BANK BUYS CORNER PROPERTY FOR NEW HOME

$42,500 PAID FOR PROPERTY AT CENTER AND LOS ANGELES STREETS

GERMAN AMERICAN WILL SHORTLY OCCUPY PREMISES AS A MODEL BANK

A notable sale of realty was consummated this week when the German American Bank purchased from John L. Schumacher the property at the northeast corner of Center and Los Angeles streets, now occupied by the S. Q. R. store, at a consideration of $42,500. As indicating the rise in property values in this city, it may be stated that this property was purchased by Mr. Schumacher 15 years ago at a cost of $18,000. The lot extends 53 feet on Los Angeles street, by 112 on Center. A two-story brick building occupies 53x75 feet at the corner, the eastern portion of the lot having a one-story brick building upon it. The building was erected by S. S. Federman in 1888 at a cost of $10,000. It is the intention of the bank to occupy the premises as soon as possession may be secured. The lease of the S. Q. R. store extends a year and nine months, but an effort is making to secure a leasehold upon the Dreyfus property at the southwest corner of the streets, which is now occupied by Ahlborn & Raymond. Upon this latter property Mr. Dreyfus will in the near future begin the erection of a two-story brick building. He will remodel the present one-story brick structure and will add a second story thereto. Work upon demolition of the corrugated iron building at rear of the structure has been completed, and work is now in progress upon a two-story brick, which will be a continuation of the main structure at the corner.

The German American Bank has been endeavoring for more than a year to purchase a corner lot at the intersection of the two principal thoroughfares of the city. The bank endeavored to purchase Mr. Dreyfus' property, but was unable to agree upon terms with that gentleman. It also offered Mrs. Mitchell $50,000 for a portion of her property at the northwest corner of the two streets, but the offer was refused.

The German American Bank is now entering upon the seventh year of its successful business career. Its rise in the financial world has been rapid until it is now rated as one of the substantial financial institutions of Orange county. As soon as it can secure possession of the property, it will begin extensive alterations and improvements upon the building, and the structure will be turned into one of the handsomest banking houses in Southern California. Negotiations are now in progress with Mr. Dreyfus looking to procuring a leasehold upon his property, and if satisfactory arrangements can be made, the S. Q. R. store will move into his new building as soon as it is ready for occupancy early in the fall.

The occupancy of its new purchase by the German American Bank will make the center of the city a notable financial center, with the First National Bank on the opposite corner. The deal comes as a result of the purpose on the part of President Adolph Thomas of the bank and his associates, to secure larger quarters for their business. They have paid a very handsome figure for the property, but among people well informed as to realty values, it is considered they have secured a bargain, especially as the corner will add materially to the business of their institution.

PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION FORMED

Organization Made to Further Interests of Northern Orange County

One of the strongest organizations that has been formed in Orange county in many months was organized in Fullerton Friday night under the name of the Northern Orange County Protective Association. It is composed of three delegates each from the organized bodies of Fullerton, Anaheim, La Habra, Buena Park, Placentia, Olanda, Orangehorpe, Yorba Linda and Brea. The officers of the new association are: F. W. Bishop of Fullerton, vice-president; A. Nelson of Buena Park, secretary-treasurer. An executive committee or a board of directors of nine members was elected, one member being selected from each of the nine organized bodies of this part of the county.

The object of the new association is to improve the general welfare of northern Orange county, to meet with the supervisors and public or commercial organizations or individuals when necessary, and to encourage such acts as may properly come under the authority of the association.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY TOMORROW NIGHT

Local Talent to Appear in Production in H. S. Auditorium This Week

Sale of tickets for the senior class play opened Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock. They went as fast as the proverbial "hot cakes," however a number are left for late comers, and some 150 seats will not be put on sale at all until Friday night, thus all may be sure of good seats. All seats in the house are reserved, and the seating capacity is estimated at 750. Sale of tickets is exceedingly large, and indications are that the house will be packed for the play.

The Class of Thirteen presents an all-star cast in the college comedy "Number Seven." The play is full of true enthusiastic college spirit and fun. Indeed, there is not a dull moment throughout the entire play.

Miss Cecil Trindle, as leading lady, and Walter Spaeth as Number Seven, make very charming sweethearts. Will Webb and Miss Evelyn Finney give extremely clever characterizations as Ma and Pa Brooks. Kathryn Hand, the college widow, ensnares all freshmen but finally succumbs to the charms of the English lord, Lawrence Waller, who is rather nervous when it comes to love making. Ralph Maas plays the part of the villain with mephistophelian vigor. No one can miss seeing Floyd Fergus in his role as the professor. The rest of the cast, Emily Spaeth, Ashleigh Chamberlain, Hans Storm, Howard Krause and Clarence Chamberlain, all do splendid work.

The school annuals, gotten out by the senior class for the first time this year, will be opened and placed on sale for the first time the night of the play. Almost 400 of them have been ordered and while most of them have been ordered, some will be left for sale Friday night. It is understood the annuals are well gotten up and one person who has seen them assures us that they are the best school annual ever seen. A big demand has been created for them and they will probably be disposed of completely Friday night.

The curtain will rise promptly at 8:15 and no one will be seated during the first act. One price to all—50c.

Oscar A. Mills, who last week purchased Jos. Helmsen's book and stationery store, is making extensive alterations and improvements in the business, and will shortly have one of the best appointed establishments of its kind in the county. He will add largely to the stock of books, stationery, cigars, tobacco, candles, and other articles carried at the store. Mr. Mills is a business man of energy and enterprise and is already in the enjoyment of a large and profitable business. He forms a very desirable acquisition to the community and is deserving of wide support from people throughout this city and its environs. He is this week rearranging and adding to his stock, and will in the near future have one of the best appointed establishments in the southland and will carry a stock second to none to be found anywhere. His stock of graphophone records is one of the largest in the county and is being added to constantly with the best vocal and instrumental selections now before the public.

MAGNIFICENT MASONIC TEMPLE SOON TO BE IN COURSE OF ERECTION HERE

SIMPSON TELLS HOW HE LOST $50,000

PERMITS BAXTER RANCH, FOR WHICH HE WAS NEGOTIATING, SLIP AWAY

SEVENTY-FIVE MONTANA FAMILIES PREPARING TO MOVE TO THIS VICINITY

Investors who have lost heavily in Anaheim real estate and adjacent ranch property within the past few years are numerous and you can rub elbows with them on the streets of this city every day. But these parties all lost, not by investing their capital in the fertile soil of this section, but by failing to open the door to opportunity when he stood on the threshold and knocked for admittance. There are many instances of persons two or three years ago turning away from coveted properties because they considered the prices demanded unreasonable or fictitious, but which have since doubled in value.

G. M. Simpson, of the real estate firm of Simpson, Hamler & Simpson, is one of the victims of lost opportunity and tells of a deal which he failed to negotiate and on which the other man reaped the profit. But Mr. Simpson accepts the matter with philosophy and is not mourning over the deal. He is an optimist and an enthusiastic booster of Anaheim, and declares that the man who failed to open to opportunity yesterday can shake hands with him tomorrow, as the high water mark in land values will not be reached here for many years to come.

Two years ago Mr. Simpson was a resident of Billings, Mont. He was a real estate dealer, a capitalist and a rancher, owning several valuable ranches in the northern state. He came here on a visit to his brother, V. U. Simpson, and like all other visitors from the bleak and blizzard north, immediately fell in love with Anaheim, its environments, its equable climate and its possibilities, and began laying plans for a permanent residence here.

The Baxter ranch, near the Crowther corners, northeast of town, was offered for sale at that time, and in conjunction with his brother Bert, Mr. Simpson opened negotiations for it. The ranch contained 40 acres, most of which was in 5-year-old Valencia, and was offered to the Simpson brothers for $55,000. This looked like a fictitious value to a man who was in the habit of buying and selling an entire section of fertile land for little more than that figure, so the deal was held up and Mr. Simpson returned to his home in Montana to set his affairs in order preparatory to removal to Anaheim. Two weeks later a Los Angeles party purchased the ranch at the figure demanded by Mr. Baxter, and in less than a month disposed of half of it for $45,000. Shortly afterward the balance of the place was sold for a sum approximating the price paid by the new owner for the entire ranch. "By our ignorance of the actual value of real estate hereabout and our timidity regarding the future advancement we lost about $50,000 on that deal," said Mr. Simpson, "but there are still opportunities just as good."

On returning to Montana Mr. Simpson gathered his household together and removed to Anaheim. The Baxter ranch was lost to him but he purchased the John Resh place at the corner of East and South streets. There are 13½ acres in the ranch, set to Valencia, navels and sweets, and one of the prettiest and costliest residences in Anaheim was erected on it by Mr. Resh a couple of years ago. The price paid was $35,000, but the new owner says there has been an extraordinary advancement in real estate values on that corner since he purchased it nine months ago.

