ASK TRUSTEES FOR SPECIAL TAX LEVY

BOARD OF TRADE WANTS $2,000 FOR ADVERTISING PURPOSES ON SPECIAL TRAIN

RINGING RESOLUTION PROTESTING AGAINST EXPERIMENT STATION AT SAN FERNANDO

Much oratory was heard at the meeting of the board of trade Monday evening, most of it being turned loose by Messrs. Grafton and Wagner, who are endeavoring to promote interest in the advertising train which it is proposed to send throughout the east displaying products of California and scattering descriptive literature. This scheme of advertising California was suggested by the Crafton Publishing Company to the San Diego exposition publicity bureau and was endorsed by that body as the best of the thousands of advertising propositions presented. It is proposed to send a train loaded with the products of California on a transcontinental trip. It will travel 11,000 miles, visit 27 states, and stop at 1,350 cities. Accompanying the train will be a personal representative of the governor, and a representative from each end of the state. These gentlemen will look after the social end of the expedition, will hold receptions, visit, and interest officials, state, county and municipal, in the exhibit. A publicity committee will distribute the literature, give interviews and arrange matters for publication in the newspapers of the various towns and cities through which the train passes.

The plan is an elaborate one and costs money, therefore these gentlemen are on the road now endeavoring to finance it by persuading counties and cities to take space in publications which will be issued. This matter was explained to the board of trade a few weeks ago but was side-stepped because of lack of funds, but Mr. Grafton, talked to better purpose Monday night as a motion picture of the train was shown to raise $2,000 for financing the plan by a special tax levy prevailed and the advertising committee was instructed to present it to the trustees. Also an effort will be made to raise another $2,000 in Anaheim and its surrounding country by private subscription. This money is to pay for a pamphlet descriptive of Orange county which, Mr. Grafton says, has the hearty endorsement of the board of supervisors. Each supervisor district will have equal space in the book, 250,000 copies of which will be printed if the full sum of money required is subscribed. The matter for each section will be prepared by its own representatives; consequently each is promised a square deal, and the board of trade is being asked to endorse the plan.

Trustee Stark expressed the opinion that it was too late for the board to take action on a special tax levy this year, but the committee will present the matter to the body tonight.

That the matter of selecting a state citrus experiment station site was still in abeyance, and that San Fernando had not yet picked the plum notwithstanding its endorsement by commission appointed for that purpose, was evidenced by a letter from the board of regents of the State University acknowledging receipt of the protests against locating the station in an unsuitable place, and stating that the matter had been placed in the hands of a special committee for future action. J. F. Ahlborn therefore introduced the following resolution which was adopted with enthusiasm:

"To the Board of Regents, University of California, Berkeley, Cal.

"Whereas, The sum of $50,000 was set aside by the last session of the legislature of the State of California for the purpose of purchasing with said sum a suitable site containing not less than 200 acres within the citrus belt of Southern California, said site to be used in establishing thereon an experimental farm for the protection of the orange and walnut industry, and

"Whereas, A commission was appointed to carefully select a suitable site of 200 acres for the proposed citrus station and experimental farm, and

"Whereas, Said honorable commission found upon careful investigation that no suitable site of 200 acres can now be purchased within the territory where the culture of oranges and walnuts has been successfully demonstrated for the sum of $50,000, and

"Whereas, Said honorable commission did not find it advisable to spend the $50,000 or any part thereof for the 15 different sites offered, but accepted a site of 200 acres within the San Fernando Valley, which site was offered free of charge to said honorable commission, and

"Whereas, A great many protests have been voiced by orange growers throughout Southern California against the selection of this site for the proposed experimental farm for the reason that the site is located outside of the demonstrated territory for citrus and walnut culture, which fact is also admitted in a resolution of the honorable city council of the city of Los Angeles, wherein is quoted from the statistics of the Citrus Protective League of California, placing said lands in the San Fernando Valley in the category of "undeveloped citrus lands," and

"Whereas, The value of the citrus industry has now reached the vast sum of $50,000,000 per annum and with the trees now planted, will reach the sum of approximately $100,000,000 within the next ten years exclusive of the great walnut industry which amounts to $4,000,000 additional, and

"Whereas, This proposed experimental farm is for the protection of these industries and further development of same, and

"Whereas, The sum of $50,000 is wholly inadequate to purchase a choice site in the demonstrated territory of the citrus and walnut belt, be it therefore

"Resolved, That the honorable board of regents be hereby petitioned to delay the acceptance of a site until after the next session of the legislature; be it further

"Resolved, That all civic bodies, orange growers and walnut growers' associations be requested to do everything within their power to have the next session of the legislature appropriate a sufficient sum of money for the purpose of purchasing therewith a suitable site in the choice locality of the successfully demonstrated territory of the citrus and walnut district of Southern California."

Hundreds of protests against the San Fernando site were filed at the regents and that august body deemed it prudent to make an investigation before accepting a possibly unsuitable site because it was a free gift. Anaheim may not land the station but there is still a chance that it may be located in proven territory where it can give the best service to the great citrus industry.

Chairman Adams of the advertising committee reported that all necessary steps had been taken in preparation for the moving picture reel to be made on Anaheim's streets Saturday. Much interest is being taken in the matter and a successful picture is expected. Everybody is expected to be present, and the streets will undoubtedly be congested on that day.

The question of a roadway between this city and Fullerton while the highway is torn up during paving operations was up for consideration. The automobile club has already posted notices directing motorists to turn to the right and travel out East street, but many of them fail to see the signs and are compelled to turn back. The public improvements committee, with Chairman Mills added, was directed to get busy and supplement the actions of the club. Street Commissioner Sackett is also assisting on the job.

A week of carnival to be known as "Pioneer Week," was suggested and met with approval of the members present. It will be held in September, probably the first week, and a street fair will be one of the attractions. Celebration of the founding of the Mother Colony is the foundation for this week of festivities, and it is proposed to make it the biggest thing ever seen in Anaheim.

SEVERELY BRUISED UNDER AUTO WHEELS

G. L. Thomas, a Sugar Factory Employee, Knocked Down Saturday

G. L. Thomas was standing near the corner of Center and Los Angeles streets Saturday afternoon, watching the progress of work on the new German American bank building. He was in the street as the sidewalk and a portion of the thoroughfare is fenced off and littered with building material. P. Gildea, driving an automobile, turned the corner, driving slowly. His car struck a pile of sand, swerving a little and Thomas, who was absorbed in contemplation of the work, failed to notice the approaching car, was knocked down and run over, being dragged several feet.

Thomas was extricated from his position beneath the auto, lifted inside and driven to the sanitarium by Mr. Gildea, where he was examined by physicians. It was found that his injuries were not of a serious nature. No bones were broken, but he sustained several severe bruises and cuts which are sufficient to place him on the invalid list for some time. Thomas is an employee of the sugar factory.

Witnesses say the driver of the car was not to blame for the accident, and Thomas, it is said, exonerates Mr. Gildea.

ADVERTISED LETTERS

Mrs. Lola Bark, L. Coppers, Mrs. G. J. Hanson, C. Kimura, Reyes Morales, Mrs. Marie Morales, J. T. Peyton, Earl Peterson, Anjelita Silva, Geo. Seville, F. M. Smith, Corine Trocenne, Mrs. J. C. Walker, J. O. Walker.

The road between this city and Fullerton has been torn up by pavers and is almost impassable. The best road for those traveling north is to turn east on Center street, proceed to Kroeger's corner, about a quarter of a mile east of the Santa Fe tracks, and there turn to the north. Proceed on this road to the first paved road, and then turn west on that. This road will lead into Fullerton.

Mrs. B. S. Comstock and daughter are spending a week or two at Long Beach.

MACHINERY ON GROUND FOR FACTORY

UNIVERSAL TIRE COMPANY PREPARING TO BEGIN WORK IN ITS NEW PLANT

WILL TURN OUT ONE HUNDRED WHEELS PER DAY AND EMPLOY 200 PEOPLE

Already machinery has begun to arrive and is being dumped into the plant of the Universal Tire Company, formerly the Dreyfus winery, in the southwest corner of the city. Nearly twenty thousand tons now litter the floors, and ten thousand tons more is en route from the east. As soon as Mayor Cook gets the last of his hay crop out of the big building, and a few needed repairs are made, work of installing the machinery and preparing for the manufacture of tires will begin. It is impossible at present to fix upon a definite date for opening the plant, but officials of the company think that within three months it will be in actual operation.

The building is in excellent condition and few repairs are needed except replacing the several hundred, or several thousand window panes that have been lost during the thirty or more years it has lain idle. The thick walls are as solid as in the days of its youth, the flooring and roof are as good as new, and it stands as a monument to the efficiency of the men who built it a third of a century ago. The building is 80x204 feet in dimensions and three stories in height. It contains therefore 48,960 square feet of floor space, and being well lighted is admirably fitted for the home of the factory. The basement floor is of sand but will probably be cemented and the vast room used principally as a warehouse.

The machinery to be first installed will have a capacity of turning out one hundred tires per day. This will be added to the durability of ordinary steel. It is the intention of the directors to fill the building to its capacity and manufacture five hundred wheels per day. It is estimated that the building is large enough for such an output.

The neighborhood of 200 men will be employed in the beginning, and the officials are confident that a force of 500 will be required within a year from the beginning of operations.

President Holdaway, while in the east some weeks ago, contracted with the Crechable Steel Works of Jersey City, N. J., to supply the steel required in the manufacture of the tire. This steel is called Vanadium, is made under a special process, and tests show that it has several times the strength and durability of ordinary steel. The rubber will be purchased in the open markets as needs require.

Messrs. B. J. Anderson and D. O. Mackay, stockholders and salesmen of the company, were in town Thursday from Los Angeles in the interests of the tire. They were driving a Studebaker in which was attached a Universal wheel. It fulfilled all the extravagant expectations of the builders. There are many wheels that have been in constant use for weeks, and all are still in perfect order. Only two breaks have been made in the many severe tests to which the wheel has been subjected, and those were in the first manufactured when faulty steel was used in the construction. It is claimed that with the superior steel which will be used a tire on ordinary roads should average thirty thousand miles.

The Universal Company will manufacture the Holdaway non-puncturable tire. This is claimed to be the only tire patented today as impervious to puncture. It is constructed of a number of steel wires embedded in wood pulp, fitted into a solid rubber outer tire. This is clamped onto the rim of the wheel with an air chamber between sufficient to allow for the resilience of the spring. There is no inflated tube to blow out and cause expense, delays and possible disaster to the owner, as a puncture would have no effect on the tire. Aside from its economy it will prevent accidents and annoyance, and will do away with the necessity of carrying extra tires. It is also claimed that it is easier riding than the old tire. It has been thoroughly tested over rough and uncertain roads, and has always come out triumphant, even exceeding the claims of the inventor.

The manufacture of automobile tires is one of the greatest industries in the United States. The sales in California alone amount to almost $20,000,000 per annum, and experts who examined this tire declare that it ought to revolutionize the system. At any rate the directors expect to secure a generous slice of this business.

TWO JAIL SENTENCES IMPOSED BY COURT

Unpaid Board Bill and a Common Vag Make Business For Recorder

Hernandez Secaria was tried in Judge Howard's court Monday on the charge of neglecting to pay a board bill. The charge was preferred by Martin Guerra, who conducts a boarding house in the sugar factory region.

Guerra claimed that Secaria owed him $22 and refused to pay the same but Secaria declared that the bill was padded to the extent of $6, the correct amount, which he confessed he owed, being $16. After hearing both sides the court decided to reject both statements and make a bill of his own. He gave judgment against Secaria for $20 and sentenced him to jail for 60 days unless the judgment is paid. A number of his friends were on hand and made an effort to raise the money and rescue him from jail but failed.

Heinrich Jarabak was also in court, charged with vagrancy. His case was a clear one, without extenuating circumstances, and he was handed a 30-day sentence.

CAT EATS TURK, HEAD SHOT OFF

Mysterious Disappearance of Barnyard Fowls Explained

A gentleman living in the eastern part of town who is devoting some attention to raising chickens and turkeys has lately noticed that his young turks and peeps have been mysteriously disappearing, one or more each day. Some ten weeks ago one of his prize chicks brought off a dozen thoroughbred young turks, and although these were given the most careful attention they disappeared one by one until the flock was reduced to four. The young birds are at present twice the size of a pigeon and are objects of especial admiration on the part of their owner. On Sunday afternoon, after calling upon another gentleman who also raises chickens, but has not yet amassed the nerve to try turkeys, and speaking of the disappearance of his birds and saying he had reached the conclusion that it was cats, he returned to his home to find a strange cat, which was engaged in making a feast upon it. He stepped into his residence, procured a shotgun, and blew the cat's head off. Knowing that another predator, pre-liminary feline quadruped had been roaming about the neighborhood without visible means of support, he took a target rifle and went in search of it. He located it on top of a haystack, and placing the rifle at its head, was about to blow it to atoms, when the cat, awakening, made a desperate dash at escape. The rifle was there with the goods, and a ball entered its head. Score, 2 shots, 2 cats. The following day he counted his little birds and they all answered present.

DIGS FROM UNDER OVERTURNED AUTO

Henry and Charles Shafer Have Mishap in Canyon Sunday

Henry Shafer of this city and his brother Charles, of Santa Ana, had a mishap Sunday which came near proving serious. The two men were in an automobile in Santiago Canyon, and were turning around when the steering gear loosened. They went to find a seven-foot embankment, and turned turtle. The only reason the two men were not crushed to death instantly was that a root of a tree held a part of the weight of the machine. Charles was able to use his hands and succeeded in reaching a hayrack enough soil to free himself from the machine. He was uninjured but Henry was still pinned down. Charles succeeded in extricating him and it was found that he had sustained two broken ribs and other injuries of a minor nature.

Henry Shafer was taken to the Santa Ana hospital, arriving there about 10 o'clock. Shafer's attending physician, Dr. Ball, said this morning that the patient was resting easily in spite of a severe pain in the right side. The accident was caused by a defective steering gear.

HORSES FRIGHTENED AT PASSING HANDCAR

Bob McKee Unloads Carload of Hay, His Team of Horses Make Break For Liberty

As Bob McKee was unloading a carload of hay at the Santa Fe depot on Saturday morning, his team of horses, which stood in the yard beside the car, took fright at a passing handcar, and stampeded. The horses were headed south and while Bob was busily engaged in getting a neckhold upon the hay in the car, they wheeled about and started on a run for Center street. They headed north on Orange street, and at North street collided with a telegraph pole. The wagon remained lodged against the pole, while the horses, freeing themselves from the vehicle, turned west on North street and made their way to town on Emily street. They were near the city hall and fastened to a hitching rack. Bob came up after them in a few moments, having made the mile run after them in record time. The wagon escaped almost without injury, but Bob had to go down in his jeans for a new set of double harness. He got the hay out of the car in time to escape paying the railroad company demurrage. He bought it at San Bernardino at $15 per ton, and says it is the finest hay he ever saw.

