EASTSIDERS WILL VOTE ON ANNEXATION TUESDAY

PRICE ANSWERS QUESTIONS OF INQUIRERS

DELEGATES OF PROPOSED ANNEXATION DISTRICT MEET WITH COUNCIL

Want Information Relative to Expensive Contemplated Improvement in Their Section, but Are Relieved by City Manager's Statement That They Must Decide for Themselves; Election Officers Appointed Election Officers Appointed

A DELEGATION of residents of the district east of town which will be taken into the city limits, if a sufficient number of electors therein vote for it on March 20, appeared at the council meeting Thursday night, and each member carried an interrogation point in his eye. The spokesman of the delegation said that rumors were rife that the city, in case of annexation, would immediately proceed to plant shade trees in the curbings; extend the ornamental light system to that section; widen East Center street; cut Broadway through from East street to Placentia avenue, and otherwise fasten expensive improvement on the property owners.

City Manager J. W. Price scattered the rumors in answering the speaker. He stated that the city would not plant shade trees in front of property that was not subdivided; that the council had no intention of extending the ornamental lighting system in that direction; that East Center street was amply wide enough to accommodate the traffic at present, and that the extension of Broadway from its present terminus had never been mentioned at a council meeting. He added that the residents of the district themselves would have to decide when they wanted these improvements made.

Election officers who will have charge of the polls in the nine consolidated precincts at the city election on April 9 were appointed by the council. They are:

Consolidated precinct "A," including regular precincts 2 and 3, Anaheim Union high school, R. Pember, inspector; Miss Freda Janss, judge; Mrs. J. Fisher, clerk, and Mrs. J. Probst, clerk.

Consolidated precinct "B," including regular precincts 1 and 4, Euca-Lemo Soap Company, 911 North Los Angeles street, Frank Tausch, inspector; W. P. Quarton, judge, and H. W. Lewis and Mrs. Fred Marsh, clerks.

Consolidated precinct "C," including regular precincts 6 and 7, La Palma street grammar school, R. L. Royalty, inspector; L. A. Fisher, judge, and Mrs. E. B. Segerstrom and Mrs. William Lake, clerks.

Consolidated precinct "D," including regular precincts 10 and 11, Olive Fruit Company, 805 East Center street, J. E. Coyner, inspector; R. B. Herman, judge, and Mrs. L. Kroeger and Mrs. O. B. Weaver, clerks.

Consolidated precinct "E," including regular precincts 9 and 12, A. and B. Auto Top and Paint Shop, 415 East Center street, John J. Dillon, inspector; Mrs. Susie Jayne, judge, and Mrs. Annie Kuhlman and William H. Aupperle, clerks.

Consolidated precinct "F," including regular precincts 5, 8 and 13, at city hall, William P. Webb, Sr., inspector; Mrs. Catherine Brandt, judge, and Miss Eva Merritt and Mrs. C. G. Randall, clerks.

Consolidated precinct "G," including regular precincts 14 and 15, Anaheim Battery and Electric Company, corner South Los Angeles street and Broadway, A. Chapman, inspector; J. L. Adkins, judge, and Mrs. A. E. Chapman and Mrs. W. P. Hall, clerks.

Consolidated precinct "H," including regular precincts 16 and 17, Fremont Intermediate school, 608 West Center street, W. F. McClellan, inspector; Leo Sheridan, judge, and C. C. Reinert and Mrs. Elsie Borth, clerks.

Consolidated precinct "I," including regular precincts 18 and 19, J. H. Whitaker garage, 211 South Walnut street, Joseph K. Langdon, inspector; G. J. Stock, judge, and Mrs. Ethel Chamberlain and Mrs. C. C. Lamb, clerks.

HANS WEISEL IN TOWN

Hans Weisel was in town this week from his 2200-acre ranch in Humboldt county. Hans is engaged in raising cattle and sheep, and is doing very well. He has been offered more for 100 acres of his ranch than he paid for the whole of it, but he refuses to sell. A river runs through the tract and he has an abundance of water. He has given up the practice of law and is now a prosperous rancher.

Skeleton Dug Up on Ranch By Excavators

SHERIFF'S officers examined a skull and several bones of a human body, dug up on the old Ford ranch, near the Orange county fair grounds and decided it was the remains of an Indian which had probably been buried for more than 100 years.

The skeleton was dug up Monday afternoon, when workmen for Jake Schumacher were digging a pipe line through the property. The skeleton was found two and a half feet under the ground, and most of the bones were found together.

The skeleton fell apart when it was picked up, and the bones were crumbling, indicating the many years they had been buried.

So far as is known, no other such skeletons have ever been found in this section of the county, it was said.

Many Anaheimers In Flood District

No Casualties Being Reported, Believe All Are Safe

Many Anaheim people have friends living in the Santa Clara valley district which was devastated by the flood Tuesday morning, and much anxiety has been felt for their safety. So far as is known, all from this section escaped.

Mr. and Mrs. Welcome Ward, formerly of this city, reside at Santa Paula, one of the towns in the stricken district. Mr. Ward was formerly pharmacist at the sanitarium here, and his wife is the daughter of Mrs. Harriet Boyd. Ned Bowman, son of City Clerk E. B. Merritt, lives at Fillmore. Rev. V. K. Ledbetter, formerly pastor of Calvary Baptist church in this city, now lives at Fillmore. Mrs. J. D. Nugent and Miss Sarah Mattis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Mattis, were at Santa Paula, but being warned in time, hurriedly left in a car before the wall of water reached that section. Mrs. Frank Hill, sister of Mrs. Ben Stroup, lives at Santa Paula, but reported here that she was safe.

The extent of the damage and total loss of life is not yet known. About 300 bodies have been rescued, but hundreds are reported missing, and their fate is not yet known. The flood was caused by the breaking of the St. Francis reservoir, owned by the city of Los Angeles, and more than twelve billion gallons of water rushed down the Santa Clara river to the ocean. It is said the wall of water was fifty feet high and two miles in width.

County Clerk Issues Warning to Voters

Urges All to Register Before Closing of Books, March 31

Joe Backs, county clerk, broadcast a warning that registration for the coming presidential primary election would close sharply at midnight on Saturday, March 31. He also warned that citizens expecting to vote in the primaries must register as party members.

Those registrants who decline to state a party preference will be barred from naming their choice of presidential candidates at the primary on Tuesday, May 1, it was announced by Backs.

Four political parties are recognized in this state, Republican, Democratic, Socialist and Prohibition, and only those registrants who have signified themselves Republicans will be allowed to participate in the selection of delegates to the Republican national convention in Kansas City, which is to choose the party's candidate for the White House.

Similarly, only Democratic registrants may vote in the Democratic presidential primary.

With three weeks remaining until the closing of the presidential primary registration, only a few more than 50 per cent of the 1927 qualified voters had registered.

Plan Valencia Show Pre-Opening Affair

Scribes, fruitmen, in fact all friends of the California Valencia Orange Show will be guests at a pre-opening banquet to be held at the Elks Club here, April 2, according to an announcement made by George Reid, secretary of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce.

This banquet, while not officially an annual affair, has nevertheless been given for the past several years. This year it will be more elaborate than ever, the Aladdin motif of the orange show to be carried out for the dinner setting.

The committee appointed to arrange the banquet includes Reid, Harry D. Riley, and L. H. Loudon.

MANY CONTEST FOR TWO CITY OFFICES

FIVE CANDIDATES IN RACE FOR VACANT SEATS AT COUNCIL TABLE

Glenn Merrill Announces His Candidacy for City Treasurer, Making Three in Running for That Office; City Clerk Merritt Unopposed So Far; No Other Candidates Expected to Appear for Any of the Places

ALTHOUGH the time for filing nomination papers for city offices does not expire until noon next Tuesday, it is not believed that any more candidates will get into the fight, as the lists seem to be full. Five men are asking the suffrages for seats at the council table, and three are contesting for the office of city treasurer. The candidates for councilmen are L. E. Miller and A. Curtis Case, incumbents; Jacob Lakeman, and George W. Bruns, candidates of the fortified opponents of the present administration, and H. E. Axup, who is running as a free lance. It is not believed that Mr. Axup will poll a very heavy vote, as he is not backed by the opposition forces to the city administration, but he claims that many friends are behind his candidacy, and he may surprise the prophets.

While the contest is expected to be warm, it will be free from personalities, as no person, no matter how radical his beliefs, can throw dirt at any of the candidates. They are all clean men. The issue is the record of the city council during the past three years. Messrs. Miller, Grafton and Franzen, present councilmen, were three of the men who led the van in that memorable battle when the old city government was dethroned in the recall election, and a great deal of the opposition to Miller and Case comes from men and women who have cherished a resentment against the victors ever since that never-to-be-forgotten election day. This force is augmented by a large number of people who are bitter against the board because of the progressive program it has mapped and is so successfully carrying out.

There is a new man in the field for city treasurer, making a three-cornered fight for the office. Glenn Merrill's candidacy was announced the latter part of the week, and is contesting with Charles A. Boege, the incumbent, and David Jessurun. Merrill is a World war veteran, and is now commander of the Anaheim American Legion post. He will have a large support, and adds considerable interest to the race for that important office.

E. B. Merritt is still playing a lone hand in the contest for city clerk, and in all probability there will not be much excitement in his campaign.

It is not probable that any other candidates will enter the race for any of the positions now. The forces that brought forward Lakeman and Bruns would resent the intrusion of any other candidate, and will solidly support their own nominees, while the friends of the present administration are standing like a wall behind Miller and Case, and there will be no deflection from their ranks.

Death Angel Calls Old-Time Resident

W. W. Scott Passes Away at His Home Sunday Afternoon

Winfield W. Scott, one of Anaheim's oldest and most respected citizens, died at his home, 120 East Alberta street, Sunday afternoon, at the age of 77. He had been in ill health for many months.

Mr. Scott had been a resident of Anaheim for 37 years. He was born in Kentucky, but came to California 44 years ago, the last 37 years of his life having been spent here. He was a builder and contractor in his younger days, and was also a pioneer in citrus growing on the east side. He is survived by his widow, Rachael; three sons, and one daughter. The sons are Wallace of this city, Frank of Los Angeles, and Clark of Burbank, and the daughter is Mrs. H. K. Hedges of Los Angeles.

Deceased was a member of the Presbyterian church, and Rev. Thomas H. Walker, pastor of that church, conducted the funeral services at Backs, Terry & Campbell's parlors yesterday morning. The pallbearers were all old friends of the deceased, being G. W. Sandilands, L. E. Miller, W. M. Wickett, O. H. Renner, Charles Hogan, and Stuart Cargill. The burial was in Rosedale cemetery, Los Angeles.

219,000 Travel Through County On Motor Bus

A TOTAL of 219,000 Motor Transit Company passengers came thru Orange county in 1927, one-third of this number ending their journey here, it was revealed recently by W. E. Kruckman, general agent for the public utility, who said that the figure represented a 25 per cent increase over the travel for 1926.

The Riverside to Long Beach travel by way of Santa Ana had a 27 per cent increase the past year, and the northern and eastern business out of Santa Ana showed an increase of 67 per cent, Kruckman said.

