

ELECTRIC RAILWAY RUMORS

HUNTINGTON BEACH CITIZEN, FAVORERS GARDEN GROVE LINE

Points Out that Washouts on the Talbert-Santa Ana Route Render it Impracticable—River Once Ran a Mile Wide and Washed Away the Railroad Bridge

A letter received by the Gazette on Monday from Huntington Beach states there exist excellent reasons for believing the Pacific Electric railway will build its line from that seaport by way of Talbert to Garden Grove, instead of from Talbert westward across the Santa Ana river. Two recent overflows of the river at a point where surveys for the latter route have been made have made forcible argument with Mr. Huntington that the line from Talbert west would be a most expensive and hazardous one. The letter points out that the present rainfall has not been so heavy as during the winters of 85-6 and 1890-91. We quote from the letter as follows:

"The route of the Pacific Electric railway from this point inland is a matter which should interest Anaheim as well as Huntington Beach. The way to touch the tender spot in the heart of the Pacific Electric is to show them most emphatically what the Santa Ana river has done in times past, and what it is sure to do again before many years. Nay, at any time.

"The river from this year's rains was a mere baby compared with the floods of 1885-86 and of 1890-91. The river in those years was so full of water that it splashed through the cracks in the floor of the old Orange bridge where the railroad and carriage bridge cross, side by side. At the approach it arose and beat against the bank with such fury that, notwithstanding the railroad company's efforts to hold the approach, it was washed out clean before morning.

"Under each bridge beneath the railroad water was running to the full capacity of the outlets, and by the time the water got to the Fifth street bridge, below Santa Ana, having the addition of the contents of the Santiago creek emptied into it, the river was nearly a mile wide. Now what will such a channel as is being made now do with the Santa Ana river, when it rains, and as it knows how to do when the time comes?"

Mr. Huntington is on record as saying he desired to build an electric railway line from Anaheim to the ocean, and considerable discussion was given the Garden Grove route some months ago, when a delegation of citizens from Huntington Beach came to Anaheim and met with the chamber of commerce to lay before them plans for procuring the right of way for the road. The chamber of commerce pledged its efforts to this end, and no little enthusiasm manifested itself. Subsequently the matter was permitted to drop, on the statement by Chief Engineer Pillsbury that the probable route from Anaheim westward would be by way of Cypress.

Since the recent washouts on the Talbert-Santa Ana line have indicated that that line would probably be abandoned by the railway company, added interest is given the Garden Grove route, where the Huntington Beach line would connect with the line already running to Santa Ana. The adoption of this line would mean that only one bridge would be maintained over the river, and that at an advantageous point; while the bridge for the line across the river from Talbert would be cut out.

This bridge, as the letter shows, would not only be expensive, but well-nigh impracticable on the present tendency of the river to wash over its banks. Traffic would be interrupted, while the Garden Grove route would be open the year round.

The consensus of opinion in Anaheim and along the route from Garden Grove hither is that right of way can and will be procured. Probably a committee will be appointed by the chamber of commerce to interview the powers that be in order to secure definite information upon the subject.

One of the leading citizens of Garden Grove said on Monday that the road will undoubtedly be built from Talbert to that point, but that nothing had been done looking to an extension of the line this way.

BUILDING CONTRACT SIGNED

Water Board Make Ready for Early Erection of New Office

Anaheim, February 27, '09. An adjourned regular meeting of the board of directors of the water company was held on the above date with all members present except S. Kraemer.

Messrs. Robertson & Schindler, the successful bidders for the contract of building the building for an office for the company were present as well as Frank Peters, architect, who presented a proposed contract to be executed. The contract was read to the board and it appearing that it was in accordance with the terms previously agreed upon, it was moved by Director Hale, seconded by Director Hale, that the president and secretary be and they are hereby instructed to sign the said contract on behalf of the company and to affix their names to the corporate seal. Carried.

Moved by Bradford, seconded by McLaughlin, that the indemnity bond in the sum of $1500 tendered by the contractors be and the same is hereby accepted. Carried.

On motion of Drake seconded by Hale, the following rates for water were adopted until further notice: January and February 60 cents, March 70, April 80, May, June, July and August 90, Sept. 90, Oct. 80, Nov. and Dec. 60 cents.

Director Hale presented for consideration the name of J. W. Newell as director to take the place of S. Kraemer, the matter to be taken up at next regular meeting.

On motion of Hale seconded by Sherwood, a resolution was passed expressing the dissatisfaction of the board with senate bill No. 1063 relating to irrigation matters and the president and secretary were instructed to sign the said resolution on behalf of the company and forward the same to the Hon. R. McElrose, assemblyman from this district.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES

A floor scraper was thrown at John Carlson by Earl Tucker on November 25th last and the implement struck Carlson on the right leg and knee, during a quarrel at the Tucker ranch near this city.

As a result of the injuries, Carlson believes he is entitled to $10,000 damages from Tucker, and brings suit in the superior court for damages in that amount.

The floor scraper is described as a "sharp, heavy and dangerous implement." But that it was hurled and that it struck Carlson is alleged and it is also asserted that Carlson's knee was permanently injured and that as a result of the injury he is not able to earn a living. The complaint declares that the said floor scraper did "strike, cut, wound and bruise" the said John Carlson. Judgment for $10,000 is asked. Carlson claims he expended $35 in doctor's bills.

MR. PILLSBURY WAS HERE

PLANS TO EXTEND ELECTRIC ROAD TO ANAHEIM

In Not Distant Future—Chamber of Commerce Hears Report—Will Help to Beautify Library Grounds—Plans for Advertising Discussed—Carnival of Products Meets with Favor

Anaheim is included in plans for future connection with the Huntington electric railway system, according to statements made by its chief engineer, but there is at present no immediate prospect for such connection. This is in substance the report to members of the chamber of commerce made by Director Thomas at the regular meeting Monday night.

Mr. Thomas, by appointment, recently had an interview at headquarters with Chief Engineer Pillsbury, and was assured that the company expects to build to Anaheim—but not right away. In fact, the company is not doing very much in the way of building new lines just now, which is said to be due, in part at least, to general financial conditions. As the situation improves in this respect, more new work will be undertaken—and Anaheim is on the list. It will surprise many local people to learn from Mr. Pillsbury's own statement that he and Mr. Huntington have been here several times during the past year, and by personal inspection have made themselves thoroughly familiar with the country surrounding Anaheim, their purpose being to consider various plans for building into this territory and to select the route most suitable for their purpose. The company, he says, is away behind with work already planned and part of it now under way. When the time arrives that work in this locality may be undertaken, the chamber of commerce will be communicated with and asked to co-operate with the company in securing the necessary right of way.

The fact that nothing attracts the newcomer more strongly than good schools, or makes a more favorable impression for the town, was used by Principal Toole in requesting the board's approval and co-operation in plans for some needed improvements to make the work of a competent and faithful corps of teachers in the city's schools more effective. He presented the need of more room for playgrounds as well as additional teachers, and suggested other matters in which there is room for improvement in the conditions at present.

The Apollo club, whose members desire the co-operation of other citizens in plans for improvement of the grounds surrounding the public library, through their officers, Mrs. C. F. Grim and Mrs. H. A. Johnston, presented the matter briefly, and were assured of the board's interest in this work. The matter was referred to Directors Weisel, Wickert and Dietrich with a request to present a definite plan of action at the next meeting.

M. T. White, representing a proposition for advertising in a combination of farm papers in the Middle West, explained to the board how the tide of settlers from that section may be turned toward Anaheim by a liberal use of advertising space, and was authorized to talk business to the local real-estate men with the board's approval of his plan.

