GROWERS FAVOR PROPOSAL FOR INSECTARY

UNANIMOUSLY SUPPORT RESOLUTION ENDORSING IT AT COUNTY INSTITUTE

Water Transportation Discussed by Representative of Fruit Exchange—Advertising Man Tells of Results of Publicity Campaign—Francis Cuttle Makes Interesting Talk on the Water Problem—Other Speakers Discuss Questions of Moment.

Orange county citrus growers at the citrus institute held at Santa Ana last Thursday and Friday, voted unanimously in favor of a county insectary for the study and control of citrus pests. A resolution introduced by C. E. Ut, of Tustin, favoring the plan was adopted without a dissenting vote. Mr. Ut was chairman of the committee of eight appointed for the purpose of making an investigation of the proposed institution when the county growers met at Fullerton recently, and his resolution followed reading the report of the committee. The resolution was as follows:

"Resolved that we, the 200 or more growers assembled at the Third Annual Citrus Institute of Orange county are heartily in favor of the formation of an association financed by and controlled by growers to promote biological control of citrus pests and that we request directors of our several associations to proceed to the formation of such an organization."

Harry Smith, chief of the division of pest control of the state department of agriculture, spoke on "The Possibilities of Parasitic Control of Citrus Pests." Smith told of the invasion of Orange county in 1890 by a pest which threatened the citrus industry of the citrus industry and the introduction by the United States department of agriculture from Australia of the vedalia, a natural enemy of the pest, which checked the depredations of the latter. He told of the introduction from South Africa of another insect which has successfully halted the activities of the black scale and urged the employment by Orange county growers of entomologists in a world wide search for parasites which will ultimately control the native pests.

R. S. Woglum, entomologist at the California Fruit exchange, spoke on the present status of parasitic control in southern California. R. N. Wilson, secretary of the agricultural legislative committee, though not on the afternoon's program, was called upon to speak.

Transportation of citrus fruit by water was one of the important topics discussed at the institute. This is the solution of the shipping problem, according to A. E. Bennett, of the California Fruit exchange, who was the principal speaker on this subject. In part Mr. Bennett said:

"When I became acquainted with the citrus industry it was in its infancy. Since that time it has become a very important industry and has been solved. One of the most important problems of that time which still confronts the industry is the cost of transportation. Efforts have been made to reduce this cost, but without much success. Members of the Citrus Protective League have held numerous conferences with railroad executives relative to a reduction of freight rates, but they have resulted only in a ten per cent decrease which is not sufficient in view of the rates we were forced to pay during the war."

"Now, however, a committee from the fruit exchange has been appointed to investigate and report on a new system of transportation—that by water instead of rail. The committee has no preconceived notions to support. It is in fact later and will be guided by these facts. Mr. Whitman, the chairman, who has devoted most of his time to this work, is now in Washington and is concluding negotiations with government officials for the use of government built ships."

"The growers have always been at the mercy of the interests controlling the railroads, but a combination of circumstances has made it possible for California growers to escape from their hands. These are:

"1.—At the conclusion of the great war the government had on its hands a number of ships, well built, of the right size and capable of great storage capacity. These ships are suitable for use in transporting citrus products."

"2.—Government officials have a sympathetic understanding of our problems and are desirous of allotting these ships to us."

"3.—The attitude of the railroads has aroused growers to a desire to help themselves, and

"4.—The condition of the industry from the standpoint of the growers is now such that they are able to assist themselves."

"In transporting citrus fruits by water we escape most of the hazards of overland shipping. There is no danger of freezing and, inversely, there is no danger of overheating. In addition, shipment of our products by water will materially reduce transportation costs."

P. S. Armstrong, advertising manager of the Fruit exchange, gave an interesting talk on the advertising campaign during the past year and its results. Dr. W. P. Kelly, chemist of the state experiment station, talked on fertilizers, and Dr. J. T. Barrett, director of the station, gave an address on citrus soil.

The tempest wash about the end of the canal of the Riverside Water company, if utilized for conservation purposes, may prove the salvation of Orange county and the Santa Ana valley, according to Francis Cuttle. Cuttle urged the use of the wash to conserve water, which is now considered waste in order that Orange county may never lack water. The wash, he said, is ideal for that purpose because of its formation and structure and is many hundreds of acres in extent.

He also explained the work of the Tri-county conservation committee and gave statistics on water supply and consumption.

FORMER ANAHEIM MAN CONFESSES TO MURDER

Told Los Angeles Police How He Killed a Girl in New York

George Christman, an automobile mechanic, who formerly lived in this city, created something of a sensation by confessing to the Los Angeles police Wednesday that on August 11 he murdered Miss Leona Mayfield in New York, and threw her body into a pool of water. Christman was arrested for stealing a Paige automobile from Booth & Heinze, which he pledged for a loan in San Francisco.

Christman says his victim formerly lived at San Juan Capistrano, also for a time in this city. She lived with him as his wife, and during a quarrel on Aug. 11, threatened to leave him arrested under the Mann act, whereupon he choked her to death, wrapped the body in two silk shirts and a piece of oil cloth, and threw it into the pool of water. New York police were notified after his confession and telegraphed that they had found the body and it was dressed as indicated by Christman, in his confession.

L. S. Irvin, former employer of Christman here, believes the man to be crazy as he acted queer while in his employ. He had been wounded by a shrapnel during the war, and Irvin thinks his mind is unbalanced.

CITRUS GROWERS STUDY PRODUCTION COSTS

County Meeting at Fullerton, Dec. 15 at 9:30 A. M.

What does it cost to produce oranges and lemons per acre and per box? Is tariff protection a legitimate requisite to the industry?

Citrus growers of Orange county will show figures on this score at the farm accounting school to be conducted by the extension service and farm bureau. Mr. R. W. Wright, farm accounting specialist of the college of agriculture, will give chart talks on citrus costs and methods of simple farm accounting.

Farm Advisor Wahlberg urges every grower to attend if possible. The meeting will be held in the biology building of the Fullerton high school from 9:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. Growers of other commodities are invited to attend.

Mrs. Joseph Unger was run down by an auto at the intersection of Broadway and Palm street Sunday, while on her way to church. She suffered a broken leg and fractured shoulder.

DEATH SUMMONS A PROMINENT CITIZEN

J. W. DUCKWORTH PASSES AWAY AFTER ILLNESS OF MANY MONTHS

Bedridden Since His Return From Honolulu Thirty-Six Weeks Ago—Was a Resident of This Section More than a Quarter of a Century—Was Active in Public Life, and Served as Postmaster of Anaheim for Eight Years.

John W. Duckworth, who for a quarter of a century has been one of the prominent citizens of Orange county, died at his home in this city Thursday afternoon after a long illness extending over many months. Mr. Duckworth has been in failing health for a number of years. On the first of November a year ago he and his wife left for Honolulu, where they expected to spend six months and possibly a year visiting their son, Guy, and his family. It was hoped the change of climate would prove beneficial to Mr. Duckworth, and the length of their visit was contingent upon his health. The journey was an unfortunate one. They day before they were to take ship at San Francisco, Mrs. Duckworth slipped and fell on the pavement and broke her hip. She pluckily refused to cancel the passage, and was carried aboard the vessel the next day. The climate of Honolulu did not have the beneficial effect hoped for, and Mr. Duckworth became so ill after a few months sojourn that it was deemed best to bring him home. He was in poor condition when the ship on which they sailed reached San Francisco, and lay at the point of death for several days after reaching home. He finally rallied a little, but for the past nine months has been bedfast. Anaheim was the disease from which he suffered. He leaves a wife, two sons and one daughter, besides several grand children. The sons are Guy Duckworth, of Honolulu, W. E. Duckworth, of Kansas, and Jim Duckworth, of Corcoran, three sisters, Mrs. George Findley, of this city, Mrs. George Tedrick, of Orange, and Mrs. Mrs. G. M. Rexroad, of Stanton.

Mr. Duckworth was born in Iowa, on September 13, 1855. His parents moved to Kansas when he was a boy, and for many years he lived at Hutchinson. In 1881 he was married in Hutchinson to Miss Emma Handy. Twenty-seven years ago they moved to this section, and when McKinley became president Mr. Duckworth was appointed postmaster at Loma. He served in that position several years and later, under Roosevelt, was appointed postmaster at Anaheim, holding the office eight years. Mr. Duckworth has always taken an active part in public life. He served several years on the Republican central committee. After leaving the postoffice he was elected secretary of the Merchants' association and also the chamber of commerce. He was later appointed a member of the Orange county highway commission, and held that position at the time of his death.

Funeral services were held at Backs & Terry's parlors Saturday afternoon, Rev. T. H. Walker, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiating. A large number of friends and associates gathered at the church to pay the last tribute of respect to the man who had taken such an active part in public affairs for so many years. Interment was in Fairhaven cemetery, Santa Ana.