Mr. Simpson on his return to Montana from his visit here carried with him much literature and many enthusiastic words descriptive of the climate, the soil and the possibilities of this region and as a result between 75 and 100 families in his old home neighborhood are now disposing of their interests and making preparations to move to Anaheim or its immediate vicinity. At least 50 of these families will come in before the coming winter sets in and the balance within a year.

"These men," said Mr. Simpson, "are not coming here seeking labor. They are all men of means—men who have made good from a financial point of view, and are now moving to the sunny southland because for the remaining years of their lives they want to escape the rigors of the long and hard winters of the north country. They are attracted to Anaheim by its equable climate, its beautiful environment, and the possibilities of safe and profitable investment in this neighborhood."

Mr. Simpson's faith in the future of this section is unbounded. "We have not yet reached the zenith of high values," he said, "Moneyed men from all sections of the north and east will flock here in future years because of our climate. They will desire to purchase homes, consequently the ranches will be cut up into smaller tracts that all may be accommodated. Land values have not yet reached the sky line."

BASEBALL NEXT SUNDAY

A baseball game has been arranged for Sunday between the Anaheim team and the Santa Ana Moose aggregation. The latter team is scheduled to play San Francisco at San Jose on July 4, and is one of the strongest teams in the state. The game will doubtless be a hummer, and well worth seeing. Following is the line-up:

Anaheim—Pickens p., Callan c., Gerken 1b, Ortega 2b, Schulz 3b, Fisher or Salveson ss., Evans lf., Staats cf., Bourne rf., Goodrich sub.

Santa Ana Moose—DuBois p., McGaffey c., Luxemberger 1b, Freeman 2b, P. West 3b, Walters ss., B. West lf., Cowan cf., Seeley rf., Fowler sub.

V. U. Simpson drove to Long Beach on Tuesday in response to advice that Mrs. William Woods, wife of an old-time Billings, Mont., friend, had sustained serious injuries at the auditorium collapse on Saturday week. Mrs. Woods is at a beach sanitarium suffering from a broken leg and other serious injuries. Mr. Woods arrived from Billings some days ago in response to telegraphic advices of his wife's accident. Mrs. Woods will be taken to her home in Montana as soon as she can be moved, and will be accompanied thither by Miss Edith Simpson.

The Anaheim Laundry Company last week installed a new mangle, to be used exclusively for tablecloths and napkins, and which cost $500. This will add materially to the company's capacity for turning out first-class laundry work, and is only one of a number of improvements made within the past year. Manager Theodore is always on the lookout for new and up-to-date machinery for his place of business, and is always ready to make needed and beneficial additions to the equipment of the laundry.

ANOTHER JAP SUICIDE HERE THURSDAY

ONO THROWS HIMSELF IN FRONT OF SANTA FE FREIGHT—INSTANTLY KILLED

BURIED AS UNKNOWN, BODY LATER EXHUMED AND FOUND TO BE THAT OF A JAPANESE

A second case of suicide within a month occurred Thursday night when S. Ono, a Japanese rancher living southeast of town on a small berry ranch, threw himself in front of north-bound Santa Fe extra freight No. 996 on the main tracks just east of the sugar factory north of town, not far from where Chikazo Marikama committed suicide in the same manner on May 2. The engineer and fireman did not see the man before the engine struck him, and he must have waited alongside the track until the engine was almost upon him, when he threw himself on the rails and was ground to death beneath the wheels. The engineer felt the jar of striking, something and brought the train to a stop. The man was found lying three feet outside the east rail of the track bleeding profusely and quite dead. One arm and a leg was missing, and other cuts and bruises were scattered over the body. The trainmen judged the man to be a Japanese, and so reported to the coroner when they backed the train to the depot in this city. Officers Iman and Sackett were notified of the occurrence, and they in turn notified Coroner Winbiger and Undertaker Terry, receiving instructions from the former to bring the body to this city. The officers, Undertaker Terry and others went to the scene of the suicide, and brought the remains to Backs & Terry's mortuary here. The body was horribly mutilated, but the face was not beyond recognition. Those who brought the body in, thought that he was a Mexican. The next morning it could not be determined to what nationality the man belonged, some said he was a Mexican, others a Jap. Several Japanese from the local rooming house were taken to the morgue, but would not have the man as a Japanese; Mexicans also viewed the body, but none could recognize the dead man as one of their tribe. It was thought perhaps the Japanese Association in Los Angeles would take some action for the disposal of the body, but when Saturday morning came and no one from the association had put in an appearance, the dead man was buried in the local cemetery by the county. Nothing had been found in his pockets to indicate his nationality, the sum of 80 cents in change and three shoestrings being the extent of his treasures.

Ordinarily this would have ended the matter, but another chapter was to be added to the story. Several Japanese ranchmen living east of town near George Wagner's place, came into town Saturday afternoon with the story that one of their countrymen living near them had been missing since Thursday afternoon. They had telephoned to Los Angeles where he was wont to go occasionally, but he had not been seen there. They said he took spells and sometimes left home to be gone several days without trace being found of him. When informed that an unknown had been killed by a train

Thursday evening, the men went to Backs & Terry's parlors. The dead man was described to them, and they were so sure that he was their missing friend, that they ordered the grave opened and the body exhumed. This was done Saturday afternoon, and when the casket was opened the features of the dead man were recognized as those of S. Ono, their friend. A vest which Ono had left at home was brought and matched his suit perfectly. Ono had a 10-acre ranch east of town leased and planted to berries, a horse and farm implements. His neighbors, noticing that Ono was absent, took care of the horse.

The exhumed body was brought to this city again, and was buried Monday morning, many Japanese being present. A cousin of the dead man, a member of a Los Angeles Methodist church, came down and secured Rev. Sutherland to conduct the funeral services, which were held from the undertaking parlors Monday morning, interment being made in Anaheim cemetery.

The man's death was a clear case of suicide, and makes the second one in this manner the past month, and not a hundred feet distant from where the other Japanese was killed May 2.

Mr. Schumacher while at Santa Cruz gained many points upon road building, and will in the near future have a road grader here which has been doing good work in a number of northern counties. The machine tears up, grades and rolls a thoroughfare, and is highly spoken of by men who have used it. It costs $1,500, and will be given a tryout on the roads in this district. If it works successfully, the supervisors will purchase it and put it to work upon construction of roads in the county.

LOCAL STUDENT WINS SENIOR ORATION

WALTER SPAETH GETS HIGHEST HONORS IN CONTEST SATURDAY AT FULLERTON

ANAHEIM LANDS SECOND PLACE OF FIVE SCHOOLS OF COUNTY, ORANGE GETS FIRST

Walter Spaeth, representing the senior class of the Anaheim high school, on Saturday afternoon last won first place among the five contestants in orations representing the several high schools of the county in the annual forensic contest, held this year in the new Fullerton high school building. So superior was Spaeth's oration that no other contestant came within 17 points of his score. His work is described as finished, and everyone present reports his oration, "A Plea for Justice," as the most excellent heard during the contest. Although he was the 19th speaker of the day, he held the attention of the assembled crowd as few were able to do. Mr. Spaeth was presented with a handsome gold medal, as were also those winning first in the other events. The markings of the judges for the orations was as follows:

Paul Schooley, Santa Ana, 89, 91, 89, total 269; Vernon Heil, Huntington Beach, 81, 82, 86, total 249; Paul Dowling, Fullerton, 80, 80, 80, total 259; Walter Spaeth, Anaheim, 96, 98, 92, total 286; Will Koener, Orange, 81, 86, 84, total 251.

Miss Lila Abbott, representing the junior class of the local high school, won third place in the essay contest. Her essay was entitled "Power of Enthusiasm," and while she did exceedingly well, so well in fact that some were heard to say she should have had first place, the decision of the judges only gave her third. The score by schools in this event was Orange 283, Huntington Beach 276, Anaheim 264, Santa Ana 263, Fullerton 253.

Miss Callie Calloway, representing the sophomore class in the original stories, won second place in that event for the local school. Her story entitled "Getting Around Dad," proved to be entertainingly written and was enjoyed by all. The markings by schools was Orange 276, Anaheim 259, Huntington Beach 258½, Santa Ana 250, Fullerton 216½. Miss Calloway was the recipient of congratulations from her many friends upon the favor with which her story was received and her high marking by the judges. John Bradley, for the freshmen class, while doing creditably, only received fifth place, being marked very near to the others however. School total-scores for the freshmen declamations was Fullerton 292, Huntington Beach 289, Santa Ana 282, Orange 279, Anaheim 278. All students representing Anaheim did well and each helped to raise the school score so that second place was secured.

Judges for the contest were David Burcham, I. D. Perry and J. B. Lillard. Donors of medals to the winners were Col. S. H. Finley, Santa Ana, C. C. Chapman, Placentia and William Starbuck, Fullerton.

