THOUSANDS HEAR REPUBLICAN ORATORY

G. O. P. ENTHUSE AT FIRST BIG RALLY OF THE CAMPAIGN.

Judge Phil D. Swing of El Centro, and Judge Rex Goodell of San Bernardino, Address Large Audience Saturday Night. Meeting Follows Torchlight Procession in Which Many Santa Ana Participants.

Oratory, music, torchlight and cheers characterized the first demonstration of the campaign in this city Saturday night. Republicans from Santa Ana and other sections of the county came over to help enthrone and to hear Judge Phil D. Swing of El Centro, republican candidate for congress, and Judge Rex Goodell of San Bernardino, who assisted the speaker of this section upon Wilcoxism and expounded the doctrine of the G. O. P.

The Santa Ana delegation came riding in a long string of autos and bearing torches. The county seat band accompanied the delegation and assisted the Anaheim Elks' band in making inspiring music for the occasion. Banners bearing the name of Harding and Coolidge and Shortridge and Swing were displayed by almost every auto.

Headed by the two bands a procession was formed on South Los Angeles and marched to the band stand on West Center, where the speaking was held. An immense crowd of enthusiastic men and women surged about the stand packing all the vacant space, as well as the sidewalk and street. Listened to the convincing arguments of Judge Swing and Judge Goodell.

Attorney William P. Webb, Jr., an overseas soldier and president of the American Legion Post, presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers. He first introduced Judge Swing, the nominee for Congress, who explained his position on the issues of the campaign in unmistakable language. In part he said:

"The United States has nothing to gain through joining in the League of Nations," said Swing. "European powers have much to gain, and I say let them take the burden of the league along with its benefits. Fourteen months have gone by since the League was formed, and there are forty-one signers to the pact. Has the league stopped or prevented a single war?"

"I went to war, and I am ready to go again at the call of my country, but not at the call of any foreign country or combination of foreign countries."

"We must look to our domestic affairs. Europe's industries are getting on their feet, and are beginning to push their surplus on to American markets. It is time we considered that situation. I need not tell you what the invasion by foreign legions has done to lemonas. Lack of tariff is one of the prime causes of the present disastrous situation. I am informed that there are ten million pounds of Chinese walnuts coming to America this fall. How will that hit our walnut growers? Need I say that it is just situations as our walnut, lemon and bean men face that makes me take as my campaign slogan 'America first'?"

"I hope that we have the foresight to keep this state for our children and our children's children, to keep it a state in which the English language is spoken, instead of the language of the Mikado."

Judge Goodell's talk was largely on the necessity for tariff protection to California's industries, but he touched on other issues before the people and made a convincing argument.

"There are great problems before us," he said, "and I ask you to vote not only for those who will advance your own personal interests but those who will advance the interests of the nation at large. That is the all-important thing in this campaign—America's interests."

of the finest type of American citizenship.

"Senator Harding knows what a protective tariff means to this part of the country."

The speaker urged that Orange county give a strong vote to Samuel M. Shortridge, Republican nominee for United States senator, and Judge Swing for congressman.

He declared that it is practically certain that Harding is to be elected. California, by all means, said he, should have a strong Republican delegation at Washington during the next administration, not only because California should back up the Republican administration, but also because it will be to the state's interests to have Republicans at Washington during the Republican administration.

This was the first rally of the campaign in this city, but the county central committee is preparing for others.

There is to be a great awakening throughout the state during the last week before election, and it is confidently predicted that California will give Harding and Coolidge at least 200,000 majority, and that Shortridge and Swing will be elected by overwhelming majorities.

REPUBLICANS BUSY

Substantial progress has been made in the past week in product organization among Republicans.

This is the report made to the Republican County Central Committee meeting Saturday afternoon by the committee chairman, A. E. Koepf. Koepf said that a good deal of literature had been sent out of headquarters, and that a good many Republicans were calling there daily for literature and buttons.

"I believe interest is picking up rapidly," said Koepf.

Reports from all over the county were to the effect that there is no question but what sentiment is strongly Republican. They said that the one big thing is that the Republican campaign has to do is to get out a heavy vote.

"The heavier the vote, the greater will be the Republican majority," declared the committee.

PROMINENT MAN STRICKEN BY DEATH

F. C. BENJAMIN, PRESIDENT FIRST NATIONAL BANK, PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY

Stricken With Heart Disease at Seven O'clock Saturday Morning, and Dies Within a Few Moments—Came to Anaheim Two and a Half Years Ago, Purchasing C. E. Holcomb's Interest in Bank.

Announcement of the death Saturday of F. C. Benjamin, president of the First National Bank, came as a shock to the people of this community, as he was stricken without warning, and many had seen him at his post of duty the previous day, apparently hale and hearty. Heart failure was the cause of his death. He was attacked at seven o'clock Saturday morning before he had risen from his bed. Just before the attack came he had had a splendid night's rest and was feeling fine. A few moments after making the remark he began breathing heavily, and died within a few moments.

Mr. Benjamin came to Anaheim with his family two and a half years ago, from South Dakota, having purchased the controlling interest in the First National Bank of C. E. Holcomb. He was born in Wisconsin in 1860 and was sixty years of age. Shortly after his marriage in 1883 to Miss Gertrude Hanton he moved to Brown county, South Dakota and began farming. He subsequently became president of the First National Bank at Frederick, S. D., and was county treasurer four years. In June, 1918, he purchased Mr. Holcomb's interest in the Anaheim bank and moved his family here. Many of the South Dakota people now resident here, were acquainted with Mr. Benjamin and his family in the old state, and it was partly through their influence that he decided to locate here. They gave him a splendid character and he lived up to it during his short residence here. He was an able business man, an expert at chess, a just and generous friend, and his passing is a decided loss to the community. Mr. Benjamin leaves a wife and one son, Horace H. Benjamin, who is cashier of the bank, and will probably succeed to his father's position as head of the institution. Samuel Kresmer, first vice-president, is acting president of the bank temporarily, until the directors meet and elect a successor to Mr. Benjamin.

Funeral services were held at Backs & Terry's chapel Monday afternoon, Rev. C. B. Hatch, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiating. The remains were laid to rest in the mausoleum of Fairhaven cemetery, Santa Ana.

Many floral offerings were taken to the church by members of the denomination and the Presbyterian choir, furnished music during the services. The pall bearers were Adolph Thomas, W. A. Dolan, W. J. Siemens, F. C. Krause, Charles Eysenhard and S. C. Harttrauf.

TRI-COUNTIES COMMITTEE MEETS IN ANAHEIM

Chairman Cattle Reported $15,000 Raised For Conservation Work.

The meeting of the Tri-Counties Conservation Committee was held at the office of the Anaheim Union Water Company Thursday, October 14th, about 20 members being present.

Chairman Cattle reported that the Nevada River Regulation Association had been organized by the passage of H. R. Bill No. 3184, better known as the Water Power Bill. In referring to the Bill it was pointed out that there is no provision in it for the care of the forest or water sheds or the regulation of stream flow, its sole and only purpose being the use or exploitation of this great natural resource. The only thing that could be construed as benefiting the water sheds from which the water comes is a provision that 50 per cent of the water power may be used under the waters from licenses.

The secretary of the department of the building of roads and trails in the national forests.

The members present seemed agreed with the statement that it would be practically impossible to get any substantial assistance from the national government and that hereafter the efforts of the committee should be more largely confined to securing state assistance to supplement the financial aid being extended by interested parties in the counties represented.

In this connection the Chairman reported that $12,500 had been subscribed and was now being paid in by the different water interests in the three counties and $2500 had been subscribed by the Board of Supervisors of San Bernardino County for the work of conservation during the coming season.

