BROWN HEARING POSTPONED TO JANUARY 16

TRUSTEES DEMAND THAT SPECIFIC CHARGES BE FILED AGAINST RECORDER

Rev. Myers and His Bible Class Told That They Must Make Affidavit to Their Charges and Furnish Evidence to Convict—Trustees' Gates Introduces Cautious Resolution—Charges Must Be Filed Within Five Days From Date of Last Hearing.

At the hearing, staged for the investigation of City Recorder Brown's official actions before the city trustees last Wednesday, Rev. Leon Myers and his Bible class discovered that while it was easy to make indiscreet charges against a public official it is necessary to prove the charges before punishment can be meted out by constituted authority. Mr. Myers and a number of his followers were present when the hearing opened, but they were not prepared to furnish any evidence substantiating their charges of incompetence and dereliction of duty. The complaint which had been filed by the Bible class, which was signed by more than two hundred persons, was designated by H. O. Ames, one of the attorneys for Brown, as "indefinite, ambiguous, unintelligible and uncertain," and the trustees took this view of the matter.

"We want it understood," said Ames "that Justice Brown is not attempting to evade in the slightest degree a full and complete investigation. But on the other hand, courts the hearing and will assist in every detail toward bringing about the desired end. There is nothing in the present position that can be returned, no dates, no specific charges that would come under the hearing brought by the charges. In other words, the petition is nothing but the bare, bald conclusion of the signers and it is not for Justice Brown that he should be called upon to defend himself from a series of conclusions of petition signers. If this were done it would throw down the law for every scandal monger in Anaheim to come before your body and bring generalized charges against any official for whom they might hold a petty spite.

"We do not want to stop the hearing, but do insist that other petitions signed by one or more members of Bible class be filed and that these petitions set forth specific instances of misconduct and that they be presented as affidavits made under oath. "It seems that the Myers Bible class has been waffling around from the purpose which its name would imply, and are not seeking to fulfill the purpose one would expect from an organization dealing in the scattering of Christianity. Also, the petition comes from a private organization whose title would indicate that it is not active in civic affairs.

"If the charges brought by the Bible class are actuated by a desire to the general welfare and good of the community, they will not object to appearing under oath. In addition to this their charges should be limited in scope to include unlawful conduct, corruption or fraud and not be limited to matters which would come under the heading of 'judgment or discretion'.

Mr. Myers was of opinion that all required of him and his class was to make a charge and the trustees were up to the evidence to substantiate their statements. Mr. Myers stated that it was not the desire of the class to persecute Judge Brown, but the petitioners were simply calling attention of the city to a condition which should be remedied.

Trustees' Gates was considerably perturbed because statements attributed to him by the Bible class had been circulated. He denounced them as false. He introduced a resolution demanding that Rev. Myers prove his statements recently appearing in print relative to the trustees or be cited for contempt of court. He denounced the whole proceedings as an attempt on the part of the Bible class to obtain free advertising. The resolution was laid on the table.

The board decided to postpone the hearing until January 16, and by resolution demanded that Rev. Myers file specific charges under oath within five days.

ORANGE COUNTY GROWERS OBSERVING THE LAW

Charge of Imperial Lettuce Men With-out Foundation.

Pointing out that a representative of the state department of agriculture is in close observation the shipment of vegetables from this county, A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner, declared as unfounded charges by lettuce growers of the Imperial valley that lettuce growers of Orange county were not observing the vegetable standardization laws.

Growers of the Imperial Valley had on file with George H. Hecke, head of the state department of agriculture, charges that growers in Orange, Los Angeles and Kern counties were evading the law. It is asserted by the Imperial growers that alleged failure to observe the law is demoralizing the market.

It is the opinion of Brock that the Imperial Valley men are "holier-than-thou" in the hope that shipments from other lettuce growing sections may be "quarantined" and a greater market offered by the big crop in the valley. Brock said that a few days ago he accompanied Stanley Rogers, in charge of vegetable standardization for the state, on a tour of the county, that time lettuce was not being shipped, but Brock said he heard no complaint by Rogers that vegetable shipments here are not making correct picks. Brock said that there is less than 400 acres in Orange County planted to lettuce.

CRIMES IN COUNTY DURING PAST YEAR

500 More Criminals in Jail Than During Previous Year.

The war on crime in Orange County during 1923 was not particularly effective, but also particularly profitable, according to Sheriff Sam Jernigan's books.

Not only were there 2,018 criminals, great and small, confined in the county jail during the year, nearly 500 more than in 1922, but other criminals also paid many thousands of dollars into the public coffers.

The whiskey trade, for instance, was shown to have disgorged $16,003 of its profits in the form of fines that were collected in the county court. The total collected from all the various justice courts and the superior court might be was not known, but it must have amounted to high figure, it was said.

The county jail, clearing house for money handled by the sheriff's office in connection with crime cases, has reported that $28,584 passed through its hands during 1923. This sum included fines and bail money County Jailor O. Moncrief stated.

Sherriff Jernigan and his deputies were making it especially "warm" for the liquor traffic last year. It was said that the county court, which has depleted to the extent mentioned in actual cash, but less of stock captured by the eagle-eyed officers cost the liquor industry many thousands more.

It was recalled that on one occasion during the year, Sheriff Jernigan emptied about 1400 gallons of captured liquor into the sewer. On another occasion an $8500 cargo of bonded whiskey was taken away from rum runners near Seal Beach and turned over to federal authorities. Other losses were contained in captured stills and other cased automobiles. Added an other large item to the red side of the booze ledger.