TELEPHONE MEN HEAR OF POOR SERVICE

MR. LYNCH, HOLDS INTERVIEW WITH SUBSCRIBERS, HEARS MANY COMPLAINTS

PROMISES BETTER SERVICE WHICH HE IS INFORMED PEOPLE WILL INSIST UPON

J. A. Lynch, of Los Angeles, who travels about with the high sounding title of district commercial agent of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company, and E. S. Morrow, manager of the company at Santa Ana, were in town this week interviewing a number of their patrons relative to the bum service put up to the subscribers here by their company. Mr. Lynch was given a plenty of tangible evidence in a brief interview that subscribers to the Pacific system in this city were upon the point of ordering out their phones for the reason that the company's long distance service is characterized by such inferiority that many of its subscribers never use its line for long distance telephoning. A number of them who have Pacific phones in their residences or places of business go to the central station of the Home company to do their out-of-town telephoning. He was also informed of the wretched service of his company along other lines, and promised to take the matter up and rectify the evil at the earliest possible moment. These criticisms were made to him in friendly spirit, and he was informed the reasons for these strictures were made in the opinion that he should be fully informed concerning them. He admitted that the agreement of his company to give this city better long distance telephone facilities had been lived up to only in part, and he said he would at once see to it that the agreement was lived up to in every detail.

As is well known the Pacific system operates all long distance telephone business from this city by way of Fullerton. Thus a subscriber here desiring Los Angeles calls central and after a lapse of some time gets long distance at Fullerton. Long distance calls Los Angeles, for instance, and after securing the party with whom one wishes to converse, Los Angeles calls Fullerton; then Fullerton calls this city, and after the lapse of an unconscionable length of time, connection is finally made—sometimes. Frequently it is necessary to call up long distance again regarding the message, and sometimes an hour or more elapses before connection is finally made. This, Mr. Lynch had pointed out to him, was not good service, and he was informed by one gentleman that unless better service were given subscribers in this city many phones would be ordered out. He was told that this incorrect connection of his company would begin at once, but on his statement that he would rectify the evil, although he could not do so this week, because his superior official was absent in San Francisco, a brief respite was granted him. He was assured, however, that unless rectification was immediately made, and that unless his company's long distance telephoning would be operated through this city for local subscribers, his phones would be put on the red list. One gentleman informed him that unless better service were given he would promise him that 200 phones would discontinue business relations with his company.

Asked whether it would not be possible to obtain interswitching privileges by subscribers here, as is done in other towns in Orange county which maintain only one system, he failed to give any adequate assurance that this would be done.

FATALLY BURNED BY GASOLINE EXPLOSION

Mrs. Pedro Rocha Receives Injuries Which Cause Death Within a Few Hours

By an explosion of gasoline, Mrs. Rosario Rocha, living on East Cypress street, was fatally burned Friday morning. She was engaged in making preparations for a meal at the time and attempted to hurry the fire by pouring gasoline upon it. The can exploded, scattering flaming gasoline over her, and in an instant her clothing was ablaze. Mrs. Rocha rushed from the house and attempted to reach a hydrant in the yard, but was overcome and fell before she could turn the water on. Her son, a 16-year-old boy, ran to her assistance and attempted to tear the blazing clothing from her body, but was severely burned about the hands. Neighbors finally arrived and succeeded in putting out the fire but not until she received terrible burns.

Physicians who dressed the burns declared that there was little chance of her surviving the severe injuries and the shock but after doing all that could be done to relieve her sufferings, called an ambulance and sent both her and her son to the county hospital. Her husband was working away from home at the time and could not be located.

Mrs. Rocha died at the county hospital Friday evening. She was 34 years of age.

GEN. ROYER CHIEF OF CITIZENS POLICE

National Convention Elects Him Head of Organization in United States

At the annual session of the Citizen's Police Organization, held last week in an eastern city, Gen. J. O. Royer was elected chief, and is now at the head of the order in the United States. A force of 1,000 members was recently organized in Los Angeles for which the general was partly responsible, and he was placed in command by Chief of Police Sebastian. He is a member of the Los Angeles police force, standing on the roll as patrolman No. 312, also a member of Silver Star lodge, Knights of Pythias, which is composed entirely of Los Angeles policemen, being the only K. P. lodge in the world admitting to membership only members of the police force.

Some months ago Gen. Royer offered ten acres of his ranch in the western suburb of Anaheim to Silver Star lodge as a site for the widows and orphans home which the lodge contemplates building. A committee came down, inspected the site, the surroundings and the town and accepted it without hesitation, declaring it to be an ideal location for the home. Plans have now been perfected for the buildings which, it is announced, will cost $125,000, and work will shortly begin on their erection. Only widows and orphans of Silver Star lodge will be admitted, but it is said that this is only a nucleus around which other Pythian homes of a similar character will eventually be built.

JAP BERRY GROWER FINED, SHORT WEIGHT

Offered to Make Good Crate Shortage, But Sealer of Weights Wouldn't

George McPhee, sealer of weights and measures for Orange county, is rapidly getting himself disliked—in certain quarters. McPhee roams about the county, seeing to it that the housewives are not short-weighted by Japanese berry growers. These fellows, who peddle berries, place them in fakes shoulders as ham at high prices and short weight. These gentry have been through this section, and according to report have unloaded many of their so-called hams hereabout. These fellows were arrested and fined at the county seat, and they should have met with similar treatment hereabout. The other day a Jap berry grower drove into Santa Ana with a crate of berries that was under weight. Mr. McPhee confiscated the berries, placed them in cold storage, and swore to a complaint against the son of Nippon. The Jap offered to fill the boxes to standard weight but McPhee was obdurate, and the Jap was fined $5.

WILL CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Popular Young Couple Will Have Been Married 49 Years Next Sunday

Rev. and Mrs. Markle will, on Sunday, celebrate the 49th anniversary of their wedding, which was solemnized at Newark, Ohio, at the close of the Civil War, when the young bridegroom returned from the Atlanta campaign to claim as his bride the young lady with whom he had fallen in love before the outbreak of hostilities. That she did not marry a handsome man during the bridegroom's absence at the front is due to the fact that there was not a handsome man in all the state, nor is there now. The worthy couple look confidently forward to celebrating their golden wedding anniversary next year. They have the esteem and high regard of all their friends and neighbors, who wish for the young couple many more years of happiness and prosperity in their wedded life.

Marco Hellman of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Los Angeles, was in town on Friday attending a meeting of directors of the Anaheim National Bank. Mr. Hellman is a director of this sterling financial institution, and is connected with 21 banks in the state, some of them the largest financial institutions in the west. He spoke in high terms of praise of progress made by the Anaheim National, and said its standing was abreast of the foremost financial institutions of the Southland. The bank declared its usual semi-annual 4 per cent dividend.

Rev. and Mrs. David Todd Gillmor, of St. Michael's Episcopal church, will spend the months of July and August at La Jolla-by-the-Sea, where a thorough rest will be enjoyed. During the pastor's absence services at the church will be in charge of Rev. J. H. Camp.

RIVER OVERFLOW HEARING SET FOR JULY 21

SUPERVISORS FIX THAT DATE FOR CONSIDERING FORMATION OF PROTECTION DISTRICT

LITTLE OPPOSITION IS BELIEVED TO EXIST INSIDE THE DEFINED BOUNDARY LINES

After considerable work on the part of the committee of the Anaheim board of trade, appointed April 9 for the purpose of defining the boundary lines of a river protection district and securing signatures of property owners favorable to the move, the date for hearing the petition has finally been fixed by the supervisors for Tuesday, July 21, and on that day this question which has been agitated for years and which is so momentous to Anaheim and its surrounding country will for the second time come up for decision before the board of supervisors.

The committee having charge of the work was composed of F. C. Krause, E. A. Day, W. M. Wellman, E. N. Cook and John Bruns. A motion picture representative of the committee appeared before the board and requested a date for a hearing, but were advised to secure more names to their petition before final action was taken upon it. They procured the additional names and again appeared before the supervisors on Tuesday last. The board received the petition and set the date of hearing thirty days ahead, Tuesday, July 21, being the time.

The name of the district petitioned for will be known as the "Anaheim Storm Water District of Orange County." The boundary line begins at the Santa Fe railroad bridge on North street, follows that street east to the Garden Grove road, thence south to the Ball road, thence east to the Ball road, thence north to the Ball road, but it is believed there will be little opposition inside these lines, the committee being careful to eliminate as much as possible all sections hostile to the move. The river bank to be dyked and made overflow proof begins at the railroad bridge and extends to a point three-eighths of a mile below the Olive bridge, being a stretch of one and one-half miles. County Surveyor McBride estimates that the cost of the work will be $15,000, or probably a little more. The supervisors have agreed to pay half of this sum from county funds, the balance to be paid by a tax levy on property in the district. Yorba representatives made an effort to delay the project, claiming that the far up the river as that point, but to do so would mean to incur an additional $100,000 of expense and necessitate taking in additional territory which is known to be opposed to the proposition. Fullerton also endeavored to object strenuously to being incorporated in the district, consequently were left out. Fullerton is practically a unit in opposition to being included, and to stretch the boundary around that town would endanger the plans to make a successful dyke, consequently Anaheim would have to pay for Fullerton's protection should the work be extended to Yorba.

A couple of years ago when the matter was first considered, a petition was presented to the supervisors and a hearing had before that body. The district proposed then contained miles of territory and when the hearing came up such an opposition developed that the cause was overwhelmingly buried. After 1,250 protests had been filed H. G. Ames, representing the petitioners, threw up his hands and acknowledged defeat without further proceedings. It was determined then that a small district should be formed giving Anaheim and its immediate territory, and a hearing had before that body. The district proposed then contained miles of territory and when the hearing came up such an opposition developed that the cause was overwhelmingly buried.

The cost of the bridge is insignificant, being probably less than $10,000 to the district, but much depends upon its construction. The supervisors have made it plain that the new concrete bridge at Olive will not be built until its approaches are amply protected by the formation of this district. The building of the bridge, therefore, hangs upon the decision at the hearing on July 21. If the petitioners are successful work upon the new bridge will begin as speedily as practicable and the old eyecore now spanning the river will pass into history. Furthermore it will prove a connecting link between the interior towns and the beach. The proposed highway will be built and will be the main artery for travelers from Riverside, Redlands, San Bernardino and other eastern towns. Nothing will be done to improve this road until the bridge is built and the bridge will not be erected until it is amply protected.

This time promoters of the project have worked with caution. They learned wisdom from the former defeat and have included in the territory only such as is believed to be favorable.

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH

NOTES FROM THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

COLUMBIAN INDEMNITY BILL WILL FIND MUCH OPPOSITION IN CONGRESS

INTERSTATE TRADE COMMISSION BILL IS SUPPOSED TO BE A SWAT AT TRUSTS

Washington, June 20.—The national capital has been enjoying the delights of early summer, and the breezes have whisked through the "executive tent" in the rear of the White House, where the president and 100,000 people transact the affairs of government, just as though there was nothing unusual about this habit, which for the most part has been heretofore indulged in by only the military branch of our government. Washington politicians are beginning to think a good deal about the elections that are coming along in a few months, and the proud gentlemen who whisk about in their automobiles and live in swell hotels where the high cost of living figures out about as much for a single dinner as a week's board in a local hotel in the interior of the country, are contemplating laying aside the silk hats and dress suits, preparatory to going into store clothes and fedoras, which are more in favor among "the dear people" as election day approaches. There is something very pleasant about this job of being a congressman, and while it may not return as much revenue as the more wealthy men get out of private life, yet being a congressman is about as near heaven as a great many politicians ever expect to get, and therefore re-election is very much desired by the gentlemen now in the saddle.

The house of representatives has of late years been inclined to keep the senate hopper well filled, and now it is passing on to an unwilling senate an interstate trade commission bill, along with the other two trust bills that have the approval of the administration. The main Clayton trust bill prohibits interlocking directorates, regulates holding companies, and restricts immense monopolistic commercial practices. The interstate trade commission bill is in effect an enlargement of the already established bureau of corporations, which is a part of the department of commerce. With the enlargement of this bureau, it will become one of the greatest investigating branches of government that we have, and matters of tariff, including cause and effect, as well as business practices throughout the entire country, are to be comprehensively investigated.

Perhaps the public may know, after having digested all these debates concerning the Panama Canal tolls, whether or not it is a fact that the United States is truckling to England. They may also have discovered the condition of Uncle Sam's national honor, and learned whether it has been kept unsullied. While the Panama Canal matter may have stirred up lots of feeling throughout the country, and have aroused all sorts of sentiment, yet those who allowed themselves to be carried away, threaten to balk at the ratification of the treaty with Colombia, carrying with it reimbursement to the tune of $25,000,000. President Wilson is sure that we should make the "amendable honorable" to Colombia, and send along a draft on the United States treasury, while the opposite viewpoint is that Uncle Sam is being blackmailed. It is plain that there is going to be a beautiful racket before this treaty comes out of the senate of the United States.

Following the enactment of the new tariff bill considerable attention is attracted to the importations of beef and corn from Argentina. Statisticians have figured out that the total imports of beef have been only three and one-half per cent of that of the supply in our own country. The corn shipments have even less when figured in connection with the whole supply. Therefore it has been made clear that the United States farmers are still holding their own, and that Argentina is not a real competitor.

Zentaro Kawie, professor of forestry at the Imperial University of Tokyo, Japan, has been making a tour of the national forests of this country to learn the government's methods of selling timber and of reforestation. The success of the parcel post appears to have impressed the postoffice department with the notion that there are more worlds to conquer, and Mr. Burleson is said to be impatient with anxiety over the fact that the program of the present session of congress has at no time included moving the "central offices" from which 10,000,000 telephones are operated into the sanctuaries of his postmasters throughout the country. Congress realizes that with so many wires in the air the undertaking of government ownership of telephones may be a difficult problem to pull across. The postmaster general refers to the telegraph business as being of a "monopolistic nature," and says it is of "vital importance to the people that it be conducted by unselfish interests." Therefore he would acquire all telegraph and telephone lines. As might have been expected one of the first demands upon Washington in anticipation of government ownership has called for an equalization of rates for telephone service, and it is pointed out that this policy which has been applied to the whole postal system, including the recent acquisition of the parcel post, should receive New York of its average rate of $90 a year for business phones and a similarly high residence rate, and distribute the burden of the cities throughout the country. Quite naturally telephone users in the big cities would welcome a system by which they could "average up" with the greater portion of the country, where $2 a month for business service, and $3 a month for business phones, is the usual rate. The average rate for all phones in New York is $50 a year, while the rate for the entire Bell system is $30.93. Of course New York thinks it is abused—and so do the people of San Francisco, Seattle, Chicago, and all other cities.

