Editorial Note and Comment

The subcommittee of the Republican state executive committee, appointed to prepare a call for the state convention, met in San Francisco on Saturday, there being present Chairman George Stone, Charles Bundschu, W. M. Cutter, W. S. Wood and Judge E. C. Hart. The call, as framed by Senator Cutler and J. Steppacher, was reviewed and endorsed and will be submitted to the executive committee on Friday evening, and to the general committee the next day.

The Democrats formally opened their campaign on Saturday with a meeting of the state executive committee in San Francisco. T. C. Sims, chairman, announced that the object of the meeting was to take preliminary action for the issuing of a call for the state convention.

The following were appointed a committee to prepare the convention call: R. M. Fitzgerald, Alameda; James H. Budd, San Joaquin; A. Caminetti, Amador; Nicholas Bowen, Santa Clara; C. O. Dunbar, Sonoma; A. M. Seymour, Sacramento; Thomas E. Curran, San Francisco.

In Governor Benjamin Odell of New York decides to accept a renomination from the Republican party next fall, he must decline an offer in the world of railroads and finance which entails a salary of $100,000 a year.

Governor Odell made his trip to the Pacific Coast, permitting a number of important matters to await his return, one of them being the appointment of a finance supervisor for state charitable and reform institutions, in order, it is said, to confer with E. H. Harriman in regard to an offer to become the eastern representative of the Harriman interests. Since Harriman had his recent financial battle with J. P. Morgan, he has felt the necessity of an eastern representative who could command respect from all quarters and be of especial use through his knowledge of politics.

Governor Odell made a record as chairman of the Republican state committee, and also as Governor that has attracted national attention, and it was felt that he could fill the position offered by Harriman. The offer from Harriman to the Governor was known only to a few personal friends, and they have been watching with interest what he will do. With his political influence and his knowledge of the financial world, Odell would be invaluable to any financial interest, and Harriman was quick to appreciate the fact. In view of what has developed, it is regarded as almost certain that the Governor will not be a candidate for renomination, but in the future will be actively concerned in Wall street affairs.

The new primary election law provides that delegates to state, county, township, congressional, senatorial, assembly, supervisory and judicial conventions shall be elected on the second Tuesday in August. This means, in the opinion of a wise man recently referring to the subject, that each political party will have from four to eight different ballots in some precincts in the event separate conventions are held for the nomination of such officers. One set of delegates can be chosen to one or all conventions, but the law explicitly states that they cannot be combined on one ballot. Separate ballots must be provided for each political subdivision. If one or more general election precincts are combined that a ballot-box of enormous size will have to be provided. In an election precinct in which 500 Democratic, 500 Republican and 200 Democratic votes are cast, Democratic

WONDERFUL WEALTH OF CALIFORNIA

Census Shows Notable Increase in All Lines of Products—Large Expenditure for Labor.

A census bulletin on agriculture in California has been issued which reveals an enormous gain in the material wealth of the state.

The farms of California June 1, 1900, numbered 72,542 and had a value of $707,912,960. Of this amount, $77,468,000, or 10.9 per cent, represents the value of the buildings and $630,444,960, or 89.1 per cent, the value of the land and improvements other than buildings. On the same date the farm implements and machinery were valued at $21,311,670 and live stock at $67,303,325. These figures, added to that of the farms, give $796,627,955, total value of the farm property.

Products derived from domestic animals, poultry and bees, including animals sold and slaughtered on farms, are referred to in this bulletin as "animal products." This value for 1899 was $131,690,506. The total value of farm products for 1900 exceeds that reported for 1899 by $44,657,316, or 51.3 per cent.

California, the second largest state in the Union, has a total land area of 155,980 square miles, or 99,827,200 acres, of which 28,829,951 acres, or 29.9 per cent, are included in farms.

The diversity in soil and in climate in California renders possible a greater variety of agricultural products than can be found in any other state in the Union.

Of the 72,542 farms, 11,958,837 acres are improved and 16,870,114 unimproved, the average size of a farm being 397 acres and the percentage of land improved 41.5. The rate of gain of the number of farms in the last decade was 37 per cent. The average size of the farms has decreased as extensive cultivation has become more general.

The gain in the value of farm property for the last decade was only 3.2 per cent. On this point the bulletin says: "The small increase is doubtless due in part to financial disturbances in 1893. The value of implements and machinery increased 45.1 per cent and that of farm products 51.3 per cent. In the same period the value of live stock increased 11.7 per cent.

The Kaiser Wilhelm will pay us a visit. He has heard so much about the country from his emissaries, He wants to see it himself.

Emperor William of Germany next year will be visiting the United States and will be in Washington at the time the statue of Frederick the Great, which he proposed giving to the United States, is unveiled in that city. This news comes directly from diplomatic circles, and the fact that William intends coming is well understood by the President and Cabinet, having been privately communicated to them at the time that Emperor William sent his message offering to present to this government the statue of his illustrious ancestor.