Miss Kate Rice had her thanks for a quantity of poppy seed which she gathered from a bed of poppies at her mother's residence on Broadway. The seed from which the flowers grew came from Flanders Field, the first blossoms appearing on Decoration day. They attracted much attention, being different from the California poppies and were most beautiful to behold. Their red color is darker than the golden poppies usually seen here and they are much larger than the local variety. They are from the field where poppies grow, between the crosses, grow on row.

ANAHEIM SUGAR PLANT TO BUILD ADDITION

Will Expand Quarter of a Million Dollars on Improvements

The Anaheim sugar factory will expend $250,000 in the construction of a Steffens plant, according to announcement made by Superintendent D. Jessurun, of that company, the work to be started when sugar prices have reached a stabilized level sufficiently high to provide a fair profit to the operators.

The Steffens department will be joined to a wing of the present building, where the lime kilns are located, thus providing an economic system in treating the molasses with lime in order to convert the liquid into sugar.

At the present time, according to Jessurun, only seventy-five per cent of the sugar is extracted from the juice, whereas with the installation of the Steffens system, he expects to add at least ten per cent to the previous results.

The Anaheim plant is said to be the only one of any importance in California in which the Steffens system is not in operation. By introducing this feature, Jessurun estimates that the payroll of the company will be increased approximately ten per cent. Between forty-five and fifty men are now employed at the Anaheim plant, and this number will be retained until next May at which time normal operations will be resumed.

INCOME TAX BLANKS

Income tax return blanks will not be available to income taxpayers before January 10 or 15, according to announcement of E. B. Burns, Orange county representative of the bureau of internal revenue for southern California.

Burns is making this announcement so that those interested will not be besieging his office the latter part of this month or the early part of next. The public will be advised just as soon as the forms are available, he said.

The collector was a speaker at the monthly meeting of the State Association of Electrical Contractors and Engineers, held in the auditorium of the Southern California Edison company, Los Angeles. "Timely Hints on Income Tax Problems" was the subject of his address. He spoke extemporaneously and discussed points to the new income tax law which he has become informed. Details of the full provisions of the new law have not yet been placed in his hands.

In his discussion he spoke on the method of preparing returns and keeping of accounts and cited some of the errors most common in returns.

CHESTER HOLCOMB MOVES TO CHINO

Purchases 200 Acres Alfalfa Ranch and Will Go in Extensively for Hog and Cattle Raising

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Holcomb, of Fullerton, will move this week to Chino, where Mr. Holcomb has purchased a 200-acre ranch, and will take up his residence there. The ranch is five miles from the town of Chino and 12 miles from Ontario. The entire ranch is now to alfalfa, but Mr. Holcomb will next spring set out 25 acres to walnuts and will later on go extensively into citrus culture. He will also devote considerable attention to the raising of hogs and cattle.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Holcomb will accompany them, and Mrs. Dora Zeyn and Jimmie Holcomb will remain in Fullerton until the latter graduates from high school, when they will join their relatives in the upper valley. Mr. Holcomb has long been a resident of this section, having been president of the First National bank of this city some years ago and being engaged in other large financial enterprises. He and his family will have the best wishes of their many friends for their success in their new home.

GARDEN SEEDS

This office has just received from Washington, through the courtesy of Senator Shortridge, a supply of government seeds, which will be distributed free on application to all who wish to plant them. Each package contains a small envelope of bean, beet, lettuce, onion and tomato seeds. If you want a package, call early as the supply will not last long.

You should take a vacation. Even though you may not need a rest, those around you do.

HOLIDAY TRADE UNUSUALLY HEAVY

ANAHEIM MERCHANTS REPORT EARLY SHOPPING AND LARGE SALES

Postoffice and Express Company Already Doing a Land Office Business—California Products Going East in Christmas Packages—All Stores in the City Gaily Decorated With the Colors of the Season—Streets Daily Crowded With Shoppers.

Practically every store and business place in the city is now wearing the colors of the season—the red, the green and the russet brown of the autumn leaf, indicative of the fact that Christmas is approaching. Wherever you go the eye is greeted with Christmas bells and holly, and the display windows are piled high with toys and a class of goods that only make their appearance on the sales counters during this period of the year.

Already the streets are crowded with people on shopping expeditions, making their Christmas purchases, and spending their money freely for somebody else. It is the one season of the year when everybody forgets himself and racks his brain in an effort to decide what he can buy that will make somebody else happy.

Anaheim merchants laid in heavy stocks this year and report unusually large sales, indicating that people are buying early and that the holiday trade will be unusually large. All classes of merchants tell the same story, and stocks are expected to be pretty well depleted long before Christmas day arrives.

The postoffice and the express office are being overwhelmed with packages, mostly laid with California products going to friends who are so unfortunate as to still live back in the winter east, and if you contemplate shipping anything to your friends who live at a considerable distance you had better not delay or it will not reach them in time. Mail and express trains will be congested from now on until many days after Christmas.

The following suggestions have been received by the local postmaster relative to the mailing of cards and parcels for Christmas. It is a Christmas message especially to boys and girls from Uncle Sam.

To the boys and girls of the U. S.: Christmas is almost here. Your great postoffice department has a big job ahead and needs your help.

Think what it means to be Santa Claus to our 100,000,000 people and to deliver Christmas parcels to every family in this great country within the short space of a few days and without disappointment.

It can be done, and we're going to do it if we may have your help. We want to assist the active assistance of every boy and girl in the schools of our country in getting parcels mailed this week to relieve the rush that comes directly before Christmas.

Will you go home today and take this message to your parents and friends:

"Our postmaster has asked us to mail our Christmas parcels this week for unless we do, Uncle Sam's load may be so heavy the last few days before Christmas that he won't be able to deliver all the presents by Christmas eve."

The parcels must be well wrapped and tied and addressed plainly in order that they may arrive in good condition. Write the Christmas message unsolicited. You can put on your packages, "Do not open until Christmas eve."

The address on every letter, card, or package must be correct, complete, and legible, including the house number and name of street, and the "From" address should be in the upper left-hand corner so that the mail will be returned to you in case it is not delivered. Do not abbreviate names of states because so many look alike when abbreviated.

Put the proper amount of postage on your letters and wrap the parcels carefully. Avoid fancy writing, which causes postoffice clerks and letter carriers to stop and study and thus lose time. Make the address plain and easily read, and always use pen and ink or typewriter and light-colored envelopes so they can be easily read.

Mail your letters and packages early in the day because this avoids overloading and delaying mail at the end of the day.

P. S. Don't forget to mail Christmas packages this week.

ORIGIN OF CHRISTMAS

Christmas was first celebrated in the year 98, observes a writer, but it was 40 years later before it was officially adopted as a Christian festival; nor was it until about the fifth century that the day of its celebration became permanently fixed on December 25. Up to that time it had been irregularly observed at various times of the year—in December, in April and in May, but most frequently in January.

In Rome the Saturnalia, or feast of Saturn, fell at about the same time as our Christmas, and it marked the greatest festival of the Roman year. The city abandoned itself to gayety. Universal mirth was the order of the day; friends feasted friends, and foes were reconciled. All social distinctions were laid aside. Work was stopped, and no war was ever entered upon at that time.

One by one other legends and customs have been disproved and overturned, yet none has dared attack the legends and the customs sacred to Christmas. It remains with us, and will always remain. Christmas marks the winter solstice. The days begin to lengthen, and the sun no longer journeys away from the earth, but enters upon its return. It is a promise of renewed light and warmth, of the approach of summer, and men hailed these signs with every expression of gladness.

When Christianity spread abroad, men adapted the old customs of their ancestors to the new order of things. The word Yuletide, used to give a picturesque, old-time flavor to the Christmas idea, comes from Yule, an old name for Christmas. The term springs from an English word used to designate the two months of December and January, one of which was called the "former Yule," the other the "after Yule." There is a legend which relates that it was the custom years ago for every Saxon household to burn the Yule log on Christmas eve. This was a great cherished tree trunk, cut the day before Christmas and brought into the hall on a sled, and with great ceremony and accompanied by music. Each member of the household would sing a Yule song, standing on the center of the log.

In Germany and other European countries it was believed by the children that the Christmas tree glittered with candles and brightness, and the gifts found beneath the tree, were the work of jolly old St. Nicholas, or Santa Claus, as we know him. This kindly saint was no legendary character. He lived about 300 A. D., and was a noted bishop of a patron saint of generosity because of his liberality. The idea of St. Nicholas traveling in a sleigh drawn by reindeer originated in the cold northern countries. The reindeer were the swiftest animals known, and they must needs fly like the wind to carry St. Nick the rounds of the world in one night.

