FULLERTON LOST IN ANNEXATION CONTEST

COURT DECIDES ELECTION EXTENDING CITY LIMITS TO SEWER FARM ILLEGAL.

Our Northern Neighbor Finds Itself Blocked in Its Efforts to Secure Sight for Septic Tanks—Annelheim, Being in the Same Predicament, Extends Sympathy—Both Cities Facing A Serious Problem.

Fullerton's efforts to solve its sewer problem by running a short straggling down a country road a few miles and connecting with a ranch which it was proposed to incorporate within the city limits of Fullerton, has been blocked in the courts. The ranch is situated in the west country, some where near the Gilbert ranch on which the city of Anaheim made an abortive attempt to establish a septic tank some years ago, which scheme was blocked by the indignant residents of the neighborhood—running a boundary line around the tract and a few other farms, incorporating it and naming it the city of Stanton in honor of Phil Stanton, who is a large property owner in the neighborhood.

There are five other voters living on the Fullerton ranch, and at a recent election they voted unanimously for annexation to Fullerton, but the Orangepeople and Brookhurst people rose up in their wrath, put on the red paint and started something. They first held indignation meetings and then carried the matter into court. The case was heard Thursday before Judge R. V. Williams, and the court decided that the election was illegal, consequently the project falls through.

The contention of the attorneys for the Fullerton trustees was that the court did not have the right to review the case for the reason that Fullerton had assumed jurisdiction over the disputed territory, and that cases on record held that there could be no action upon a writ of review where de facto jurisdiction had already been established.

Major M. B. Wellington, presenting the case for the Orangepeople residents, showed that at the time the writ was applied for, the Secretary of State of California had not issued a certificate to the city trustees of Fullerton confirming the election and authorizing Fullerton to assume jurisdiction. Although such a certificate was, in fact, obtained after the suit had been filed by the Orangepeople residents, but before the case came up for argument, the contention of the plaintiffs was that the city of Fullerton had assumed jurisdiction automatically gave the court the right to review the proceedings.

Judge Williams, in rendering his decision, stated that the opinion of the court was that the alleged annexation of the Brookhurst and Buena Park district by a strip of land to the west did not fall within the meaning of the "State Annexation Act of 1915," which permits a city to annex only contiguous territory. The court also sustained the contention of the plaintiffs that the three tracts annexed did not constitute one parcel of territory, but three parcels, and that the three therefore could not be rightfully joined in one election.

"There is only one point in question in the court's mind, and that is, has this court the right to review the proceedings of the Fullerton trustees in calling and holding the election. I am satisfied that the annexation does not fall within the meaning of 'contiguous territory.' The Supreme court has repeatedly decided adversely on similar cases. This suit is, however, really a suit brought by a quasi-public corporation, the Orangepeople School district, its electors and taxpayers, against a public corporation, the City of Fullerton.

"Now I realize that had a certificate of jurisdiction been issued to Fullerton previous to the bringing of this suit, and had Fullerton already had de facto jurisdiction, this court would not have the right to review the case. But this jurisdiction was not, and could not lawfully have been exercised at the time this suit was filed. The question is, are defendants able to head off the plaintiffs in their suit by procuring such certificate between the time the case is filed, and the time the arguments are heard? "It is the opinion of the court that the action by the plaintiffs was brought in sufficient time to enable this court to review the case, and that the procuring of the certificate of jurisdiction does not nullify the authority of this court to review the election."

Residents of the Orangepeople, Brookhurst, and part of the Buena Park districts, Friday took further action to protect themselves permanently against the location of the Fullerton sewer farm in their section by filing with the board of supervisors a petition for incorporation, the proposed city to include, among other territory all those districts which Fullerton recently tried to annex.

The petition was filed through Attorney M. B. Wellington, of the firm of Bishop and Wellington of Santa Ana.

The new municipality will be known as the "City of Orangepeople." This population at present included within the district totals 560. The petitioners include more than 50 of these residents who are qualified voters.

The newly organized district contains practically all of the territory lying in the quadrangle between Fullerton, Anaheim, Stanton and Buena Park.

The new incorporation will permanently prevent Fullerton or any other city from obtaining jurisdiction over any of the land included in the new municipality, and thus entirely remove the possibility of a sewer farm being located in that district.

ORANGE COUNTY HONEY

Of the 300 tons of honey produced in Orange county all year, a heavy year for honey, all but some fifteen tons or sixteen tons have been sold at very good prices. The crop this year has brought him in more than $100,000 to beemen of this county.

Nearly every honey producer in this county belongs to the Orange County Honey Producers' Exchange, which is affiliated with the California Honey Producers Co-operative Exchange, which sells the honey for the co-operative producers of this state. This year the state exchange handled 5,600,000 pounds of honey.

Under the plan of organization honey is marketed in pools. All the honey of a certain grade goes into one pool. For instance, there are the white orange pool, the sage pool, and the alfalfa pool. This year the best table grades have been bringing twenty cents in bulk, and the darker honey, such as alfalfa, has sold for around fifteen and sixteen.

Many Orange County beemen have sold a good deal of their honey in small quantities to local users. Altogether the county exchange members have marketed 236 tons through the state exchange. The honey remaining in the county is practically all in the hands of producers who are not exchange members.

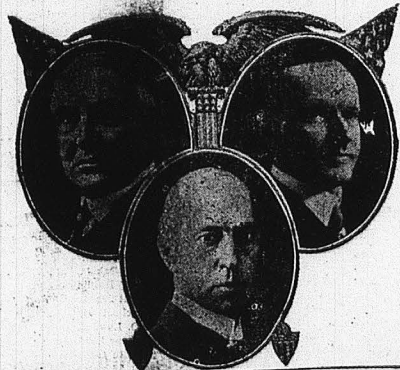

Last spring and early summer made a wonderful honey season in this county. Weather conditions were ideal. There was an unusual bloom in the mountain sections, and the bloom continued well into the summer.

One of the conditions that adds to the general success of the season is the fact that in addition to the honey taken out of their stands, producers have a good hold-over supply in the stands for winter feed for the bees. Last winter the producers had a good deal of trouble during the sugar shortage in getting honey at fair prices for feeding their bees during the season when the bees had no bloom on which to feed.

"I have a lot of honey left in the stands," said Roy K. Bishop, and all in the county is leaving it there. It is my intention to leave it there until spring. If weather conditions are right and the bees get to working early and are able to feed themselves, I will extract them. I think that most of the beemen have kept honey for feeding purposes. Andrew Joplin told me he figures there is about two tons of honey left in his stands."

Just now there is very little bee feed of any kind. The sunflowers are gone, and only a little clover is left here and there. It will be about six weeks before eucalyptus begins to bloom. Eucalyptus bloom is a valuable source of honey supply.

MAKE NO MISTAKE—VOTE FOR YOUR OWN INTEREST

HARDING—COOLIDGE—SHORTRIDGE

A vote for Harding and Coolidge, for Shortridge and Swing, is a vote for America First, for the preservation of our constitution, for a sane, safe and economical government, and for a tariff law affording protection to the work of your hand and brain. Don't make a mistake—vote for your own interest.

Samuel M. Shortridge, republican nominee for United States senator, and Gov. William D. Stephens wound up their campaign in Southern California at a monster rally at Santa Ana Saturday night. It was the greatest and most enthusiastic political meeting ever held in Orange county, 5000 people, it is estimated, crowded Birch park to hear these distinguished gentlemen speak. All day Saturday was spent in Orange county by Mr. Shortridge and the governor, speeches being made at Tustin, Anaheim, and Orange. A delegation of one hundred republicans, with county chairman A. E. Koepel in command, met the party at San Juan Capistrano as they crossed the county line, and accompanied them throughout the county.

The party arrived at Anaheim at noon and took luncheon at the Oyster Loaf cafe. At 1:30 o'clock, a large crowd of people gathered at the westside band stand where both the governor and Mr. Shortridge spoke. Both gentlemen were emphatic in their declaration in favor of anti-Japanese legislation, and Mr. Shortridge devoted some time to a discussion of the tariff. He said in part:

"Afraid of the tariff issue and of the damage that the Underwood free-trade law has done and is doing to California, the Democrats are now attempting to belittle the question, ridiculing the lemon industry and by false propaganda attempting to fool the people of the State by the statement that the tariff is not longer in the hands of Congress, but will be settled by a tariff commission.

"The Democratic candidate has spoken sarcastically of the lemon industry as a poor little orphan, or words to that effect. Another Democratic leader branded the issue as a joke. And now they come with misleading words to tell you that the tariff is out of the hands of Congress. You know better. I know better. The tariff commission is merely an advisory appointive body, and the fate of your lemon industry and of every other great industry in California rests in the hands of your chosen representatives in the Senate and in the House of Representatives.

"With a Republican President, Senate and House we shall return to the protective tariff policy to foster, aid and encourage our industries, return to the policy of our great leaders from the days of Washington—a policy that has brought untold prosperity to our nation."

"Orange county's lemons, beans and walnuts cannot compete with foreign products, where low wages are paid. You must have protection or those crops will pass out of your hands. George Washington was a protective tariff advocate. Throughout the history of this country tariff has brought prosperity, and a failure to follow that policy has brought us hard and difficult times."

"You have been told that tariff is not an issue, that the tariff commission will handle all this. Don't be misled. Every bit of tariff legislation must be initiated in congress. The commission is merely an advisory organization to gather information. If a Republican congress is elected the suicidal Underwood bill will be wiped out. Be assured of that."

"Let us think of Europe less and exclusion of Japanese more. I want to keep California to the type and standard of citizenship it has always maintained. Harding will start negotiations for a treaty to exclude Japanese, and if no treaty is possible he will see that the exclusion act is passed."

"Harding will seek advice and will heed it, for he recognizes that we live under a constitutional government and that the presidential chair is not an autocratic throne."

"If any date in our history is second in importance to that of 1776 it is 1793 when Washington advised that we avoid entangling alliances with foreign countries. That doctrine and the Monroe doctrine are our mainstays of government today as they have been for scores of years."

"I favor in the nation the same humanitarian laws that have been found useful in California."

"I stand on the Republican platform and with President Harding upon the issues of this campaign. I am for America first."

"If I am ever called upon to act for this nation," he said, "I shall never consent to allow any foreign council to tear one son from an American mother to be sent into Siberian snows or upon a European battlefield in any war that does not concern us." This declaration brought forth great applause.

"To vote for Senator Warren G. Harding with one vote and to vote for a Democratic Senator with another vote is but a betrayal of Harding for with the one vote the voter approves of allying and in the government and put into effect his policies and with the other vote for a Democratic candidate for the Senate the voter votes to cripple Harding and prevent him from putting his policy into effect to take away from the Republican party upon which Senator Harding must rely for the support of his policies, the control of committees and the majority of votes in the Senate that the Republican party should have with Senator Harding as our President."

Raymond Benjamin, assistant to Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, and chairman of the California Republican State Central Committee, thus emphasizes the necessity of electing Samuel M. Shortridge to the United States Senate.

"I want the people of California to know that Senator Harding desires the election of Mr. Shortridge and that by the election of Mr. Shortridge we will insure favor for California of the next President. The decision rests with us whether we will give Senator Harding the control of the Senate so essential to him and thus make sure of his gratitude, or whether we will present the sorry spectacle of being so impractical as to elect Senator Harding to do the work for us and then prevent him having that instrumentality through which the work must be done."

"The Republican party has a majority of just one vote in the United States Senate today and if we untowardly accident to one, Republican Senator would leave the party without control of the Senate."

"Any person who should vote for Senator Harding should vote for Shortridge. There is no excuse for doing otherwise and certainly no justification for doing otherwise."

"If the wheels on the right side of an engine are going in one direction and the wheels on the left side of the engine are turning in the opposite direction the engine can't but spin in a circle and get nowhere and this condition would be borne out by having a Republican President and a Democratic Senate."

