BONDS DEFEATED BY DECISIVE MAJORITY

HEAVY VOTE AGAINST THE PROPOSAL AT THE ELECTION LAST SATURDAY

Citizens Record Their Disapproval in No Uncertain Terms—Out of 1529 Votes Cast, Only 625 Favored the Issue—Friends of Administration Worked Hard for a Majority Vote, But Failed—Poll Shows the Full Ku Klux Strength in the City, It is Believed.

By a decisive majority the voters of Anaheim repudiated the proposed $240,000 bond issue Saturday, thereby placing the seal of their disapproval on the present administration. The election was considered by all parties a test of strength between the two forces in the city, the voters favoring the Ku Klux government and those opposing it. Considerable work was done by both sides on election day, proponents of the measure and backers of the Metcalf board of trustees marshaling their forces in a quiet but effective way. The city was thoroughly combed by friends of the administration, and few corners of the present city council failed to vote. It is a significant fact that the vote cast for the bonds was practically the same as that cast in the city for W. B. Allen at the primary election, which was considered a fair test of the Ku Klux strength.

Out of a registration of 4512 only 1527 votes were cast, or 33 per cent. The vote against the proposal was 903 while 625 were cast for it. As it requires a two thirds vote to carry a bond issue, 1807 favorable votes would have been necessary to overcome the opposing vote of 903. The proposal therefore lacked 881 votes of being approved.

There were only four polling places in the city being divided into four sections by Los Angeles and Center streets. The southwest section, voting at the city hall was the only one that gave a majority for the bonds. The vote was light in that precinct and while a majority of 54 was polled in favor of the proposal it lacked 79 votes of the necessary two-thirds majority. The southeast section, voting at the Citron school was the banner district, the vote here being just two to one against it. Following is the vote by precincts:

For Against Total
Central school	163 178 341
City Hall	187 133 320
Citron school	150 301 451
High School	126 291 417

Undoubtedly the vote was a test of strength of the present Ku Klux administration. The 621 votes cast for the bonds was only 15 per cent of the registered vote, and it is believed that would be the extent of the support received by the Ku Klux members of the council in a show down.

HARBOR NOTES

The newly appointed Harbor Commission for Orange County Harbor met at Newport elch Friday, October 17th to make a trip over Newport Bay and to attend to matters of interest in connection with the work in which they are engaged.

Chairman Lake of the Harbor Commission, presided at the meeting, which was attended by all the members of the Harbor Commission: H. A. Lake, E. T. McPhaden, Ralph McPhaden, Frank L. Ainsworth, James Irvine Jr., and also T. B. Talbert, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors and Charles N. Mosley, assistant District Attorney.

The Harbor commission appointed Harry Welch, who was secretary of the Committee of Fifty, as acting secretary for the harbor commission.

A committee consisting of E. T. McPhaden, F. L. Ainsworth and Ralph McPhaden, was appointed to consider rules for the government of the work of the Harbor Commission. This committee will report at the next meeting, to be held on Tuesday, October 28th. Plans were made to hold regular meetings of the Harbor Commission twice a month at Santa Ana on the second and fourth Tuesday of each month.

Mr. Mosley, assistant District Attorney assured the members of the Harbor Commission that the District Attorney's office would be available for legal help and advice on any occasion.

The Harbor Commission decided to hold an early meeting with Major Finch, District Engineer for the Los Angeles district and his staff, to discuss the steps to be taken to insure close co-operation and co-ordination of the work of the Engineer Department and the Harbor Commission.

After the meeting the Harbor Commissioners and others took an extended trip over Newport Bay.

Word has been received that the destroyer McDermott, of the Destroyer fleet, will be assigned to Newport Beach for the celebration of "Navy Day". This Destroyer will be stationed at Newport Beach, Sunday, October 26th and Monday, October 27th.

The arrival of the Destroyer on Saturday, October 26th and the spending of two entire days at Newport Beach will give a splendid opportunity for the carrying on of the celebration of Navy Day. A special committee has been appointed by Dr. C. C. Huston, president of the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce, which consists of J. P. Groulet, L. L. Garrigues, H. H. Williamson, L. Briggs, George Wilson and G. T. Peabody.

This committee is working in co-operation with Leslie B. Newman, California Vice chairman, Navy Day for the Navy League of the United States. Admiral F. H. Schottel, U. S. Navy, is the commander of the Destroyer Squadron, Battle Fleet, San Diego, California and it will be under his direction that the destroyer McDermott will be stationed at Newport Beach.

The observance of "Navy Day" has become an established custom, the value of an occasion to call the attention of the people at least once a year to the past and present services of the Navy to the nation and to its present state and needs has been demonstrated.

ARMISTICE DAY

The gorgeous "Pleasant Historical" program at Huntington Beach on November 11, with more than 200 floats in line, will not be the only work while entertainment feature of the day program. The Armistice Day celebration this year will present at Huntington Beach the most extensive musical entertainment ever held in Southern California. Will H. Gallienne, chairman of the music committee, will engage at least ten bands for the occasion. All are noted musical organizations and some are famous beyond the borders of the state.

Among the bands already engaged are the following: Los Angeles Scottish Pipers band, wearing their striking Scotch uniforms. This is one of the most famous Scotch bands in the world and consists of eight pipers and four drummers. Besides providing music in the past, historical part of the band will assist in the band concert at the beach in the afternoon and at night and in playing for the street dancing which is to be a feature of the Armistice Day celebration.

The Santa Ana Rotary Boys band is signed for the parade. The famous Pacific Electric band of Los Angeles is signed up. Also the Fullerton band, Santa Ana band and Fullerton high school band.

The United States Naval Reserve band with 75 pieces will be here. This band is one of the finest in the world. The Los Angeles Boy Scouts famous band will be here and the Los Angeles Shriners' band, an organization that has played with great success over the United States.

Chairman Gallienne is also negotiating with several other bands which he expects to engage for the Armistice Day music program. Among these are the Roberts' Golden State band of Hollywood. This band carries 110,000 worth of musical instruments, said to be the finest equipped band in the world.

The Huntington Beach Municipal band with 30 pieces and carrying its state championship banner will lead the Armistice Day parade and will assist in the musical program at the elaborate concert of bands in the afternoon at the beach pavilion and at night, and will also assist in providing music for the street dance to be held at night.

Those who enjoy unusually fine music and a variety of music can not afford to miss the Armistice Day program, every feature of which is absolutely free to the public. It is estimated that this year from 40,000 to 75,000 people will attend.

HALLOWEEN PARADE TO BE A GROTESQUE AND UNIQUE AFFAIR

Preparations Not Yet Complete But Committee Promises Lots of Fun—Everybody Will Turn Himself Loose For a Good Time—Fifty Prizes Will Be Awarded For the Most Amusing Costumes and Displays—Street Dance Follows the Parade.

The fertile brains of the committee arranging for the Halloween street carnival are working overtime endeavoring to devise funny stunts for the street parade which will precede the masquerade ball to be held on the West Coast. The parade will be between Los Angeles and Lemon streets. The committee originally consisted of three men, Messrs. Rappaport, Renner and Gratton, but E. E. Smith and C. Sidman have been added and are putting their thinking machines to work.

The parade will start at East and Center at 7 o'clock on the evening of October 31 with the imposing figure of Gen. Martin Andrade in the van, mounted on his beautiful black horse. Just what will follow him is not yet known, but it is announced that several bands will be in the procession. Fifty prizes will be given, but the participants will not be judged according to the costliness or beauty of their displays. The biggest freak or the most amusing exhibit will win the largest prize. This is to be an evening of fun making.

Business houses will have floats in the line, and there will also be displays of products of the soft. The Boy Scouts have announced their intention of joining the procession and will act as guides and escorts to all persons needing information. The high school students are expected to be in line, six hundred strong and the police department also will have a place. How many societies, clubs and lodges will participate is not yet known.

It is expected to be a grotesque spectacle, as every person who takes a hand in the affair is given all the latitude he wants relative to his costume or his display.

The block on Center street between Los Angeles and Lemon will be roped off and the pavement used as a dancing floor, the dance to begin immediately after the parade. Store windows in this block will be veiled to conceal the decorations, but the curtains will be lifted when the street closes promptly at 7 o'clock announcing the opening of the carnival.

WATER CONSERVATION ASSOCIATION MEETING

The Water Conservation Association directors met in regular session at the office of the Riverside Water Company, Riverside, Friday, this being the close of the fiscal year of the association.