Music furnished by Anaheim for the contest consisted of selections by a violin trio by the Misses Helena Goodale, Violet Gervais and Irma Steadman, and a number of selections by a vocal sextet, consisting of the Misses Evelyn Finney, Helena Goodale, Orilla Evans, Carrie Evans, Emily Spaeth and Lila Abbott. In addition, songs were given in turn by the different schools of the county, Anaheim furnishing some very good ones.

The following oration, delivered by Walter Spaeth, won first place among the five delivered at the contest:

At the present time, the McNamara brothers are receiving due punishment for their crime in Los Angeles. They have broken the law by murdering 21 people, and the law is punishing them. The crime was committed out of loyalty to a cause. There was no thought of personal gain. It was committed with a knowledge of great risk. Had the court at Los Angeles merely issued an injunction ordering the McNamaras to stop dynamiting, and had then set them free, a storm of wrathful protest would be raging from one side of this continent to the other. People would say, "These dynamiters must be severely punished, as a warning to others." This we call justice, and rightly so. But are we always so vigilant and

PAY TRIBUTE TO THEIR DEAD COMRADES

MEMORIAL SERVICES FITTINGLY OBSERVED BY MALVERN HILL POST FRIDAY

ANAHEIM CEMETERY COVERED WITH BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS BY LOVING HANDS

Forty mounds cover the remains of Union veterans of the Civil War in the Anaheim cemetery, and in the same consecrated ground lie four soldiers who fought with the Confederacy, but the loving hands which strewed these graves with beautiful flowers during the memorial services last Friday made no distinction, covering all with a wealth of blossoms.

Only 22 gray and grizzled veterans were in the line of march under command of Comrade Knowlton, following the banner of Malvern Hill Post Friday. Each year this line is decimated, and each Memorial Day the decorators find new mounds in the cemetery. One of the freshest of the graves was that of H. G. Remington, of Buena Park. Mr. Remington was a member of the Buena Park male quartette and expected to take part in the musical program of the exercises, but two weeks ago he was buried and the other three members sang without him.

The procession formed at the gates of the cemetery, the Fullerton military band in the lead playing the funeral march, with Malvern Hill Post and 50 small school children of Buena Park, who had been selected to decorate the graves, following. The procession halted at the speakers' stand where a large crowd had already gathered, and after a selection by the band Rev. C. R. Moore opened the services by an invocation.

"Where the Nation's Heroes Sleep," a song by the Buena Park male quartette, was next on the program. The quartette is composed of Messrs. W. D. Rose, W. T. Millsap and Ben S. Wilson, the fourth member, Mr. Remington, having died but ten days previously.

Lincoln's immortal address on the battlefield of Gettysburg was then recited by Hollis Knowlton, of Fullerton, and the Buena Park ladies' quartette sang "Cover Them Over With Beautiful Flowers." Messdames Martin, Rose, Robeson and Allen are the members of the quartette.

Following this, while the band rendered "Abide With Me," the Buena Park children, laden with flowers, marched through the cemetery in charge of the ladies' committee, and decorated the graves of the dead veterans.

"The Unknown Dead" was the subject assigned to Rev. A. B. Markle, and he handled the subject in his own interesting and convincing style. Elder Markle was one of those who responded to his country's call in her hour of need, and he speaks from a knowledge born of experience when he talks on subjects relative to the war.

"There are 83 national cemeteries in the United States," said he, "and in them are thousands of graves marked with a headstone bearing a single name—'Unknown.' The heroes occupying these graves were not always unknown. Each of these boys was known to the loved ones he left behind when he marched away to war 50 years ago. He was known to the government he defended and gave his life to perpetuate. He was known to the enemy he helped to defeat. It is only the name of the hero under that sod that is lost to us, but his deeds are remembered; we know that he gave his life for the cause and his grave will be covered with flowers today by some loving hands."

Mr. Markle said the custom of decorating the graves of soldiers originated in the South. The idea struck General John A. Logan, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., as appropriate and fitting, and he issued an order establishing Memorial Day in 1868. The order was opposed by some who thought that its observance would serve to perpetuate the animosity between the North and the South. It has had the opposite effect, however, and today both the North and the South will decorate the graves of the dead heroes without inquiring which side they fought on.

A chorus entitled "Rest, Heroes, Rest," was rendered by the Buena Park choir at the conclusion of the address, and Rev. Frank Dowling, the chief speaker, was introduced.

Elder Dowling has delivered the Memorial Day address at Anaheim on several previous occasions, but he always has something new to say to the old veterans. He is an eloquent speaker and is in sympathy with the subject on which he talked. In his peroration to the old soldiers he said:

"It is not out of place to recall to you that the flag you have so heroically upheld will soon fall from your hands.

But don't forget that the generation following you will pick it up when it finally falls from your hands and maintain its integrity with the same courage that animated you when you were fighting in its defense. God grant that the occasion may never require it but I believe that I can safely promise you that every young man in this audience would rush to the defense of our country and offer his life for it just as you did 50 years ago, should it be necessary."

The singing of "America" by the entire audience and a benediction by Rev. Bruce Brown ended the services.

LARGE CROWDS WILL WITNESS ROAD RACE

Fourth of July Event Will Be Watched by Thousands of People

Within the next week the route of the Panama-Pacific Los Angeles-San Francisco road race will be definitely announced. Although the valley road has been decided upon some of the intermediate points are yet to be selected. The road from Los Angeles to Bakersfield is well marked. The first checking point will be Elizabeth Lake, 68 miles from the start. This will eliminate the possibility of any cut offs. From the first checking point to Bakersfield there is one road. Bakersfield will be a checking point and control. The cars will take on fuel and oil there and will be driven once around the race track. This will be a lively point of the race as the entrants will all have crews there ready to make any hasty repairs that are necessary.

Out of Bakersfield the route will follow the main road to Delano where it will turn off to Porterville and Lindsay. These towns have been definitely decided upon. Beyond Lindsay there is some question as to the routing into Fresno.

Fresno will be another checking point and control. The people of Fresno have taken a keen interest in the race and will make it a big event for the Fourth of July crowds. Preparations are being made to take care of at least a hundred thousand people who will flock into Fresno from all directions to see the racing cars go through.

Fresno will be the midway point and undoubtedly the most exciting part of the race. Madera, Merced and Modesto will be on the direct route but at this routing the other towns have not been selected. A decision is expected daily on the other towns.

Field Manager Ostrom has been making a trip through the valley towns and many points will be cleared up. Walter Hempel who is spending his time in San Francisco expected to complete his arrangements for the finish within the next ten days.

The race will start from Los Angeles at one minute after midnight, July 4th. At what interval the cars will leave will be left to the referee.

The starting place in Los Angeles has not yet been decided. The committee expects that the start of this race will be witnessed by the largest crowd that has ever turned out for a similar event in Southern California. It is expected that at least 150,000 people will gather at the start and string out along the road on the night of the race.

MAILMEN TO AID FORESTRY SERVICE

Postoffice Department Issues Order to Rural Carriers to Aid Forestry Department

The official Postal Guide for May calls the attention of postmasters and rural carriers to an order of the postoffice department that the carriers report to the proper authorities all forest fires detected along their routes. This order was issued at the request of the secretary of agriculture.

For several years in some sections of the country a sort of informal understanding has existed between national forest rangers and mail carriers with the idea of securing increased fire protection. The marked effectiveness of this co-operation was a strong argument in favor of its extension and official sanction, and was in part responsible for the request of the secretary of agriculture which resulted in the order by the postoffice department.

The plan is for the carrier to report a fire to the nearest forest officer on his route, or, if no officer lives on the route, to have him notified by some responsible citizen. State and national foresters are supplied with post road maps and with postal guides containing the addresses of the different postmasters. The postmasters in turn are supplied by the foresters with the names, addresses, and telephone call numbers of forest officers residing on or near the carriers' routes.

Co-operation between rural carriers and federal forest officers will take place in Florida, Arkansas, South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, and California. Co-operation with state officers is given in all the New England states, and in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Washington, Oregon, and California, all these states having established fire protective systems.

In some respects this town is not perfect; are you?

FULLERTON HIGH VANQUISHES DOWNEY

A ONE TO NOTHING BALL GAME PULLED OFF ON ANAHEIM DIAMOND THURSDAY

WINNERS TO CONTEST FOR THE SOUTHERN CAL. CHAMPIONSHIP WITH SAN DIEGO

Several hundred enthusiastic, rampant male and female baseball fans, bearing flags and streamers, armed with megaphones and leather lungs, and loaded with class yells, invaded the decorous, peaceful precincts of Anaheim Thursday afternoon and took possession of the ball grounds. They were from Fullerton and Downey and came to witness a ball game between the high school teams of their respective towns, and to root their own to victory if possible.

The contest was designated a semi-final championship game, the winner to be pitted against the San Diego high school nine at an early date for the championship of Southern California. It was a swift and classy game, one of the best seen on the local diamond this season, and at its close one lone home run was hit by the Fullerton column against nine cyphers on the Downey side.