The disposition to join in the policy of opposition to the county carnival of products plan which has developed recently with our neighbors at Fullerton and was expressed in a resolution offered by Director Mills failed to secure the endorsement of the other directors present, the sentiment expressed by other directors being that the carnival merits and ought to receive hearty support from all sections of the county. As all members were not present, it was deemed advisable to postpone definite action for a week, when the matter will be taken up again.

Regular meetings of the directors will be held on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month, instead of the first and third Mondays as heretofore.

BUILDING NOTES

O. Lagman has secured the contract and will immediately start building a cottage for A. Eckert of Anaheim.

City Clerk Merritt reports the aggregate of building permits issued during February was $7800.

Brick is being hauled upon the lot at the corner of Hedwig and Center for the new water office. Ground will be broken within a few days. The building will be 30x135 and will cost $8000.

P. Gildea has just purchased from O. Lagman ten acres of unimproved land situated on East street, opposite the Stockwell property for $1500 cash. Mr. Gildea will improve the property with building and will set out orange trees in near future.

O. Lagman has completed plans and specifications of a modern eight-room house to be erected on Lemon street for Mrs. Owens. The building will cost about $2500 complete, and will be of a beautiful design of architecture, artistic and comfortable. All the details were planned by Mrs. Owens.

APOLLO CLUB

The Apollo club held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Dyer on North Lemon street on Friday afternoon, February 19. The following program was rendered: Life of Mendelssohn, Mrs. Dyer; Current Events, Mrs. Wallop; vocal, The Lord is Mindful of His Own, Miss Fay; song without words No. 28, Miss Rehewald; vocal, Winter's Lullaby, Mrs. McLaughlin; Midsummer's Night Dream, Mrs. Falkenstein; vocal, The First Violet, Mrs. Crane; Duetto, Mrs. Storm; vocal, Lullaby, Mrs. Weisel; Spring Song, Miss M. Rimpau; vocal, Spring Song, Mrs. Kong; Hunter's Song, Miss Rimpau; Adjoined to meet at Mrs. Weisel's in March. Composer, Chopin.

Samuel Kraemer has sold six acres at Placentia to the Santa Fe railroad company, which will soon begin the construction of its line from Fullerton to Richfield. A depot and packing-house will be erected, and several business houses at the new townsite.

CHANGE IN FIRM

Mr. Falkenstein Purchases Mr. Asher's Interest in Department Store

Wm. Falkenstein on Monday took over the business of the old-established firm of Asher & Falkenstein, having purchased Mr. Asher's interest in the establishment. Mr. Falkenstein will continue the business at the old stand, and makes formal announcement of the change in our advertising columns today. He has been in active charge of the dry-goods department of the store, making all purchases and exercising a far-seeing discrimination in the selection of goods. He is popular with the business interests of the community and rates as a first-class man of affairs, his judgment going far toward making the firm a success financially and the store a credit to the community. He and Mr. Asher have been in partnership over eight years, and that the firm has prospered goes without saying.

Mr. Asher will devote his attention to the manufacture of a furniture polish in which he has recently become interested. He will have headquarters in Los Angeles, but will continue to reside with his family in this city. That he will be successful in his new venture, as he has made a success of everything he has undertaken, is beyond dispute, and he takes with him in his new business the same cordial good-will that has ever characterized his efforts since taking up his residence in this city.

Continued success to the new proprietor of the old establishment, as well as to the new business venture.

BUSINESS CHANGE

S. H. Roberts, formerly one of the largest shoe dealers of Denver, Col., on Monday purchased the stock of boots and shoes in the Electric Shoe store, owned by Wm. Heying and is now in control of the establishment. James F. Carroll, an experienced eastern shoe man, will be manager of the store and for a time will have the assistance of R. W. Miles, who is here from Los Angeles assisting in taking over the stock by the new proprietor. A new stock of boots and shoes will be immediately installed, and big reductions are offering in all old lines. Attention is directed to the advertisement giving particulars, which will be found on the 8th page.

The new proprietor will give this city one of the best boot and shoe stores to be found on the coast, and his new stock will be one of the finest that money can buy. Extraordinary low values are being offered to make room for the new consignment.

Mr. Heying who has conducted this popular store for some years past retires to enjoy a well-earned vacation. The disposal of the property was made at a price satisfactory to himself, and he will take life easy before taking up the cares of business again.

Wm. Schmolze being a baseball fan of the first Pittsburg magnitude, has set apart a day to go to Los Angeles next week to see the White Sox perform.

CITY TRUSTEES CONSIDERING A SCHEDULE OF POWER PRICES

Application of Walnut Association For Reduced Rate for Lighting Warehouse Under Adversement-New Cement Work Ordered—Sidewalks Constructed by Private Contract

The board of city trustees met in regular session on Thursday evening; present, Stock, Gates and Fiscus; absent, Rust and Kroeger.

Superintendent of Streets Steadman reported cement curbs and sidewalks constructed on Broadway in front of the public library, on South Los Angeles street in front of power house, also fronting railroad property north of power-house.

Finance committee reported approval of demands against the city amounting to $243.41.

Public Improvements committee reported that a cement sidewalk should be constructed leading to the power-house entrance.

Fiscus of the special committee appointed to investigate the rates for light furnished the walnut growers' association, reported he favored a reduction and quoted rates of Edison company, used by orange growers' association of Fullerton. A discussion followed whether or not to give the walnut growers' association lower rates. The matter went over for further investigation.

Petitions of Wm. Gerdes, August Staehnk, J. C. Zimmerman, D. Gerwalds, Peter Wohlgenuth and Conrad Stueckle, requesting permission to construct cement curb in front of their property on South Los Angeles street by private contract; granted, provided work was done before city let contract for work already on hand.

Engineer Steward submitted a diagram of cement curbs on South Los Angeles street, both sides, from Santa Ana to South. The same were adopted and placed on file.

Resolution of Intention No. 82, ordering construction of cement curb on Los Angeles street, between Santa Ana and Broad streets, was adopted. It will be found in another column.

A letter received from Assemblyman Melrose in reference to Assembly bill 272 relating to powers of city trustees to levy licenses, was read. The letter was published in these columns last week.

Bond of the Associated oil company, which was recently awarded contract for furnishing city 1500 barrels of road oil, was approved.

Stock & Backs requested a duplicate warrant on treasury, issued to them October 8, 1908, amounting to $12.20, the original having been lost. The same was ordered issued.

Building permits were granted as follows:

Keith Rush, $300 frame building on Olive street.

Mrs. Matilda E. Schulz, $500 alteration on frame building on Philadelphia street.

Attorney Spencer reported that Mrs. Schumacher would deed city a strip of land for widening W. Center west of Citron, provided city would pay for removing a cement ditch. Laid over for investigation.

A six-foot cement sidewalk was ordered constructed leading to the city power-house.

Trustee Gates reported that Palace Market wanted their electric fan placed on power meter, and the same was granted.

The board discussed the propriety of establishing a uniform rate for all users of power. The same was taken under consideration, and at the next meeting the board expects to adopt a schedule of rates.

REFORESTATION MEASURES

Senate Bill 1054, by Senator Willis, will have a companion in the assembly by Mr. Melrose. At the present writing the assembly bill has not been introduced, consequently its number cannot be given. This bill aims to perpetuate the valuable species of forest trees on cutover land by requiring those who conduct lumbering operations to leave five trees per acre to serve as seed trees. The bill is fathered by the Tri-counties Reforestation Committee of Riverside. It was first suggested by resolution of the national irrigation congress at its meeting in Sacramento, 1907. Since that time the state of Maine has submitted to the supreme court the question as to whether such a bill would be constitutional and has received an unanimous answer in the affirmative. It is clear that it will be incumbent upon the state to take action in this direction at no distant date and it would seem nothing more than good business to begin now before the virgin forests are irreparably damaged.