The whole matter of his visit to Washington still in the embryo stage, but the intention to make the trip is firmly lodged in his mind, and he has strongly intimated that he will come if affairs of state can be arranged to permit such a visit being made. There is no intimation as to when the statue will be unveiled here, if accepted by this government, but it is estimated that it will take about a year to cast a bronze statue such as the Emperor proposes sending, get it to the United States and arrange the necessary details for the ceremonies. Even this does not contemplate that an original replica of some already existing statue of Frederick the Great shall be cast. There are a great many such statues, of splendid proportions, in Germany, and Germans believe that William will choose to present a replica of an existing statue rather than trust to the uncertainties of an original. In his message to the President, Emperor William said whether the statue would be original or not, merely designating it as "a statue in bronze."

Emperor William's contemplated trip was discussed at considerable length at a recent Cabinet meeting, and there naturally was a good deal of speculation as to whether it was his intention to visit this country. Whether it is a special diplomatic design over this great display of friendship on the part of Germany is not yet revealed to Washington statesmen.

The President will at an early date ask Congress for authority to accept the statue on the part of the United States, and he will ask Congress to provide a site upon which it can be erected in the city of Washington. There will be no opposition, so far as can be ascertained, to the entire project. Whatever denials may come, the cold fact remains that the intention exists and has been communicated to Washington.

RESOLUTIONS OF REGRET.
The following resolutions were adopted at a recent meeting of the Democratic county central committee of Orange county:
Whereas, W. M. McFadden, after long and efficient services as chairman of the Democratic central committee of Orange county, has, by order of the health, been obliged to resign of ill health, and that he is unable to attend to his duties as chairman; be it resolved, that we appreciate the services rendered by Mr. McFadden to this committee and to the Democracy of Orange county, and that we thank him for his services and that we express our appreciation of his services to him and that they be spread upon the minutes of the committee.

Blood.
We live by our blood, and on it. We thrive or starve, as our blood is rich or poor.
There is nothing else to live on or by.
When strength is full and spirits high, we are being refreshed, bone muscle and brain, in body and mind, with continual flow of rich blood.
This is health.
When weak, in low spirits, no cheer, no spring, when rest is not rest and sleep is not sleep, we are starved; our blood is poor; there is little nutriment in it.
Back of the blood, is food, to keep the blood rich. When it fails, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. It sets the whole body going again—man woman and child.
If you have not tried it, send for free sample. Its agreeable taste will surprise you. Write to Scott's Emulsion, Chemists, 409-415 Third Street, New York.

LOCAL JOTTINGS OF INTEREST

Mr. Botsford's Generosity
W. F. Botsford, president of the California Bank, has made an agreement with the Los Angeles chamber of commerce whereby all questions as to ways and means of erecting a chamber of commerce building on the chosen site has been laid at rest.

The building will go up on the site selected by the board of directors to furnish the funds for the $190,000 which is to be five stories in height. After ten years the chamber of commerce should wish to change the location of its headquarters Mr. Botsford agrees to take the property and assume the indebtedness. Another agreement on his part is that if at the end of ten years or any time previous the rentals of the building fail to pay the fixed charges, such as taxes, insurance, interest, maintenance, etc., he will make up the deficiency. The chamber is to pay a monthly rental of $300 for its quarters.

Mr. Botsford's offer was so accepted by the directors, and so business-like, that it was immediately accepted.

Clark Sues for Damages
J. Ross Clark has begun suit in Los Angeles courts to recover $50,000 damages from S. J. Murphy for failure to fulfill a purchase contract by which he was to come into possession of a water system belonging to the East Whittier Land and Water company, together with its entire capital stock, valued at $65,000. Failure of Murphy to carry out his side of the contract is alleged to have prevented plaintiff from closing the deal and taking advantage of a plan he had in mind to improve the property, make it yield a larger amount of water and thus make an additional $50,000, and at the same time retain possession of the entire plant.

LATEST CALIFORNIA TOPOGRAPHIC MAPS.

A number of interesting topographic sheets showing portions of California have recently been issued by the United States Geological Survey. The Redding sheet shows the country about the town of that name and the mountainous section of the upper Sacramento valley. The Chico and Bidwell Bar sheets, which join, show a portion of the Sacramento valley surrounding the town of Chico and the neighboring western foothills of the Sierra Nevada, and that it is the northern part of the middle of Feather river are interesting topographic features of these sheets. The Anaheim and Santa Ana sheets adjoin and show the comparatively thickly settled country along the lower course of the Santa Ana river. The Anaheim sheet is particularly interesting in that it shows the mountain side well indicated, as are the broad, nearly dry gravel beds into which it divides below. The more important irrigation canals are also shown. The Big Trees sheet shows a section nearly in the heart of the Sierra Nevada, and is notable as indicating the location of the Calaveras grove of big trees. The shape, height and slope of all mountains are indicated by contours, and the ordinary features appear in great detail.