Always as important as the gift giving and gift receiving on Christmas day is the feast of dainties spread on that occasion. But even the Christmas dinner had its origin in the dim, distant past. Feasts were always the accompaniment of any festival. In Egypt, at the winter solstice, every family killed and ate a goose as a religious observance. We preserve the custom of eating fowl on Christmas, but the toothsome turkey has more generally supplanted the goose.

DEMANDS RESTITUTION

Restitution of property, consisting of a billiard hall and bowling alley at 125 West Center street, together with damages for its alleged unlawful retention by the defendant, is involved in a suit on file in the superior court. E. L. Trussell is plaintiff in the action, which is filed against Ernest J. Dugas, Albert T. Myre and other unnamed defendants. Damages in the sum of $400 is asked as an alternative to restitution of the premises. Other damages, equivalent to $30 a day from December 8, the date of filing suit, are also demanded.

You can't stop the mouth of scandal about yourself by filling your own mouth with scandal about others.

PAVING ORDERED ON CHARTRES STREET

PROTESTANTS FAILED TO PUT UP ARGUMENT WHEN MATTER WAS CONSIDERED

Bids for the Work Will Be Asked for Shortly—Emergency Ordinance Introduced Providing for Another Paving—Fire Chief Hasdon Asking for a Fire Marshal—Birmingham Firm Gets Contract for $25,000 Worth of Water Pipe.

A resolution ordering the pavement of Chartres street from Olive to Palm was adopted by the trustees at the meeting Thursday night. A large number of property owners on the street had protested against the paving at this time owing to the heavy cost of material and labor, but none were on hand to argue the matter when the question came up Thursday night. Bids for the work will be asked for in a short time.

Owing to the activity of the burglar and hold-up man there has been a demand of late for an increase in the police force, in order that the city could be better guarded at night. The Chamber of Commerce recently asked for two more men on the force. The trustees Thursday night adopted an emergency ordinance providing for one more man, thus giving City Marshal Steadman five deputies. The ordinance was to be passed within two days after its introduction in order to expedite the appointment. Marshal Steadman stated that he would appoint Charles O. Cheever to the position.

Fire Chief Dean Hasdon asked that a fire marshal be appointed, whose principal duty will be to see that the fire ordinances are complied with. The city manager will consider the matter and make a report at the next meeting.

Residents of West street between Center and Broadway, entered a complaint against further delay in laying a sidewalk on that street.

The C. S. Cast Iron Pipe & Foundry company was awarded the contract for $25,000 worth of water mains to be used in extending and improving the water service. The total purchase amounted to 540 tons. It is manufactured in Birmingham, Alabama, and will be shipped by water through the Panama canal.

Representative Allen, of the Auto Club of Southern California, was granted permission to put guide signs on the fire pole at the intersection of Center and Los Angeles streets.

Rate Collector Wallace reported money collected for light and water during the month aggregated $10,424.90. The marshal collected for licenses, $121.50, the plumbing inspector collected $29.25, the public health inspector was paid $75.04, and the recorder turned in $10 collected in fines.

Bills to the amount of $15,029.11 were O. K'd by the finance committee. The treasurer reported total cash in the treasury amounted to $249,271.21. Of this amount $32,271.76 was in the general fund.

THE DECIDUOUS CROP

California's 1921 green deciduous fruit crop amounting to 40,028 carloads, worth $80,000,000 in round numbers, the greatest yield and value on record, has been marketed. The crop was 5000 more cars than were shipped in 1920.

It is predicted that the 1922 crop will be greater by 15,000 cars than the yield of 1921. The 1921 crop brought about $10,000,000 more than the previous year.

The shipments, however, do not represent the total fruit yield, as the distributors handle only the green product, while immense quantities of deciduous varieties are used by the canneries, evaporators and for other purposes.

The 1921 shipments given out by Wilmer Sig, sales manager for the distributors are as follows:

Cherries, 665 cars; apricots, 284 cars; peaches, 3333 3/4 cars; plums, 3099 3/4 cars; pears, 459 3/4 cars; grapes, 28,529 cars; miscellaneous varieties, 236 cars. Total 40,028 carloads.

IN THE DAYS OF LONG AGO

Items of Local Interest Culled from the Files of Former Issues of This Paper

From the Gazette, Dec. 16, 1871.
Common Council Proceedings.—The council met at 2 p. m., Dec. 11th. Present Messrs. Champlin, Boege, Davis, Bittner and President Zeyn. A petition was received from the Anaheim railroad company, asking for aid to build a railroad from the city of Anaheim to Anaheim Landing. On motion of Mr. Champlin the petition was received and laid up for next meeting. The following bills were received and referred to the finance committee: R. Melrose, $100; Helman and George, $60.42; T. T. Hill, $25; Crook & Sullivan, $3; H. Benner-schmidt, $1.42; J. W. Clark, $3.50; A. Kohler, $3. On motion of Mr. Davis the common council then adjourned to meet on Tuesday, Dec. 18, 1871, at 3 o'clock p. m.—Theodore Rimpau, Clerk.

The semi-annual examinations of the Anaheim public schools will be held on Thursday and Friday, Dec. 21 and 22. All are invited to attend.

Mr. Richard Melrose has sold his lot on the northeastern corner of Los Angeles and Second North streets to the Messrs. Backs Bros., who propose to erect there a two story building for the manufacture and sale of furniture.

Somebody stole some chickens from Mr. Rimpau's residence last night. The rascal was pursued and shot at, but unfortunately escaped.

We learn that the new hotel now nearly completed by Mr. Kroeger is to be christened the Anaheim hotel.

We visited the rink at Los Angeles the other evening and enjoyed the spectacle very much. The proprietors, Messrs. Bent and Ralph, offer to sell the right for Anaheim and we think some of our citizens would do well to buy it and open a rink here.

Mr. Michael Reese, proprietor of the Alamitos ranch and one of the wealthiest men in the state, was in Anaheim yesterday. He had a conference with F. Schneider, Esq., president of the Anaheim Lighter company, the object of his visit being mainly to arrange the business relations existing between himself and that corporation.

We acknowledge receipt, through the courtesy of Hon. T. D. Mott, our representative at Sacramento, of a pamphlet entitled "The Railroad System of California," which has already been more fully noticed in these columns.

We have received the first number of the California Free Press, a weekly family paper published at Sacramento by McKinney and Byron.

Attention is directed to the advertisement of Mr. Conrad in another column. The brewery has been well fitted up and is a pleasant resort for a cooling drink of lager or a quiet smoke.

New Year's Ball. To be given under the auspices of the Anaheim fire department at Enterprise hall, on Saturday, December 30th, 1871. Committee of arrangements—Peter Rich-ards, Adolph Rimpau, Morris Steinhart, Henry Knappke. Reception committee—Fred Langenberger, Louis Durr. Invitation committee—Chas. A. Gardner, Richard Melrose. Floor managers—Fred Langenberger, Joan Fischer, A. Brookbanks. Tickets for gentlemen and ladies, including supper, $2.50. Members of the Anaheim fire company are requested to appear in uniform.

On the Bolsa Chica, near the Westminster colony, stands a corn crib 128 feet long, 8 feet wide and 14 feet high full of corn. This crop was raised by Col. John L. Strong. He informs us, without the use of either team or tools—after the ground was plowed and harrowed—than long handled shovels and hoes. The crib contains about 4000 sacks of shelled corn, and is said to be the largest in the country. Col. Strong informs us that he has about a thousand cents destroyed by stock and saved the remainder by heading night and day. Only about half the land was irrigated.

The People's Advocate, a newspaper started by Major Max Strobel and Capt. George C. Knox, was consolidated with the Gazette. The People's Advocate was published in a house at the northwest corner of Lemon and Broadway. The Gazette was started in a building which stood on the line drug store now stands. The consolidation was effected 50 years ago.

From the Gazette, Dec. 17, 1896.
From the Pasadena Star: A horrible rumor comes from Anaheim, we may credit the Gazette (and we trust that Henry Kichel wouldn't lie about a little thing like that) that a citizen has been set upon by footpads who cut him with great difficulty and tried to rob him—but got nothing. It was not so in the good old days when we lived here. Then if a robber had the enterprise to waylay a citizen on the highway, he was sure of something—if nothing more than a broken head. Henry, these degenerate days and we weep with you. (The above was written by Chas. A. Gardner, then editor of the Pasadena Star and fifty years ago, editor of the Gazette. Mr. Gardner still resides at Pasadena, but has long since reformed, and for years has been out of the newspaper business.)

From the Los Angeles Express: Anaheim is all torn up on account of the presence of burglars, who threaten to steal some of the pretty girls down there.

The Ladies' Euchre club was entertained by Mrs. Derr at her delightful home on Broadway on Friday afternoon last. Mrs. Shanley was the first prize, an embroidered cushion and Mrs. Julian Holman the second, a handsomely bound copy of Byron. Delicious refreshments were served and at a late hour the party dispersed.