OLIVE RANCH TRADED

By a deal in which $80,000 is said to be involved, the Crookshank ranch, belonging to S. E. Este, near Olive, was traded for a wheat ranch in Osborn county, Kansas, belonging to Clifford Stanfield of that place. The deal was made through the agency of the real-estate firm of Schaffert & Littlefield. The Crookshank ranch is a fine 45-acre place, twenty acres of which are in Valencia oranges and the remainder in full-bearing walnuts. The Kansas property consists of 840 acres of the finest wheat land. Mr. Stanfield took possession of his ranch the first of March.

COLD STORAGE EGGS

New Law Provides They Must Be Labeled When Exposed for Sale

It's up to the grocery man now to deliver eggs that are fresh, in fact as well as in theory. No more peddling of hen fruit of questionable ancestry or disputable age. Senator McCartney's bill to give the housewives a cinch on the grocer has been made a law, and sixty days hence it will be in full force and effect. Here is what the new law provides for:

"Food and liquor shall be deemed mislabeled or misbranded if it be an imitation of or offered for sale under the distinctive name of another article of food, or if it be labeled or branded or colored so as to deceive or mislead or tend to deceive or mislead the purchaser.

"If in package form, the contents must be plainly and correctly stated on the outside of the package by weight and measure.

"When any package bears the name of the manufacturers, jobbers or sellers or the grade or the class of the product, it must bear the name of the real manufacturers, jobbers or sellers, and the true grade or class of the product, the same to be expressed in clear and distinct English words in legible type; provided, that an article of food shall not be deemed misbranded, if it be a well known food product of a nature, quality and appearance as not to deceive or mislead nor tend to deceive or mislead the purchaser.

"In the case of eggs and poultry: if they have been kept or packed in cold storage, or otherwise preserved, they must be so indicated (by written or printed label or placard plainly designating such fact) when offered or exposed for sale."

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BANQUET

The Fullerton chamber of commerce held its annual banquet on Friday night, the attendance being the largest in the history of the association. Counting the invited guests over 250 people were present, including a delegation of boosters from Anaheim. The toasts were as follows: The Chamber of Commerce, C. C. Chapman; Boosting for Fullerton, Prof. A. L. Vincent; The City Beautiful, Miss Daisy Swerdfegery Municipal Progress, D. J. Harrigan; The Ladies, Prof. D. Brunton; Our Streets and Roads, A. I. Stewart. E. S. Richman, president of the chamber, was toastmaster and Shriver's orchestra furnished the music. Eleven turkeys were killed for the banquet.

SUCCESSFUL FUMIGATION

The board of horticultural commissioners recommends to all fumigators of orange and lemon trees that they use the Woglum dose, which is composed of one ounce of cyanide, one ounce of sulphuric acid and three ounces of water for every 100 cubic feet of space beneath the fumigation tent. This prescription was put out by the government expert, after several months of testing. Woglum says the gas produced for the space named will not only kill the living bugs but will kill the eggs of all the pests except the Mealy bug and the white scale, which are too well protected for the gas to penetrate. Woglum proposes having tents marked on the outside so that the operators can tell exactly the air space beneath the canvas. Reports to the commissioners say scale in this county is on the decrease, owing to the persistent fight.

DEFIES THE CITY

Frank Thompson has defied the city of Santa Ana to stop him from building a blacksmith shop on East Fourth street. He has a permit, which was issued to him by the building inspector through a misunderstanding of the city ordinance. He has been notified by the trustees that it is illegal. He says he will build anyhow. Residents of the district are talking of bringing an injunction suit to stop him. Should he build, the city can keep him from conducting a smithy, as none can be run outside the fire limits without a special permit from the trustees. Thompson has laid a foundation less than a foot from a dwelling.

HUNTINGTON BEACH

Huntington Beach, March 1.—At a special meeting held Wednesday evening the trustees decided to adopt a liquor ordinance similar to that now in force at Riverside. The city marshal was elected poundmaster and his salary fixed at $40 a month and fees as poundmaster, that of the city clerk at $15 a month and that of the treasurer at $5 a month. The city attorney will be paid $20 per month.

Many ranchers in the peatlands have determined to plant a large acreage this year in asparagus. It is believed that this will furnish a paying crop.

A lodge of Daughters of Rebekah will be organized here the evening of March 2, and will be visited by the state president and a district deputy who will conduct the work.

A petition to the supervisors is being circulated at Garden Grove and signed by nearly all the heads of families to whom it is presented. It asks that a county ordinance be passed, prohibiting the presence of minors in pool halls and compelling such places to close on Sundays.

THE POLITICAL WHIRLIGIG

THE PARTY CAN STAND IT

The Sacramento Union, organ of the state railroad machine and representative of "the interests," is predicting all sorts of direful things as a result of the passage of a direct primary law in California. Here are some of its recent gloomy utterances on that subject:

"This is a question of the very life and existence of the republican party. It is now simply this: Shall the republican party of California die, or shall it be allowed to live? The Wright-Stanton primary measure, as drawn, means the death of the republican party. A vote for the Wright bill means the murder of the party of Lincoln, of Garfield, of McKinley, of Roosevelt, and of Taft. By the Lord it must not be."

"It is the end of republican rule in California. The next governor of California will be a democrat. We have no hesitancy in announcing now and definitely, that J. B. Sanford of Mendocino county, democrat, will be the next governor of California. And Frank Flint will be succeeded in the United States senate by a democrat."

Bosh, says the Riverside Press. What is the matter with the republican party of California, if it cannot stand to allow the rank and file of the party to make an expression of their choice for state officers and for United States senator? This fear of democratic success is a bugaboo that is being paraded to frighten republican members of the senate and assembly to vote against the bill. Senator Flint has no fears of republican success under a direct primary. In speeches made in the last campaign, he stated repeatedly that he favored such a law and hoped the people would have the opportunity to vote on senator next time. He was very frank in saying that he did not want to go back to the senate unless he could win the endorsement of the republicans of the state on a popular vote.

The only thing wrong with the republican party in California is the fact that under the convention system, the tickets put forward have been largely dictated by the railroad machine. And while the most of the nominations have been good ones, the system under which they were made has been an iniquitous one. Only the size of the republican majority in the state has prevented the defeat of the state ticket on several occasions, and three years ago we elected the governor by a margin so close as to be dangerous. Thousands of republicans voted for Bell, not because they did not regard Gillett as a competent and worthy man, but because they resented the high-handed way in which his nomination was forced through at the Santa Cruz convention. Gillett might have been nominated just the same under a direct primary, but in that case, the fact would have been demonstrated that he was the popular choice of the voters of the party and he would have been elected by the usual majority.

The direct primary will not cure all the political ills of which we complain; but it will help cure some of them. And because the machine does not want them cured, its organs, like the Los Angeles Times, the Sacramento Union, the Oakland Tribune, and the San Francisco Argonaut, are vociferating against the direct primary. They might as well save their tears and their crepe for some other funeral; the republican party will survive the direct primary and it will be a more thoroughly representative and a more wisely managed party by reason of the fact that this law is passed.

WOLFE'S RAID ON THE TREASURY

The politician disguised as a philanthropist takes care that it shall be philanthropy with a salary. His heart bleeds for the sufferings of his fellow man, but this is a carefully regulated organ that bleeds only as much as pay him. It is this form of altruism that is responsible for the biennial crop of legislative commissions, self-constituted and paid at rates determined by the creating power.

Senator Wolfe of San Francisco offers one of the most industrious examples of this form of profitable philanthropy. On one pretense or another he votes himself a salary to carry him over the off season. It is a gross usurpation of power and is probably illegal. It is the duty of the state controller to scrutinize jealously the legality of these periodical raids on the treasury.