The Chairman was directed to attend the conference in San Francisco of parties interested in amending the Conservation Act.

Willis E. Jones of Pomona gave a most interesting and instructive address on conservation work being carried on by Pomona water companies at the mouth of the San Antonio canyon, illustrating his remarks by charts and plans which convinced his hearers that he had made a careful and effective study of the problem.

A committee was appointed to consider the matter of consolidating the Tri-Counties Reclamation Committee with the Water Conservation Association. This committee will report at the January meeting.

FARM BUREAU CONTEMPLATING LABOR DEPARTMENT

Directors to Investigate and Report. That the Farm Bureau is the logical organization for maintaining a labor bureau seems to be the sentiment of a large number of farmers in Orange County.

Several directors expressed their interest in the October Directors' meeting last Friday. The labor bureau was discussed in a labor department in the Farm Bureau and are willing to contribute towards its upkeep," said H. B. Woodrough, who has recently interviewed a number of bean and grain men in that section.

Mr. W. D. Johnston reported that the Farm Bureau had formed last spring at the Santa Ana City Hall for the purpose of supplying labor, but it has never functioned. Johnston is an employer of much labor in sugar beets. He stated that a permanent organization like the Farm Bureau could launch a labor department and make a success of it.

Farm Adviser Wahlberg will obtain data from the Conference of Farm Advisers at Berkeley this week in the matter of Employment Bureau and report to the Directors at the next meeting.

The Directors were instructed by President Belding to assemble all information possible for the next meeting in November.

OLD-TIME CITIZEN PASSES TO THE BEYOND

MRS. MALVENA J. MCKINNIE DIES AT HER HOME IN LOS ANGELES.

Was Born in Anaheim 58 Years Ago, Being One of The First White Natives of The Town—Daughter of John Fischer, Who Built and Conducted the First Hotel in Anaheim in the Death of Mrs. Malvin J.

McKinnie, which occurred at her home in Los Angeles last Tuesday, one of the oldest natives of Anaheim passed away. Mrs. McKinnie was the daughter of John Fischer, one of the fifty pioneers who founded the city, and she was born in 1862, when the town was very young and very small. She was married to Fred C. McKinnie, who was a clerk in the local postoffice, and thirty-seven years ago they moved to Los Angeles, where they have resided ever since.

John Fischer, father of Mrs. McKinnie, was a brother-in-law of John Hartung, his wife being a sister of Mr. Hartung. He was a booster in the small community and did much to assist the young town in its struggle for a place on the map. He started the Platters' hotel in 1866, which was the first hotel in Anaheim. It was situated at the corner of Los Angeles and Center streets. The building was destroyed by fire, but Mr. Fischer rebuilt it. He also established the first brick yard in Anaheim. It was situated on East Center street, on the ground now covered by G. W. Sandilands' prolific orange orchard.

Mrs. McKinnie, having grown to womanhood in Anaheim, was well known to all the older residents of the city, and her death was very sorely missed by many of the old-timers.

There is a story, persistently told and published, and generally believed, that the city of Anaheim was named for his sister Anna, who the story goes was the first white child born on Anaheim soil. By affixing the German word 'heim' meaning home, to her name, it is said the word was formed. This is all moonshine. The name was manufactured by combining 'heim' with 'Ana'.

The name of our river with the 'heim' blue-pledged, the meaning supposed to be conveyed being 'a home by the Santa Ana river. This is the origin of the name according to the old timers who got it straight from the pioneers who concocted the name.

After extending greetings, Mrs. Wohlford spoke on the work of reconstruction. She said that she thought that the time was soon coming when the state and state organizations would do a thing of the past and state and county organizations would do a thing of the past and state and county organizations would do a thing of the past.

Mrs. Lawton, of the faculty of the Southern Branch of the state university, spoke very earnestly on behalf of Amendment 12, and distributed literature bearing on the subject.

ASSAULT SUSPECT BEING HELD BY POLICE

MARSHAL STEADMAN OF OPINION GUILTY MAN NOW BEHIND THE BARS.

Mexican Given Chance to Explain His Whereabouts Night of Attack—Man Shows Signs of Nervousness, And Has Made Contradictory Statements, Police Say.

The Mexican giving the name of A. Duarte, is being held in the county jail, under suspicion of being the perpetrator of the brutal attack upon Florence Hammill, which occurred near her home on East South street several evenings ago. When the suspect was shown to another young woman of this city, whose name is being withheld by the police, he was readily recognized as being the man who had made an indecent exposure before her one evening previously as she was on her way home cast of town. Upon two separate occasions the fellow had annoyed this young woman, but it was not until the third time he had accosted her that he made an insulting remark to her, meanwhile indignantly exposing himself. Police officers have expressed this fellow as being a degenerate. Upon another occasion about three weeks ago two other young women were suddenly confronted on East street, as they were going to their homes in the evening, by a man who appeared in a nude condition. He made an attempt to grab hold of one of the girls, but she escaped him, and the two young women ran away screaming for help. This case was not reported to the police until after the attack upon Miss Hammill. No trace of the man was found. This was still another young woman, who had been attacked by a man near Los Angeles and Seamount streets, several weeks ago, will be given an opportunity to see the man held at the county jail, with a view of permitting her to recognize him as being guilty.

According to the description of the man this young woman believes is the man who layd her. The man is described as having a lath-like, or a sort of shuffling gait when walking, and this young woman says she can easily identify him by this means if he is the guilty party. His latest victim also says she can identify him by this same identification when walking. The man is said to be in a nervous state and when confronted by the young woman to whom he had made an indecent remark, he is said to have shaken like a leaf. The Mexican has been closely questioned by county officers and also by detectives of Los Angeles, who are trained up in dealing with cases such as these, and they have caught the man in making several misstatements regarding his movements about the time of this latest outrage which has greatly agitated many citizens. As for instance, when the man was asked if he had heard about the attack upon the young woman on South street, he replied, the police say, that he heard it at four o'clock that evening. As a matter of fact the attack happened at 6:30 o'clock. The man is to be further questioned by the Los Angeles officers within a day or two. How the perpetrator of these crimes has evaded arrest before is baffling, but he no doubt is cunning and has succeeded in escaping detection. Of course, it must be proven positively if the man is guilty, and local officers, while believing that they have the right man locked up, they nevertheless are not idle in running down any suspicious clues they may hear of, being determined to arrest and convict the man guilty of these attacks upon young women which have greatly shocked the community.

Duarte had a suit of underclothes in his trunk which had been washed and put away before they were dry. A pair of pants were also found in the trunk which had just been cleaned. He could not give the officers a satisfactory answer as to why he had washed the garments but he could not tell where the jacket was located.

AUTOMOBILE MEN LAUD JUDGE'S ACTIONS

JUSTICE J. B. COX'S COURSE EN-
DORSED BY THE ORANGE COUNTY CLUB

His Honor Makes Speech at Monthly Meeting at Santa Ana, Wednesday Night—Club Unanimously in Favor of Drastic Punishment of Speedsters and Reckless Drivers—Law Must Be Enforced.

The code adopted by Justice of the Peace John B. Cox in dealing with speeders and reckless drivers brought into his court, has the approval of the Orange County Automobile Trades Association. One hundred and twenty-five automobile men of the county, members of the trades association, met Wednesday night at James' in Santa Ana and voted unanimous endorsement of Justice Cox's administration of his court.

It was a lively session, "jazz" obtaining, both as to music and as to the spirit of the meeting. The session opened with a number of musical selections by the Del Signo orchestra, after Secretary Walter Blidick had decorated the heads of the men with crepe caps of various designs.