At a meeting of the children of Mary at the convent one evening last week the yearly election of officers resulted as follows: President, Miss Zella Smythe; vice-president, Miss Josephine Dausser; treasurer, Miss Annie Everhardy; secretary, Miss Emma Dausser. A banquet and entertainment was participated in by those present. The Dominican sisters will give an entertainment on the evening of December 29th. Tableaux representing Belshazzar's feast, a Christmas tree, etc., will be attractions of the evening.

Miss Fannie Rowe is down from Los Angeles on a visit to Miss Annie Everhardy.

Mrs. W. J. Smith has gone to San Francisco to be present at the marriage of her daughter, Miss Katherine Fleming, to Gustave Henrichs, the well known musical composer and impresario of New York City.

Judge Richard Egan came up from Capistrano on Tuesday evening on a visit to friends, and yesterday morning continued on his way to Los Angeles.

Robert Sprout, nephew of William Crowther, of Placencia, took his departure on Tuesday for Texas, where he will permanently reside. A gathering of the young folks of the neighborhood, assembled at the Crowther mansion a few evenings since to bid him goodspeed upon his journey.

Louie Miller went up to Los Angeles on Tuesday afternoon, and yesterday morning Mr. Naele telephoned him that their store had been the scene of a visit of a gang of burglars on Tuesday night. Louie returned from Los Angeles yesterday afternoon.

Don Marcos Forster, of San Juan Capistrano, was made the recipient last Friday at Santa Ana of a diamond studded gold locket and a testimonial of esteem on the part of the Republicans who were so royally entertained by him on the occasion of the recent barbecue at Capistrano, commemorative of the presentation of the silk flag to the banner Republican precinct of the county.

Mrs. Wm. Schulte, wife of one of the best known residents of Orange-Grove avenue, died at the family residence on Thursday last.

Clarence Groat has laid down excellent cement cross-walks at the junction of Center and Los Angeles streets that will be greatly appreciated by the pedestrians when the rains come.

A meeting of those interested in the annual dinner to be given by the Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Commercial hotel tomorrow evening.

Will Lawrence left yesterday for the City of Mexico. He takes with him a number of letters of introduction to prominent people among others not less a person than President Diaz himself.

ORDER SMALLER JAIL

Plans for the proposed county jail upon which bids were rejected, have been abandoned and John A. Parkinson, architect, has been directed to draw new plans and specifications for a smaller building to cost not more than $125,000, the aggregate of the lowest bids under the old specifications totalled $212,000.

The new plans will provide for a jail building covering the front of the lot and depth of 15 feet. The abandoned plans provided for a structure covering the entire lot, 100x125 feet.

Whether the new structure will be two or three stories is for the architect to decide. A number of cells will have to be eliminated and other rooms in the jail will have to be left out or made smaller in order to conform to the limit within the limit placed by the board.

The new structure will be designed so that an addition may be built ten or twelve years hence, if it becomes necessary.

WARNINGS TO TOURISTS

Southern California's touring season for the winter months is at its height this week, according to a report just issued by the Automobile Club of Southern California, and there are many notices of vital importance to all auto owners to be considered.

Any motorist from this section who is contemplating a tour through Tulare county, for instance, must beware the speed cops there from now on. If you speed more than 45 miles per hour in the vicinity of Tulare you will be put in jail. This warning is issued to all who may read.

Motorists intending to visit Little Bear valley in the near future will find the store there closed, so parties having children in them should remember this and not have the youngsters go foodless over night by arriving at Little Bear expecting to purchase grub.

Flash-light signals, warning automobiles of danger, night by flashing a red light are to be erected throughout this and other southern counties by the auto club, according to an announcement just made. These signals are to be erected in connection with the club's signaling system at the most important points of travel.

Auto thieves are becoming more daring this winter than ever before in the history of the west, and motorists are advised by the their bureau officials to take extra precaution this month in locking cars if they are only vacated for two minutes. Take no chances with the auto thieves!

New state licenses can be secured through the auto club two weeks earlier than you will be able to get them from the motor vehicle department, as a matter of convenience to thousands of club members in this section. Make your applications early is the advice just sent out.

CALIFORNIA'S EARLY DAYS

The early days of California's modern historical era are brought to mind by the discovery and sale of the Fort Snuffer papers of 1846-47—papers which long have been lost. Finding of these treasured documents has been hailed as the greatest historical discovery of a generation. An art and book concern of New York purchased these papers for an unnamed client.

It may have been Henry E. Huntington, but whoever the buyer, he doubtless will preserve the papers with as sidious care and they eventually, if not from the present time, will repose in some California library or museum.

California's history is replete with romantic interest. Go back, in research to the days when the renowned rovers of the sea first were skirting these shores—there was romance then. Follow the warp and wool of this region's history as it became part of Mexico and as, in due process, the padres came to establish the famous missions—there was romance then. And interwoven with the romantic events were the legends of California.

The inspiration of Helen Hunt Jackson in writing "Ramona." And the fateful discovery of gold—what a romance was that. And what romance in the coming of the Argonauts—that long line of hardy woodsmen of fortune who braved the perils of the plains, the mountains and the desert, or who made the hazardous journey around the Horn!

And as California was wrested from Mexico, as it settled up and became a state; and as it took on its varied development; and as it became the favorite region for tourists and sight-seers—what romance in its shifting scenes of activity, its phenomenal progress and its amazing wealth! California verily is the Land of Romance.

HARMFUL IDEALISM

The Los Angeles City club has sent a letter to President Harding containing these declarations:

We expect you to do everything in your power to bring about world disarmament, and nothing less:

We believe the hour has come when America shall lead the way in abolishing war, and lend her power at this time of her opportunity to that end:

Therefore, we are looking to you to aid us in the realization of that great end of all human ideals, "Peace on earth, good will to men."

President Harding did not call the Washington conference to discuss world disarmament and the subject will not be mentioned there. The president is too good a friend to peace and too liberal of seeing the conference achieve some practical result, to risk its success—by bringing about its certain failure indeed—by laying any such proposal before it. America has neither proposed world disarmament nor the abolition of war, and for very good reasons. Disarmament is not practicable nor sensible and war cannot be abolished by resolution or proclamation.

What the Washington conference will attempt to do is, first, to remove by understanding some of the provocatives to war that now exist in the Pacific ocean and second, to agree upon future armaments that will put an end, not to existing navies, but to competitive building. If the Washington conference does those two things it will have succeeded greatly. If it attempts to do more it will fail conspicuously and its failure will leave the world worse off than it now is, for the armaments race will be on again at greater speed than ever. "Peace on earth, good will to men" is a great ideal, but it cannot be attained by abolishing the police.

"Will You Excuse It, Please—
There Is No One on the Line Now."

Mistakes are bound to happen. We all make them. When your telephone bell rings and the operator says, "Will excuse it please, there is no one on the line now," she is not responsible for your annoyance and inconvenience.

The occasion for the use of the phrase most frequently arises when the called party is slow to answer—the calling subscriber does not wait and hangs up his telephone.

Many times daily telephone users call wrong numbers—use incorrect prefixes, such as "Main" for "Market"—transpose figures, such as 5342 for 5432. Suddenly realizing their mistakes, they hang up their telephone.

Without fault or negligence on her part the telephone operator is left to explain, and the sentence first quoted is that adopted as most briefly and concisely covering the situation.

INCOME TAX TO BE LOWER

The married man of 1921 is given a 34-month consideration under the new income tax regulations as a $5,000 income is subject to exemption of $2000, instead of $2000, as existed under the 1918 provisions. In addition, each dependent carries a $400 exemption compared with $200 under the previous act.

These facts were drawn from E. B. Burns, deputy collector of internal revenue for this district. Collectors throughout the country have been receiving thousands of inquiries regarding the 1921 income tax regulations, leading the bureau of internal revenue to inaugurate a campaign of publicity so as to enable the taxpayers to gain proper information.

In the first of a series of statements issued by the bureau, many radical changes are noted. Every person whose gross income for 1921 was $5,000 or more must make a return regardless of the amount of net income. This requirement was not contained in the revenue act of 1913. Every married couple living together must make a return, either separate or joint as desired, if their aggregate net income was $2000 or over, or if their aggregate income was $5000 or over.

Following are income tax requirements as compiled and issued by the bureau of internal revenue, through Deputy Collector Burns:

"Probably the most important change affecting the man of moderate income is in the exemptions. Under the 1921 act a married man with a net income of $5000 and less is entitled to an exemption of $2000. Under the revenue act of 1913 this exemption was limited to $1000. The revenue act of 1921 also provides for each person dependent upon the taxpayer if such person is under eighteen years of age or incapable of self support because mentally or physically defective."