Senator Wolfe's most recent excursion in philanthropy at public cost is, according to the Call, indirectly to appoint himself one of a commission to investigate the prices of food. What good he and his self-constituted colleagues in political philanthropy propose to effect by this inquiry is not made clear beyond the fact that they all expect to be paid for their labor at wages fixed by themselves. They will make certain of that, at least, and let the devil take the hindmost. All this subject of the cost of living was gone into with much elaboration by the committee of arbitration that sat in the streetcar controversy concerning wages in this city. But that inquiry left no practical results in this field, and Senator Wolfe's investigations will have a very similar outcome.

It is a growing abuse—this practice of grabbing money from the state treasury, and if it is permitted there are no limits in sight on the rapacity of politicians. The fact that it is an indecent exercise of power does not weigh at all with the raiders any more than it has availed to limit the biennial patronage grab. It was found necessary to put a bridle on that form of rapacity by constitutional amendment, and if the legality of this new device is established the people will find means to apply a similar remedy. It is useless to appeal to the sense of decency in such men as Wolfe.

SIOUX INDIAN'S STREET TALK

Graduate of Carlisle Tells of Wrongs Done His Race

J. W. Le Page, a Sioux Indian and a graduate of Carlisle, addressed a small crowd of men and boys at the corner of Center and Los Angeles streets on Wednesday afternoon of last week. Several times he was applauded when making cutting hits of Chinese and Japanese-lovers when his race, who were, he said, original Americans, were shoved aside and ignored. He collected money and clothing for California Indians, 14,000 of whom, he said, were upon the verge of starvation. They had been driven from their homes, he declared, by unscrupulous whites. The government's policy toward them had been thwarted by politicians and grafters, who had become rich, while the Indians have not now a home to shelter themselves. The northern Indians support themselves by hunting, trapping and fishing, but when California Indians are robbed of their lands, they starve. He criticized the policy of the whites who support Japs and Chinese vegetable vendors, laundrymen and restaurant keepers, while they forget all about the Indians. The Jap and Chinese never become assimilated in our population, and a constant drain of money flows to their shores from the patronage of the whites. He charged these two oriental races with having no respect for their fathers and mothers, and said the Chinese behead their own children. Unscrupulous physicians on the reservations are injecting poison into the Indians, with the result that most if not all of them are diseased.

He declared the Japs are eager for war with the United States, and contended that while they would be defeated in the end, they "could take a number of our seaport cities in the early stages of the war." Le Page spoke in denunciation of the white man's policy toward the Indians, and urged a more friendly and more brotherly feeling. He was graduated from Carlisle and spoke English fluently.

Mr. Borchard, who spent several years in the northwestern states, interviewed the Sioux after his talk, and found he knew several white men in the Dakotas whom Mr. Borchard was personally acquainted with.

WATER SUIT DISMISSED

The default of about 100 of the 1300 defendants in the action of the Irvine company against the riparian owners along the Santiago creek was entered in the superior court, and the dismissal of the case as against some 120 others was entered, both papers being filed by Attorneys Guy C. Earl and Scarborough & Forgy for the plaintiff. This is the action brought to test and carry out the agreement entered into by the Irvine Co. for the settlement of water rights in the Santiago canyon, the stockholders of the John T. Carpenter water company of El Modena and the Serrano water company of Villa Park being defendants concerned. The names of those entered in the dismissal are those who had no interest in the proceedings, and the names of those entered in the default are those who have an interest, but have not appeared in the action.

A large portion of the defendants named are favorable to carrying out the Irvine agreement and a minority is fighting it, and will carry it to the supreme court for a final decision.

STOLEN RIG RECOVERED

H. Riniker recovered the horse and buggy stolen on Tuesday night of last week from W. F. Coulter, Jr., of Fullerton. The horse had been tied near the opera-house while Mr. Riniker attended a performance. Mr. Riniker's attention was first attracted to an unusual disturbance near his home on Pearl street about 9 o'clock. The thief drove rapidly into Pearl street from the north, evidently mistaking it for the county road leading west. Finding the thoroughfare ended at Mr. Riniker's place, he turned and shortly collided with a guy wire attached to a telephone post. The collision disturbed the lights, and Mr. Riniker says the commotion caused by the overturned buggy reminded him of an earthquake. He immediately ran out and in the dark heard the horse breathing heavily. He recovered the animal, righted the rig and drove it into his yard. The next morning he drove it into town and turned it over to Mr. Coulter. The thief's hat, a No. 7 derby, was found near the guy wire. The rig was not broken.

Mr. Riniker states the thief drove into Pearl street from the north, showing that after leaving the opera-house he had driven north and then back-tracked, presumably with the intention of making the county road west of town.

The assembly has passed the bill by Johnson of San Diego, permitting an increase in the amount of capital stock of mutual companies organized for the purpose of supplying water to their stockholders. The bill had its origin in Imperial county.

SUGGESTION FOR MARKET DAY

Business Men Should Be Present and Welcome Old-Time Friends

On the third Saturday of the present month Anaheim's expanding Market Day will again hold the boards, and record-breaking sales are looked for. Robert McKee, auctioneer in charge, has already booked a number of fine horses which will be offered for sale, and is working for a display of hogs, poultry and other farm products. Given fair weather, the largest crowd of the year is looked for.

A business man who is taking keen interest in these monthly attempts to bring producer and consumer together, offers a valuable suggestion to our merchants, it being nothing less than that they appear at the sales yard and extend a welcome to friends who are in town for the first time during the year. It is a fact that men come to Anaheim for these Market Days from distant portions of the county, some of whom have not been here for months.

"These men," says the business man referred to, "should be made to feel that we are glad to see them on our streets and in stores. They are just the men whom we want to put in the habit of coming again. Of course, a welcome should be extended to all; but the idea I wish to convey is that our people should make it a point to attend the sales, and if possible start some of the bidding. Hogs, for instance, are equal to cash, and no farmer who brings a load into town should be permitted to return home with them. A farmer so situated will not be keen to come again, especially if he has been in the habit of trading at another town. Let us see if we cannot have a representative outpouring of our business men at the next sales day. I will guarantee that a little time given to this matter will do a great deal to making Market Day popular."

"We must buy up all the produce brought into town. It is for our own people to make these sales successful, and now that we have the crowds coming our way, we ought to stir ourselves to make them the most important day of the month in Orange county. We can do it, but you touch up our merchants who ought to be with us. Let them take off an hour or so Saturday afternoon, even if business is rushing with them, and let us try to make these Market Days a permanent success."

NEW CO-OPERATIVE ORGANIZATION

There is now in the hands of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Johnson's "fruit district measure," enabling growers to organize and do business without actually issuing stock. Heretofore there has been much trouble in the management of such districts on account of their constantly changing membership. Parties going out of a district and carrying with them their capital stock have been a source of annoyance, creating a constantly increasing burden of non-resident influence. Under the proposed law, members would have an equitable interest for which they would be compensated upon withdrawal.

The California Fruit Growers' Exchange, which is the parent organization of its kind, and representing 5,000 citrus fruit growers, is behind the Johnson bill, as are the dried fruit, walnut, vegetable and deciduous interests generally.

The bill provides that three or more persons engaged in the production, preserving, drying, packing, shipping or marketing of agricultural or horticultural products may form a "non-profit co-operative association," and carry on business just as if incorporated under the general law.

PROTECTING WATER SUPPLY

A Question of Great Importance to Local Irrigators

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 25th. Editor Gazette.—"We believe that the greatest need of the irrigators of the southern part of California at the present time is the protection of the timber growing on the watershed."

Francis Cuttle of Riverside, chairman of the Tri-counties Reforestation committee, taking in San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties, Cal., says this in a letter to Arthur Hooker, secretary of the local board of control of the 17th National Irrigation Congress, which will meet in Spokane August 9 to 14, adding:

"We trust that this can be given an important place in the deliberations of the next congress, which we hope will be the most successful in the history of the organization."