PROF. COOK WRITES ABOUT BEETLES.
Eat Cuttings of Grapes Just Set Out as well as Grape Vines.—Remedy.

Messrs. C. A. Lound, Pomona, and A. W. Danforth, Anaheim, each send me a small shining beetle, with the report that it is one of the pest of grape vines just set out and also the young grape vines. Later the same report comes from Pasadena that similar ravages are being wrought there. Mr. Lound speaks of millions of pests in his vineyard east of Pomona. This is the first I have received or seen of five cent beetles, but very similar to the grape leaf beetle of the Eastern States, which has long been a serious pest. That is Haltica chalybea. Prof. Hall, who is an expert in this order of insects, tells me that this one is Haltica caranata, and has previously earned the reputation of a vineyard pest of the family Chrysomelidae, of leaf beetles. Many like this one are metallic in color and luster, hence the first name. They all feed on plants, both in the grub or larva stage and as mature beetles; hence, leaf beetle is appropriate. The potato, cucumber and impatiens leaf beetle all belong to the same family. Our little yellowish-green 12-spotted beetle, so troublesome on melons, is also of this family. These shining green or bronze beetles are small, less than one-fourth inch long, and have large shanks or femora to help and aid in their work. They are Haltica striolata is a serious enemy of radishes and potatoes etc.

These beetles are difficult to manage. It is to be presumed that Paris green will kill them if eaten by them. In case Paris green is used, one should use 200 gallons of water in the right proportion, and to prevent burning of the plants. Yet there are millions of beetles the remedy is often unsatisfactory. In case of a very near relation which one year did serious damage to the potatoes in the Rural New Yorker, a strong tobacco decoction was available to save the plants. The tobacco used was the dust and coarse stems, and so was a cheap article. These beetles are likely to persist through the season so they have not attracted attention, in previous years makes us hope that this present onslaught will be exceptional and not long continued.

Another remedy I would suggest for trial. Kerosene is very repugnant to all insects. Gypsum or land plaster would add a pint of kerosene to two gallons of the plaster and dilute with water to the consistency of mud. It may do no harm but it is sure it will not damage the vines, and it might repel the beetles.—Prof. Cook in Cultivator.

Old Soldier's Experience.
M. M. Austin, a Civil War veteran of Winchester, Ind., writes: "My wife was sick a long time in spite of good doctor's treatment, but was wholly cured by Dr. King's New Life Pills, which worked wonders for her health. They always do. Try them. Only 25 cents at all druggists."

"Sodom redeemed" ejaculates the redoubtable warrior of the Los Angeles Times...

This spake one of the wise saloon keepers the other day.

The county election this next November will be wet or dry, and wet wins.

We said to him we should be sorry to think so.

The citizens have spoken, and now that the increased license is about to take effect they insist that its provisions be lived up to the letter.

How many saloons will close their doors on the first, when the new license is designed to take effect, remains to be seen.

But those that remain are expected to yield obedience to the law, whether it be the result of a conspiracy on the part of Fullerton's prohibitionists or not.

Wholesalers should not be permitted to put the law in contempt.

All let obey its provisions alike. Wineries and breweries selling all kinds of liquor by the glass must pay the retailers' license, and that's an end on't.

From all sides come reports of new surveys for railway lines, and indications point to extensive railroad building in Orange county...

During the week a party of surveyors have run a line through Clair, southeast to northwest, in a line apparently from Santa Ana to Buena Park.

Another line has been surveyed along Orangeflora avenue from Buena Park eastward to Spadra road, when it turns toward this city and continues on the way along Los Angeles street through Huntington people, although the significance of the Clair line is not at the moment apparent.

The Orangeflora avenue line indicates probably that the route laid out through the La Habra valley may be abandoned and the avenue used instead.

The Long Beach line was completed by July 1st, when the construction force is to be moved to the line from Los Angeles to that city and the work pushed rapidly to completion.

The favorable attitude of the country papers throughout the state for the re-nomination of Governor Gage is remarkable, and that he has a strong hold upon the Republicans of California is evidenced by the expressions of sentiment in Los Angeles county the local papers are practically a unit for his re-nomination.

Of the twenty papers in the county, outside of the city, sixteen are urging his re-nomination, a positive reflection of public sentiment in the various communities where the papers are published that cannot be questioned.

In Los Angeles the Times is the only paper opposing him, and it is conceded by all that this is decidedly to his advantage, if past campaigns are criterions.

The Spanish paper is for him; also the Italian paper. All the trade papers are espousing his cause with commendable vigor, and the union organizations and their papers are making an enthusiastic campaign in his behalf.

Henry T. Gage's sincere, recognizing in him an earnest and honest friend of the wage earner.

In Riverside county the unanimity of the local press is even more marked, and it is a matter of public comment that there is no Republican opposition to him in this county.

In Orange county there is but one paper opposing him—the Santa Ana Herald. Even the Democratic Santa Ana Bulletin is frank enough to say that he has made the best Republican Governor the state has ever had, and it speaks of him as a man of sterling integrity.