England has been "averaging up" since taking over the telephones, with the result that outside of London residence rentals average $38.88, while business phones limited to 1,300 calls cost $43.74. London, Liverpool and metropolitan centers have lower rates in consequence. Independent of the larger issues involved in government ownership there is a good deal of talk among members of congress to the effect that there has already been too much of this sort of business that "equalizes" in favor of the cities at the expense of the rest of the country. And while following the story of rates at home and abroad the student of the question finds that while there are not nearly as many telephones in proportion to population in Europe as in the United States, that there is a good deal more profitably over there because of the inefficient service.

The revised tariff has been in force for more than seven months. The figures available show that since the beginning of last October to the end of last month exports decreased $113,012,555, in comparison with the corresponding period in the previous year. At the same time imports increased $23,625,493. As a result the trade balance for the seven months ended in April was less favorable by $136,638,048 than for the same months in the previous year.

This is a very large shift, but its significance is made more impressive when it is noted that last month alone the alteration in the relation of imports and exports compared with the April figures a year ago converted an export balance of $53,890,849 to an import balance of $10,271,872, a total change of $64,162,721 adverse to the United States.

The recent overwhelming republican vote in Pennsylvania is due to the following democratic acts:

"A tariff that has decreased exportations, increased importation of manufactured articles, a tariff for revenue that has produced a deficiency of revenues; the democratic policy of mud-slinging and domestic and foreign fool attacks on business here and an unintelligible grotesque shuffling harrowing spineless policy as to Mexico."

The dismissal of Union veterans of the Civil War from the Washington city postoffice has brought a storm of criticism on the Wilson administration. Senators and representatives in Congress have taken up the veterans' fight and a thorough investigation is promised. The Hon. Julius Kahn, representative from California, in a recent speech, paid the following beautiful tribute to the living veterans of the Civil War:

"It is well to remember the dead, but let us not forget our duty to the living. And especially to those living soldiers and sailors who, in the years of their youth, were ready to sacrifice their lives, if need be, upon the altar of a united country. Their number is diminishing rapidly. Most of them have lived far beyond man's allotted period of three score years and ten. Comparatively few of them have been able to draw substantial prizes in the lottery of life. This is especially true of the rank and file. Many of them were mere boys when they enlisted. But they had the hearts of men within their breasts. They were ready to perform and often did perform the valorous deeds of bearded men. Their age was not deemed an obstacle to the duty of their country. Their services were welcomed gladly by a great and grateful government. Some of these, after they had grown to man's estate, after they had laid aside the implements of war, after they had been honorably discharged from the military service, decided to serve their country still in its civil service. Just as they had performed their duty faithfully and honestly on the tented field, so they performed their duty faithfully and honestly in the executive department of this government."

"True, they have grown weary and old in that service. Is that a fault? Has old age grown to be a crime? Some men clothed with a little brief authority could make it so. But their actions will be regarded as it should be by the citizens of this government. The proverbial ingratitude of republicans must not apply to these men. The compensation they received while in the heyday of their lives, while in the fullest vigor of their faculties, was not a princely fortune. Many of them had families to rear. Many of them have not been able to save much from their meagre compensation for the almost inevitable rainy day. Some of them have become superannuated. To my mind it is a disgrace that our country that they have been thus thrust out, at an advanced age, on the very threshold of the grave, to fight the battle of life in competition with their fellow men. At best, their years will be few, even if they were totally incapacitated, which they are not, it would be a fitting recognition of their past services to continue them in the public service until they peacefully close their eyes in death."

"The few dollars that will be saved as the result of the discharge of these aged men will be squandered probably in some less deserving cause. But how can you assuage the sorrow, the grief, the pain, that must come to these old veterans when they are told that this great American commonwealth which they helped to save must throw them adrift in their declining days in order to make room for younger men."

ANOTHER ATTRACTION
We of California have finally added to our sum total of wonders a volcano. We have had the wonders of climate, of soil, of mountain heights, of big trees, of glaciers, of stupendous gorges, of cataract, of cloudless sky, of landlocked harbor, of desert sweep have had no wonder. But heretofore we have had the evidence of volcanic eruption in great stretches of lava beds, with strange caves of ice and other manifestations of the mysteries of nature, but the real volcano was lacking. So in preparation for our visitors of fair year, we have a volcano. Mt. Lassen is offered to the world as one of our best attractions.

NO DEFICIENCY IN TAXES OF STATE

More Than Fifteen Million Dollars Is Levy For 1914

That no deficiency of ad valorem tax on the various counties of the state will be levied this year, is the statement made by the state board of equalization in announcing the total of the 1914 state assessment roll.

The total corporation taxes, subject to minor changes upon hearings to be held previous to July 6, when the roll must be turned over to State Controller Chambers, amounts to $13,609,663.94, being the state taxes to be derived from various corporations, public utility and otherwise, upon operative property.

The 1914 total given is an increase of $638,092.14 over the returns of 1913. This is an advance of nearly 5 per cent.

The increase this year is less than one-third of that of last year, when the state legislature raised the corporation rates over the schedule adopted when constitutional amendment No. 1 went into effect.

In addition to the total taxes of $13,609,663 to be secured during the present sixty-sixth fiscal year from the public service and other corporations, the estimated receipts from fees, inheritance taxes, interest on deposits and other state revenues are given at $1,500,000.

This makes a total revenue available of $15,109,663.94.

As the legislature at its fortieth session in 1913 directed that $14,908,900 be raised to run the state during the forthcoming years, the state assessment figures, given by the board of equalization, show that ample funds will thus be provided, and that no ad valorem tax will be required.

In fact, the estimate of $1,500,000 from other sources than corporation taxes is rather low, and the margin is not only safe, but wide.

A JANUS HEADED VICTORY

The administration has kept up to the end its double headed position on the free tolls question, facing one way to get votes from those who are against ship subsidies, and facing another way to get the votes of those who would yield to the president on an issue of loyalty to the power of the president, even at the expense of conceding to England, the shipping policy of the United States have been alike accorded to the presidency.

It is to be hoped that President Wilson will not be disappointed in the bargain he has made.

In the meantime the people of the Pacific Coast will be cut off from a large share of the advantage which they rightfully expected from the completion of the Panama Canal. Instead of finding that the nation has built this canal to improve the shipping advantage of the United States, it finds that the work has been done for the benefit of foreign powers and that the people of the United States, who carry the burden of the half billion dollar debt, will derive no benefit except such as is merely incidental to the general shipping advantage of the whole world.

WORK ON STATE HIGHWAY

Three million dollars' worth of the state highway bonds were sold by the state highway commission. Proceeds of this sale are to be used to cover contracts under way and to be let by the state highway commission during the coming month. Ten millions of dollars' worth of these bonds have been sold, and these with the amount disposed of, this leaves but five millions to be sold.

According to the reports between 500 and 600 miles of this road have been completed along the two main trunk lines.

SHORT WEIGHT BUTTER

George McPhee, county sealer of weights and measures, Thursday seized a box of butter shipped to Santa Ana by Klein Simpson Fruit Company of Los Angeles. He will swear to a complaint charging the shipper with violation of the weights and measures law.

The butter was sent to the Santa Ana Produce Company. McPhee was at the store when the butter arrived. It was marked "16 ounces net." The box was shipped as a 30-pound box, but it contained 30 pounds of net butter.

McPhee found that the gross weight was 29 pounds, and that the box was about three pounds short in weight of butter. The sealer took the box from the store and put it in cold storage, to be used as an exhibit in the trial of the case, should the shipper state trial. The butter was not offered for sale at the store.

ORANGE COUNTY ROADS

Orange county at this time is the center of Southern California road building activity, according to Secretary Standish L. Mitchell of the automobile club. With a bond issue to work with Orange county is building many important connections. Notably among these is the long highway leading from Rincón through the Santa Ana Canyon, Anaheim and Cypress to Anaheim Landing.

Two other new projects in Orange county which are of interest to all motorists are the routes leading from Santa Ana to Laguna and Huntington Beach. Orange county is rapidly giving motorists some splendid beach drives, which will appeal to all during the summer season. Among these is the connection to the county line of the road from Santa Ana to Long Beach. The Whittier road from the county line below Whittier through Orange is rapidly nearing completion.

Besides these main arteries there are feeders from Olinda through Placentia and from Northam through Buena Park to the County Park.

BEET SUGAR FACTORIES TO START EARLY

The beet sugar factories of Southern California will start their wheels earlier than ever before this year, owing to the splendid rains and the remarkably good condition of the soil during the last months, which have caused a record-establishing growth of beets. About July 10, some factories will start making sugar from the rich beets, judging from the present advanced state of the beets in the field.

An unusual amount of sugar is expected and the fields will yield abundantly in all probability. More sugar will be produced here than ever before, is the prediction, as the methods of cultivation have improved and there has been an increase of acreage in certain districts.

No definite date has been set by the Santa Ana Co-operative Sugar Company for opening this year's season, though it will be between July 10 and July 15. The foggy weather of the last two months has retarded the ripening of the beets, although nearly all have attained their size. The beets will need two or three weeks of good sunshine in order to thoroughly ripen. The co-operative people announce that they will have a splendid crop to harvest this season.

The date for starting the season's run at the Southern California Sugar Company's mill also depends largely on weather conditions. Should there be much sunshine from now on the Santa Ana factory will open between July 15 and 20. Should there be a continuance of fog, however, beet cutting would not be likely to begin until the last of July.

The Anaheim Sugar Company has fixed July 25 as the date for beginning on the beets but steam will be turned in on the 15th.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Mary Garcia, 13 years old, a member of an old Spanish family of Ontario, is dead, and Ibra Castro, aged 15, is suffering from a severe wound in the left arm as the result of the accidental discharge of an ancient shotgun in the hands of 10-year-old Ines Castro, a brother of the latter.

The Castro boy is a semi-invalid, being nearly blind from cataracts on the eyes, and the story is the old one of the gun that was not loaded. The boy was lying on the bed in his mother's room and the girls standing at a dressing table in the corner of the room when the gun was discharged. Practically the entire charge passed through the body of the Garcia girl, puncturing her lungs and liver to such an extent that she died Friday night at the hospital. The Castro girl is not thought to be in any danger, only a few straggling shots penetrating her arm.

Probably no action will be taken against the blind boy. The accident occurred at the home of P. Garcia shortly before 8 o'clock Friday morning. Garcia is step-father of the Castro children and brother of Mary Garcia.

NOT STRUCK BY AUTO

As the result of some clever sleuthing by Under Sheriff Law and Marshal Lindner of Huntington Beach, the mystery of who was responsible for William Grate being hurt on the road in Huntington Beach last Saturday night is in a fair way to be cleared up.

Grate claimed that an auto struck him, threw him in an insensible condition to one side of the road, and left him there. He claimed that the auto which struck him was of a gray color, and the officers hunted up every gray auto in town, and found that none of them could have been the one, if any, which hit Grate.

Clarence Matthews, who was the man who found Grate insensible, said there was every evidence of a scuffle near the place where Grate was found, but no signs of anyone having been hit by an auto. Grate wore a cap, this was found; but there was also an old black hat found, and this leads the officers to think that Grate got into a fight, and got the worst of it. Two of the best known families in Huntington Beach have gray autos, but it was clearly shown that neither the one or the other was responsible for the "accident."

Grate was pretty badly hurt, and is in the Santa Ana hospital, where he was taken Sunday. He is on the road to recovery, it was stated by a hospital attendant.

LEMON PRICES BETTER

A few warm days in the east as well as warmer weather here has caused another decided advance in the lemon prices, and the highest quotations are not yet in sight. The best wrapped stock sold up to $5.25 per box last week while inferior grades also jumped upward. This is not nearly as high as prices last year, when there was a serious crop shortage, but it is a high price for a season when the crop is heavy, and will probably continue to record breaker, with the exception of frost years. The demand for lemons in the east is steadily turning to California-raised fruit, and this is helping to make the higher average market.

Tangerines are about off the market. Grape fruit is barely steady. Fancy Valencia oranges show a slight in-

OPEN FOR TRAVEL
The Santa Ana Canyon road to Riverside county is again passable to automobiles by making a detour to the north side of the river at Yorba and fording back again to the south side at Gypsum.

Going from Orange to Riverside, the automobilist should leave the main road to cross the Yorba bridge. Continuing on the north side, the road leads through the Bixby ranch and down to the river at Gypsum, where it is fordable. From that point on the new road is in use.

This route must be taken for some months, as the contract on section 4 of the Riverside road is to be let soon and the road above Yorba will be blocked until after section 5, which lies next the county line, is completed.

WALNUT MEN'S PROTECTIVE LEAGUE

MANAGER THORPE OF CALIFORNIA ASSOCIATION PROPOSES A GENERAL CO-OPERATIVE PLAN

WANTS ALL GROWERS, INDEPENDENT OR ASSOCIATED, TO JOIN HANDS FOR MUTUAL AID

Organization of a general protective league for the walnut industry, to include independent growers as well as members of the association, was proposed by C. Thorpe of Los Angeles, manager of the California Walnut Growers' Association, in a talk to Fullerton walnut men at the association packing house some days ago.

He proposed an assessment of not more than 1 cent per sack of the crop marketed to maintain the work of the protective league, and thought this limit would be in excess of the amount needed as a rule, although the rate of 1 cent a sack would be too small to be noticeable. For the Fullerton-Placentia growers the total sum would be less than $100 a year. But the benefit from the combined efforts of all growers would mean much in many cases of more value to the individual grower than the total expense of the work for all.

But he insisted that all the growers must take hold and do their part, whether members of the association or not. When there is any fight on with the railroads or for tariff protection or any matter in which the good of the whole industry is at stake, it is up to the industry to make the fight. If at least 95 per cent of all the growers cannot be induced to co-operate in this plan, then he would not favor going ahead with it. The growers must get together if they want to make a winning fight.

A. T. Pendleton moved an endorsement of the plan for forming a protective league, stating that he believed it a good idea not only for the present occasion, but that other matters are coming up from time to time in which all the growers have an interest, and all who are engaged in the industry ought to have a share in protecting it when necessary. The motion prevailed.

It seems impracticable at present to sell the nuts in storage east at the association price, and growers don't want to cut the figure while other associations are holding surplus stock. After September 1, in his judgment, there will be no trouble to sell these nuts for all they are worth.

B. F. Porter said, although many believed the price set by the association last year is too high, he does not believe now that any more nuts would have been sold at a lower price. It is a well-known fact, he said, that there is no difficulty in disposing of 70 per cent of the crop at almost any price asked. But the trouble is to get rid of the 30 per cent remaining after this demand has been satisfied. He believes the growers have done well as far as the last crop is concerned if they get no further returns.

COUNTY AUTO CLUB

The board of directors of the Automobile Club of Orange County held a meeting Thursday evening in Santa Ana to complete its permanent organization.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing term: Clyde Walker of Santa Ana, president; H. O. Henderson of Anaheim, vice-president; A. S. Ralph of Orange, secretary, and J. R. Porter of Orange, treasurer. The other members of the directorate are J. W. Tubbs of Santa Ana, A. S. Bradford of Placentia and K. E. Watson of Orange. H. J. Forgy of Santa Ana was appointed attorney for the club.