Robert M. Martland, secretary of the state association and Justice Cox delivered addresses. George R. Hamilton, president, and J. S. Busby, treasurer, of the Los Angeles association; Chas. C. Faber, special visiting delegate of the Los Angeles association, and John E. Spencer, secretary, were among the Los Angeles visitors present.

Introduced by Paul Price, president, as a man responsible for a large amount of good advertising that had cost the county nothing, Justice Cox was given a "big hand" when he rose to make his address. His remarks were frequently punctuated by applause. "I am very glad to meet you boys, but I doubt if you have said as much of me when some of you have met me in my official capacity in my court room," said Cox in opening his remarks. "I think the members of this association have backed me up in procedures in my court for the past ten years. I have tried to make Orange county's highways safe for automobilists."

"I have never allowed politics or ward heelers to influence cases brought into my court," Cox continued. "I have had letters from ministers who have endeavored to use their influence in securing the release of criminals. I have had men in high official capacity try to exert their influence in behalf of friends who have been brought before me."

"I am looked upon as a gruff, grizzly old man by those who do not know me. There are two men in John B. Cox. John B. Cox, as a citizen can go with you boys and have as good a time as any of you. John B. Cox, as justice of the peace, administers what he believes to be justice—the same brand of justice to all, whether the accused be poor and friendless or whether possessed of all kinds of wealth and friends. I have not been severe, except with those who have been severe themselves."

"There are some who say that 'the old man' ought to be shot. Such sentiment does not worry me in the least. I am placed in my position to administer justice and that is what I try to do, no matter what may be the character of the man brought before me."

"There is something needed beside the courts to remedy the evil of speeding and reckless driving, for the courts can't do it all. That something is that the drivers must be educated to the rules of automobile manipulation. The automobilists should be taught that. You must educate them. The dealers and auto tradesmen can perform an invaluable service by directing the attention of drivers to the law and cautioning them."

"We must take away selfishness, we must eliminate hurry. Antics must learn to take and give. We can't legislate caution, we can't legislate brains into the heads of the drivers—we can only educate them."

"Five people were killed in Los Angeles the other day. The driver drove his car on the tracks in front of a steam train. He had ample warning. He passed other cars that had halted at the crossing to permit the train to pass. He was either in a hurry or he was a reckless driver. What can we do with such people? Would punishment by imprisonment or a fine have any effect? Would punishment have any effect on this man who drove his machine in front of the on-rushing train had he been successful in beating the train to the crossing? He probably would have repeated the performance at the first opportunity."

Cox made reference to a number of cases in which he had imposed jail sentences upon men who stood high in their communities and to which attempts were made to influence the court.

Robert Atkinson, of the Reid Motor Company responded to Cox, approving and supporting him in his court record. He suggested that doctors adopt the policy of placing a copy of the state vehicle law in the hands of every one to whom a car is sold, and that attention be directed to the essential points of the law.

Martland, in his enthusiastic and clear-cut way, touched on many points relative to state laws and the automobile industry. He warned every member to be keenly alert to and watchful of new legislation proposed in the state legislature. He recounted instances of the last session where innocent-appearing bills were presented and which would have had serious effect on the auto industry of the state had they been passed. He touched at length upon the tow-car license situation and advised dealers that they should have a "non-dealer" license plate on every car used in low service where charge is made for the service. Such a license is not necessary on a car used exclusively for a free service to patrons, he pointed out.

Only one argument was necessary to prove to President Wilson that he ought to refuse to execute the shipping law passed by Congress and signed by himself, and that it gave preference to American as against alien shipping interests. Your true internationalist is less ashamed to serve other countries than he is to care for his own.

STEEN TAKES EXCEPTIONS

P. V. Steen of the Acme Dry Cleaners is figuring in two law suits this week, says the Placentia Courier.

He is being sued by Mrs. Roy Sharpless of Long Beach (formerly Matilda Owens) for $210 on a promissory note, and an attachment has been placed on an account due the Acme Dry Cleaners, for $167, from the Noonan Cleaning Works of Fullerton.

The other suit is one brought by Steen and his partner, Chas. Jerry, against the Noonans for the collection of the last named account, which represents work done for them by Steen & Jerry while they were running a cleaning business and had no plant. This work, Steen & Jerry claim, was to have been paid for each week, but they have had no settlement since August.

Mr. Steen takes exception to the statement published in one of the Anaheim papers to the effect that Miss Owens loaned him the money "in response to a hard luck story she is alleged to have recited to the young lady." This statement, he says, not only has no bearing on the case but is incorrect, as Miss Owens volunteered the loan. The note matured less than a month ago, and shortly before its maturity he was given to understand that it could run some time longer. As no demand was ever made for its payment he was considerably surprised to learn that suit had been brought.

The State of California charters the Chiroparactic Colleges and we think it only fair that the graduates from these Chiroparactic Colleges should be examined by a Chiroparactic Board and licensed if they are fit to practice their profession.

This seems to be a fair proposition and we hope that every fair-minded American citizen will vote "yes" on the Chiroparactic Initiative Measure which will be Number 5 on the ballot, election day, November 2nd.

VOTE YES ON AMENDMENT NO. 12

University of California, Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 18

Editor Anaheim Gazette:
In the letter to the Gazette this week it is the desire of the Amendment 12 Campaign Committee to inform the people in the citrus districts of the importance of Amendment 12 to them:

A few years ago the University of California asked for funds to establish a Farm school in the South, similar to the one at Davis. Such a small amount of money was appropriated that only a small tract of land was secured. This land is near Riverside. The establishment of the school was impossible since the University had no further means to advance the project.

The passing of Amendment 12 will insure the University a steady income. The establishment of a large Farm School will then be possible. This cannot be other than a great advantage to the citrus growers of the south. A University Farm School at Riverside will mean that the growers will be informed of the latest and best methods in the Citrus industry.

Sincerely,

STANLEY M. FALKENSTEIN

SEWER FARM CASE
POSTPONED A WEEK

Court Will Trench Out The Fullerton Muddle Today

The "lower farm case," in which five residents of the Orangeflake district are suing the city trustees of Fullerton to have declared void the recent annexation of certain alleged parts of the city of Orangeburg, Buena Park, and Brookhurst by Fullerton, was continued, after partial hearing by Judge Williams of the Superior Court.

The territory in involved is connected by a strip of public highway, Magnolia avenue, and its location, by the Orangeflake complainants, that the people who lived along the highway were deliberately excluded.

The case was opened up by Attorney M. B. Wellington, of the legal firm of Bishop and Wellington, representing the plaintiffs. The argument was mostly of a technical nature, consisting of the citing of authorities, and previous cases on record in California. Wellington's principle contention was that the annexation had never been completed because it had never been approved by the State of California nor a Certificate of Annexation issued. The annexation was, therefore, neither de facto nor de jure, according to Wellington.

The contention of the attorneys for Fullerton, Attorney Laurence and E. J. Marks, was that the annexation had been completed with the canvassing of the votes of the five voters in the alleged annexation election, and the passing of the annexation ordinances by the Fullerton city trustees.

A demurrer filed by the Fullerton attorneys, alleging lack of sufficient facts in the original complaint, was laid aside by Judge Williams on its merits rather than on technicalities.

OFFICIAL CITY PAPER

WANT A CHANGE

"Unrest, discontent and a general desire for a change are the contributing causes that point to the election of the Republican ticket in November" is the statement of W. V. Stafford, former State Harbor Commissioner, of San Francisco.

Stafford recently returned from an extended business trip throughout the State during which he had an opportunity to interview men and women of all classes and vocations.

"It looks to me as if we are on the verge of a victory for Harding, Coolidge and Shortridge," said Stafford. "Everything points to it. It seems to be in the air. I do not believe it is a question of men before the voters today. Expressions of dissatisfaction are heard on all sides. The post-war conditions are not what they should be after two years of peace and the Democratic party must bear its burden."