The report of President Cuttle was to the effect that while the rainfall for the past year was 11.21 inches, it was only about two thirds of the average; that the water in the seven wells which have been under observation for the past 14 years in and around the artesian basin, shows that the average depth of water in these wells was only 22.3 feet below the surface of the ground while before water was spread by the association the water in these wells stood 42.7 feet below the ground and this, notwithstanding the fact that only a very small amount of water spread in 1912, over 80,000 acre feet is now having the effect of maintaining the elevation of water in the basin.

The association has expended in the past year during the past year something over fifteen thousand dollars and is now prepared to divert and sink in the debris cone over 10,000 inches of water continuous flow whenever there is water passing the Chapman bridge in Orange County.

In addition to the work being done by this association the counties of San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange are expending thousands of dollars this year on flood control, under the direction of Mr. George S. Hinckley of Redlands. This work is being done on the upper reaches of the Santa Ana river and while it is intended solely for flood control, it is incidentally also water conservation, but does not in any way interfere with nor divert water at such times as the association is not getting the full amount of water to which it is entitled under its filings.

President Cuttle pointed out that the sentiment for water and forest conservation is stronger at this time than the state has ever before in his experience, and also stated that the State Board of Forestry would soon announce a comprehensive legislative program which would be applied to the attention of all who are interested in this fundamental matter of conservation of forests and water.

The following resolution against the Water and Power Act was also passed by the board of directors and ordered published:

Whereas, the so-called Water and Power Act, a constitutional amendment, would empower the commission, to be created under the said act with arbitrary powers in excess of any yet provided under eminent domain proceedings in the condemnation and arbitrary taking of the property of mutual water companies and other property owners;

Whereas, the said commission would be empowered to take large sums of money from the state treasury; and Whereas, we believe that these powers together with other powers to be made it initial, will be the best interests of the mutual water companies, as well as other property owners of the state, be it

Resolved, that the directors of the Water Conservation Association, to regular session assembled, hereby disapprove and condemn the act as unwarranted, unnecessary and detrimental to the best interests of all the people of California, particularly mutual water companies and those whom they represent. Be it further

Resolved, that we urge all good citizens to study the act carefully, believing as we do that such action on the part of voters will result in defeating the measure as we believe it should be defeated.

PRICES FIXED ON SEASON'S CROP OF WALNUTS

AVERAGE THREE CENTS HIGHER THAN FIGURES FOR LAST YEAR

Growers It is Believed, Will Get More Money for Their Crop Than They Received Last Season.—Diamond No. 1 Sells for 25 Cents.—Entire Crop is Already Sold, According to Manager Thorpe.—Yield is Fourteen Million Tons.

Orange County's 1924 walnut crop now being harvested, will bring to local growers even more money than last year, though new and higher prices set, in spite of the fact that a twenty per cent decrease in tonnage was seen this year, according to information received from Los Angeles, where the California Walnut Growers Association, at its annual meeting held in Los Angeles, established prices for this year's crop.

The prices set are: Diamond No. 1, 25 cents a pound; Baby Diamonds, soft shell 16 cents a pound; large hulled, fancy 25 cents a pound, and medium hulled, fancy 25 cents a pound.

The new prices are an average of approximately three cents a pound more than last year, prices last year being Diamond No. 1, 22 cents; Diamond No. 2, 15 cents and hulled fancy nut 26 cents a pound. The baby Diamond brand corresponds with last year's No. 2 nuts.

That the increase in prices this year is justified, was emphatically brought out in the yearly statement made by Carlyle Thorpe, general manager for the California Walnut Growers Association. He stated that the crop this year was not so good as had not been the year 1919, a year of new acreage reported in various sections of the state inadequate rainfall was given as the chief reason for a shortage of the crop this year and the cause for the higher prices.

Thorpe intimated that although sizes would be smaller even than last year the quality this year would be up to standard.

An estimate of the present California crop is set at fourteen million tons, 86 per cent of which will be handled through the California Walnut Growers Association.

The entire crop will be sold within three or four hours, Thorpe explained, adding that enough orders from jobbers over the country would be confirmed within the next two days to absorb the crop.

The crop this year is ten days later than usual, Thorpe said. The rains of last week were a great benefit to the crop in opening up the shell and allowing the nuts to fall.

Thorpe, who has just returned to California from several big eastern markets where he studied the situation reported that the prices for all food products were inclined to go up, but that the buying demand was strong, which justified the new and higher prices for nuts.

Several carloads had already been shipped east this fall Thorpe announced.

A large number of Orange county walnut growers attended, including directors of the Anaheim Walnut Growers Association.

THE NATIONAL GUARD

Declaring that the people of the Pacific Coast, which he classified the most valuable spot in the United States, must awaken to the necessity of giving full support to the development of the National Guard in order to insure the Pacific Coast's security against foreign invasion, Colonel Edgar A. Stryker, Regular Army officer in charge of the National Guard affairs, Ninth Corps Area today made the following statement:

"The National Guard of today is a very different force from its infancy. The early days of our history. It is now, by Act of Congress, one of the most important components of the Army of the United States and together with the small Regular Army forms the first line of defense in case of emergency. Officers receive Federal pay only after they have passed a regular examination, mental, physical and moral, and are Federally recognized by the Secretary of War.

"Under the stress of economical conditions the Regular Army has been cut to 12,000 officers and 118,000 enlisted men, and the minimum strength of the national guard has recently been fixed at 250,000 men, this strength to be reached by June 30, 1926. The allotment to the eight states of the 21st Corps Area, based on population, being: California, 3, 168, Idaho, 1,776, Nevada, 499, Oregon, 3,128, Utah 1,990, Washington 5,539, Wyoming 1,220; total 24,511.

"In this allocation, the 40th National Guard Division belongs to California, Utah and Nevada, while the 41st division is allotted to the remaining states of the Corps Area.

"There are also allotted various Army, Corps, G. H. Q. Reserve and Harbor Defense troops.

"The Federal Government pays more than one third in the expense of maintaining the National Guard. For instance, in California, the amount appropriated by the State for its National Guard was approximately $20,000 for the fiscal year 1923, while in the same period the Federal government allotted $656,595 to the state, while in addition, there was $2,100,000 worth of Federal property in the hands of the Guard.

"Whenever, due to a threatened national emergency, it becomes necessary for the Army of the United States to be mobilized, it is intended that the three Regular Army divisions and the eighteen National Guard divisions be at once concentrated at strategic points in order to defend the frontiers until the Organized Reserves and other troops can be filled up, equipped, and trained.

"The National Guard units of the states in this Corps Area are to be used initially for the protection of the Pacific Coast and its vital centers. In case the emergency threatened particularly the Pacific Coast, additional troops, National Guards and Regular Army, would be sent here from other Corps Areas. Still later the Organized Reserves would be filled up and equipped and eventually the nation would be ready. But the initial protection of the Pacific Coast must come, in great measure, from the National Guard of the Western and Pacific Coast states.

"The Pacific Coast States, on the frontiers of the nation, cannot afford to fail to maintain the National Guard which they have accepted as their share in the National defense.

"The approximate strength of the National Guard in this Corps Area now is 14,531, only about 53 per cent of the minimum number necessary for reasonable security.

"There is no more vulnerable spot in the United States than the Pacific Coast and the manner of its defense troops available for its defense is so limited as to be pitiable. The National Guard must be ready in an emergency. The men of this area are ready there is no difficulty in finding well educated patriotic men who have vision enough to see that in case of trouble, they would rather be trained in advance than to have to go out, fit only in their determination to do it and die for their country.

"And the men who are laboring earnestly to make this scheme of defense mean something are doing so voluntarily and at the expense of time and effort that the average man devoted to golf or bridge. What they are asking of the country in return, is confidence and support.

"That is not asking too much, when in return these men are undertaking to guarantee the territorial integrity of this country, the continuance of its established institutions, the security of its business and, finally the safety of its homes and families.

"All that is necessary to make the National Defense a success is the support of the public. The matter of National defense is not a political issue. It is wholly a question of whether or not this country shall be placed in a position to defend itself or without the consent of the rest of the world."

MRS. BENJAMIN INJURED

Business in Coffeyville, Kansas, was suspended Monday when Walter Johnson, the grand old man of the association, celebrated his 80th birthday. The city celebrated his return with a parade, a banquet and a few other stunts. The Johnson family left Coffeyville Tuesday for Fullerton where the baseball fans in this section of the Army are preparing to greet the champion on his arrival with open arms.

ANOTHER TURN IN THE WELL PROBLEM

EFFORTS OF TRUSTEES TO SETTLE FOR IRRIGATION PLAN FAILS AGAIN

R. F. Brown, Who Drilled the Well and Byron Jackson, People Who Furnished the Pump, Refuse to Accept City Warrants—Failure of Trustees to Follow Law in Letting Contracts Makes Payment on Warrants Uncertain.