"All of the policies necessary to the protection of our state have been espoused by and are the policies that Mr. Shortridge will contend for. For more than 20 years he has been an advocate of Japanese exclusion and has written and spoken on that subject. All of his life he has been a firm advocate for protection of California industries and production. All of his life he has been a student of history, both national and international and he is a gentleman of scholarly attainments."

ORANGE COUNTY'S RARE FRUITS

Hundreds of visitors went home from the Southern California fair, recently held at Riverside, deeply interested in the strange, exotic fruits that were featured in the Orange county booth in the agricultural tent.

All of these curiosities were grown in Orange county and in their native countries are regarded as staple products. They have been brought to this country from the south of Europe, the semi-tropical regions of Asia, the center of South America and the islands of South America and the islands of the sea and in many cases there is no reason why they should not prove valuable crops in Southern California. There was, for instance, the candle nut from China from which tong oil is made. Tong oil is the most delicate lubricating oil known, extensively used in airplanes. The United States government has contracted with China for all of the tong oil she can produce. The hunk of the candle nut yields a high grade varnish. This product of dual usefulness could well be made a valuable producer in Southern California.

The sacred apple is highly prized in Queensland, Australia, as a miracle fruit.

Fewer than dates are the Chinese jujubes and anyone can raise them in the back yard.

From Uruguay comes the feljo, the fruit that is said to embody the flavors of all other fruits. Even the skin is edible. This fruit is high in pectin and makes the most delicious of jellies. The sepolo blanco from South America is highly prized as a fruit to eat out of hand and the same is true of the garden peach from India.

Persian pomegranates grow larger than any other variety and they have been famous in history and literature since ancient times.

Avocados weighing three pounds are not unusual, but few people have seen the tiny ones that weigh less than an ounce. They are an unpolished variety with an excellent flavor and suitable for use in salads.

The cherimoya is a Peruvian product better known as the custard apple, a delicious table fruit.

Carissa grandiflora or natal plum was brought from South Africa and another variety of the same fruit comes from Egypt.

The rose apple from Hawaii and the tree tomato from Persia both have commercial possibilities.

Seedless sapotas from South America were brought from what is probably the only tree in the world.

Well known is the St. John's bread or carob tree pod. The sugar content of the carob bean is 54.4 per cent, far above that of the sugar beet which is only 20 per cent.

Some day some enterprising Yankee is going to discover a process for extracting the sugar from the carob bean and then—

Klondike walnuts attain an appalling size and bring a goodly price on the market.

Japanese grape fruit half matured are as large as the fully grown grapefruit raised in Southern California. They are bright green in color and never turn yellow.

Pound pears weigh much more than a pound apiece and Black Blush grapes are a particularly fine variety from Mexico, the crown squash and the cushion squash are little known varieties that are unusually palatable.

ATTACKED BY DOGS

Fred P. Jayne, president and general manager of the California Cattle company, has virtually recovered from injuries received when he was bitten by a big staghound while he was walking with Mrs. Jayne near Modjeska's four weeks ago Sunday.

According to Jayne, he and Mrs. Jayne were walking past in a canyon in which the dogs, said to be owned by Thomas Johnson, were kept. The dogs rushed out and attacked them, and although Jayne succeeded in beating off one of the dogs, the other of Jayne's knees, making six incisions. The dogs are said to have inflicted other people before, but have never before been known to have inflicted an injury.

Jayne warns people to beware of the dogs, which have been moved since the occurrence, to a canyon nearer Santa Ana.

Judge J. S. Howard, president of the club at the chamber of commerce room tonight. The purpose of the meeting is to arrange for election day, to appoint workers and secure autos in which to bring out the tardy voters. There should be a large attendance.

BIG CELEBRATION PROMISED ON NOV. 11

EVERYBODY JOINING HANDS TO HELP AMERICAN LEGION BOYS JUBILATE

Armistice Day Observance Promises to be Biggest Thing Ever Seen in Anaheim—Every Home in the City Expected to be Decorated With Patriotic Colors—Splendid Attractions At The Five Days' Carnival.

Every house in Anaheim, it is expected, will be decorated with the national colors on Armistice Day, Thursday, November 11. Merchants and owners of buildings in the business district have been requested to lay in a supply of bunting and flags in preparation for the day, and an appeal is made to the patriotic people to show their colors by decorating their residences. If the plans and the request of the American Legion Post are heeded by the people not a house in town will remain undecorated on that memorable day.

This is our first Armistice Day celebration, and it is going to be the greatest thing of the kind ever seen in this city. At the request of the Post every lodge and society in Anaheim has signified its intention of taking part and a monster parade is planned. Merchants, generally, have agreed to furnish floats and some of the societies also will have floats in the parade. As this is the only city in the northern end of the county holding a celebration, the Legion boys of Fullerton and Brea will join with the local Post, and several hundred of the soldier boys will be in line. Streamers will wave over the business streets, and the city will have colored lights strung across the thoroughfares. Speakers will be present to orate for those who care to hear, and it is promised that there will be spell-binders. They will be soldier boys, of course, who participated in the great war that ended on that day two years ago.

The carnival will be in full swing on Thursday as it begins Tuesday and ends Saturday night. The Veterans' amusement company will bring over some of the greatest attractions on the road and the people will be able to see something worth while in the nature of freaks, curiosities, shows, etc. There will be nothing objectionable in any of the concessions, and presently every man should make calculations on gathering his wife, his children, the baby and the family dog about him and seeing everything at least twice.

The Anaheim Elks band has been engaged to furnish the principal part of the music, but there will be orchestras and other musical attractions to assist. The carnival is given under the auspices of the Legion boys.

RED INK RETURNS PEEVE LEMON GROWERS

C. C. TEAGUE TELLS WHY THE LOCAL CITRUS PRODUCER IS LOSING MONEY.

President of California Fruit Growers' Exchange Gives a Los Angeles Audience Some Indisputable Facts on the Situation—Low Tariff Permits Flooding of Eastern Markets With Sicilian Fruit.

In a recent address before the Los Angeles Athletic Club, C. C. Teague, president of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, spoke on the subject: "What the 1929 Political Campaign Means to Some of Our Industries."

In part he said: "You have been asked to come here and consider for a few moments the political situation in this campaign as it affects some of California's important industries. And I have been asked to tell you something about the present conditions of the California lemon industry."

Working under the belief that they could ultimately take the markets of the United States and Canada from the Italian producer, and under the fostering care of the Republican protectionist tariff, the California lemon grower has not yet had 45,000 acres to lemons; 27,000 acres of which are bearing, 18,000 acres are in bearing, and 18,000 acres are not yet in bearing. These groves are now bearing about four million boxes of lemons annually, enough to almost supply the entire United States consumption, and from this time on will not only supply present consumption but the young groves will more than keep pace with the growth of lemon consumption in the United States.

Thus has been developed an American industry of sufficient magnitude to supply the consuming demands of the people. Now let us see what is happening to that industry. In 1913 a Democratic congress reduced the duty on Sicily lemons from $1.15 per box to 40¢ per box, a reduction of 75¢ per box.

The full effect of this reduction has not been felt until recently on account of the World War which broke out in 1914 and which so interrupted shipping that Italian lemons did not come to this country in sufficient quantity to dominate our markets; but now that the world war is ended, the exchange rate in Italian money has so depreciated that an American dollar will buy about five times as many Italian lire as before the war, which means, of course, that when the Italian sells a box of lemons in New York for $2.00 and converts it into Italian money, he has the equivalent of $10.00.

The freight rate on Italian lemons from Sicily to New York is forty cents per box, and from Sicily to British ports $1.00 per box, or 65¢ less than United States markets, which is an inducement to ship everything here that they can. The freight rate on California lemons to New York is $1.40 a box; or $1.00 more than the freight cost of laying down Italian lemons there. The present cost of producing lemons, f. o. b. cars, California, not including interest on investment, but only including labor and material costs, exceeds $3.00 per box, to which add $1.40 freight, and the cost of laying down a box of California lemons in New York City is $4.40, not including the cost of selling.

Now what has happened during the past year under these ruinous competitive conditions? There were brought in from Sicily during the year ending June 30th, 1,532,730 boxes of foreign lemons, or 150 per cent more than the previous year, which sold for $2.20 per box delivered in New York, or just one-half the actual cost of laying California lemons down in these same markets. Is it any wonder that the California lemon crop has been sold at an actual loss to the growers?

It must be apparent to anyone who thinks that California cannot meet, on the present competitive basis, the product of Sicily. It requires about ten years of time and the expenditure of $1,000 per acre in addition to investment in land and water, to bring a lemon grove to the bearing stage, and I submit to you gentlemen, and to the voters of the United States, whether it is in the interest of the people of this country to allow this foreign competitor, which, as I have pointed out, due to our conditions cannot possibly be met, to ruin one of our important industries. It looks so hopeless to our lemon growers that some of them are already giving up their groves or sending them to other varieties. If this is allowed to continue in a few years we will find that America's production of lemons will have again fallen far below our consumption, and we will again be dependent upon a foreign supply, which, when European conditions return to pre-war normal, will be diverted back to the usual channels, in which case our people will be paying more for lemons than ever before, and the proceeds going to enrich foreign producers.

Now I have shown you the condition what is the remedy? The answer is a higher protective tariff, at least until exchange conditions have become more normal. This, then, brings us to a consideration of the present political campaign. The Republican party has always been in favor of a tariff that would foster and develop industries in the United States to supply American consumption and that would protect American workmen from the competition of the cheap labor of other parts of the world where such action did not put any undue burden upon the consumers of the United States.

On the other hand the Democratic party has stood for a tariff for revenue only. Now when many of California's industries, as well as industries of other parts of the United States, are in the same situation as the lemon industry, surely it is of great importance that the people understand that Republican Senators and Congressmen must be elected, as well as a Republican President.

There will be no chance of having any of our industries considered unless there is a general revision of the tariff. If there is a general revision of the tariff it will only be undertaken by a Republican Congress. If a Republican Congress revises the tariff and California's Senators and Congressmen are Democrats, no matter how able they may be, California will not very little consideration, as in that case our representatives would not be a part of the working majority of Congress.

I well remember when I was one of the committee presenting California's claims for protection before the Ways and Means Committee of Congress, certain Republicans of that Committee delighted in reading California's Democratic record, and would draw the conclusion that, judging from that record, California really did not believe in a protective tariff. Hence it is of the greatest importance that a solid Republican delegation be elected to Congress in order that California may receive the consideration to which she is entitled.

On account of the great distances between California and the great consuming markets of the East, and the high freight rates to get California products into those markets, there is perhaps no state in the Union more dependent upon a protective tariff, and that, therefore, should always be found in the Republican column.

SAMUEL M. SHORTRIDGE'S ELECTION IS VITAL

We wonder how many of the voters of California realize the personal danger to themselves, to the industries in which many of them are engaged, and upon which all of them depend, should Samuel M. Shortridge fail of election. It is not a local or state question at all, but a great national issue involving the country's future, particularly the future of California. It will be of no avail to elect Harding and Coolidge if we fail to give them reasonably solid support in the Senate. Let the Senate be Democratic, and the legislation we need, the relief from maladministration by a Government which has failed at every point, will not be forthcoming. Republicans should therefore be seriously and anxiously concerned lest California again disgrace itself by returning to power those elements of incompetency which we have since excoriated and are at this moment preparing as best we can to oust from office.