The money collected from the booze cases was clear profit. This interesting announcement was made by Sheriff Jernigan, who stated that not a cent had been expended in detective hire to "get evidence." All of the work, he said, was done by his own staff.

"In that connection," said Jernigan, "I want to say that our success has been due to unselfish cooperation from municipal and other local authorities throughout the county. The various officers have given us much help in running down criminals; aid has also been received from private citizens. I'd like to express my appreciation of this co-operation."

Modern girls may be more modest than the old-time ones. The latter "bushed occasionally," but the former "now paint a blush on their cheeks in the morning that lasts all day."

TRAVELERS BACK FROM ACROSS THE SEA

MR. AND MRS. W. E. ALEXANDER AND MISS SOPHIE RIMPAU AT HOME AGAIN

Report an Exceedingly Enjoyable Trip Through Europe—Visited England, France, Switzerland, Italy and Austria, but Were Advised Not to go to Germany—All Countries Visited Appear to be Prospering and Warmly Welcome American Visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Alexander and Miss Sophie Rimpaau reached home shortly before the New Year after a tour of several months, most of the time being spent in Europe. They left here in the late summer ostensibly on a visit to eastern cities, and many of their friends were unaware that they had planned a trip across the Atlantic until word was received that they were sailing on the "Beren-garia" for England.

It was their intention to include Germany in their itinerary, but the outbreak of the war had made this impossible, and they were advised to visit only those countries which were not involved in the conflict. They spent the time in France, Switzerland and Italy. There was plenty of things of surpassing interest to see in those countries, so rich in historical lore, and containing so many monuments of past ages worth studying, consequently all their days abroad were filled with enjoyment.

In Switzerland they climbed the mighty Alps and sailed on some of the crystal lakes. This latter country, between France, Germany, Austria and Italy is in an exceedingly prosperous condition and is well worth visiting as it contains some of the most magnificent scenery in the world.

Italy is a garden spot, they report, much like northern California in climate, but the greater portion of the time in that country was spent in Rome. Naturally all the principal objects of interest in the capital of the Christian world were visited, including the Vatican, St. Peter's, the Sistine Chapel, the catacombs, etc. They went down to Naples and saw Vesuvius and the excavations at Pompeii, the city buried under the ashes from Vesuvius two thousand years ago.

They also passed through northern Italy, stopping at Florence, Venice and other cities, going as far north as Vienna, the Austrian capital.

All Americans who go to Europe visit Monte Carlo, the famous gambling resort on the Mediterranean, although they don't all go there to gamble. The Anaheim travelers took a peep at the noted resort while in the south.

They stopped long enough in Paris to make the acquaintance of all the principal sights in the world's gayest city, and in London they did the same.

Wherever they went they state, the glad hand was extended to them, Europeans being overjoyed to welcome Americans amongst them. They crossed the ocean on the return trip in the same liner that carried them over, and arrived here in time to spend New Year's at home. Their trip was such an enjoyable one that, already they are laying plans for another to the same points with a little extended territory added. Their friends expect them to become confirmed globe trotters.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Following are extracts from the Chamber of Commerce bulletin issued the first of the month:

It was found necessary to enlarge the membership of the Transportation Committee. In addition to those now serving—Messrs. Ruetter, Jesurun and Ritchie—the following were appointed: Messrs. Loehr, Lavender, Schreman and Wood.

It is with some gratification that the members of the Chamber of Commerce, Citizens and merchants find that two daily papers are now in the field. When we consider that each family in the community was expected to subscribe for three dailies and the merchants to advertise in each of the one weekly, it is easy to see that such becomes a burden. The consolidation of the Evening Herald and the Herald-Examiner forward in efficiency for the entire community. We extend our greetings to the newly consolidated paper and also to the Plain Dealer and Gazette, trusting that the new year will bring them the greatest of prosperity.

The Executive Committee, composed of Messrs. J. H. Harbison, Harbison, have presented a plan of management for the Orange Show, May 15-24, 1924. The Directors accepted this plan and appointed Mr. Herman Stern as manager, with Messrs. Prince and Harbison as assistants. The working out of all plans will be in the hands of the Committee. Mr. Stern will have complete control of every feature and he is at present actively planning on a number of features for the show. We wish to assure this Committee that they have the wholehearted support of our entire membership and the community at large. Recognizing that the laws in the past have been a splendid and most acceptable feature for Anaheim, we are asking the Committee that they make this show of 1924 the biggest that has ever been. Here's success to the management.

Members are earnestly urged to keep in mind that the monthly forum meeting will be held the latter part of January. This monthly meeting will be a 6:30 dinner. A number of the members have suggested that they be given an opportunity to state their views on Chamber of Commerce activities. This meeting will be given over entirely to expressions from the members. These expressions, of course, are expected to be constructive in their nature. The Directors seek suggestions and earnestly request that every member come and express himself in a way that will be beneficial to the organization and to the City of Anaheim. You will be sent an invitation in due time giving place and program.

It is a pleasure to note that the city Council has adopted a contract to the Anaheim Metal Industries to construct forty lamp posts to be erected in the city park. This is a recognition of home industry. We are glad to know that Anaheim is able to take care of its wants. If you have not visited the park lately, you should as soon as an opportunity affords and see the number of people enjoying playing tennis and other games. It will not be many weeks until the swimming pool will be finished and a big day is being planned for the opening. The possibilities of this swimming pool for good cannot be overestimated. It has been planned correctly, conveniently and economically. Doubtless there is not a more unique type of pool in this section of the country. The pool should be just proud of the park and of the City Council for making such a recreational center.