The exemption of $2000 applies to the head of a family whose net income for 1921 was $5000 or less, an increase of $500 compared with the 1913 act. A head of a family, as defined by present treasury regulations, is a person who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage, or by adoption, or whose right to exercise family control and provide for dependents is based upon some moral or legal obligation.

"The normal rate of tax, 4 per cent on the first $4000 of net income above the exemptions, and 8 per cent on the remaining net income, remains unchanged. This applies to citizens and residents of the United States. Alien non-residents are taxed to the full 8 per cent on income received from sources within the United States. Non-resident aliens are allowed only a single personal exemption of $1000. To overcome the disparity in the amount of normal tax in the case of two taxpayers, one of whom is just within the lower $2000 exemption, the other being just within the higher $2,500 exemption, the act provides that the reduction of the personal exemption from $2500 to $2000 shall not operate to increase the tax, which would be payable if the exemption were $2,500 by more than the net income in excess of $5000. For example, a married man or head of a family has a net income for 1921 of $5010. Assuming that he has no dependents, his tax, if he were allowed only the $2,000 exemption, would be $120.40. Under the benefits of the above provision, however, his tax is $110, 4 per cent on the amount of his taxable income of $2500, or $100, plus the amount by which his net income exceeds $5000.

NORTHERN CITRUS BELT

They are holding a citrus and olive exposition at Oreville and the affair was opened with an address by James Mills, formerly of Riverside, and now of Hamilton City. Mr. Mills, as Riverside knows, is some word painter; and he set forth the citrus possibilities of the upper Sacramento valley with eloquence and force. In connection with his account of the opening exercises, the Sacramento Bee includes in the following interesting bit of "invidious comparison."

"Thirty-four years ago Oreville held its first orange show. Local in its character, even then it depicted the possibilities of citrus culture in superior California."

Today, at the height of the first northern California orange and olive exposition, the citrus industry has been developed until this section not only competes with others in the production of the fruit, but actually is leading them, as it has led in the idea of the orange show.

Bigger oranges may be shown at fairs in the south, but there are no oranges of better quality, of finer texture, or better color, than those of this part of the state.

The are ripe now, while the trees of the groves south of the Tehachapi mountains hang full of green, unmarketable oranges. They not only pass the eight-to-one test, but the 70 per cent color test as well. Under either, or both, they can be shipped and are being shipped.

The press has consistently given the upper Sacramento valley credit for producing fine oranges and for ripening them earlier than does southern California. The writer visited the Oreville section fifteen years ago in order to write up the northern citrus belt, and only a few months ago referred to the fine orange groves seen as far north as Oreville. The citrus properties developed by Mr. Mills are among the finest young orchards in the state.

All this is said freely and without qualification, but there are some facts the Bee can take its time to explain.

Orange trees were flourishing in the Sacramento valley before Riverside was started and long before Tulare county was thought of as a citrus section. Last year, however, all of northern California produced only 210 cars of citrus fruit, and never shipped to exceed 400 cars. For the same year Tulare county shipped 6992 carloads of citrus fruit and southern California shipped 41,330 carloads of oranges and 11,584 carloads of lemons. Riverside alone shipped 3705 carloads of citrus fruit, more than ten times as much as all northern California.

One sort of wonder what they have been doing up there in the 34 years since the first citrus fair was held at Oreville.

THE NAVAL CROP

Based on the average net price being paid growers for fruit suitable for shipment for the holiday trade, the naval orange crop of Orange county will return growers more than $500,000. It was estimated today. That Orange county is declining as a potential section in the production of naval orange is becoming more apparent each year, as the acreage is reduced, with a consequent reduction in shipments.

The Valencia is king in Orange county, and the county is the king of Valencia-producing sections of California and the United States, it is claimed.

While navels will soon be on the market, the picking season for the Valencia crop in Orange county is just closing, and the product is going onto the best market of the year, according to L. D. Palmer, manager of the Orange County Fruit exchange.

Valencias in all other of the growing sections have been cleaned up and the Orange County Fruit exchange this week had between fifty and sixty cars rolling, the only Valencias available to the market at this time. No more Valencias will be on the market until the starting of shipments for next season, which will be, probably, in the early part of May of next year. Fancies sold on the New York market last week at $10.75 per box. An average of $7 to $8 per box will be received for the fruit now on track, in the opinion of Palmer.

The exchange will make no attempt to ship navels for the Christmas trade, Palmer stated. He declared that the fruit is not sufficiently ripened to warrant the exchange offering it. Warm weather has interfered with the coloring of the fruit and it is not as well advanced as it usually is at this season of the year, being small in size.

WILD LIFE RESOURCES

The government's accounting to the American people of its stewardship of their wild animals and birds during the past fiscal year, as exercised through the bureau of biological survey, United States department of agriculture, is contained in the bureau's annual report.

In its supervision over the wild life resources and liabilities of the nation, the government deals with those birds and animals of distinct value to agriculture, commerce, and industry as well as with those injurious species whose natural habits in years past have cost the country many hundreds of millions of dollars. On the asset side of the balance sheet the total mounts; and the liabilities, thanks to the increasing efficiency and thoroughness of the government's supervision are shrinking. Sketched in its high light dealing only with major facts and totals, the bureau's work during the past year shows among other things the following results:

A saving to farmers and stockmen of about $14,000,000 during the year—at a cost of $1,345,220—in the campaign west of the Mississippi against wolves, lynxes and bobcats, mountain lions, bears and rodents.

Destruction by rifle, trap, and poison of approximately 50,000 of the predatory animals.

Continuation, with marked success, of the work begun 5 years ago of ridding the ranges—and thereby making them safe for grazing—of predatory animals.

AN EXPLANATION
DOESN'T EXPLAIN

The Long Beach Press comes to hand with a knock out. It's a beauty, make no mistake. Speaking of the source of the name of the Santa Ana wind, which bloweth whithersoever it listeth, it declares the origin is in the Indian word "sandana," which nobody ever heard of and proceeds:

"Following Saturday's demonstration of an old fashioned sandana, or wind storm, Santa Ana may be expected to resume its campaign for a correction of the popular practice of many southern Californians and their newspapers of referring to these rare and somewhat disagreeable blows as 'Santa Anas'.

"The proper appellation is as the Press uses it—sandana; the term employed by the Indian and Spanish predecessors of the American population. It was natural enough, of course, for the present generation to mistake sandana for Santa Ana, thereby unwittingly dealing grave injustice to one of the most attractive and progressive cities of the southland."

Commenting upon this historical inaccuracy the Santa Ana Register comes to hand with the following:

"Every resident of Santa Ana will thank the Long Beach Press for an editorial printed in that newspaper a few days ago in which it is declared that the use of the name 'Santa Ana' as applied to a certain disagreeable northeast wind that occasionally romps over the landscape is 'both incorrect and libelous'."

"Old-timers here are not likely, however, to accept the Press explanation of why the desert winds in this part of the state are called 'Santa Ana' wind by those who have not broken themselves of the habit of using the word 'Santa Ana' in that connection."

"Locally, we have always been told by pioneers that the name was first applied to desert winds by early settlers in and around Santa Ana. The wind, coming from the northeast, seemed to enter the valley through the gap in the mountains caused by the Santa Ana canyon. Because it came through the Santa Ana canyon, the wind was called a 'Santa Ana.'"

We hasten to come to the rescue of both our esteemed contemporaries with a truthful statement of the origin of the term "Santa Ana" wind. Old-timers here declare they never heard of the word "sandana" and the explanation of the Register that the wind coming through the Santa Ana canyon was therefore given that title is quite erroneous. Now for the real origin of this term, which has spread from this city, where it originated, to many portions of southern California. We have heard these desert winds designated as "Santa Anas" in Los Angeles and points further north and as far south as San Diego. We heard Col. J. J. Ayres, editor of the Los Angeles Express, say many years ago in that city, "Here comes another Santa Ana." He also said, on another occasion, that whenever he came into this valley, a Santa Ana wind was blowing. Of course, these winds blew more frequently in the early days; in fact, they were quite numerous, as Col. Brock used to say. Last week's wind was probably the worst of its kind in 25 years. We believe we are gradually "getting shut" of these winds, and we hope the time will come when they will entirely disappear.

Away back in the 50's, when this city was first being laid out, long before the present city of Santa Ana had ever been thought of; long before Mr. Spurgeon riding on horseback through the immense fields of mustard, became infatuated with the valley and declared that here he would henceforth abide; long before this time the prosperous town of Yorba, up the river, was known as Santa Ana, and the early settlers, viewing the dust clouds toward the northeast, fell into the habit of saying, as Col. Ayres said many years later, "Here comes a Santa Ana wind."