"Good Democrats have said to me that they believe a permanent adjustment of the country's affairs cannot be accomplished until we have a complete change of administration. I look for Shortridge to win without any question. The people are doing a lot of thinking, and I do not believe the people of California are going to vote to elect Senator Harding President and then cripple his power by choosing a Democrat for the Senate. That is the kind of talk I have heard on my trip and I believe it is general throughout the State."

FAITH IS JUSTIFIED

Slowly but surely, the price of Liberty Bonds continues to rise. The most notable thing about the situation is that this price increase persists in the face of a falling market for most other securities, including those of corporations of known strength and sustained prosperity.

When the price of Government securities was at a low ebb and many industrial stocks were rising and paying high rates of interest, many people sold their Liberty Bonds to buy the industrial stocks. Today the latter sells for less in the financial centers than the former.

The present situation is a pleasant commentary on the stability of the nation which has weathered the storms of war and reconstruction. It is a good lesson, too, on patience and conservatism in investment, and a fair illustration of the fact that the great underlying principles of business are neither wiped out nor rendered ineffective by any temporary disturbance, even that of war.

Those who labored to sell Liberty Bonds to their fellow citizens will rejoice at the vindication of their faith and their efforts. The bonds did their full share toward winning the war. Nobody can doubt that. And now they are proving an increasingly good investment for those wise enough to hold them.

A NEW CORPORATION

Articles of incorporation of the Continental Financing Corporation of Anaheim, were to be filed with the county clerk.

The authorized capitalization is placed at $500,000.

The handling of automobile paper will be the principal activity with which the corporation will concern itself, it was stated.

The officers are: William A. Dolan, president of the Anaheim National Bank, president; A. B. McCord, cashier of the Anaheim National Bank, vice-president; Robert Vincent, Anaheim manager for the A. A. Peterson corporation, treasurer and manager; H. G. Ames, city attorney of Anaheim, attorney; E. P. Lynch, also connected with the A. A. Peterson corporation, secretary and cashier.

The new corporation it is stated will be the second largest financial institution in Orange county. It does not propose to compete with established banks and will have no deposits. However, it proposes to accept deposits of money and will confine its major activities to handling automobile paper.

The articles of incorporation will permit the concern also to deal in real estate and to erect a building suitable for its needs. In addition, it will be permitted to assist in the erection of buildings. Temporary offices will be opened in the Odd Fellows building at Anaheim.

SHORTRIDGE AND STEPHENS TO SPEAK IN ANAHEIM

Will Be Here For Luncheon and Speak at 1:30 Saturday.

The itinerary of Samuel M. Shortridge Republican nominee for United States senator, and of Gov. William D. Stephens, who is campaigning for the national ticket and for Shortridge, was announced today by A. E. Koepsel, chairman of the Republican county central committee.

Shortridge and Stephens will speak no less than half a dozen times in this county Saturday.

Republican committees plan to make the day the biggest rally day of the campaign.

On Friday, Shortridge and Stephens will speak in San Diego. According to plans made at Riverside yesterday, the Republican candidate and his party, which will include Mrs. Shortridge, Gov. Stephens and the governor's executive secretary, Martin Madsen, will leave San Diego at 8 a. m. Saturday.

All of the meetings are to be open to the public. On the way north, the speakers will stop at San Juan Capistrano and Tustin. A delegation of Orange County Republicans in automobiles will meet them at San Juan Capistrano. It is proposed to have five or more automobiles in line for this reception.

The visitors will be escorted to Anaheim for luncheon, and during the afternoon three meetings will be held. They will be at Anaheim, Fullerton and Orange.

An early dinner is being planned. It is to be at Elks dining room at Santa Ana. S. M. Reinhaus is the committee man in charge of the dinner. Anyone desiring a reservation for the dinner should notify Reinhaus not later than Thursday evening.

The Governor and Shortridge will ride in the evening's parade at Santa Ana and Orange.

The parade is not going to be a plain affair. The committee, of which J. E. Lehigh is chairman, held a meeting yesterday and discussed plans for the parade. A lot of "secret stuff" is being arranged. Some surprises are to be sprung on the public. The committee declare that the parade will furnish a blaze of light and some features never before presented in a political parade in this county.

The parade is scheduled to start at 7:30 o'clock. It is to be divided into two divisions. The first division will be led by City Marshal Jerriam as grand marshal, and by the Santa Ana band. Men at foot will follow the band. In the second division will be decorated automobiles for women voters. The third division will be led by the Anaheim band, and the Republican clubs from over the county are to present whatever features they may desire for this division.

NATIONAL FARM BUREAU HELPS CUT RAISE

Farm Bureau Only Protecting Farmers' Organization.

Senator Silver, representative of the National Farm Bureau at Washington, D. C. has recently advised the Directors of the Orange County Farm Bureau that it has been the object of the efforts of the Farm Bureau which was the only farmer's organization at the hearing of the Interstate Commerce Commission the recent increase in freight rates would have been appreciably higher. It was instrumental in distributing the increase to passenger rates also. The fact of freight rates only, thus cutting down the original schedule of higher freight and putting some of the burden on the passenger traffic. A portion of the letter bearing on this matter is reproduced herewith:

"Mr. H. B. Woodrough, Harper, California.

Dear Sir:

In reply to your letter of the 18th just at hand, would say that we fully secured all I mentioned to you and I expect them some, although the great increase that was made may seem that it might not have been higher. I want to assure you, however, that but for the Farm Bureau Federation the increase would have been much higher in the different directions.

First we asked for a report on the items that were to make the gross valuation asked for, namely, $20,630,000,000. When we got those items and checked them over we found that the railroads had put all their tunnels, fills, cuts, bridges, cars, etc. in at replacement values as of today. A profit on that score got a reduction of $1,800,000,000 and the American Farm Bureau Federation was the only protestant against allowing the full amount.

Then again, we asked for the basis of disbursements for an estimate of costs for the rehabilitation of the railroads for which the increase was asked. On that score, and we are the only protestants, we had eliminated from their first request an amount of money equal to 16 per cent of the railway interests.

Again, after the gross award had been allowed when the railroad representatives negotiated for a great loan of an undetermined amount but exceeding $100,000,000 and perhaps several hundred millions, on a basis of 3 per cent interest, a protest from the same source caused the Interstate Commerce Commission to suggest to them that no loan would be approved bearing a rate of interest greater than 7 per cent.

Another phase of the work is that the request was made for an increase in freight only. In other words, the railroads proposed to put all the increase of freight of which the farmer contributes much of the larger part, but the Farm Bureau representation was made that it would only be fair to divide the rate of increase between the freight and passenger rates and this was agreed to by the Commission, and as the farmer does not contribute anything like the proportion of money to passenger service that he does to freight the result was a saving to the farmer from that viewpoint. So while the rate seems high it is not nearly so high as it would have been but for the items rectified above.

(Signed) GRAY SILVER

DEMANDS LOWER RATES

Stating that freight rates on road building material had advanced 220 per cent since he assumed the office of purchasing agent, that he is negotiating with railroad officials for an adjustment and intimating that he probably would be granted concessions, for the county, F. W. Slabaugh appeared before the Santa Ana city council and asked if that body had given the subject of rates any consideration or taken action.

He said he thought that if the county was successful in securing the rate such rate should be made commercial rather than exclusively for the county. He wanted the opinion of the board as to what rate should be asked for.

The council has taken no action in the matter of reduced rates because it does supply these materials to contractors. The county does. J. W. Tull and Charles H. Chapman were appointed a committee to cooperate with Slabaugh in rate adjustment negotiations.