Why does not the Chamber of Commerce get industries? Here are some of the industries making inquiry concerning a location in Anaheim received during December: A party from Long Beach to establish a factory for making feeds out of broken grains. He needs $2500. A firm from Pasadena to build a glass factory. They needed 10 acres but could not pay more than $1000 an acre. A manufacturer of pumps wishes material assistance. A ladder company seeks a location and sale of some stock. All of these the Industrial Committee have investigated but as yet have no funds to give the assistance asked.

The office of the Chamber is continually being besieged by men who are looking for work. The coming problem of Anaheim, as well as all Southern California, is to secure employment for the men and women who are coming to the community to live. If you will connect this with our industrial development, you will see what it means to our city. Industries we must have, but we will never be able to secure them if we persist in asking those who will not give assistance of worth. We must do our part. Every other community is faced with the same problem, and those communities securing industries are in every instance giving help.

The purpose of a business industrial survey is to prepare for Anaheim's increased business and industrial development. It is necessary as a first step to analyze the local industrial conditions, taking full account of human and natural advantages and disadvantages present. The opinions of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers must be obtained. This is an agricultural center. We must develop the business sense within the community. The market must be prepared for existing industries. Any

BIG CHICAGO FIRM COMPLIMENTS YUNGBLUTH

CHRISTMAS AD IN GAZETTE ATTRACTS ATTENTION OF ADVERTISING MANAGER

Copy Neatly Worded Out and Ad Well Arranged—Mr. Yungbluth, a Liberal User of Printer's Ink, is One of the County's Leading Merchants—Because of the Excellence of His Work has Regular Customers from Los Angeles and Many Other Points Outside the City.

Hart, Schaffner & Marx, the great Chicago clothing manufacturers, recognize and appreciate a good thing when they see it. P. A. Yungbluth is the Anaheim dealer who handles this firm's popular goods, and because he realizes the reliability of the clothing he makes a special effort to supply his customers with it. One of Mr. Yungbluth's Christmas ads in the Gazette attracted the attention of the advertising manager of the big firm, and the following letter of commendation was received by him:

Dear Sir: Your advertisement in "The Gazette," which is headed, "Your card isn't the only one that goes inside your gift package," has been worked out very neatly. It makes its message clear, very easily because you used a regular type selection and the arrangement of the copy is orderly. The position of this ad is the best, but even so your ad stands out distinctly because of the various good points it possesses which we have already mentioned.

In view of those things we want to compliment you upon it and wish you the compliments of the season, too.

Yours truly, Hart Schaffner & Marx Advertising Department. Mr. Yungbluth is one of the most successful business men in Anaheim. He began business here in a small way, and now he has probably the largest merchant tailoring establishment in the county. His success is attributable to two things—he has always given his customers the best of his money, and he has been a liberal user of printer's ink. He has spent a large amount of money in telling the people what he has to offer, and has always backed up his statements with the goods. Mr. Yungbluth's motto is "By All Means Get a Fit," and a customer is not permitted to take a garment out of the store, no matter what the price, until it is made to fit. Because of the excellence of his work he has regular customers from distant points, several Los Angeles men being among them.

Besides being one of the leading merchants of the city, Mr. Yungbluth is also one of its most progressive citizens. He is a booster, an optimist, with an unbounded faith in Anaheim, and is one of the few men who built the modern city. Industries that will fit into the general scheme must be secured. A survey is a means to an end that furnishes facts from which industrial committees work. Nothing can be accomplished without wholehearted co-operation of manufacturers and wholesalers and retailers. During January this survey will be undertaken. It is absolutely necessary that leaders of business give the information requested.

MARRIAGE VOWS TAKEN MINUTE AFTER MIDNIGHT

First Marriage in State in 1924 Occurred in Anaheim

New Year's bells were wedding bells for the first marriage in the state in 1924. The ceremony took place at the Palace theater, Long Beach, and Miss Esther Marie Delager, the first Long Beach couple to enter the matrimonial state in 1924, Mr. and Mrs. Dunlop took New Year's resolutions, and they here in the first minute of the New Year. The marriage ceremony was planned as a New Year's eve wedding in Long Beach. The bridegroom obtained the license in Orange County, however, and it was necessary to change the location. With many of the ministers in Anaheim attending watch aerog the wedding party obtained with difficulty the services of Rev. Leon Myers, pastor of the Christian Church. It was the first marriage performed in Anaheim in 1924 and is believed to have been the first in the state.

Roy Douglas, manager of the Palace theater, was best man. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Johnson of the State theater and Miss Mildred Stenzel, sister of the bride. The bride is a former resident of Minneapolis. She has resided in Long Beach with her mother for two or three years. The bridegroom is a prominent Mason, being a member of a Port Worth, Texas lodge, Scottish Rite, at Dallas and Maske temple of the Shrine at Wichita Falls, Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Dunlop will reside at the Bonfair apartments on Appleton Street, Long Beach.

GEORGE ZIEGLER THINKS JUDGE NOT LENIENT

Paid $300 Fine for Having Liquor for Home Use in His Possession.

George Ziegler, who lives at 124 1/2 Reah Street, was surprised New Year morning when he saw his neighbor, H. E. Scott and four officers of the law approaching his residence. Thinking they might be calling to extend greetings of the New Year to him he was ready to extend the glad hand, but soon discovered his mistake when they invaded his cellar and announced that they were searching for booze. They carried a warrant sworn to by Scott.