In San Diego county the San Diego Morning Union and Evening Tribune are fighting Gage. However, there is a reason for it. The two papers are owned by John D. Spreckles, who also owns the San Francisco Call, and it is this daily newspaper trust that is waging a shameful and slanderous war upon the Governor. But the two San Diego papers referred to do not in any way reflect the Republican sentiment of that county.

Such local papers as the National City Record, the Escondido Advocate, Fallbrook Observer and the Oceanside Blade—papers not dominated by Spreckles—more correctly reflect Republican sentiment of San Diego county. These papers are for the re-nomination of Henry T. Gage.

In San Bernardino county the Sun and the Bedlands Citigraph are the only papers of note opposing Gage. The Transcript, the Redlands Review and the Facts are his friends, as is also the Needles Eye.

In Ventura county Senator Bard is taking no sides in the fight, and therefore there is not a paper in that county hostile to Governor Gage.

No man has ever run for office in California, and particularly the second time, who has had a stronger endorsement from the country press than does Governor Gage at the present time.

Dr. Houck entertained members of the bezique club at cards on Monday evening.

SHERWOOD'S CHARGES AGAINST KELLOGG

Assesses Him of Many Delinquencies and Errors of Judgment, Whereby Company Lost Much Money

EDITOR GAZETTE:—Mr. Kellogg's letter in your last issue explains in itself quite fully one reason for his dismissal from the service of the company, viz., his uncontrollable propensity to give advice, which was neither asked for nor desired.

It was his practice to break in upon the business of the meetings with his unasked advice until it began to be a matter of doubt whether he or the directors were running the affairs of the company.

I have been asked many times why, as chairman, I did not shut the "fool" off, and replied that I cannot compass impossibilities.

With regard to his comments on the outlet ditch and the reservoir, I will say that a new survey was recommended by Mr. Zeyn and myself because his estimate for the two miles or so of outlet ditch is $17,000, and involves the construction of about 3000 feet of pipe and other unnecessary difficulties, which it seems probable can be avoided by another route, which will be shorter as well.

All that is proposed at present is the expenditure of $20 or so in trying another line, which may save the company $6000 or more. The danger from flood water by the line proposed is not alarming.

So also with regard to the reservoir; all that is proposed is to spend a few dollars in ascertaining if the dam cannot be built higher, and if the bottom is as Mr. Kellogg states. All of value that has been done at the reservoir, beyond the calculation of capacity, is the boring of the two holes on the dam site 26 feet deep, and Kellogg's efforts to prevent any further examination do not promote confidence in them.

In view of the fact that Mr. Kellogg has seen fit to make his troubles public, it seems desirable that some of the reasons for his dismissal should be given.

RIGHT ARM CUT OFF BY BUZZ-SAW

Terrific Accident to Lawrence Getting While at Work at Brookhurst

Lawrence Gartling, while operating a wood-saw at Brookhurst yesterday afternoon at half-past 3, had his right arm taken off by the saw.

The saw had clogged with sawdust, and a small twig clung to it. One of the attendants said he would get a shovel and clear the sawdust away.

Gartling sought to pick up the twig, when his hand was caught in the buzz-saw and cut off. The saw cut the flesh from the lower arm, and then ran across the arm above the elbow, cutting it off.

Gartling was brought into town, a distance of two miles, in a faro wagon, when he was bandaged, but was in a state of shock. He was taken to the hospital and Drs. Johnston and Bickford summoned.

The unfortunate man was weak, from loss of blood. The arm was taken off above the elbow.

Almost Drowned Lottie Heterick, daughter of Richard Heterick, fell into the A. U. W. ditch near her home at Piacenta Friday morning while on her way to school.

A SCENE ON THE SOO

The King of France Took Possession of the Last Two Hundred Years Ago. In St. Nicholas there is an article on "The Great Lakes" by W. S. Harwood.

Mr. Harwood says: While waiting for my steamer to be carried through canal locks of the Soo, I was struck by a scene on the hill which I never saw elsewhere.

Looking from the top of the hill, I saw the rapids of the Soo as they flow from Lake Superior down into the St. Mary's river and so on to join at last the waters of Huron. On the top of the hill, nearly as I could decide from the topography of the country, was witnessed two centuries and a quarter ago one of the most remarkable, one of the most significant, scenes in the history of the world.

It has been brilliantly described, and I may but mention it. On June 14, 1671, a strange body of men was assembled on this hill. It was composed of four classes: the official representatives of the king of France, the Catholic missionaries, the voyageurs, the Ojibwa Indians, the chiefs of 14 of the different tribes of Indians in the region extending to the Soo on the date mentioned.

An immense crowd of wood was made and carried to the top of the hill overlooking the swift flowing rapids. A stout timber with an engraved plate on it was set up near the deep hole in the ground which was to hold the foot of the cross.