Secretary Ralph reported that the work of securing subscribers was progressing in a very satisfactory manner, and that there would be no difficulty in securing the minimum number of subscribers which the club has fixed as desirable by the first of July, and that the club will be able to begin issuing the insurance contracts as soon thereafter as the license can be secured from the insurance commissioner of the state.

CLIMBERS CONQUOR OLD SADDLEBACK

Exploring Party Marches to the Top and Then Marches Down

Old Saddleback, 5,680 feet above the sea level, has been officially explored by the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce. The party of 24 men who ascended the big mountain on Saturday returned Sunday, singing the praises of the trip.

It was Postmaster L. L. Shaw who first declared that something should be done to call attention to the asset of Santiago peak as a mountain trip, and it was through his efforts that the journey was undertaken. He thought it was worth while to let it be known that there is such a trip; that people who care to go there may know something of the conditions, and that, if it were feasible, to start a movement to build an automobile road to the top.

Saturday morning at 8:30 the start from Santa Ana was made in automobiles, which were abandoned at the foot of the mountain below Andrew Joplin's ranch, now owned by H. McMillen, who furnished horses and burros for the visitors.

Those who gathered there were L. L. Shaw; J. C. Metzgar, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; R. K. Bishop, county horticultural commissioner; S. W. Wynne of San Diego, supervisor of the Cleveland national forest; J. B. Stephenson of El Toro, forest ranger; J. L. McBride, county surveyor; Jasper Leck, supervisor; W. E. Adkinson of Trabuco, county fire warden; Sam Jernigan, city marshal; A. J. Perkins, W. C. Collins, Charles Rozell of Orange, photographer; D. F. P. Claycomb, G. S. Smith, Horace Fine, Al G. Waddell, automobile editor of the Los Angeles Times; A. H. Lyon, C. E. Jackson, constable; A. E. Van Dooser, B. E. Tarver, H. A. Wasmum, H. McMillen of Trabuco, George Brown of Trabuco, and T. E. Stephenson.

Forest Ranger Stephenson's measurements show that the distance from Joplin's house to the top of the peak to be 5 1/2 miles; but to one going up it is as much more than that as he cares to say it is. Those who walked all the way (by choice and not by necessity, for horses were provided to "spell" the climbers) made various estimates. For the ordinary climber, the trip takes about three and a half hours from Joplin's house to the top.

ORANGE COUNTY TABOOS ROAD RACE

Los Angeles to Phoenix Road Race Will Circle Around Us

Orange county people will probably not witness the Los Angeles to Phoenix road race this fall. Sentiment in the county appears to be against it, and, according to officials of the Automobile Club, county and city officials declare that the great annual road classic will not be permitted to pass through this county.

What route will the cars follow on the way to Phoenix in the next race? This is the question that is bothering motor race fans of two states; and H. W. Jack Russell, manager for Earle Y. Booth, has staked himself to the task of answering. When Russell learned that the Orange county officials were not in favor of granting permission for the race to pass through this county next fall, he climbed aboard a big Lewis "six" and went out on a scouting expedition.

The Phoenix people want the race again this year. The Arizona state fair commission has already subscribed the sum of $2,000 for the purse. George Purdy Bullard has agreed to manage the great race again this year; and that fact alone, according to Russell, guarantees a Phoenix race.

The route followed last season was popular with both drivers and citizens of towns along the course. Several drivers who intend to enter in the next desert grind have already declared themselves as strongly in favor of the run down the coast, through San Diego and Imperial Valley.

Orange county's tabo is the only reason for a change of the course.

It will be possible to avoid Orange county and yet pass through San Diego. The San Diego inland route will, in all probability, be the most favored by the race management.

LASSEN NOT DANGEROUS

Professor T. J. J. See of the Mare Island conservatory, an authority on earthquakes and volcanic action, has issued a statement to the effect that he considers the activity of Mt. Lassen comparatively harmless. He says in part:

Some doubt has arisen as to whether Lassen should be classed as an active volcano or an immense geyser operating in an old volcanic cone. The outbreak was not central, and no deep-seated disturbance has yet occurred. This favors the geyser theory. But time alone will tell what the eruption may develop into.

Mt. Shasta also was recently a volcano and is now covered with immense beds of pumice. So, too, Mt. Diablo is said to have been volcanic at one time and there are many other peaks in California, Oregon and Washington which were once volcanic, but heretofore we have had no active volcano in the United States, and the chances of one awakening to permanent activity are not very great, though it might occur here and there at long intervals. I hardly think the activity of Lassen will become so great as to produce eruption of lava. It is likely to maintain a feeble and comparatively harmless activity. It is in the Sierras, about 200 miles from the ocean, and thus too far inland to become a source of much danger. The really dangerous volcanoes depend on the leakage of the oceans and the formation of vast accumulations of steam beneath their roots. No volcano is now active over 125 miles from the sea, and as the study of the earth shows that they all die out inland, like the extinct craters now seen in Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado and other inland regions, I predict that Lassen will never become a dangerous volcano.

Col. Wickersheim, of Fullerton, accused of having no rear light, told Judge Cox at Santa Ana Monday that his light was burning when he left Taylor's garage, but when the officer accosted him it was out. He also said he had trusted one of his employees to fill the lamp, and yet when he was arrested there was no oil in it. He put up a plea that he was not to blame, as the light was jolted out as he went over two trenches on Broadway. The excuse was not accepted as Judge Cox gave him the customary fine of $5.

L. J. Winney has filed suit against Ed and Henry Wagner for right of way to a road which he has been using.

SPORTSMEN'S AID ASKED AGAINST FOREST FIRE

HUNTERS AND CAMPERS WILL BE MADE ASSISTANT PROTECTORS OF THE FORESTS

ALL HUNTING SUPPLIES, INCLUDING CARTRIDGE BOXES, TO HAVE A FIRE WARNING ON THEM

Because of the fact that many forest fires are set through the carelessness of hunters, campers, and others who go into the woods for recreation, the forest service has taken up with manufacturers of fire-arms and ammunition the question of a co-operative arrangement through which purchasers and users of guns and cartridges shall be reminded of the fire danger.

It has been pointed out that in the lumber regions of the northwest, for example, manufacturers and other business men have been having printed or stamped on their stationery and pay checks, various crisp, catchy statements about the loss which the public suffers through the decreased demand for labor and decreased money in circulation, if timber—which is the source of many of the northwest's industries—is burned up.

It has also been pointed out that in the east, particularly, many forest fires are started by the carelessness of hunters who drop burning matches, cigar or cigarette stumps, or pipe coals in the woods, or perhaps build a fire which is left burning when the hunter goes on. Forest fires, of course, greatly injure the interests of sportsmen by robbing the birds of their proper cover.

They also impair the food supply of both birds and big game, through the destruction of the undergrowth which furnishes browse, berries, and other food. The eastern woods are exposed to danger from fires principally in the spring and fall, when most of the trees are bare and the leaves on the ground are dry. The spring fires, many of which are due to trout fishermen, may destroy the eggs of game birds and even young birds themselves. Since trout fishermen are likely to hunt in the fall, the same individuals, if careless, may be a source of danger at both seasons.

It is suggested that the manufacturers of arms and ammunition ought to be sufficiently interested in the matter of perpetuation of game to be willing to help in the campaign against forest fires. This help may come through the printing of some bright fire warning on cartridge boxes, or some slip to go with any hunting or camp supplies which are furnished. Several manufacturers have already expressed their interest in the matter and their willingness to help.

What proportion of the standing timber should be cut from a given area in order to leave it in the best condition for future continuous production will be determined scientifically by a series of experiments to be conducted by the forest service. A number of small areas have been laid off on a timber sale in the Plumas forest, and varying proportions of the stand will be cut on each.

Periodic observations and measurements will give accurate data from which conclusions can be drawn. The effect of fires on young forest growth, the effect of brush cover on streamflow, the best season for planting young trees, and tests of various species of trees under various conditions are among the topics listed for study.

IMPERIAL VALLEY COTTON

The Imperial Valley in Southern California, seems to be well suited to the cultivation of cotton. This section has a rich soil, a warm climate, a long season, and situated as it is on a lower level than the Colorado River, the further advantage of being easily susceptible to irrigation. The high cost of labor for picking cotton, however, is a drawback, while the suitability of the land for other crops undoubtedly restricts, to some extent, its culture. Cotton has been grown in this locality on a commercial basis for only a few years. There were 5,986 bales ginned in 1910, 9,790 in 1911, 8,215 in 1912, and 22,838 in 1913. It has been reported that the acreage planted to cotton in 1914 in the Imperial Valley will show a large increase over that in 1913, while the probable production is variously estimated from 50,000 to 100,000 bales.

There were 2,299 bales reported as ginned in Arizona from the crop of 1913. The largest part of this has the same characteristics as that grown in Egypt, having been propagated from seed brought from that country. The cotton is grown on irrigated land and the average yield is high. The area to be devoted to this staple in 1914 shows a large increase over that of 1913, the amount being variously estimated from 12,000 to 15,000 acres.

Orlando Skinner died at his home in Walla Walla, Wash., last week and the remains were brought to Anaheim for burial. The funeral was held at Backs & Terry's on Monday. Mr. Skinner was an old-time resident of this section. He was the father of O. M. Skinner.

IN AND ABOUT COUNTY

Gets $10,000 Damages
Judgment for $10,000 was given last Thursday to the heirs of J. M. Cain against the Pacific Electric. Cain, a real estate dealer and member of the Santa Ana school board, was killed when his automobile was struck by a Pacific Electric car. Two tourists with Cain were also killed. During the trial Judge West ruled that the city street department is responsible for the bad condition of crossings. The plaintiffs declared that the Pacific Electric was negligent and responsible for the reason that the car was going at a high rate of speed upon wet tracks, and sued for $55,000. The judgment was in favor of Cain's widow and three children.

Trees Along Highway
The county board of forestry has authorized the purchase of 12,500 seedling nursery trees, which are to be set out in a lath house located at Santa Ana, which has been decided of as a more suitable location than the county park. The trees will cost approximately $320 and will consist of eight or nine varieties suitable for planting along the state and county highways. The board has also ordered 2,000 deodars, a variety of cedar tree which is very rare and which is believed to be quite suitable for planting here. The deodars will cost about $150.

Orange Treasury Is Empty
Orange is embarrassed for funds for carrying on its business until the money from this year's tax levy is available. The street fund is overdrawn. There is no money for lighting extensions. The most rigid economy must be practiced in all departments of government in order to keep things going until the first taxes are paid this fall. This condition was emphasized when a request for a street light was presented. A motion was adopted that there be no further light extensions made until the next tax levy begins to come in. In the discussion of this motion it became evident that several of the trustees feel that a public statement of the situation should be made, so that the people of the city may fully understand the condition and the cause of it. It was declared that, when the present board took office, the city was hard up for money to conduct its business and that the present trustees were face to face with a shortage in all departments.

With two ribs fractured and other severe injuries, W. E. Grate, employed as cook on a hay press, was left lying by the roadside all Sunday night after having been struck by an automobile, carrying seven men, said to have been drinking. Grate was found Monday morning and taken to the Santa Ana hospital. The accident occurred at a point about two miles east of Huntington Beach and east of the sugar factory at that place. Grate had finished his day's work on the hay press where he is employed and was on his way home. He was walking on the side of the road and any automobile or other vehicle would have had ample room to pass without striking him. The automobile did not stop to inquire how badly the man was hurt. If the men who were in the automobile are found it will go hard with them. Grate will be out of the hospital in a few days.

Suit Against Water Company
Clarence M. Rochester this week filed suit against the Anaheim Union Water Company asking $30,000 damages as the result of injuries received by him when he fell down a well belonging to the company. Rochester's complaint alleges that he was employed by the defendant at a pumping station in the Santa Ana Canyon, and that among his duties was to keep tight the bearing of a centrifugal pump located at the bottom of a pit sixty feet deep. It states that a ladder into the pit was old and rotten, and that while descending in the course of his employment two rounds gave way and he fell to the bottom. The complaint states that the muscles of his back were torn, his spine injured, three ribs broken, an ankle broken and that he was injured internally. For damages $30,000 is asked.

Gas For Tustin
A paper petitioning the Southern Counties Gas Company to have gas for cooking purposes brought out to Tustin was circulated and signed by a good many subscribers on Thursday of last week. Indications are that a sufficient number of subscribers will be obtained, so that the gas is no longer just a possibility, but a strong probability, with a reasonable prospect of being made available soon. Gas is so much of a necessity in these days of "do-things-quickly" that every progressive community feels out of the running in the every-day current affairs, if not supplied with gas for household purposes.

Miss Heinemann Married
A largely attended and brilliant wedding was celebrated at Olive Thursday when Miss Ella Heinemann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Heinemann of that place, became the bride of Mr. August Matthews, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matthews of Porter, Nebraska. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George Meiger at 2:30 P. M. in the German Lutheran church of Olive. More than a hundred guests were assembled as the young couple took their vows. The bride was handsomely gowned and was attended by her sister, Miss Frieda Heinemann and Miss Amanda Guenther as bridesmaids. The groomsmen were August Heinemann and Walter Liefers. Following the ceremony the company adjourned to the H. G. Heinemann home, where a delightful reception took place, continuing through the afternoon and evening. The Olive band gave very pleasing service in furnishing musical numbers which were rendered at intervals through the affair. The home was gallantly decorated, as the church had been, and all present found much enjoyment in the various social pastimes.

of the assessed valuation of all property in Huntington Beach was adopted by a big majority; that is a big majority of those who took the trouble to go to the polls and vote on the question. Only 162 voters thought about calling on the election officials on this occasion and 120 of those who did voted yes and the other 42 placed a cross after the word No; the majority for the bonds being 78. This favorable vote means that there will be funds available for advertising and promotion purposes for the coming year.

New Bank For Santa Ana
A new bank, to be known as the Citizens' Commercial and Savings Bank of Santa Ana, to be located at the northeast corner of Main and Third streets in the new Smith building, is being organized. The bank will be capitalized at $50,000 and will carry on a general commercial and savings business. Details of the organization are being perfected by a committee consisting of E. E. Vincent, L. M. Doyle and John A. Harvey. Mr. Harvey has until very recently been in the employ of the Farmers' & Merchants' National Bank. The vault and other equipment is now in Los Angeles and the work of installing will begin in a few days. It is expected that the new bank will be open for business about August 1.

Free County Library
The board of supervisors has set July 8 at 2 o'clock as the time for hearing objections to a proposal to establish a county free library. Tuesday the supervisors passed a resolution that puts the matter before the people, without committing the supervisors for or against the proposal. The decision will be with the board, but up to the present time none of the board has given final word as to his views on the subject. Mrs. J. J. Pyle of Westminster presented the resolution Tuesday. Mrs. Harriet K. Eddy, state organizer of county free libraries, was in San Diego and unable to attend the meeting as she had intended. Mrs. Pyle stated that Mrs. Eddy would spend several days here meeting objectors. Two or three of the supervisors stated that they had heard a good deal of opposition to the plan. Those objecting will be given a hearing on July 8.