They found some wet goods—three half pints of old whiskey which Mr. Ziegler says he had in his possession ever since he worked for the Orange County Wine Co., and was kept for medicine purpose. They also found a dozen bottles of home made wine and about a hundred bottles of some brew that he had stored away for use during the coming summer. The police confiscated the goods and gave Mr. Ziegler a free ride to the city hall where he was introduced to Judge Brown. He pleaded not guilty and put up $100 cash bail for his release. He didn't enjoy his dry New Year's dinner.

Acting on the advice of friends he later withdrew his plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty to having intoxicating liquor in his possession, whereupon Judge Brown fined him $300, which he paid, a pretty stiff punishment, he thinks, considering the small offense. George is unable to understand why the Men's Bible Class is accusing Judge Brown of being too lenient.

Mr. Ziegler is making plans for returning to his home in Alameda, California, where he can enjoy his glass of wine without disturbing or offending the sensibilities of his neighbors. He also wishes to state that when he moves away he hopes a good Christian gentleman will move into the place whose habits will not be offensive to Mr. Scott.

FOUR COMPANIES PLANNED FOR ORANGE COUNTY

Steps Taken to Increase National Guard in State.

Formation of infantry companies at Anaheim, Fullerton, Santa Ana and Orange is included in the reorganization plans for the California national guard in 1924, dispatches received from Sacramento. The announcement of Adjutant General R. E. Mittelstaedt made known plans for an increase of approximately 1500 officers and enlisted men and the formation of a number of new artillery, as well as infantry companies.

General Mittelstaedt said he expects to add 1000 officers and men to the infantry branch of the guard and 600 to the artillery. The program calls for the completion of four battalions of infantry, two in the northern and two in the southern. The program calls for organization of the 1434 field artillery and the completion of the coast artillery force by the organization of five new companies in San Francisco. Besides the four companies planned for Orange county, the adjutant general said infantry forces would be recruited in Chico, Oroville, San Jose, Palo Alto and Hayward, in the north; and Calexico, El Centro, Holtville and Imperial, in the south.

The field artillery will be composed of units in San Jose, Stockton and Oakland.

Captain Seth Millington of Colusa,

MITCHELLS MAY TAKE TRIP TO MEXICO

OFFERED COMMISSION FOR SELLING BIG TRACT IN LAND BELOW RIO GRANDE

Were in Anaheim Monday Signing Lease for Group Market Room—Anaheim Property Acquired in Early Days at Small Figure Now Worth a Fortune—Sold Three Vacant Lots on West Center for $85,000—Own Beautiful Home on the Heights at Redlands.

Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Mitchell motored over from Redlands Monday to negotiate a lease for the room in the Mitchell block formerly occupied by the Group Market. They now travel in a splendid Packard car which probably cost Nick five or six thousand dollars, but he considers it worth the money. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell are very comfortably situated in their Redlands home, and declare it will be their home during the balance of their days, but they are always glad of an excuse for bringing them back. Few people are now living who saw Anaheim before they came here more than fifty-five years ago, and although they drifted away from the city many years ago they had faith enough in Anaheim's future to retain their real estate holdings.

The lots on the southwest corner of Center and Los Angeles Streets were one of the properties acquired by them when Anaheim city lots were cheap. Some years ago the old buildings were cleared off and the two-story Mitchell block built thereon. A short time ago they were offered $275,000 for the property, but refused it. Mr. Mitchell states that he would like to sign this corner over to somebody on a ninety-nine year graduated lease, so that his descendants a few generations hence will derive a good income from it.

They also owned three lots on West Center between London and Clementine Streets, opposite the California theater. There lots were recently sold to three different parties. The total amount received for them was $65,000. They cost the Mitchells $1500 per lot.

The Mitchell hotel in Pasadena, opposite the Hotel Green, is another of their holdings which was purchased when property was cheap. Its chief value now is in the ground on which the building stands, and they have been offered $120,000 for it, but refused the offer.

The home which they recently purchased at Redlands is described as a beauty spot. It is situated on the apex of a hill 170 feet above the city, and from their height they can look down on the shimmering lights of the city far below them. They also have a view of the beautiful surrounding country for many miles. The house is a mansion, costing the builder $26,000 and is surrounded by four acres of oranges.

Some time ago on their return from Europe Mr. Mitchell stated that both he and Mrs. Mitchell had been cured of the wanderlust and henceforth would be content to remain at home, but Monday Nick stated that they contemplated a trip to Mexico. He had been offered a handsome commission for disposing of a valuable tract of land in that country, and was considering the offer. They will probably accept the offer and take a change, as both are yet young enough to enjoy a little excitement and a mix-up with bandits would be a pleasant diversion.

The present strength of the national guard is approximately 3500 officers and men. Gen. Mittelstaedt said he expected to increase this number to 5000 in accordance with the program of the war department.

The fixed apple is worse than none. Regular men long to eat the perpetual ray of sunshine.

You couldn't sell anybody a gold-rick nowadays, not even a genuine one, unless it was wrapped in fake stock certificates.

EXTRACT OF MCADOO

For the convenience of our busy readers we present herewith the essence of Mr. McAdoo's latest speech as extracted from the Los Angeles dispatches:

"The noble Democratic party has always fought and bled for tax reduction. The wicked Republicans have repeatedly sought to block our efforts. It is ridiculous of Mr. Coolidge to try to steal this stuff from us. As the discoverer and inventor of tax reduction I personally resent his stand."

"I planted one foot firmly upon this historic Democratic policy. I plant the other on the bonus. I know the railroad men are grateful to me for having raised their wages out of the taxpayer's pockets, and I rely upon the soldiers to be equally grateful. It is true that the two policies of tax reduction and the bonus are utterly inconsistent, and I haven't yet thought how to get around this point. My suggestion of fifty-year bonds has been kicked around the lot and I won't mention it. Maybe the tariff could help. I'll hurry over the details—I never was very good at figures anyway. But I know how to make the taxpayer pay for my popularity, and if there's anybody in the United States who doesn't pay taxes, directly or indirectly, I can honestly urge him to vote for me."