When all had assembled, St. Luson, the representative of the king, lifted in one hand a cross and in the other his naked sword and in the name of his most Christian majesty the king of France took possession of the land, embracing in his assumption "all the region from the north to the south sea, westward to the ocean on the west." The cross was then raised before the moiety through the representatives of the government in their most gorgeous suits, the priests in their rich vestments and the voyageurs in their hunting gear of skins, the Indians in their most fantastic fashions and paint.

As the cross assumed position the priests intoned a stately chant of the seventeenth century. Then the French exclaimed "Vive le roi!" while, as one historian puts it, "the Indians howled in concert." The plate upon the smaller timber bore an engraved inscription denoting the king's possession of the land.

A SCENE IN SALONICA. The Jews and Jewesses That inhabit the heart of the town.

In the true ghetto, in the noisome heart of the town, where the cobble streets run slimy and the people chatter with the butchers for the refuse of the slaughter house and chicken block, you meet the Jews and Jewesses of the middle ages.

He hearsed grandios or tiny boy, he wears a long loose garbarding to his heels and the fox of his masters. If he is well to do, the garment may be fur bordered, or it may be silk, but it is not more surely soiled and greasy if the law required it so.

With marriage the survivor of the dark ages grows a beard full and thick and grizzled in the old man, wiry and black and very expressive in the younger heads of families. In this as it is in East Broadway and Chicago and Berlin, but when you look upon the wives and daughters in Salonica's ghetto you see medieval characters who have stood in the east, but seem to be representatives abroad.

These Jewesses love display and court admiration. They are much finer than the men, milk skinned, with a pale pink flush, as if they were bathed in rose water. Their clothes are gay, red, green and blue being their favorite colors, and the married women all wear decorative bonnets fashioned very low in front and showing a fancy shirt of embroidery and lace, which either reveals the neck or the forms or makes startling exposures of the forms themselves. Their chests are always quite bare. This in a land where the other women expose nothing but their eyes is all the more striking. It is received through the nostrils, cleanses and heals the whole surface of which it diffuses itself. Druggists sell the 50c. size; Trial size by mail, 15c. only. It is and you are sure to continue the treatment.

AND THE RESERVOIR WENT A LITTLE BIT HIGHER

Nothing Done, Says Sherwood. Shaking His Gory Looks, and Calmly Reviewing Wreck and Crash of Worlds

Mr. Zeyn played second fiddle again to Mr. Sherwood at Saturday's water meeting in sending the Yorba reservoir on its way rejoicing, to Tophet or some other resort town. That the reservoir will be constructed by the present board is such an extremely doubtful proposition that it might as well be dismissed from consideration of possible things. We have seen how Sherwood has bucked the proposition from the start. As latest accounts he had not ceased in his attitude of transparent hostility to the enterprise, but his efforts have taken the turn of watching the antics of his fellow-committee member in reporting, with an air upon his countenance as if he had just swallowed specks, that there was nothing to report from the committee on further investigation of the reservoir site, now engaged with the matter since more than a month ago.

Apparently Sherwood has the reservoir just where he wants it. While he insists in declaring that he favors it, he reports there are no more bores in the country and that by his inability to employ an outfit to bore deep holes in the site to see what's underneath it due the fact that his committee has nothing to offer concerning the matter in hand. Probably there will exist a similar state of things when the final summons comes to him if he remains in control of the board.

Zeyn announced his solemn conviction at the meeting a fortnight before that there were members on the board who, while they were loud in their protestations of fealty to the enterprise, were nevertheless secretly opposed to it. This observation was evidently intended for Sherwood, who had just left the meeting. And yet Zeyn plays into Sherwood's hand by serving upon a committee out of which nothing can come, and the official report of which is prepared by the man whom he has in private accused of being opposed to the reservoir.

The proper man to act upon the committee—indeed such a committee be at all necessary, in view of the data on file, and all of it favorable to the reservoir—is Engineer Kellogg, who knows more about it than any man in Southern California. True, Kellogg has been discharged at the behest of Sherwood, a rival engineer insanely jealous of him, and whose every purpose on the board seems to have been centered in an effort to do Kellogg. Sherwood discharged Kellogg by and through the vote of Smith, who surprised every one of his constituents by his act.

Smith has been roundly criticized by many of his voters, and will have a bit of rough sledding, so the wise ones say, when the proxies blow.

But Kellogg is the man who should carry on the "investigation" into the site further—if any further investigation is necessary. Zeyn is not. He should no longer listen to the tempter, but should bid him heras mit ten.

When the board had been for some time in order and had taken a fall out of a volume of routine business, the chair said:

Sherwood—The next business in order is the report of the committee on further examination of the reservoir site.

Zeyn—The committee will ask for further time.

Sherwood (amplifying)—The committee has been unable to procure the services of a well-borers' outfit with which to bore deep holes in the site. The committee is therefore unable to report, and will be given further time.

But who ever heard of a plan to bore "deep holes" in a reservoir, the stratification of which had already been reported upon to a depth of 28 feet?