This one score was made in the seventh inning and was the result of bad throws, the only serious errors made in the game. After Porter had gone out on a high foul and Lemke was thrown out at first, Callan reached first on a hit. With two out and a couple of strikes called on Salvoisen, Callan took a desperate chance and made a dash for second. In attempting to cut him off Brookshire threw ten feet above the second baseman's head. The ball bounded into center field and Callan struck the plate a fraction of a second before it could be fielded home.

King, the one-armed all-round colored athlete of the Fullerton high, who wins more points in athletic games for that institution than the combined balance of the school, was in the box. King is a wonder for the first half of the game but generally goes to pieces in the latter half. In this instance he began to weaken in the eighth, after striking out ten men and permitting but two hits. Redfield, the first man up in the eighth, hit safely. McCulloch and McKeller, who followed, each connected with the ball, but both of them descended into Lemke's mit. Ball also bunted it into the diamond and was thrown out at first. The Fullerton captain would have pulled King down after this but the fans loudly demanded that he be permitted to finish the game he had already won. In the next inning, however, after Brookshire had sent a high fly into Ortega's hands and Morrow had made a clean hit King was benched and Salvoisen went onto the mound. Morrow made an effort to advance himself another station but died in the attempt, and Herb struck out Copeland.

Ball, the Downey spit-ball twirler, is something of an artist also. He was only one strike-out behind King, having nine to his credit and only three hits were made off his delivery. But for the two unfortunate errors in the seventh which permitted Callan to gallop home, the nine innings would have ended without a score.

The Fullerton boys will now play San Diego for the high school championship of Southern California. The date has not been fixed but the game will probably be played on the grounds of the southern city within two weeks.

Callan, who caught for Fullerton, was signed up by Manager Hasson Wednesday and will play with Anaheim during the balance of the season. He was the classy back stop of the Olinda team and did much toward winning the championship of Orange county for that aggregation. He will add strength to the home team.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Everhart and son of Los Angeles, former well-known citizens of Anaheim, were in town on Decoration Day visiting friends. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Schneider.

ASSOCIATED CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE HOLD SESSION ON COUNTY COMMISSION

THINK FREIGHT RATES ON ALL KINDS OF FRUITS SHOULD BE REDUCED

Delegates to the number of 80 gathered at Buena Park on Wednesday evening last for the regular monthly meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county. An excellent turkey supper, prepared in matchless style by the ladies of the Park, was enjoyed to the "fullest" by all present.

After the banquet Mrs. Nettie Robeson gave a reading, "If I Knew You and You Knew Me." She was loudly applauded for her clever reading of the poem.

Sixteen delegates representing 11 towns were present. Lew Wallace, of Newport, presided in the absence of W. A. Zimmerman, president.

A. A. Mills reported upon the freight rates on fruits, both fresh and dried. In his opinion all rates should be reduced on all kinds of fruits and the differential maintained. The report was received and filed.

Gus Stern, of Fullerton, chairman of the Good Roads Committee, reported the committee had met in Santa Ana, May 13th. Howard A. Wassum has been empowered to attend the meetings of the commission. Mr. Wassum sent in a voluminous report, the gist of which seemed to be that those in charge of the project were, each and all, doing as well as could be expected.

A general discussion followed, during which G. A. Whidden, of Santa Ana, and Rev. Moore, of Westminster, both spoke of the many little, annoying things which are continually arising to hinder the work. Rev. Moore is a practical civil engineer and his remarks commanded more than ordinary attention. Mr. Eaton of the Abstract office, also told how abstract work could hinder the job. The report was accepted.

W. A. Cornelius reported his efforts to have the notorious Carr bill shelved. W. W. Irving announced that he knew of one company which would build and operate a canning factory in this county if 50 acres of tomatoes should be guaranteed planted.

A proposed change in the State highway through La Habra was the cause of a red hot resolution favoring the old El Camino Real route, and condemning the hill route. Report was made against the upper road and in all probability the road will run as originally projected. As it is claimed by a great many that the parties doing the surveying on the State roads are, so to speak, soldiering on the job, a resolution requiring the survey parties to be at work eight hours per day, was read.

An alternative to getting up early was given in the idea of building camps along the road near their work, so that the workmen would be close to the scene of their labors.

A. C. Tiede, of Santa Ana, read a resolution of thanks to David Hewes for the public spirit shown by the latter in the matter of Hewes' Park. The resolution was enthusiastically adopted.

The indigent Mexican and Spanish problem was well ventilated in a long letter from the Woman's Civics Club of Santa Ana. The women recommended an industrial school. The whole matter was referred to the Committee on Education.

The president of the organization is empowered by it to continue efforts to have an insane asylum erected in this county, if possible.

The body was given a cordial invitation to go to Santa Ana on June 9th, to attend a celebration known as Moose day. Also to go to Michigan on the June excursion.

The ladies of Buena Park, who had assisted in the banquet were thanked for the excellent manner they had done their parts as hostesses. The association will meet next in Fullerton, Wednesday night, June 25th.

This life is what we make it; so is Anaheim.

Norville Clough, a real estate man of Long Beach, was here recently visiting J. G. Welsh on his ranch north of town. He had a marvelous escape from participation in the Long Beach disaster Saturday when the auditorium collapsed. He and his father, together with three friends, were standing talking near the entrance to the auditorium when the floor immediately in front of their feet gave way and crashed to the ground beneath with its human load. Had it given way a foot farther back, all five would have been precipitated into the death funnel. Mr. Clough's father stared into the pit dazedly for awhile, then turning, said "I'm going home."

What a Difference it Makes

Father: "Because they are too polite to leave off the 'e'."

If a man will drop the "t," that will make "this" town "his" town; and dropping the hammer will do the same thing.

UNION BREWERY ENLARGING ITS CAPACITY

TWELVE HUGE STORAGE TANKS BEING ADDED TO THE TWENTY-THREE NOW IN USE

INCREASING BUSINESS MAKES EXPANSION OF PLANT'S CA-PACITY NECESSARY

Among the industrial institutions of Anaheim which are keeping pace with the growth and progress of the city is the big plant of the Union Brewing Company in the west end. It is rarely a visitor to the plant finds it free from carpenters, masons or other workmen engaged in adding to, repairing, or increasing the effectiveness of the works.

Just at present a force of men is engaged in the erection of 12 additional tanks for the storage of the finished product while it is undergoing the ripening process. These tanks each have a capacity of 115 barrels, making a total of 1,380 barrels added to its present tankage capacity of 2,250. This addition was made necessary by the increasing business and the inadequacy of the present tanks.

Fifty barrels is the limit of each brew made by this plant and its customers consume annually approximately 15,000 barrels of the amber fluid which cheers but does not inebriate—unless you consume too much of it. The bulk of the product is shipped to the agency at Los Angeles from whence it is distributed to the four corners of the Southland and the demand of the distributors is for more. Wherever Anaheim beer has been introduced it has maintained its footing and increased its popularity. It has been officially pronounced one of the purest and best beers manufactured and the increasing product is due to its own merit and the efficiency of its makers.

Two houses in San Diego just recently introduced Anaheim beer and now handle it exclusively. About two carloads per week are shipped to the southern city at the present time. The thirsty denizens of the Imperial Valley are also partial to the Anaheim brew and heavy shipments are made from the agency into that region.

Eighteen men are now employed in the various departments of the plant. This number is subject to fluctuations and several additional men are occasionally added to the payroll, especially in the bottling works, where everything is performed by machinery, even to the pasting of labels on the sealed bottles.

In addition to the above mentioned additions a huge steel mash tank has recently arrived and will shortly be placed in position.

You must plant wheat to get wheat; you must work for the home town if you want a town in which to work.

RECORD INCOME FROM ESTATES

Inheritance Tax Yields Much Dinero to California

Inheritance taxes collected by County Treasurers of California and paid into the State treasury for the support of the State government covering the past year's period, amounted to $1,582,712, according to announcement of State Controller Nye. This exceeds any year in the history of the collections, not excepting the year ending May 31, 1911, when almost a half-million dollars was collected as a tax on the estate of "Lucky" Baldwin. That year the State received a total of $1,506,993.

Last year, the inheritance taxes collected amounted to $1,082,290. At the present rate of increase and with the probability that the tax rate will be raised for the coming two years, State Controller Nye believes the inheritance tax law to be one of the greatest of revenue sources which the State now has.

Few estates paid $100,000 or even half that amount during the year past. For the most part the total is made up from smaller estates. Inheritance tax settlements are made twice a year, in December and in May, at the same time the regular county tax settlements are made.

The highest present rate of tax on estates is 5 per cent. The new law passed at the last session of the legislature and now in the Governor's hands for approval, however, will in some instances make large estates pay 10 per cent tax on their appraised value.

The amount collected by the State for the year just closed represents a net amount, after deducting all County Treasurers' commissions and appraisers' fees.

BALANCE OF TRADE

A splendid record has been made in our foreign trade during the last nine months of the fiscal year.

The aggregate foreign trade going and coming for the nine months foots up $3,300,000,000. This would imply a total for the entire year of $4,100,000,000. The balance in our favor for the nine months already expired is $500,000,000.