"We may have missed some minor points in Mr. McAdoo's argument, but we are confident that we have caught the drift behind his thought, at any rate."

the Clark Bros. Mining operators at that point.

Frank Gates has taken the job of driving the city team at $40 per month. Frank makes quite a conspicuous adornment to the city wagon.

William Hill has needed 1100 acres to barry on the Los Angeles ranch, and will seed several hundred acres more. He will also sow quite a large area to wheat. He has an abiding faith that we shall have a plenty of rainfall this year.

Geo. Hagar was in from Miraflores the other day feeling the public pulses relative to the report of the Grand Jury of which he was one of the leading members. He thinks the backbone of the dry spell is broken and that a good wet season is in sight.

Max Nebelung measured 2.97 inches rainfall for the storm up to yesterday morning.

Joseph Holman has received a letter from Assemblyman Chynoweth in which he states among other things that his mother has been ill with pneumonia since her arrival in Sacramento.

One and eighty three one-hundredths of an inch of rain fell in the storm that began at 8:30 on Tuesday morning and continued during the entire day and night. The precipitation up to 4:30 on Tuesday afternoon was 1.06. The total for the season is 2.72 inches. Last year to date we had 2.49 inches with the better part of rain falling in the preceding October and doing little if any good. The rain has put the farmers in jubilation and on all sides hopes are expressed for a bountiful harvest.

Joseph Hatfield and his wife have both been seriously ill with the grip during the week, the condition of Mrs. Hatfield being quite serious.

P. J. Peterson of Alameda County, an old time friend of Fred Mickle is here on a visit to that gentleman.

Isaac Lyons was in town on Monday from his ranch on Orangeburg Avenue. He will leave this week for Los Angeles with his family to reside permanently.

Judge Shanley expects Andrew Fulton of St. Paul to arrive tomorrow to spend the winter with him and Mrs. Shanley.

Guo Hansen was in town on Tuesday all smiles over the fine rain.

R. H. Gilman arrived from Mendocino County on Tuesday to take charge of the Semi-Tropic Orchard Plantation. Geo. Key, the out going superintendent, will take charge of his own place.

EXTRACT OF MCADOO

For the convenience of our busy readers we present herewith the essence of Mr. McAdoo's latest speech as extracted from the Los Angeles dispatches:

"The noble Democratic party has always fought and bled for tax reduction. The wicked Republicans have repeatedly sought to block our efforts. It is ridiculous of Mr. Coolidge to try to steal this stuff from us. As the discoverer and inventor of tax reduction I personally resent his stand."

"I planted one foot firmly upon this historic Democratic policy. I plant the other on the bonus. I know the railroad men are grateful to me for having raised their wages out of the taxpayer's pockets, and I rely upon the soldiers to be equally grateful. It is true that the two policies of tax reduction and the bonus are utterly inconsistent, and I haven't yet thought how to get around this point. My suggestion of fifty-year bonds has been kicked around the lot and I won't mention it. Maybe the tariff could help. I'll hurry over the details—I never was very good at figures anyway. But I know how to make the taxpayer pay for my popularity, and if there's anybody in the United States who doesn't pay taxes, directly or indirectly, I can honestly urge him to vote for me."

"We may have missed some minor points in Mr. McAdoo's argument, but we are confident that we have caught the drift behind his thought, at any rate."

LOOKING BACKWARD

A Democratic Congressman from Nebraska having denounced the Republican Administration as 'damnable reactionary,' it is worth while to look back over the record and see what it is that he thus condemns. Mr. Coolidge has been in office but a few months, and with Congress in recess, so that his is only a small part of the Administration so vigorously denounced by the Democratic legislator. Moreover, the President is only a part of the Administration. Congress is equally a part of the present regime. In fact, it is the part to which the Democratic Congressman appealed when he asked the 'radical' Republicans to 'come over' and join the Democrats. But to the record.

When Mr. Harding became President, the great issue before the country was foreign affairs. Mr. Wilson and Mr. Cox had been in favor of going into the League of Nations and Mr. Harding had announced his policy of staying out. We stayed out, and even the Democrats are now pretty well satisfied with that policy. But we did not remain inactive. President Harding called a conference which settled various controversies in the Pacific and also agreed upon a plan for limitation of armaments which has put an end to the race in battleship building. This has been generally recognized throughout the world as the greatest step ever taken toward world peace. Is that 'damnable reactionary'?

In domestic affairs there is much to look back upon with pride. The public debt has been reduced $2,000,000,000 and at the same time public expenses have been cut year after year, laying the foundation for one tax cut early in the Republican regime and another one in the present session. In 1920, more than two years after the close of the war, while the Democrats were still in power, Federal taxes averaged $33.78 per capita. They are now less than half that amount. Is that 'damnable reactionary'?

The Republican Administration found agriculture in the depths of depression and adopted every measure that the leaders of agricultural organizations asked in an effort to provide relief. The result has been effective as to every branch of agriculture except wheat raising which is depressed by over production. The Republican Administration found 4,000,000 men out of employment. Since that time every man who wanted a job has had it and at good wages. Is that 'damnable reactionary'?

The Republican Administration found disabled veterans inadequately cared for and has rushed hospital construction and equipment and rehabilitation until there are now vacant beds in hospitals and every wounded veteran has been trained for a vocation. Is that 'damnable reactionary'?