Mr. Hooker said that the matter referred to in Mr. Cuttle's letter will be brought to the attention of W. A. Beard of Sacramento, who is chairman of the national board of governors, "and," he added, "there is every reason to believe that this important subject will have a place on the program."

The protection of standing timber is one of the greatest problems in many of the western and central states, with the officials of which Mr. Hooker is now in correspondence, and it is more than likely that the forestry department, which will be represented by Gifford Pinchot and other officials, will discuss the matter.

"Irrigationists all over the northwest are also interested in this phase of the work," he said, "and some definite action is almost certain to result at the Spokane congress."

COMING AND GOING

The inward and outward movement of aliens for the twelve months ending with November, 1908, the figures of which have just been made public, by the Department of Commerce and Labor, indicate that the emigration has been greater than the immigration. The figures are:

Total arrivals 557,581, total departures 644,452.

To this number of emigrants should be added the unknown number of naturalized citizens who during that period have left the United States for permanent residence abroad.

During January, 1909, as compared with January, 1908, the immigration from Austria increased 4428; from Hungary 7916, from Italy 4907, from Russia and Finland there was a decrease of 859, and from Japan a decrease of 768.

The immigration of Chinese increased 50 for January.

Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumigations, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm will master catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. All druggists sell the 50 cent size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York.

The Balm is used without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation. Ely's Cream Balm contains no cocaine, mercury nor other harmful drugs.

Barefoot dances are quite the rage in New York society. Is this the beginning of a Salome style for ball gowns?

Mr. Taft was not compelled to ride the goat on his initiation into the Masonic fraternity. Was this consideration for Mr. Taft or for the goat?

President Roosevelt will engage in exterminating wild animals in Africa during the next year. When he returns he will tell all about it in the magazines and if he is a true sportsman he will most likely render himself eligible for the presidency of the Ananias club.

An eastern army officer gives the papers an interview upon the defenseless condition of the country owing to the numerical inferiority of the United States army. "We have not a sufficient number of troops," he says, "to defend New York city from attack, and the rest of the country seems at the mercy of the enemy. Let's see. When McKinley called for volunteers in the Spanish war, placing the number required at 100,000, did not more than a million men respond, springing to their arms, as it were, from mountain and valley, north, east, south and west? To be sure, volunteers are not to be compared with the seasoned infantryman, but, land's sakes, there's no more danger of an invasion of this country by a foreign foe than that Grove Johnson will be the next governor of California.

Assemblyman Collier's bill for a state highway, about eight miles long, from Moreno to Beaumont, both in Riverside county, was passed on Saturday by the lower house. It calls for an appropriation of $25,000 to be expended in construction of the road by the state department of engineering. Collier says the proposed road would shorten by seven or eight miles the highway connection between Riverside and the Imperial valley and the Colorado river country. Los Angeles, Orange and other counties west and south of Riverside would share in the benefits. As planned, the highway is to connect with the hills of the San Timoteo range to Beaumont. Should the building of the road finally be authorized, it is said that it will be the first highway south of the Tehachapi to be built by the state.

The return of the fleet after its impressive cruise of forty-two thousand miles, has been celebrated in Hampton Roads. It is said that much good has been accomplished. The Orient has been impressed with our naval strength. No like assemblage of powerful ironclads has ever made a tour so extensive. The personnel of the fleet has had experience at sea. The commanders have the aplomb and confidence in themselves, their ships and their men, that successful practice alone can give. The vessels have had target drill, the results of which have not and will not be published, but it is hinted that this practice is such as to have added to the confidence of the navy and of the nation in the ability of our seamen to aim and to hit. Today several thousand blue jackets will march down Pennsylvania avenue and will doubtless be received by the thousands of spectators with cheers of admiration and approval.

That Henry E. Huntington and Chief Engineer Pillsbury have been in Anaheim and surrounding territory no less than three times the past year, and each time unknown to our citizens, was the statement made by the latter gentleman to A. Thomas at a recent interview at the Pacific Electric building in Los Angeles.

Mr. Pillsbury said the Pacific Electric company would include a line to Anaheim among the first of its new work, and intimated our people might be called upon for right-of-way assistance at no distant future. The route, he said, would be the most direct way to Los Angeles, which is taken to mean a junction with the line at Cypress.

He spoke very highly of the progress made by this city and the west country, and said such improvements as Mr. Royer is making at the West End challenges the attention of the company.

Much of the conversation was of a confidential nature, and Mr. Thomas would not reveal it, but states the prospects for electric communication with the outside world was never brighter.

A business man keeping in touch with railroad matters says that Messrs. Huntington and Pillsbury were in Anaheim on a recent Saturday, when they found the town filled with throngs of visitors from all parts of the county. If this is so the visitors cannot but have been impressed with the surroundings, as no town of its size in Southern California makes a showing of bigger crowds and more business than Anaheim has on Saturdays.

LUTHER BURBANK'S PLANTS

Corporation Formed to Place Them Before the People

San Francisco, Feb. 26.—In order that his wonderful discoveries may be more generally distributed and incidentally that his work of discovery may not be hampered by business worries, the brains and genius of Luther Burbank, the plant wizard, have been capitalized for several million dollars.

The men who have secured the sole right to distribute to the world the marvelous plant discoveries of the Santa Rosa naturalist are Hartland Law and his brother, Herbert E. Law, two millionaires of this city, and Oscar E. Dinner, an eastern capitalist.

There is no limit to the rights which these men have secured except one or two small contracts which Burbank is now fulfilling.

One of the first things undertaken by the new company will be the fuller development of the spineless cactus, which promises to transform desert wastes into grazing lands for cattle. In this connection it is announced Burbank has developed a cactus capable of producing saccharine matter which will yield both sugar and alcohol.

Luther Burbank, when asked regarding the formation of the new company, made the following statement: "It is a fact that Herbert Law and his brother and Oscar E. Dinner have secured the sole rights to the handling of my products, with the exception of a few varieties I have already sold. I am glad to be rid of the business end. It will give me so much more time for the development of more fruits and flowers."

The company will be called "The Luther Burbank's Products, Incorporated."

TREES FROM FLORIDA

A bunch of trees shipped to Visalia from nursery in Florida was destroyed by the horticultural commission of that county, because no living plant is permitted to enter from that state since the discovery of the white fly here showed the magnitude of the danger which exists. The infestation of the orchards at both Marysville and Bakersfield was traced directly to the importation of stock from Florida. No fruit-growing state which considers its own welfare could for a moment permit the further introduction of trees and plants from a state where the danger is so great. Yet, with this knowledge, there are fruit growers willing to jeopardize not only their own but the greatest interests of horticulture by endeavoring to ship in plants from that section.

The promptness with which this shipment was destroyed will probably prevent any possible introduction of the pest. While it is probable that those particular plants may not have been infested, yet the rule has been made so rigid that no plants whatever are admitted. This is wise and we trust horticultural commissioners and others of the state will be as vigilant as were those of Tulare county.

BRITISH SLOOP RAISED

New York, Feb. 26.—A British sloop of war, which was sunk in Lake Champlain, near the old stone pier of Fort Ticonderoga, has been successfully raised, according to a telegram received here by Stephen H. P. Poll, whose wife, a daughter of Col. Robert M. Thompson, owns the historic fortification, and is having it restored to the condition in which it was when captured by Ethan Allen and his Green Mountain boys.

The sloop, which was sunk in 1777, is ninety feet long, and is, with the exception of the upper deck, in an excellent state of preservation, despite its 132 years' immersion.

In the bow were two large cannon balls. The gun which was mounted on the sloop is believed to be at the bottom, not far from where the vessel was found.

The suffragette raised her right hand.