It was discovered that back rent to the amount of $200 and odd was due the Stearns ranches for land occupied at the Tuffee reservoir. It was ordered that a warrant be drawn in the same amount, to be added to the warrant for $1100 to be paid for 20 acres at the reservoir, deed to which has not yet been received.

The Stearns ranches wrote that their secretary was out of town, but if the water company were desirous of having a deed before his return, the secretary should attend to the matter in the absence of the regular official.

Secretary Krick was instructed to write saying the company wished the deed as soon as it can be conveniently forwarded.

Smith of the ditch committee reported that in the matter of the application of T. Anderson for a gate at his place on Placentia avenue the same be granted, but that the connecting pipe going under the road must be put in at his own expense. So ordered.

Sheppard reported the division gate had been constructed in Beardsley canyon, according to recommendations by him made, and an equitable division of the water in the river arrived at.

Zaenro Brunworth reported Sparks' ditch was too low and overlanded its banks. He recommended the sides be raised for a distance of 100 feet.

Mr. Sparks was present and confirmed the report, saying the ditch was so low he could not irrigate from it.

Crowther—Isn't it a fact that your land is too low for the ditch?
Sparks—Sure it is. All the land along the ditch is too high for it. That is what's the matter with it.

STEVE BARKER'S BATTLE WITH DEATH

Nearly Succumbs From Effects of Surgical Operation—Recovery—Then Recovering

Whether Steve Barker will survive the murderous knife thrust of Coyote Reyes, time alone will tell. On Sunday morning a rumor spread that he had died the previous evening at 9 o'clock. Inquiry of the attending physicians elicited the information that so far from being dead his condition had actually improved since the preceding day. Steve was operated upon on Saturday, and a piece of rib taken from him to permit the withdrawal of a quantity of bloody pus from the pleural cavity. It was given out at the time that he barely survived the operation. A week or so previously he underwent the first surgical operation since being stabbed four weeks ago last Saturday night. It was decided that the operation was necessary in order to save his life, complications having set in which brought on delirium, indicating poisoning of the blood. Thirty-six ounces of coagulated blood and pus were removed from the pleural cavity. The patient was left in extremely weakened condition. Next day it was not thought possible he could survive. However he rallied and in a day or two was sitting up a portion of the day reading. He appeared to be holding his own during the day, but at night the delirium came on, puzzling the doctors.

This condition kept up until Saturday, when his condition had reached such an ebb tide that it was decided to remove a piece of rib and draw off the coagulated blood and pus as the only means of saving the man's life.

Barker scarcely survived the effects of the operation. It was feared he would die. But he rallied, and Monday the report that he was dead, on Sunday and Tuesday he was sitting up in bed on his own, with a possible chance for his life.

Barker was stabbed, as stated, four weeks ago Saturday night. He was on his way to his wagon, the horse attached to which had been hitched on Center street, near Mercera's store. It was past midnight. He had been drinking. Not far from his rig he sat down upon the curb and began vomiting. Reyes came along and said something to him, just what has not appeared. Reyes had been in town looking for a fight. He had been thrown out of a pool room and was seeking flight on the appearance upon the scene of the proprietor armed with the butt of a billiard cue was the only thing that saved him from a broken head.

Reyes had not met Barker previously that evening. When he spoke to him at Bank hall in Fullerton in the afternoon. He applied an opprobrious epithet to Barker and advanced as if to strike him. Billy Renner, who was on his way home with Barker, swung for the Mexican jaw, Reyes having made a pass at him. Renner landed and knocked the cowardly cur into the middle of the street. He cried enough and was permitted to go.

When Barker reached his rig a moment later Reyes was on him with his wagon, eager to resume the fight. The lights were out. The two men grappled and fought their way into the street, muttering curses and epithets the other. In the darkness it could not be seen with whom the advantage lay.

In an instant Barker said to his companions on the sidewalk: "I believe he has a knife, and a moment later, 'I believe I'm cut.'"

Reyes walked away, having accomplished his purpose. Barker was put in his wagon and driven to a doctor's hastily. It was found that he had been stabbed in the chest, one inch toward the shoulder. The wound penetrated the pleural cavity. Barker's clothing was drenched with blood. He nearly yielded up the ghost then, and there from excessive hemorrhage.

Since then it has been a question day by day whether he would live. When Reyes released his hold in the grapple there in the dark, another took his place whose sines relax only at the portals of death.

Barker has a wife and three little girls, the oldest four years, the youngest four months old.

Yesterday afternoon it was stated the patient was very weak, but with still a possible chance of recovery.

Annual State Convention
The annual convention of the State Anti-Saloon League of Southern California is hereby called to meet in the Y. M. C. A. hall, Los Angeles, at 10:30 a. m., Monday, May 26th, 1902. There will also be an afternoon session beginning at 1:30.