In the past six months, the express business out of Santa Ana jumped 52 per cent, the agent said.

In commenting on the growth of the business here, Kruckman declared that it is now possible to board a car here and without any delay travel to any Pacific coast city as far as Vancouver, B. C. New $18,000 parlor cars time their departure with the arrival of Santa Ana cars and immediately upon the discharge of passengers from the Santa Ana bus, the parlor cars depart for the north, Kruckman said.

CITIZENS FAVOR PROGRESS

An old-timer steps in to remind us that when the city trustees, years ago, decided to construct cement sidewalks in the business center, while there was at first concerted objection to the innovation, yet when the first two blocks were thus improved, every business man in town rushed to the city hall to demand that cement walks be placed in front of his property. The old wooden walks were alike an eyesore and a menace to life and limb. When a progressive spirit seized the citizens, and the board was urged to lay down cement walks, many property owners rose in arms and uttered strenuous objection to the plan. Yet, when a block or two were adorned with these evidences of civilization, every business man in town wanted them, and the entire business district was soon graced with handsome cement sidewalks without further opposition.

When a subsequent board of trustees set about to pave streets in the business district, there was further objection. Business streets in winter ran knee-deep in water in places and were quite impassable. The humorously inclined posted placards in the thoroughfares bearing the admonition "No Fishing," as well as other expressions of good-natured raillery. A man's hat sailing down the stream in the middle of the street attracted attention of onlookers, and one of them called to the gentleman under it, offering to render him assistance, but he replied, "Oh, I'm all right. I'm on horseback!"

The trustees decided to pave, and the new improvements were ordered in, much to the consternation of many taxpayers. Rumors of collusion were in the air, but the board continued steadily onward, and when a few downtown blocks were paved, every taxpayer in the business district wanted them.

When cement sidewalks were about to be laid in residence districts, more objection arose in the land, but as soon as two or three blocks were thus improved, every property owner came forward and asked for sidewalks in front of his property. This was also true when the board set about to discard coal oil lamps lighting the thoroughfares and to replace them with electric arcs, but as soon as the magnificent electric illumination was brought about, every man in town approved the action of the trustees and asked for arcs on his street. When the city park was created and other improvements made, there was further opposition, but there is not a taxpayer in town today who does not approve the installation of these adjuncts to civilization.

Now the trustees are engaged in the praiseworthy task of installing ornamental lights and planting shade trees in the parking. There is another outcry about the unnecessary expense, and idle reports are current reflecting upon the integrity of the board. Of course, not a man in town believes them. The city trustees are animated by the sole purpose of beautifying and improving the town, and they have always been animated by the same high purpose. They have the support of the thinking men and women of the community.

They have given us a splendid municipal water system and have taken care of the interests of the people in every particular. Our tax rate is one of the lowest in the state, and due to their splendid business management of the municipality, our taxes are among the lowest in the commonwealth. We believe the city trustees are entitled to the endorsement of the people at the city election. They are giving us an economical, business administration and should be continued in office.

It is perfectly proper for citizens to criticize the city government, if criticism is warranted, and if the good of the municipality will be conserved thereby. When criticism is constructive and well meaning, it is welcomed by every governing body in the land. It is perfectly proper to have this sort of criticism during municipal campaigns or at any other time. But when a coterie of Johnny-come-latelies, whose coat-tails have not yet become warm in the community set about to parcel out "them offices" to themselves, and they weep and wail about the dishonest city administration, the people know what they are caterwauling about and that their criticism is nothing but insincere flapdoodle. They cannot bring contumely upon the city administration. That game has been played here before, and it is getting awfully thin.

JUNIOR COLLEGE GAINS GROUND IN NORTH

RURAL DISTRICTS WAITING ACTION BY ANAHEIM AND FULLERTON

Both Cities Favor Joint School, but Fullerton Wants It in Her Own Bailiwick, and Anaheim Wants to Build It Elsewhere; Representatives to Meet Tonight to Discuss Matter and Reach Amicable Agreement

PROSPECTS for the eventual establishment of a Northern Orange County Junior college are growing better, but there is still a disagreement between Anaheim and Fullerton relative to the location of the school. These two cities have dominant voices in the north section, and if they can agree on this point, the project will have smooth sailing thereafter, as the other districts, realizing the value of such an institution, are anxious to support it. Fullerton is willing to join with the balance of the district in the movement, provided the school is located in that city on the site of their local district college, while Anaheim will give the proposal enthusiastic support provided it is built elsewhere, in a more central point. The other districts are not greatly interested in the location, but will support it regardless of the site.

A meeting will be held at McFarland's cafe, Fullerton, tonight, at 6:30 o'clock, when members of three committees, representing the Anaheim, Fullerton, and Brea-Olinda high school districts, will discuss the formation of a junior college.

Members of the three committees are as follows: Fullerton—Dale R. King, chairman; Howard Krause, Albert Launer, Robert Strain, S. C. Hartranft, J. A. Prizer, and Ray B. Leach; Brea-Olinda—Frank Mason, chairman; Ted Craig, Walter C. Davis, Dr. W. E. Jackson, Harry Yarborough, C. R. Merrifield, and Edward Curtis; Anaheim—Dr. H. A. Johnston, chairman; Melbourne Gauer, J. A. Clayes, L. H. Loudon, H. N. White, Dr. J. G. Hilleary, and Dr. J. W. Harpster.

With the junior college movement apparently gaining favor throughout the district, with the possible exception of those grammar school districts which had anticipated the possibility of a junior high school-building program, supporters of a 6-3-3-2 plan of education were pressing their views.

The 6-3-3-2 plan provides six years of grammar grades, three years of departmental junior high school, and two years of junior college. The 6-4-4 plan includes six years of grammar grades, four years of departmental junior high school work, which would provide the graduate with equivalent of two years of college work with credit accordingly in regular universities.

As the junior college project would fit in with either the 6-3-3-2 plan or the 6-4-4 plan, it was believed that it would meet general approval throughout the district, as the first step in a general expansion program for schools in the Fullerton Union high school district and in northern Orange county.

Directors of the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce went on record definitely include only Anaheim and Brea-Olinda Union high school districts with Fullerton.

Although no definite action opposing the possible entrance of Orange, Garden Grove, and Huntington Beach into the district was taken to preclude approval of such a procedure, it was stated that if those districts desired to send their students to the northern county school, there could not be any objection.

S. C. Hartranft urged caution in plans for the formation of the union junior college district. He pointed out that disincorporation of the Fullerton district to form a union district might be disastrous unless all concerned kept faith with the suggested plan by which Brea-Olinda and Anaheim might be annexed by petition and action of the state educational heads and the county board of supervisors, to form the proposed union district. Legal aspects of the matter are to be studied particularly by the committee.

Rose Tourney Gets First Space At Orange Show

THE Pasadena Tournament of Roses has the honor of being the first to reserve space at the Eighth Annual California Valencia Orange Show to be held at Anaheim, May 24 to June 3. The Pasadena committee is planning a most unusual exhibit, consisting of a huge cave built of oranges, inside of which a miniature reproduction of the New Year fiesta will rotate. The cave will be large enough for people to walk through and will probably be one of the most unusual exhibits.

Sale of space in the industrial tent has begun, and many firms throughout the state are showing more than usual interest. More than 25 spaces were sold on the first day, and requests for reservations are coming in every day. The industrial tent will be considerably larger than last year and will contain 136 booths.

Sudden Death From Apoplectic Stroke

Elmer Goodrich Drops Dead in Odd Fellows' Hall Sunday

Stricken wtih apoplexy while attending to his duties as janitor of the Odd Fellows' hall, Sunday morning, Elmer Goodrich fell to the floor and, it is believed, expired almost immediately. The body was discovered by Mrs. Margaret Buttree, music teacher, at 11 o'clock, and a physician, who was hastily summoned, stated that he had been dead about an hour. He was 61 years of age.

Mr. Goodrich was a contractor and builder, and had been a resident of Anaheim for the past 20 years. In addition to being caretaker of the Odd Fellows lodge, he has served as recording secretary of that order for many years. He was also a Mason, and a member of the Knights Templar commandery at Red Bluff.

Mr. Goodrich was a widower, his wife having died 11 years ago, but he leaves three children, Erma, aged 16; Carlton, 15, and Stanley, aged 16. He also leaves a brother in Kansas and sister living in Nebraska.

The body was taken to the funeral establishment of Backs, Terry & Campbell, and the orphaned children are being taken care of by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gates.

Ranger Will Speak To Parent-Teachers

Chief of Yellowstone Park Force to Address Organization

While the people of Southern California are basking in the warm sunshine, the rangers to whom is entrusted the patrolling of the world's greatest game preserve in Yellowstone national park contend with temperatures of from 40 to 60 degrees below zero. While trees and flowers are blooming here, the park is covered with snow 14 to 16 feet deep. While on every hand there is game of every sort to be taken with the greatest ease, the ranger is not allowed to shoot it, and subsists during the winter on beef or pork and canned goods.

These and scores of other interesting facts are related by Philip Martindale, chief ranger of Old Faithful district, Yellowstone national park. Mr. Martindale, in his official capacity, is touring the country, giving a series of educational talks on "Wild Animal Life and Ranger Service," describing the work of the United States Department of Interior and the national park service. Since November 1, Mr. Martindale has visited 16 states; has given nearly 200 talks, and has been heard by approximately 100,000 persons, a figure which he expects to double by the time he has concluded a schedule arranged in Southern California for him through the courtesy of the Union Pacific system.

Mr. Martindale is scheduled to address the Anaheim Parent-Teacher Association, at 3 o'clock, on the afternoon of March 27.

Motor Traffic Officer Sued for Divorce

Fay L. Barnett, Anaheim city motorcycle officer, allowed his wife, Jessie L. Barnett, to support herself while he devoted his attentions to another young lady, Mrs. Barnett charged in a divorce complaint on file in superior court, Santa Ana.

The officer's attentions to the girl became so marked that her parents took her to Europe in order to separate the pair, Mrs. Barnett alleges. The girl wrote letters back to Barnett, addressing them in care of the Anaheim police station, the divorce complaint states.

Barnett, his wife said, rejected her requests that he cease devoting attention to the other woman.

S. Q. R. STORE IS TWENTY-ONE YEARS OLD

YESTERDAY WAS ANNIVERSARY OF ACQUISITION BY PRESENT OWNERS

Was Small Country Store When Messrs. Schumacher, Quarton and Renner Bought It From Sam Federman; Has Had a Phenomenal Growth, and Has Grown to Be One of Largest Dry Goods Stores in County

YESTERDAY the S. Q. R. Store celebrated the twenty-first anniversary of its career under its present name and under the present management. This is the pioneer dry goods store of the pioneer dry goods store of Anaheim, as previous to its acquisition, 21 years ago, by Messrs. Schumacher, Quarton & Renner it was owned by Sam Federman, who had conducted it for a quarter of a century.

On March 14, 1907, three young men, Oscar Renner, A. E. Schumacher, and W. P. Quarton purchased the business of Federman. Renner was clerk in the store at the time, and Schumacher was clerking in a grocery store. The new proprietors, adopting a name from their initials, called it the "S. Q. R." store, and it still flourishes under that name, although Mr. Quarton, several years ago, disposed of his interests to his partners and engaged in horticultural pursuits.