The city trustees appear to be in a quandary over the question of paying for a well recently drilled on the abandoned spring tank farm at West Anaheim and the installation of a pump to lift water from it for irrigating purposes. R. F. Brown bored the well and his bill for the job was $1440, while the Byron Jackson Co., installed the pump at a cost of $805. When the work was completed and the bills presented, David Jesurun, dominating himself as a citizen and taxpayer, filed suit in Superior Court asking an injunction to prevent the trustees from paying for the work out of the city treasury on the ground that the transaction was illegal, inasmuch as the board had failed to advertise for competitive bids which is imperative under the law on all purchases costing over $200. Judge Williams granted the injunction and City Clerk Merritt refused to sign the warrants because of the court proceedings. Later, however, Mr. Merritt signed them, but when they were presented to Brown and the Byron Jackson Company both parties refused to accept them in payment of their bills.

There will probably be some way out of the middle, but as the situation stands now it is rather peculiar.

Brown and the supply company have faithfully fulfilled their contracts and the trustees have the money and are anxious to pay them for their work, but the violated and outraged law won't permit it. The Byron Jackson Co. could get a subvance out of the pump because of it can be moved elsewhere, but Brown's hole in the ground must remain where it is, whether or not he gets pay for it.

PFPAU STILL AFTER LEW WALLACE'S SCALP

In one of the most tense and dramatic meetings ever held the Newport Beach Board of Trustees last night passed a resolution to investigate the records of Lew Wallace, who has been City Treasurer for sixteen years, following charges made by Lee Hays of Hahoon. His accusations were that Wallace had an interest in city funds to his own use.

Wallace immediately asked that the board go a step further by employing an expert auditor to check over the records of the First National Bank of which he is president, and then throw the whole matter into the courts by having the city institute friendly suit to recover. The offer was accepted.

City Attorney Clyde Bishop, whom Hays has accused of conniving with Hays in taking the asserted interest due, asked for personal privilege in answering the attack. He presented a certified copy of testimony which Hays said to have claimed was given by Wallace in a recent scandal suit whereby the attorney was accused of telling Wallace to "go ahead."

In an impassioned address Bishop said he had directed the affairs of the city for sixteen years and that Hays was the first person to attempt to besmirch his character, that he was a citizen of the city and that what was said were true and were a guilty of a felony and that when a statement was made the person making same was "a malicious and deliberate liar."

Mrs. F. C. Benjamin, mother of H. Benjamin, cashier of the First National Bank, was seriously injured in an auto accident in South Dakota Monday. Mrs. Benjamin was visiting the friends at her old home town. The friends at her old home town were in which she was riding over a car on the highway between bardeen and Fredericks. AUTOMOBILE NOTES

Opportunity for the motorists and public of Los Angeles County to eliminate the most dangerous of the existing grade crossings will be ofered at the election, November 4th. At this time, voters will be called on to pass on a bond issue for five million dollars to provide the county with funds to do its share in abolishing grade intersections which are a continuous menace to human life, and which every year gather a greater harvest of death.

The first definite step toward making these death traps safe was taken by the Board of Supervisors recently when a resolution was passed submitting the proposition to the voters. Safety organizations, communities, and the Automobile Club of Southern California have been urging for years that something be done to prevent the ghastly toll of lives and injuries. Figures so far indicate that in 1924 there will be double the number of lives sacrificed and persons injured at grade crossings than there were in 1923. Up to May 31, in the United States, there were 789 persons killed and 2,300 injured, which is more than the entire number for 1923.

It is understood that the railways are willing to proceed with abolishing grade crossings so soon as the county will bear its share of the expense. Railways are expected to pay more than 50 per cent share, and the community most benefited by the eliminations also will pay a part.

A two thirds affirmative vote is required for passing of this bond issue. The Automobile Club of Southern California calls attention to the releasing of other millions of dollars, for this measure so that a start may be made in the southward toward making the highways safer for all motorists.

With the coming of the season when rain may be expected in this section motorists are warned to use extra precautions to avert accidents. Statistics of life insurance companies indicate that October is the peak month of the year in traffic fatalities. This situation is accounted for by the fact that twilight hours come on earlier, children are back in school and the motorists become more careless because they believe the heavy raining season of the summer is passed.

An analysis of the September traffic casualties shows that some 50 per cent of the fatalities were due to the carelessness of motorists, and 11 per cent to faults in the highway or other conditions. Hence, the public safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California calls attention to the situation presented at this season of the year, and urges that motorists and the public alike be especially careful.

As a result of the efficient work of the special committee in charge of traffic who the world flyers returned to Clover Field, it is planned to make this omnibus a permanent organization for taking charge of traffic on all occasions when extraordinary measures are necessary. The matter of handling the traffic was placed under the direction of the Automobile Club of Southern California, with Carl B. McGee as the club chairman. Chief traffic officers of Los Angeles city and Santa Monica were enrolled as members of the committee and 150 officers were used in addition to 1500 temporary direction signs.

It is believed that making this committee a permanent institution will do much toward solving the more intricate traffic problems that are presented in this section from time to time. The advisability of such a committee is suggested by the fact that there is one automobile for every three persons in this part of California, making it the most thickly populated motor car district in the world.

REDUCING THE ARMY

Because the appropriation for payment of the Army for the fiscal year 1925 is insufficient to maintain the present authorized peace establishment, another reduction of the already low strength of the army has been ordered which will lower the authorized strength of the army from 125,000 men to 118,750.

In the Ninth Corps Area, only 83.37 per cent of the authorized peace strength will be maintained. This will reduce the number of troops in this Corps Area to 11,762. The reduction will be accomplished by the discharge of soldiers at the expiration of their enlistments and for the convenience of the government.

Among those organizations which will suffer a reduction under this order are the Infantry and the Coast Defense of San Francisco, San Diego, Puget Sound, Los Angeles and the Columbia. Other posts will also be affected.

The District of Washington, the army service schools, the Detached Enlisted Men's list, the recruiting service and the United States Military Academy detachment are the only ones which will be maintained at full authorized peace strength.

The National Defense Act of June 4, 1920, authorized an enlisted strength of 230,000 men for the regular army.

AMENDMENT NO. ONE

Amendment number one on the November ballot is an initiative proposition to amend the State Constitution to limit the amount of taxes which may be imposed upon companies or persons operating interstate auto buses and trucks to 4 per cent of their gross annual receipts.

It does not apply to jitneys or trucks hauling freight exclusively within any town or city and it does not benefit owners of trucks in ordinary hauling or trucks used by farmers and others in their own business. The amendment will exempt these buses and freight trucks from the payment of auto license taxes, county property taxes, taxes imposed according to the weight of trucks to provide funds for the repair of the roads and also exempt them from the tax of two cents per gallon upon the gas they use, and specifies that the only tax they will be required to pay is four per cent on their gross earnings. They are now paying the four per cent on their earnings in addition to the other taxes I have mentioned.

The proposed amendment provides "such taxes shall be in lieu of all other taxes and licenses, state, county and municipal, upon the property above enumerated of such companies. These are comprehensive words and clearly exclude the idea of any of these buses and trucks owners paying any other tax whatever."

The act provides that if they receive any special privileges from any town or city, they must be assessed additional taxes for that purpose.

The act provides that the property of these bus owners may be assessed to pay the principal and interest of any bonded indebtedness existing in any city or county, but any tax paid shall be deducted from the amount of tax to be paid under the four per cent provision and they are exempt from taxation for the payment of future municipal or county bonds, so that the maximum limit of taxes which can be imposed upon them is 4 per cent of their gross earnings, that much and no more.

The theory of our Government is the greatest good to the greatest number. The population of California is estimated at about four and one-half million people. The number of licenses issued for autos used for business and pleasure is considerably over one million.

There are probably not to exceed one hundred companies in the State operating buses and trucks that would be affected by this proposed amendment. It is generally conceded that the rate of taxes on all other cars must be greatly increased in order to provide funds for the construction and maintenance of our highways.

It does not seem right that the taxes of everybody else should be increased while the taxes of these few companies alone are reduced. Our state highways and paved county roads are the pride of the California motorist and must be kept in condition. Everybody recognizes that many hundreds of miles of additional roads are an absolute necessity. Taxes for the building and maintenance of highways are usually cheerfully paid by our people. These buses and trucks used in hauling freight between regular terminals should pay their share.