The wind blew down the river canyon coming by way of the town of Santa Ana, which is now Yorba, and was forever afterward designated by that title. Only that and nothing more. Perhaps the Long Beach Press, in determining the origin of the wind has contended "sandana" with "sandila," which means watermelon. How would it do to call these winds watermelon winds? Oh, boy! But when all is said and done, we feel that Santa Ana, the city we mean, not the wind, what with its Judge Cox, its Gretta Green, its St. Ann's Inn, and its many other celebrities, must be a good sport, must look pleasant and must take its medicine. Away back in the dawn of local history, three quarters of a century ago nearly, these winds were christened "Santa Anas" and reverberating down the halls of time, the title sticks. And as we write, shades of Col. Ayres, brilliant editor, author, orator, statesman, here comes another Santa Ana wind!

Miss Frances Schmidt was a guest of friends in Los Angeles Tuesday.

County Clerk J. M. Backs was in town this week on a brief business mission.

W. B. Holland, of the Holland Electric company, left Monday for Pennsylvania, on a visit to his parents and other relatives. He will make an extended trip through the east before returning.

Mrs. L. W. Kirby, of Los Angeles, is a guest of her sister, Mrs. Adolph Rimpau. Mrs. Kirby is a former resident of this city, is a daughter of one of the pioneer families, and has many warm friends here, who are delighted to meet with her again.

A. S. Feagan, formerly a resident here, died at his home in Los Angeles Saturday. Funeral was held at Backs & Ferry's Tuesday afternoon, the remains being buried in Anaheim cemetery. He and his brother-in-law, R. E. Vaughn, at one time owned and operated the Anaheim feed mill. Buena Park Masons had charge of the services at the grave.

The fire department was called to the corner of Palm and Chestnut streets at noon Friday to extinguish a blaze in the rear of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Schulte. A rubbish fire had communicated with the fence and a garage, and promised to be an expensive blaze, but Fred Garrison, who lives next door, had gained control of the situation with a garden hose before the fire boys reached the scene.

Jack Brennan and William Theeks, of New York City, were in town this week looking for a location for a large manufacturing enterprise. They have toured the country through the southwest, and declare that Anaheim looks better to them than any town seen on their travels. They are making headquarters in Los Angeles, and will probably be in town again in a few days.

Mrs. J. B. Rae has sold her residence at the corner of Broadway and Philadelphia streets to L. E. Miller, who is moving it to the rear of his residence on Broadway. The building will face on Elm street. Mrs. Rae will immediately begin the erection of a five-room bungalow on her lot and while it is being built she and her daughter, Miss Kate Rae, will have rooms with Mrs. Holman on Philadelphia street.

License to marry has been issued to Leighton F. Webster, of Los Angeles, and Lorinda M. Corona, of Fullerton.

Fred Minyard, Dean Hasson and Wm. Hanson went over to the Salton sea last week hunting geese. Birds were plentiful, but hard to reach, the boys returning with one lone goose.

George Danton sold five Ford cars Monday, which was a pretty good day's business, even for the popular Ford. Three of these were sedans, one a coupe and one a touring car. The enclosed car is becoming more popular each day.

The Thursday Evening club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Al Nowotny on north street Thursday. J. E. Baker and Mrs. E. E. Brus won first prize in the games and Mr. Brus and Mrs. Baker, the second.

City Manager O. E. Steward, who was scheduled to address the farm center at the high school Tuesday evening, was confined to his bed at the time with a severe cold, and unable to attend. He will probably make the address some time in the future.

The girls' basketball team of the high school defeated Tustin high school on the local grounds Monday by a score of 54 to 6. The Anaheim team went up to Hollywood yesterday afternoon to play a practice game with the high school team of the movie town.

The Anaheim ball team dropped a game to Long Beach on the Fullerton grounds Sunday, the score being 7 to 6. The Anaheim team will play every Sunday during the winter when the weather permits, and Manager Knott expects to line up some classy adversaries.

The Placentia Country club met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss Nina McLellan, on Placentia avenue. Five hundred was indulged in by the ladies during the afternoon, Mrs. T. L. McFadden winning first prize and Mrs. F. D. Miller getting the consolation.

M. Gatti, of the Gatti market, has decorated his place of business with a mammoth mounted elk head, which a friend sent him from Montana. The animal weighed 900 pounds, had white-tipped antlers, and was supposed to have been exalted ruler of his herd.

Mrs. F. C. Benjamin entertained the Euchre club at her home on Zeyn street, Thursday, about twenty members of the club being present. Mrs. Adolph Rimpau made the high score at cards, Mrs. J. J. Dwyer, second, and Mrs. S. Lybarger received the consolation prize.

A surprise party assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kohler, on Lincoln avenue, last Friday evening and spent the time singing, playing and eating the supplies brought in by the guests. The party was such an enjoyable affair that it was decided to form a "Chili Bean club" and meet weekly.

At the close of the taxpaying period it was found that only $900.34 of the city's taxes was delinquent. The total levy was $75,520.02. Of this amount there was paid to the tax collector $68,491.78, and to the assessor $5916.90, leaving only $900.34 delinquent. This is an excellent showing.

The Ladies' Euchre club was entertained by Mrs. F. C. Benjamin at her home on Zeyn street Thursday afternoon. The house was beautifully decorated with roses and holly. Refreshments were served at the close of the game of progressive euchre. The first prize was won by Mrs. Adolph Rimpau, the second by Mrs. J. J. Dwyer and the consolation by Mrs. Lybarger.

Through the C. B. Berger Co., of this city, the Jotham Bixby Co. has sold 12 1/2 acres at Villa Park to William Lusk, of Orange. The property is set to Valencia, and is part of the Cerro Villa Heights tract. Mr. Lusk is one of the pioneer citrus growers of Orange, having owned and lived on a highly productive grove on East Orange street for many years. A son at Uplands is planning on making his home on the newly acquired grove in the near future.

The Orange County Automobile Trades' association held a get-together banquet at the high school cafeteria in this city Tuesday night, 250 persons being present. Employers and employees were in attendance, the keynote of the meeting being the proper relationship of the auto dealers and their employees to the public. Speakers on the program were J. F. Thompson, branch manager of the Willys-Overland and Pacific company, Los Angeles; M. E. Drum, character analyst of San Francisco, and H. J. Banta, manager of the Westminster-Nichols company, of Los Angeles.

CONGRESSIONAL ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Among the major pieces of legislation passed by congress during the special session may be mentioned those dealing primarily with—

Federal Administration—The budget act, providing for a more business-like manner of handling the taxpayers' money. The Sweet act establishing the veterans' bureau by which affairs of ex-soldiers have been centralized and delays minimized. The bill appropriating $48,000,000 to continue the work of the shipping board, bankrupted by the previous administration. Readjustment of compensation of postal employees. The immigration restriction bill for curtailing European immigration. The maternity bill. The Volstead anti-medical beer bill. The army and navy appropriation bills carried over from previous session, and the first deficiency appropriation bill.

Industry—The bill amending the war finance corporation act to provide relief for producers of agricultural products and authorizing the war finance corporation to utilize one billion dollars of its securities to aid in export of those products and to breed, raise, fatten and market livestock. The packers' bill to regulate interstate and foreign commerce in livestock, dairy products, etc. The bill penalizing purely speculative operations in grain futures. The bill providing for an additional deposit of $25,000,000 thus increasing working capital of the farm loan board to $50,000,000. The amendment to the Edge bill encouraging export trade. The bill providing for a consolidation of independent telephone companies, thereby eliminating losses incident to waste duplication. The bill authorizing the president to provide for orderly and controlled landing of war marine cables. Amendment of the federal road act by the federal highway act, centralizing authority in the states and insuring road upkeep. The emergency tariff bill extended to such time as the general tariff bill now pending passes.

Rehabilitation—The peace resolutions creating official peace with Germany and Austria. The tax revision reducing the tax burdens $70,000,000 this year and an estimated $335,000,000 for 1922. Relief of those who had responded to the call of the government for the production of war materials, and who were subjected to losses by the sudden termination of the war.

Miscellaneous—Bill providing for an agreement among the western states for the disposition and apportionment of the waters of the Colorado river. Bill limiting indebtedness of the Philippine islands. Bill providing punishment for handling personal property on contract of sale with intent to defraud. Bill amending revised statutes relating to criminal cases. Bill extended relief to cotton states through efforts to eradicate pink boll worm. Pension and bridge bills, etc., etc.

Among the bills pending are—The bill for the amendment of the transportation act of 1920 to enable the war finance corporation to handle the securities placed in the hands of the government by the railroads, in connection with the funding of a portion of the money due the government on account of betterments and equipment during the period of federal control—passed house. The bill for a commission to treat with our foreign debtors and to arrange with them as to terms of payment of the principal and interest of our foreign debt—passed house and to be considered by senate early next year. Revision of the laws, first since 1878—passed house. Regulations for welfare of great lakes seamen. Authorizing incorporation of companies to promote trade in China. Preventing manufacture of adulterated foods. To authorize associations of producers of agricultural products. Panama canal tolls, house to act. Fordney tariff bill to be taken up early next year.