"Give woman the credit she deserves," she cried, "and where would man be?"

"If she got all the credit she wanted, he'd be in the poorhouse," sneered a coarse person in the rear of the hall.

DEMONSTRATION TRAIN

First Appearance in Southern California Scheduled for Next Week.

Mr. Neff on Monday received from Berkeley advance announcement of the arrival of the Demonstration Train in Southern California, the route being from Los Angeles to Imperial county, with stops at various cities and towns along the way. The train will not come to Anaheim on this trip, but will be this way in about two weeks after completing the present trip. Announcement of the time will be made later. Mr. Neff has recommended that the train remain in Anaheim over night, with an afternoon and evening session. The chamber of commerce will arrange for the hall and be in charge of local arrangements. The itinerary of the train for its initial visit to Southern California is as follows: Los Angeles, Pasadena, San Marino, Arcadia, Monrovia, Duarte, Mar. 10th.

HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL

Anaheim high defeated Orange at baseball on the local grounds on Saturday by a score of 3 to 2. The visitors scored one in the first and one in the sixth. The locals amassed two in the fourth, and tore off another in the eighth.

Rightfielder Kotand of the visitors was the only one who connected with Dickel's delivery, and scored the only two hits made by Orange during the game. Dickel was in great form, striking out 19 men.

The locals gathered six bingles, and played a strong game on the field. Chambers caught well, but had two difficult passed balls.

The locals defeated Orangethorpe at a practice game on Friday afternoon winning in a ten-inning game by a score of 3 to 2. Weisel was in the box and pitched great ball.

The home team plays Fullerton on Saturday.

Huntington Beach forfeited to Fullerton last Saturday; the beach men failed to arrive and a large crowd which gathered went home without witnessing what promised to be a good game.

Anaheim's defeat by Huntington Beach was forfeited to the beachers because the locals by inadvertence played an ineligible student.

BEET SUGAR IN CALIFORNIA

INDUSTRY'S NOTABLE PROGRESS DURING RECENT YEARS

Advantages Over Other States Offered by Fertile Valleys of Coast—Features of Industry in State—Produced at Different Times of Season

A bulletin issued by the department of agriculture at Washington, upon the progress of the beet-sugar industry in the United States has been received at this office, and proves to be a very interesting volume. In speaking of the culture of the beet in California the report says: "The beet-sugar industry has been established in California longer than in any other state in the union. At present there are 8 factories operating: At Alvarado, Los Alamitos, Spreckels, Betteravia, Chino, Oxnard, Visalia and Hamilton City. There is a large factory at Watsonville, belonging to the Spreckels sugar company, which has not been in operation for several years. The one owned by this company at Spreckels is the largest, but one, in the world. This company has devoted its energies to developing beet production for this factory, whose capacity is 3000 tons of beets per day."

Another factory located at Crockett, belonging to the California beet and Hawaiian sugar and refining company operated several years as a beet-sugar factory, when it abandoned production and devoted its energies entirely to refining. Altogether 10 factories have been installed in the state.

Originally most sugar beets were produced in California by rainfall. Beets can be planted much earlier as a rule than in most sections. Sufficient moisture was secured during the rainy season of the winter. The older factories were principally on the coast side. The rain falling in the winter was augmented by sub-irrigation or underground seepage of water from the mountains to the sea. Throughout these coast valleys the crops have been materially increased by installing deep wells.

The recently built factories of the state are largely dependent upon irrigation from the Sacramento and other inland rivers.

In beet cropping there are some unique features in California. Beets can be planted and produced in different valleys at various times of the season. This lengthens the factory campaigns in some cases to six months. The fact that rain falls in the winter, saturating the soil, while there is unbroken sunshine the rest of the year, gives ideal conditions. The California soil is very retentive of moisture. Conditions are such that beets grown in this state are very high in quality and purity.

The principal beet sections are in the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys, and the coast region from Mendocino to Chino. In this coast region is the wonderful Salinas valley, 15 miles wide, estimated to contain 700,000 acres, 200,000 acres of which are under cultivation.

In the state two new factories were built last year, and one new one is under construction for the campaign of 1909. A number of others are under contemplation.

ALVARADO.—Aside from the heavy rainfall of the winter, which retarded planting to some extent, normal conditions existed in the beet-growing districts adjacent to the Alvarado factory. The factory here is the oldest in operation in the United States. Sugar has been produced at this point regularly for twenty-eight years. The campaign opened September 26 and closed December 9.

BETTERAVIA.—At the Betteravia factory quite a number of improvements were made. Its capacity was largely increased. In this district a fine system of irrigation has been installed. Beets of superior quality and purity are the rule. Fair conditions existed throughout the season. Slicing began the middle of July.

CHINO.—The rainfall of winter in and around the Chino factory was quite heavy. This retarded planting somewhat. The season throughout the rest of the year was quite favorable. The company now owns 5000 acres, which very materially promotes a supply of beets. This land has been improved by drainage to remove the excess of rainfall. This expedites preparation of the seed bed at the right time. The average yield of beets was fairly good. The factory began slicing August 26 and closed October 21.

HAMILTON CITY.—The Hamilton City factory, which made its second campaign in 1907, is a 700-ton plant. This factory was built two years ago in a new district, and it illustrates the wonderful development influence of a beet-sugar plant. The management of this factory conducts its affairs along progressive lines. Much of the ground is broken up by large traction plows. One large traction plow was in use this year, which is said to cut 25 furrows at once. Many improvements to promote the work of the beet production and the manufacture of sugar were installed during the year. A pontoon bridge was built across the river in order to develop a large territory on the other side for beet and general crop production. This facilitated delivery to the factory. The large traction engine is used to deliver beets to the factory, propelling long trains of wagons. The management of the factory has procured a large number of Japanese laborers. Country dumps were installed to accommodate the farmers. The beets grown were of high quality. The factory began slicing September 9 and closed Nov. 9.

LOS ALAMITOS.—The Los Alamitos factory, situated about 30 miles south from Los Angeles on a flat plain, is located near the coast. Most beets furnished for it are grown in its immediate vicinity and around Anaheim. This factory was originally a 400-ton plant. At the beginning, cropping depended upon the full saturation of the soil in winter supplemented by occasional rains during the growing season. This condition has been improved by irrigation from a system of deep wells. During the last few years the capacity of the plant has been practically doubled. For several reasons it has been one of the most successful enterprises in sugar production on the coast. Beets delivered to this factory average the highest in sugar and purity of any in the United States, or in the world, so far as I have record. Last year (1907) the average for the entire campaign was: Sugar, 19.3 per cent with an average purity of 84.8.

Following is an account of the experimental work by a big land-holding company, which shows the development of the district, especially in irrigation, and the draining of land to remove the alkali and excess waters from the overflow of irrigation or excessive rain.

"The Bixby Land company last season put in a 40-acre experimental plot of tile draining and this year it will be increased to 160 acres of alkali land, which formerly was in pasture, being considered unfit for cultivation. The method of operation is, after laying the tiles, to close the outlet and flood the land thoroughly, then open up and let the water which has become alkaline drain off; this operation it repeats time after time until the excess of alkali in the soil has been removed. After this the land may be irrigated and put into cultivation as any other land. When irrigation water is applied afterwards from artesian wells, the drainage system permits the surplus to drain off and the land is found to be very fertile and productive. The total cost for tiling and labor is said to be from $60 to $70 per acre."

In this district a new device for harvesting beets was in use during the season. It was a combined beet toppler, puller, and cleaner. The implement is propelled by two horses. It gave excellent results in this locality. The yield of beets was better than usual. The locality rarely receives an excess of rain in October, but this occurred in 1907, and lowered the general average quality. But for this, the beets would probably have shown over 20 per cent sugar and 85 of purity. The factory started slicing beets August 15 and closed November 25.