The state has spent seventy-three million or bond money in the construction of new highways and has also spent many millions of dollars in maintaining and preserving them. The various counties have also invested in good roads additional sums almost equal to the amount which the state has spent. This huge investment of the people's money must be protected and the roads that have been built must be preserved. These auto buses and freight trucks are tremendously heavy and do a great amount of damage to our highways. At present they are required to pay a tax based on the amount of the load they carry. The proposed law eliminates this weight tax and the other taxes I have mentioned. Those taxes are now divided between the counties and the state and are used exclusively for repair of roads. All the money to be raised by the proposed tax will go into the general fund of the state. None of it will go to the counties and none of it will be used for road repair.

The buses and trucks benefited by this proposed amendment are in direct competition with the railroads. The railroads have been compelled to buy their rights of way, construct their road beds and lay and keep their tracks in order. These buses and freight trucks use the highways which the public money have constructed and while the people's taxes maintain.

SLOW IN ASKING BONUS

Only approximately one third of the veterans of the World War have applied for the bonus, according to a statement just issued by Major General Robert C. Davis, adjutant general of the army who is in charge of the administration of the Adjusted Compensation Act.

General Davis declares that "To date there have been received from one million three hundred thousand applications for adjusted compensation."

Of this number 850,000 applications have been examined and about four hundred thousand have been passed, and certificates for amounts due forwarded to the United States Veterans' Bureau for the extension of the benefits provided by law. The War Department is now ready to receive and certify an average of thirty thousand or more applications daily.

It is imperative from the standpoint of economy in the administration of the act and consequent saving to the taxpayer that those veterans who intend to avail themselves eventually of the benefits conferred by the act should make their applications now.

"From the viewpoint of the veteran it is even more imperative that if he intends to apply eventually for the benefits given by the act that he should do so at once."

"The War Department is daily reaping the fruits of the act. The best of health have died or been killed by accident without having submitted their applications for adjusted compensation. Their widows and children young of them in needy circumstances, eccles; in such cases, the amount of the adjusted service credit, an amount equal to approximately one third of that which they would have received in one payment in cash had the veteran made application prior to death."

"For instance, should a veteran who served overseas for a period entitling him to the maximum amount of adjusted service credit of .525 die without filing his application, his widow, children or other dependent within the restricted class, will receive that amount only in ten quarterly installments, while, if he filed his application prior to his death, the widow, children or dependent will receive approximately $1500 in one payment in cash."

"A further reason for prompt application upon the part of the veteran is that the face value of the insurance certificate furnished him is dependent upon the age of the veteran at the time of filing his application, the amount decreasing as the age increases."

"By filing his application, the veteran may place himself in another insurance year, thereby reducing the amount he may receive."

"Lastly, the cash payments under the act become due on March 1, 1925 unless the veteran applies in sufficient time in advance of that date to enable his claim to be properly adjusted and transmitted to the Veterans' Bureau the payment to him will be delayed."

"It will be clearly seen from a consideration of the facts presented that it is to the utmost benefit of the veteran, both as a veteran and as a taxpayer, that if he intends to apply eventually for the benefits conferred by the act, he should do so at once. The continued co-operation of all newspapers and other agencies who have heretofore so kindly given their services to aid in a prompt and economical administration of the Adjusted Compensation Act, is asked to assist in bringing about the prompt submission of applications for adjusted compensation by those who intend to apply."

Application blanks may be obtained through the American Legion, the American Red Cross, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Disabled American Veterans, all Post Offices, the National Guard, the Organized Reserves, Army, Navy and Marine Corps stations and veterans' bureau agencies or by addressing the Adjusted Compensation Branch the Adjutant General's office, Washington, D. C.

FAVORS LIGHT TINTS

Husbands of unhappy wives who seem depressed without any apparent reason, should look to the color of the walls of the house or apartment in which they live, for, according to Dr. R. C. Endries of Oakland, eye expert and president of the California State Optometrists' Association, the color of the walls of a room either make it depressing or cheerful and women are directly affected by these surroundings. "Put a woman in a house where the walls are sombre and dark in color," said the optometry association chief, in an address before members of the Santa Clara County Optometrists' association in session here, "and she will be depressed."

Putting out the eye axis as a camera, a microscope, telescope, a range finder, a motion picture projector and a stereoscope, Dr. Endries explained that eighty-five per cent of all knowledge the human mind acquires comes through the eyes.

"That is why the reflection of light and color coming from the interior walls of a home has such an important effect upon the mind and the spirits," he said. "The nerves and the mind are affected more by the things that strike the eye than is generally known and the color of the walls are therefore important considerations as the woman who is depressed in the house with drab walls demonstrates."

Endries discussed the relation of general health to eyestrain and the relation of eyestrain to general health. "Eyestrain means nerve waste," he said. "Nerve waste leads to nervous exhaustion—a distinctly American ailment and a predisposing factor in nearly every ill that flesh is heir to."

HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION

As one travels over the hard surfaced highways in a state like California he is impressed with the difference between the roads built from 'five to ten years ago and modern trends in road building. The old road from 15 to 20 feet wide is being replaced by roads where the grading runs almost from fence to fence on either side of the highway.

This requires no more work than digging ditches along the sides of the road as in the past and it adds immeasurably to the safety of the highways. It makes them virtually the width of a city street as on either side of the paved strip in the center there is plenty of room for one more car to pass.

In other words, highways are being widened out sufficiently so that five or six cars may stand abreast. This, in turn, is a large step, the danger of accidents from passing vehicles.

A second feature that one observes is the tendency to build shoulders some two feet wide on each side of the pavement and connect the space in between with a new surface of asphaltic concrete. This is the old paving base salvaged by a new shock absorbing cushion which will withstand the impact of modern traffic.

Western states are leading the way in these new methods of road construction which include widening the whole grade and strengthening and mending widening old pavements in the manner indicated.

GEORGIA AND CALIFORNIA

There are some outstanding facts about the California Water and Power Act which the voters of the State should remember.

It is the same act, word for word as the one defeated two years ago.

It provides for the same five hundred millions in bonds to be raised by taxes.

It provides for the same Water and Power Board of five politicians with power to hire and fire without civil service.

It provides that special taxes can be raised to pay interest or to make up losses.

It provides that the Board can make its own rates without any check by the Railroad Commission.

It has all the faults and dangers of the act of two years ago. It is just an un-American.

It was beaten two years ago by a majority of 350,000 and if the voters of California are on guard again as they were two years ago it will be beaten worse this year.

It may be interesting for California voters to know that down in Georgia last July the legislature after exhaustive hearings and a five year campaign rejected two public ownership bills similar to the one before California voters by a vote of 12 to 1.

Decisive decisions such as this against state socialism in California would do more to drive the investor industries and home seekers to the state than all the California booster advertising that could be run in the next ten years.

PROTECTION FOR FARMERS

The American Council of Agriculture has prepared a leaflet pointing out the inequality that has been imposed on American agriculture through legislative enactments favoring other lines, and is calling upon farmers and their friends to help remedy it. The Council was created at a conference of national and state agricultural organizations in July at St. Paul, Minnesota.

Its first undertaking is that of continuing the campaign which was waranted before the last session of Congress to secure for agriculture the same benefits of the American principle of protection that has been extended to American industry and labor. Candidates for election to Congress are being asked to pledge themselves to "vote for and actively support legislation that will give American agriculture equality with American industry and labor." The circular being distributed by the Council urges that "Men and women alike should actively support candidates, regardless of the party affiliation, who do so commit themselves and should defeat those who do not."

The leaflet contains the principal points of two addresses on the agricultural situation. One by F. W.
Murphy, lawyer and farmer of Wabash, Ind., was the key note address of the St. Paul farm conference. The other was given by George N. Peek, president of the Council, at the Iowa State Fair. These point out what the Council believes must be done before American agriculture can stand upon a sound foundation.

Two maps are used in the leaflet with very graphic effect. One shows how members of the House of Representatives voted on the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, while the other shows the vote on the tariff of 1922.
On the latter, agriculture is shown to have stood by the industrial east, but the east failed to stand by agriculture on the farm relief measure.

The Gazette is informed that copies of the leaflet can be secured from the farm organization secretaries, or from the headquarters of the American Council of Agriculture, the address of which is 608 South Dearborn street, Chicago, Illinois.

HARTRAFT AND SCHUMACHER

A rumor is floating around to the effect that a certain underground or invisible organization purposes making an attempt to defeat S. C. Harttraft for the assembly and William Schu-macher for supervisor, by writing in the names of underground or invisible candidates for these two offices.