WAR ON THE MEALY BUG

Responding to the appeal of a committee of growers and packers, representing the citrus industry of the entire country, the supervisors Tuesday appropriated the sum of $1200 to employ and equip a man to represent Orange county at the state insectary, Whittier, where parasite enemies of the mealy bug are being produced. The arrangement thus provided for will insure a supply of the parasites sufficient, it is believed, to eradicate the mealy bug from citrus orchards of this country.

A citrus committee, headed by C. E. Utt, of Tustin, appeared before the supervisors to explain the situation and urge the action that was felt necessary to cope with the problem before the industry. Several of the committee addressed the board.

Representing that the mealy bug, which once before threatened extermination of the state's citrus industry, was quelled by the parasite, is again invading southern California and has already branched out in Orange county, where it has spread from one to two hundred acres with they pointed out the menace to an industry which has an assessed valuation of about $25,000,000 in the county. The mealy bug, they declared, was proof against fumigation, and the parasite is the sole instrument for its destruction. Since the particular parasite which feeds on the mealy bug always dies out after destroying its food supply, it is necessary to keep replenishing the parasite supply. This work is being done at the state insectary, at Whittier, but the demand has grown beyond expectations or preparations for the present year and special provision is necessary, if the orchards are adequately protected.

TOURNAMENT OF ROSES

Entry blanks for the Tournament of Roses pageant are now obtainable upon application at Tournament of Roses headquarters in Pasadena. There is, of course, no admission or entry fee to pay, the blanks merely being required so that the entries may be properly placed in the program and carefully considered for the prizes offered.

Preliminary inquiries are taken by Chairman B. O. Kendall, of the parade committee, to insure that the pageant this time will be the largest in the history of the Tournament of Roses. There were over 100 entries in the parade of January 1, 1921, and that holds the record for size to date.

The line of march this year will be about five miles in length, giving room for some 300,000 persons to line the streets along which the parade passes. The attendance at the parade of 1921 was over a quarter of a million so that it is felt necessary to provide for an even larger number this time.

Last time there were over half a hundred handsome silver trophies and prizes offered and fully that number will be offered for the 1922 pageant, which will pass in review on January 2, the first falling on Sunday. The largest single division will be that for civic floats and already an exceptional number of entries are in prospect for that division.

THE NEW TAX LAW

The American tax is going to be saved at least $335,000,000 by the operations of the new tax law which the special session of congress passed just prior to its adjournment. Practically all of the reductions made in federal taxes by this new law represent savings to the average man. The largest item of reduction is that in transportation taxes. The new law wipes out all taxes which have been paid by passengers in the purchase of tickets and by shippers, who have paid taxes based on freight rates and parcel post rates. The passenger tax amounted to 10 per cent on every ticket bought over 42 cents in value. The freight tax amounted to 3 per cent on the face value of the freight bills. The parcel post tax was one cent on each 25 cents of postage. All told, these taxes took out of the pocket of the American people $300,000,000 a year. All this will stop on January 1st. None of the taxes thus collected went into the pockets of the railroads, as it was all collected by them on behalf of the government, so that railroad revenues are not affected by the repeal of these taxes.

Outside of the traveling and shipping public the next largest class of people affected are the heads of families and those who have dependents. The new tax law reduces the amount they are to pay by $70,000,000. Under the old law married men or heads of families having an income of less than $5000 a year were allowed an exemption of $2000. Under the new law this exemption is increased to $2500. This change goes into effect on this year's income. It affects over 2,000,000 heads of families. Under the old law heads of families, or those who had dependents, were allowed an exemption of $2000 for each dependent. Under the new law this exemption is increased to $2500. This will affect about 750,000 individuals in addition to the 2,000,000 mentioned above.

Another feature of the law which closely touches the average man is the exemption of the first $300 of income which is derived from dividends in a building and loan association. At the average dividend rate paid by building and loan associations this will enable people to invest between $5000 and $6000 in building and loan stock and have the income free from federal taxes. There are at present about 5,000,000 members in 2000 building and loan associations that will be affected by this provision. It is anticipated that this provision will also encourage people to invest in building and loan stock. If so, that, in turn, will furnish stimulus to the building of more homes and houses and relieve the rent situation in city districts.

All taxes on wearing apparel, shoes, etc., are repealed under the new law. Although the new law did not repeal the "luxury" tax on household furniture, trunks and other manufactured goods, it did shift the tax from the consumer to the manufacturer. Under the old law the consumer paid the tax on the basis of the retail price. This retail price, of course, represented all of the various profits made by the manufacturer and middleman. Under the new law the tax is all paid by the manufacturer upon the basis of the manufacturing cost. Although in the aggregate this tax amounts to quite a bit, as a rule it is so small in each individual case that the manufacturer pays it without passing it on. The public is also relieved of the taxes which have been paid on toilet soaps, powders, etc. This tax amounted to one cent on every 25 cents' worth of perfume, cosmetics, toilet articles, proprietary (patent) medicines, dental supplies, etc.

The tax upon soft drinks and ice cream is also repealed. The public gains more by the repeal of these taxes than the government loses, for it was admitted that although these taxes were collected of the public, a very small per cent of them were ever turned over to the government because of the inability to establish a system for checking up and enforcing their payment. The tax upon insurance premiums is also repealed.

GET LIFE SENTENCES

Juan Garcia, and Julian Castro, alias Savas Pietro, admitted in court that they were guilty of a charge of murder. It was revealed also that this changing of a previous denial of guilt to a plea of guilty was a mere formality, since District Attorney A. P. Nelson has a signed confession from both men, describing minutely the slaying of John Khoury, Syrian storekeeper, at Delhi, on the night of September 11.

The confession was obtained from Garcia and Pietro, after a long and patient effort, extending through a series of cross-examinations and investigations by Motorcove Office O. K. Carr, Interpreter Charles Carillo and the district attorney. In making it, the two prisoners acknowledged that it was given without threats or promises from the authorities. Both confessions were made separately, since Garcia and Castro had 5686 continuously separated since their arrest, immediately after the alleged murder. Since they agree in detail, the authorities have no doubt of their authenticity.

The confession having been secured, and the defendants pleading guilty, an expense of approximately $1000 has been saved the county in eliminating need of a trial. After hearing the plea, Judge West continued the arraignment to 1 p. m. when evidence was to be presented in support of the defense claim that Garcia and Pietro participated in the robbery of the Khoury and Matouk stores at Delhi, but did not fire the fatal shot. This shot, it is contended, was fired by a third party, who planned and directed the robbery and then escaped.

Judge West sentenced the two men to life imprisonment at San Quentin.

STRAINING AT GNATS

Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, let a large sized political cat out of the bag the other day when he declared that the reason the Democrats in the senate objected to the early consideration of Henry Ford's contest of Senator Newberry's seat in the senate was that on account of the arms conference being in session there would not be adequate publicity for the performance he and his colleagues desire to pull off.

In other words the purpose back of this proceeding, as of every move made by Mr. Ford in an effort to take from Mr. Newberry the seat to which the people of Michigan elected him, is publicity. Publicity is craved for the multi-millionaire skipper of the peace ark and his associates in the way of trying to put Commander Newberry into the penitentiary or at least out of the senate for the light crime and misdemeanor of running over the Ford ambition to sit on the Democratic side of the senate.

The senate of the United States ought to go a little further and probe into the rottenness and crookedness of election conditions in states of the south, where by force, fraud and legal trickery five-fifths of the eligible voters, including more white men than black, have been denied the right to participate in elections, and representative government has been absolutely overthrown.

Congress ought to know, and the country ought to know why it is that in the state of Mississippi, with a population of 788,884, a total vote of 52,482 was cast in 1920, while in the much maligned state of Michigan, portrayed by Democratic senators as a hot bed of political corruption, with a population of 3,647,252, voters to the number of 1,055,982 exercised the right of suffrage last year. In Mississippi one person in 21 voted; in Michigan nearly one-third of all the people were permitted to and did go to the polls. In Indiana recently attacked by Senator Harrison's colleague, Senator Williams, as a politically backward state, there were 1,322,437 voters out of a total population of 2,930,544—more than forty per cent of all the people voted! In the state of Illinois at the last general election more votes were cast than in all the states of the south combined. There are sitting in the house of representatives today more than fifty Democratic congressmen whose constituencies are mythical whose districts are political rotten boroughs. This condition exists in plain and flagrant violation of the constitution, which congress, in defiance of the mandatory provisions of the fundamental law, its members are sworn to obey and uphold, refuses to punish by reducing the representation of these states in proportion to their cutting down of the eligible electorate. And while this condition, so corrupt, crooked and unjust cries out in vain for action at the hands of congress, members of the senate seriously set up and emit diabolical about political conditions in the state of Michigan!