The list is too long to discuss in detail. The administration got the railroads back into private ownership has been giving the best service in railroad history. It restricted immigration; it enacted a tariff law that has not been prohibiting but has fostered home industry with beneficial results to working people; it satisfactorily reached an agreement with Great Britain on the debt; it promoted peace in South America; it reduced the deficits in ship operation; it put more business in government through the Budget Bureau. Is that 'damnable reactionary'?

President Coolidge has been following the policies established in the earlier years of the Republican regime. He is urging continued economy, enforcement of law, more efficiency in public service, encouragement of individual initiative and enterprise. Is all that 'damnable reactionary'?

Few voters will say it is.

FRANCE FINANCES

The French franc, nominally worth a little over 16 cents, lately has been around 5 cents. That is the lowest the franc ever went.

It stood at nearly 7 1/2 cents last January, when France entered the Ruhr. There is a loss of 30 per cent in the credit of the French government within one year. It is as if our paper and silver dollars dropped to 70 cents in international exchange.

It is impossible to attribute the tragic lapse of credit and financial soundness to anything else than the military policy of Premier Poincare. What has happened fulfills the predictions made by intelligent American observers when Poincare seized the Ruhr. The American press at that time was almost unanimous in regretting the step, not because it meant pressure on Germany, but because it was not likely to benefit France, while it would certainly retard the economic revival of Europe.

France during this year, spending more than ever to make Germany pay, has collected less than ever. The new French budget is made to balance, on the face of it, but that is mere political hocus-pocus, belied by the rate of exchange and accomplished by counting repatriation chickens before they are hatched.

Fortunately Premier Poincare and his militarist associates are beginning to suspect at last that they are on the wrong track, and are more willing to listen to clear-headed advice from the outer world.

VOTERS AGREE WITH FORD

It is undoubtedly true, as a prominent Democrat says, that Henry Ford cannot carry all his admirers into the Coldage camp, but the same line of reasoning which impelled Ford to announce himself for Coolidge will carry his admirers in that direction also.

Probably there are not over a thousand voters in the United States who would vote for Coolidge just because Ford is going to vote for Coolidge. But there are hundreds of thousands who will vote for Coolidge because they have reached exactly the same conclusion that Ford reached—that Coolidge is trying to do what is right and that the country will be safe under his leadership.

While we have had misfortune in some places, there was never a time in our history when a larger proportion of our people were prosperous and happy. Why change?

That is the question Ford asked and it is the question hundreds of thousands of others are asking. Others were asking it before Ford did, but because of his fame as an automobile manufacturer, his statement of the question received wide publicity.

The people of the country will not vote for a change unless someone shows them a good reason for a change. No one has undertaken to do that yet. No one undertakes to show in what respect the country would be better off under the leadership of any one else.

Reid secretary of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce and was expected to be presented to the chamber last night for final approval before being sent to the State body. The matter of an interchange rate for the shippers of Anaheim has already been brought to the attention of the Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific railroads, but thus far no action has resulted and it is believed that at least two of these lines will seek to block the granting of the rate. In the event that this happens it will be necessary for a committee of local shippers to appear before the Railroad Commission.

A Timely Suggestion

It is easy for those who save regularly; it seems difficult only to those who are in the habit of spending all they earn.

Hundreds of local people are building up their Christmas Savings Club accounts here by adding to them regularly. To what they save, we add interest at 4 Pct, thus helping to make their balance grow.

At the expiration of our 1923 Christmas Club last December, we mailed out checks to all our club members to the amount of $10,000, of which $150 was interest paid on their money.

TRADE COMPETITION AND SELF-INTEREST

However much the theorist argues that international trade is beneficial to all countries alike, the fact remains that it is now economic competition of the most severe type. The school of free traders, beginning with Adam Smith, contends that each country should confine itself to the production or manufacture of only those articles for which by climate or environment it is most fitted, exchanging those products or manufactures for articles it can not produce or make. This results in international trade, it is said, in which both sides gain, peacefully and harmoniously, without competition.

Unfortunately, as if to dispute this theory, many nations have developed along parallel lines, producing and manufacturing similar products. In the process of time, international trade in many instances has developed into international competition.

Great Britain manufactures articles similar to articles manufactured in the United States. The same thing happens as between Canada and Japan and the United States. Many countries of South America and Europe grow certain articles similar to articles grown in the United States. The currents of peaceful international exchange of goods become whirlpools of competition, involving raw materials, wages and markets.

Internationalists who believe the United States should emerge from its "isolation," so-called, and plunge into the unchecked torrent of world free trade, forget that the old theories have been swept away and that international free trade or peaceful exchange has given way to a competition severe and heartless.

It is perfectly natural, when weighed in the scales of business, for Great Britain or other nations to do everything in its power to widen the markets for its goods and to capture these markets at all hazards. On the part of the British people the object of the imperial preferential tariff (now in operation between Great Britain and her colonies) is to look after British interests, regardless of what happens to other countries.

The United States must realize that in Great Britain, in France, in Italy, in Japan, every move to promote the trade and commerce of those countries is prompted by business. It is neither love nor hate of America, but devotion to the material interests of their respective countries that prompt these governments to discriminate against the United States in many ways not found on the statute books.

If the United States expects to maintain itself in this international trade and commerce it must pursue precisely the same policy, regardless of what happens to other countries. It seems to have escaped the observation of many of the theoretical internationalists that every commercial nation is endeavoring to get the best of the United States in trade. This is what Great Britain is doing; and why not? Great Britain looks upon the United States as its chief competitor in the economic world. In the recent economic conference in London the only nation mentioned repeatedly was the United States; the keynote was how to promote English commerce and welfare, regardless of the consequences to other nations.