When these young men purchased the business, it was a very small affair, and the three were amply able to handle the business without the aid of clerks. Now more than twenty employes are kept busy waiting on customers.

When the new proprietors took charge of the business it was located in the old Schumacher building, at the northeast corner of Center and Los Angeles streets, where the Golden State Bank building now stands. In the course of years, increasing business forced them to seek a larger building, consequently a deal was made with Emil Dreyfus, owner of the southwest corner of the same streets. The old building, formerly occupied by Stern Brothers, was located on the ground, but it was torn down by Mr. Dreyfus and the present structure erected. With the ground floor and the basement, running the full length of the building, gave the store ample room for the time, but eventually the proprietors found themselves cramped for space; consequently, they determined to build their own home. They purchased of the Knights of Pythias the southwest corner of Center and Lemon streets. The old Dickel building, where Herman Dickel conducted a grocery and hardware store for several decades, occupied the ground. This building had been the pride of Anaheim at one time, but it was demolished, and the present S. Q. R. block erected on the site. It was built especially for the business, and is perfectly equipped to fit the needs of the store. It is now one of the finest and largest dry goods emporiums in Orange county, and is still growing.

The three young men who began their mercantile career with Sam Federman's ancient store, 21 years ago, have succeeded beyond their expectations. They succeeded because they deserved success. They have held their customers because they have always dealt squarely and honestly with them. A satisfied customer, they believe, is worth more than a large profit on his purchase.

There is considerable difference between the large modern department store of today and the little country store of 21 years ago. The present home is owned by Messrs. Schumacher & Renner, proprietors of the store, and its cost, including structure and grounds, was not far below $200,000.

Riley Resigns As Relief Body Head

Harry D. Riley, Orange county automobile dealer, resigned as president of the Crippled Children's Relief Association of Orange County at the monthly meeting in Anaheim last week, and Earl Morrow, of Santa Ana, vice-president of the association, was named to the position.

Riley has been head of the organization for some time. He becomes exalted ruler of the Anaheim Elks' lodge next week and in submitting his resignation stated that he would be unable to do justice to both offices.

Morrow is district manager for the Pacific Telegraph and Telephone Company.

Mrs. Thomas McFadden, of Anaheim, was elected vice-president. A report of the association's activities during the past month was given by Mrs. Gertrude Crowell, of Santa Ana, superintendent.

50 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

SATURDAY, MARCH 23, 1878

Unless we are mistaken, the bill providing for the issuance of bonds to build a schoolhouse in Anaheim is still with the senate committee to whom it was referred after introduction. If such is the case, we earnestly ask Senator Smith to call it up and have it acted upon at once; and we hope that our representatives in the assembly will secure favorable action upon the bill with all possible speed, after it has been transmitted from the senate. There is no opposition to the bill. Every one in the district is anxious to have it passed, and there is considerable anxiety manifested, lest action be delayed until it is too late.

The beautifully printed pictorial bills and the handsome lithographs of Forepaughs's announce that his great consolidation will exhibit here on April 2. The progress of Forepaugh's great combination is one continued ovation. As its immense trains sweep over the country the entire populace assembles to see them pass. Its appearance in every town and city calls forth the entire resident community and the surrounding populace for miles. The grand entree of the great Forepaugh show into town on the morning of exhibition day will eclipse in grandeur, magnificence and novelty any show parade ever made on the continent.

On Wednesday night the long threatened rain made its appearance, quite opportunely, too. Up to 6 o'clock on Thursday morning nine-sixteenths of an inch had fallen. This makes the total rainfall for the season 13 inches.

The advertisement of the banking house of P. Davis & Bro. will be found in our columns this morning. Messrs. Davis & Bro. are too well known to the community to need any recommendation at our hands. They propose to do a general banking business, receive deposits on account, sell exchange on San Francisco, New York, London, Paris, Berlin, and Frankfort, and will make collections and remit proceeds at current rates of exchange. Their banking business will be conducted under the able management of Mr. A. W. Steinhart as cashier.

The Cajon Irrigation Company have levied an assessment of $30 per share, payable immediately. All assessments remaining unpaid on the sixth day of April will be declared delinquent.

Subscriptions are being solicited for the purchase of a library for the Sunday school connected with the St. Michael's church, and also for the support of the Presbyterian church.

On Wednesday last some miscreant made a raid on the smoke house of Mr. J. W. King of Garden Grove and stole therefrom nine hams and four sides of bacon. No clue has been discovered as to the identity of the thief.

A delegation from Los Angeles consisting of Messrs. Tom Rowan, Mendel Meyer, W. S. Moore and W. R. Bettis arrived last night. We understand that they are commissioned by the city to pick out a suitable location for a temperance colony.

A group of gypsies have camped on the north side of town. All the young girls are anxious to have their fortunes told, as several of them have been promised rich husbands, diamond rings, speedy marriage, and all that goes to makes happiness complete.

Dr. Hardin's family had a narrow escape last night from a runaway caused by an animal being staked out in such a manner as to obstruct the road on which they were driving. If we mistake not, there is a town ordinance relating to the staking of animals across the road.

The board of supervisors Monday prepared a communication to be forwarded to Senator Smith and Assemblymen Ellis and Holloway, embodying their views as to the Wilmington harbor bill now before the legislature. They also discussed the subject of a trespass law for this county.

Mr. Jotham Bixby informs a Los Angeles contemporary that part of the colonists who are to settle the new colony on the Cerritos have already got to work and are plowing and seeding at a great rate.

Master Charlie Bland was severely injured by a fall from a wagon on March 8. We were informed by his father yesterday that he is rapidly improving.

Mr. Max Nebelung has in operation, at his place of business, a telephone. It is an immense success.

We learn that Mr. A. Langenberger has resigned as one of the board of town trustees.

Two saddles were stolen from Mr. Warling's harness shop on Saturday night. The thieves have not yet been caught.

A huge whale made its appearance one day last week at Santa Monica and floated around for awhile between the wharf and the outer buoy. Several gentlemen were on the wharf at the time and had a good look at the monster.

The Messrs. Newmark have purchased the Temple block, in Los Angeles, for $131,000.

Ed Mateer, a former conductor on the Anaheim road, died at Yuma on Wednesday night.

It is said that T. D. Mott will receive the appointment of deputy clerk of the supreme court for Los Angeles.

It is estimated that there are still four hundred thousand sheep in this county, as the remnant of last year's drouth and disaster.

A schooner carrying 260 tons of corn, sailed from Wilmington on Thursday for Guaymas.

Ladies wishing a new spring hat to wear to the circus will find dozens of them, neatly trimmed and at prices ranged from $1.50 up at Mrs. Flora Brown's millinery store, next door to Goodman & Rimpau's.

25 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

THURSDAY, MARCH 19, 1903

On Monday evening, .17 of an inch of rain fell, bringing the total for the season up to 10.45 inches. The conditions on Monday evening seemed to indicate a heavy rainfall, and it looked for a time that we should have an all night's rain. The weather was warm, with the wind in the south, and for a time rain fell heavily. At 9 o'clock, however, the wind shifted to the northwest and the weather became cold; rain ceased falling, and on Tuesday morning the ground was covered with a white frost, and ice formed in places. The season has so far been the most favorable in many years; rain promises well, and a large area has been seeded.

The chamber of commerce has started a movement to establish an Arbor Day for Anaheim. It has been suggested that some of the fraternal orders would probably take the work up, and a committee consisting of Messrs. Boyd and Johnston was appointed to confer with the lodges of the city to see what can be done in the matter.

C. C. Chapman of Placentia has been appointed by Governor Pardee a trustee of the state normal school at San Diego, and J. P. Greeley of Santa Ana a trustee of the state normal school at Los Angeles. Both are appointments eminently fit to be made and reflect credit upon the governor.

J. L. Schumacher has purchased the Mrs. Charley Stone place, formerly known as the Paderatz property, consisting of improvements and three acres of land; price, $1250. W. C. Eymann, the real estate man, made the deal.

Mrs. Ida Crist entertained the Ladies' Euchre Club at her home on Philadelphia street Thursday afternoon last. Mrs. Zeus won the first prize, Mrs. Smith of Los Angeles the second, and Mrs. Konig the consolation. When the game was finished, the hostess served refreshments, and later the ladies departed for their homes, having been very pleasantly entertained by their hospitable hostess.

Mr. Melrose and his daughter, Miss Winifred, attended the concert given by the Canadian-Scotch band in Los Angeles on Tuesday evening. Mr. Melrose comes from Glasgow, which, we believe, is somewhere in the neighborhood of Scotland, and he considers the music of the bagpipe as superior to the usual conception of that instrument of torture. He informs us the concert was the best he has heard since leaving his native heath.

Anaheim is to have an opportunity of witnessing the marvelous things done by liquid air, an engagement having been made for a splendid lecture and expert demonstrator to appear here on Friday evening, April 3, bringing a supply of genuine liquified air and complete apparatus with which to perform the dozens of startling experiments that have recently attracted world-wide attention. The high school has arranged this entertainment at great expense. If you have not already subscribed, leave your names at the public library or drop a card to the high school.

The Jersey Breeders' Association of Southern California convened in this city on Saturday at the hotel. The attendance was quite large, there being about forty members in attendance. The following were elected officers for the ensuing year: Guy H. Miller of Riverside, president; E. E. Moore of Compton, vice-president; C. W. Leffingwell of Whittier, secretary; George Thomas, treasurer; G. E. Platt, Los Angeles; W. J. Cole, Anaheim; J. C. Keefe, Orange, and C. S. Burgess of Arlington were elected directors. Buena Park, the home of Lilly milk, was chosen as the place for the next meeting of the association, in March of next year.

Mr. Grim is moving into his new cottage on the corner of Broadway and Los Angeles streets. It is one of the handsomest homes in the city.

Herman Stern informs us he and his brothers, Jake and Gus, contemplate making a trip to Europe in July, the occasion being the golden wedding anniversary of their parents.

Mrs. Metz, who has been ill at the residence of N. Hart for several weeks, is improved and is able to be out.

The 1928 Outlook For Citrus Fruits

The farm advisor's office has just received from the United States department of agriculture, which it represents in Orange county, a report on the present status of the citrus industry and the future outlook. The 1928 outlook indicates, as did those of 1926 and 1927, a marked increase in the bearing acreage of grapefruit and oranges, and a very large increase in their production in years when favorable growing weather prevails. The lemon acreage will doubtless remain about stationary during the next few years. In general, the outlook is unfavorable for additional plantings.

The estimated bearing acreage in California oranges has increased steadily from 107,000 in 1914 to 185,500 in 1927, but is expected to remain stationary during the next three years. Both Florida and Texas have large acreages in non-bearing trees. In the former more than one-fourth of the total trees are still non-productive, while in the latter very little of the acreage has attained commercial bearing age. Any further increase in California orange production will probably be in the Valencia rather than in the navel orange. A development of interest, particularly to Valencia orange growers, is the increase during recent years in exports to the United Kingdom. The shipments to that market in 1927 were 588,000 boxes, compared with 234,000 boxes in 1926 and 31,000 boxes in 1925. The bulk of these exports to England moved during the summer months; when the competition of oranges from other sources was not as keen as during the winter.