While there may be no foundation for the rumor it would probably be wise for supporters of Messrs. Harttraft and Schumacher to see that a full vote is cast for them. Of course they el-minated all opposition at the primary election and their names alone will appear on the ballot for their respective offices, the law permits names to be written on the ballot in opposition to any candidate. Should friends of the opposing candidates in the primary campaign concentrate on men for these two offices and write their names in they would make a respectable showing.

Don't take it for granted that Hart-traft and Schumacher are already elected. When you mark your ballot on November 4, don't stop until you have stamped crosses for them.

It isn't much trouble to play safe.

NEW DEMILLE PICTURE COMING

"Feet of Clay" the latest production for Paramount by the man who made "The Ten Commandments," will be shown for the first time in Anaheim.
at the California theater next Sunday.
The story is one of New York and California and features Rod La Roc-que, Vera Reynolds, Victor Varconi, Ricardo Cortez, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff and Robert Edison in the principal roles. It is an adaptation by Beulah Marie Dix and Bertrand Miller of the emotionally successful magazine story of that name by Margaretta Tuttle.

The California episode consists of exotic beach carnival scenes at Catalina Island. You have never seen anything like it in all your born days.

The New York scenes fit, according to the best DeMille standards of dramatic contrast, between the Harlem flat of Vera Reynolds and Rod La-Rocque and the dour home of Julia Faye. Amy's half sister, and her husband, played by Robert Edison.

If you are looking for real screen entertainment and that "something new" in motion pictures, we say don't miss "Feet of Clay."

AS YOU WERE!

Buster Ekaton tells this one.

For his new Metro-Goldwyn picture
"The Navigator" which is coming to the California theater for Friday and Saturday, more than 300 negroes were used as cannibals. In one scene they were supposed to jump from the deck of the ocean liner chartered for the picture.

Buster divided them into five classes and when the signal for Class B to jump, one lone California cannibal remained on the deck.

"Don't you know what Class B means?" asked Buster.

"Yes, I do," came the reply.
"It means 'see you' to be here when the others dive and 'see you' to be here when they come back."

THIS MAN WOULDN'T OBJECT TO SALOON ON PROPERTY.

Tom mix believes in proper procedure and all the amenities. At Palm Springs, California, recently where the William Fox Star and his company were shooting a sequence in "The Last of the Duanes," it was necessary that a saloon be shown in the picture. The main street of the little desert town was used for scenes and Director Reynolds decided the saloon could be erected on an empty lot on the main street.

"Did you get the owner's permission
Mr. Mix asked. Mr. Reynolds replied the mayor had told him it would be all right. "Better see the owner and get a written consent," suggested Mr.
Mix. "He might be some finicky individual who would object to having a saloon erected even for picture purposes, on his premises."

Later the star asked the hotel proprietor where the lot owner could be found.

"Just now he is out of town," the hotel man replied. "He's up in Riverside, but he won't mind your using the lot for a saloon."

"Do you know where to find him in Riverside?" Mr. Mix continued.
"Yes," went on the hotel man rather slowly, "you'll find him in the county jail, doing sixty days for bootleg-ing."

The California theater will show
"The Last of the Duanes" next Thursday.

FALKENSTEIN'S

WITCHCRAFT AND THE TARIFF

The tirades which are lodged against the United States tariff schedules and the statements made regarding the same, either through ignorance or with the wilful intent of deceiving the public, seem never to be challenged.

The American tariff, which is less than one-half the per capita tariff of "free trade" Great Britain, cannot, without gross exaggeration, be called exorbitant. The truth is exactly the opposite of what is charged in statements which say that the tariff raises the price of everything the farmer buys and gives him no protection on what he sells. Anyone who will take the trouble to look at the tariff schedules will see that practically everything the farmer buys, including breeding animals, barbed wire, binding twine, fertilizer, cultivators, harvesters, rakes, leather, leather gloves and harness leathers and all manner of supplies including agricultural implements, are on the free list, while everything he raises and sells such as apples, almonds, butter, beans, corn, eggs, grapes, horses, lemons, oranges, prunes, raisins, sugar, sheep walnuts, grains, peaches, onions, poultry and scores of farm products and animals are on the protected list.

The mere fact that any candidates for public office, regardless of the party with which he is affiliated, should make absolutely misleading statements on the tariff question is grounds for questioning his ability as an executive in public office. The tariff as it exists today is a matter of fact and public record and there is no excuse for any man making a mistake regarding same. The tariff is purely a business proposition and should not be used as a vehicle for securing votes for the Republican, Democratic or any other party. Just so long as religious cranks were able to keep the people in "ignorance" were they able to prevent intellectual and spiritual progress. Just so long as politicians can keep the people in ignorance regarding the tariff question just so long will they be able to upset business stability by using the tariff question as a vehicle for gaining their own selfish ends, namely, votes.

The people are coming to understand that the tariff is for two primary purposes namely to protect American labor and uphold American standards of living and secondly, to raise revenue for the government which, if not collected from foreign products shipped in here in competition with home manufactured articles, would have to be raised by additional taxes on American property and incomes.

CO-OPERATIVE BUGS AND A GIANT FIR

One of the expensive processes in paper making is the harvesting of the logs, for no back should get into the wood pulp. Director Thornton T. Muirger of the Pacific Northwest Forest Experiment Station has recently been informed by Dr. F. C. Craighead, of the Bureau of Entomology of the Department of Agriculture, that bugs can sometimes be persuaded to perform this work for the paper companies for nothing.

One Southern lumber company gets the bugs to work. Mr. Muirger was told by girdling close to the ground the pine to cut for pulpwood. If this is done in the late summer, a multitude of bark borers and other beetles are attracted to the trees and in a few weeks have the bark so completely loosened that it can easily be slipped off when the trees are felled. At this point, however, the true between the beetle and the forest is at an end, for logging during the winter following destroys the insects harbored in the bark, and this one abundant feast is their last.

BORAH AND COOLIDGE

The following is a part of Senator Wm. E. Borah's first campaign speech. It was made at Idaho Falls, Idaho, October 7th.

It was not very long after Calvin Coolidge was made president until he announced that we must have economy, and then more economy, in government. It was not very long until he announced that so far as the building of bureaus was concerned his opinion was that it should cease. To my mind it made one of the great issues of the twentieth century. It presented a problem in government that no other president, and I do not wish to speak disparagingly of the great men who have gone before, but which no other president had the courage to raise and stand upon.

He vetoed bill after bill, popular bills, bills which might have drawn him hundreds of thousands of votes bills which as a mere politician he would have signed. He vetoed them because he proposed to stand between the people of this country and those who were attempting to make unjust and unnecessary demands upon the people. Whatever you may do in this campaign, you cannot do that less away from Calvin Coolidge. Those who are in Washington, whether they be Democrats, Republicans or Progressives, know how he stood on that issue and in my opinion the fact that Mr. Coolidge refused to sign a bill which he considered unjust and unnecessary, will always redound to his credit and I believe he would still refuse to sign a bill which was unjust and unnecessary even if it deprived him of his coming election.

You know courage is rather a rare thing around Washington and it requires more courage to stand up against unnecessary and unjust appropriations than almost anything I can think of.

Take for instance vetoing of the postal employees bill. Probably this was the most popular bill President Coolidge vetoed.

There were just three votes against it in the senate when it went through from Ohio and one from a western state. Furthermore in this, every man in the house, I believe voted for it and every member of the cabinet I am told except one was in favor of it.

Now, if you do not think it takes some courage to veto a bill of that nature, I am sure you entirely misunderstand the situation in Washington. But he did veto it, not because he was against the raising or increasing of the salaries of these men as he stated in his veto, but because he insisted that this eighty million dollars which was necessary to give for the purpose of taking care of this increased appropriation should not come from the re-adjustment of the postal rates, to be taken out of the subsidies necessary for the purpose. Mr. Coolidge said "When you bring to the senate a bill which reads that postal rates so that the post office will take care of the increase, I will sign it and not before."

I have no doubt but that the bill will come back drawn that way. We appointed a commission some time ago for the very purpose of adjusting postal rates so as to make the post office department take care of the increase in the manner I have mentioned and when the bill comes back it will undoubtedly carry those provisions.

I want to state my position in regard to that bill. I don't wish to leave any doubt in the mind of anyone upon the 4th of November as to where I stand upon any question. I voted against that bill and if it comes back to the senate drawn in the same manner as it was when it went out I shall vote against it again, but if it comes back taking care of these salaries by the readjustment of the postal rates I shall be glad to support it, but upon no other basis.