A HEAVY CHARGE
Eighty thousand pounds of dynamite, with one exception the largest charge ever exploded in the state at one time, was set off Wednesday afternoon at the quarry of the California Portland Cement Company at Slover Mountain, near Colton. General Manager T. J. Fleming of Los Angeles, a pioneer in heavy blasting, directed the great shot.

The explosion was declared to be perfect and thousands of tons of rich lime rock broke up from the mountain side providing enough material to supply the huge plant for years.

Several hundred persons witnessed the blast from afar. Half of the mountain side lifted as if from a mighty earthquake and rolled down the grade, breaking and rippling like the crest of a gigantic wave at sea.

The only larger charge known of in the record of blasting in the state was at Crestmore recently when sixty-six tons of powder was used.

In the case of C. E. Gault vs. J. D. Wiens and Tiene Wiens, in superior court, a motion has been filed that certain claims of the plaintiff be stricken out and disallowed. The parts desired to have taken from action relates to premiums on bonds.

TAX SHIRKERS TAKING A HAND
A millionaire ranch man in the southern portion of the county, and a millionaire oil man in the northern portion of the county, who is being sued by former associates charging him with fraud, are said to be collecting a slush fund for the purpose, as we are informed, of cleaning out the "court house ring." These gentlemen, whose enormous property holdings in the county have been ridiculously undervalued for assessment purposes during many years past, but who now pay taxes commensurate with their poorer neighbors, are backing a number of candidates for county office, with a view, probably, of being permitted to go back to their old game of tax-dodging. They are willing, so it would appear, that the common people shall be assessed adequately, but they do not believe they should be placed in the same category with other taxpayers. They declare it is their intention to clean out the "ring" at the court house which is responsible for assessing them upon a true and equitable valuation of their enormous property holdings.

We presume the first official to be made the object of their attack is Assessor Sleeper, who has raised their valuations since being in office from previous ridiculously insignificant figures to what they should be. Sleeper is not only the most efficient assessor Orange county has ever had in its history, but we may truthfully say he is the only assessor worthy of the name the county has ever had in its employ. He is absolutely fearless of the great corporations owning property in Orange county, and at the same time is just and honorable in his dealings with them. If these two wealthy men and their associates can defeat this honest and courageous official, if voters of the county will be so far lost to all sense of right and decency as to do their bidding for paltry lucre, and shall compass this man's defeat, it will be high time for us to send for Mr. Pancho Villa and start a first-class revolution here.

Other members of this "ring" against whom the ire of these millionaires is possibly directed are Supervisors Talbert, Struck and Leck, who, as members of the county board of equalization stood manfully by Sleeper's assessment figures, and refused to reduce them. These three gentlemen are candidates for re-election, and to defeat them at best of these two millionaires, for doing their bounden duty by the people and taxpayers of the county, would be a crime unparalleled in the history of Orange county.

Another county official against whom their ire may possibly be directed, is County Clerk Williams, who as clerk of the board of supervisors, notified these men of the action of the county board of equalization. Like Mr. Sleeper, Mr. Williams is not only the most efficient and capable clerk ever in the employ of the county, but is in reality the only clerk the people of this county have ever had. To defeat this man at suggestion of these millionaire tax-dodgers, or for any other reason, would be nothing short of a political calamity.

What do the voters of Orange county say to this threat of this brace of tax-dodgers to defeat these honest and fearless public officials? Are they going to accept the dictum of these two men, or are they going to support these honest and fearless officials in their faithful performance of their sworn and bounden duty as servants of the people? We imagine that the $5,000 slush fund said to have been raised to defeat them will fall of its purpose, and we say further that any candidate for office who has the support of either or both of these two men, or who is backed by them, should not receive one single, solitary vote at the primary election August 25.

Williams for county clerk, and Sleeper for assessor, first, last and all the time, and Talbert, Struck and Leck for supervisor in their respective districts. These men have all of them done their duty by the people, and that these two tax-dodging millionaires are said to be out with a slush fund to compass their defeat, is to their everlasting credit. They should be re-elected without a dissenting vote.

W. C. JEROME IN TOWN

W. C. Jerome is in town this week looking after his fences in the auditor's fight, which he informs us are up high and strong all over the northern part of the county. Mr. Jerome has been a resident of Orange county for 35 years, coming here with his parents long before the county was organized. He has been for many years engaged in farming operations in the southern part of the county, and is one of the prosperous bean raisers of that section. He feels that he is eminently qualified to fill the duties of the auditor's office, and he has a number of strong friends in this section who are making a strong fight for him.

A POPULAR COUNTY OFFICIAL

Immersed in the registration returns, and the multifarious details of preparation for the primary election County Clerk Williams is the busiest man in the court house, and his official duties will keep him in his office continuously not only until the primary, but the general election in November as well. It will be difficult for him to follow the example of many other candidates, who are hiking over the county glad-handing the voter, for his duties under the new election law are so complex and so intricate that the work will keep him on the job continuously, including much overtime for which he receives no recompense. In the first place he is preparing the great register which will contain 20,000 names. Each voter must be placed in his proper precinct, for he will not be permitted to vote in any other. A mistake in the case of a single voter will nullify his vote, but we made bold to say that out of the entire list of 20,000 voters in the county, there will not be one single mistake among them all. His other duties in preparing for the election and filling his office as county clerk, are such that it is necessary for the most careful attention to be given to details, and thus it is that he will have little time to do campaigning before the primaries.

But Mr. Williams is of opinion that administration of the duties of his office is of paramount consideration, and that the best recommendation an official can hold is to perform his work conscientiously and well. This he has unquestionably done during his incumbency of the office. There are no blots on his escutcheon, no flaws in his record, and no peg on which an objection to his return for another four years can be hung. His conduct of the multifarious duties of the office has been above reproach. His system is perfect and at a moment's notice he can lay his hand upon anything pertaining to his office required of him. He is courteous, obliging and polite to all who enter, irrespective of politics, sex, race, color or previous condition, and these, combined with other traits have made him so popular that the many who attempt to defeat him will experience seasons of frosty weather before the campaign ends. There is no more efficient or popular county official in the state than W. B. Williams, and he has earned and deserves the reputation he has made. The multitude of friends he has acquired throughout the county will see to it that he gets a square deal at the polls even if he should be compelled to neglect his interests during the campaign in order to attend to the duties demanding his attention at the court house.

In addition to his eminent fitness for the office, and his undoubted title to re-election by reason of the record he has made, Mr. Williams is the only man in the court house who appointed a deputy from Anaheim. In selecting Joe Backs as his assistant, recognizing the ability of this Anaheim boy, he added to his popularity here and increased the number of his friends. His home is in the court house, and in this section of the county, and while his numerous friends here would be pleased to extend a glad hand and bask a moment in his genial smile during the campaign, they will see to it that he gets the votes just the same. Mr. Williams' home is in Orange and is the only county official at the court house elected from that city. Orange is entitled to name this official, and the proposition to name another Santa Ana man in his place is not good business or not good politics. Santa Ana has already more than its quota of county officials, and to add another to this already large list will not meet with favor in this county. Mr. Williams as county clerk seems to be the right man in the right place.

JOSEPH M. BACKS

Efficiency and thoroughness in his work, faithfulness to his trust and a natural aptitude for making himself popular wherever he goes, are among the attributes which will make J. M. Backs a sure winner in the race for county recorder at the primary election. Joe has a knack of winning the confidence of all with whom he rubs elbows, also of always retaining it.

Here in Anaheim we have another incentive for standing together in his support aside from his capability and fitness for the office of county recorder, and his title to re-election. He is a product of Anaheim, was born here, grew to manhood here, was educated here, and developed the qualities which have made him trustworthy and efficient on Anaheim soil. He is, moreover, the only county official this city ever had in the court house, and the voters here will endeavor to keep him on the job. Anaheim will line up for Joe and give him an overwhelming majority on the 25th of August.

Let it not be said to the discredit of the people of this city that one of its young men, who was born and raised here, and who is the only man from this city who ever held a county office in the quarter of a century of its existence, and who is deserving, capable and honest, shall not receive a splendid endorsement at the polls in August; not only here in this city and its outlying precincts, but throughout the third supervisor district as well, with which he has been so intimately associated, boy and man, for nearly 40 years. We do not desire that our citizens shall make of his candidacy a sectional issue, and we believe he will run well in every precinct of the county. But an energetic house-to-house canvass is being made by his opponent, who is a lady of estimable qualities and high standing in her community, and it is no more than fair to expect for Mr. Backs a cordial and enthusiastic support on the part of men and women who have known him intimately so many years. Certainly an endorsement of his home people is desirable in his case. Such endorsement here during the campaign will serve to indicate to other sections of the county that his neighbors and friends at home are supporting him in his honorable ambition to retain the office to which he was appointed some months ago by the board of supervisors in preference to the lady now contesting the election with him. Let Anaheim and its contiguous sections, as well as the entire county of Orange, support this Orange county boy. We vouch for him as an upright and honorable young man worthy of support by voters of all sections of the county.

BULLY FOR JOE

J. C. Joplin was in town on Saturday afternoon meeting with numerous old-time friends in this section. Mr. Joplin is a candidate for re-election as county treasurer, which position he fills with honor at the present time. He has handled millions of dollars of public fund, and has never yet permitted one of them to go astray. We admit the treasurer's job is one of the most tempting at times for a fellow to dig into the boodle and beat it for the hills in the direction of Canada, but Mr. Joplin has never been so minded, nor will he ever be if we can judge him, and we think we can. Joplin for treasurer seems to us to be about right. He is one of the pioneers of Orange county, and has given much of his time and money in collecting exhibits of our products in past years for display at eastern expositions. The only objection to Joplin is that he is a democrat at that, but the good Lord knows he is not entirely responsible for such a state of affairs. Bully for Joe!

PROMOTE HOME INDUSTRY

A wide-spread educational campaign to promote the use of home-manufactured Southern California beet sugar has been undertaken by the refineries of this part of the state. These refineries last year handled the beets from 90,000 acres, and from the 756,110 tons of beets produced on this acreage they refined 230,000,000 pounds of sugar. The acreage out to beets this year is approximately the same as last year's acreage.

"Southern California Sugar" is the name to be applied to this sugar, and housewives are to be convinced that certain prejudices against beet sugar are not justified. The refiners guarantee it for every purpose for which sugar is used, which means that for preserving and jelly making it is guaranteed to serve the purpose as well as cane sugar.

The reason why this guarantee is possible is that in spite of the belief of many housewives that beet sugar is identical with cane sugar, not even the chemist can tell them apart.

The seven Southern California refineries in this campaign are the American Beet Sugar Company, the Los Alamitos Sugar Company, the Santa Ana Co-operative Sugar Company, the Anaheim Sugar Company, the Southern California Sugar Company and the Holly Sugar Company. Dr. Harvey W. Wiley chief of the Bureau of Chemistry declared beet and cane sugars were identical chemically and physically, and added: "Housewives in this country often attribute their failures in putting preserves to the use of beet sugar. The same failures occur when cane sugar is used."

"In Europe nothing but beet sugar is used, still they have all kinds of preserves; in fact, England, where beet and cane sugars are used without preference, is noted for these products."

The appeal of the refiners to the people to use the Southern California product is especially timely now, with the great industry threatened by the free sugar section of the Underwood tariff bill, which is to go into effect May 1, 1916, unless remedial legislation is secured. Growers and refiners gain some hope from the fact that the Department of Agriculture has appointed a commission to investigate the conditions of the beet sugar industry in the several states.

In Southern California the industry is important in Los Angeles, Ventura, Riverside, Orange, San Bernardino and San Diego counties. Thousands of growers owe to it their prosperity, many towns are dependent on it, and the beet sugar companies have $15,000,000 invested in factories and lands.

SANTA ANA MAN SUICIDES

The suicide at the Hotel Hayward in Los Angeles Monday of Arthur G. Miller, general manager of the Titus Stock Remedy Company of Santa Ana, is shrouded in mystery. The theory advanced is that Mr. Miller became despondent over a love affair. He had been estranged from his wife for years and was attracted by another woman and unable to obtain a divorce. The facts are supposed to be the causes of the suicide.

Nothing in Mr. Miller's actions fore-shadowed the tragedy other than contrary to his usual custom, he gave no notice of his proposed visit to Los Angeles.

It was learned by Coroner Winbiger that Mr. Miller closed his account at the Farmers' and Merchants' bank on June 17, withdrawing about $100.

A. S. Faegan, of Anaheim, who is president of the Titus company, went over to Santa Ana Tuesday morning and he and A. R. Rowley are now in charge of the office. A meeting of the directors will probably be held today, when an expert accountant will probably be employed to go over the books. "We have made a superficial investigation of the books," said Mr. Faegan, "and from all appearances Mr. Miller was straight in his dealings with the company. I haven't the slightest knowledge of any reason why he should have killed himself."

POLITICAL SNAPSHOTS

(By the Innocent Bystander.)

Although the turn of Time's wheel has wrought some minor changes in the political situation since the Bystander gave to a more or less expectant public the results of his investigations, the prediction made at that time as to the ultimate outcome still stands and the winners then announced are still the topknots and in the case of most of them with even better chances for victory.

Take Supervisor Leck for instance, who is said to have been marked for slaughter in an assault said to have been led by the big-San Joaquin ranch interests as punishment for assisting in boosting the assessment of that property last year, and although things did look rather squally for a time, the clouds have about all cleared away and Leck is seemingly more popular than ever, and his strength is every day becoming more manifest.

Opposition to Leck and Sleeper comes from the same source, and the feeling of the malcontents was so strong against them at one time that the purchase of one of the Anaheim daily newspapers was seriously contemplated as a means for disseminating the personal views of the opposition.

Rumor has it that James Irvine himself tentatively agreed to put up $15,000 as his share of the proposed venture into journalism if the balance necessary could be raised, a condition of the agreement being that Irvine's name should not appear as a member of the syndicate, but in the effort to make the full amount good the promoters of the plan are said to have divulged state secrets with the result that the Laird of Myford indignantly repudiated the entire arrangement and left the journalistic bantling to die of inanition, the required amount of kale not being available from any other source.

The story is, of course, not vouched for by the Bystander, but it is current street report and many believe it to be true.

The formal opening of the new Huntington Beach pier that occurred last Saturday was a gala day for politicians, and candidates for every office to be contended for were there in evidence. The occasion was made more so on that occasion than ever since "Hob" Northam used to act as host at clam bakes at the beach on the site of the present prosperous seaside city.

And this handsomely was a sure sign of the new style was in use from the rough-and-ready grand Howard Vassum to the languid clasp of Assemblyman Hans Weisel and the kangaroo drop of Colonel Heathman, which last mentioned motion is a cross between a calisthenic exercise and a religious rite, and in the opinion of the onlooker to be the most convincing vote-getter in his whole repertoire. And the doctory colonel is getting there just the same and his candidacy is receiving more serious consideration than when first thought possible, and when the votes are counted it may surprise no one if he is found well placed if not an ultimate winner. Speaking of Colonel Heathman calls to mind a story of the school girl who at a recent examination was asked to name the seven wonders of the world, and gave the list as follows: The Hanging Gardens of Semiramis at Babylon, the Pyramids of Egypt, the Temple of Diana, the Statue of Jupiter, the Colossus of Rhodes and Colonel Heathman. That's going some.

