKLY exclusive information and illustration.

During 1895 every vital question will be discussed with vigor and without prejudice in the editorial columns, and also in special articles by the highest authorities in each department. Portraits of the men and women who are making history, and powerful and caustic political cartoons, will continue to be characteristic features. This Busy World, with its keen and kindly comment on the lesser doings of the day, will remain a regular department.

FICTION. There will be two powerful serials, both handsomely illustrated—The Red Cockade, a stirring romance of olden days by STANLEY J. WEYMAN, and a novel of New York, entitled The Son of His Father, by BRANDER MATTHEWS—several novelettes, and many short stories by popular writers.

Harper's Magazine

IN 1895.

The Simpletons, a new novel by THOMAS HARDY, will be begun in the December Number, 1894, and continued to November, 1895. Whoever may be one's favorite among English novelists, it will be conceded by all critics that THOMAS HARDY stands foremost as a master artist in fiction, and The Simpletons may be expected to arouse enthusiasm not inferior in degree to that which has marked Trilby—the most successful story of the year. Another leading feature will be the Personal Recollections of Joan of Arc, by the SIEUR LOUIS DE CONTE Her Page and Secretary, under which guise the most popular of living American magazine writers will present the story of the Maid of Orleans. In the January Number will appear a profusly illustrated paper on Charleston and the Carolinas, the first of a series of Southern Papers.

Northern Africa is attracting more attention than at any other time since it was the seat of empires. The next volume of HARPER'S MAGAZINE will contain four illustrated articles on this region, and three of them will depict the present life there. JULIAN RALPH will prepare for the MAGAZINE a series of eight stories, depicting typical phases of Chinese Life and Manners. Besides the long stories, there will begin in the January Number the first chapters of A Three-Part Novelette, by RICHARD HARDING DAVIS—the longest work yet attempted by this writer. Complete short stories by popular writers will continue to be a feature of the MAGAZINE.

Public notice is hereby given that default having been made in the payment of taxes due the city of Anaheim for the fiscal year 1894-5 upon the property hereinbefore described,

I, N. F. STEADMAN, as Tax Collector in and for the City of Anaheim, by virtue of the power and authority in me vested by law, unless the taxes delinquent, together with the costs and percentages due thereon, are paid, will on

MONDAY. DEC. 31st, 1894,

At the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, commence to sell the real estate upon which said taxes are a lien, at PUBLIC AUCTION for and on account of such delinquent taxes thereon, in front of the City Hall in the City of Anaheim, County of Orange, State of California, and that I will continue such sale from day to day (Sundays and legal holidays excepted) according to the adjournments, and between the hours of 10 o'clock A. M. and 3 o'clock P. M. of each day of sale, and at the same place, until the whole property hereinbefore set forth, or so much thereof as may be necessary shall be sold; and that I will sell the smallest quantity of each piece or parcel of property liable for such taxes that will be taken by any person for the amount, in legal coin of the United States, of the taxes and costs remaining due and unpaid thereon, together with the sum of fifty (50) cents, provided by law for the certificate of sale in duplicate in each and every case.

SUMMONS.

In the Superior Court of the County of Orange, State of California.

Mrs. J. M. Roberts, plaintiff, vs. Sheldon Littlefield and Main Street Savings Bank and Trust Company, a corporation, defendants.

The People of the State of California send greeting to Sheldon Littlefield and Main Street Savings Bank and Trust Company, a corporation, defendants.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the Superior Court of the County of Orange, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this Summons, if served within this county, or if served elsewhere, within thirty days, or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this court for the foreclosure of a Mortgage described in the said Complaint, and executed and delivered by the said Sheldon Littlefield to the said Mrs. J. M. Roberts on the 5th day of February, A. D. 1890, to secure the payment of one certain note, dated February 3d, 1890, for $900 00, with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum, compounded semi-annually, and payable one year after its date. No part of the principal sum of said note has been paid, and said principal sum of $900 00, with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum, from August 3d, 1893, compounded semi-annually, now remains wholly due and unpaid. Said Mortgage conveys the following described premises, to wit: Situate in Anaheim, County of Orange, State of California, and being the east one-half (½) of lot seventy (70); all of seventy-one (71), in block "F" in Vineyard Lot "C 3," with the improvements thereon. Also lots 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, in block "H" in Vineyard Lot "C 3" with improvements. House on lot "112" as per map of Keller Vineyard as subdivided by Messrs. Helmann and Sorenson.

That the premises conveyed by said Mortgage may be sold, and the proceeds applied to the payment of said note, interest thereon, attorneys' fees and costs of suit, and in case such proceeds are not sufficient to pay the same, then to obtain an execution against said Sheldon Littlefield for the balance remaining due, and also that the defendants and all persons claiming by, through or under them, or either of them, may be barred and foreclosed of all right, title, claim, lien, equity of redemption and interest in and to said mortgaged premises, and for other and further relief. Reference is had to Complaint for particulars.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said Complaint as above required, said plaintiff will cause your default to be entered and apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the Complaint.

Given under my hand, the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Orange, State of California, this 8th day of November, A. D. 1894.