Membership in this convention will consist of:
1st. All pastors in attendance.
2nd. Five delegates from each church.
3rd. One delegate for each ten members of any local Anti-Saloon League.
4th. Three delegates from each W. C. T. U. or other organization in sympathy with the work of the League.
Delegates may be appointed or elected as may be preferred. All are welcome to all the sessions of the convention.
In addition to the annual business of the convention, which will be full of interest, there will be several able addresses, with full and free discussion of current topics, and all interspersed with choice literary and musical selections. Prof. and Mrs. Dobbin, the charming gospel singers, will conduct the music.

Very much of the success of this important gathering will depend on the pastors. If these leaders of the people will themselves be present and will also announce the convention and see that their churches are fully represented, the convention will be made very helpful to the temperance cause, and the glorious victories of the past year will be prophetic of still greater achievements.

HUGH K. WALKER, President.
WILLIAM CLEVER, Secretary.

Another Scalp
The Anaheim kids scalped another scalp at their belts on Saturday afternoon when they took the Long Beach kids into camp at baseball to the extravagant tune of 21 to 6. The local boys and their positions were: Murray Mills, pitcher; Willie Fischer, catcher; Dwight Stone, center field; C. Crane, third base; F. Lewis, second base; Edgar Hartung, first base; R. Norman, right field; Teddy Dickel, left field.

John Hartung went along to see the boys perform. He says the fishermen weren't in it. When the Long Beach crowd saw their home club had a bad beat coming some one kept flashing a mirror in Fischer's eyes behind the bat. Our boys didn't think anything of that sort of harsh treatment, however, and say they had a happy time.

New Business Block
The Masonic and Odd Fellow lodges have made a proposition to Mrs. N. H. Mitchell in response to her offer to put up a brick building on her lot on the corner of Center and Los Angeles streets. She has it under consideration and an early decision will probably be arrived at.

The proposition involves the erection of a two-story brick building covering the entire lot, the upper story to be used for lodge purposes, the lower story for stores and other business.

Experiment Station
Prof. Newton B. Pierce, pathologist in charge of the experiment station on Orange Grove avenue, has been among local walnut orchards, making a careful investigation of the conditions of the crop and the walnut disease. The professor is making some extensive experiments with the walnut disease, notably in the orchards of A. W. Worms and Mr. Lovring, where he is spraying with three different solutions. He has been making these investigations for some time and while here on Monday gave out every hope for the ultimate cure of the disease, if not an entire cure. He says that with the present knowledge of the disease and sprays with which to curb its growth, he can save considerable of the crop that has heretofore been lost.

The Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church will meet this (Thursday) afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. C. Mills at 2 o'clock.

EUROPE AND AMERICA CONTRASTED

Wholesale and Retail Fashions. What Each May Learn From the Other. BY FRANCIS E. CLARK, D. D. [CONTRIBUTED TO THE GAZETTE.]

There is nothing more interesting to a traveler from America than to contrast the customs and manners of the New World with those of the Old. How do we differ from the rest of the civilized world? How have we improved upon the model set for us? Or have we lost ground in the race? How have influences of climate and environment modified the national character? How has our type of government affected natural characteristics? All these are interesting questions and came one to keep his eyes open for resemblances and contrasts.

This series of articles does not pretend to go into the philosophic depths of these questions, which are matters for profound and careful research; but they deal with tangible and visible distinctions which an observant traveler may at any time note.

It is quite easy to be blinded by a national pride to every good thing in a foreign land. It is very possible not only to make out all your ducklings to be swans, but to think that our neighbors' cygnets are ducklings.

One has to go abroad not once to see things in their right proportions; and he must not live abroad too long at a time, or he will become denationalized, coming to be so English or so German or so French that he will acquire a contempt for the virtues of his native land.

Of all jobs, the sensationalized American whose pulse never beats a throbbing faster when he sees the Stars and Stripes, is the worst.

On the other hand, an aggressive, underestimating Americanism may make a fool of a man quite as quickly as the other extreme.

AN AMERICAN'S FIRST IMPRESSIONS
On a first visit to Europe one is quite likely to regard everything as amusingly behind the times. The trains are "wretchedly slow-coaches," inconvenient and medieval; the hotels are run by a "tribe of blacklegs and sharpers," who exist largely for the purpose of preying upon Americans; the tip system is an abomination and that country is in nothing is done quite so well as in the land of the free and the home of the brave.

As the traveler repeats his visits, however, he finds that, after all, the inhabitants of Europe are not "two hundred millions of people, chiefly idiots," that many of their customs are admirably adapted to their own needs, and that possibly, in some respects, he should not be above copying them.

The most disagreeable and utterly absurd American whom I ever saw abroad were half a dozen recently naturalized Americans whose features declared their immediate origin, and who could not speak decent English. They were all selling their foreign-made "American" flag in their hats. They declared over and over again that nothing they had seen could "hold a candle" to things American, and they rejoiced, with profane expletives, that they were soon going back to "God's country."