AMUSEMENT FIGURES

One hundred and fifty million tickets of admission to various amusements purchased annually by the people of Southern California have been relieved of the 10 per cent nuisance tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1918, which was signed by President Wilson, under the tax reductions provided by the Revenue Act of 1921, and 25 which were approved by President Harding and President Coolidge respectively.

In a survey of amusement taxes completed yesterday, Collector of Internal Revenue Rex H. Goodsell reported that under the Act of 1918, $16,332,694 had been collected from the amusement loving public of Southern California during the last six years. The Act of 1921 annulled the tax on all admission tickets of 10 cents or less, thereby relieving the citizens of average means, who attend a amusement priced theater, of all amusement taxes and compelling the man of means who can afford to visit theaters charging admission prices of more than 50 cents, to bear the burden of the tax.

Collector Goodsell's figures show that for the year 1918 the amusement attendance was $54,000 for the fiscal year 1924 it had increased to $225,000. In 1918 the amount expended for admission tickets to amusements was $4,637,000 while for 1924 the staggering sum of $42,750,000 was spent.

Two-thirds of the annual amusement tax of $3,587,000 has been lifted from the shoulders of Southern California citizens of moderate means who purchase 150,000,000 amusement tickets yearly, but approximately $2,300,000 must still be paid annually by men of means who patronize the amusement houses charging more than 50 cent admissions.

BRYAN BROTHERS OR CAL COOLIDGE?

The leading Democratic papers agree on two things, that in the present situation Coolidge is leading and La Follette is second, and that La Follette may carry states enough to prevent an election and throw the contest into Congress. There is no one who believes that Davis has a chance of winning a majority of the electoral votes.

That being true, the outcome narrows down to Coolidge and Bryan, if Coolidge fails to win in November, there will be a deadlock and no election in the House and the contest will then go to the Senate for the election of a Vice President. The La Follette forces and the radical Democrats would unite in the election of Bryan. Not by any arrangement with the La Follette forces and the Democrats in the House unite upon Davis for President.

This is a contest, therefore, between Coolidge and Bryan. Those who do not want Bryan should vote for Coolidge.

NOVEL EXPOSITION

Summer sports, scenic attractions of mountains and beaches and out of door life in general, will be typified in a novel and striking manner in the Pacific Travel and Out-Door Exposition. It is also planned to construct a huge out-door stage, similar to the famous grove of the Bohemian club, where thirty minute reviews will be presented expediting the "Call of the Great Outdoors."

Another unusual feature will be a trout pond where visitors can catch their own fish and have them cooked at the exposition restaurant or take them home.

There will be athletic contests of various kinds at the show, such as casting tournament, rifle and pistol matches, golf driving, archery and the introduction of the new archery golf game and course. One section of the exposition will be devoted to amateur photography and another to radio.

Railroad officials and hotel men are co-operating in advance arrangements for the exposition which will be under the management of H. William Nellie, formerly official representative of the California State Automobile Association. Assisting Nellie is C. H. Benham, at one time connected with the International Exposition Company of New York.

FIRE LOSS AND LABOR LOSSES

In many cases fire in slums and older parts of rapidly growing cities make room for more modern buildings and give employment to labor.

In nine cases out of ten a fire loss means a labor loss. It means that people are thrown out of employment or rendered homeless and put to great expense by having to move to new quarters.

Fighting fire losses have been notably small this year, according to incomplete returns sent in to state fire sters. The threatened cancellation of hunting licenses in some states because of the fire menace was responsible for a degree of caution with fire that has never heretofore been known. Most real hunters are careful; but it would have taken only one careless dog with his match to start a twenty-five million dollar conflagration with the woods as dry as they are. Forestry is mostly a year labor; every tree destroyed throws one or many men out of a job.

A DEMOCRATIC FAILING

With the wool growers of the country protected from the importation of competing cheap wool by the Republican protective tariff, John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President, is officially on record in favor of completely breaking down the tariff wall protecting this great American industry.

The wool grower hasn't any too easy a time of it, as the direct export figures show. Yet, while he was a member of Congress John W. Davis made a speech in the House declaring that it was false to believe that the life of the wool growing industry depended on tariff protection.

The Democratic campaign book, commenting on this same speech of Mr. Davis, says:

"No veteran orator or tariff expert of Congress spoke with more telling effect against the tariff on wool." The campaign book adds that Mr. Davis' speech against the wool tariff, made some years ago, "is just as applicable today" as it was then.

In other words, Mr. Davis and his party are for free wool.

A RADIO, WORLD

We are indeed living in a radio age. It can be truthfully said that this has become a radio world.

As a home builder and conservator of life, radio has come at an opportune time, millions of families gathering in the home to hear the news and enjoy the music.

Few people fully comprehend the extent to which the radio is now employed in the guidance of ships. Not only ships at sea but lighthouses along the shore enjoy the benefits of communication and radio signals from ships.

To weather predictions on land for the benefit of the farmer, are added fog and storm signals at sea, to say nothing about transmitting messages of happiness or distress from ship to ship, or on land to a single individual.

From daily market reports for the farmers, baseball scores for the boys, religious services for the old folks and the latest jazz music for the young, the radio is the age wonder of humanity.

DON'T FORGET THE DAY

The United States is today the greatest nation in the world and you can keep it so if you will vote on November 4, its standards of living are the highest and the opportunities it affords are the greatest.

Do not take it for granted that your vote will not be needed for it is millions held that thought there would only be the votes of the radicals and the reds (and they always vote) to count.

You are not only voting for the children and their chances when they grow up. You can by voting for what is best and decent help them as well as yourself.

You can register your desire to show those who want Europe to benefit our expense that you are for the country that gives the greatest chances in the world to all those who really want to succeed.

Of course if the weather is not good on your section of the country on election day it may be more comfortable to sit near a cozy fire but would you not rather get your feet wet one day than be in hot water for four years? Business goes low, wages poor, prices high and the misery of bread lines, soup kitchens, no work, and the suffering that goes with it. It is not only what is best for your country but also what is best for you.

If you go to the polls early you will have the pleasure of knowing that you have done your duty to our country. Let us show the world how many voters we really have.

Let us forget: Election day is November 4th.

PROPERTIES AND BUSINESS—This company was incorporated March, 1920 for the purpose of conducting a general packing house business, and the wholesaling and retailing of its products. From a modest beginning the Company has grown until today annual sales exceed $1,450,000.00 and the total personnel employed is 85. This progress has been made under the direct supervision of Mr. John Ruetter, President and General Manager. Mr. Ruetter's entire business career has been spent in the cattle, packing and meat business. He is ably assisted by the following: Messrs. Secondo Guastl, Jr., Vice-President; A. E. Huck, Secretary and Erna Ruetter and C. S. Chapman, Directors.

The plant is located on four acres of ground between Anaheim and Fullerton, and is served by both the Union Pacific and Santa Fe railroads. More than sufficient water is developed on the property for the needs of the plant which is equipped with the best and most modern machinery. Buildings contain seven refrigerating rooms with cooling and storage capacity of 1000 hogs, 250 cattle, 50 lambs, 150 calves and thousands of pounds of pork cuts in process of curing. In addition to the full line of fresh meats there is manufactured in the plant all kinds of smoked meats, sausages, bone meal and dried blood tankage.

The Company owns and operates twenty-five of the finest and best equipped retail markets in California in such communities as Anaheim, Fullerton, Orange, Santa Ana, Huntington Beach, Brea, Whittier, Downey, Norwalk, Garden Grove, Corona, Montebello, and Long Beach. These shops in addition to operating at substantial profit assure at all times a continuous outlet for the output of the packing plant.

SECURITY—A recent appraisal by Messrs. Chas. Eysenbrod Eugene Durfee and H. H. Krause, fixed the value of real estate, retail stores, machinery, trucks and other equipment at $281,857, or nearly three times the amount of this issue.

EARNINGS—Since incorporation the net earnings of the Company applicable to interest on this issue of bonds have averaged more than four times interest charges and for the year ending January 31, 1924 were $34,258.19 or 4.89 times interest requirements.

PURPOSE—Funds derived from this financing will be used to reimburse the Treasury for expenditures made to plant and equipment and should put the company in position to take advantage of its rapidly increasing business.

GUARANTEE—Mr. C. C. Chapman of Fullerton guarantees by endorsement on each bond the payment of the principal thereof and the interest thereon. The high moral and financial standing of Mr. Chapman is well known in this community.

SINKING FUND—Beginning January 1, 1924, the company will pay to the Trustees on the first of each month $1500 or at the rate of $18,000 a year, said monies to be used by the Trustee for the redemption of bonds on or before their maturity dates in the order of their maturity. This sinking fund will work to retire the bonds more rapidly than provided in the serial maturities.