OXNARD.—The Oxnard factory from every standpoint is the ideal factory in the United States. It has a capacity of 2000 tons, and secures a sufficient supply of beets each year to make a long campaign. The beets are of high quality and purity, and the average tonnage per acre is high. This acreage and quality of beets benefits both the farmers and the factory. The factory has maintained a high record from the beginning. In 1907 climatic conditions were uniformly good, except that heavy rains in the early season retarded planting and early work. The beets produced during the past season were of unusually high quality. The factory started slicing August 17 and closed November 9.

SPRECKELS.—The Spreckels factory is the most remarkable in many respects of any in the country; principally on account of its size and the development of all conditions that have to do with its wonderful work. It has capacity of 3000 tons of beets daily. It is located in one of the largest and most fertile valleys on the coast side of California. It has been the means, more than any other, of influencing and stimulating the improvement of conditions in this large agricultural tract. It consumes 13,000,000 gallons of water in 24 hours. Water for irrigation is taken from the river by two centrifugal pumps, having capacities of 10,000,000 gallons in twenty-four hours, each being operated by two large motors. This water is forced through a mile and a half of 32-inch wrought-steel riveted pipes, and is stored in tanks from which it is taken into the plant from power pumps. Most of the labor on the land in this district is performed by Japanese.

BAD BILL FILLED WITH BUGS

BLACK'S IRRIGATION MEASURE
CHARACTERIZED AS REVOLU-
TIONARY

Veiled Attempt to Resurrect Works
Bill, Defeated a Number of Years Ago—Local Irrigators Make Vigorous Protest—Some of Its Provisions

Senate bill No. 1063, introduced by Senator Black Feb. 11, has caused local irrigators more trouble as no other measure since the odious Works bill was put to sleep a number of years ago. The bill is pronounced revolutionary, as it upsets all irrigation laws now upon the statute books, and would deprive irrigators of their vested rights. Assemblyman Melrose has forwarded copies of the bill here, and asks that protests be forwarded to Sacramento. He will make a vigorous fight against the bill in committee, and will endeavor to prevent a favorable report.

A largely attended meeting of irrigators was held at Orange on Saturday, when E. E. Keech made an extended argument against the bill. Mr. Keech has favored us with a copy of his article, and we publish it herewith:

Section 1 declares that the waters of all streams in this state, whether flowing above or underground in known or defined channels, are hereby declared to belong to the state of California, subject to all existing rights to the use thereof, whether by reason of riparian ownership or by appropriation, but water percolating through the soil shall belong to the person owning the soil through which it percolates.

Section 2 limits riparian rights in the waters of the streams of this state to the amount of water reasonably necessary and needed for the irrigation of riparian lands and for watering stock, domestic uses on such lands and other actual beneficial uses, and provides that "a riparian owner cannot by injunction or otherwise, prevent the beneficial use of the waters of the stream to which his lands are riparian when the same is not actually needed and used by him for watering stock, for domestic use or irrigation thereon or other actual beneficial uses."

Section 3 defined riparian rights to irrigate.

Section 4 provides that, subject to vested rights, the waters of any stream may be appropriated for any beneficial public or private use, in the manner provided in this act, and not otherwise.

Section 5 establishes a state board of engineers of four members, one chief engineer and three for three districts into which the state is divided.

Section 6 makes the governor ex-officio a member of this board.

Section 7 defines the general powers of the board. Among other powers they are given the following: To define the time of year during which water shall be supplied for irrigation; to regulate the extent and points of diversion from rivers, streams and other waters; to regulate from time to time the water rates which may be charged by licensees and others, as in this act provided; to regulate the manner, in which water is to be supplied to persons entitled thereto, whether continuously or at stated intervals, or under both systems; to appoint deputy engineers at the request of any person, company or corporation supplying water for sale, rental or distribution, to regulate such supply and use and the manner thereof, the compensation of such deputy to be paid by such person, company or corporation; to make such orders as are deemed necessary from time to time to carry out the provisions of the act, according to their true intent, or to meet any cases which arise and for which no provision is made in this act; and to make any regulations which are considered necessary to give the provisions of this act full effect.

Section 8 makes existing companies subject to this act.

Section 9 requires existing companies to make reports covering all the points of their business under twelve different heads.

Section 10 prescribes a penalty for failure to make report.

Sections 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15 require the board of engineers to ascertain and determine the flow of ordinary and flood waters in all the streams of the state, the quantity and description of riparian bordering thereon, the parts irrigable and needing irrigation, the quantity actually irrigated, the appropriations already made, the amounts of water necessary for use on riparian lands, the amount of appropriated water, and the amount of surplus water subject to appropriations, and to make and file in their office a record of all these determinations.

Section 15 requires that one copy each of these records (maps and reports) shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state and another in the office of the recorder of the county through which the stream flows, and that they and each of them, or certified copies thereof, shall be competent and prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein or delineated thereon.

These engineers are allowed to go out in an ex parte investigation and ascertain from hearsay or any other incompetent evidence and decide from prima facie evidence the rights of all the riparian land owners and irrigators of the state, and the only way to overturn their decision would be by suit brought by the aggrieved party in a court of competent jurisdiction, in the trial of which he would be limited in opposing such prima facie case to the introduction of competent and relevant evidence according to the rules of the law of evidence.

Any lawyer who has been engaged in litigating water rights in this state, most of which go back for at least a generation or two, knows how difficult it would be in many cases to secure such competent evidence, so that the ex parte determinations of the board of engineers would practically determine such cases. As it is now the rules of evidence are the same for both sides and whatever disability attaches to the one attaches also to the other.

With such tremendous power placed in the hands of the board, there would be a great inducement for each water user or water company to "see" the members of the board of engineers while making his investigation or at least fill him up as full as possible with a strong statement of that person or water company's rights, and since the representative of the board of engineers would necessarily go to these water users or water companies to secure his data, he would be largely at their mercy in the accuracy of the facts which he secured.

Section 23 requires the board to ascertain and record diversions already made and to examine existing records, judgments and decrees of court and make records thereof. This seems to be supplemental to sections 11, 12 and 13, already noticed. It suggests the utter incompetency of their whole proceedings.

Sections 24, 25, 26, 27 and 28 provide for licenses to be issued to future appropriators, and section 29 provides for licenses to appropriators prior to the passage of the act.

Section 30 makes these licenses conclusive upon the state and prima facie evidence as to all other persons of the amount of water to which the licensee is entitled. The effect of the prima facie evidence we have already noticed.

Section 31 provides for the storing and use of flood waters.

Section 32 makes appropriated water appurtenant to the land, with provisions for forfeiture.

Section 35 provides that water appropriated for sale shall be held in trust and to the right to its use to be appurtenant to the land upon which it is used, with provisions for transfer and forfeiture also.

Section 36 gives the board power to cancel licenses under conditions named.

Section 37 grants a right of way over state lands.

Section 38 gives any person, corporation, or association having the right to divert water from any stream or canal and desiring to construct any ditch, canal or pipe line or flume line or other works for the diversion and use of such water which must necessarily pass over the lands of another the right to condemn such right of way. The provision seems all right, but its constitutionality is doubtful inasmuch as it authorizes the condemnation of a ditch for the benefit of one person, or even a few persons, for private property may not be taken even by condemnation for private use.

Section 39 provides that "all water rights in or irrigation works on any of the streams of this state acquired or constructed under this act or under previous laws, shall be subject to the right of the state to take over, acquire and use such water and work by paying to such owner or owners of such water right or works reasonable and just compensation therefor, etc."

Section 40 makes all rights acquired under the law subject to the laws of congress for storing water, etc.