It is not for any one to say with a careless shrug that this is a Republican landslide here hence Mr. Shortridge's election is assured, for elections are not often won by mere assumption but by persistent effort and consistent preaching. It is true that the Republican party bears every indication of being reasonably solidified this year, but even that is not sufficient to warrant an apathetic attitude on the part of any one, a feeling of comfortable assurance that all is well. Just remember, voters of California, that upon the conscience of this State must rest the responsibility for the California again which the nation has suffered in the past four years, for was it not California which gave the breath of life to the Wilson administration by defeating the Republican candidate for President? Shall it be said of us now, when the opportunity for redemption is at hand, that we are still stiff-necked in the presence of even greater woes than those we have suffered? Shall it be said of us that when we had the opportunity to save the Senate and change the Government by electing a Republican Senator we were again a recreant and a quaker? Shall we be called a Democratic Senator? Are we prepared to bear this ignominy and thus to again suffer the humiliation of our own indifference or stupidity or both?

PIONEER CITIZEN CALLED BY DEATH

R. Q. Wickham, First County Clerk is Dead.

R. Q. Wickham, formerly of Santa Ana and Garden Grove, and the first county clerk of Orange county, is dead.

Heart failure brought death to the pioneer resident of this county on Wednesday at his home in Eldridge, Sonoma county. He had lived until January 31, 1921, he would have been 66 years of age.

He leaves a widow, Mrs. Laura S. Wickham, two sons, Eldon B., land attorney at El Centro, and George R., assemblyman from the 62nd district, Los Angeles county and city attorney of Hermosa Beach, and a daughter, Laura A., who is a student in the University at Berkeley.

John Beatty of this city, is a sister-in-law.

Coming to Orange county in 1886, Mr. Wickham located at Garden Grove. He soon became identified with the activities of this district, and was one of the prime movers in the organization of Orange county. He drafted all the resolutions necessary for the creation of the county. He was elected clerk at the time of the organization of the county and served two years from Aug. 1, 1889, to Jan. 1, 1893. Later he was under sheriff for a time during Mr. Wickham's term of office.

Mr. Wickham was known as an efficient county organizer and acted as expert in the creation of Riverside, Madera and King counties, drafting the necessary documents to complete the organization of those counties.

He moved from Santa Ana to Los Angeles in 1896, where he became interested in newspaper work with the Los Angeles Herald. Later, he was connected with the county recorder's office in Los Angeles, as index clerk. He held this position until 1903, when he was appointed secretary of the Sonoma home Eldridge by Governor Parsons. He held the position at the time of his death.

Prior to his removal to Eldridge he was for twelve years minute clerk of the assembly and state legislature. He took a very active interest in Republican politics throughout his life.

Mr. Wickham was born near Fud-ley, Ohio, January 31, 1855, and subsequently was a resident of Vermillion and Yankton, South Dakota. He also was a resident of Hardin county, Iowa, where he taught school. While in Iowa he was a school boy friend of Governor Frank O. Lowden, and through his efforts Governor Lowden received his first school to teach when the Governor was but 16 years of age.

Mr. Wickham was held in high esteem here and always was four squares with his friends. He has visited in the city number of times recently, his last visit being about three months ago.

MAKING HOME BAKING EASY

A Book that Makes this Art of the Olden Days a Modern-day Delight.

From all parts of the country come reports of a great increase in home baking. In fact, it has again become the fashion, as it was in grandmother's day, for women to take pride in telling about the good things they bake at home.

To encourage this great economy, and to make it easy for the beginner, as well as to give the experienced home bakers the benefit of the most modern discoveries, the Royal Baking Powder Company has published a most unique book which, in itself, is almost a course in the art of cookery. Turning the pages there is included a wealth of information most unusual in baking and cookery. Old and famous recipes have been improved and simplified, and on nearly every page there is something entirely new to surprise, surprise. Economy and ease of preparation are the keystones of the book.

Indeed there is much of value in this contribution to good living that one wonders how it was all worked out in the result of three years of constant research and experimenting by the Royal Educational Department, which is conducted for the benefit of all housewives interested in the health, economy and betterment of the home table.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the High School Board of Anaheim Union High School District has filed petitions with and addressed to the Board of Supervisors of the County of Orange, State of California, accompanied by the sworn statement of the High School Principal of said High School District concerning the attendance and residence of pupils attending said High School District, and which petitions are certified by the County Superintendent of Schools, said petitions being relative to the attendance of pupils from the following elementary school district, to-wit: Alamitos Elementary School District, and the object and purpose of which petitions being to annex said High School District, the following elementary school district lying wholly within said County of Orange and contiguous to said High School District, to-wit: Alamitos Elementary School District.

And further notice is hereby given that said petitions have been set for hearing for the 9th day of November, 1920, at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M., to be held at the Chamber of the Board of Supervisors of said County, at the Santa Ana, Orange County, California, at which time and place all persons interested in said petitions may appear before said board and be heard thereon.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Orange, State of California, this 13th day of October, 1920.

J. M. BACKS,
County Clerk and ex-officio Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Orange, State of California.

Treasury Department

Office of Comptroller of the Currency
Washington, D. C. August 27, 1920.

WHEREAS, by satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned, it has been made to appear that:

"The Golden State National Bank of Anaheim" in the City of Anaheim, in the County of Orange and State of California, has complied with all the provisions of the Statutes of the United States, required to be complied with before an association shall be authorized to commence the business of banking;

Now, therefore, I, John Skelton Williams, Comptroller of the Currency, do hereby certify, that "The Golden State National Bank of Anaheim," in the City of Anaheim, in the County of Orange and State of California, is authorized to commence the business of banking as provided in Section Fifty one hundred and sixty nine of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

Conversion of The Golden State Bank of Anaheim, California, in testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and Seal of office this Twenty-Seventh day of August, 1920.

JNO. SKELTON WILLIAMS
9-16-104. Comptroller of the Currency.

NOTICE INVITING SEALED PROposals is hereby given that sealed proposals or bids will be received by the Board of Trustees of the City of Anaheim, in the City of Anaheim, in the County of Orange, State of California, of said city up to 8 o'clock P. M. of the 23rd day of October, 1920, for the furnishing of all labor and materials for the construction of a sewer pipe on Wilhelmina Street in the City of Anaheim from a point one hundred twenty-five (125) feet west of the West property line of North Los Angeles Street to a point one hundred sixty-five (165) feet East of the East property line of North Los Angeles Street in said city and also upon certain alleys of the Elliott and Adams subdivisions according to a map thereon on file in the office of the County Recorder of the County of Orange, State of California, as in more specifically delineated upon certain plans for said work hereinafter referred to.

Said work to be done and materials furnished shall be in accordance with the plans and specifications therefor, which said specifications are marked and designated, "Specifications for the construction of sanitary sewers in the City of Anaheim, California," and were adopted by the Board of Trustees of the City of Anaheim on the 14th day of February, 1917, and are on file in the office of the City Clerk of the City of Anaheim, and which said plans are marked and designated, "Sewer plans and profiles No. 8," which were adopted by the Board of Trustees of the City of Anaheim on the 30th day of September, 1920, and are on file in the office of the City Engineer of said city.

All proposals or bids offered must be accompanied by a check payable to the City of Anaheim, and which said check shall not be less than ten per cent of the aggregate of the proposal or bid or by bond with the said amount so payable signed by the bidder and two sureties who shall justify before any officer competent to administer an oath, in double the said amount and over and above all statutory exemptions, and which said bond shall be approved by the Board of Trustees of the City of Anaheim.

Said check or bond shall be forfeited to the City of Anaheim as liquidated damages in case the successful bidder shall fail to sign a contract and furnish the bonds required within ten days after the award of said contract.

The successful bidder shall be required to furnish a bond to the City of Anaheim for one-half of the amount of the contract price specified in his bid with two or more sureties who shall qualify in double the amount of said bond in fee and unencumbered property within the State of California above all statutory exemptions, or by a corporation authorized to execute bonds within the State of California.

Said bond shall guarantee the faithful performance of the contract and the completing of the work done and repair thereof until final acceptance of the work.

The successful bidder shall be required to furnish a bond to the City of Anaheim for one-half of the amount of the contract price as security to laborers, mechanics, and material men employed by him in said work, which said bond shall be executed by at least two sureties who shall qualify in double the amount of said bond in fee and unencumbered property within the State of California above all statutory exemptions, or by a corporate surety as provided by law.

The Board of Trustees of the City of Anaheim reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the Trustees of the City of Anaheim.

Dated this 12th day of October, 1920.

EDWARD B. MERRITT,
City Clerk of the City of Anaheim.

HARDING AND COX

Comparing the campaigns of the two candidates, the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., issues the following:

"In the campaign now drawing to a close, the Republicans have had a double advantage—the strength of their own candidate and the weakness of the Democratic nominee. With the exception of Roosevelt in the 1904 campaign, no Republican nominee in recent years has had greater personal drawing power than has Harding. With the possible exception of Parker in the same campaign, no Democratic nominee has done so much as Cox to injure his own cause.

"Harding has been dignified, serious, intellectual—participating in the discussion of the issues of the day in a manner that demonstrates full appreciation of the high importance of the office for which he has been nominated and of the responsibilities he will assume when elected. Mr. Cox has conducted a campaign such as would be expected in a contest for the control of the political machinery of a city ward—dealing in a misleading manner with matters which should be beneath the notice of a man who aspires to become the leader and spokesman of the greatest nation on earth.

"In not a single instance has Harding made an appeal to class or local interest as distinguished from the interests of the nation as a whole. Mr. Cox has lost no opportunity to inject into his speeches a local coloring designed to win votes in the community in which he happened to be speaking—his views there expressed being left unuttered in other communities where they would be less acceptable. Harding has been the same to all men; Cox has tried to be all things to all men—anything to win votes.

"Throughout the campaign Harding has called into conference with him hundreds of members of the Republican party, whose representative he is, and has thus indicated in a practical way his purpose to take counsel of large numbers of citizens after he shall have been elected. He has not assumed omniscience—neither has he surrendered to any man or small group of men. The first act of Cox after his nomination was to speed his way to the White House to bend the supple hinges of his knee before the great American autocrat who will tolerate no man whose mind refuses to go along with his. Mr. Wilson announced that their minds were at one on the league question, and Mr. Cox declared that whatever Mr. Wilson had promised Europe, he would put forth his every effort to fulfill. So far as the public knows Mr. Cox has taken counsel with no others.

"Mr. Harding has stood openly and frankly for America first, in nationalism, in industry, in finance, in merchant marine, in diplomacy. While there has been for America first, he has not been for America only. Like all true Americans he proposes that this nation shall deal generously with all other nations, ready to render prompt and substantial assistance in time of need—but always in accordance with our own freely exercised judgment as each occasion shall arise. Mr. Cox has been for internationalism—which means consideration of the rest of the world first, and, therefore, America last. He proposes that America shall act in international affairs in accordance with the decrees of a supernational controlled by nations whose past record does not compare in humanitarianism with our own. Mr. Harding proposes that the United States shall act from time to time as it deems best—Mr. Cox proposes that the United States shall act as it is told.

"In his native ability, in his training, in his habits of thought and action, Mr. Harding shows the qualities of a statesman. In his every word and act since he came into national view, Mr. Cox has displayed only the characteristics of a cheap politician—unqualified for the discussion of national problems and unfitted for the high office of President.

"Republicans have seldom had a stronger candidate—Democrats have seldom had a weaker."

HEAVIEST REGISTRATION
* IN HISTORY

Registration for the general election November 2 totals 1,374,184, which is the largest in the history of California. This is according to official figures announced today by Secretary of State Jordan. The registration for the Presidential election in 1916 was 1,314,446.

As was the case at the direct primary election, the registration is overwhelmingly Republican, 854,757 citizens having declared their affiliation with that party, as compared with 239,851 Democrats.

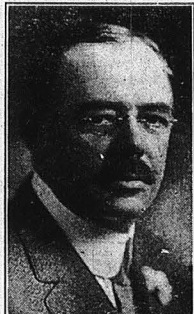

There is a large nonpartisan registration, those who declined to state their party numbering 171,736. The Progressive party is lowest with a registration of only 6,342; the Socialists next, 18,828, and the Prohibitionists, 20,000.