"I have filed a protest against the rates for Orange county and if the council has been considering the matter of a protest, we might get together," said Slabaugh.

"I have seen the rate on rock advance from 25 cents to 80 cents per hundred pounds since taking the office of purchasing agent," Slabaugh continued. "This is an increase of 220 per cent. It is unreasonable. The cost of rock has advanced only 33 1/3 per cent. Other counties of Southern California have also filed protests against the present rates."

"We met freight agents of the companies recently. We had an all-day session with them. I believe that we convinced the agents that the charges are exorbitant. I feel that we will get an adjustment. In fact, the negotiations have gotten to the point where the agents have asked us what we want."

"It is a question of the rate we want, and whether it should be a concession to the county and municipality, or whether it should be made commercial. I believe it should be commercial."

"We are willing to concede that the original rate of 25 cents would be too low under present conditions. However, the railroads certainly are not entitled to an advance of 220 per cent. We presented to the agents the matter of discrimination in rates against Southern California as a basis for our demand. We pay a minimum of 80 cents on rock where the North pays 60 cents. I do not see this. The representatives also claimed that freight could be handled in the San Joaquin Valley more cheaply than in the South. In the North the company can handle one hundred cars as cheaply as it can fifty in the South, the agents claim. This possibly is true."

"If we fail to get an adjustment I will take the matter all the way through to the railroad commission. We must make answer as to what we want by November 1. Any advantage that comes to the county should accrue to the city, and for the city to benefit it will be necessary to make the adjusted rates available in a commercial way."

GAS COMPANY HEARING

The application of the Southern Counties Gas Company to increase its charges for natural gas in what is known as its Eastern District, comprising all of Orange County, the Whittier District, the Pomona Valley cities, together with the Monrovia District, was heard Tuesday morning in Los Angeles by Railroad Commissioner Harvey W. Brundage.

The city attorneys of several interested cities were present and took part in the hearing. Arthur P. Bridge, Rate Engineer for the Gas Company, and F. S. Wade, Superintendent of Operation, were on the stand during a greater part of the hearing, the latter being concluded at one o'clock after Harry L. Massar, Engineer for the Commission, had cross-examined the Gas company witnesses.

It was brought out by Engineer Bridge of the Gas company that the existing industrial rates were based on a cost of the service to the consumer as measured by the cost of competitive fuels. Since July 5, 1918, when the present rates were established, the prices of fuel oil and distillate have increased $5 per barrel while the cost of natural gas has remained unchanged. According to Bridge's testimony the value of the service to the industrial gas consumers greatly exceeds what they pay for it under present rates.

The testimony showed that increased rates were needed for necessary repairs and unavoidable extensions, several of which have been started in order to meet requirements of its consumers. Chief of these essential improvements are additional compressors at Brea, for boosting the gas pressure, a new line from La Habra, and three several distribution mains in Santa Ana, a 12 inch transmission main from Savannah Commers to Duarte road for Sierra Madre and other transmission lines and distribution mains to take care of the growing demands of the Southern Counties consumers. The total cost of these improvements aggregates $130,000,000 of which $93,271 had been expended up to June 30, 1920.

"These," declared Bridge, "are indispensable improvements and represent the minimum expenditures necessary to provide continued service to existing consumers. Several of these jobs are in progress and all should be completed to provide for the 1921 peak conditions."

"When the present industrial rates were fixed in 1918," continued Bridge, "the basic costs of gas in all of the districts comprising the Eastern District, were considerably less than now. The average field price of gas was less and compression costs were relatively smaller."

The average increase asked for by the company in its proposed schedule submitted at the hearing as applied to this district was 20 1/2 per cent.

The case was taken under advisement by Commissioner Brundage and a decision will be handed down at a later date.

REFINERIES AND SUGAR PRICES

That beet sugar refiners did not expect sugar prices to slump as they have in the past few weeks is clearly indicated by the fact that, in reuniting for deliveries in August, checks were mailed to growers on the basis of 12 cent sugar—22 cents net to the refineries.

It is evident that those who were in close touch with the industry were in no better position to anticipate the market than were the growers or the public in general. It was regarded as certain that the net returns to refiners would be 12 cents.

The companies have found it necessary to reaudit the accounts of the growers, and have established the base price at 9 cents.

Statements just mailed to growers announced a revision of the base price. Checks were enclosed for those whose net payment on the 12 cent basis did not exceed the total under the 9 cent base price. In some instances statements show the individual grower indebted to the factories. The factory managers hope that the situation will adjust itself and that prices will reach a figure that will net 12 cents.

The contracts with growers for this season were based on the average net selling price of sugar to refiners for the full year. Payment is provided for on the basis of what auditors determine as the average price, after careful investigation of selling accounts. It is said that even should the returns to the refiners be no more than 9 cents net, the Southern California growers will yet have a far better contract than growers in the East. It is expected the average percentage of sugar content for beets grown in the southern will be between 15 and 17 per cent, which will mean an average of about $13.20 per ton at the 9 cent rate for all beets delivered at the factories named, due to the hot spell in August. The sugar content this year is about one per cent below normal, due to the hot spell in August.

At Eastern points it is understood that growers contracted to deliver their beets at from $10 to $12 per ton flat, with an increase of $1 per ton for every dollar above $9 net received by the refiners. In the East, as a result, there is an incentive to produce beet carrying large sugar contents as against those carrying the lower.

It is asserted that the local contracts are far more advantageous to the growers.

crop at extreme high cost. During various seasons between the planting and the harvesting, the producers have paid high wages, and paid them cheerfully, expecting to receive good returns—at least 12 cents as the minimum net price for the refined product. The factories so far have disposed of a very small portion of this year's production, according to a statement mailed to the growers. There is no probability that the market will react and that before the entire output is disposed of a portion of it will sell for a figure that will make it possible for the factories to pay close to 12 cents. The future alone can determine this feature.

PERPLEXING PROBLEM

Whether visiting motorists will be "tenting" tonight on the old camp ground is a question which is perplexing many Southern California cities at the present time.

An unusual influx of out-of-state motor parties, scores of them clamoring for a place to "camp out" near the business section of the towns through which they pass, has brought up again the question of municipal camp grounds, according to officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Many towns and cities in the southern part of the state have already provided free camp sites for their touring motorists, but many have not, points out the Auto Club, and now these are deciding to whip themselves into line. All the way from Imperial County and San Diego northward to San Luis Obispo the question of providing adequate camping facilities for motorists who have read in the east that California climate would permit out-door living in the winter has become a live issue in the last week.

Bakersfield is now considering the camp ground question, and so also is Whittier, according to the club touring bureau. In each city the Chamber of Commerce has taken steps to see that motorists have some place to park their cars and camp beside in rubbish heaps at the outskirts.

Cities which have already provided facilities for the motorists who wish to take advantage of Southern California's wonderful out-doors are listed by the Auto club as follows:—Alhambra, Anaheim, Buena Park, Calipatria, Corona, Escondido, Huntington Beach, Pasadena, Pomona, Fullerton, Long Beach, Los Angeles, Newport Beach, Imperial, Redlands, Riverside, Fontana Beach, San Bernardino, San Diego, San Dimas, San Gabriel, San Pedro, Santa Barbara, Seal Beach, South Pasadena, Sunland, Sunset Beach.

E. H. Burger, 40, a prominent rancher, living northwest of Anaheim, was rushed to the county jail Monday for fear of violence on the part of the enraged residents of the district, after he had been arrested and arraigned on a charge of criminally attacking the 15-year-old daughter of Mrs. Muerdhead, who is said to have been Burger's housekeeper. The alleged attack took place Sunday night, it is said. After Burger's arraignment, he was given a preliminary examination before Justice of the Peace Hession at Buena Park. Burger pleaded not guilty and was bound over for trial on a charge of felony. Mrs. Muerdhead, declared to have been Burger's housekeeper for about eight months, is said to be a widow and to have two small children in addition to her 13-year-old daughter. Feeling is said to be running high in the district, and every possible precaution was taken to circumvent mobs of citizens which authorities feared might try to intercept the machine bringing Burger to the county jail in Santa Ana.