To investigate the election of Commander Newberry on the demand of the sensational Henry Ford while choosing deliberate to ignore the wholesale overthrow of constitutional government in the only states of the union that elected Democratic senators last November, is a travesty, and the only explanation of the farcical proceeding is the extreme need of the southern Democratic oligarchy and its political subjects in the north for some means of diverting attention from the really great and overshadowing franchise scandal of American politics.

MINING BUREAU REPORT

The California state mining bureau announces the issuance of its seventh annual report, prepared under the direction of Fletcher Hamilton, state mineralogist, which covers all recent mining activities.

In spite of the depression and inactivity of some branches of the industry, the annual value of more than fifty mineral products of California shows a production of a quarter of a billion dollars. This is an increase of more than one thousand per cent in the past thirty years. Mr. Hamilton states that a surprisingly large number of inquiries are received at the mining bureau, evidencing a distinct revival of interest in all branches of mining in California and particularly in gold mining.

To mining men, as well as to those thoroughly familiar with the mining situation in California, this publication will prove a revelation as showing the present vast mining possibilities of California even broader and more attractive today than they were in the days of the Argonauts.

The report is attractively bound in cloth, comprising six hundred pages and may be secured by addressing the state mining bureau, Ferry building, San Francisco, or any of the district offices of the state mining bureau, located at Auburn, Redding, Los Angeles, Coalinga, Taft, Bakersfield, Santa Maria and Santa Paula. The price of the publication is $1.75 including delivery charges, which merely covers the cost of printing and distribution.

THE PROLETARIAT—
AMERICAN AND RUSSIAN

After the lapse of three years the American people might read with greater interest than they did in 1918 the letter written by Nicholas Lenin to American working men. Since practically all Americans are working men, whether on the farm, in the shop, in executive offices, in professional positions, or behind the counters of banks, the letter of the soviet leader intended to be addressed to a particular class and to appeal to class prejudices was in reality an appeal to the American people as a whole. Mr. Lenin rejoined at the opportunity to send a communication to America, "for the revolutionary proletariat."

In so far as it is the enemy of American imperialism—is destined to perform an important task at this time." While acknowledging that under the leadership of developing genius America has taken the first place among free and civilized nations, he asserted that "at the same time America, like a few other nations, has become characteristic for the depth of the abyss that divides a handful of brutal millionaires, who are stagnating in a mire of luxury, and millions of laboring, starving, men and women who are always staring want in the face."

That was written three years ago by a man who pretended to have established the rule of the proletariat in Russia. Nowhere else on earth today is there more want and suffering, more starvation, than in Russia. Probably nowhere else on earth are the people as a whole, and on the average, more comfortable and better fed and housed than they are in "imperialistic" America. The "handful of capitalists" in Russia has been destroyed; capital has been annihilated. Pretense is made that the proletariat are in the ascendancy. It is interesting to compare the ascendency of the proletariat of Russia with the ascendancy of the proletariat of America.

Lenin has been in power in Russia ever since the revolution, and, judging by all press reports, he has maintained that ascendancy by the power of arms. If the proletariat has any power at the ballot box in Russia—any right to choose its leaders and its rulers—that fact does not appear.

Two years after Lenin wrote his address to the working men of America we had an election in this country—in November, 1920. In every state in the union we have a secret ballot, and, except in a few southern states, there is unquestioned freedom in the exercise of the electoral franchise. Lenin admits that there is only a "handful of millionaires" in the United States, yet at the election in 1920 the American people threw out of power the political party which then controlled their government and by a plurality of seven millions put into power another political organization. The political party which was in power from 1913 to 1920 had shown close sympathy with the soviet movement in Russia; 16,000,000 of the American people voted to turn that party out of power, while 9,000,000 voted to keep it in. Assuming that all of the "handful of millionaires" voted for the Republican candidates—assuming that there were a million of the millionaires, which, of course, is preposterous—there was still a vote of 16,000,000 of the proletariat in favor of throwing out the political organization which had manifested sympathy for Lenin and his governmental ideas.

As the American "proletariat" hear the appeals that come from Russia for the appropriation of millions upon millions of dollars from the federal treasury for the relief of the ill-clad and starving millions of Russia, they are not likely to regret the stand they took at the election in 1920 for the recognition and protection of rights of life, liberty and property. JAPAN'S RAPID DEVELOPMENT

The speed of history is no better illustrated than by the present armament conference. The conference is called to consider questions which have arisen in the orient, questions which revolve around the foreign policies of Japan. It is admitted on all hands that the failure or success of the conference depends in a large measure upon whether Japan's delegation at the conference adopts a conciliatory or belligerent attitude in the settlement of these issues. In other words, Japan is a power to be reckoned with from now on in the settlement of international problems.

Men are in Washington who remember when Japan was opened to the world by Commodore Perry, of the United States. That was in 1854. In 1860, six years later, the Japanese government sent a special delegation to the United States to repay the visit of Admiral Perry. In the grill room of one of the prominent Washington hotels, which is now housing one of the delegations to the armament conference, in which Japan is such a prominent participant, hangs a collection of pictures of the visit paid to Washington by the Japanese delegation. One of the pictures shows the Japanese delegation in their native garb. Another shows the official reception and ball held in honor of the delegation. Another picture bears the title, "President Buchanan Inspecting the Japanese Gifts at the White House."

No one 61 years ago, when the first Japanese official delegation that ever visited America was in Washington, would have been bold enough to have predicted that in less than three-quarters of a century the nation which had just been opened to international commerce would have another delegation visiting Washington for the very serious purpose of assisting the United States government and the other great powers of the world to effect a settlement of oriental questions that would enable all countries to reduce armaments.

The tremendous development of Japan in the last three-quarters of a century from a hermit kingdom, counted at that time or no consequence commercially and no influence politically, to one of the acknowledged five great powers of the world, and the one great power which holds the key to Asia and the orient, should give pause to those who think they are able to forget events and make any definite plans which extend very far into the future. The question naturally occurs, at the end of another 70 years what nations will be the ruling powers of the world. Will those which now hold that distinction remain pulsant? Or will they become decadent? And small nations which are just coming into being—will they occupy the seats of the mighty two generations hence? Will Spain have enjoyed a renaissance? Will China have duplicated the rapid, marvelous development of Japan? And what of Russia in 70 years?

THE SUBMARINE

The clamor that has arisen for the abolition of the submarine as a war weapon is the outgrowth of the misuse of the submarine against merchant ships, and the consequent slaughter of non-combatants, during the war. The same complaint could as justly be made against battleships if they had been similarly used to as great an extent.

The submarine is an American invention. Robert Fulton successfully experimented with such a vessel in the harbor of Cherbourg more than a century ago. Lake and other inventors made the use of the submarine as a warship practicable.

The undersize boat is most useful as a defensive weapon, and its use is most important to a country like ours, separated from all possible enemies by the breadth of an ocean. The elimination of the submarine, while naval armament of any sort is retained, would be particularly prejudicial to the interests of the United States. The suggestion has been made by Secretary Hughes that the steaming radius of the submarine be reduced. This would be a practical reform, because a vessel which could not safely leave its own base for a distance of not more than a thousand miles, could not engage in an offensive campaign. To such a plan any nation hot contemplating offensive warfare could readily agree.

The complaint is made that the submarine is a treacherous and cowardly weapon. The truth is that it requires a far greater degree of courage to man a submarine than to operate any other kind of war vessel. As for the deception involved, deception becomes a virtue in war; hence camouflage, spies and surprise attacks. The submarine is "murderous," as has been said. But the business of war is murder.

The pretense that there is any more manliness or mercy about a battleship than in a submarine is without justification. In fact, the whole talk about "civilized warfare" is a little far fetched. There is nothing civilized in human slaughter, no matter what the method used, and the improved methods are promoting peace by making war so destructive that nations are beginning to realize that in modern warfare there are no victors. Recent inventions make it certain that if the next war ever comes, it will mean destruction to peoples as well as armies. Poison gas has now been invented with such an absence of odor and such a spreading radius, that the entire population of a big city could be wiped out in a night.

The ending of war, and the causes of war, is not merely desirable; it is absolutely essential to the existence of civilization. It cannot be abolished by discarding one deadly weapon and keeping another, in the interests, perhaps, of some one nation or group of nations. The plan of equalized and gradual disarmament proposed by Secretary Hughes has the essential virtue of justice and practicability.

MILITARY PROPERTY SALE

Secretary of War Weeks has announced that military forts, reservations, arsenals and other property no longer needed by the army, a list of which was recently published, cannot be sold, as recommended by him, without specific authorization by the congress. In event the congress does authorize the disposal of this property, in all cases where the sites are of historical interest or of value for local recreational and park purposes the interests of the community where such property is situated will be given preference in disposing of the property.

Strange, but when a woman is "dissolved in tears," she is more visible than at any other time.