SINGLE TAX
OPPOSITION
IS STRONG

State-wide Campaign Is Headed by Two Big Organizations.

Two powerful organizations of business men and business women, professional men and women, members of commercial and civic bodies, and clubs with members of both sexes, all voters in California, are making a state-wide campaign, the Anti-Single Tax Association, north of the Tehachapi, and the People's Anti-Single Tax League, south of the Tehachapi, in opposition to the single tax movement, which is centered in California this year.

The single tax advocates have placed Amendment Number 20 on the ballot at the coming November election, and are making a vigorous fight for its adoption. It will be entitled "Land Values Taxation," and it is the most radical measure the single taxers have yet advanced in any part of the United States.

Ex-President Cal. Conference of Social Agencies.

Dr. Milbank Johnson, B.S., M.D., L.L.D., of Los Angeles, who has been one of the most active of the opponents of single tax in California, points out that the particular wording makes this the most radical of all the amendments the single taxers have put up to voters anywhere, going far beyond even Henry George's theory of taxation, and presenting to the people of the State of California a menace more terrible than any ever presented by the single taxers, or any other of the socially inclined agitators of the United States. So extreme is it in its tendency that it has aroused the opposition of every one of the business interests of the state, the property owners and the people generally. The farmers are up in arms against it.

Dr. Johnson, whose name stands for much in the work of social betterment says of the present attempt: "I feel it a duty I owe to the people of California to make the greatest attempt possible to warn every one of them of the dangers of this single tax inquiry. So deeply interested did I become in this matter after the result of the election two years ago was announced, and when it became known that the single taxers were planning another attempt this year, that I took the time to go to British Columbia accompanied by John P. Steele, secretary of the People's Anti-Single Tax League, and remained there for several weeks, gathering full and correct information regarding the effects of the operation of single tax methods of taxation in the cities of that province of Canada.

"I found that in a large majority of the cities of British Columbia, including the cities of Vancouver and Victoria, single tax had been given a thorough trial, to the great sorrow of all of those who were instrumental in securing its adoption in those municipalities.

"My investigations, and those of Mr. Steele, proved conclusively that in every instance, where single tax was adopted by a municipality in British Columbia disaster to that community, and absolute financial ruin followed in its wake.

"The dire iniquity of the single tax struck me so forcibly during my stay in British Columbia that immediately after my return to California, noting that the single taxers were again going to make a further attempt to force their fanatical theory on this prosperous state, I began to advocate the use of some measure that will have the effect of stopping the single tax agitation in California once and for all. To this end the Anti-Single Tax organizations finally decided to place upon the ballot an amendment, which is Number Four, which will compel any person or set of persons desiring to enact by initiative any measure in California affecting taxation or assessment to secure 25 per cent of the signatures of the voters at the preceding gubernatorial election instead of 8 per cent, as at present.

"The organizations believe that Amendment Number 4, if adopted, will prove an effective check to the single tax menace to California.

"We are therefore asking all those who are alive to the danger that confronts us to vote for Amendment Number 4, as well as against Amendment Number 20, the single tax inquiry.

Anaheim Gazette, per year, $1.50, payable in advance.

To the People of Anaheim, Greeting:

Some years ago during that long struggle to oust the saloons from Anaheim there were those who thought and earnestly believed that the saloon men were spreading broadcast in reference to the adverse effect of the closing of the saloons would have on Anaheim. In fact the pro-saloonists went to far, as to proclaim that without saloons Anaheim business would die of stagnation, that the town would be dead and that grass would again flourish in the main business streets.

Time has proven otherwise, legitimate business which had long been held in check by the blighting conditions fostered by saloons sprang into a new life that surprised everyone, even the advocates of law and loyalty, and completely put to rout the pro-saloonists. The recoil was so intense that new business sprang up and business blocks were added one after another in rapid succession, and still one really firm, alone, reports their turning away of at least one business block. Never in the city's history has there been such growth and business prosperity.

In the saloon days our city was the rendezvous of all the thugs, bums and riff-raff not only of this county but other counties as well. Drunkenness and carousal was the order of the day and likewise the night. All is changed. Whoever sees the drunken man now!

Come now, once again the hosts of law, loyalty and prosperity to ask the voters of our lovely city and environs, to stand firm and loyal for all that is good and best, by voting "yes" on referendum Two on the ballot Nov. 2. This is known as the prohibition enforcement act and gives to the local state courts, equal and concurrent powers with the U. S. Courts in enforcing the no-saloon policy.

The Anaheim Chamber of Commerce has blazed the way by voting, after a thorough discussion of the matter to support this proposition at the polls, every man present voting yes. Let us all follow their lead and make it unanimous. Saloons never again. Let us go. LAW AND LOYALTY COMMITTEE.

By A. A. Mills, Chairman.

THE WHITE HOUSE EGOIST
Ex-Secretary of state Philander C. Knox, America's foremost authority on international law and foreign relations has just issued a statement warning the people of this country against the Wilsonian League of Nations. He says:

"On the threshold of the adjustment of America's relations to all the world and to the enemy that had cost us but a few of our best men, we have a treasure beyond comprehension, the egoist of the White House, when he sallied forth single handed and alone to recast, in his 'own name, and by his own proper authority', the map and the destinies of the earth, demanded unqualified support."

"Understanding the possibilities of the achievement of all these mighty forces in the uncontrolled power of a single individual, the American people, with that great good sense which makes them worthy of their heritage, promptly repudiated the propitious suggestion and gave him a Republican Senate and House, whose courage and patriotism saved what our grandfathers established and what our fathers preserved."

"Unabashed by this rebuke, and with an obstinacy of purpose which had for its end an ambition that would have aroused jealousy in the breast of an Alexander or a Napoleon. Mr. Wilson took his way to Paris, undertook to put us in a super-federation of the world by what is called a League of Nations and is now about to receive the nation's verdict through a grave and solemn referendum in which he is represented by his proxy, Mr. Cox."

"The proposed covenant instead of abolishing war, actually sanctions, breeds and commends it. Moreover, it absolutely requires that every future war shall be a potential world war, and that we shall be an active participant in every such war."

"We are thus thrust fully into the terrible cauldron of European politics, and every outbreak in the Balkans, even domestic, if it threatens international war, will call for some expenditure of treasure, for some shedding of American blood, for some loss of American life. It is idle to say that fatuous to hope or believe these outbreaks will not occur, for ambitious men do not hesitate to waste life in order to punish an enemy or gain a goal."

"The provisions of the proposed covenant are also destructive of our sovereignty. The statesmen of Europe who are keenly anxious to involve us in this partnership of nations make no dishonest pretense that it does not have the surrender of sovereignty to a supergovernment. . . . With us, however, it is different. Here we will keep the home fires of patriotism burning and will refuse to be drawn into an orgy of unrestrained international free love."

"The soundness of Senator Harding's position lies in his recognition of the fundamental fact that the League, as tendered to us, will not do, as it is not safe for America, and not being safe for America, it is not safe for the world."

THE BATTLE IS ON BETWEEN BOLSHIEVISM AND NATIONALISM

The Third Internationale, with headquarters in Moscow, under the domination of Lenin, Trotsky and their fellow cut-throats, bandits and tyrants; with its plan of world-wide domination, following the overthrow of every civilized government, from some European capital under the dictatorship of communist czarism; this Third Internationale has been formally accepted by a majority of German socialists in a convention just concluded.

This scheme of a world-wide communist autocracy, supported by bayonets and accompanied by wholesale slaughter of opposing elements, by complete suppression of free speech and press, has formidable support in every country in Europe. Its supporters constitute a considerable party in all of the dozen or more European governments, and they are threatening the foundations of the existing order in Italy and Great Britain.

In France the supporters of the Third Internationale are only awaiting their opportunity to attack the republic from within.

Great Britain is face to face with a bolshevik crisis. Having tampered with bolshevism at home and abroad, the British government is now compelled to deal with the natural results of its tampering, compromising policy. Every domestic difference, every spark of revolt, is being fanned by agents of the Lenin autocracy. Every new crisis in Great Britain, like the present coal strike, throws the British empire into the shadow of perilous disaster. Bolshevism money and bolshevik agitators are working ceaselessly to bring about chaos in the United Kingdom, in the expectation of seizing control of the government while the many factions into which the people of the British Isles are divided, are at one another's throats.

The bolshevism of the Third Internationale is a thing so completely non-American that Eugene Debs, chief of American socialists, though in a federal prison under a charge of sedition, does not hesitate to denounce it as a tyranny which American socialists cannot accept. So foul a scheme of autocracy requires for its raw material wholesale ignorance as well as national disloyalty. Lenin was right when he said that should bolshevism conquer Europe and Asia, America would remain the last stand of civilization.

This pread of bolshevism in Europe, with its openly announced policy of world-wide political domination, presents an interesting aspect of the possibilities of the league of nations. Bolshevism is hostile. It is true, to a league of nations it cannot dominate; but with Europe succumbing to bolshevism, this world government might become an instrumentality through which communist autocracy could attack the States. No one up to this time, outside Lenin and Trotsky themselves, has more effectively contributed to the spread of bolshevism than did President Wilson by his appeals to the people of Europe to go over the heads of their governments. Just how much progress bolshevism has made in certain American inner circles is by no means determinable from surface appearances. We do not know that Trotsky made his return to Russia only through the intervention of certain powerful higher-up, official influences in this country.

Certain it is that the linking of this republic with Europe in a super-government sacrificial of American independence of action in both domestic and international affairs, is a long step into this shadow of a proletarian dictatorship that is now falling upon Europe. It is true that this danger of the substitution of an international for a German militarist autocracy is a thing for which we bear our share of national responsibility, because it was a premature peace, with the agents of militarism still in possession of Petrograd and Berlin, that has made the war indecisive. And this premature termination of the war was directly due to the influence of President Wilson, with his "peace without victory" fourteen points upon which Germany accepted as the basis of an armistice, only to find that they were as false and insincere as the 1916 Wilsonian campaign cry of "He kept us out of war."

The big barrier to bolshevism throughout the world is nationalism. The battle is on between the spirit of nationalism and the spirit of bolshevism. Not all who war with nationalism are bolsheviks, but they are, unconsciously, the agents of bolshevism. This is no time for yielding an inch to those who would break down the American national spirit. It is more necessary today to the American people and to the world, than it has ever been, the verdict of November 2nd against the scheme to sacrifice our rights, interests and ideals to a European super-sovereignty so deplorable that it will be noticed to every nation that against the world, the flesh and the devil Americans will battle for their republic.

HARDING WANTS SHORTRIDGE

Warren G. Harding has called upon California to commission Samuel M. Shortridge as a United States Senator at the Tuesday election. In a personal letter to Raymond Benjamin, assistant to the National Chairman and Republican State Chairman, he made an appeal for party unity and that the nation may be returned to constitutional government.

Senator Harding's letter in part follows:

"My dear Mr. Benjamin:

I have your letter of recent date, and I want to thank you for the opportunity given me to express my personal and partisan interests in the senatorial and congressional campaigns in your State.

The platform of the Republican party as enunciated at Chicago covers a large range of governmental interests and policies. To the carrying out of these policies and a practical execution of the reforms suggested we are pledged as a party and as individual and official members of it. Committed to this program we will need not only Republican executives but a Republican majority in both branches of Congress. We would be helpless to effect our purposes without both. It is my earnest hope that the electors of California will commission Mr. Shortridge as a Senator of the United States. I am assured that he is in every way worthy and qualified to fill the office to which he aspires and for which he has been nominated by decisive vote at the free and open primaries of our party.

And, it is also my hope that California will send in its congressional delegation as many Republicans, united in our faith as possible."