Dr. Ira Landtrich, prohibition orator, spoke to the students at high school auditorium Tuesday afternoon. He is campaigning for the Harris amendment to the California constitution which will be voted on November 2.

FARMERS AWAKE

California farmers have fully awakened to the danger of hard times that ahead unless given tariff protection.

This is the report reaching Samuel M. Shortridge, Republican candidate for the United States Senate, from lima bean growers, walnut growers, and citrus fruit growers during a campaign tour.

"The farmers are of one opinion; they are united on insisting that the Democratic administration with its protectionless tariff stand must go," declared Shortridge in a statement on the tariff situation.

"I have talked with the citrus men, the walnut, the wool, the poultry, the barley, the sugar beet, the bean grower—and I cannot too strongly impress upon the voters that our people must have relief," said Shortridge.

"No relief can be hoped for from the Democratic administration. At this minute the Democratic candidate is ignoring the tariff issue and hammering only on the Japanese situation, because he has nothing to offer. The farmers are lining solidly behind the Republican tariff program."

HELP A GOOD DAIRYMAN TO STAY IN BUSINESS

Milk is a perfect food. It contains protein, the equivalent of meat but in a more digestible form; sugar; fat; mineral salts or ash; water, and is rich in vitamins, the very necessary growth stimulating substance for children. It is a food that must be had. Consumers are everywhere complaining of increasing difficulty in getting milk, while dairymen are quitting the business in ever increasing numbers. Ask them the reason: Feed is high, milk is not. It is very hard, and not making a reasonable wage from it in consideration of living costs and of wages paid for much more desirable work of half as many hours in some other line. If some one suggests a rise in the price of milk such a howl arises that it threatens that person's standing in the community. Furthermore, the same customers who are begging for milk when feed scarce and all but the best cows are dry, will quit a dairymen who has striven faithfully to serve them through the pinch, and buy milk from the neighbor who has the grass, is green and there is some hope of a small profit from the business. All this injustice, for such it certainly is, is committed in spite of the fact that most dairymen are running a clean, sanitary dairy in strict accordance with the dairy law, while "neighbor's cow dairies" are not all operated upon a legitimate basis.

The solution: Apply the golden rule. Give your dairymen a reasonable price for his product and a contract for a year's delivery so he can conduct his business with some certainty of the future and make it extensive enough to guarantee you (the consumer) a good supply for the year around without worry.

Dr. Geissinger, the new pastor of the M. E. church, will conduct his first services here Sunday.

Harry D. Riley, Studebaker agent, reports the sale of a Light "G" Touring car to Mr. Frank A. Murch of Anaheim.

Senator James Phelan will pass through Anaheim Friday afternoon, operating at 3:30 o'clock from an automobile on the street. He will make a tour of the county that day.

Miss Janie Van der Veer fell while on her way to school Friday morning and dislocated her right elbow. The injury will keep her housed up for awhile.

Luigi Daneri had an exciting experience while hunting near Capistrano Saturday. He was bitten by a rattlesnake and in his efforts to avoid the reptile fell off a 25-foot bluff. His companion saved his life by tying a bandage around his leg and gashing the wound with his knife until the flowing blood washed out the poison.

Eugene Johnson received a telegram on Tuesday from his son Walter, at Waco, Texas, announcing the arrival of a new baby boy at his home in that city. The telegram added the new member of the family would be named Eugene. The happy grandfather telegraphed his congratulations, and forwarded his new namesake a check for $100.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Theodore have reached home after six months tour of Europe, most of the time being spent visiting relatives and friends in Mr. Theodore's old home, Greece. They saw Paris and Rome and many other interesting cities of Europe, and visited the famous battlefields of France. A sister and nephew of Mr. Theodore accompanied them home from Greece, and will probably reside in America.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Adams and family have taken up their residence temporarily at Balboa, having sold their home property here to Perry Mathas. Mr. Adams was unable to secure a home in this city, and as a result moved his family to the coast. He will later on erect a commodious residence on his Garden Grove ranch. He will still remain as manager of the Griffith Lumber Co.

Road hunters go down in the regions of the gun club for ducks that may fly over from one pond to another, but they are hard to get, usually flying high. But the hunters are persistent and are always willing to take a chance, especially when the club barons are on the job to help keep ducks on the wing. But the road hunters' lot is a sad one and quite often has to be content with a batch of mud hens.

Kochler Bros., the Lincoln avenue grocers have sold their store to F. A. Ashley, late of Michigan.

Somehow in the neighborhood of a half inch of rain fell Monday. The rain began about noon and came in intermittent showers until midnight.

Harry D. Riley reports the sale of a 1920 "Big G" Studebaker Touring car to Mr. Felix Stein of Fullerton, also the sale of a 1920 Special "G" Studebaker to Mr. Wm. Fassel of Yorba Linda.

An alarm of fire got out the department Friday afternoon, but the fire was not of a serious nature. A chimney on an old church building on Santa Ana street, occupied by several Mexican families, was found to be burning. No damage was done.

The open season for ducks and quail began Saturday, and already hundreds of birds have fallen before the hunters' shotguns. Anaheim sports generally get their game, and a number of them went out to the various hunting grounds, the opening day.

District Deputy Ida Mitchell of the Rebekahs made an official visit to the local lodge Friday evening. He was accompanied by a large delegation from Santa Ana lodge. An interesting program was rendered by the lodge after which the visitors were pleasantly entertained for an hour or more.

Armistice Day, November 11, will this year be a legal holiday in California. Governor William D. Stephens today so proclaimed it and said he would ask the 1921 Legislature to add this date to the list of permanent legal holidays in California. This action was upon urgency of the American Legion in California.

The new pipe organ presented to the Methodist White Temple by Mrs. Charles Eysenbrod and Mrs. William Wagner was dedicated Sunday evening, Rev. H. I. Rasmus of San Diego, district superintendent, having charge of the services. Leon Rice, the famous church organist, sang several selections, and the choral society under direction of Mrs. C. A. McCullah, furnished the balance of the music. The big church was packed to overflowing.

The registration in this city for the November election is 2018. This is an average of 200 for the ten precincts of the city. The largest precinct in the county is Fullerton No. 2, where the registration is 554. Considering the time required by each voter to consider the big ballot with its twenty amendments, if all those people vote between sunrise and 7 o'clock p. m., they will have to get a hustle on themselves. The election board in that precinct will have a strenuous time.

LOCAL NOTES

John Pefferly died at the Sanitarium Wednesday, funeral services being held at Inglewood Saturday.

The Olive Petroleum company is now making some progress drilling new hole, it is said, at 3060, with 145 feet of new hole made. The formation is a sandy shale and carries a quantity of oil and gas.

Drs. Johnston & Wickert have purchased the Iowa House property and will remodel and enlarge their quarters. This was necessary owing to increasing business of the clinic. These gentlemen recently purchased the Fullerton hospital, and state that it will probably be necessary to enlarge it shortly.

The new well located near Orange County park for the National Security company was started by Dr. Clark, a man who has made quite a reputation for himself locating wells. Drilling started last week, the hole now shows about 100 feet of hole. This attempt is in unproven territory. The Orange County Petroleum company's crew started drilling at the edge of Santiago canyon two weeks ago and now shows almost 500 feet of hole.