Grapefruit trees of bearing age have about doubled in number in Florida since 1919; in Texas, with an acreage variously estimated between one-third and one-half of the Florida plantings, only a third of the trees are estimated to be of bearing age and very few have yet reached full production. An outstanding development in the grapefruit situation is the marked increase in shipments to the United Kingdom. In 1927, about 400,000 boxes were shipped, as compared with 150,000 in 1926, 140,000 in 1925, and 50,000 in 1924. This increase would indicate that the English consumer is rapidly developing a taste for grapefruit. This demand will doubtless grow, especially if small fruit of good quality is provided.

The indications for the years just ahead are that whenever a good crop of either oranges or grapefruit is produced, it will be marketed at prices considerably below those which have prevailed in 1927.

Lemon production in the United States has been so great for several years that the growers have not been able to market the total supply as fresh fruit at satisfactory prices. Imports of lemons have been rapidly decreasing during the last few years. In Sicily, the leading competitor of California, there has been a marked downward trend in production since before the World war, although some new plantings have been made recently because of increased returns to growers due very largely to the importance of the lemon by-products. If the price level for fresh lemons and by-products remains the same as has prevailed during recent years, a gradual growth in Italian lemon production may be expected.

Goodwin Found Guilty of Murder

Philip A. Goodwin was found guilty of first degree murder of J. J. Patterson by a jury in department No. 2 of the Orange county superior court yesterday. The verdict, brought in at 4:40 p. m., after more than twenty ballots, recommended life imprisonment, and Judge E. J. Marks will pronounce sentence at 3 p. m. Friday.

The jury, composed of nine men and three women, went into its deliberations at 11:20 a. m. Shortly after the lunch period the jurors came in and inquired of the judge if he could refuse to carry out a recommendation for life imprisonment. Judge Marks refused to answer the question and again read his instructions.

The first ballot stood eleven to one for conviction of first degree murder. The twelfth juror fell in line on subsequent ballots, and the jurors then voted upon the penalty. At one time, it was said, four jurors favored hanging.

It was expected that attorneys for Goodwin would take another appeal to the state supreme court, which already has granted one new trial, that which was concluded yesterday. It was announced that a motion for a new trial will be made Friday, but attorneys for the former actor are known to entertain little hope of favorable action by Judge Marks.

Blanket Sheet Will Confront All Voters

November Ballot to Be Largest In State's History

The "horse blanket" ballot to be handed to voters at the November general election this year will be unique in comparison with the famous "tapeworm ballot" that became famous back in 1871.

This year's ballot will be the largest in history. It will be placed in the archives of the California state library, where an interesting collection of queer ballots of historic days is kept.

In California there was never such a thing as voting by word of mouth. In some of the older states in pioneer days the voter declared his preference "right out in public" to the election board.

Later, printed ballots came into use. In California these often took strange forms. Some were on paper as flimsy as tissue. It was impossible to write upon them with pen or pencil. Others bore gaudy designs in colors on the back, like a meal check. They could be easily distinguished when presented at the ballot box.

Then came the "paster" ballot, which brought about sweeping changes in the state's ballot system. The "paster" permitted a candidate to have his name printed on gummed paper, so his friends could shear off a slip bearing his name and paste it over the name of his opponent.

A large number of men employed by the United States government at Mare Island virtually controlled the election of congressmen from that district, and also largely shaped the state election. The "tapeworm ballot" was used by these voters so that electors were compelled to "vote 'er straight." It was printed in very small type on a long narrow strip of heavy cardboard with no margin. It couldn't be folded, neither could any changes be written.

So the straight ticket was elected. But at the next session of the legislature measures were introduced leading to adoption of the Australian ballot system, the uniform ballot and other reforms. Several of the original "tapeworm" ballots are in existence. One is on display in the historical exhibits at the state capitol.

Motor Drivers Must Be Sure of Brakes

Penalty Assessed If Brakes Are Found to Be Defective

The attention of motor vehicle drivers of California was called to the approach of spring weather with long drives in prospect and the consequent need of an examination of brakes, in a bulletin issued by Frank G. Snook, chief of the division of motor vehicles.

Within a few weeks, said the bulletin, many additional cars will be on the streets and highways, causing congestion and making it imperative that brakes be in good condition. Drivers contemplating mountain trips were urged particularly to inspect this important feature of their cars and have them adjusted if necessary.

"Brakes that do not hold or brakes not equalized are worse than none at all," said Snook's bulletin. "They give a false sense of security on a clear road, but fail when they are most needed.

"Fortunately, practically all the newer models of cars are equipped with four-wheel brakes, a device which offers the maximum of safety if properly equalized. If poorly equalized, however, their safety value is lost. Hence they should be carefully inspected by an expert at regular intervals.

"If your two-wheel brakes cannot stop your car within 58 feet at 25 miles an hour or if your four-wheel brakes cannot stop it in 34.7 feet at the same speed, lose no time in inspecting them and relining them if necessary.

"Try your brakes out frequently on some lonely stretch of road where there is no interference. Measure off the distance and see what they will do. Don't wait until an emergency arises before finding out what they will do."

The motor vehicle chief said instructions would be given shortly to traffic officers to make tests of brakes at points throughout the state, and that persons caught with unsafe brakes would be required to have them adjusted immediately.

COUNTRY STILL ATTRACTS

While many have been fearing for the future contentment of their stomachs because of a perceptible drifting of farmers and farm hands into the cities and manufacturing towns, a counteracting movement back to the country has been generally overlooked. This latter movement is not strictly speaking one of "back to the farm," but is drawing countless families out of the congested cities.

During the last decade more and more city folks have gone out into the country, even beyond the suburban sections, to build themselves year-around homes out of loud-speaker and player-piano distance of the nearest neighbor. The bread winners have no difficulty in going to and from their work in the city by electric line, commuters' trains and automobiles.

The extent of the exodus from the congested centers of population is more fully appreciated after a visit to the beaches, mountains, river banks and wooded places within commuting distance of town. Everywhere are cottages built and occupied by city folk. Many of them are occupied only in summer, but some provide a shelter for all four seasons. One is almost convinced that everybody that can afford a cottage in the country has one or at least expects to have one.

Don't forget the salt in the breakfast cereal. Very often a lasting dislike for cereals is due to lack of proper salting. A teaspoonful to a quart of water is the usual amount needed.

Hemet Prepares for Ramona Pageant

Spectacular Outdoor Play to Be Staged in Few Weeks

The Ramona pageant, outdoor spectacle sponsored by the Hemet San Jacinto Chamber of Commerce for the last five years as a community enterprise glorifying early Southern California history, has grown to such proportions as to necessitate a separate organization, the Ramona Pageant Association.

Formation of an independent association to produce the pageant is revealed with the launching of plans for the sixth annual presentation in the Ramona bowl, near Hemet, early this spring. Definite dates are not yet determined.

The Ramona Pageant Association which will continue the pageant as a community affair, will be headed by Edward Poorman, as president and general manager. Poorman, who managed last year's presentation, and who has been active in upbuilding the enterprise since its inception, appearing in a principal role since the first performance, has been induced to return from Los Angeles to head the association.

Prominent citizens chosen as executives include H. H. Spaulding, of Hemet, vice-president; Oliver P. Ensley, secretary; C. C. Abbey, treasurer, and Mrs. Emily Freeman, executive secretary of the 1928 pageant. Formation of the new association will relieve the combined Chambers of Commerce of the twin cities of the great mass of detail involved in staging the annual show.

The spectacular outdoor play was launched by an enterprising group of citizezns who wished to preserve the history and romance of the Ramona country in 1923. The first performance, staged in a natural pocket of a canyon near the Hemet city limits, without seats or other conveniences, drew 3000 persons. In 1924 the pageant attracted 4500, and since, the fame of the play has spread until last year presentations were given on three successive weekends with a total attendance of approximately 18,000 spectators.

In the future the Ramona pageant will be continued as a community nonprofit enterprise, and since it was instituted the funds derived, all of which go inot improvements, have made it possible to transform the rude amphitheatre into the magnificent concrete Ramona bowl, famed for its acoustic properties.

DAMAGE MICE CAN DO

As an instance of the great damage that can be done by animals as small and apparently insignificant as mice, figures may be cited from a report to the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture from the leader of its rodent control work in California, showing the startling losses due to mice in grain warehouses in the Sacramento valley. The aggregate losses during the past year, according to the report, were not less than $100,000. In one warehouse 10,000 gunny sacks, worth 14 cents apiece, had to be used to resack grain at the time of shipment in spring. The loss of grain, labor, etc., in addition to the bags, amounted in this one warehouse to more than $5000. The mice cut through the bags and carried off the burlap for nests, besides eating or wasting the grain. In moving 1500 bags each day the men considered it lucky to find 100 bags that required no mending.

North Carolina strawberry growers rid their land of parasitic nematodes by using a rotation which would be feasible in other regions. Following strawberries, corn is planted with a nematode-resistant variety of cowpeas drilled in the rows; the corn is harvested, the cowpeas are turned under, and winter oats are sown. In the spring the oats are plowed under or harvested, and corn and cowpeas are planted again. After this corn crop is harvested, and the cowpeas turned under, the growers plant strawberries in the autumn and sow oats among them. The next spring the oats are harvested and the strawberries cultivated and hoed. This system achieves three objects: it reduces the nematodes; it produces crops of corn, and it adds humus and fertility to the soil.

Hundreds Attend Farm Bureau Meet

Continuing the policy that J. A. Smiley of West Orange, as farm bureau chairman, has adopted of holding at least one meeting in each of the counties in the region during the year, the last one was held at El Centro, in Imperial county. Those attending from Orange county were J. A. Smiley, S. W. Stanley, A. M. Stanley, and W. M. Cory. Each of the other counties in the region, including San Bernardino, Riverside, San Diego, and Imperial, had representatives present. Many matters of importance were discussed. A resolution was passed recommending that the board of supervisors continue to be the governing authority for the distribution of the gas tax fund, since there is a movement on hand to cut down the quantity coming under their jurisdiction.

A progress report on reapportionment was given by Felix Ladis of San Diego. Walter Gary of Imperial county spoke on the county budget bill as passed by the last session of the legislature.

Compensation and automobile insurance as carried on by county farm bureaus brought forth considerable discussion. One company is writing group compensation insurance for a minimum of $3.13, which permits a considerable saving to the man who has a small payroll. Announcement was made that the California Farm Bureau had signed a contract with the State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company to become the state agent of that concern. Arrangements are yet to be made with the various counties for writing this insurance.

Roy Cole, president of the Los Angeles County Farm Bureau, spoke on the Acquisition and Improvement Act, also known as the Matoon Act. It was described as being a pernicious piece of legislation, permitting any improvement upon a majority vote of the governing body without application of the parties affected.