Great Britain is our star customer. She bought of us during the last nine months in excess of $478,000,000 and sold us $234,000,000. Canada is our next best buyer. The Canadians purchased of us in the same period to the extent of $300,000,000. Germany bought our goods in the same period to the value of $268,000,000 and sold us the equivalent of $146,000,000. France bought of us to the extent of $120,000,000 and sold us goods of the value of $112,000,000. No wonder the United States is prosperous.

GARDEN GROVE

News Notes From Prosperous Neighboring Community

The section adjacent to Garden Grove will plant a greater acreage of lima beans this year than in any year previous. Last season a large crop of black-eye beans were grown by ranchmen of that vicinity and there is enough of this product on the market now to supply all demand for this year, hence this variety will not be planted. The limas are always staple and bring satisfactory returns to the grower. The Cleveland ranch will plant one hundred acres, J. Allan Knapp will have twenty acres, Allan Bros. twenty-five acres, the Andrus place forty acres, Schnitzer Brothers thirty acres and Port Hayes 40 acres.

Chili pepper will also be grown in large quantities. The tiny plants are just coming on and in excellent condition, with every indication for a good harvest. Approximately four hundred acres are devoted to this crop for the coming season.

The Foresters of Garden Grove will erect a building with 50-foot frontage on Euclid avenue. It is to extend back well toward the rear of the lots. The building will be two stories in height, a large hall occupying the second floor, while the lower part will be used for business purposes.

DONKEY VERSES HORSE SENSE

Although Hiram the First's assembly of freaks and cranks (including Orange county representatives) which has been meeting in Sacramento and is called the legislature of California, after doing all the harm it could and passing all the ridiculous bills possible, has adjourned, the Wickersham Implement Co., Fullerton, has not let up pushing their lines of implements, vehicles, Ford automobiles, I. H. C. auto trucks, engines and motorcycles for even an instant and have more than doubled their sales over a year ago. So many infernal demagogues and political shysters appearing all at once in our own horizon only served to make Wickersham mad and like a tonic spurred him on to more strenuous endeavors to keep from going broke, and to see the one great thing about the Wickersham Implement Co., and that great thing is this:

Try to say a good word about the town and it will soon be a habit, not an effort.

Sid Smithwick Has Leg Broken

Sid Smithwick had his right leg broken last week by a mule that kicked him. The injury is a compound fracture between the ankle and knee, and is an especially bad break. The mule's hoofs also struck Smithwick on the head and elbow, but the blows glanced, inflicting bruises only. The accident occurred at the Jerome ranch at Irvine. Smithwick stepped toward the head of a mule hitched to a wagon when the mule whirled and began to kick. Smithwick is at the Santa Ana hospital.

El Toro Ranch Deeded to Son

By a deed recorded at Santa Ana, 7,841 acres of land at El Toro passes from the possession of Emily S. Perkins to her son, Dwight Whiting, son of the founder of El Toro. Dwight Whiting, Sr., died several years ago. At that time his two sons were minors. Since then Dwight, Jr., has become of age. The widow of Dwight Whiting has twice been married, and her name is now Mrs. Emily S. Perkins. She lives in Los Angeles. The son to whom the property is deeded is in business in San Francisco. It is not known whether the son intends to sell the property or hold it. On this ranch is located the largest eucalyptus grove in Orange county. A portion of the ranch lies in the foothills. Much of it is leased to grain growers.

Bandits Loot Jap Home

K. Kikuchi, a Japanese rancher who lives at Santa Ana, had the unpleasant experience of being compelled to look down the barrel of a loaded revolver while a bandit ransacked his dwelling and appropriated to his own use what happened to suit his fancy from among the articles found. The Jap was at work in the field at some distance from his house, when he saw a man standing in the doorway. He at once started for the house, and when he arrived he found a Mexican standing in the yard who when asked what was wanted said he was hungry. The Jap entered the house and there found another man busily engaged in ransacking a trunk and throwing the contents over the floor and when the Jap protested, the bandit leveled a revolver at him and told him to "beat it," which the Jap proceeded to do with the utmost dispatch of which he was capable, and running to the nearest telephone he gave the alarm. Constable C. E. Jackson was notified and taking a man with him, the officer hurried to the scene, but the robbers had left and their trail, which led into the willows along the river bed, was soon lost. The Jap was unable to describe the robbers any farther than that one was a Mexican and the other a white man.

Pastor Russell in Santa Ana

A special train load of International Bible Students will be in Santa Ana from 8 A. M. to 12 M. Sunday, June 15. Pastor Russell is one of this party which is making a tour of the Central and Western States and will return through the Western Canadian Provinces. Pastor Russell will speak in the Grand Opera House at 10 A. M., his topic being "Beyond the Grave." He accepts no invitation to speak where admission is charged or collections taken. The largest auditoriums are generally insufficient to hold the crowd wishing to hear him. Besides being a noted lecturer he is the author of a series of topical "Studies in the Scriptures" which aside from the Bible have the largest output of any books in the world, a portion of them appearing in 19 languages. This is the first time it has been possible to secure him for Orange county. On Friday night he will speak in Los Angeles. On Saturday in San Diego and on Sunday afternoon in Pasadena.

No Assessor at Huntington Beach

Huntington Beach is having trouble finding out just where it is "at." It has no city assessor and it has not delegated the city assessment to the county. It seems that there was a time a few months ago when Huntington Beach thought of changing its system of assessing and tax collecting. The state law allows a city to delegate that work to the county. Huntington Beach, Fullerton and Stanton have been having the work done in that way. The law requires that by a certain date the city desiring that the county attend to these duties shall file with the county auditor an ordinance to that effect. This year Fullerton and Stanton filed their ordinances. Huntington Beach filed none. The date passed unnoticed. In the meantime the beach authorities had come to an understanding among themselves that there should be no change from last year's system. A few days ago it became known that the beach city was in a quandary. The necessary authority for the county to do the work had not been given and the city had taken no steps to have the work done at home. The beach city and the county officials are working the problem out. Some arrangement will be made for the settlement of the difficulty.

Articles of Incorporation

Articles of Incorporation have been filed by the Pacific Oil Cloth & Linoleum Company. Huntington Beach is named as the principal place of business. The capital stock is $250,000. The directors are T. B. Talbert, Huntington Beach; J. E. Nelson, Santa Ana; F. E. Sharpe, C. F. Hutchins and W. H. Hazel, all of Los Angeles.

Money Stolen From Poolroom

About $109 was stolen Saturday night from Blakeman & Tiller's poolroom at Santa Ana. At what hour it was stolen is not known, and who got it is also a mere matter of conjecture. This poolroom was opened recently. It seems that on Saturday nights the poolrooms are often called on to cash checks presented by patrons who come in from the country. For that reason Blakeman & Tiller had a little extra coin on hand Saturday night. This money was not kept in the till, but was hidden away in a cigar-box or jar. It is possible that someone saw the money put away, and that a favorable opportunity was awaited for purloining it. The till of the place was not broken into.

BUENA PARK ITEMS

Personal Notes From Live Neighboring Community

The Ladies' Mutual Aid held its last meeting with Mrs. Burke, who has been confined to her home for the past eight months from a fall. The meeting was arranged as a surprise to Mrs. Burke and was a most pleasant affair, since 25 ladies being present.

The ladies belonging to the Park Chamber of Commerce had charge of the banquet given to the Associated Chambers of Orange county last Wednesday evening, and all unite in words of praise for the splendid spread, excellent music and recitations furnished for the occasion. Everything was splendidly carried out and an occasion long to be remembered was participated in.

The O. E. S. Chapter is planning to give a musical comedy some time in June, date to be announced later. Mrs. Nettie Robeson has the matter in charge and will certainly furnish a program worth the money.

The lecture on "Social Hygiene" by Mrs. Manno Woods, of Glendale, given under the auspices of the Parent Teacher Association, was largely attended. Mrs. Woods is a splendid and convincing speaker.

Mesdames Robeson, Allen and Miss Juanita Simpson were guests at a house party in Hollywood last week. Mrs. Murray, formerly of the Park, entertained them.

The Whist Club will meet with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Chamberlain of Anaheim on the 11th of June.

Mrs. George Hardin entertained with a delightful luncheon Saturday in honor of her daughter, Miss Ruth Hardin, who had just returned from the north where she has been engaged in teaching. At this time, the announcement of the marriage of Miss Hardin to Harold Cobey, of Fullerton, to take place at Buena Park on June 25 was made. Rev. T. L. Dyer, of Alhambra, formerly pastor of the Buena Park Congregational church, will perform the marriage ceremony. The couple will make their home in Los Angeles.