WINS AGAIN

Mr. Kenneth and Mr. Jacks who are here representing the J. I. Case Threshing Machine Co. and who are still staying with Mr. H. C. Seymour have another item of interest for their customers.

Dixon Plows Win Prize in Britain. The Grand Detour Plow Division of the J. I. Case Threshing Machine Co. this morning received a cablegram from London, Eng., which brought the news of the award of the highest plowing honors in Europe to the local concern. The message stated that the Grand Detour plow pulled by a Case tractor, entered in the Lincoln Trials, held under the auspices of the Royal Agricultural society won first prize and the gold medal. The Lincoln Trials are the biggest plowing event in Europe, and the winning of first prize by the local concern, following the capture of first and second honors and a silver cup at the Big Rock, Ill., competition a few weeks ago, brings justifiable pride to the manufacturers.

P. S. They are giving daily demonstrations of their equipment to customers who have to be shown what Case farming machinery does. The place they are doing the demonstrating is three miles west in the county road in the sand wash.

GROOM ONLY NEEDED

"They may do it in Los Angeles county, but it won't be done in Orange county," was the comment of County Clerk J. M. Backs on the recently published information that the Los Angeles marriage license bureau is hereafter going to demand that the bride-to-be must accompany the groom to be to the courthouse when the license is issued, and that both must give a complete description of themselves—color of eyes, hair, height, size of shoes, etc.

"The present marriage license blanks are issued by the state," continued Backs, "and to require this information, nor the bride's signature. The law requires that the groom swear to the information for both of them, although there is no objection to the bride-to-be appearing with him if she wants to, or if it will help him in giving the required data. If Los Angeles is going to require a detailed description, it is doing it on its own initiative, and on blanks which it will itself have printed—for there is no place for such information on the state blanks, with which all bureaus are furnished."

Los Angeles will probably "get away" with it, as very few young couples who want a license will object in one way or another. But anyone who wants to take the matter up legally can, I believe, defeat the move. Of course, for example, if we have any reason to believe that the bride-to-be or groom-to-be are not of age, or that either has been married and has a wife or husband still living, we have a right to refuse to issue a license until they present satisfactory proof that they are about to swear to is true. Perhaps it is under some such system that Los Angeles is trying out this new system. But I believe that if the matter is to be a "blanket" one and all-inclusive the opinion of the Los Angeles county council is wrong, and that anyone who wants to object can require that a license be issued in the usual manner.

EPISCOPALIANS MEET

A mass meeting of Episcopalians of Orange county is to be held at the Episcopal church at Orange, today. The purpose of the meeting is to awaken interest in and make plans for the furtherance of the Episcopal nationwide campaign.

Two men high in the work of the Episcopal church will be present. One of these men is Rev. W. B. Stevens, bishop's coadjutor recently consecrated, and the other is Rev. Hawley, of Mississippi, representative of the national Episcopal board.

Last year the Episcopal churches of the country entered upon a three-year program of extension work. The second year's campaign is now under way. The acquiring of effort and consecration is the primary aim of the movement, the financing of the work being secondary.

At morning and evening services of the churches, brief talks are made by "information men," explaining the purpose of the movement. These men are the vestries of the three Episcopal churches, located at Santa Ana, Orange and Anaheim, will give a dinner at the guild hall of the Church of the Messiah at 6 o'clock Thursday evening of this week in honor of Rev. Stevens and Rev. Hawley. Following the dinner those present will go to Orange for the mass meeting there.

The meeting at Orange will begin at 8 o'clock. Rectors are urging their parishioners to attend this gathering.

RECOGNIZES THE MAN

Anael Duarte, the Mexican under arrest charged with assaulting Miss Florence Hammel was positively identified as her assailant by that young lady some days ago.

"I could recognize the man who attacked me by the way he walked," Miss Hammel was quoted as having told deputies in the office of Sheriff C. E. Jackson.

Miss Hammel was stationed at a window in the sheriff's office, concealed. Two different Mexicans, dressed in clothing similar to that said to have been worn by the girl's attacker, were led from the jail toward the sheriff's office.

The men were led out separately. As each appeared Miss Hammel shook her head.

Then a third man was brought out. It was Anael Duarte. He was in charge of County Motorcycle Officer O. K. Carr.

"That is he!" exclaimed Miss Hammel. "I know his walk and his appearance!"

The authorities, however, sought to remove all possibility of doubt. Miss Hammel and Mrs. A. P. Nelson who was comforting the girl were asked to enter the room adjoining the main part of the sheriff's office. The door, a light wooden one, was closed.

Duarte was led into the main office. He was questioned in Spanish for some time through an interpreter.

Suddenly Deputy District Attorney A. P. Nelson put this demand to Duarte pointblank:

"Say in English: Give me money, give me money!"

The ruse worked. Without thinking Duarte flushed and repeated the words. In the rear room Miss Hammel turned pale, put her hand to her throat and caught her breath.

"Oh, that is he, that is he," she said. "I should recognize that voice anywhere."

Authorities said that identification had been established without possibility of a doubt.

"While we were morally certain that Duarte was the man," said Deputy District Attorney Nelson, "we nevertheless told Miss Hammel to be very careful. A mistake on her part might result in sending an innocent man to the penitentiary. We waited until Miss Hammel had completely recovered from the nervous shock and could go through the ordeal calmly and collectedly."

In addition to identifying the man himself, Miss Hammel identified the clothing worn by her attacker, according to the authorities.

Califoraians!

Again we face the menace of single tax. Again are half baked theorists attempting to tamper with the finances of this state. And again, as we have done five times before, must we "go to the bat" to protect our property and business interests.

Vote "NO" on Amendment No. 20

(Single Tax)

This election we have a chance to do more than just defeat the single tax. We can defeat continuous agitation of the subject.

Let's put an end to faddists tampering with taxation once for all.

Vote "YES" on Amendment No. 4

This amendment is placed on the ballot with the sole purpose of preventing faddists from tampering with the assessment and collection of taxes every two years.

It does not affect the initiative, except in reference to taxes. It does not affect initiative measures that have to do with proposed bond issues that are put up by the initiative.

It is solely for the purpose of preventing California from being made the dumping ground for all the freak laws which have failed elsewhere.

Mrs. Helmsen spent the past week in Riverside the guest of Mrs. Doty.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Henderson were in San Francisco last week attending the grand lodge, Eastern Star.

Mrs. Gerald E. Ward, Mrs. Edward G. Ward and Mr. Charles B. Ward drove over from Fontana on Sunday for a brief visit with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Bradley of Riverside were visiting John Brunworth and family the first of the week. Henry Kroeger, Mrs. Bradley's father, accompanied them home.

Jack Jentes of Garden Grove, was badly beaten up Tuesday morning by a man named Whiteside, because of evidence Jentes had given in a suit in superior court. A bystander who interfered was also badly beaten by Whiteside. A warrant for his arrest was sworn out.

The joint conference on harbor development will again meet in this city on Friday, Nov. 5. The meeting will be held at the Methodist White Temple, the visitors being entertained by the Ladies Aid and the Chamber of Commerce. Two hundred and fifty out-of-town persons are expected to be present among them being some of the leading business men in Southern California.

Roy K. Harland, truck driver for the Union Oil company, saved his life by promptly spinning around his truck Tuesday afternoon when the tank was struck by a Santa Fe train at the Broadway crossing. Harland drove onto the track just in time to be caught by a train which was backing up. He declares the wigwag was not working and he did not hear the engine whistle. The truck and tank was demolished, but the driver was only slightly injured.

The identity of the woman found wandering at Fullerton by City Marshal Vernon Meyers, of that city, and who was taken to the county hospital, has been established. She is Mrs. Minnie Lentz, 67 years of age and recently returned from the East. Mrs. Lentz's mental condition was returned to normal today and she was recovering from the effects of having been for several days without food or shelter. Officials at the county hospital were inclined not to place credence in her story that he son had threatened her life. Mrs. Lentz formerly lived on a 15-acre orange ranch near Anaheim.

Five hundred and fourteen pounds of bread each two ounces under the weight required by law, were confiscated at Santa Ana. Saturday by George McPhee, County Sealer of Weights and Measures. The loaves were distributed among the Salvation Army Home, the County Hospital, the Juvenile Home and the Day Nursery. Two companies, one of Santa Ana and one of Los Angeles, made the bread, and this was their first offense and the charge of selling short weight bread was not pressed on their promise to hereafter conform to the legal standard of twenty-four ounces per loaf.

Judge J. S. Howard returned the first of the week from Gilman Hot Springs, where he spent several days taking the waters.

Drilling by the Orange County Petroleum Co. is now getting down deep enough to be of interest. At 3000 feet this well is in sandy brown shale and showing oil in considerable quantity.

Leo Sheridan and Joe Wagner returned on Saturday afternoon from Imperial Valley, where they spent several days shooting ducks. They report a way up time, ducks plentiful and rare sport bagging 'em.

Hon. James D. Phelan, United States Senator from California, and candidate for re-election on the Democratic ticket, spoke to a good audience on the library grounds Friday afternoon. His talk was principally on the Japanese question. Senator Phelan and his opponent, Mr. Shortridge, stand alike on this question.

John and Arch Hawkins and Ted Kuchel played with U. S. C. freshmen against San Diego at Bovard field on Saturday afternoon. The southerners were taken into camp by a score of 48 to 0. The boys expect to leave today for Stanford to grapple with the freshmen eleven at that point on next Saturday. Following the game they will witness the clash between Stanford and Oregon at Bovard field. Last Saturday the U. S. C. varsity eleven defeated Oxy 46 to 7.

Mrs. Minnie C. Renner, one of the old time residents of this city, died at her home on South Los Angeles street Sunday night after an illness of only a few hours. She was the wife of Oscar Renner and mother of O. H. Renner, of the S. Q. R. store, William E. Renner of the Lakeman-Renner store, and Albert Renner. Mrs. Renner was born in Germany, but has been a resident of Anaheim for thirty-three years. She was one of the best known and most highly esteemed ladies in the city and her death brought sorrow to many. Mrs. Renner was apparently in good health early in the evening, but was stricken shortly after supper and died a few hours later. She was seventy years of age.

Edward Hamill, an employee of the Fullerton Oil company, was instantly killed at noon Monday at one of the company's leases on the Travis lease, five miles east of Richmond. His skull was crushed by being struck by a truck of a bell wheel. He was thirty-five years of age and leaves a wife, residing at Placentia. He was expected to become a father. In company with other members of the force Hamill was sitting in the engine room eating lunch. He was seated next the big bell wheel, to which is attached a crank for use in adjusting the belt. The machinery was started up unexpectedly by a member of the force and the first revolution of the wheel carried death to Hamill. Cooper C. D. Brown was notified of the accident and will make an investigation. The body was taken to the McAnley undertaking parlors at Fullerton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lake and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hoving were in the city Monday on business.

Saturday night is Halloween. One of the entertainments arranged for the evening is a dance at Prosser's hall.

Drilling by the Orange County Petroleum is now at 500 feet, with going a little slow on account of the hard conglomerate.

The Union Oil Company's Morse No. 1 brought in a month ago at 1400 barrels is holding steadily at that figure and is one of the wonder wells of the Richfield-Placentia districts. On the Bradford property the Petroleum Development company is making preparations to drill Bradford No. 1 deeper, and is putting the rotary back at 3394. Bradford No. 3 is drilling out the cement to test water at 3145. Bradford 5 is drilling in hard sand at 1000 feet. Bradford No. 6 is rigging up to start drilling.