Notice was brought to the attention of the group that the warden of San Quentin has refused to fill any more orders for sacks until after July, saying that their capacity had already been filled to that date. The executive committee of the farm bureau was asked to investigate the advisability of increasing the mill capacity there and, if feasible, endeavor to secure legislative action to provide adequate mill capacity.

The meeting adjourned late in the afternoon with the understanding that the next meeting would be held in Riverside on May 19.

Koenig's Red Hen Leads in Contest

At the end of the fourth month of the egg-laying contest at Pomona, we find one of E. H. Koenig's (Orange) red hens leading with 109 eggs to her credit. Her nearest competitor is one owned by the Pioneer Hatchery of Petaluma, with 95 eggs laid since the first of November. The eggs laid by Mr. Koenig's hen have a market value of $3.03.

The high pen in market value of eggs laid since the contest began is owned by George C. England, of Inglewood, having a value of $19.81. E. J. Campbell, of Garden Grove, holds tenth position in market value of eggs laid by his entry, with a value of $16.32.

Radio Den Owner Declared Missing

E. R. Caverley Disappears, Cause Attributed to Finances

Search is being made by officers throughout the state for E. R. Caverley, proprietor of the Radio Den, at 134 West Center street, who mysteriously disappeared a week ago yesterday. It is not positively known that he has absconded with money belonging to other people, his disappearance being attributed rather to financial difficulties. As an evidence that he has no intention of returning, it is said that he gave his car to his wife before leaving, last Wednesday.

Contracts for radios which he sold to people here were disposed of by him to the People's Finance Company of Santa Ana, and bills sent by that company to his customers revealed that payments made him had not been credited.

Caverley some years ago was manager of the Chaffee store at Center and Clementine streets. An inspector for the firm suddenly appeared one morning and found that the cash receipts for the previous day's business had been removed from the store, which was a violation of an order of the firm's manager. He was arrested, charged with embezzlement. He had already produced the money and explained that he had carried it home with him, as there was no safe in the store. At his trial he was acquitted on the ground that the money had not been embezzled, and that a violation of a rule of the company did not constitute a violation of law.

Contract Let for Hospital Addition

Tuberculosis Sanitarium to Be Built by Orange County

The board of supervisors Wednesday awarded to Thermon Means, Santa Ana builder, the contract for erecting the Orange County Tuberculosis Sanitarium.

Means' estimate of $41,114, was approximately $1800 lower than the closest bid. The highest figure submitted was $49,628.

Plans prepared by Eugene M. Durfee, Anaheim, and approved by Mrs. Edythe Tate Thompson, in the tuberculosis department of the state board of health, are to be used.

Durfee pointed out that a building of this type, without tile roof and without stucco finish, usually cost in the neighborhood of $45,000. The Orange county structure will have these features, but at a much lower price, he pointed out.

The board originally had planned to erect a 28-bed sanitarium, but the present scheme calls for a 56-bed project, which can be built at a saving because of its size, according to Durfee. The construction of one building, shaped like a "V," with the administration unit in the center, has enabled the board to save money, he stated.

EUROPE UNGRATEFUL

Americans remembering the many things which the people of the United States have done for suffering humanity, occasionally get a shock when they read that the people of Europe, or at least the newspapers across the Atlantic, seem to regard Uncle Sam as a sort of international Shylock, seeking the last pound of flesh whenever and wherever he can get it. In view of the fact that during the war we "gave until it hurt," conserving our resources and energies not only for our own soldiers but for the boys of our associates in the war; considering that we have made debt settlements which ought to be regarded as decidedly generous, in the case of France making a reduction which virtually wipes out all of the debt contracted before the armistice was signed; and in further view of the fact that we have always rushed in to feed the starving populace of any unfortunate country in Europe or Asia, it often occurs to the average American to wonder what we have done to deserve the charge of "shylocking."

Directors of the Anaheim Community Industrial Land Company met Tuesday morning in the city hall to hear the monthly report of Treasurer H. A. Hawley and to discuss plans for renting the industrial tract in North Anaheim. Treasurer Hawley reported receipts on notes during the month of February of $600.54 and disbursements of $94.70. A balance of $505.84 remained in the treasury March 1. The corporation owes $1500 on a note held by a local bank. After considerable discussion, the directors decided to offer the tract for rental for agricultural purposes.

Dr. H. A. Johnston was the speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon Tuesday, his theme being "Science and the Bible." He made an eloquent talk on the subject, showing that the researches of science only tended to prove the truth of the Scriptures. He also scored the new doctrine of evolution, and rapped the educators who teach it to their pupils.

Officers Interrupt Cock-Fighting Game

Six Participants and Spectators Arrested and Fined

The ancient but no longer honorable sport of cock-fighting brought six men into legal disrepute in Justice K. E. Morrison's court at Santa Ana. Each was fined $25. In the absence of payment, the sextet are being held in the county jail, where they first registered Sunday night, in the custody of Deputy Sheriffs Harry Carter, Arthur Steward, and J. L. Elliott.

The prisoners included three Americans: Joe Johnson, M. A. Brown, and A. Gunhart; and three Mexicans, V. Malindas, Y. Quwarro, and Luis Lagunis. They were a part of a crowd of several hundred persons discovered in assembly in an arena at Northam when the deputy sheriffs swooped down upon that section late Sunday. Observing several dead game cocks scattered about, the officers gathered in six of the throng and brought them to jail. In court, the three Americans said they had not been engaged in the sport, but admitted "they were there."

The court informed them that attendance upon a cock fight constitutes guilt of the offense in question. "Then we're guilty," the trio stated. "I agree with that conclusion," the court announced.

The Mexican defendants, unable to speak English, had more difficulty in apprising themselves of the situation, but finally decided that they, too, were guilty. At first they were scornful of the implication that they had been mixed up with a cock fight. "I traded a rooster for a dog," Malindas volunteered.

Parent-Teachers Meet at El Torre

County Organization Holds Important Session Tuesday

The fourth district, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, met in this city Tuesday, 50 presidents and district chairmen being present. The meeting was held at the El Torre hotel.

Many high-lights of quiet and persistent effort were revealed by the annual reports of officers and district chairmen. One of particular interest was the report of the visual education department, through whose efforts the sensational Hickman pictures were banned in a number of nearby towns. In response to numerous requests, this department offers the following list of clean films approved by the state chairman of visual education:

For all ages: "The Four-flusher," "The Circus," "A Dog of the Regiment," and "Sporting Goods."

For senior high age: "The Enemy," "Wings," "Jazz Singer," "Student Prince," and "Four Sons."

Mrs. Fay Spangler announced the campaign for the examination of all children who will enter school for the first time next fall. Under the direction of Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer and chairman of child hygiene, and Miss Woodward, health nurse, examinations will be given free to all children of pre-school age upon the request of parents. These examinations will begin on May 1, continuing throughout the entire month as the demand warrants and in centers to be determined later. Parent-Teacher members will be able to render valuable service by helping to collect the data necessary from school records, and all presidents should communicate at once with Mrs. Fay Spangler of Santa Ana.

A delightful musical program was presented by Miss Virginia Long, director of music in the Anaheim schools, which included numbers by the Mozart orchestra of the high school, and excerpts from the operetta presented so successfully last week in the Anaheim high school. Two brilliant vocal numbers were given by Mrs. Dorothy Ross, "As Through the Streets," from "La Boheme," and "Glaninia Mia," from "Firefly."

Newport Selected For Seaplane Base

Government Will Establish New Station in Orange County

The United States navy has picked Newport bay as the site for a seaplane base, according to information given Antar Deraga, chairman of the aeronautics advisory committee of Orange county, by Captain W. O. Snyder, airport superintendent of the United States department of commerce.

According to Deraga, Captain Snyder said that Newport bay has been recommended by experts as a suitable place for a seaplane base, and that it is but a matter of time before the base is established.

Captain Snyder, accompanied by Deraga and Vern Speich, made a thorough inspection of the district recently, making trips by airplane, boat and automobile. Snyder was well pleased with the section and declared it ideal for a plane base, Deraga reported.

According to Deraga, Captain Snyder's approval always is sought by government departments before a decision is made.

Service Clubs Invited To Whitsell Reception

Letters to the various luncheon clubs in the county, inviting them to attend the reception to Leon O. Whitsell, president of the state railroad commission, were mailed today by John Osterman, president of the Orange County Farm Bureau.

"We feel honored by the privilege of entertaining Mr. Whitesell," stated Mr. Osterman in commenting on his action, "and we would like to share the pleasure with everyone in the county. He has made an enviable record, and we don't want to 'hog' all the glory.

"I don't know what he is going to talk about—his subject is rather broad—but we will leave that to Leon. He will have something worth-while to say, and we are sure all our people would like to hear him say it, hence the invitation."

The reception will be held at the dining-room of the Orange County Fair Grounds, opened by a chicken dinner, a la Garden Grove, at 6:30 o'clock, Thursday evening, March 22.

GOOD LUCK, GENE

He and his family have many friends here who wish them all sorts of good luck.

Heavy Fines for Polluting Water

Pay $400 for Allowing Waste Oil to Escape Into River

Allowing waste oil to escape into the Ventura river and thereby damaging fish and plant life, was a costly error on the part of two companies operating in the Ventura field, when fines of $400 were assessed when the defendants were brought into court through the efforts of the deputies of the division of fish and game.

Reports coming into the office of Commissioner George B. Clarkson recite the details of the proceedings. Finding oil running into the river, deputies working under the direction of Walter Emerick, stationed at Ventura, traced the pollution to the McKeon Drilling Corporation and the Bolsa Chica Oil Company.

Warrants were issued and the representatives of the two companies hailed into court.

Walter Claberg, county warden, and Lawrence Gardner, a volunteer deputy of the fish and game division, worked up the McKeon case, and when the defendant waived a preliminary hearing, Superior Judge Dimmick levied a fine of $200, which was paid.

Deputies Emerick and Bedwell of the fish and game patrol force secured the evidence against the Bolsa Chica company, and Judge Henderson fined them $200 in the justice court of Ventura. However, the judge suspended $100 of this fine during good behavior, but warned the offenders that a recurrence would necessitate the payment of the additional "century."

"Good work. The ocean and the waters of Southern California have got to be kept clean, and I am glad to see this speedy action," Commissioner Clarkson remarked, upon hearing of the disposition made of the Ventura county cases.

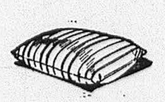
Pillows Are Not Sanitary Unless They're Clean



MANY housewives would be very much startled if they could "see inside" the pillows which are in daily use. Dirt and dust filtered thru the ticks and feathers harbor many disease germs. . . . In many households the same pillows are used year after year, summer and winter, in sickness and health, without laundering—a hazardous practice.

We wash your pillows clean and sanitary—in their own ticks and the cost is negligible.

LOOKING UP

THINGS are looking up and there are yet no real indications that the year 1928 is going to bear out the old bugaboo about the presidential year as an "off year" for business. According to a recent statement of the federal reserve board, in its summary of general business and financial conditions for January and February, industrial production and shipment of commodities by railroad showed an increase of 6 per cent over December, although the general level of the price of wholesale commodities showed a slight decline. Continuing, the report of the federal reserve board says:

"The increase of 6 per cent in industrial production from December to January reflected a larger output of manufacturers, particularly of iron and steel and automobiles. Daily average production of steel ingots increased by over 25 per cent in January, the largest monthly increase since 1924. Buying of steel products by the railroads and by the automobile and construction industries was also active in January and, notwithstanding the large volume of production of shipments, unfilled orders showed an increase during the month.