AMERICAN FARM IMPLEMENTS

Over $400,000,000 Worth Exported From United States Last Year

All the world, apparently, buys American agricultural implements. Mowers and reapers exported last year went to more than 75 countries and colonies, including every grand division of the world, while other classes of agricultural implements were widely distributed in the year's export trade. Europe alone took $21,000,000 worth of the $40,000,000 worth of farming implements exported in 1912; North America $8,000,000 and South America, $9,000,000 worth. Russia is the largest single buyer of our agricultural implements, the value exported thereto in the year just ended having been approximately $10,000,000, against $7,000,000 to Argentina, $7,000,000 to Canada and about $3,000,000 each to France and Germany. Thus the leading buyers of our agricultural implements are, in the order of magnitude, Russia, Argentina and Canada, with France and Germany about equal in the value of their purchases, though in each case materially less than the three countries already named—Russia, Argentina and Canada.

The coat belonged to J. L. McNutt, of Huntington Beach, who was spending a short time in town. He saw the thief making away with his property and followed him to a rooming house on South Lemon street which the man entered. EDUCATION MAY BE RECEIVED BY MAIL

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA WILL LAUNCH CORRESPONDENCE
COURSES NEXT YEAR

THOSE WISHING TO TAKE ADVAN-TAGE OF THIS OPPORTUNITY
SHOULD WRITE AT ONCE

Anyone who lives within reach of a postoffice or a rural mail delivery route may now become a student of the University of California.

Plans have just been announced for a new Correspondence Instruction Department. This means that without leaving home, and without giving up means of livelihood, any man or woman may have a course in the University of California in practically any subject desired. There are no entrance examinations, no barriers against those whose early schooling was limited. College graduates and those who graduated only from a "district school" can both find profit, according to their own personal interests and needs. The correspondence teaching will be done by professors and instructors who teach the same special subjects to students at Berkeley, and the work will be thorough and real.

This new university movement means that every ambitious person has opportunity to equip himself better for his own special occupation, to prepare himself for greater efficiency and greater responsibilities, to freshen and broaden his outlook on life, to enrich his general mental acquisitions and personal culture.

Everyone who wants to be a correspondence student is asked by the University to write at once to the Correspondence Instruction Department and to tell what he wants to study. Actual teaching by mail will begin with the opening of the new university year, next August. Meanwhile the university is corresponding with prospective students, in order to find out what subjects will be most in demand and in order to plan courses, teachers, and work to meet real desires and needs.

Two or three hours a week available for such study will make it worth a student's while to undertake a University of California correspondence course. Those with more time to use can do more work and progress faster, but no one need lose the chance because of lack of time. There is no one who could not find two or three hours a week to better his education.

The subject chosen, the correspondence student will receive from the university an outline of the first lesson. When he has done the reading, or drawn the drawings, or performed the experiments, or done the field work, or written the paper which the lesson calls for, he will send his answer to the lesson letter, and receive in return a corrected paper and a letter of criticism on his work and of counsel for his guidance, together with the next lesson. Ordinarily 20 lessons will constitute a course, and probably most students will do one lesson every week. The work and reading suggested will be such that there will be opportunity for just as much extra time to be invested as the student may desire. And one course may follow another, on into new fields, and into higher and higher work, just as long as the student wishes. As is the case with the other state universities which have developed correspondence instruction, a nominal fee will be charged, to help defray the cost of this new university undertaking, and to assure the earnestness of the correspondence students, but this fee will be less than is charged by, for instance, the University of Wisconsin, Iowa, or Kansas for such correspondence instruction. Such instruction means that every student has expert guidance, is enabled to make his work count, is saved from misdirected effort, and given the stimulus of friendly interest, aid, and counsel, and of responsibility for the finishing of tasks undertaken.

The machinist can enroll for a course in engineering design, the carpenter for architectural draughting, the steel erector for structural engineering, the engineer for courses in engineering specialties. The factory employe can study chemistry or mechanics. The fruitgrower can study horticulture, the stockman scientific principles of breeding and feeding, the land-owner irrigation, agricultural engineering, or plant-breeding. The physician can acquaint himself with new developments of pathology and bacteriology which have come into practical use since his days in a medical college. The young lawyer can develop his knowledge of some particular field, and prepare himself to be an expert in a legal specialty. The clergyman can study philosophic movements or history or social betterment. The artist may study particular movements in art, or the principles of design, the musician the materials and the history of his art.

The teacher will find opportunity to come abreast of the times in the special subjects he or she is teaching, to have the stimulation of being brought by expert advice into touch with the latest discoveries and freshest contributions of investigators. Or the teacher may prepare to teach new subjects, or may study educational theory and methods. The school principal or superintendent may study educational organization and administration, or principles of school architecture or school hygiene.

The public official may study municipal engineering, in sanitation or road-building or public architecture, or public accounting or municipal efficiency or taxation and public finance. The social worker may study the principles of charities and corrections or health promotion or recreation and playground work or psychology or social economics.

The clerk or business man may study accounting or commercial geography or the materials of commerce or questions of international trade. The young banker can profit by study of actuarial mathematics or economics or financial methods and financial history.

For women, the Correspondence Instruction of the University opens a whole host of opportunities. Mothers may keep themselves intellectual comrades for their children and their husbands, by studying in any field desired. Or women may specialize in domestic science, home-design and domestic art, flower-growing, poultry raising, vegetable gardening, home chemistry, food-selection and preparation, home hygiene, or home economics, including wise methods of planning household budgets and provident use of family income. Young mothers may study the best care of babies and children. Women left with affairs to look after for themselves may study the principles of business and of conservative investment.

In these days when both sexes vote, a special responsibility is on California women to acquaint themselves with the nature, workings, and history of American institutions. Here is opportunity for study of civics, history, and the political problems of city, state, and nation, which every citizen has responsibility toward solving.

To the man or woman interested in modern science, this Correspondence Instruction Department means rich opportunity either to hear what other men have already found out about science or to obtain guidance in studying the open book of nature, and access to the wonderland of plant and animal life, or earth-history and natural happening, which lies in and about every farmhouse or gardenplot.

Then for men and women alike there is the whole field of literature, history, art, economics, sociology, political science, philosophy, and the languages, ancient and modern. A vast number of the correspondence students, undoubtedly, will be those whose primary purpose is to enjoy a richer and fuller life, to drink at the spring of learning, to know the happiness of dealing with the great fundamental intellectual interests of humanity.

These correspondence courses are for everybody. There is no one who can read and write who cannot profit by this university teaching. There is no one so highly educated that he could not make profitable use of the opportunity, in some particular field. Questions of credit for work done are to be settled later on, as policies are decided. It is not expected that college entrance requirements can be met by such preparation.

Just what courses will be given this first year will depend upon comparative demand. So it behooves everyone who wants to go to the University of California by mail to write betimes to the Correspondence Instruction Department and to tell what he wants to study. Only those courses for which there is the greatest call can of course, be given during the coming year, the work being widened hereafter as time goes on.

In thus opening its doors to all the world, the University of California fulfills the real function of the modern state university to offer whatever cooperation and aid it may to all who will harken to opportunity. And in this new work, of so much import to the community, the university speaks the aid of all existing educational agencies—schools, newspapers, churches, libraries—and of all men of good will.

That she may cease being the wife of a bigamist, Mrs. Essie Adams Havens of Huntington Beach has brought suit in the superior court to annul her marriage to Harrison Morton Havens. The complaint was filed this week. The story as recited by the complaint is that on May 10, 1911, the plaintiff was married to the defendant, that at that time Havens had a wife living and undivorced, by name, Lois Worden Havens. For that reason judgment of annulment is asked. The marriage license records show that the license was issued to Miss Adams, aged 17, and Havens, aged 22, Mrs. Viola Adams giving her consent to the marriage of her daughter.

MONTANA MINING REGION RICH IN METALS

HELENA DISTRICT HAS CONTRIBUTED $150,000,000 TO THE WORLD'S WEALTH

GOLD, SILVER AND LEAD IMPOR-TANT MINERALS REPORTED
BY GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

A report recently issued by the United States Geological Survey describes the geology and ore deposits of several of Montana's oldest and best-known camps, which have contributed at least $150,000,000 in gold, silver, and lead to the world's wealth.

The first important find of metallic wealth in Montana was the discovery of placer gold at Bannock in 1862. In the following year the far greater discovery at Alder Gulch was made, and from this stream was taken within the next three years $30,000,000. The extraordinary richness of these placers immediately attracted a large population, and so strong was the influx that within 18 months a town of 10,000 people sprang up, which was named Virginia City. Alder Creek was the longest and most productive creek ever discovered in Montana; 20 miles of stream bed, comprising about 1,000 claims, were worked and yielded a profit at a time when wages were from $10 to $14 a day.

Montana was soon overspread by eager prospectors, and in the next few years all the important placers were discovered. Last Chance, on the present site of Helena, the capital of Montana, was located in the summer of 1864. The Whitlatch-Union vein, carrying rich gold ore, was found a few miles south of Helena in September of the same year. Lode and placer discovery were thus contemporaneous. The finding of gold in place caused a quartz excitement which stimulated prospecting all over the territory.