The threat made by State Treasurer E. D. Roberts to run for the lieutenant governorship may be only a threat after all, although it certainly did bring a scare into the bullmoosers when it was first made, as the "progressives" don't want any opposition to Eshelman and the defection of Roberts from the ranks of the Christian soldiers would be a sore blow indeed. At all events Roberts has declared publicly that he will not sit tight and state, although he has just as publicly stated his opinion of the manner in which Governor Johnson bunched him in the lieutenant-governor deal.

Roberts openly charges that he was chosen by Johnson for the latter's running mate and was later sidetracked when Eshelman was taken up by Johnson. This is how Roberts puts it: "Gov. Johnson called me into his office and asked me if I wanted to be lieutenant governor, and exacted a promise from me that I would sit tight and not announce myself. Then Eshelman was put into the race with the Southern California indorsements."

The question of just how much money a candidate may spend in his efforts to capture a superior judgeship is a question which has troubled Los Angeles aspirants for office with the result that ten of them have asked the attorney-general to place a maximum on the amount they may be permitted to disburse in their campaigns. The primary law of 1913 says nothing on the subject and apparently leaves the matter to the discretion of the court, and so the attorney-general has been asked for an opinion. The outcome of the attorney-general's deliberations will be eagerly awaited in this county where the five contenders for the two places at stake are presumably naturally anxious to know whether they shall be restricted to the bestowal of hand-claps and ice cream sodas or may loosen their purse-strings to the limit in the interests of the proletariat.

The election called for next month to vote a special salary for the teachers' salaries is causing considerable discussion among those who will be called upon to pay the freight, and the prediction is made that the proposition will be defeated. No one questions the obligation of the state and legal of the city to pay the claims, but there is a well defined sentiment that the present board of education should step down and out before any more money is made available for school purposes. The general belief seems to be that the board of education at present constituted lacks the ability to get the best results in financial matters. Various ways of bringing about the desired end have been mooted, and one newspaper has openly suggested that the board of education resign with but grace it may, but no one so far has had the courage to tell them straight-forwardly that their continuance in office means the wreck of the school system, and the handwriting on the wall continues unheeded with the prospect of embarrasment and discomfiture for all concerned.

California women are taking great interest in the coming election and republican women leaders have interested women in all parties in their campaign for a woman for lieutenant-governor.

Women's clubs—mostly republican—have been organized all over the state. They are all young women, for active women never grow old. These institutions have brought into the campaign business and professional women, have banded together the tried and untried workers for the republican party and have accomplished the laying of a foundation for state-wide strength that is felt as a potent factor already this early in the campaign.

In Los Angeles the Republican Women's League of the county has expanded its power and extended its influence and membership; the Women's Republican Club of the city brought together business and professional women who are workers and who want to do something for themselves and their sister workers. Then there are other organizations of republican women which have their part in the struggle to raise the standard of value of the ballot.

All the republican women who have taken part in the campaign that is now on have determined to make every vote immensely worth while.

If women have earned a reputation of being great talkers they have also won the distinction of being good listeners. Day after day club meetings are held at republican headquarters or elsewhere. A large crowd of women greets a republican candidate and listens carefully to what he may have to say. They know all about the Torrens land act, the proposed 8-hour law, the high spots of the liquor question, the reasons for and against a dozen constitutional amendments, and they have pretty fair estimate of candidates, are good judges of personality and character and public worth.

Mrs. Joseph R. Knowland, wife of Congressman Knowland, has taken the stump in behalf of her husband, who is a candidate for the republican nomination for United States Senator.

Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz is campaigning in behalf of her brother, Hon. Samuel M. Shortridge, who is a candidate for the same office.

Mrs. Helen K. Williams is a candidate for the republican nomination for lieutenant-governor and is making a personal campaign that does credit to many of the old-timers of the sterner sex.

Mrs. William C. Ralston is out on the stump for her husband, who is a candidate for the republican nomination for governor.

The list could be continued indefinitely, for nearly every republican candidate finds a fair sponsor either in his own household or in another.

And the women are making votes, presenting telling arguments, and adding to the interest of the campaign. They make votes among the men, too, which is an old game with them, for before they had the ballot themselves, that was about their only political pastime.

Congressman Joseph R. Knowland, candidate for United States Senator, who was billed as orator of the day at the opening of the pleasure pier at Huntington Beach last Sunday, was unavoidably detained by the railroad wash-out near Bakersfield and so was unable to be present to fill the engagement. Attorney Clyde Bishop was pressed into the service however, and in an impromptu address covered himself with glory and incidentally shed a few beams of reflected lustre on Southern California in general and the city of Huntington Beach and its sponsors and the adjacent vicinity in particular. Hon. J. C. Burke, the moderate Democrat, did the honors in the dedicatory services, and made a most pleasing impression as a spell-binder of more than ordinary ability.

The women of Santa Ana have declared open warfare on the Sunday pool room and picture show, and last week a monster petition was presented to the city council at the county seat praying for the passage of an ordinance declaring against the opening of either pool rooms or picture shows on the Sabbath.

Only one member of the council advocated the passage of the ordinance asked for, and his motion to grant the petition received no second and was therefore lost.

This is only the first round however, and the next will come at the municipal election next April when a new board of city trustees is to be elected. At that time it is understood the pool room and picture show question will cut a big figure and will either be made an outright campaign issue or will be the deciding factor in passing upon the eligibility of candidates for election.

As the church-going element is largely in the majority here, and the assurance is given that all church people are against the Sunday pool room and picture show, it would seem an easy matter to predict the outcome if the matter is to be decided at the polls.

Editor Baumgartner of the Santa Ana Register, who is a songsmith of purest ray serene, speaks rapturously of the "twilight dawn." Something in the nature of an afternoon sun-up, we presume.

Public spirit was manifested by the citizens of La Habra district Monday in their election to vote bonds for a new school building. The proposal to issue bonds in the sum of $18,000 was carried by a vote of 122 to 14. A new structure of modern design, with ample accommodation for the rapidly increasing population of the valley, will be erected upon the site occupied by the old building.

Joe Hatchman of Fullerton is laid up from the effects of a rough-and-tumble experience with the Gibbs lumber yard's delivery team in a runaway. He fell under the wheels, which passed over his body. There was only a very light laceration on the wagon, and he was not dangerously hurt, but sustained severe bruises, especially on his lower limbs. There was also some damage to the wagon and harness, but the horses were not injured. They were frightened by a passing automobile. This was their second runaway within a few days.

William P. Haughton, a young fellow who was fined $5 the other day for cutting corners, was again before Judge Cox of Santa Ana, and fined a like amount for the same kind of offense. The judge asked him if he had not read in the papers what happened to people who were caught doing such things as he was accused of, and Haughton said he never read the papers and did not even know that his case had been reported. He promised to be more careful in the future, and left the court room with his ears burning with the advice the judge gave him, and the threat of what he would do to Haughton, if the latter should be again arrested for a like misdemeanor.

STOCKING WITH TROUT

A consignment of 150,000 black spotted or Lake Tahoe trout is soon to be placed in Big Bear Lake, according to a recent decision of the state fish and game commission. A few may go to the Hemet Lake if the public is allowed to fish in that lake by the Hemet Water company. These black spotted lake trout are a game fish that will give the local fishermen some sport and trout sport in a few years. They grow 12 to 20 inches in length and weigh from one to 10 pounds. This is the first time these trout have been placed in Southern California waters. One hundred thousand eastern brook trout will be placed in the big streams where the water is extremely cold. The streams around Old Baldy, Mt. Whitney, San Jacinto and the highest points in the San Bernardino mountains will get these trout. About 100,000 Loch Leven trout, which also prosper in the higher streams, will be placed in the San Bernardino mountains and the upper San Gabriel. The San Gabriel River and branches will also get 80,000 of the 150,000 rainbow trout that are coming south.

CHAS. EYGBROAD ILL WITH FEVER

Overtaxed His Energies in Attending to Business and Other Duties

Charles Eygbroad was unable to come down to the Anaheim National Bank on Tuesday morning, being detained at home by illness. He suffered with high fever, which came upon him the preceding night. Mr. Eygbroad has overtaxed his energies of late, and in addition to the duties at his bank, has been out at nights attending meetings for some time past. He was at the board of trade meeting until a late hour on Monday evening, and has attended other public gatherings which have kept him up nights for several weeks past. His condition last evening was reported to be improved, and he will probably be able to be out again shortly.

A SUMMER IDYL

'Twas on a Sunday morning,
'Twas when the sun was beaming fine,
Mart cranked the old Reo,
And started down the line.
Something was wrong with the spark plug,
Crank case or cylinder oil;
He twisted, the crank, she wouldn't start,
Only the water would boil.

We finally got her started
And how joyous he did feel,
Until we hit a sand patch
And lost the right hand wheel.
We were coming home a-lyng,
Hitting every bump and jolt,
When he started across the country
Minus a steering wheel bolt.
Moral—Don't sell the horse.

In the latitude of Portland the sun got up at 4:23 in the morning and went to bed at 7:40.

Action has been brought in superior court by Leonard J. Winney against Edward and Henry Wagner, ranchers near this city. Winney declares that for years there was a road passing along property owned by the Wagners, and that by usage this road became a public highway. He states that the defendants have closed the road, and Winney is unable to use it. He asks the court to adjudge that the road is public property so far as road use is concerned.

He says he has not made the deed. For that he asks $1,150 damages. For other work done by Moore for Hilend on the Masonic temple in this city, $536.45 is asked. What officials of the Tulare County Bee-keepers' Association say will be one of the best crops of orange honey in the history of this section has been harvested and shipments will be started within the next 30 days. In all probability, the demand for the orange honey product is much larger than the supply, virtually all of it is under conditional contract at this time. Nearly all the crop will be handled through the two eastern concerns for distribution to the fancy grocery trade.

BAG TO PARTY, REPUBLICANS RALLY

GRAND OLD PARTY WILL ELECT HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES THIS YEAR

FREE TRADE ADMINISTRATION WILL RECEIVE SEVERE JOLT FROM THE PACIFIC

It will take 281 votes to control the next house of representatives at Washington. The republicans now figure that they will have that number and more.

Their present reckoning gives to them over 220 members, which would give a working majority. So far as it can be reckoned at this distance from election, they are confident of having 222 republicans in the next house, which would leave 213 to be divided among the democrats and what other parties are to be represented.

Such estimate is based, of course, upon an extensive dwindling of the progressive vote. With that element entirely out of the way, the margin would be much greater. The history of the past year gives abundant reason why this falling off in the progressive party strength can be reckoned with certainty.

Every section of the country has declared that the progressive vote is diminishing with each day of time. In New York state it has already fallen off one-half. The votes cast for Roosevelt in 1912 were double in number those cast for the progressive nominee for chief justice of the court of appeals last fall.

The New Jersey congressional election in April showed almost an absolute disappearance of the progressive vote and in a district which gave Roosevelt nearly 12,000 votes in 1912.

Maryland shows the same state of things. The 58,000 votes for Roosevelt for president fell to 7,000 for the progressive candidate for United States senator in 1913. Iowa furnishes a test of the Middle West. In a special election held last February in one of the congressional districts the progressive vote was less than 4,000. The progressive vote in the district in 1912 was over 15,000.

At the recent primaries in Oregon held two weeks ago, the republican registration was 120,000; democratic 41,000; progressive 11,000. Ralph E. Williams was re-elected a member of the republican national committee from Oregon by a plurality of 12,000. Williams was a member of the subcommittee of seven which organized the national convention of 1912.

In South Dakota United States Senator Crawford was defeated for re-nomination in the recent primaries by Congressman Burke. Mr. Burke's plurality was over 10,000. Senator Crawford was a progressive in 1912; Mr. Burke was a loyal republican. South Dakota was one of the two states in which Mr. Roosevelt's friends, finding themselves temporarily in control of the machinery of the republican party, refused to relinquish the republican column on the ballot, so that the republicans were in effect disfranchised.

The other state in which the loyal republicans were denied the right to vote for the candidates of their party was California. Governor Johnson and Mr. Roosevelt ran on the republican ticket in that state. Johnson did not renounce the republican party until in December, 1913, when he declared his candidacy for the governorship as a progressive. Since then California has conducted a biennial registration, the result of which, as reported by the secretary of state on June 6, is as follows:

Republican	347,861
Democratic	185,197
Progressive	172,064
Socialist	46,777
Prohibition	26,506
Declined to state	14,875
Miscellaneous	1,875

Total 845,117
The whole vote cast in California in 1912 was 673,527. It would seem that in California and South Dakota retributive justice was about to have its inning.

The registration figures tell the same story, whether it is in New York, Pennsylvania, Oregon or California. Everywhere the trend is the same and the movement back to the republican party is strong and constant.

The three states that are counted upon to make the greatest numerical gains in the next house are New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois. New York is expected to send an even dozen more republicans to the next congress. The districts outside of Greater New York will be practically solidly republican. The Canadian reciprocity issue is no more, and that was the cause of an immense progressive vote in 1912. It was an anti-Taft vote on the part of the farming sections because of this policy of his administration. The New York city districts will show a change of several members. There are eight-teen districts in the state now represented by democrats in which the republicans have "a fighting chance," and in twelve of these the contest is expected to be successful.

Pennsylvania is looked to for a change of ten members, three at large and seven from districts. In this case there will be a retirement of several of the progressive members of the house. The effect of the new tariff upon Pennsylvania will be sufficient to make the battle a straight-out contest between protection and its opponents and on such an issue there can be no doubt of the result.

Illinois will send nine republicans as her contribution to the new membership. There is to be a hard battle waged to make this number fifteen.

The situation in California is so changed from what it was in 1912 and the republican movement there is constantly growing so strong that out of the five districts, at present either democratic or progressive in their congressional representation, in which vigorous contest is to be made, it is confidently predicted that four will be carried by the republicans.

The republicans will fight to the finish to regain control of 163 districts now represented by democrats. They enter the fight confident of success in at least 93 of these districts. There are at present 129 republican members of the house of representatives. This gain of 93 would give the republicans a membership of 222 and control of the house.

In addition to the prospective republican victories in districts now represented by democrats the republicans should gain seats in the senate in Oregon, Indiana, Missouri, Colorado, Maryland, Nevada, Oklahoma and Arizona.

TRUCK CAPSIZES WITH STUDENTS

Many Have Narrow Escape From Serious Injury or Death

A truck containing fourteen students of Pomona college on the way from Claremont to Laguna where they will study at the marine laboratory, was overturned early Friday morning on Chapman avenue near West Orange. It happened about 100 feet east of the Santa Ana bridge where the embankment is ten feet high.