Notice was given Tuesday that the office of Elmer B. Burns, deputy collector of internal revenue, will be open for receipt of payment of excise taxes for the month of September, Friday and Saturday, October 23 and 24, and also Monday, November 1. Owing to the last day of October falling on Sunday, any payments received on Monday, November 1, will be considered current instead of delinquent and no penalty will attach if it was announced. A bid of $24,775.35 for the improvement of Euclid avenue and Broad street, in the third road district, by B. R. Ford, was practically accepted by the board of supervisors when the bids of Wells and Bressler, $25,411.53 and Steele Flinley, $25,112.92, were definitely rejected. Ford's bid was taken under advisement until October 26, the next regular meeting date of the board. The supervisors voted that one half the cost of constructing the bridge over Coyote Creek, on Orangehorpe avenue, which connects Los Angeles and Orange counties, be paid by this county. The cost of construction is estimated at $13,650. It was ordered that Orange county proceed with Los Angeles county to advertise for bids.

Albert E. Minor and William Hooper, both of San Diego, who asked to be admitted to the county hospital last Saturday evening for the purpose of being cured of the drug habit, were this morning transferred to the county jail at the request of Dr. H. E. Zaiser, who stated that the enforced abstinence from "dope" was causing the pair to become so restless that he feared they might use violence and attempt to escape. When they came to the hospital they asked to be kept until they were cured, no matter how much they might plead to be let out or to be given "dope" once they had started the cure. They will be confined in the jail for the coming week or until their condition becomes such that it is possible to send them back to the hospital.

Wednesday morning, at St. Boniface church, Miss Angeline Kraemer daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kraemer, became the bride of Edward P. Backs of Anaheim. Rev. Father Brown officiating. Miss Geraldine Kraemer, and Edwin Miller were the groom's best man. The bride wore a beautiful costume of brown panne velvet, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. Cecil Brunner roses and orchids. Her sister, Mrs. Copenhagen, in blue velvet, with a hat to match, carried a bouquet of maiden hair fern and coral rose buds. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Kraemer home, after which Mr. and Mrs. Backs left by auto for San Francisco, intending to spend some time at Santa Barbara, Del Monte and other points along the way. They will live at Placentia.

Walter Furry arrested on a vagrancy charge after having been released but two weeks ago after having served time in the county jail on a similar charge, was found guilty and sentenced to six months in the county jail by Justice John B. Cox. Justice Cox insisted on clipping Furry's scraggly beard himself about two months ago when Justice Cox stated on sentencing Furry that he believed Furry's beard was the motivating reason for Furry's "onerousness and shiftlessness", and ordered Deputy Sheriff Lacy to see that Furry is kept clean shaven during his six months' confinement in the jail. Cox is inclined to believe that this is the real remedy and that it will brace Furry up so that he will at least have strength enough to get out of the county when released next time. However, the Justice was taking no chances with his ideas as the six months' sentence indicated.

DEEPER WELLS NEEDED FOR PUMPING

LOWERING WATER LEVEL MAKES IT NECESSARY FOR FAR-MERS TO SINK DEEPER.

W. L. Deimling of the Edison Company Gives Good Advice to Owners of Pumping Plants—Declares Water is Lower Now Than Ever Before—More Powerful Machinery Also Needed.

When W. L. Deimling, district manager for the Edison Company, urged the farmers of Los Angeles and Orange counties to abandon shallow wells and dig deeper wells and install turbine and large centrifugal pumps, it was only after an exhaustive survey of the underground water sources in these two counties had shown that increased usage of water, owing to a larger acreage to irrigate, combined with deficient rainfall for the past three years had lowered the water level to a point never reached before. It is certain that farmers operating pumps which are in wells less than 220 feet deep will soon be obligated either to install more powerful equipment, suffer crop losses or decrease their acreage. In every part of Southern California, with the exception of the San Fernando Valley, where the city of Los Angeles is filling up the underground channel of the Los Angeles River with water from the aqueduct—and this is spreading to other sources in the valley—this condition prevails.

Regarding the Orange county underground flow, Mr. Deimling says:

"Underground water levels in Orange county are lower now than they were at any time last season. During September of last year scores of pumping plants that had pit pumps working had to be lowered in order to get sufficient water. The lowering of pit pumps seems to be only a temporary relief. In many wells, too, the pit pumps can not be lowered on account of the step-tember of last year scores of pumping plants that had pit pumps working had to be lowered in order to get sufficient water. The lowering of pit pumps seems to be only a temporary relief.

"Some of the farmers with shallow wells to the west and southwest of Santa Ana have told me that they are not getting any water from their pumps, even when irrigating at night, when the water level generally rises a bit. These same wells produced a flow last year throughout the season. I am certain that the shallow wells have far less water to draw on now than they had at any time last season. The answer is, dig deeper wells, and install more powerful pumping machinery. It will pay in the long run. The farmers will have to come to it sooner or later."

The owners of deep wells throughout proven water districts of Southern California are getting all the water they want through the use of turbine pumps. These wells are all the way from 250 to 1200 feet deep. The shallow wells that draw from the gravel strata about ninety feet down are failing.

Ray Dixon, a Santa Ana contractor and well driller, says he has more water than he can handle sinking deep well pumps for farmers who fear a water shortage next season if they do not install deeper pumps. Mr. Dixon has just finished sinking a well for Dr. G. W. Schroeder of Harpersville which goes 800 feet down, and has a flow of 120 inches through a turbine pump. This well, before it was deepened, was 160 feet deep and gave barely ten inches of water.

Irrigation and soil moisture studies in Southern California show that, on the average loam soil, it requires from twelve to eighteen inches of water an acre to produce a crop by irrigation, the average being fifteen inches. The actual amount required, of course, depends upon the crop and the texture of the soil, but those who desire to install a pump take the average as fifteen inches of water per acre for field crops. Orchard irrigation requires 2 or 3 inches more as a rule. Flood irrigated alfalfa six inches deep will, on average soil, under average climatic conditions, wet the soil four inches from the surface.

MYSTERIOUS SALE

Mystery surrounds the identity of the purchasers in the recent sale of the 106-acre island in the west end of Newport harbor.

Law Wallace, of Newport Beach, who made the sale Monday, stated that he has no information regarding the buyers, who, however, are believed to comprise a tentative syndicate of Long Beach men. The deal was made through an agent acting for the proposed syndicate. Other deals with Long Beach parties for this same land have previously been held up on the matter of filling in the marshy land of the island. This factor has not come up in connection with the recent reported sale.

Wallace stated, however, that there is a possibility the purchasers may be planning on purchasing dredged material later to fill in the island. Wallace said he had no information as to the plans of the proposed syndicate in regard to the use of the island.

The deal comes as an outgrowth of the present $500,000 harbor improvement being made. The island has been owned by the Pacific Electric Railway company for several years. The consideration involved in the deal is said to be $50,000.

The land, which has a frontage of two miles along the harbor channels, including the Newport city channel, and the 16-foot channel now being dredged by the county, is expected to become industrial and commercial sites.

MEXICO STILL AFLAME IN WATCHFUL WAITING

Wilson and Lansing Descriptions Borne Out by Ibanez and Yet Nothing Has Been Done.

Blasco Ibanez's statement on Mexico that letters he has received 'read like the lamentations of slaves, denouncing the crimes of their oppressors and doubting whether there will ever be justice in that country' is taken here as sufficient ground for further investigation by Congress of the entire Mexican problem.

Members of the House recall the words of President Wilson five years ago.

"Mexico is apparently no nearer a solution of her tragic troubles than she was when the revolution was first kindled. And she has been swept by civil war as if by fire. Her crops are destroyed, her fields lie unseeded, her work cattle are confiscated for the use of the armed factions, her people flee to escape being drawn into unavailing bloodshed, and no man seems to see or lead the way to peace and order. There is no proper protection either for her own citizens or for the citizens of other nations resident and at work within her territory. Mexico is starving and without a government."

Robert Lansing, Democratic Secretary of State, addressed the Minister of Foreign Relations of the Carranza Government which had been recognized by the United States in a note containing the following sentences:

"For three years the Mexican Republic has been torn with civil strife; the lives of Americans and other alien residents have been sacrificed; vast properties developed by American capital and enterprise have been destroyed or rendered non-productive; bandits have been permitted to roam at will through the territory contiguous to the United States and to seize, without permission or without effective attempt at punishment, the property of Americans, while the lives of citizens of the United States who ventured to remain in Mexican territory or to return there to protect their interests have been taken, and in some cases barbarously taken; the murders have neither been apprehended nor brought to justice. It would be difficult to find in the annals of the history of Mexico conditions more deplorable than those which have existed there during these recent years of civil war."

It is held that no plea of ignorance of conditions in Mexico can be accepted for Woodrow Wilson and his Democratic administration. The words of the President himself and of his Secretary of State show plainly that they have known the lives and properties of American citizens in Mexico were being ruthlessly sacrificed, and they did nothing but write notes admitting it in the face of the Democratic platform pompously proclaiming the duty of the nation to protect "the sacred rights of American citizenship at home and abroad." This duty was ignored by Woodrow Wilson and his Democratic administration.

With the riot of lawlessness, anarchy and destruction to which President Wilson and Secretary Lansing bore witness, education in Mexico was allowed to be swept away so that tens of thousands of children have grown up during the past decade in ignorance. Graft, intrigue, trickery and hatred of Americans have been the lessons learned by the arriving generation of Mexicans from their elders. Schools were abandoned, teachers were left unpaid until they were forced to seek other means of livelihood. The coteries of men in power recognized by Mr. Wilson as the "government" of Mexico deliberately sacrificed the teachers and the children. One estimate has it that in the Federal District alone 50,000 children of school age were deprived of education, and it is known that the number of schools in the Federal District dropped from more than three hundred to fewer than one hundred.

JAP BOY KILLED

His body burned to a crisp when his clothing ignited as the result of a gasoline tank at Costa Mesa, Pedro's Dujiri, 6, a Japanese, died in agony at the county hospital fifteen minutes after his arrival there at 11 o'clock this morning.

What caused the explosion of the gasoline tank is a mystery. The lad's mother and father, market gardeners, were at work in a field nearby. The child was playing close to the tank. Suddenly the parents were startled by a terrific explosion.

Rushing frantically to the scene, they fought to extinguish the flames which enveloped the boy. The burning clothing extinguished, the boy was placed in an automobile and rushed to the county hospital. Despite every effort, the boy succumbed.

The parents stated the boy was not in the habit of playing with matches. This adds to the mystery in connection with what ignited the gasoline fumes. The parents were unable to state how much gasoline there was in the tank.

PATRON SAINT'S DAY CELEBRATED AT MISSION

Birthday of St. John of Capistrano Fittingly Observed.

Within walls hallowed by Francis can priests nearly a century and a quarter ago, Saturday the day of San Juan Capistrano, patron saint of the mission, was celebrated.

Solemn high mass was said in the sanctuary of the great stone church at San Juan Capistrano. This church was ruined by earthquake during mass in 1812. The priest who was in charge at that time stood in the sacristy when the terrific tremor shook down the great bell tower at the south end of the building and crushed out the lives of about forty neophytes.

Upon the bricks where the altar of that day stood, today appeared another altar, bearing many of the ornaments that without doubt were upon the altar the day the great church was ruined. Before this altar knelt Father St. John O'Sullivan, who is in charge of the historic mission parish, and with him were five other priests of the Catholic church.

Above the altar in a niche in the ancient wall of the church was an image of San Juan Capistrano. Behind and all about the altar were boughs of greenery and large quantities of flowers.

Gathered in the church were hooded nuns from San Luis Rey and Santa Ana. Singing was by a choir of girls from San Luis Rey academy. Gathered upon benches and upon portions of the foundations of the ruined church were those who, in the eyes of the ceremonies, among them were descendants of men and women, blessed in the long ago by early priests of the valley.