The Survey report, issued as Bulletin 527, "Ore Deposits of the Helena Mining Region, Montana," by Adolph Knopf, covers an area of 1,300 square miles in southwestern Montana, comprising the southern part of Lewis and Clark county, the northern part of Jefferson county, and the southeastern part of Powell county. It includes the Elkhorn, Marysville, Elliston, Rimini, Helena, Clancy, Wicks, and the Boulder and Basin mining districts.

The Continental Divide, at an average elevation of 7,000 feet, traverses the western part of the area shown on the geologic map which accompanies the report. The highest peak, Red Mountain, 14 miles southwest of Helena, is 8,200 feet above sea level. The region has a considerable and abrupt relief but is characterized by smoothly rounded hills. Boulder River is the largest stream in the region, though Missouri River crosses the extreme northeast corner of the area.

The Helena region is at the north end of what is known as the Boulder batholith, an immense mass of "granite" which was thrust into sedimentary and igneous rocks. The older rocks are mainly limestones, shales, and quartzites, overlain by immense deposits of volcanic flows and breccias. Into this series of rocks, which was at least 6,300 feet thick, the liquid granite rock forced its way upward. The granitoid rock, locally called "granite" but in fact a true quartz monzonite, now underlies the larger part of the Helena mining region. After a considerable time the region was again the site of volcanism and lavas aggregating 2,400 feet in thickness were poured out upon the eroded surface of the older formations.

The ore deposits fall into two distinct groups in point of age. The older deposits, clearly related to the intrusion of the quartz monzonite, are mainly productive of silver-lead and gold-silver ore and have yielded three-fourths of the wealth of the district. These deposits are commonly located near the "granite" contact, either in the "granite" or in the older andesitic rocks. They are replacement lodes carrying galena, sphalerite, pyrite, and arsenopyrite and are commonly associated with heavy black tourmaline. This mineral is associated with the lodes of Cornwall, England. The association of tourmaline with lead-silver ores has never been described before and is in fact most remarkable. Its presence, together with other evidence given in the report, shows that the ores must have been formed at very high temperatures and probably at a considerable depth below the surface.

The younger deposits are closely associated with the latest flows and are essentially precious-metal deposits in fine-grained porcelain-like quartz and calcite. These veins were exceptionally rich at the surface but are barren at depths greater than 1,000 feet. Many details of the mines and a discussion of the remarkable tourmaline lead-silver deposits are included in the report, Bulletin 527, which can be obtained free by addressing a request to the Director, U. S. Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

SEEKS TO RECOVER BRIDGE DAMAGES

County of Orange Files Suit Against Guardian Casualty & Guaranty Co.

Suit was filed last week by the County of Orange against R. L. Hogue and the Guardian Casualty & Guaranty Co., to recover the sum of $11,585.28, being the difference in the cost of the new reinforced concrete bridge across the Santa Ana river on West Fifth street at Santa Ana, and the amount of the bid for the work submitted by Hogue and accepted by the supervisors August 6, 1912, and for the satisfactory completion of which the Guardian Casualty & Guaranty Co. gave a bond in the sum of $4,500.

When Hogue failed to begin work the Casualty company was notified and later informed the supervisors that it had secured an assignment of the contract from Hogue, but failed to begin the work, and then the supervisors went on and had the work done, the cost of construction being $11,585.28 more than the amount of Hogue's bid.

Now the county is suing to recover on the bond and for a second cause of action asks the court to compel the surety company to make good the discrepancy between what the work cost and the amount of the original bid.

CHANGES MADE IN STATE GAME LAWS

Amateur Fishermen Under 18 Must Pay $1 a Year License

Many changes have been made in the fish and game laws, most of them pertaining to changed seasons and reduced limits. It is now up to Governor Johnson to say which of these will become laws.

To the hunters' license of $1.00 per year, which yields $15,000 annually, has been added a law requiring all amateur fishermen under 18 years of age to pay $1 a year for a license. Fishermen for profit are taxed $10 a year.

New features have been added to the hunting license law. Boys under 15 years can get a license for 25 cents. No aliens who have been in the state less than 30 days can get a license to hunt.

Assemblyman Bagby's bill reduces the limits on ducks from 25 a day and 50 a week to 15 a day and 30 a week. The long battle over non-sale bill, which was the prime measure of the sportsmen, allows wild ducks to be on sale only from November 1 to December 1. Wild geese and rabbits may be sold, but no other protected game.

Valley quail has been lowered from 20 a day and 140 a week to 15 a day and 30 a week. Other daily limits are 10 mountain quail, 20 doves and four grouse.

Game districts have been increased from six to seven so that Inyo, Mono and Alpine on the Nevada side of the Sierras are a district alone. Santa Barbara is moved from fifth to sixth, and Humboldt and Del Norte from the first to the second. The boundary between districts four and five is moved to the center line of the San Joaquin valley from the summit of the coast range.

Under the new law the open season on ducks in districts one and six will be October 1 to March 1—two weeks longer than now. In the other districts it will be October 1 to February 15.

The deer season will be open in districts one and three between August 15 and October 15. It now runs to October 30. In two and five it will be August 1 to October 1 and in four and seven, September 1 to November 1.

The trout season in districts one and four is extended from November 1 to November 30. It opens April 1. Black spotted trout in district three are reduced in limit from 50 to 20.

At present steel-head may be taken in the winter with nets in tidewater. The new law forbids taking by nets. The season closes December 1 instead of November 1 above tidewater. In tidewater the season closes December 31. It opens for April 1. Steel-head under one pound cannot be sold.

During the closed season salmon may be taken not to exceed three a day by line or spear. The crab season, now closed from November 1 to March 1, has been changed so that it will close from only August 1 to November 1. Crabs are said to be best for eating in the winter months.

All protection has been removed from rabbits after August 1. Cottontails heretofore have been protected.

One important law for the protection of fish and game makes it illegal to dump oil or any oil residue or products on any waters of the state.

The Placentia Presbyterian church has petitioned for permission to mortgage its property at Placentia, $1,500 to the Board of Church Extension fund on the church debt and $1,000 for the building of a parsonage. The hearing of the petition is set for June 13.

SOUTHERN COUNTIES TURN DOWN FAIR TAX

Demand to Be Made Upon Exposition
For Exhibit Rooms in Building

Standing firm in their position that no further taxes in Southern California should be levied for the 1915 exposition, the Southern California Panama Pacific Exposition Commission this week drafted resolutions demanding that out of the $5,000,000 already voted by the state for fair purposes there shall be erected a state building in which the counties shall have free space for their exhibits.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted by representatives of Los Angeles, Ventura, San Bernardino, Riverside, Imperial, San Diego and Orange counties, who met in Los Angeles. The resolutions were forwarded to the State Fair Commission having charge of the expenditure of the $5,000,000.

Copies were also sent to Governor Johnson, who is said to be in sympathy with the attitude taken; to the Panama-Pacific International Exposition Company and to the State Expositions Commission, besides the Boards of Supervisors of the State.

AN EASY VICTORY WON BY LOCALS ON SUNDAY

CATHEDRAL TEAM IS DEFEATED
IN A GAME REplete WITH COSTLY ERRORS

FRED GERKEN "COMES BACK,"
MAKES FOUR HITS, THREE RUNS AND SOME ETCETRAS

The Cathedral aggregation of ball players, of Los Angeles, is considered a pretty fair team. In fact it is considered one of the city's best amateur nines and recently made the Olin-das look like 30 cents which, in the judgment of Anaheim fans, is going some and acquiring a reputation.

But Sunday appeared to be an off day for them and by reason of an accumulation of errors they emerged at the tail end of a 7-to-5 game on the local diamond.

The game was a slugfest from the first to the ninth inning. Both Pickens and Abbott were hit frequently, Abbott being touched for 13 hits and Pickens for 10.

The slugging began in the very first inning. The first three visitors to have a try with the stick went out in one, two, three order, but each connected with the ball, the first going out on a pop foul to Callon and the other two being thrown out at first. In Anaheim's half Evans hit safely for first, Gerken followed with a short drive to second base, forcing Evans out. Gerken then promptly stole second and demonstrated that Salveson's wing was too weak to throw the ball to that corner. After that a single or a walk was always good for the second station and no runner was too timid to take advantage of it. Callon followed with a single and trotted to second on the next ball, Gerken having drifted out to third. Bourne's little hit was a sacrifice, putting him out at first, but Fred scored on it. Staats grounded to short and went out at first.

Huntington walked in the second and was advanced by Salveson's bunt and Pickens' single. Gerken came after with another hit scoring Huntington, but Callon's went into dangerous territory and resulted in a double play, Gerken and himself being thrown out. Another run was scored in the fifth on Gerken's single, his stolen base and Callon's long drive into center for two bags. The sixth, seventh and eighth each yielded a run, the sixth on Pickens' single, Evans' pass and Gerken's hit, scoring Pickens, in the seventh on hits by Staats and Huntington and Pickens' fly to right field sending Staats home, in the eighth by reason of Gerken's walk and Callon's out to center field.