Section 41 provides that all rights to the use of water acquired under this act or otherwise shall be lost or abandoned by a failure, without sufficient excuse, for the term of two years, to apply to a beneficial use of the water appropriated. Kellogg annotations on the margin opposite this section of the bill "Good Law," but inasmuch as it applies to the riparian right to irrigate it would be unjust, unconstitutional and revolutionary as to such rights.

Section 42 requires reports by all persons or water users holding rights previously acquired and gives the board power to promptly enforce the use of a uniform system of accounting suited to the needs of all persons, corporations, companies and associations operating under the provisions of the act.

CALAVERAS BIG TREES

Government Now the Owner of Monarchs of Forest

President Roosevelt has signed a bill creating the Calaveras national forest, which insures the saving of the giant sequoias and other big trees in Calaveras and Tuolumne counties in this state.

The big trees have been held by private ownership, belonging to Robert B. Whiteside, a lumberman of Duluth, Minn., but by the provisions of the act an exchange of other timber owned by the national government will be made with Mr. Whiteside, on terms to which he has agreed. The new forest contains 960 acres in Calaveras county and 3040 acres in Tuolumne county. In the former there are ninety-three big trees and in the latter 1380—and no tree with a circumference of less than eighteen feet is counted.

In addition to the giant sequoias there are hundreds of sugar pines and yellow pines of astonishing proportions on the two tracts, some of them 275 feet high and eight to ten feet in diameter. There are also many white firs and immense incense cedars in the forest.

The Calaveras big trees are famous throughout the country. Ten of them measure more than twenty-five feet in diameter, while seventy or more are from fifteen to twenty-five feet through.

Most of them have been named, some for famous generals or statesmen, others for states of the union. One known as "The Father of the Forests," now down, is estimated to have been 450 feet high and its diameter at the ground was more than forty feet. A number contains more than 100,000 board feet of lumber each, or as much as is ordinarily grown on fifteen or twenty acres of timberland. Their bark runs from six inches to two feet in thickness. For several years efforts have been under way to have their ownership pass to the national government, so that they will be in no danger of destruction, and this has just now been accomplished.

HEAVEN OR ALGIERS

A celebrated Anglican divine, the late Bishop of Rochester, who had been ailing for some months, decided to consult Sir Frederick Treves, the noted surgeon. After a careful examination, Sir Frederick pronounced his verdict and added: "Your Lordship must go to Algiers or some winter resort on the Riviera." "Impossible," replied the bishop; "quite impossible. I have too much work to get through." "Well," said the doctor, "you must make your choice. It is either Algiers or heaven." "Dear me!" exclaimed the bishop with a sigh; "then I suppose it must be Algiers."

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury

FIRE COMPANY

The fire department contemplates installing a chemical engine and electric-alarm system at an early date. The fire ladders have $500 in their treasury, and the amount is steadily growing. The electric-alarm system will include a score or more of boxes placed at different points in the city, and wires will be run into the residences of each of the twenty active members on the company's roll. A small gong in each residence will sound the alarm, and a gong of large size will be placed at the city hall and at the power-house. On discovery of a fire, the citizen will break the glass covering of an alarm box, when the gongs will be electrically sounded. The siren at the power-house will be turned loose, and the gong and bell at the city hall will arouse the community. Fire pressure will be immediately applied at the power-house, and four powerful streams of water be made available immediately. Anaheim is as well equipped for fighting fires as any city its size on the coast, and the citizens should feel proud of its fire company. The boys have done good work in the past, and are ready to repeat the performance whenever it becomes necessary to do so in the future.

With the installation of a chemical engine and alarm-system the boys will be more than ever equipped to fight fires with neatness and dispatch. Success to the fire company.

POSTOFFICE BURGLARY

No new developments are reported in the postoffice burglary of Monday evening a week ago, when the cracksmen narrowly missed an amount exceeding $2000 in cash and stamps in the safe, which was not molested. Postmaster Duckworth is of opinion the men were frightened away by the opportune arrival of several citizens going for their mail after the firemen's ball, along about 2 o'clock in the morning.

Local officers are at work upon strong clues, and arrests are looked for.

John Kastenholz, aged 9 years, was killed at Los Alamitos on Monday evening by being thrown from a horse. He was driving in the cows, when the horse shied, throwing him off. Death was instantaneous. Undertaker Jos. Backs was called and prepared the body for burial. The interment took place in the Anaheim cemetery Wednesday afternoon.

Frank Tausch, B. G. Schlosser, Frank Dyer and Charley Tuffree were among the fans who took in the baseball game at Santa Ana on Sunday, when Santa Ana defeated the Hoegees of Los Angeles 2 to 0. Johnson struck out 14 men, allowing only four hits.

Louie Kroeger has been detained at home during the week with an attack of neuralgia. He was compelled to go home on Wednesday last and has since been in bed. Yesterday his condition showed improvement and he will probably soon be out again.

Miss Ella Reese and her sister, Mrs. Emma Snowden, both of Pittsburg, Pa., were guests for a few days of Capt. and Mrs. Williams. A son of Mrs. Snowden's is a rancher at Lancaster, this state. She and her sister have spent most of their time at Lancaster since their arrival in California several months ago. They expect to leave for the east in May.

TRAVEL SECTION

The Travel Section of the Ebell met Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Falkenstein. The meeting was called to order by the leader, Mrs. Spencer. Roll-call was responded to with facts concerning Japan. After a short business meeting the following program was rendered:

The use of the lotus flower in Egyptian architecture, Mrs. Rehwoidt; the Statue of Rameses II, Mrs. Rose; the Vocal Mernnon, Miss Zeyn; the Temple of Karnak, Miss Rehwoidt; the Pyramids, Mrs. Storm; the club then began a delightfully interesting trip through Japan, visiting Yokohama and Tokio under the guidance of Mrs. Falkenstein, Mrs. Juny and Mrs. Storm. The critic's report was given by Mrs. Nagel. A general discussion of the lecture followed. After hearing the report of the treasurer, Miss Zeyn, the club adjourned to meet with Mrs. Storm on Saturday, March 13, roll call to be answered with facts concerning Japan.

A. F. Fishering of Huntington Park has purchased the ten-acre Johnson place west of town, the consideration being $7500. Mr. Fishering and family were here on Sunday on a visit to their new possession. They will move here in the near future to reside.

Walter Johnson who has been wintering at the family home at Placentia left this week for the east to rejoin the Washington baseball club. Johnson's farewell appearance for the season was at Santa Ana last Sunday, when he outpitched Grey of the Hoegees of Los Angeles, striking out 14 men and allowing four hits. When the season began in the east last year Johnson was in the hospital, having undergone a surgical operation back of the ear. It was at first thought his playing days were over, and when he joined his team, several weeks after the season opened, he was not in his old-time form. He rounded out perfectly later and pitched great ball. His friends think he will show improvement this year, and that he will blossom out as the greatest pitcher in the country.

A petition to the supervisors is being circulated at Garden Grove and signed by nearly all the heads of families to whom it is presented. It asks that a county ordinance be passed, prohibiting the presence of minors in pool halls and compelling such places to close on Sundays.

FOR SISTER'S SAKE, STEALS

That he was influenced by an article he had read to the effect that there is plenty in this world for all and that every man ought to have his share, and that he wished to buy new clothes for his little sister, were the reasons given in the justice's court at Santa Ana on Saturday by John R. Keene for burglarizing A. E. Hawley's gunstore on February 14. He said he was out of work and that his 13-year-old sister had written that her clothes were too shabby to wear to school. He never before had stolen, but the sight of a pearl-handled pistol in the gunstore window suggested how he might acquire a share of the world's wealth.

"I always had known that if I ever stole anything I'd get it in the neck," said the man, a big, strapping woodsman from British Columbia. "I wouldn't steal those revolvers again if they were worth $500 apiece." He was bound over to the superior court.