"The White Dove" will be the principal attraction at the Fairland tonight. The picture is founded on the novel of the same name by William J. Locke, the famous English novelist, who never penned a more powerful story. As the absorbing story of "The White Dove" unfolds itself in all its beauty and magnificent splendor it is apparent that William Locke, the author, has chosen as his theme a most unusual angle of human relations. It is more than spectacular in its vivid quiet intensity. A problem of the ages brought down to modern life. Friday night will be vaudeville, and Saturday night Louise Glaum, one of the screen's most popular stars, will appear in "The Lone Wolf's Daughter."

A cowboy story will be shown at the New Grand tonight. "Cupid—the Cowpuncher", is the name of it, with Will Rogers as the hero. Will Rogers in "Cupid, the Cowpuncher," is a tale of meriment blown in on a western whirlwind of laughter. Here you have a star whose face is a laugh, an author whose first, last and middle name is beguiling humor, and a comedy that is clean, diverting and satisfying. Not to speak of two or three dozen assorted riders of the range, just on the round-up and appearing for anything that promises a fight or frolic. It's Will Rogers on his own home lot, with a peppy pony between his knees and the magic rope that made him famous looped from his saddle. Friday and Saturday nights the comedy, "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" will be shown.

A suit asking for a divorce from William James Postelwait has been filed by Mary E. Postelwait, of Anaheim, who alleged that she and her husband have been separated for three years, and that he deserted her. They were married in 1906, and have no children. She also stated that Postelwait ceased to love her and mysteriously disappear for long periods of time without informing her of his whereabouts. She asks a divorce, her attorney's costs, court costs, and a stipulated sum per month for support while the suit is pending. She alleges that Postelwait earns $210 per month.

Leo Sheridan and Joe Wagner left on Tuesday afternoon for Imperial Valley where they will spend several days hunting ducks. They made San Diego on Tuesday evening, and reached the duck hunting grounds yesterday. Today they are probably slaughtering the birds to beat the band.

A warrant has been sworn out for the arrest of Henry Bolton, on a charge of passing a fictitious check with intent to defraud. The check is alleged to have been passed to B. J. Dresser, of Anaheim, and was for $15. In the complaint it is stated that the check was purported to be signed by "Charles V. Murray," which is a fictitious name, and that no such person exists. The police are searching for Bolton.

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the county clerk by the Valencia Irrigation company, which proposes to supply irrigation water by pumping plant to its stockholders. The orchardists who are interested in the company have land southwest of Anaheim. The directors named in the articles are P. H. Krick, Hugh Bell, Clarence Vandenberg, J. E. Talcott, and Samuel L. Welsh. Of the $15,000 capital stock, there is $4800 subscribed.

Fullerton High continued its mad career through the prep teams in its league Saturday, trampling all over Riverside High, 48 to 0. Shorty Smith's demon athletes evidently took things easy during the first half and didn't try too seriously. In the last quarter the game got together and crushed through Riverside for four touchdowns. McDermott and Shipkey were the shining lights for the winners.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rothschild of Portland, Or., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Harting one day last week. This was Mr. Rothschild's third visit to Anaheim in fifty years, and he expressed great astonishment at the wonderful improvements made in the city and vicinity since his last visit. He and his wife were driven by Mr. and Mrs. Harting on a tour of observation of the orange plantations and oil fields in the northern portion of the county. They expressed amazement at the extent and the importance of these two leading industries.

The belief of many that a registered voter in the same county within thirty days of election time, can vote in the precinct in which he is registered is based on a misunderstanding of the code. District Attorney L. A. West said Section 1239, paragraph 239 of the Political code, enacted in 1915, did contain a clause permitting such change. This section, however, when re-enacted in 1917, had stricken from it the clause permitting change of precincts within thirty days, nor was the clause reinstated in 1919. Therefore, citizens known to be the staff of life in the building program for the greater Fullerton Union High School.

Why Buy Poor Bread When You Can Get Good

The Health of Your Children Depends Upon the Bread You Give Them

Why should a housewife buy an inferior quality of bread for her household when she can get the best at the same price? Bread is the staff of life and the most important article of diet, and therefore you should be particular in seeing that your bread is pure, wholesome and well baked.

Make up your mind right now that your next bread order will be for the best bread on the market. There is never any doubt about getting the best if you order Dresser's White Lily Bread—at all the leading grocers or at the Bakery—AdV.

GRANTED PROBATION
ON ACCOUNT OF KIDDIES

Man Who Sold Other Peoples Furniture Goes Free.

"I am giving you this probation largely because of those two small ones there by your wife's side, who came into this world without their consent, and whose lives and whose chance in life I do not want to see marred or clouded through no fault of their own."

With these words, Judge Z. B. West announced the granting of probation to Fred Allen, who pleaded guilty to a grand larceny charge in Judge West's court.

Allen's pretty wife was visibly moved, and expressed herself as overwhelmed with joy at the turn of events. Meanwhile the two children babbled and played with trinkets, unaware that their destiny and the whole course of their lives had perhaps been changed by the tender heart of the judge.

Allen appeared to be very happy, and assured the judge that "he won't go straight, and be a man" heretofore, and that the present case, "had taught him a lesson that would last him the rest of his life."

Allen was held in connection with the removal and sale of furniture from a house Allen had rented from William Kellogg in Yorba Linda.

The probationary period is for seven years, during which time Allen must report every two months to the probation officer for the first two years, and every three months for the next five years. He must also confine himself to the seven southern counties of California, must not gamble or drink, and must pay back the amount owing on the furniture he sold, and his other debts.

Mrs. Allen testified that Allen had told her about removing the furniture two days after he had done it, and that she had advised him to confess to the whole business, and make it good.

It was testified that the furniture was sold to a second hand dealer in Los Angeles, Philip Samovskiy, thru the agency of H. Raliden, a second hand dealer in Anaheim. Raliden, it is stated, told officers that he "sent the stuff to Los Angeles because he didn't have room for it in his store."

While Judge West was questioning him, Allen said Raliden had urged him to sell the furniture even though it was not his. The price given for the lot was $225, of which Allen said he was given $112. Raliden takes the rest. Raliden has previously alleged that he only got $20 for his commission in making the sale.

That sensational charges may develop against Raliden in connection with the case was indicated by Judge West's statement in court regarding the matter.

"It is true that Raliden took his $112.50 as his part in the transaction, he is in reality nothing but Allen's partner in crime. I should like to have him before me to find out more about the matter. Raliden must have known what he was doing. He had the stuff moved at night, and he never came forward with information until they traced the goods to him. I shall have the matter looked into."

The value of the furniture was stated in the complaint to be $500. Judge West has instructed that information be gathered as to the real value of the goods, in order to determine the amount Allen is to pay. He said that while $500 was probably a little high, he was sure from his knowledge of the methods of some second hand dealers that they planned to make at least 75 or 100 per cent. on every transaction.

Not one stick of the furniture was ever found, it having been disposed of at once to unidentified persons by Samovskiy.

THE ALIEN LAND BILL

Twenty separate measures are to be passed upon by the electors of California on November 2d next, twelve being proposed amendments to the Constitution, five referendum acts and three initiative proposals.

The Alien Land Measure belongs to the last class, and will be number one on the ballot.

Simply put, its purpose is to strengthen the existing State law that prohibits the ownership of land in California by aliens not eligible to citizenship, by also forbidding the leasing of land to such people; and, further, to put a stop to evasions of our land laws through the fraudulent use by elder aliens of the names of children born here of foreign parents, and therefore citizens; and, also, to prohibit the illegal manipulation of our laws governing land corporations, such as the use of the names of citizens as dummy directors of companies financed and controlled by aliens. In addition, provision is made for the exchequer to the State of land illegally held, as defined in this amendment; and punishment is provided where conspiracy can be proved against two or more people to evade the provision of the law.