HENRY FORD SIZES UP
RACE FOR PRESIDENT

Henry Ford doesn't talk often but when he does, millions listen. Some may not agree with what he says but multitudes follow him because they feel that he knows what he is talking about.

Here is his judgment on the presidential campaign in a recent issue of the Ford International Weekly, the Dearborn Independent. Read it, think it over and you will agree with him.

"The present political campaign offers three distinct attitudes for the people to follow.

"One is an attack on industry and every form of success, on the theory that 'big business means the money power.'

"Of course it does not. 'Another attitude attacks a dead administration, but not the present one, and raises the slogan of 'Honesty in government,' as if all the radicals were in one party and all the saints in the other.

"The third attitude is that of continuing straight along the common sense road of American progress, extending the usefulness and prosperity of the American shop, enlarging the advantages of the American home, holding fast the established ideals of American liberties.

"This third attitude will win.

"Though it happens to bear a partisan name, republican, Calvin Coolidge is really the leader of the true third party, which is the American party.

FORM THE WATER HABIT

The human body is two-thirds water. It is therefore essential that every person should drink the proper amount of water—not too much and not too little.

Many persons have the dry habit. It may come from wrong methods of living, or result from hurry, rapid eating, pressure of business and so forth. Such folk may contend that they have no craving for water, therefore do not need it. Yet water is as necessary to life as air.

It is, however, possible to drink too much water. What is the proper amount? It has been determined by scientists that in order to get the best results from water drinking, one should form a habit of taking a certain amount at stated times. "Take a glass of cool water immediately on arising in the morning. This will refresh and make up for the moisture exhaled while breathing during sleep.

The theory of waterless meals was strongly favored until comparatively recently. It was believed that drinking water while eating diluted the gastric juices, rendering them incapable of performing their natural function. The best decisions now advocate the drinking of at least one glass with each of the three meals, one between breakfast and luncheon and another between luncheon and dinner. Then, the last thing before retiring take another glass. For the ordinary day this will suffice. If extra heat or unusually hard work demands, drink more.

The proper temperature of the water is an important factor. Water chilled to a pleasant coolness is wholesome and is deliciously palatable, but too cold, where the temperature is sufficiently low to make the teeth ache, is a positive menace to digestion and health.

RAILROAD BROTHERHOODS WANTS PROFITS

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers owns three million dollars worth of coal mines in West Virginia. The union miners have been on strike since April, over the corporation refusing to pay the union price for mining. President Stone, also manager of the mine, says that in paying the union labor scale they lose 15 cents a ton, without allowing anything for the capital invested, and so their capital is dead.

The report of President Lewis of the Mine Workers is in effect that it is the owners' affair whether he can manage his property so as to make any money after meeting the miner's demands. Back in 1910, Mr. Stone himself testified in favor of the Plumb railroad plan, and said it was a question whether capital is entitled to any return. Friend Lewis brings it back to him in implying the miner's right to render the Brotherhood's three million dollar investment unprofitable.

No human institution is more deeply rooted than that of acquiring property. Believing that property owning is right, the Brotherhood fought and saved to get it. With more seasonal work, with more competition, with nearly greater numbers of inhumanism, with less social standing, and with poorer pay, the miners are now where the Brotherhood was a generation ago. But they have hope. Just now, the union miner is doing what the Brotherhood did, in declaring that capital or profit has no rights until he gets his. The union miner will soon be like the union Brotherhood, a firm believer in the right to get and hold and receive profit on savings and investments in property.

"LEST WE FORGET"

Robert M. La Follette is the same La Follette who was in 1912. He is right now, he was right then.

The Vickers, the Villards, the Bergers, the whole crew of open and secret sympathizers with our enemies, the paid propagandists and the alien plotters against us whose here he was, then, are all cheering him today.

If Senator La Follette was a patriotic American in 1917, then, Woodrow Wilson, Theodore Roosevelt and every gallant boy who died for us in the sea were right. If La Follette was right, then every man of us who believed in the cause of America was a weak and deluded simpleton.

Argue, if you like, that the war was not the knightly crusade we thought it was. But America was on the firing line. Her fate as a nation was at stake. Her youth, her ideals, her every hope of a free existence were in the balance. He who was not with her was against her.

La Follette, where was he? Barking at our heels, read with words of comfort for our enemies and none of encouragement for us. His heart was alien to us. His voice and his power were used to hamper our every effort. He has never excused his actions nor repented them. He asks his reward now, for the confidence of the millions of Americans who believed in 1917 that Senator La Follette was wrong and America was right.

If we are to confess our utter disillusionment and must reward the men who were against us, why not put the laurel crown on the head of Eugene Debs? He did not sulk, he did not whimper. He did not hide behind the power of an exalted office, he frankly and freely took his place with the millions of Americans who were then, and who are now, his heroes. They were used to hamper our every effort. He has never excused his actions nor repented them. He asks his reward now, for the confidence of the millions of Americans who believed in 1917 that Senator La Follette was wrong and America was right.

Seven years have not changed America. We are as proud today of the chivalrous millions who flung their lives into the scale as we were then. They were heroes then, they are none the less today.

Wilson and Roosevelt are in their graves. The golden lads who died in France are still sleeping in the fields. And La Follette is unchanged too. It is the La Follette of 1917 who asks us not to forget and forgive, but to justify.

"SILVER REACHES HIGHEST Combined buying from China, India, Europe and Japan has advanced silver to 70 cents an ounce, the highest price since 1922. An international convention was held during the past week at Sacramento, in which silver producers organized to promote larger monetary uses of silver in all parts of the world. Production of silver for 1924 is estimated to be twelve million ounces below that of last year. Total production in our country for 1924 may reach sixty-two million ounces.

Silver movements in London for the first seven months of 1924 total 25,347,699 ounces refined bullion. Against 22,278,773 ounces last year. Of this amount, 25,530,879 ounces were from our country. Silver and copper production will probably steadily increase in the United States for the next decade.

WOMEN SEE REAL CAMPAIGN ISSUES There are forty million children in the United States ranging in age from the babe in arms to the boy or girl just too young to vote.

Our government is the finest example of representative government the world has ever known. I want the United States to continue to be the best country for these children to live in, a place where they have the greatest opportunity for education, protection of health and morals, a place where they can grow to the highest type of men and women.

It is largely the responsibility of the twenty-million million women voters to go to the polls on November 4th and through their vote not only register their own convictions, but by so doing insure the future safety and welfare of these forty million children. If the laws enacted are not such as to insure the safety and welfare of children, it will be because women have either voted for the wrong candidate or failed to vote against them. When we begin to realize that we can have no business which is so important as the business of having good churches, good schools and a government that stands for honor and integrity, we will be getting somewhere. Progress will follow unless American women cast their votes and throw their weight on the side of enlightened progress. It is upon women, the mothers of the American race, that this duty devolves. Women realize that the children of today are the citizens of tomorrow.

Have you ever looked up and compared the records of the Republican and Democratic parties on legislation affecting mothers and children? I have. It cured me of any notion I may have entertained that it made little difference which political party was in power.

I found that the record of the two great parties in state legislation for the protection of women and children shows that the rule in the regularly Democratic states is long hours, while the rule in normally Republican states is short hours of labor. It shows that twelve states compel one day's rest in seven and that these 12 eleven are normally Republican states. It shows that of fifteen states which have laws regulating the work of women at night, fourteen are Republican. It shows that of the twelve states which have minimum laws for women, eleven are Republican. It shows that only six states in the Union do not provide mothers' pensions and that five of these are regularly Democratic.

For these reasons, my belief is firm that the future of the women and children of America is in the hands of the women of the Republican party. For these reasons, I feel that the best use that can be made of my vote in November is to cast it for Coolidge and Dawes.

SALES VALUES RESTORED

Never before has the country faced a presidential campaign with conditions as they are today. A large crop of staples such as wheat and corn, and a few other crops, are unusually high in price for farm products, and a business tranquility that defies stampede.

And yet it is normal. For years there was no stable European market for our American farm surplus. Under the American business plan of settling the war reparations, a market has been opened and credit is available for buying American foodstuffs for foreign use. Farmers who could not sell their live stock, grain, cotton, or alfalfa and who in many cases have several years' crops on hand will profit by the better conditions for they can sell every thing they have.