It must be quite clear to keen and patriotic observers that the United States is to be the target of other countries, especially Great Britain. British statesmen can not be blamed for this; American statesmen should be on the defensive and protect America with equal zeal.

If the United States is to retain any considerable portion of the world's trade and commerce gained during the world war, it must protect itself adequately against foreign inroads into our home markets with competitive goods. An exchange of American manufactured goods for similar British manufactured goods is useless and unprofitable; but a fight in the markets of South America or the Far East between American goods and similar British goods is intense competition; and the lowest price, with quality secondary, gets the order.

The very first step in meeting such competition is the protection of our home markets so that our capital and labor may be employed and supply the home market first. The second step is to make quality more important than price in the world's markets. The third step is to free ourselves from all shackles that prevent us from looking after the interests of the United States by retaliating against any sort of discrimination against the United States in the commerce of the world.

WASHINGTON LETTER

President Coolidge, according to apparently trustworthy information, is planning a great political coup on the eve of the national convention. Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hughes are seeking the assent of the European powers to another limitation-of-arms conference, this one to deal with the construction of aircraft and submarines. Thus far the reaction to their suggestions has been for the most part very general. The need for such a conference is obvious. Nothing else can check the extravagance of the European nations which are spending money out of all proportion to their revenues for this type of war material. My informants declare that Mr. Coolidge and his political advisers are convinced it would be fine political strategy to announce on the eve of the national convention that such a conference had been agreed to by the leading powers of the world and to hold the conference between the nominating convention and the election.

Reports from inside sources are to the effect that Mr. Coolidge is seriously contemplating "reading the riot act" to the progressives in Congress, especially those who are holding up the reorganization of the Senate by refusing to vote for Senator Cummins for chairman of the Interstate Commerce committee. Thus far, the progressives are standing pat for Senator Couzens, although many of them predict that when the break does come it will be in the election of the ranking Democrat, Senator Smith of South Carolina. The wiser of the Democrats are by no means anxious for this empty honor. They realize it will mean responsibility without power. The indications are that the sole result of the deadlock will be a situation in which it will be impossible to pass any railroad legislation during this Congress.

Secretary Hughes has put his shoulder to the wheel in an effort to procure information refuting the denial of the Russian Soviet that it is responsible for the propaganda looking to the overthrow of this government and a victory for illegal communism, and friends of the Secretary insist he is meeting with even more success than he had hoped. There is to be a Senate inquiry by a sub-committee of the Foreign Relations committee of which, presumably, Senator Borah will be chairman, so that a thorough investigation can be counted on. The Third International is unquestionably working through the communist party in this country to capture control of the labor unions, and the only possibly difficult part of Mr. Hughes' task will be to establish the responsibility of the Soviet for the activities of the Third International.

With Congress in recess interest in the national capital has been devoted largely to the illicit traffic in liquor. A large quantity of liquor was seized by prohibition agents in the home of a Polish diplomat and international complications are threatened. A member of Congress who votes dry and lives wet is in trouble because the wife of a prohibition agent rented an adjoining apartment and discovered he was a liberal patron of a bootlegger. A list of alleged patrons of a bootlegger's syndicate, said to contain 2,500 names, is declared to have been seized by prohibition agents and to have "disappeared." There are numerous rumors abroad of "leaks" from diplomatic liquor supplies and a Congressional investigation is impending.

Many persons do not appear to understand the necessity of permitting foreign diplomats residing in Washington to have supplies of liquor. This grows out of the principle that an embassy or legation in a foreign capital is, in effect, the territory of the nation which maintains it and is, therefore, free from the police and like regulations of the country in which it is maintained. Were this not the case the confidential records and even the persons of ambassadors, ministers of state, would not be safe in some countries, where the police would make a pretext of local laws to search embassies and legations and seize confidential papers. There probably would be little safety for the persons of American diplomatic representatives or their official records in Turkey, for instance, if the local police had the right to invade them. There would have been little such safety in old Russia, where laws were often passed solely to afford an excuse for searching private premises. Probably the only safety of American diplomats and their records is a number of countries in which is known in international law as "diplomatic immunity."

MOTOR REGISTRATIONS

Registration of motor vehicles for 1924 will begin at all branches of the Division of Motor Vehicles on Monday January 14th. Will H. Marsh, chief of the division announced. All registrations will be made in accordance with the provisions of the Reed Act, Marsh stated.

Every owner of a motor vehicle driven either for pleasure or commercial purposes will be required to register. A flat fee of $3 will be charged for registration of pleasure cars. Fees for commercial vehicles will be based on a weight schedule and the character of tires used.

Although all registration fees are due on a payable January 31, a period of thirty days after that date will be allowed motor vehicle owners before such become delinquent, Marsh said. After the fee has become delinquent the owner is liable to a penalty of 100 per cent.

Because of the tremendous amount of business expected persons filing applications over the counter at the various branches will receive only their plates and a receipt, Marsh said. The certificate of registration will be mailed within thirty days after the application is filed.

If the applicant is the legal owner, a certificate of ownership will be mailed to the legal owner to be held by him until such time as the car is paid for or the title transferred. Marsh warned motorists today that applications should be accompanied by the amount of the fee and the old certificate and that the name and address should be legible. Changes of address should be noted. Offices of the division are located in Sacramento, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Oakland, San Diego and Fresno.