According to the report, since the first of February the production of steel products has continued active and the new orders and shipments are more nearly in balance than in the previous months. Autmobile production, which was in December in smallest volume since 1922, has increased considerably since the first of the year and, it is expected, will continue to increase. Cotton consumption has shown an increase since the first of the year, and woolen and silken materials have been somewhat more active than in the latter part of 1927. Building contracts awarded were in greater volume in January, 1928, than in January, 1927.

All of which would seem to indicate that the industrial outlook is gradually improving after a seasonable decline and that there is no reason to believe that 1928 will not be a good year in the United States from an economic standpoint.

EDUCATION IN POLITICS

IT IS generally true that the people who do the most criticising of politicians, of the way our political parties are conducted and the way our government is run, are the ones who take the least interest in fundamental politics themselves. The only way, of course, that politics can be made better and government improved, is by educating more people in politics and inducing them to take more interest in the great American game.

In a recent magazine article, no less a personage than Chief Justice William H. Taft expressed the hope that the day may soon come when the young men and the young women of the United States will take a greater interest in politics, and will be encouraged to become real politicians in the best sense of the word. Judge Taft is aware that some of the best people in the different American communities have little, if anything, to do with politics, so that such matters are continually left to the professional politicians. Now the professional politicians may be pretty good fellows, but they need the support and co-operation of the real constructive people of the country.

When the politician fails to live up to expectations, there is a loud complaint from the press and the public. Yet the people who ought to take part in politics and fail to do so are partly to blame. They have failed to exercise all their duties as citizens and disappointment is naturally the result.

Why not have educational training in politics as well as in other branches of public effort? The youth of the land have been taught to avoid politics. They have been told that there is more money and more honor in business and the other professions. Perhaps his is true, but it remains the fact that politics remain very important to the welfare of the community, the state and the nation. If neglected, it is not the politicians alone who will be ruined. Business will suffer too, just as it always suffers when we depart from the fundamental principles of American government. Why not a little more education in politics for all of us?

UNCLE SAM WORLD BANKER

IF YOU do not think that Uncle Sam is a real world banker, listen to this: the sum which America has invested abroad, including the war debts, now reaches the total of $25,600,000,000. This means that the American people have outstanding in other parts of the world nearly twenty-six billion dollars of real American money. Some sizeable sum, that is. Of course the private investments and loans abroad total only fourteen and a half billions, and the eleven billions represent what the allies still owe Uncle Sam on account of the war. But it is to be remembered that this war debt is really the people's debt, and if the European governments do not pay it, the people of the United States will have to dig down in their pockets and make it up.

This private American money is scattered all over the world. Nearly four and a half billions are in Europe, more than three and a half billions are in Canada, while Central America has nearly three billions and South America more than two billions. China, Japan, and the Philippines account for nearly three quarters of a billion more.

The enormity of this amount can be better realized when we take into consideration that in his palmiest days as the banker of the world John Bull only had something like eighteen billions invested abroad.

The figures quoted were prepared by Dr. Max Winkler for the Foreign Policy Association, and Dr. Winkler says he does not see any let-up in the flow of our money to other nations. He continues: "Although our foreign investments were scattered all over the five continents, the field is by no means exhausted; 1928 and subsequent years may witness further expansion, with corporation financing assuming a much more important part than heretofore. * * * American dollars are in demand everywhere, and there seems no discrimination anywhere against them, even though there may be a certain prejudice against our nationals."

Of course we hope this money will get back to America when the people need it. But twenty-six billions is enough to make us study the international situation a little. At any rate, Uncle Sam isn't isolated as he used to be, which is all the more reason why he ought to watch his step, hang on to his navy and keep out of complications abroad.

It is now reported that Europe may offer us three billion dollars cash to pay all our claims against her. But we doubt whether they will offer even this much in real money unless there is a catch in it somewhere.

POCKETING THE LOSSES

In commenting on the Europen financial situation, a Middle West paper says that nobody pretends Germany can pay more than $625,000,000 a year for more than sixty years in the way of reparations or that Europe can take payment in German money if Germany can make it, and that the five years of the Dawes settlement were for the purpose of letting everybody realize that wars are dead losses. "Why do we not then have frank acknowledgments, and why does not everybody pocket his loss?" the paper asks.

This would all be very fine and might help clear up the situation. But Uncle Sam has already pocketed his loss. He asked for no reparations and no territory and all he wants now is to be let alone and not to be forced to pocket not only his losses but the losses of the other nations who took part in the war.

Uncle Sam paid the expenses of his own soldiers in Europe and in addition to this he loaned money to the allies for the maintenance of their troops, and he did this at a critical time when it looked like the allies were close to the wall in a financial as well as a military sense. Now is it fair to ask the United States after pocketing its own loss to cancel the European war debts and so force on the American taxpayers some of the expenses which European nations should have borne in the common cause of carrying on the war? We rather think not, and the American people will never sanction any such program, no matter how the internationalists may skilfully disguise the issue and try to give us cancellation with a sugar coating of our "duty to ourselves and to humanity."

Uncle Sam pocketed his own losses and it is to be remembered that he pocketed no gains. Not only did he not ask and receive reparations, but he asked for no other sort of remuneration. He got no Alsace-Lorraines, no generous portions of Africa and Asia Minor and no territory in other parts of the world. For him it was all going out and nothing coming in. Now to ask him to pay not only his own share of the war but Europe's share is asking too much.

A NAVY AND ITS COST

It seems, if we listen to many presumably good people, that the salvation of this world is all dependent upon an emasculated or ham-strung American navy. The facts are these: We have a government and people richer and more worth protecting than any other government and people in the world. They cannot be protected with hound dogs, old-fashioned shotguns and apposite peace texts culled from the more or less salaried organizations for world accord now functioning under the protection of the American flag, and who are about as competent and reliable for the defense of that flag in an emergency of war as a pet canary would be competent and reliable for the protection of a private residence from burglary.

This is a first fact. Another fact is that our merchant marine tags at the tail-end of those of other smaller and poorer nations. Our marine can't seem to make a "go" of it. The ships of other nations carry our goods.

Our navy may be adequate for the protection of this struggling marine of ours, but it certainly is in no condition to protect the great marine we should possess. The fact is, our navy is not the first in the world, nor the actual and adequate equal of that of Great Britain.

"The influences against naval expansion for America are strong. They somehow appear to be able to block or retard progress in this direction. The country should know more about them. And where is the merit of outcry and propaganda against naval extension? Certain papers and publications in this country harp much over the "prodigious and indefensible" cost of proposed naval enlargement. But they do not point out the fact that the vote recently taken in the House on the question of making the navy competent to meet treaty requirements represented 55 per cent of the population which is paying 72 per cent of the federal taxes, while the vote against the cruisers represented 45 per cent of the nation's population, paying 28 per cent of these taxes.

"SHIP-MINDEDNESS"

House members supporting the Jones shipping bill, which should really be entitled "A bill to provide and maintain a government-owned merchant marine fleet" by reason of its provisions that no ships can be sold to private parties without a unanimous vote of the United States shipping board, are confessing privately that a certain "ship-mindedness" has developed among the people of the Middle West. That, they say, is one reason why they are disposed to cast a favorable vote on this Jones measure.

There was a time not so long ago when the Middle West was constantly up in arms against the seaboard and gulf states. Salt water harbor appropriations were only obtained by taking on equally sizeable appropriations for the dredging, building and paving of inland streams. It is because of this situation that Salt Creek and similar streams were lifted into fame in the appropriation bills.

The inland waterway conferences, however, and the reasonably recent employment of shipping board vessels for the overseas transport of western grain have developed among the farmers an appreciation of their own personal interest in a merchant marine. That this new understanding exists, is something which the outright objectors to the Jones bill will do well to keep in mind. Unless it is watched it may run through very curious phases.

3,000,000 CASES LEPROSY

According to Clyde C. Coulter, secretary of the American mission to lepers, Iverville, La., one out of 800 persons in the world is a leper. There are more than 3,000,000 known cases of leprosy in the world.

Leprosy is described by medical science as the most incurable disease, and certainly the most loathsome one. Shunned, outcasts, lepers wander about the world for years, begging a miserable existence. They have been known to walk for months at a time in search of a leper colony. There in company with others of their unfortunate lot they wait patiently for death.

OBSERVATIONS

AS A MATTER OF COURSE

IF YOU watch closely, when you see a charming young lady on the boardwalk, who has a well shaped—'er limb, you will notice that she perambulates along with a decided degree of nonchalance, or something, meanwhile brushing back her wavering locks (if she has them), that perchance are flying in the breeze, and will even take a peep in her vanity bag mirror, utterly oblivious and unconcerned of the constant stare of the male brigade that may be in transit. Those dear things know their onions, and they don't care who knows it.

TELL THE FACTS AS YOU KNOW THEM

"YOUR Baby and Mine" is the headline used by an authority on how to keep children well. Now, that opens up a wide range of discussion. Does it mean the cradle variety, or those whom the swankies believe are conquests when they get that tell-tale wink during the flirtation?

WHY, THE IDEA, LINDY, YOU'RE LATE!

WHILE Colonel Lindbergh was flying around down there near Colombia, when negotiating a hazardous trip of 650 miles to the next town, he used up eleven hours, when he should have made it in six. When he did land, after being lost in a heavy fog, he apologized to the president down there for keeping him waiting.

RATS IN THE BELFRY OF LONG AGO

THAT idea of going back three generations to dig up evidence to prove a murderer is insane, after he confesses to a brutal murder, causes people to wonder what is coming next.

A LILY AMONG THE THISTLES

A STATE highway superintendent has been complimented by a taxpayer for the splendid work he performed in building a paved highway. It is said the official called for the smelling salts when he read the taxpayer's letter—but is now enjoying his aforetime good health.

STRAW THAT BROKE THE CAMEL'S BACK

A WIFE who is suing her husband for divorce, after setting up a lot of allegations, said she didn't care so much for hubby's indiscretions; but when he killed and roasted her favorite drake duck and served it for a Thanksgiving dinner for his new co-respondent, the wife just couldn't stand it any longer and went to law about it.

FIRECRACKERLESS FOURTH FOR THEM

DURING the recent uplift movement, several men of the hip-pocket brigade who did not have a bank balance are taking a six months' course on social etiquette a la Volstead at the county caravansary. The term uplift used here is meant literally, for every time one of the scouts lifted up a pint from his hip, he drew a count of one—some got three counts. According to the 1928 calendar, these men will be deprived from engaging in the nation's usual natal day celebration.

THIS IS THE LOW DOWN, BOYS

A PAIR of vaudeville stars, who were not so bad, when talking to each other, asked about that celebrated mixup over in the Windy City. In speaking of one of the men, the lady emphasized the first syllable of his name that sounded like "Too-ney." That opened a lead. The other asked, "How many men were in the ring that night?" "Two," came the answer—"the other didn't count," the lady said. Looks like an early spring, don't you think?