The farmer with no enforceable war contract was "deflated" from an incredible war over capitalization. So was almost every other farmer. The war had taken away his capital, his land, his tools, his equipment, that would have taxed the rest of the country for the farmer's benefit, was proposed. It would have been no kindness to keep up the fiction of no war farm valuations, by "loan" or otherwise; further doubt and higher taxes would have ruined the farmer forever.

The farmer was given something better than Sholokoff's loan or pauper's relief after "tax" protection on what he raised, and free access to the world markets for everything he used. When the American financial experts' reparations plan opened the export market, the buyers came. He will sell his 1924 crops for a billion dollars more than last year.

Agitators and penny dreadful writers and politicians have sought to belittle the worth of the farmer. No, where before he had only holes in his pockets, knows that it was not communism, mouthings or political bombast, but sober business sense that restored the sales value of his farm products.

RED CROSS DUTY TO AID VETERANS

Spends Nearly Four Millions in Year to Lessen Burdens of Disabled Soldiers.

SERVES 63,700 IN HOSPITALS

Every Case Is Given Individual Service—Assists Families of These Men Everywhere.

Washington.—The need of individual assistance by ex-service men and their families from the Red Cross is as pressing today as it was immediately after the end of the World War. For six years this work has been foremost of all Red Cross service, and in emphasizing the steady public support of this work the Red Cross National Headquarters urged the largest enrollment this year during the membership campaign opening on Armistice Day, November 11. Nearly four million dollars of Red Cross funds spent for disabled veterans and their dependents during the year ended June 30 last presents some idea of the magnitude of this work. The current year, it is estimated, will call for still further disbursements of funds for the reason that the Red Cross, through more than 5,500 chapters in as many communities in the United States, has been called upon to help the ex-service men in making out their applications for the adjusted compensation granted in the so-called bonus law.

63,767 Soldier Cases a Month
The Red Cross work for the disabled soldier is designated "home service," for it gives individual attention to the man and his family, approximating the interest and loving care of the home. Such service in the hospitals, camps, soldiers' homes and sanatoria, averaged 33,951 cases a month during the year. Assistance to ex-service men and their dependents averaged 68,767 cases a month. In addition, the Red Cross in the last twelve months provided 32,000 recreation and entertainment events in the hospitals and camps.

Thus the Red Cross, symbolized as the "Great Mother," still watches over these many thousands of men, comfort them, help to lighten the burden of their physical reconstruction, and in their homes lifts some of the burdens from their "own people."

Work in Communities Increases
The home service of the Red Cross was the most active during 1924. Chapters, an increase of 182 communities where problems affected by the war veteran's condition required solution through immediate and intelligent assistance. The chapters alone expended some $2,000,000 in this work.

The transient disabled soldier, usually suffering from disability or tuberculosis, is almost everywhere a grave problem. From 1918 to the end of the past year $17,076.35 was expended in helping the chapters to care for these wandering men.

According to government report there are 4,300 veterans in civilian institutions, and in the national statistics for soldiers the complications are increasing. The large groups of patients whose claims have been disallowed, of veterans of foreign wars, and the great number of men permanently resident in these institutions call for Red Cross work which cannot be avoided nor denied.

Definite Service to 73,700
Of a total of $4,500 ex-service men in hospitals and other institutions 73,700 were rendered a definite and specialized service by the Red Cross. In a single month 4,155 new cases were presented and 20,000 cases were acted upon—figures which serve to illustrate the magnitude of the information and claims service engaging the attention of Red Cross workers. New veteran legislation amending the War Risk act which extends many additional rights to disabled ex-service men will reopen thousands of cases and require still greater Red Cross service.

When Congress granted a charter to the American Red Cross it charged the organization with the duty to act as "the medium of communication between the American people and their Army and Navy." This responsibility to the enlisted man and their families is met every year without restriction.

Serves Men on Active Service
The extent of this Red Cross activity during the last year embraced a total of 185,346 cases. There were 36,995 separate soldiers' and sailors' claims; 20,316 investigations of home conditions; 11,421 cases related to discharge, furloughs, etc. Assistance was given in 39,633 instances for personal, business or family problems; 744,230 visits were made to the sick or disabled, and nearly 40,000 letters and telegrams dispatched to the homes of enlisted men.

From June to September at the numerous military training camps the Red Cross provided information and home service to the trainees, also instruction in First Aid and Life-Saving. The entertainment and recreation events at the various Army and Navy hospitals reached nearly 3,000 during the year, and occupational therapy in nine Naval hospitals gave constructive and beneficial results and occupied the time of patients in the making of useful and ornamental things.

A FOOL LAW

The State Fish and Game Commission of California has proposed an initiative measure to be voted on by the people in November which would close the Klamath River in California for future power development.

Under the slogan of "save the fish" it is urging the passage of this measure in the interest of the "sportsmen" and so-called "conservation."

Preventing the development of an estimated 600,000 horsepower which the Klamath River will ultimately produce is a new kind of conservation. It happens that the Klamath River runs through United States Government reserves practically all the way where power would be developed. No private corporation could ever acquire these power sites except through leases from the Government for a period not exceeding fifty years.

The laws of both the state of California and of the United States government are very specific in providing for the protection of fish before any license for power development is permitted.

Take a specific case in Oregon where the whole Willamette River goes over a falls at Oregon City and where the whole flow is used for the development of hydro-electric power. Salmon come up the Columbia river up the Willamette river to the falls and up over the fishways into the upper river where they continue to travel on to the various tributaries of this great stream. The state of Oregon maintains several of the principal fish hatcheries on streams one hundred or more miles above the falls at Oregon City.

A similar situation can be seen at a great irrigation dam and power site on the Rogue River six miles south of Grants Pass Oregon. Here the Royal Chinook, the Steelhead and various species of trout find their way up the fishway and into the quiet waters of the dam beyond Flamingo. On the Rogue river, whose fame as a sportmen stream is world wide has not been injured by utilizing the waters for the benefit of farms and factories instead of merely leaving them to waste to the sea on the theory that thereby the pleasure of a few sportsmen will be increased.

Every good citizen will stand for a program of protection and for propagation of salmon and trout and other food fish in all our streams but this can be accomplished, and is being accomplished every day, at the same time that the power resources of the streams and rivers are being utilized for the benefit of all the people.

IT CANNOT BE DONE

La Follette, by his own admission, the leader of the forces of protest and discontent, would write a unique page in history; he would build a revolution on a foundation of prosperity, high wages and general well-being. It is an ambitious plan, but history records no instance where revolution, the structure of revolution, no matter how ambitiously conceived, cannot be built.

La Follette started his campaign with a blast of enthusiasm but, as election day approaches, and as those to whom he looks for support examine conditions as they are—not as he depicts them from the platform, that enthusiasm cools before the cold facts. On such a foundation the structure of revolution, no matter how ambitiously conceived, cannot be built.

It seems very doubtful that the forces of discontent and protest are as strong politically and numerically as La Follette would have his audiences believe, particularly when certain facts, relevant to the financial condition of the laboring man, to whom he is attempting to make his strongest appeal, are considered impartially and fairly.

Facts such as these, compiled by the National Industrial Conference Board, cannot be successfully controverted by invective or by glittering generalities even in the ardor of the campaign rally, for dispassionate thought on the part of the working man, after the excitement of the rally is over, convinces him that his situation is far better than it could ever be with the forces of radicalism in power.

Here are the facts: Between July, 1914 and July, 1924, wages in twenty three representative industries increased 127.3 per cent. As compared with the cost of living, the advance in wages has been such that up to July 1, 1924 it was worth 27 per cent more in purchasing power than in 1914.

In the same ten year period wages on class one railroads increased 135 per cent; unskilled miners wages increased 103 per cent; building trades wages increased 108 per cent. Revolutions are not founded on conditions such as these.

It is true that the farmer has suffered from a depression, but parties early among the wheat growers, but this depression was brought about through over production, the failure of European markets, and the lack of co-operation among the farmers themselves. La Follette is attempting to capitalize upon this depression, already past, but he fails to reckon with the fact that the conditions which brought it about have passed, and that the farmers crops are worth a billion and a half dollars more than they were four months ago. Can La Follette capitalize upon a non-existent discontent among the farmers?

Can La Follette convince the electorate of the country that it is oppressed and downtrodden when that electorate knows that 88 per cent of all the automobiles in the world are owned in the United States, and that the workers of the country, the plain people, are in the main the owners of these automobiles? It seems highly improbable.

La Follette started his campaign with a blast of enthusiasm but, as election day approaches, and as those to whom he looks for support examine conditions as they are—not as he depicts them from the platform, that enthusiasm cools before the cold facts. On such a foundation the structure of revolution, no matter how ambitiously conceived, cannot be built.