At the beginning of the ninth the score was 7 to 3 and it looked like it was all over but the cheering, but there came a time before the last man was out when the crowd began to sit up and look doubtful. Eight men faced Pickens in this inning and he permitted each man to swat the ball. It came to a point where after two men had scored there were still three on bases and only one out. Some of the fans turned pale but a little fly into the short stop's mit relieved the tension somewhat. The next man drove the ball down to Evans in left field, however, and the agony was over.

Fred Gerken, who has been in bad with the fans lately owing to a couple of wild plays, redeemed himself Sunday and stored up a little surplus reputation for future use if it is needed. In five times at the bat he got four hits and a walk. He made three of the seven runs and his hits were responsible for two more.

Ten hits were chalked up against Pickens and 13 against Abbott. Pickens' spit ball, however, was responsible for nine strike-outs, while Abbott only retired four men.

Rex Badley umpired the game.

POSTAL CLERKS FOUND GUILTY

Ernest W. Schmedes, Frederick O. Bennett and Frederick E. Green, former San Diego postoffice clerks, have been convicted by a jury in the United States district court on the charge of opening a letter mailed in the San Diego office and addressed to Congressman Smith, at Washington. They were sentenced by Judge Wellborn to three months each in the San Diego county jail. The letter opened contained affidavits by employees of the San Diego office, denying the charges made against Postmaster Bartholomew that he was unfit to hold office.

J. W. Duckworth this week sold the east half of his lot on Broadway near Lemon, 70-foot frontage and extending 360 feet to Elm street, to Louis Miller for $4,000. Mr. Duckworth some time ago sold the west half of the lot to John Ziegler for $3,500. In part payment for the Louis Miller trade, he takes a lot on Alberta street.

FREE RAW SUGAR MENACES LOCAL FARMERS

NOT A SINGLE NEW FACTORY
PROJECTED IN COUNTRY
THIS YEAR

LOS ALAMITOS GROWER GIVES FORCIBLE IDEAS ON SUBJECT

Editor Gazette: Not a single new sugar factory projected for next year in the United States.

Has it been decreed by the Czar of these United States, that the domestic sugar industry shall die?

Is it true that it is futile to protest? Contrast the above "progressivism" with the conditions relating to the beet sugar industry in the dominions of the "Czar of all the Russias." Ordinarily we would not go to Russia for ideas but note these facts.

Russia's production of raw sugar from 1905 to 1912 increased from 591,000 to 2,080,000 tons. The government is doing everything possible to further encourage beet culture, and on March 4th of this year a law was enacted whereby government aid is assured and facilities granted for the extension of beet culture and the building of new factories, 30 or 35 new projects being on foot there and press reports state that 7 or 8 of them are now in process of building.

The minister of agriculture in Russia maintains an institute for agricultural research work presided over by Dr. Frankfourth, one of their greatest agriculturists.

For the express purpose of fostering the industry, on a certain date, the domestic price of sugar was fixed by law at $7.18 per hundred for consumption by their 150,000,000 people, the export price for their surplus being at the same time $2.42 per cwt.

Russia's future sugar industry is assured and she has awakened to the fact that she has billions of dollars to gain in the increased yield of other crops by extending her beet acreage—her thinking and scientific men are alive to these possibilities and her government officials are extending every possible aid to the sugar manufacturers. Should the duty on sugar be greatly reduced or altogether removed, thus destroying the home sugar industry here, it is Russia and not Germany which would run Cuba its closest race for the extra market thus opened up.

In other words, considering the high prices obtained in Russia from her 150,000,000 people for the sugar consumed in Russia, the factories were able to throw all they did not consume at the heads of foreign powers at a great loss—that loss being only apparent—for their average profit was considerable.

This is what cheap labor will bring about (the daily wage of men there being 24.9 cents working from 5 or 6 A. M. to 10 or 11 P. M.) coupled with encouragement from a government alive to the needs of their agriculturists.

To the well informed American public it is unnecessary to go into detail quoting a great array of statistics to bring out what is so well known, that in the infamous Underwood bill now before the senate, no effort has been spared and much ingenuity has been employed to not only break down our manufactures but to ruin as well, every agricultural industry of these United States.

This is being done by Leader Underwood from Alabama and Representative Thomas W. Hardwick, of Georgia. Mr. Hardwick says he believes the reduction of tariff on sugar will put the Louisiana-Texas cane sugar people out of business and the beet sugar men "must root hog or die."

Leader Underwood says: "The refining interest is most important feature connected with sugar manufacture in the United States. Therefore the industrial position of refining requires primary consideration."

Thus the washing of the dirt out of 96 degree raw sugar purchased in the tropics at a cost of $6.72 per ton including labor and all materials, is put against the production of beets from our soil and the manufacture of beet sugar, which puts into circulation in our midst, 7 to 10 times as much money value before the beets leave the farmers' field.

Conditions in Representative Hardwick's home state have led H. G. Hastings of Atlanta, to give the following startling statement under the head of an "Idiotic Economic Situation" as to the production of the money crop in Georgia last year and of the farm products that were imported into Georgia from other states.

Grown in Georgia and sold $135,000,000 worth of cotton and cotton seed.

Grown elsewhere and sold in Georgia of corn, hay, oats; meat, etc., $172,496,000. Therefore these items of food for man and beast cost $37,496,000 more alum powder:

67 3/4 Per Cent. Digested

These tests, which are absolutely reliable and unprejudiced, make plain a fact of great importance to everyone: Food raised with Royal, a cream of tartar Baking Powder, is shown to be entirely digestible, while the alum and phosphate powders are found to largely retard the digestion of the food made from them.

Undigested food is not only wasted food, but it is the source of very many bodily ailments.

than the cotton brought and the comment is made that it all could have been raised in Georgia. Also the question is asked why wasn't it done?

And Mr. Underwood, Mr. Hardwick and Woodrow Wilson would have Uncle Sam, regarding all his farm products, repeat the colossal blunder of Georgia, under free trade, and particularly in regard to sugar, by not only continuing to pay to other countries the $100,000,000 of the people's money for their sugar as is now being done, but also giving to foreigners, when the domestic industry is broken down, the whole value of the $400,000,000 worth of sugar which our people consume, instead of growing at home the raw material for white sugar made in a white man's country with labor paid a white man's wages. No effort is made to show how it is that the "washee" man's cane refining interest "is the most important," but here are some of the facts already admitted by the refiners: The cane melter takes raw sugar produced by peons and coolies testing 96 degrees and launders it. The sugar is all contained therein when he gets the dirty stuff from the tropics—hence he produces nothing. The only addition of value by the process, is what the ordinary laundryman adds to the value of your dirty shirt, simply a labor increase in value. Obviously the shirt is worth more clean than dirty, by just the cost to cleanse it, or say, 10 cents.

Now what is the laundry cost of cleaning peon produced tropical raws, of 96 degree sugar? Refiners say that this cost including labor and materials does not exceed $6.72 per ton or about one-third of a cent per pound.

On the other hand beet sugar is first and last a home product from raw material produced at full American wages from our own soil and on every ton of sugar made from American beets, there is distributed for the beets plus labor and supplies, more than 10 times as much, or say $75 per ton of sugar, and furthermore, that $75 stays at home, no part of it being sent to foreign lands for raw material, labor or supplies.

The above certainly makes it look as though the influence of F. C. Lowry, of the Federal Sugar Refining Company, had its scope, captured along with the other congressmen, Mr. Underwood.

The openly avowed ultimate object is to throttle the production, manufacture and sale of American produced sugar, either beet or cane. An attempt is made under the guise of tariff reduction, to recruit from the ranks of Congress, a sufficient number of members who are willing to attempt to make it appear to the people that it is better to send money to the tropics to pay coolie labor than to employ American labor and raise sugar beets and cane from our own soil.

More recently the attempt is being made to drag President Wilson into the conspiracy.

Thus it will be seen that the bold attempt is made to utilize the whole government machinery in the interests of the coterie of Wall Street cane sugar refiners, and not primarily for the benefit of the dear people as alleged.

By the help of the president and an overwhelming majority vote, the house has passed the infamous free sugar bill.

The people are now looking on with amazement to learn of its fate in the senate.

Can it be possible that this conservative body will allow themselves to be hoodwinked and unwillingly made the tools of the traitorous band who would deliver over to foreign interests in toto this promising industry?

Suff- Ring Kats!

They are now passing around the konundrum—"Should the wife be paid a salary?" and all the wise guys from Rabbit's Foot to Crow's Nest are talking a fall out of it. Blamed if I know what to say about that. Wife gets mine now and I guess she doesn't want any other fellow's so far as I am informed.

Well, it's a wise woman who knows her own meal ticket and a wise man who takes his pay envelope home on Saturday nights. What more do the women want of us? If you want any good seasoned lumber now, before prices advance, see the people I work for. This is a straight tip and costs you nothing.