KEEP UP THE NAVY

Secretary Donby of the navy department asks congress for $20,000,000 to keep the navy in its proper relation to the British navy. The Washington treaty gives them equal strength but the American government has not accepted its treaty privileges. The United States is meeting its obligations in stopping construction and scrapping vessels, but is not using its own rights in balancing the fleet with its proper component parts. Failure of congress to meet department requests will destroy the balance of power which was established.

ALASKAN DEVELOPMENT
STRIDES TOLD BY BONE

This year probably will stand out in Alaskan history as the most notable in territorial history, Governor Scott C. Bone declared in his annual report. Not only was development pushed at unprecedented speed, he said, with record production of wealth, but there was a hitherto unknown success in "making known Uncle Sam's last remaining frontier and concentrating general attention upon it."

Governor Bone listed President Harding's visit and those of preceding and accompanying delegations of Congress members and press representatives as among the assets of incalculable value which had been added to the territory.

Recommendations made in his report for 1922 were renewed by Governor Bone, among them being:

"The placing of the affairs of Alaska under one department head in Washington."

An appropriation of $300,000 to supplement a fund of $150,000 heretofore authorized for the erection of a capital or administrative building.

Adequate provision for operation and upkeep of the Alaska railroad, and for the building of branch lines and spurs.

An appropriation of $1,500,000 annually, for the building of roads and trails and provisions for roads into Mount McKinley and Mount Katmai parks.

The vesting in the Department of Commerce of complete authority over the fisheries of Alaska.

Improved facilities for tourist travel, by putting two vessels of the United States Shipping board in Alaskan agencies in Alaska under the Department of Justice.

Consolidation all law-enforcing service.

A colonization plan to be operative in connection with the Alaska railroad.

Allotment of at least one-half of the net revenues derived from the Pribilof Islands to the general fund of the territory.

DASHEN, THE NEW VEGETABLE

Now comes word through the United States Department of Agriculture that the vegetable, dashen, has gained a real foothold in Florida. This declaration will be of considerable interest to County Treasurer J. C. Joplin and those of his friends who, a few years ago, enjoyed dashen cooked in various ways. The county treasurer grew a quantity of dashen in his back yard, demonstrating the fact that the county's climate is favorable to the production of the vegetable.

The federal authorities in a bulletin set forth that Jacksonville has taken kindly to the new vegetable, offering it for sale all over the city and using it in large quantities. Perhaps a dozen car-loads have been shipped to northern markets (the past year. But that is not enough to satisfy the Florida growers—or the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The department vouches for the character of the dashen, pronouncing it an excellent substitute for the potato. In many respects, and superior in some ways. It is drier than the potato, and has 50 per cent more food value per pound. It can be prepared in almost any way the potato can, and is fine for stuffing chickens, turkeys, etc. There is a considerable demand for it among the Orient, where it has been used for many years. The tops of the plant may be used as "greens" or for salads.

It is hard to introduce any new article for food. It took the potato itself centuries to make its way into the European diet, and it is only within the last ten years that Germany has made much use of the tomato. It may take a decade or two to acquaint the American public with this new starch vegetable. Such matters move faster, however, than they used to. The only trouble is, the supposedly conservative farmer is always ahead of his supposedly up-to-date city market.

OWN YOUR HOME

The Division of Building and Housing, Department of Commerce, has issued a valuable booklet on home ownership. It is written by Dr. John M. Gries and James S. Taylor, with a foreword by Secretary Hoover. The booklet discusses the financing, selecting the location for the home, and the planning of the home, and is the result of expert opinion from many sources. In 1920, 461 out of 1,000 American families owned their homes. The auto has given an impetus to home ownership, which is one of the finest of instincts, and one which makes for better citizenship. The Department of labor surveys show that in cities apartment houses are almost superseding separate homes. The auto and suburban residence is the solution of that problem. The booklet may be obtained of the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, for 5 cents.

Why Not Share Your
Wash Day Burdens
With Us?

Housework moves ever so much faster when there are two to do it. That's why we are inviting you to share your wash-day burdens with us.

If you'll just say the word we'll be glad to attend to the heavier, more trying task of washing and drying the clothes. Also, we'll iron all the flat pieces add fluff the woollens and underwear, too. Then we'll carefully starch the frilly, particular things, just so, and return them to you, ready for ironing at your leisure.

This is something which has proven wonderfully popular with every woman who has tried it—it's a method that's economical and efficient, also.

Why not join the ranks of these pleased folks today by phoning for our driver? He'll call promptly for your family bundle. We call in Anaheim every day.

Have a Definite and Simple Plan

"The wise individual is he who so regulates his income and outgo that 'emergencies' are provided for automatically. He knows the meaning of 'peace of mind,' because he has money laid by. His chin is up, his step is brisk, he is master—not the slave—of circumstances

"To get ahead you must have a simple and definite plan." So says the U. S. Government Savings System.

Our Christmas Savings Club plan for saving money is the most simple and definite way of "getting ahead" of which we know. Our 1924 Club is now open. Come in and talk to us about it.

A BIG HOME BUILDING

—This year is starting off under auspicious circumstances for the man who has fixed his ambition on the Star of Real Home Ownership.

—There is a good supply of skilled labor available now in Orange County and by reason of favorable conditions you can figure on your value in a conscientious days work.

—There is an equally good supply of Building materials available, and deliveries are more dependable and fairly prompt in most every line.

—Values have become standardized and stabilized and while not down to the pre-war basis they have receded from the peak to a normal level, and line up with the average of all commodities.

—While speculation in Home Building has been frowned upon, Money is still available in fair supply to those who, want a Home of their own and have accumulated a reasonable down payment or have a lot clear.

—Our service department is equipped with a lot of original plans. Come in and inspect them at your convenience.