In turning out to pass an approaching automobile the driver of the truck lost his out side wheels off the paved strip of the highway, into soft sand, and in an instant the truck tripped. By mere good fortune a telephone pole was so situated that when the truck was upon its side and going over, it was brought to a stop.

There was a wild scramble of collegians. The earth was soft, and thanks to the telephone pole, few were injured. Miss Lois Clancy received some bruises. Men who were working on the road helped right the truck, which proceeded on its journey.

Those in the party were Mrs. Clancy, Misses Lucy and Lois Clancy, Mark Moles, Happy Hoover, Folly La Follette, Fred Hamilton, Hugh Jones, Edith Gillette, Paul Licht, Leon Gardner, Jack Rich and Prof. Miller.

WALNUT CROP IMPROVED

Walnut growers in Los Angeles county are feeling much elated over present crop conditions. Early in the present crop conditions. Early in the spring the outlook was not so very good. The blossom was light and much of this was hurt by the heavy rains. Cool weather and other favorable conditions since have caused the walnuts on the trees to show a surprising growth and indications are that the crop of first grade will exceed very much the crop of the same kind last year. At this time last year crop indications were for a bumper year. There were more walnuts on the trees than for many seasons past. Hot weather baked the hulls onto the shells and put about half of the crop if not more in class number two, which after the harvest caused serious difficulties in marketing and brought protests from all parts of the United States on account of grades. With another month of fair weather, the greatest danger will be over, and opportunity for making prices will be present. The crop is estimated at 10,000 tons.

Walnuts in Orange county this year will be 30 per cent short of a normal crop, from present indications, according to Arthur Staley's estimate. Mr. Staley is the secretary and manager of the Fullerton-Placentia association of walnut growers and is well informed regarding conditions in this county.

From reports received by him it is believed the crop in Los Angeles county will be from 30 to 40 per cent above the normal production, while Santa Barbara and Ventura counties will probably be 10 per cent short.

He estimates the total crop for California this year at 11,000 tons. The annual consumption of walnuts in this country is about 30,000 tons, the demand in excess of the home crop being supplied by importations from France and European countries.

GRAFT WALNUTS ON OAK

Experiments recently completed show that English walnuts may be successfully grafted upon live oaks, says the Sacramento Bee.

The experiment, that made by the late E. W. Price near his home in West Point, Calaveras county, was successful from every standpoint, and extensive plantings are being made to graft over live oak forests in Calaveras county. Hundreds of trees are to be grafted.

W. A. Moore, contractor, has secured the job of building the addition to the Broadway school, his bid being $13,250. Four new rooms will be added and the old building remodeled. A furnace will also be installed.

W. B. WILLIAMS, Clerk of the Board of Supervisors.

FOREST FIRE PREVENTION
With the approach of the forest fire season, three lumber companies whose holdings are in the Eldorado national forest have made arrangements with the United States forest service for the co-operative protection of their timber.

A look-out point is being equipped and will be manned until the fall rains set in, as a part of the protection system of the C. A. Smith Timber Company.

The Danaher Pine Company, of Camino, under the supervision of Ranger M. D. Morris has had a crew of men employed for some time building fire lines around their logging areas. In addition to clearing the lines all snags and dead trees are felled on both sides for a distance of 300 to 500 feet. When the forest covers become dry enough to burn, the cleared strip will be carefully burned over. By this means the company's forest is protected from the forest fire.

The California Door Company besides rendering a large amount of incidental co-operation to the forest service will employ a patrol throughout the season who will patrol, under the direction of the supervisor, the country in which the company's timber interest is.

IT COSTS A MILLION DOLLARS A DAY

Free-Trade Tariff is Taking Much From American Labor and Production

Gradually the story of the new tariff law and its effect is being unfolded. It is proving to be a continuous story in which there is little comfort to the American producer. The monthly installments of official government figures are but similar chapters of the same tale. Foreign goods to the value of $1,000,000 are coming to this country each working day of the week, that did not come under the former tariff law. This ratio remains constant as the reports for the different months are compiled.

Apparently that is the price that the American producer is paying for the privilege of living under the beneficent sway of the Wilson-Underwood law, $1,000,000 a day more of competition for him to face in the markets of the United States. The month of April was a normal month under the new tariff dispensation. All of the abnormal elements of the preceding time were out of the way. Every new schedule was in effect, and opportunity given for a fair test.

The import figures for April show that there was a gain in the value of goods brought here from foreign countries of 20 per cent over the importations of the same month of last year. In figures, this increase is $26,000,000, or $1,000,000 a day for every working day of the month. During the same period of April the exports from the United States also fell off about 20 per cent as compared with the same period of 1913. The merchandise shipped from this country was $37,000,000 less in value.

There are many countries to which the new law is a source of pleasure and profit. Great Britain and Germany have very great reason to bless the name of Woodrow Wilson. Each of them is sending to the United States nearly $4,000,000 more of goods each month than it did before. France is shipping nearly $2,000,000 more a month, Italy $1,000,000 and Belgium the same, and a monthly $500,000 more is coming from the Netherlands, from Switzerland and from Turkey.

In fact, the law should be popular all over Europe, for she is thereby permitted to put on the American market her merchandise to the amount of $12,000,000 a month more than she did a year ago. Spain is the only European country whose exports to these shores show a large falling off. Even Iceland and the Azores are profiting by the change, and Roumania and Servia as well.

To the south of us, great beneficiaries of democratic generosity to foreign producers are Argentina and Brazil. The Argentine shipments have more than doubled in value, and increased $3,000,000 in value. Brazil has nearly the same monthly increase. The whole of South America gains nearly $6,000,000 a month, even with Chile falling $1,000,000 behind. The greatest advance of all, however, is from Uruguay. Goods made in that country came here last year to the amount of about $100,000 a month. The same month of this year she sent here goods to the value of nearly $2,000,000.

But it is Canada who should be most grateful. She is sending across our northern border her products to a value of over $4,000,000 a month more than she did under the old tariff. Mexico, during the month of March gained a $3,000,000 larger foothold in the American market than she did during the same period of 1913. The Central American States are increasing their exports hither by a third, and the British West Indies by about the same figure. Australia is doubling her shipments.

These are the benefits that the new law is bringing to foreign nations, to the competitors of the American producer, to the employer of cheap labor, and to the buyer of un-American wares. What benefit has it brought to the United States? Are more persons employed? Has any new industry started? Are prices lower? Is business confidence stronger? Has the industrial situation been bettered? What has the United States gained in return for this $1,000,000 a day gift of her market?

MANY MILLIONS IN CANNED FRUITS

Grain and Honey Productions Show Increase in the State

Canned fruits will bring California $15,750,000 this year, according to an estimate issued recently by the Santa Fe freight department, and approved by the California Fruit Cannery Association. The estimated gross return is somewhat in excess of last year. Estimates on the grain and honey crops were also issued by the Santa Fe, and show appreciable increases in tonnage over last year.

The estimate on canned goods is 5,250,000 cases, or 10,530 carloads. This is enough canned goods to make up 527 trains. For Southern California the estimate is 740,000 cases, or 1,480 carloads, while the estimate for Northern California territory is 4,510 cases, or 9,020 carloads. The remainder and preponderant share of the total will come from fruit-growing and canning regions not tributary to the Santa Fe.

The estimate on grain in tons in territory tributary to the Santa Fe is: Wheat, 90,775; barley, 140,584; oats, 12,630, and corn, 20,000. For Southern California the estimates in Santa Fe territory are: Wheat, 2,520 tons; barley, 43,049 tons; oats, 3,680 tons. The corn crop in the Southland is not estimated, being very small.

Southern California's production of honey nearly equals that of the rest of the state, being 1,794,200 pounds of the extract of a total of 3,584,200 pounds, valued at $179,210. The production of comb in Southern California is put down at 61,175 pounds.

The honey production in Santa Fe territory is estimated at 1,044,200 pounds of extract, and 61,175 pounds of comb in Southern California, and 1,040,000 pounds of extract in Northern California. To these totals should be added, according to First Vice-President Jacobs of the Simon Levi Company, an assured production of 750,000 pounds of honey extract in the Imperial Valley and 1,500,000 pounds in those portions of the state not tributary to the Santa Fe.

The grain production this year, according to the best figures obtainable, is 10 per cent heavier than last year, while the honey crop shows an appreciable increase.

BIG HAY CROP

California's hay crop this year will break all records and exceed last year by about 161,000 tons, according to Santa Fe officials.

There are vast fields of hay throughout the state which cause the farmers to smile broadly. In Southern California the hay crop estimate of the freight officials is as follows: Alfalfa, 43,170 tons; clover, 36,170; barley, 44,400; wheat, 1,850 tons.

Northern California's hay crop should be about 18,000 tons of alfalfa, 25,350 tons of oat, 59,530 barley and 116,250 wheat. This makes a grand total of 515,725 tons of hay of all kinds along the Santa Fe's lines as compared with 354,162 tons last year, showing a gain of approximately 161,563 tons.

These figures are said to be conservative and the freight men think that the hay production will be considerably larger, but they are making a liberal allowance for losses.

F. C. Nichols was over from Santa Ana on business last week.

KENNEDY GIVEN HEAVY DAMAGES

Man With a Broken Neck Awarded $25,000 Damages

Damages to the amount of $25,000 were awarded to J. F. Kennedy against the West Coast Oil Company by a jury in the superior court Thursday. Kennedy, an employee of the company, was thrown from a derrick and sustained injuries to his back which made him a permanent cripple. He was in the Anaheim sanitarium several months, and was propelled about the streets in an invalid chair by his wife.

The defense set up a plea that Kennedy was to blame for the accident, inasmuch as he had exceeded the orders of the foreman, but the jury returned a verdict awarding heavy damages.

EDITOR MEACHAM GETS NEW SUIT

Also Had Suit of Different Nature Before Ordering It

Sam Stone, who is used to making suits, had one of a different kind on hand this week, but apparently finished the job to his satisfaction. Stone started a tailor shop at Brea, and wishing the people to take note, he advertised his business in the newspaper there. But having more time for work than ready funds, he stipulated in making terms with Editor Meacham that the bill for printing was to be paid with a suit of clothes which should later be selected and made to order.

At least that was the defense offered in a suit before Justice Inskeep in which Meacham asked for judgment against Stone for the amount due him. Stone's lawyer, F. C. Spencer, convinced the court that there was a clear understanding to which Meacham agreed, that the latter would buy a suit of clothes from Stone, and that Stone would not have to pay cash for the printing.

Judgment was found accordingly, the suit being dismissed with the understanding that Meacham must buy a suit in order to collect his bill.

BEEF SUGAR FACTORIES CLOSED BY FREE TRADE

There seem to be persistent rumors that the present administration is not altogether satisfied with its action in reducing the tariff on sugar, with ultimate free trade in that commodity in 1916. The result of this action certainly is disappointing to all concerned, with the exception of the refiners of imported raw sugar. They are the ones who are benefiting by the 25 per cent reduction, and their benefits will be even greater under free trade.

The American Economist of May 15 pointed out where the 34 cents per hundred reduction in the sugar tariff was going, into the pockets of the refiners, and the consumers who were led to believe that they would be able to purchase their sugar at a considerably cheaper price under the new tariff bill, are beginning to wonder when that reduction will reach their pocket-books.

When the beet sugar manufacturers and the Louisiana planters presented facts and figures to show that their industries could not possibly live under free trade in sugar, the democratic members of Congress assumed to believe that this was mere bombast on the part of these industries. They alleged, without making a detailed investigation of the merits of the case, that these industries easily could adjust themselves to free trade and that they could manufacture sugar at a reasonable profit under free trade conditions.

With this idea in view, the present administration has insisted upon giving the theory a trial, and the result has been that even with the 25 per cent reduction in the tariff 12 beet sugar factories have had to close their doors, and a number of others now have the matter under consideration.

The closing down of these factories means the loss of a market to farmers who grow sugar beets for nearly 500,000 tons of beets. Figuring the price of beets at $3.32 per ton, the average price given by the Department of Agriculture for the past year, this loss will amount to nearly $1,666,000. In addition to this, it is estimated that the acreage secured this year by those factories which will continue to operate will be about 20 per cent less than last year. The Department of Agriculture estimates that last year the farmers of this country received $32,000,000 for sugar beets, so that they will average to lose in the neighborhood of $7,000,000 a year by reason of the new tariff law. While it may be argued that these farmers will devote their lands to other crops and hence will be recompensed for this loss, nevertheless, it has been fully demonstrated both in Europe and America that the raising of sugar beets so increases the fertility of the soil that the yield per acre of cereal crops planted on the same soil for the next three years is increased from 50 to 100 per cent. Therefore, in addition to losing a market for a cash money crop valued at millions of dollars, the farmers who will be compelled to abandon beet culture will lose indirect advantages amounting to many times more than the actual cash value of their beets.

It is a condition and not a theory which confronts the domestic sugar manufacturers. It is idle to argue that these factories have been closed "for effect," for no individual or corporation will half a cation or a million dollars invested in a factory be so foolish enough to allow the capital to lie idle if it were possible to make any profit at all, no matter how slight.

These factories have definitely decided to close down. Other companies now have the matter under advisement and it is probable that in the near future the list will be further augmented.

WILSON'S ARGUMENT

Secretary of Labor Wilson says that the policy of the administration in aiding by tariff legislation to deprive a million workers of their jobs in the factories and foundries will work no harm, because they can all find work on the farms harvesting the bumper wheat crop. The Department of Labor, over which Secretary Wilson presides, has applications for 80,000 men to help harvest the wheat.

When the secretary was asked what these workers would do after the wheat crop was gathered, he replied that they could return to the textile and metal industries, for these would be revived with the money received for the wheat.

But maybe the farmers won't invest the money they receive for the wheat in cotton mills and steel manufactures.

SAN BERNARDINO VS. RIVERSIDE

Two Cities Finally Get Into Court Over Water Dispute

The long discussed suit in equity to restrain the city of Riverside from further water development in the San Bernardino Valley, was filed Thursday afternoon by the city of San Bernardino, and the complaint served on Mayor Oscar Ford, representing that city.

As an interesting development of this action, it is probable that a cross complaint will be filed against the city of San Bernardino, based on the fact that the Riverside Water Company, the predecessor of the city of Riverside, was on the ground in question long before the city of San Bernardino sank any wells or did any development.

"The filing of the suit at this time," said Francis Cuttle, president of the Riverside Water Company, "comes as somewhat of a surprise. In a conference recently held in San Bernardino between Riverside city officials and representatives of the different water companies here, we were given to understand that the matter would be taken up again at another conference, to be held in this city in the near future."

"So far as the merits of the case are concerned, the Riverside Water Company, which was the predecessor of the city of Riverside, the ownership of the artesian wells in question, were on the ground and had developed wells under way long before the city of San Bernardino had developed any water whatever, and if either party has any complaint to make, it would be against Riverside against San Bernardino."