In beautiful sunshine, which as the ceremonies proceeded, crept across the altar, the solemn high mass was said with Father O'Sullivan as celebrant of the month of June in the year of Santa Ana, as deacon, Father Riparo, of Plaza church, Los Angeles, as sub-deacon, and Father Basso of San Pedro as master of ceremonies. Assisting in the mass were two priests of the Franciscan order, who order established the mission in 1776. These two were Father Dominic, superior at San Luis Rey, and Father Andre, also of San Luis Rey. The vestments worn by Fathers O'Sullivan, Bammel and Benson were vestments over 200 years old, heavy with gold braid, brought from San Luis Rey mission for the occasion. The sermon, in Spanish, was by Father Riparo.

"Why I Shall Vote Yes on Number Five"

Huntington Beach, Calif., Oct. 7, 1920

WHY I SHALL VOTE "YES" ON THE CHIROPRACTIC BILL NO. 5

Let us imagine a patient in bed, with an Allopath on one side, a Homeopath on the other, a Christian Scientist at the foot and a Chiropractor at the head, not admitting, for want of room, the Eclectic, the Osteopath, the Magnetic or other healer. The Homeopath reproaches the Allopath on account of his big doses which may kill; the Allopath answers that the small pills of the Homeopath cannot do any good and that the patient should be receiving some active help; the Chiropractor insists that the medicine cannot do the work as the patient's spine is not in order, and the "VITAL FORCE" cannot reach the affected organs and that he, the Chiropractor, can release the pressure upon the nerves that lead to the affected organ with a simple little thrust of the hands and some common sense suggestions; finally, the Christian Scientist says the patient will get well soon if all the doctors leave the room and the sick patient alone. Every one of these different schools of healing has not only faithful but decidedly intelligent followers; common sense tells us that the Chiropractic idea is the most wonderful discovery of the age, as our government statistics will show during the flu epidemic, therefore I think the people of this state should vote yes on the Chiropractic Bill (No. 5 on the ballot).

If this measure was left to the ex-service men alone they would vote for it unanimously, after the tons and tons of O. D. pills and castor oil they forced upon us and also that "wee little pill." I believe it was a white one they forced upon us; if we had a stomach ache or a weak ankle it was all the same.

Four years ago the 13th of this month a certain girl baby was born in Pass, Calif. When the child was two weeks old, the doctor (can give you name if you wish it) said to the mother, "Don't set your heart on her; she can't live; she has taken your disease—consumption." The child thrived but breathed so loud when laid on her back you could hear her all over the house. At nine months of age she was put in a Los Angeles baby show of five hundred babies. Eight babies were picked out as possible winners. She was one of the eight. She lost out because she was too heavy, but her photo appeared in a newspaper. The judges were the mayor of the city of Los Angeles and the head doctor at city or county hospital. At 14 months old she contracted pneumonia of the lungs. The same doctor was called. He said: "I told you so; she can't live; don't try to do anything for her; let her die quietly." I said, "Never say die until a chiropractic doctor gives her up." We called one, Dr. Lichty. The child was up playing in 10 days. She never breathed hard any more. We asked the doctor why the child's spine was twisted at birth, and when the chiropractor adjusted same, today she breathed natural. Today she is the picture of health—strong and vigorous. One more reason why I will vote "Yes" on No. 5 bill. If you need any more proof on this case I will be glad to furnish same. I am a registered voter of this town.

Yours respectfully, F. L. BAILY,
R.D. 1, Box 375, Huntington Beach, Cal.

KEPT OUT OF WAR, NOW SERVES COX

Publisher's Son Escaped Military Service Through Democratic Nominee's Influence.

Young, able-bodied, rich, a strapping big fellow, who possessed all the physical equipment of an American soldier, save, evidently, heart, Robert P. Scripps was kept out of the war through Administration influences.

He was exempted.

The local draft board of Butler County, O., rejected his plea and held that there was no valid claim for his exemption and that he should surely don a uniform and shoulder arms, but Secretary of War Baker's law put off Tom Sills, was employed to save the youthful slacker. Governor Cox took a hand in the case, and finally, by White House decree, he went scot free.

His multi-millionaire father, E. W. Scripps, controller and owner of the Scripps League of Newspapers and the Newspaper Enterprise Association, a powerful combination, threatened to overthrow the Administration rather than permit either of his sons to answer the call of Uncle Sam.

Administration Exempts Slacker.

Having helped to re-elect Woodrow Wilson President on the issue, "He kept us out of war," the elder Scripps demanded that his son be kept out of war. And the Administration kept them out.

Young Robert Scripps, who had never done any real newspaper work, was given the title of Assistant to the Publisher of the Scripps League of Newspapers to evade his military service. Finally he was ordered home from Camp Sherman by Governor Cox, after he had been in uniform for ten days.

All these facts and more of an equally astounding and discreditable character were brought out by the Kenyon Senatorial Committee, which subpoenaed young Scripps to Washington to explain his activities in the present campaign.

New Supporting Cox.

He is today editor in chief of the Scripps League of Newspapers and the Newspaper Enterprise Association and is putting out daily pink propaganda sheets of a lurid and sensational character in support of the candidacy of Governor Cox.

Samples of these sheets were submitted to the committee, and Senator Reed, Democrat, frankly denounced the propaganda as "rot" and manifested extreme impatience and disgust with the young man's loose talk about a "Senate oligarchy" and criticism of the Supreme Court.

Young Scripps, although he did not fight for his country in 1917-18, insisted that he was doing it all through love of country and in the "public interest," without any pay from the Democratic committee or thought of obligation for keeping him out of war.

The draft-dodging aspects of the case, as brought out at Washington, are not unlike those of young Bergdoll of Philadelphia, which resulted in a Federal prosecution for conspiracy to evade the draft.

OLD AND NEW COX SLOGANS.

Washington. — The following interesting interview with Governor James M. Cox of Ohio was published in the hotel column of the Washington Post four years ago—viz, on July 29, 1918:

"Ohio is not the only state where the people are shouting the praises of the President for having preserved peace in the United States. Our honor has remained unsullied. The slogan 'He Kept Us Out of War' will be the most effective argument the Democrats can use in the campaign. Americanism has been pre-empted by the President, and every other problem of national importance has been met squarely and satisfactorily."

This tends to show the caliber of Governor Cox. With him it is anything to win, any sort of a catch phrase, slogan or anything to deceive or fool the people.

HARDING TO THE FARMERS.

Senator Harding's speech to the farmers of the country, delivered at the Minnesota State Fair, is commendable not only for the subject matter and the constructive statesmanship which it contains, but for the calm and dignified tone which prevails throughout the entire address. Nothing could more thoroughly impress intelligent people with the difference in the senator and his opponent and their qualifications for the presidency than Senator Harding's comprehensive discussion of the agricultural problems of the nation and the solution which must be applied to them and the political harangue delivered at the same place by Governor Cox—St. Louis City Journal.

Fifth Cousin Roosevelt devoted his speech at Providence, R. I., to a defense of eight years of Democratic administration. Six weeks is a very short time for doing much along that line.

The Cox slogan seems to be "Misrepresentation Without Relaxation."

CALIFORNIA STUDENTS RANK FIRST IN TESTS.

California students stood first in a psychological test given 10,000 engineering freshmen in 50 American colleges and universities, according to a statement issued at Berkeley by Dr. B. M. Woods, of the University Faculty. The tests were conducted by the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education.

The results were announced in a letter addressed to Dean C. L. Cory of the University College of Mechanics, by Professor L. L. Thurston, under whose direction the tests were conducted. The letter states in part:

"The University of California and California Institute of Technology ranked first in the average standing of freshmen in these six tests. This comparison is based on the records of about ten thousand engineering freshmen in fifty cooperating colleges. This is perhaps to be explained partly by the high standards of California High Schools and also by the standards of admission at the University of California and California Institute of Technology."

Dr. Woods explained that the examinations given included a test on general intelligence and five tests on high school subjects, including Physics, including Chemistry, Mathematics and Manual Training. He said, "The results are highly gratifying to the University and to all who are interested in California. It shows, to a marked degree, the results of cooperation between the University and the high schools in the maintenance of high standards, and indicates the vital need for adequate provision for future training of these engineers, such as would be supplied by the passage of University Amendment 12. New instructors and new laboratories are needed, and I feel certain that the people of California will supply them."

SUPERVISOR'S PROCEEDINGS

In the matter of Road District Improvement No. 5, resolution of intention No. 5, bids were opened for the work, Wells & Bressler bidding $97,000.00 and B. R. Ford $83,772.42 Bids were ordered taken under advisement until Thursday, October 21, 1920, at 1:30 p. m.

Petition for annexation of the Centralia Elementary school district to the Anaheim Union High School district was presented and read. Hearing on said petition was set for Tuesday, Nov. 16th 1920, at 10:00 a. m.

That bid of Wells & Bressler and Steel Finley, $35,112.32. The board ordered that bid of Wells & Bressler and Steel Finley be rejected and the bid of B. R. Ford, taken under advisement until October 26th, at 10:00 a. m.

Chairman was authorized to appoint a committee to include the Chairman, to act in conjunction with R. Y. Williams, assistant officer, W. C. Roberts, in selecting temporary quarters for incorrigible juveniles.

It was ordered that the County Recorder cancel certificate of Sale No. 2776 and Deed 48,124 of the year 1893, said sale being void.

Petition of Albert Proyer, et al., to vacate and abandon a portion of those certain public roads, streets and alleys known as Central, Occidental, Water, Oriental and Garcia streets, fifth road district, came on regularly for hearing and was continued to Oct. 26, 1920 at 2:00 p. m.

In re-construction of a bridge over Coyote creek, on First street, sometimes known as Orangethorpe ave., in Los Angeles and Orange counties. The board ordered that Orange county pay half the cost of construction of such bridge, estimated to cost $13,660.00 and that Orange county proceed with Los Angeles county to advertise for bids for the erection of same, and upon advertisements for bids, proceed with awarding of contract.

The board ordered that demands of H. West and Fred Lewis, be disallowed, said claimants to secure judgment of superior court to ascertain what claimant is entitled to receive reward for the apprehension and conviction of the murderer of Roy Trapp of Fullerton.

Chairman was authorized to approve bond on may tract No. 134, and map of tract No. 134, was accepted as official plotting of said tract.

Application of Fred Stoffel, to construct sidewalk and curb along North side of Garden st., in town of San Juan Capistrano was granted.

COUNTY SALARY AVERAGE IS LOW

A statement drawn up at San Bernardino shows that Orange county is paying its county officers salaries that are among the lowest paid by sixteen counties used for comparison.

On November 2, San Bernardino county, which has a county charter, is to vote upon a provision for increasing salaries there by a charter provision can become effective soon. Orange county officials can get no raises in salaries until the ends of their terms. The salaries now being paid Orange county officials are on an average, $250 a year less than San Bernardino officials are now getting.

At present Orange county salaries are: Clerk, $2400; sheriff, district attorney, $2500; recorder, $2500; auditor, treasurer, tax collector, $2000; superintendent of schools, $2250; assessor, $3000; supervisor, $1500.

The last legislature made several raises in salaries for Orange county officials, but those raises are not effective during the term of office for which the officials were elected. The raises provided do not take the Orange county salary average provided for 1923 over what San Bernardino is now paying.

The San Bernardino Sun has the following:

"The amendment in this county would make an adjustment of $50 a month with somewhat more for the sheriff, district attorney and county clerk."

"The present salaries were fixed eight years ago and were reduced on the theory the officers would not be asked to make campaigns for election but be appointed. This was amended, however, and all officers required to run for election."

"The list of counties with which the comparison is made includes: Tulare, Kern, San Diego, San Luis Obispo, San Jose, Sacramento, San Joaquin, Humboldt, Contra Costa, Alameda, San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Barbara, Riverside, Sonoma, Orange, Modera, Imperial."

"Fair examples of counties of relative importance with San Bernardino show salaries as follows:

"Clerk, sheriff, $4,800; district attorney, $4,000; clerk $3,600 and fees, tax collector, $4,000; treasurer, $4,000; recorder $4,000; auditor $1,000; assessor $5,000; coroner $3,000; superintendent of schools $3,000; surveyor $1,500.