All rights guaranteed to aliens under treaties remain unimpaired. There is nothing in the proposed initiative amendment that is contrary to law, contrary to the Constitution of the State of California, contrary to the Constitution of the Government of the United States or contrary to any treaty existing with any Nation. The amendment was drafted and redrafted, and then submitted to various public associations and attorneys before finally adopted.

The issue is not political at all in a partisan sense. In the broadest sense, all things affecting the welfare of the people may be considered political. The present issue is, who shall have the economic control of California—the white people or the Japanese? Agriculture is the basic industry of all industries, and in California it is preeminently so, leading all others in value of production by $500,000,000 annually. Shall the Japanese control this output and reap the profits, or the white people? Shall the Japanese dominate, or the white people? One means, eventually, a brown man's California, the other a white man's. This is the issue—industrial, social and broadly political. On which side will patriotism sign itself?

Economic control means, in time, as population grows, political control—that is, control of the government. In Hawaii today the Japanese number 110,000 out of a total conglomerate population of 263,000! Do we want such a condition to be duplicated in California? Under Japan's dual citizenship law, the first allegiance of a Japanese, whether a citizen of another country or not, is to Japan! Need more be said?

The alien land bill now before the people of this State is the first step to prevent the loss of economic control. Congress must put through the second step, by closing the door to the unassimilable immigrant; and the people the third step by amending the Constitution of the United States to the effect that no child born in this country of parents ineligible to citizenship shall be eligible to citizenship.

COUNTY MAKES GAIN IN ASSESSED VALUATION

Now Stands Seventh in State in Point of Wealth.

Orange County now ranks seventh in the state in the total amount of assessed valuation, being outranked only by Los Angeles, San Francisco, Alameda, Fresno, Sacramento, and Kern counties.

This is the information contained in the statement of County Indebtedness just issued by the State Comptroller to County Auditor W. C. Jerome.

During the past year Orange county has moved ahead of Santa Clara county. Last year Orange county was eighth in the list.

There are only six counties in the state that have lower tax rates.

A statement issued by State Comptroller Chambers showing the values of property independentness and tax rates of every county in the state, has been received. These figures are taken from reports sent to the state controller by county auditors.

Orange county's total assessed value is $109,077,920. This county's total is only $5,000,000 below Kern's and $16,000,000 below Sacramento's. Next year this county will probably pass Kern and move up into sixth place. Not on the trail of Sacramento. Los Angeles has an assessed valuation of $1,255,207,920 and San Francisco has $819,437,920.

Although this county found it necessary to increase its tax rates this year in order to provide for additional expenses, largely those of the schools, it still has one of the lowest tax rates in the state. Its rate is $1.90 per $100 of assessed valuation. Inside "cities," where the county collects no road tax, the rate is $1.60.

Alpine county with $1.80, Glenn with $1.80, Imperial with $1.63, Los Angeles with $1.335 and Plumas with $1.60 have rates lower than this county's.

Thirty-four counties of the state have a rate of $2.40 or higher. One of them, Kings, has a rate of $4.50. Those with a rate of $3 or more are Humboldt, Kings, Mono, Nevada, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego, Santa Cruz, Shasta, Sutter, Trinity, Tulare and Yuba.

The disclosure that Secretary Baker has contributed only fifty dollars to the Democratic campaign fund demonstrates that Newt is reckless only when he is spending the other people's money.

Fred Stephens, an old man, cranked his auto which was packed on West Central street Thursday night while the machine was in gear. It promptly leaped onto the sidewalk and crashed into the front of the Style Shop in the Mitchell building, shattering into several million fragments two large plate glass in the show window. Stephens was slightly cut and bruised in an attempt to stop the runaway.

CHIROPRACTIC
PRIZE CONTEST LETTERS

These Letters are from Citizens in Answer to Our $100 Prize Contest.
—State Chiropactic Society.

WHY I SHALL VOTE "YES"
ON THE CHIROPRACTIC
INITIATIVE MEASURE NO. 5

The first reason is because a few chiropractic treatments did me more good last winter than all the drugs I ever took.

I do not believe in letting a selfish medical organization or trust, if you please, take away from the people of California anything that is such a boon as the chiropractors' profession.

Undoubtedly there are a few chiropractors that are fakes, but I dare say where there is one, there are ten in the medical trust. Might does not make right, and medical freedom is as important as religious freedom, I say, let the people say what they want and let them have what they want as long as what they want is not harmful to them or anyone else.

The people of California have as much right to have chiropractic treatments as the people of other states, and have it done legally.

Do not be deceived by the false statements of the medical trust. Find out the truth of the situation for yourself.

The chiropractors have proven their science by the fact that out of 1000 cases of "flu" they were called upon to handle, they only lost one, where the medical profession lost 180 out of every 1000 cases. I can tell you of people in this town that will swear by the chiropractor because they got help after years of useless and harmful drugging.

Vote YES on No. 5.

Ward No. 9, Tulare,
B. M. HOUCK, Tulare, Cal.San Bernardino, Cal., Sept. 23, 1920.
The State Chiropactic Society of California, Los Angeles.

Gentlemen:—Many are the reasons why

I shall vote "yes" for the Chiropactic Initiative Measure No. 5 at the coming election. First of all is that I positively know of the great good they are doing, and of a number of persons who have been saved the danger, suffering and expense of an operation. When I think of the vast number of those unfortunates who might have been spared that awful ordeal had they but known, I feel like going out and telling the world what I know of chiropractors and their work.

I feel that we have a right to choose whom we shall have to treat us with just as much freedom as we choose our religions or our politics.

Another reason why I shall vote "yes" for the measure is that I live near a hospital and have brought to my observation the vast amount of operations performed these days. There is no doubt in my mind that many could be prevented did the people know more about the work and success of chiropractors. Other states have boards of chiropractors and have found it most satisfactory and there is no legitimate reason why California should be behind her sister states in doing what is best for her people.

The future holds great opportunities for chiropractic work and I shall vote for the measure to hasten the day when people will try the chiropractor first and submit to operations only when it is found nothing else will help.

I will vote for the measure because to me it is the most practical method of regaining and keeping health.

I shall vote for it because I have been closely watching the work of Drs. Butler and Butler in our own little city and have seen the immense number of persons who have been cured of terrible afflictions by them.

Knowing of no earthly reason why I should vote against the measure I shall not only vote for it myself, but shall work very hard to get others to vote for it. Hoping the measure passes by a large majority, I am,

Sincerely yours,

T. L. BLACKBURN,

San Bernardino, Cal.

A small, wasteful item—small, illustrative of the War department's method of doing business—was pointed out by Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, during his Columbus, Ohio, speech of June 29, 1920. It was that the government ordered 331,000 horse brandings, 195,000 branding irons and 331,000 branding stamps.

This engaging piece of hokum said to have been received with rific bursts of weeping throughout administration circles in Washington. They could be heard from the House to the Capitol—which may be so remarkable, perhaps, seeing Pennsylvania avenue is lined with

A FRANK ADMISSION

It would, we think, be difficult to say more unmisleadingly than that the League of Nations, if it were in it, depend entirely upon the United States for military forces to serve in whatever part of the world they might be needed to enforce its decisions. The Great Britain and France have their forces so much occupied with making and holding territorial conquests for their own aggrandizement that they spare none for the League of Nations. As soon as they have completed their conquests elsewhere, they will consider helping and protecting Armenia. Meanwhile, they wish that the United States should send an army to Armenia and lead an army thither, so that they themselves could devote all their attention to prosecuting their conquests; and President Wilson proposes that Congress of the United States do this thing.