Undoubtedly Europe can learn many things from America; it is not impossible that we can learn from her, for she is not nearly so effete and stagnant as some persons are inclined to think.

THE RETAIL STYLE
One thing that impresses the traveler in Europe is a certain retail way of living and doing business, as contrasted with the wholesale style at home.

In Europe you are made to pay for every item with scrupulous exactness. In America you often pay for what you have not had, or at least you pay in a lump sum on the wholesale plan for a number of things which an American feels it beneath his dignity to itemize.

In Europe on the buses and tram-cars you pay for the distance you travel. If you go half a mile, you pay half a penny; if a mile a whole penny; if two miles, twice the sum, etc. In America you drop your nickel into the conductor's waiting palm; he rings in the fare on his indicator; and you get off when you please, after you have traveled a rod or five miles.

So at the restaurants and hotels, one is ever reminded of this difference between the two countries.

In America you order a breakfast, for instance, and the brisk waiter returns not only with the striffin for which you asked, but as a matter of course, with potatoes, bread and butter, pickles and perhaps a vegetable or two. For the steak you pay half a dollar, or seventy-five cents, and the rest is "thrown in."

In Europe, as you look over the menu, you rejoice to find that a steak costs only one franc, twenty cents, and you say to yourself, "What a cheap country this is to live in!"

But wait for your bill, and you find your steak, to be sure, costs only twenty cents, but your potatoes cost ten cents more, your bread five cents, your butter five more, while your napkin and "service" and other necessities bring the meal up to the American price, even if you indulge in not a single luxury.

In Vienna the waiter asks you how many eggs you have had out of the basket he sets on the table, and you must pay ten "hellertucker" for each. In Germany a plate of tempting fruit

CHROMITE AND ASBESTOS

California Enumerated Among States Producing These Metals.

(CONTRIBUTED TO THE GAZETTE.)

The production of chromite and asbestos is discussed by Dr. Joseph H. Pratt in "Mineral Resources of the United States, 1901," published by the United States Geological Survey and now in press.

Although but little chromite, the source of chromic iron ore, has been mined in the United States during the last few years, some of its recent uses should cause surprise. The metal itself, chromium, is not used in the manufacture of brick for open-hearth furnaces. In one furnace over 400 tons of chromite were used before the chrome brick lining had to be replaced.

Chromite has been successfully used also as a heat-resisting lining for furnaces. It is not used in the manufacture of brick for open-hearth furnaces. In one furnace over 400 tons of chromite were used before the chrome brick lining had to be replaced.

TRIBUTE TO ROCHAMBEAU

While it is in a now likely that this nation will ever forget or fail to be grateful to Lafayette, Rochambeau and the French people for their aid in our struggle for independence, it is pleasing that we are to give renewed expression to this sentiment in the unveiling of a monument to Count de Rochambeau, the famous French field marshal who contributed so much to the American cause in the Revolutionary days.

There are some historical facts in connection with Rochambeau's service to this country which are not generally understood. It is customary in America to look upon Lafayette as the representative of France's assistance to the United States during the critical days of the Revolution. But in France and among Frenchmen, while there is the fullest admiration for the gallantry of Lafayette, it is a recognized fact that Rochambeau was the representative of French military authority in America at that time.

The climatic conditions are the most favorable for out-door life to be found in Southern California. The temperature is extremely uniform, seldom rising above 90 degrees in summer, or falling below 52 degrees in winter. The abundance of sunlight and the absence of sharp frosts and cold winds make it a place especially acceptable to those desiring to escape the severe climate of the east.

The country is very attractive. It is practically level, with just sufficient slope from the hills to afford adequate drainage. The roads are level, well graded, and well kept. # FACTS ABOUT ANAHEIM

Sketch of the Industries and Resources of this Most Beautiful Part of California.

The City of Anaheim, with a population of 2500, is situated in the northern part of Orange county, in Southern California, 12 miles from the ocean, 44 miles from the foot-hills, and 1484 feet above sea level. It is 27 miles from Los Angeles, the second largest city in the State of California.

SOME CURIOUS WEATHER

Rain That Withers Vegetation—Rain Without Clouds—Black Snow, Etc.

Rain is generally the best friend of the farmer in spring. It makes the new seeds sprout, and fits the meadows for a heavy crop of hay. The rain, however, which has been falling during the past few weeks around the Bay of Naples, instead of making crops grow, is killing every green thing. Vesuvius, it appears, has been sending out clouds of vapor charged with hydrochloric acid. The rain falling through these mists has absorbed the acid, and so blackens and withers everything on which it falls.

But there is no need to go abroad for examples of queer weather. Parts of Essex experienced last year a shower of red rain. It fell a little north of Ongar shortly after the great sand-storm which passed northward out of Africa over Southern Europe, and entirely spoiled a quantity of newly-washed linen hung out to dry.

The variety of products, and the possibility of procuring small tracts of land at low figures, and on easy terms, make our section of the county very attractive and advantageous for truck raising, or for farming on a small scale.