"San Diego, sheriff, clerk, tax collector, treasurer, recorder, auditor, assessor, surveyor, each $3,600; district attorney $5,000; coroner $1,500; superintendent of schools $3,000.

"Contra Costa, sheriff $5,000; district attorney $4,000; coroner $1,500; collector, treasurer, recorder, $3,250; auditor, $3,250; assessor $5,000; superintendent of schools $3,250; surveyor $3,250.

"San Mateo, sheriff, $4,000; district attorney $3,000; county clerk $3,000 and fees, tax collector, $3,500; treasurer $3,000; recorder $3,500; auditor, $3,000; assessor, $4,000; superintendent of schools, $2,700; surveyor $4,400.

"San Jose, sheriff, $4,000; district attorney, clerk, tax collector, treasurer, recorder, auditor, assessor, surveyor $3,600 each; superintendent of schools $3,000.

"Various other counties of similar salaries, with the larger counties running far ahead.

"In San Bernardino county the present salaries are: District attorney $2,700; clerk, $2,500; tax collector, treasurer, recorder, auditor, assessor, surveyor, highway commissioner, superintendent of schools $2,400; coroner and public administrator (one office) $100; supervisor $1,200; and chairman of board and purchasing agent (one office) $2400.

"Given with the increase the new schedule will not be up with other counties of the same class."

BACK YOUR PRAYERS WITH YOUR BALLOTS

For two thousand years we have been praying: "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven." Should not our prayers and our ballots go hand in hand? Amendment Number Twenty is not only a political but a moral question, a question of right and wrong. We do not get around to understand the power of taxation for good or evil. When we tax crops, live stock, buildings, factories, homes and contents we suppress the very thing necessary to life. But if we tax only land values there will be no less land but it will bring more land into use. If you really believe that God made the earth and all that is in and upon it for all his children, vote yes on Amendment Twenty. It will bring the land back to the people. CITRUS GROWERS MEET

THIS WEEK

Experts to Lecture and Demonstrate Orchard Practices.

Fruit growers of Orange county are enjoying a second annual Farm Bureau Institute of practical lectures dealing with the problems of the soil and tree. The meetings start today (Wednesday) with pruning demonstrations showing the best practices of the art of pruning of the orange and lemon.

Tomorrow (Thursday) morning will be devoted to methods of killing insect pests, such as scales, red spider and aphids. Mr. Woglum fumigation expert from the California Fruit Exchange, who has done so much for the advance of fumigation science in Southern California, will discuss the principles of fumigation, explain the reasons for fumigation and injuries and tell how to avoid them. Citrus aphid and red spider control will be demonstrated by Prof. R. E. Smith.

Thursday afternoon, Dr. I. G. McBeth will discuss the use of fertilizers and cover crops and their relation to permanent soil fertility. Prof. Geo. P. Gray has consented to come down from Sacramento to tell the citrus growers about the "Standardization of Barnyard Manures." A. E. Barnes in charge of the fertilizer department of the Fruit Exchange has studied the fertilizer supplies from every angle and will tell what he knows about the "Future Supply of Organic Manures."

Friday morning all tractor men should be present to hear the discussion on "The Tractor vs. the Horse." The comparative costs of operation will be shown by Prof. R. S. Vail of the Citrus Experiment Station and Dr. D. S. Fox of San Bernardino. Prof. Vail will also give some pertinent figures on the cost of producing oranges.

The last but one of the most important demonstrations will be the "Treatment of Citrus Diseases" by Drs. Parvett and Barrett of the Citrus Experiment Station. Scaly bark, gumosis, root rot and fumigation injuries will be taken up. Citrus blast of which we have heard much about will receive some attention in order to show local growers a dangerous disease that should be kept out. Groves of Northern California are now infected with this disease. It has not as yet been introduced to Southern California but growers should be able to identify it and report if recognized.

The morning sessions will begin at 10 o'clock. The lectures and demonstrations will be held at W. R. Ward's ranch, East Center and Piacenta Aves., Anaheim, about two miles east of the center of town. All growers are invited to attend these meetings, Oct. 27-28-29.

UNKNOWN VALUE OF FRUIT AS HUMAN FOOD

Recently Revealed By Animal Experimentation.

That animal experimentation is necessary to demonstrate the values of California fruits in the human diet is pointed out by Dr. C. M. Harzine, Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, of the University of California.

"The healthfulness of fruit in the human diet has been recognized since ancient times. For centuries it has been known that when men were living on a restricted diet fruit juices were necessary to prevent them from developing scurvy. To this day transoceanic sailing ships are called 'lime luggers' because the juice of the lemon was served as a part of the ration to prevent the development of scurvy.

By experiments on rats fed on a restricted diet Professors T. B. Osborne and L. B. Mendel have shown that one of the important values of fruits in the human diet lies in the content of their vitamins, "that group of as yet ill-defined properties or substances which promote well being in ways that still require elucidation." Vitamins were first discovered to be especially abundant in milk and eggs and in the green leaves of plants and this discovery has been of tremendous importance to the human race. The discovery that fruits and especially citrus fruits contain vitamins not only explains why we should eat fruit, but it will undoubtedly result in a greater appreciation and use of California's chief agricultural product. When the fact becomes generally known that citrus fruits and their juice contain a higher proportion of vitamins than most food a tremendous impetus will be given to the consumption of these products throughout this country.

M. E. Jaffra, professor of nutrition, at Berkeley, has made plans to conduct feeding experiments with rats and other animals to determine the place which the more important fruits should have in a well balanced human diet. Such experiments would be made illegal by the passage of Initiative measure No. 7, prohibiting vivisection and the use of animals for any physiological or pathological experiments. This measure, which will come before the voters on November 2, has been so carefully worded that it literally interpreted certain cattle feeding experiments at the University Farm Davis, would be illegal.

It is already known that the fresh juices of the orange, lemon and grapefruit, contain the vitamins frequently spoken of as water-soluble vitamins. It is surprising to learn from Osborne and Mendel's experiments that orange juice compares favorably with cow's milk in water-soluble vitamin content and that it may contain some fat soluble vitamin. If so it will have been demonstrated to yield all the present known types of vitamins. The result of such experiments are of special concern to all who have an interest in the prosperity of California's fruit industries.

The caloric value of the fruit is low. They contain no fat and very little protein. Some contain a small amount of starch and the sugar and mineral content was believed for years to be the chief nutritive ingredients.

The discovery of vitamins has opened up an entirely new line of investigation, the effects of which can already be foreseen. Fruits are coming to be recognized as necessities instead of luxuries and ailments like rickets, scurvy and certain forms of ophthalmia, anaemia and skin disease are destined to banishment through a proper dietary. Animal experimentation is determining the vitamin content of foods is laying the foundation for a more stalwart and physically superior race of civilized people. Vote NO on Initiative measure No. 7 on November 2.

COUNTY'S VALENCIA CROP

Register:

If you are a pessimist, just look these figures over—$21,450,000 in coin of the realm rolling into the pockets of Valencia orange growers of Orange county.

Orange county is the greatest Valencia orange growing center in the world. One of the best crops ever produced is being shipped.

Harvesting and shipping is drawing to a close—the end will come this month. When the growers have pocketed their full returns, they will have lined their pockets with approximately the amount stated.

If you are a pessimist, let this sink in where it will do the most good—prices received for oranges this year will average higher than at any time in the history of the industry, with the possible exception of 1918, when a crop shortage and the influenza situation sent prices skyrocketing. No normal sales year of the last ever has approached this season.

Just think of it—more than twenty-one million dollars coming into Orange county from one crop only. Is it any wonder that "Nature's Wonderland" is attracting new residents by the hundreds. Is it any wonder that choice Valencia lands in Orange county are jumping in value?

The Orange County Fruit Exchange will handle approximately 3000 cars this season. The Northern Orange County Fruit Exchange, embracing all the territory north of the Santa Ana river, will ship approximately 1500 carloads. In round figures the 6500 carloads represent about 2,925,000 boxes. A net return to the growers of $5.50 per box on the tree for the season's shipments is expected. Returns to late bear out that estimate.

To Pocket Vast Sum.

This means that the exchange members will pocket around $16,087,000. The exchanges will handle about 65 per cent of the crop of the county. The independent growers, on the same basis, will receive cash for the amount of $5,525,000, net round figures only.

Last year the growers received in the neighborhood of $15,000,000. Figures estimated for this season's crop show a gain of approximately $5,000,000.

At the opening of the year, though what was at first expected to be a very poor year has proven to be one of the best. Markets were glutted early in the season by reason of large quantities of deciduous fruits being shipped, to the detriment of Valencia sales. However, the choicest of the Sun-kist brands held their own at all stages, so far as price was concerned, the lower grades being the ones to suffer a slump in quotations.

The condition brought about by the heavy shipments of deciduous fruits early in the season soon righted itself, with the result that all grades of Valencia are bringing, and have been bringing, for several months, satisfactory returns. The average for the year will show one of the best seasons on record.

WORLD SUGAR PRODUCTION APPROACHES PRE-WAR TOTAL

Sugar beet growers in California are concerned regarding the sugar outlook in Europe, especially as relating to the output of the late "Central Powers."

The American Farm Bureau Federation reports: That the present best harvest in Germany and other European countries will yield 3,370,000 long tons as compared to 2,676,000 tons last year. The yearly average for five crops in these countries ending in 1914 was 7,408,000 long tons.

Measur information from Austria and Hungary points indicates yields about the same as last year, while Czechoslovakia, which now possesses most of the factories formerly of Austria-Hungary is expected to produce 800,000 tons against 536,000 last year.

Willmet and Gray estimate German production at 1,300,000 tons as compared to 750,000 tons last year. Shortage of coal in Germany threatens, however, a full operation of factories there. Under best figures now available Germany has only one-half of its pre-war production.

The Cuban season just closed with a production of 3,570,000 tons, which was considerably less than expected at the beginning of the season. No great reduction of the Cuban crop is expected in 1921.

For the season just closed, Willmet and Gray estimate a world production of 15,154,000 long tons, or 1,235,000 tons less than 1918-19, and 1,778,000 tons less than 5 year average before the war.

This shows, then, that Europe will scarcely produce half its pre-war crop of sugar, while Cuba may be expected to have about 50 per cent more than before the war.

With a crop in the cane countries of the same size as last year and with European and American beet sugar as indicated by this year's forecast, we may expect a total production equal to about what was produced on an average just before the war.

A MYSTERY WOMAN

A mystery woman, telling a weird incoherent and fragmentary tale of cruelty, fear and fight, was a ward of the county hospital Monday.

She was brought to the county hospital at midnight Sunday night by City Marshal Vernon Meyers of Fullerton who had found her wandering around on the outskirts of the city, out of her head.

She had been wandering, according to the best information, for five days and nights without food and shelter, and was on the point of collapse when picked up and rushed to the hospital.

The woman apparently speaks only German, but the doctors believe she speaks English reasonably well, but in her dementia, due to exhaustion, as reverted to the language of her home country and her youth—her language of sixty years ago—for she is an old woman.

According to the incoherent tale told to Marshal Meyers, she left her home because she was afraid that her son would kill her.

Questioning failed to reveal where her home is, or what her name is. Officials are puzzled deeply over the case.

After a restless tossing about in her bed, she finally went to sleep at an early hour this morning. Physicians planned to question her through an interpreter this afternoon, when it was hoped her memory will have partially recovered from the shock of her starvation and exposure, and learn where she belongs.

Sheriff C. E. Jackson consulted with Dr. H. E. Zaiser of the county hospital this morning, and promised prompt action in the case the woman's identity is learned, and her story of her son's threats against her life proves to be true.