THE PEN IS MIGHTIER THAN THE SWORD

SOME time ago, a young man by chance met a charming young lady from an adjoining town, and mutual admirations were extended each other. It was a sort of love at first sight. Then, one day the girl's father died. The sad news was sent the young man. He was a hail-fellow-well-met kind of chap, and in his day had had affairs of the heart and, of course, had numerous notes to answer, and being up-to-date, wanted his love missives to be of the endearing variety. He bought from an agent one of those books of stereotyped forms of letters. They were for handy reference. Among them was one of those sympathetic letters of condolence. It was just what he wanted. So he took his pen in hand and, copying the message, which was couched in terms of endearment, he extended his heartfelt sympathy to the family in the hour of their bereavement. The narrative was duly received. It was an epic. The letter was shown to the mother by the girl who received it. The mother was impressed by the seriousness expressed, and she confided to the daughter that if a man was such a dear friend of the family, she would desire to have him for her son-in-law. And then things happened rapidly, and the daughter lost no time in her endeavors to land him. But the fates had decreed otherwise. Later he married another estimable young lady and lived happily ever after.

PICKING A WINNER

LISTEN to this, told by a gentleman who owns an eighty-acre orange orchard south of this city: "I have traveled pretty much all over the United States, have hung onto the straps in the subways of New York; been up through the Northwest; have been in South America, through the Argentine, to Buenas Aires, Paraguay, Rio de Janeiro; have been in France, and after all my travels I have never seen or liked any place as I do this section, and here I am going to stay." This man said this voluntarily; was not given the third degree, and is a pretty good judge of a good thing when he sees it.

THE END OF THE TRAIL

THEY say when people come out of the East and land in Northern California they feel as though they have been benefitted by the change, climatically, and they there stay for two or three years; but when they again decide to make a change and come to Southern California, they experience another change for the better—and here is where they stay.

ALWAYS LOOKING UP

IN THIS busy world men are beset by adversities and are hard pressed, and upon others fortune smiles. There is a man here, who, just after the World war, lost a hundred thousand dollars through speculation and hard luck. But he determined to keep going and recoup his losses. By diligently applying his wits and indomitable will, he succeeded in gaining a foothold, and by long and ceaseless labor has succeeded in weathering the financial storm, and now is happy to state that he again is in comfortable circumstances and going strong. He says there are no such words as "can't" and "fail." He says all a man should do is to set his goal and then strive to reach it. There is an object lesson, mates!

Jardine Dedicates Experiment Station

United States Rabbitry at Fontana Ceremoniously Opened

At the dedication of the new United States rabbit experiment station at Fontana, Saturday, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine was represented by Paul G. Redington, chief of the Bureau of Biological Survey, who greeted California officials and the public and expressed appreciation of the co-operative spirit in which Californians had joined the department in making possible the establishment of the station.

Secretary Jardine's message, brought by Mr. Redington, commented on the public-spirited work by which California had supplemented the federal appropriation in setting aside "a large and beautiful tract of land on which have been erected commodious station buildings for research work." Secretary Jardine promises that the objective of the department will be "to develop reliable information concerning the best methods of breeding, feeding, and housing rabbits, including studies of their diseases." He predicted the work would be of great value to an industry that is assuming large proportions, particularly in California.

Mr. Redington, speaking for himself, recalled two six-year periods when he worked in California, most recently in forestry service, and testified that Californians were always willing to meet the government "on any common-sense proposition that would advance the interests of those mutually concerned." Establishment of the station on a $15,000 appropriation was one of the first tasks that confronted him when he became chief of the biological survey last year, he said. Without such co-operation as Californians furnished, the task would have been impossible, and he estimated the value of the co-operation at from $35,000 to $40,000. On behalf of the department the speaker expressed deep appreciation.

At the Fontana station the construction has been completed and a large stock of rabbits is on hand for experimental work projected by the biological survey. The station is situated in an orange grove not far from the Fontana town site. The buildings include one for housing the executive offices, a laboratory, a residence for the superintendent, a garage, a feed barn, a storage structure, and several houses containing rabbit hutches.

The program today included the dedication ceremonies and a tour of inspection, followed by a dinner and ball at Fontana Inn. Rabbit meat was featured on the menu, and the ball included a style revue in which models displayed the latest creations in rabbit fur.

D. Monroe Green, formerly of the Washington office of the biological survey, is director of the new station.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

Q.—What is the proportion of land to water on the earth?

A.—The earth's surface is 72 per cent water and 28 per cent land. In terms of area, the earth is about 179,000,000 square miles and has 142,000,000 square miles of water and 55,000,000 square miles of land. The Pacific ocean is the largest body of water and contains more than half the water area of the earth.

Q.—What is the normal number of teeth in a human being?

A.—A full set of teeth consists of 12 enamelled chisel teeth, 8 sharp tools with two points each, and 12 solid molars for grinding.

Q.—What led to the first opium war between China and Great Britain?

A.—The British had introduced opium into China early in the nineteenth century. They exerted themselves to stimulate trade in the drug in China because it gave them an outlet for one of the principal products of India. In 1821 Emperor Tao Kwang, finding that the opium habit was becoming alarmingly prevalent among his people, sought to suppress the trade, and this action led to the first opium war between China and Great Britain in 1840-1842.

Q.—Should the cage of a parrot be covered at night to prevent drafts?

A.—Yes. If the parrots are kept in cages in living rooms the cages should be warmly covered at night and the rooms should not be allowed to become very cool. Do not throw the windows open to chilly morning air; let changes in temperature be small and gradual and exclude all drafts.

Q.—If the light of the sun was suddenly extinguished, how long would it be before the earth became dark?

A.—It takes approximately eight minutes for light from the sun to reach the earth; consequently if the sun's radiance was suddenly extinguished, the light would fail on the earth eight minutes later.

Q.—How do cats make the purring sound?

A.—It is made by throwing the vocal cords into vibration, measured and regulated by the respiration. This vibration is strong enough to make the whole larynx tremble so that it may be felt or seen from the outside.

Q.—How much sleep should a young girl have to keep in good physical condition?

A.—From 8½ to 9½ hours nightly is a good average.

Q.—Is the process of hardening copper a lost art?

A.—It is still known, but has fallen into disuse for two reasons. Hardened copper is not as efficient as good steel, and it is too costly to take the place of the cheaper metal, which can be made to do equally good work. Many of the so-called "lost arts" are processes that have been abandoned when superseded by something better.

Q.—What is the meaning of the name Otto?

A.—It is Teutonic and means "mountain."

Q.—What dogs are classed as toy dogs?

A.—Those that weigh under 12 pounds. Among them are Pekinese, Japanese spaniel, English top spaniel, Pomeranian, toy poodle, Chihuahua, Mexican hairless and pug.

Q.—How many states have laws prohibiting the teaching of evolution in the schools?

A.—The only states that actually have laws prohibiting evolution being taught are Mississippi and Tennessee. A resolution was adopted by the Florida legislature which, while not having the force of a law, tends to prohibit the teaching of evolution in that state. In Louisiana it is forbidden by order of the state superintendent of schools. Evolution bills were proposed in 1927 in West Virginia, Missouri, Oregon, Washington, Arkansas, North Carolina, Virginia, Kansas and Maine, but did not pass.

Q.—What is the circumference of the earth at the equator?

A.—Approximately 25,000 miles.

Q.—What voltage is used to kill persons in the electric chair?

A.—An alternating current of about 1600 volts is used. Direct contact usually lasts about a minute, and from 7 to 10 amperes enter the body.

Green Feed Essential For the Dairy Cow

By W. M. CORY
Assistant Farm Advisor

Some time during the year and preferably in the spring or early summer, since it is most easily obtained at that time, green feed should be provided dairy stock. The term dairy stock is used since it applies equally as well to young heifers, dry cows, milking cows and bulls. Succulent green feeds are high in vitamins that may be absent in the remainder of the ration or in deficient quantities for continued maintenance of the health of the herd.

Here where many oft he dairies are not located on sufficient area to permit the growing of any green feed, arrangements should be made to purchase enough for one good feed a day for a couple of months at least and longer if the cost is not too great. It makes little difference as to the kind of green feed, either barley, oats or alfalfa cut green and fed freshly cut or with but little wilting.

Feeding green feed makes quite an added chore in addition to being expensive to handle and for that reason is often neglected. However, the dairyman who is not expecting a heavy replacement would do well not to overlook this feature of management.

Root crops or silage will not take the place of green feed.

Often times the question is asked as to the basis of price for green feed. Ordinarily, four tons of green feed will make one ton of cured hay. The price then for green feed should be one-fourth that of hay laid down at the dairy.

Information Bureaus For Touring Autoists

A meeting of Governor Young's council resulted Monday in orders from A. R. Heron, director of finance, to Frank G. Snook, chief of the division of motor vehicles for the establishment of information bureaus at all of California's eleven interstate highway connections for the convenience of out-of-state tourists.

Snook announced that plans would be made immediately for the bureaus and that the most competent men in the division would be placed in charge of them. They will be equipped to furnish tourists with all necessary information concerning non-resident permits, as well as other things necessary for motorists to know.

The stations will also afford the division a check of stolen cars which drivers are attempting to bring in or take out of the state.

"Frequently," said Snook, "out-of-state tourists are subjected to long delays in registration matters simply because they do not understand our regulations. The stations will provide us the opportunity to instruct them so that they will leave California with a good impression.

"Governor Young and Mr. Heron both realize the importance of tourist travel in California and are extremely anxious that every courtesy be extended to them."

Snook added that California's non-resident regulations are the most liberal of any state in the Union, since any out-of-state motorist may remain here six months before he is compelled to pay the California license fee.

Districting Tangle Up to High Court

The California supreme court will be called upon to untangle the twisted threads of legislative reapportionment.

The high tribunal will be asked by attorneys for the California Farm Bureau to issue a writ of mandate upon Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan, ordering him not to place the reapportionment referendum measure upon the general election ballot next November.

Signatures on the referendum petitions were fraudulently obtained, and many of them are spurious, it is charged in arguments submitted by Senator J. M. Inman of Sacramento, representing Senator Frank S. Boggs of Stockton, who is seeking the writ of mandate from the supreme court.

Simultaneously, another suit now pending in the Sacramento county superior court will be withdrawn, Inman announced. This suit sought to restrain Jordan from placing the referendum measure upon the general election ballot.

Newport Beach Must Fix Date for Election

Superior Judge Ames issued an order Monday, directing the city trustees of Newport Beach to fix a date for an election in obedience to the recall movement directed against two city councilmen.

Councilmen Felix Modjeska and Harry Williamson are named, in a petition for a permanent writ, as the men who it is sought to oust from office.

The case was filed by James G. Douglas, of Newport Beach, through Roland Thompson, Santa Ana attorney.

Fame is certainly very fleeting. For instance, you hardly ever hear Ma Ferguson mentioned any more.

Telephone Company Richest Corporation

Passes Four Billion Mark in Capital Invested

The United States, richest of all nations, has produced its first four billion dollar corporation.