"We have no fear of the results of this litigation—we have never been beaten in a court action by San Bernardino—but it is a shame that the expense of a suit should be entered. It will cost twenty times as much for a complete system for conservation, which would assure an abundance of water for both Riverside and San Bernardino for all time to come. The county of Orange recently went through a suit similar to this. At the time the suit was pending, the city of Orange spent $600 a day for 50 days—$30,000—in this one court alone, not saying anything of the other expenses entailed in the action. And they didn't accomplish anything. This gives some idea of what an action of this kind proposed by Riverside against San Bernardino would cost."

Mr. Cuttle fails to state that in the suit of Orange county against the water users higher up the Santa Ana River a compromise was effected by which the rights of this county are protected.

THE BEST PROOF

Anaheim Citizens Cannot Doubt It Doan's Kidney Pills were used—They brought benefit.

The story was told to Anaheim residents. Time has strengthened the evidence. Has proven the result lasting.

The testimony is from this locality. The proof convincing.

Lovely Hunt, 403 E. Palmyra Ave., Orange, Cal., says: "When I read about Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box. They relieved me of pain, stiffness and lameness in my lower back. I had bothered me for quite awhile. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to many of my friends and know that good results have always been had. I haven't needed Doan's Kidney Pills lately, for I have cured me of kidney trouble. Several years ago, after I first used Doan's Kidney Pills, I publicly recommended them. I will always think highly of this remedy."

PLACENTIA NOTES

The first 26,000 gallon tank of the new reservoir system of the Placentia Domestic Water Company has been completed and connected up with the water mains and the second tank, with similar capacity, will be ready for connection within a week. Placentia will then have one of the best fire protection systems in the state as far as excellence and adequacy of the water system is concerned.

Dr. Robert Francis Coyle, former pastor of the Central Presbyterian church of Denver, recently arrived in Los Angeles to take charge of the pastorate of the Westlake Presbyterian church. Dr. Coyle, who some months ago purchased an orange grove at Placentia, where he has erected a handsome residence, preached his first sermon last Sunday. His arrival here adds another well-known minister to the list of prominent preachers now occupying the pulpits of the Los Angeles churches. For many years past Dr. Coyle has occupied the pulpit of the Central Presbyterian church at Denver, having a congregation of some two thousand members.

Excavating work was begun last week for the high-class women's business block to be erected by Samuel Kraemer. The building will have a frontage of 85 feet on Santa Fe avenue and extend 90 feet down Bradford avenue. The first floor will contain two large store rooms and the second floor will contain modern office rooms. There will be an entrance at the corner of two avenues to the first store and there will be a plate glass front on both avenues. The building will be finished with granite brick, a new and superior brick, and the top finished with white cement blocks. The structure will be first-class throughout and will cost about $15,000.

BUDDING ON BLACK WALNUT

The budding of the English walnut on the native black walnut, is no longer an experimental fact, but a proven fact, and will in the near future be an important factor in walnut production in the southwest. Harrison Yarnell who owns a homestead in the mountains near Prescott, Arizona, budded a number of black walnut trees with English walnuts at an altitude of six thousand feet, and while it is more difficult to get the buds to grow than in ordinary nursery work, those living are vigorous and healthy and take on the strength and vitality of the mother tree, that has been by nature trained to imbue its roots deep into the earth in search of moisture, and to withstand the storms and biting frosts which are expected in all mountain altitudes in winter time. The government reclamation bureau is giving this matter careful investigation with the view of spreading the facts before the people. County Treasurer J. C. Joplin, solved the problem in Orange county several years ago, when he budded a magnificent black walnut tree growing on his Bell Canyon place—an altitude of nearly two thousand feet, which is now producing an abundant yield of fine English walnuts.

NEW PAPER MONEY

Millions of dollars worth of paper money of a new type will be put into circulation upon the establishment of the federal reserve banks within the next few weeks.

Under the federal reserve bank act each of the twelve federal reserve banks will receive advances from the federal reserve board in the form of federal reserve notes, a distinctly new sort of paper money. Commercial paper will be the collateral advanced by the various banks as security for these notes.

Joseph F. Ralph, director of the bureau of printing and engraving, has prepared notes of $5, $10, $20, $50 and $100 denominations.

The new $5 note is typical of agriculture. The portrait on the face of the note is Lincoln's, and the back shows a harvesting machine and allegorical figures typical of farming. The $10 note bears a portrait of Cleveland and a manufacturing scene. The $20 bears Jackson's portrait and is typical of commerce, having a steamship, train and other mediums of trade on the back. Grant's portrait shown on the $50 note, and Franklin's portrait adorns the $100 bill. Both are typical of the arts. All the bills will be printed in green ink on the back, while black ink will be used on the face, making them more uniform than at present.

The Standard Oil Bulletin gives figures showing the daily average production of oil at the present time in California to be 286,591 barrels, or about 2,500 barrels more than for any previous period in the history of the industry. But the shipments keep up with the production, preventing any very large accumulation of surplus.

HOTEL PROJECT AGAIN IN THE FOREGROUND

SITE OF THE MCFARLAND LIVERY STABLE UNDER CONSIDERATION FOR MODERN HOSTELRY

WILLIAM G. HEGER, A RETIRED ST. LOUIS BREWER, IS THE CAPITALIST BEHIND IT

Again rumors are rife that a substantial, commodious and modern hotel may be built in Anaheim within the near future, and it is no secret that negotiations are under way which may develop into the purchase of a site, but at the present writing the matter is hanging fire and little progress has been made for a week or more. The site in question is the property of Mrs. J. E. Fisher, on West Center street, which has been occupied many years as a livery stable. Property owners and business in this block are praying that the deal may be consummated. Aside from the fact that it will remove a business considered unsightly, out of place and objectionable on a street which they are endeavoring to improve, the erection of a large up-to-date hotel in the block will be a valued acquisition. Moreover efforts are making to set the frontage of buildings in this block back eight feet for the purpose of widening the sidewalk, and the builders of the hotel would set an example that might stimulate others to take prompt action.

The projector of the hotel proposition is William G. Heger of Casa Verdugo. Mr. Heger is a retired St. Louis brewer. Having disposed of his brewery interests he has adopted California as his home. He has ample capital and desires to erect a building that will be a credit to the town, believing this to be an excellent location.

It is understood that Mrs. Fisher is willing to sell the property and that an agreement could speedily be reached between the two principals, were it not for a stumbling block in the way. That is Dr. W. S. McFarland, proprietor of the livery stable, who holds a lease on the premises and does not feel inclined to cancel it. This lease was one of the items in the list of property turned over to him when he purchased the livery stable of Oliver Hill more than a year ago. It will have to be considered in a transfer of the property, consequent no agreement has yet been made.

J. E. Fisher has been in the Imperial Valley for more than a week past and Mr. Heger is at his home, therefore it is impossible to make a definite statement of the probable developments.

TO INVESTIGATE COUNTY LIBRARY

Federation of Women's Clubs Want Light on the Subject

Mrs. Ida F. Dutton of Anaheim, president of the Orange County Federation of Women's Clubs, has called a meeting of the executive board of that organization and chief among the topics to be considered at that time may be listed the county library project.

The county federation is not committed to that project. Neither is it on record against it. At the meeting of the federation in April a resolution was introduced favoring such a project. A resolution upon the subject was passed, but Mrs. Dutton says that the resolution does not commit the federation to the plan. The president was authorized to appoint a committee to investigate the plan with the idea of securing information concerning it, and if the committee should find that the county library is needed a recommendation to that effect would be given the board of supervisors. That is the understanding of the situation by Mrs. Dutton and Mrs. A. J. Lawton of Santa Ana.

"The county federation is not asking for the county library," said Mrs. Dutton. "The officers of the federation are not convinced that the library is needed. We want to investigate thoroughly."

It is probable that a committee will be appointed to make this investigation. This committee, or some other committee representing the county federation, will probably appear before the board of supervisors on July 8, at the hearing set for that date.

Mrs. Eddy, state organizer of county libraries, was in Santa Ana Sunday and had a conference with Mrs. Dutton and Mrs. A. J. Lawton in regard to the matter. Mrs. Eddy states that her attitude toward the project is not that of urging the library so much as working out the establishment of a library where one is wanted.

Mrs. Flora M. Pyle of Westminster, who presented the county library plan to the board of supervisors, stated that she went as a representative of the woman's club, not as a representative of the county federation.

FINED FOR SHORT WEIGHT
R. Taulieche, a Jap berry dealer of Santa Ana, was not permitted to make good short-weight berry boxes Monday. The berries were seized by Geo. McPhee, county sealer of weights and measures, while the Jap was in a store trying to arrange for the sale. Finding that the berries had been seized, the Jap rushed to his ranch and brought back some more berries. He asked for the right to pour more berries in each box, but was denied that until he had paid a fine of $5 for offering short-weight produce for sale.

Judging from the hundreds of automobiles passing through here to and from Huntington Beach Saturday and Sunday, Orange county must have liberally patronized the celebration. Anaheim sent a large delegation down to the beach town both days.

John Hartung writes from Genoa, Italy, that he has lately seen the treat of his life. It is the famous violin used by a world's most wonderful violinist, Paganini. It was bequeathed to the city of Genoa by Paganini. It is kept in a glass case guarded and sealed with the official seal of the city, with a specially made lock on the door. He was compelled to make application to see it and it was shown the treasure by a guard. Mr. Hartung, in his younger days, was one of the best violinists in Southern California, and this wonderful instrument would be of special interest to him. He was leaving on the 8th for Monte Carlo.

A Pinkerton detective was in Fullerton Saturday looking for a young man who gave the name of Ayres while he was in that town about two weeks ago. Ayres claimed to be a newspaper man and said he was supporting a mother and sister in Los Angeles. He stopped at the Hotel Pinson and when he departed gave a check on a Santa Ana bank for $20, bearing the signature of McAfee. The bank reported that it had no such name on its books and the hotel believes that Ayres forged the check as the handwriting seems to be the same as a part of a letter found in a waste basket addressed to his mother. The hotel swore to a complaint against Ayres and the detectives feel confident that they will locate him in a few days.

WATER COMPANY OBJECTS TO DAMAGE CLAIMS BECAUSE OF NEGLIGENCE OF WATER USERS

GRIST OF OTHER BUSINESS GROUND OUT BY BOARD AT SATURDAY'S MEETING

Anaheim, Cal., June 20, 1914.
A regular meeting of the board of directors was held on the above date with all members present, except Directors Beazley and Dwyer.

Minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

Superintendent reported the ditch on Garden Grove road in front of E. Borchert's property had been piped.

On motion duly seconded the pumping plant committee were given authority to proceed with the work of repairing No. 2.

On motion duly seconded the following section of the by-laws was ordered published: Sec. 22. Any person interfering with any of the gates or ditches of the company (unless requested to do so upon each occasion by the janitor), is liable to a fine of twenty-five dollars.

This section will be rigidly enforced as a number of damage claims are continually coming before the board as a result of carelessness on the part of stockholders, who, having finished irrigating, pull their gates without notifying the janitor, thus allowing the water to flood property not prepared for irrigation.

The application of Ed. Atherton for a gate was referred to the superintendent.

Applications on file for transfers of stock were on motion granted.

Application for A. B. Annin for pipe line was referred to the superintendent.

On motion duly seconded a communication received from the fish and game commissioner was referred to the S. A. R. D. Co.

Report of the Amalgamated Oil Co. for the month of May was received and filed.

Report of the St. Helens Co. for the month of May was received and filed.

Report of the Hurley, Smith & Collins Co. for the month of May was received and filed.

On motion the meeting adjourned.

BOY SEES BATTLE AND DON'T LIKE IT

Henry Brown Crossed the Border and Mixed With Belligerents

Henry Braden and wife, Mrs. Ed. Schleuter and her mother, Mrs. Muller, motored over to Little Bear Valley Sunday morning and after spending a few hours with friends returned in the evening. They brought back with them Henry Braden, son of an old-time friend of Mr. Braden's, who will spend some time visiting in Anaheim.

Henry is a lad of 12. Two or three years ago he spent one day in Valentine Valley in Mexico, two miles below the border and that, he declared, was as long as he cared to live in Mexico. On that day, sometime in October, 1911, he witnessed a battle between federal and rebel troops which raged around him, and afterward visited the camp of the victorious army. General Orozco was in command of one force, but whether he happened to be a rebel or a federal at that particular time the boy cannot remember; neither does he recollect who the opposing general was. Orozco won, which is pretty good indication that he was a rebel. This day's experience convinced little Henry that Mexico is an uncomfortable place in which to live. He prefers to remain on this side the Rio Grande.

The young people left for the north and will probably travel to eastern points and be absent several weeks before taking up their residence in the groom's new bungalow at Brea.

YORBA-LINDA CASE NOW IN COURT

Suit Against the Water Company Began Monday Morning

Monday morning Judge Thomas began trial of the action brought by property owners of Yorba-Linda against the promoters of the tract. Attorneys for the defendants tried to get the trial put off, but the court denied the motion. The reason for asking a continuance was that Attorney Haas, who has done most of the court work for the defendants in these cases, is unable to be present at this time.

Attorney Carr, representing the plaintiff land owners, stated that some of the plaintiffs had come a long distance for the trial, and that the plaintiffs had gone to a considerable trouble to be present.

It was stated by attorneys on both sides that the first evidence to be submitted would be documentary, and adjournment was taken until Tuesday morning so that the attorneys might stipulate as to what evidence should be admitted without question. The taking of evidence from witnesses should commence Tuesday.

There are four cases being tried in one trial, the issue in all the cases being the same. It is alleged by the land owners that the Yorba-Linda Water Company, and those who formed it, including Peter Jans, Jacob Stern, H. W. Frank and M. N. Newmark, failed to fulfill their contracts in regard to the development of water to the Yorba Lindans, who seek by the court to get their remedy. The land owners allege that bonds were issued by the water company for which no consideration was received, and that the water users are assessed to pay interest on the bonds.

A LONG JOURNEY
W. E. Barnard, who returned to Fullerton recently after a journey of several months over mountain and desert, will resume his travels this week in the interest of the chamber of commerce. In spite of the hardships endured, his physical condition is greatly improved and he hopes that he will be restored to health.

He proposes to cover a distance of 5,000 miles in the next 12 or 14 months. His route will be through the Imperial Valley and Arizona, New Mexico and Texas to San Antonio, thence north to his former home at Mitchell, S. D., passing through Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and a corner of Iowa. On the return trip he will make for Cheyenne, Wyo., and from there will follow the Lincoln highway route through Utah, Nevada and across the Sierras to San Francisco, coming down by the coast route to Fullerton, after stopping to see the big fair.

Mr. Barnard will distribute literature advertising Fullerton and Orange county. He has a complete outfit for a trip of this kind, including three burros and camp equipment, tent, bed roll, cooking utensils, canteens and knapsack.

Jerry Howard has returned from Victor Valley, where he went to look into contracts for well digging operations in that section. He met a number of former residents of this city, and may later return to sink a number of wells.

S. J. Finley and wife of Los Angeles visited with Mr. and Mrs. Charley Halley Sunday.