The annual report of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, made public recently, places that corporation at the head of all other industrial concerns in this country.

Second to the American Telephone and Telegraph Company is the United States Steel Corporation with assets of nearly $2,500,000,000.

Next in order, all in the billion dollar class, come Southern Pacific railroad, Pennsylvania lines, New York Central railroad, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Union Pacific railroad, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, General Motors, and Ford Motor Company.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company established its lead through a combination of its individual worth and that of the Bell Telephone system, of which it owns 93 per cent. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company assets, as of December 31, 1927, are listed at $1,949,690,057, and assets of the Bell system at $3,457,467,311.

Other respects in which the American Telephone and Telegraph Company is first include:

Employes—At the end of 1927 the company had on its payroll 308,911 persons, enough to populate a city the size of Columbus, Ohio.

Stockholders—423,580, more than half of whom owned one to ten shares each.

The Ford company has only three stockholders, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford and their son, Edsel. Amount of stock, 10,932,420 shares. Earnings, $128,614,000 in 1926 ($11.76 a share).

Dividends $9 a share since 1921 and never less than $7.50 a share in the last 46 years. In 1927 dividends totaled $97,379,000.

Behind this vast achievement lies much of the romance of America's industrial growth, the conquering of mountain and plain by the men who went to string up the first of the telephone and telegraph lines of its subsidiary, the Bell system. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company owns 56,822,895 miles of wire, the equal in length of 236 lines from here to the moon.

Although the company's chief source of revenue is from telephones, it also makes millions of dollars annually by leasing wires to press associations newspapers and brokers. The wires on which this dispatch was delivered to newspapers throughout the country are leased from the American Telephone and Telegraph Company by the United Press.

Local Herds Win National Recognition

By W. M. CORY
Assistant Farm Advisor

Three Orange county dairies received certificates of merit from the National Dairy Science Association. These awards are made on the basis of butterfat production in the cowtesting association, and herds averaging 300 pounds of butterfat or more per cow for the year are eligible. The herds winning the awards are those owned by C. J. Segerstrom & Sons, Greenville; H. L. Wakeham, Santa Ana, and E. A. Wakeham, Anaheim. The awards were for the cowtesting year of 1925-1926.

Ten herds will be eligible for these awards in the year of 1926-1927. The certificates are awarded at the International Livestock Show, at Chicago, to those who can attend, and for that reason the local awarding is considerably delayed.

Some fellows are bound to make their mark in the world if they have to write it on the courthouse walls with a lead pencil.

Motor Tourists Will Break All Records

One-Third Population Expected To Take the Road

Motoring this year will bring out 44,000,000 tourists who will spend a total of $3,630,000,000 in the United States and Canada.

This surprising tourist business is the prediction made by Frank E. Brimmer, camping authority, in the February issue of the American Motorist.

Out of this vast total, Brimmer estimates, hotels and tourists' homes will reap approximately $2,420,000,000, the remainder being left by campers.

Due to the improved conditions for motoring and sight-seeing, Brimmer believes campers will spend about a month each on sight-seeing excursions. This prolonged vacation will bring into the coffers of cities and businesses an average of $3.30 a day for each individual—or a total of $1,210,000,000 for the touring season.

Hotel vacationists—motorists only—will average about ten days for their stays, however, and will spend an average of $7.50 a day for each person.

These totals are estimated on the basis of a 10 per cent increase over last year's figures. He puts the hotel tourist total for 1927 at 29,000,000, coming in 7,250,000 automobiles, an increase of 12 per cent over the previous season.

Campers in both tents and cottages numbered 11,000,000 last year and took to the road in 2,750,000 automobiles, an increase of 10 per cent over 1926, says Brimmer. Of these, only three-fourths tented along the trails, or used house cars and camping trailers. The rest carried almost no camping outfits at all, but put up at cottages.

Of the 11,000,000 campers, it has been figured, 2,000,000 each were attracted to the national parks of the West, the Great Lakes regions and the Southwest. The Northwest took about 50,000 campers; the Mississippi valley and Gulf Coast, 250,000; the Southeast, 500,000; the Atlantic and inland almost to the Mississippi, 1,000,000; New York, Pennsylvania, New England and eastern Canada, 1,250,000; the vicinity of Washington, D. C., and the remainder of the Atlantic coast, 500,000, and the remaining 750,000 took shorter trips within their own states.

The hotel tourist distribution, it is believed, followed the same proportions, although some states, like North Carolina, are particularly hotel tourist districts, where a greater ratio of such visitors would stay.

While the East leans more to the hotel type of tourist, however, the Far West is more of a camper's paradise.

Deaf Man Injured When Hit by Auto

Because he has only one pair of eyes, and no hearing, Judson J. Allen, Santa Ana canyon resident, was in an Anaheim hospital Monday, recovering from a broken leg, fractured rib, and bad shaking up suffered when he was hit by a car driven by J. R. Sheets of Los Angeles.

Allen was crossing the highway on his way home, his attention held by a car approaching him on the left. Sheets, speeding along from the other direction, saw Allen and tooted his horn vigorously, but Allen, being deaf, didn't hear him, and too late looked toward the Sheets machine. The car struck him while traveling at a moderate rate of speed but, fortunately, passed over no vital spot.

Sheets took the injured man to the hospital.

All Feature Exhibits At Show in Booklet

Reproduction of Every Feature Will Be Pictured

Full page reproductions of every feature exhibit in this year's California Valencia Orange Show will be a feature of this year's official show booklet, according to George W. Reid, secretary of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce and manager of the exhibition.

Pictures of the exhibit will be taken just before the opening of the show and the program, which will be a 100-page affair, will be published and ready for distribution on the second day of the show, Reid said.

Contract for publication of the book has been let to J. F. McCarthy, of San Bernardino, publisher of the program for the National Orange Show, plans being outlined for one of the most attractive programs ever prepared for such an event, it is announced.

6000 Cars of Autos Shipped Monthly

Figures for the calendar year 1927 have just been compiled by the Buick Motor Company, and show what an important part that company plays in the freight traffic of the railroads serving Flint.

For the year 1927, the company received 35,540 carloads of freight, and also 63,000,000 pounds of less carload business. They forwarded in the same year 77,605 carloads and more than 32,000,000 pounds of less carload traffic. This makes a total of carloads in and out of 112,606.

George F. Howard, northern Orange County Buick dealer, said that at the present time the factory is scheduled to make 18,000 carloads of automobiles a month, equal to 6000 carloads outbound or about 250 carloads of automobiles a day. In addition to this, there are about forty carloads of parts, scrap, motors, etc., so that nearly 300 carloads of freight leave the factory every working day.

In times past a train load of Buicks created considerable attention and comment, but now five regular trains leave every night with full loads, and the performance is so regular that but little is known about it, or is the volume realized.

Through freights, trains carrying nothing but Buick cars, leave Flint every night for Chicago, Milwaukee, Buffalo, Toledo and Detroit.

With the present high production maintained into the spring, there is every indication of this heavy freight traffic being continued.

Legion Shies at Non-Partisan Club

County Council Refuses Its Endorsement of New Body

The so-called "Veterans' Non-Partisan Club," now in process of organization, will not have the endorsement of the American Legion, it was indicated at a meeting of the Legion county council at Laguna Beach, when a resolution discouraging the proposed formation of a political club among ex-service men was adopted by delegates from every post in the county.

It was pointed out that the constitution of the American Legion forbids the entrance of any local post or other organized body of Legion men into partisan politics, confining their political activities to encouraging registration and to getting out the vote.

The following resolution was passed stating the policy of the county council:

"Whereas, The Orange County Council of the American Legion is a non-political organization composed of veterans of the World war and absolutely opposed to political action; and

"Whereas, there is being in the course of formation an organization of veterans under the name of Veterans' Non-Partisan Club;

"Therefore, be it resolved, that the Orange County Council of the American Legion does not endorse said Veterans' Non-Political Club, and we recommend to the various posts of the county that they do not;

"Be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to each post of the county and a copy to the press."

Plans for the construction of a 50-unit home for orphans of ex-service men, to be built at Garden Grove, were approved, and it was announced that approval of the state organization also was assured for the project, which is to get under way shortly.

Tentative plans for the next Armistice Day celebration, to be held at Orange, November 11, were discussed.

A boatload of Sunkist Oranges leaves for Europe

FIFTY thousand boxes of California citrus fruits were a big year's export volume to Europe even so recently as five years ago.

Last year the California Fruit Growers Exchange alone sold 500,000 boxes of oranges, lemons and grapefruit through its London office.

• • • • •

The development of foreign outlets will play an increasingly important part in future Exchange operations. The United Kingdom and many countries of Continental Europe, markets across the Pacific and South America, by absorbing thousands of carloads of Sunkist Oranges and Lemons, will remove that fruit from the channels of domestic distribution. Thus the chances of over-supply in America will be minimized and satisfactory market prices more easily maintained.

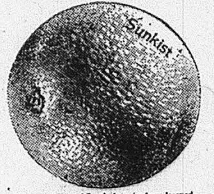
The growth in volume of Sunkist foreign sales is not a matter of good luck. It is the reward of constant sales work carried on in a systematic, organized way by the California Fruit Growers Exchange.

• • • • •

Nor is the promotion of foreign shipments the only feature of the Exchange sales expansion program.

The Sunkist electrical fruit juice extractor, manufactured and distributed by the Exchange, provided a new market for 2¼ million boxes of citrus fruits last year.

The lemon and orange by-products plants, created by the Exchange for Exchange members, are successfully converting unmerchantable fruit into salable merchandise.



Europe, Asia and South America have learned to ask for oranges stamped "Sunkist"

Retail movement of California oranges and lemons has been greatly stimulated by the work of Exchange dealer service crews. Last year these crews personally visited and helped 65,000 fruit merchants.

Through the advertising and other educational work of the Exchange, the annual consumption of oranges in America has been increased from approximately 3 dozen per person, in 1917, to approximately 5 dozen per person in 1927.

• • • • •

All these services, and many others, the Exchange is performing for its members. They represent extra benefits not obtained through other selling agencies.

If every citrus grower in California sold his fruit through the Exchange, even more could be accomplished. The problem of distribution would be vastly simplified by centralized marketing. Selling costs would be reduced further through the economies of greater volume.

• • • • •

Join the Exchange—become part of it with the 11,000 other grower members who desire to see the California citrus crop efficiently marketed through one central growers' organization.

The Exchange is operated by the growers themselves on a non-profit basis. All of its services (including advertising) cost grower members less per box than the sales expense alone of any other marketing organization.

WHAT THE EXCHANGE IS...

The California Fruit Growers Exchange is a non-profit organization of 11,000 California citrus fruit growers, producing about 75% of the California citrus crop, operated by and for them on a cooperative basis. Its object is to develop the national and international market for California oranges, lemons and grapefruit and to provide a central marketing organization that will sell the fruit of its members most advantageously and at least expense. Receipts from sales, less only actual costs of operation, are returned to growers. Applications are received through all of the Exchange's 201 local packing associations. 21 District Exchanges or at the central office in Los Angeles.
