A fatal accident occurred at Madera station on Sunday afternoon, the victim being Mrs. Schumacher of Los Angeles, who is a daughter of Mrs. Jander of this place. The unfortunate lady accompanied by her daughter (Mrs. Preuss) and niece were returning from a visit to relatives in Illinois. The particulars of the accident we take from The Herald: "When the train reached Madera some time was spent in shifting and changing the cars. Mrs. Preuss, who was unwell, and Miss Stoutz had gone into an adjoining car, where there was a better circulation of air. Mrs. Schumacher keeping Mrs. Preuss' young child. After a time Mrs. Schumacher took the child, which was restless and went to the platform to pacify it. As she stood there the locomotive hatched on to the train, giving the car a sudden jar which threw both the lady and child head foremost in to the track. Mrs. Schumacher's head and shoulders remaining between the rails the rest of her body falling outside and across one of the rails. While in this position, the wheels of one car passed over her abdomen, causing death, it is thought, instantly. The child providentially fell between the rails, and with the exception of a few bruises on the side of the head, supposed to have been caused by the lower part of the brake striking it, escaped unhurt. Two gentlemen, who were standing on the platform at the time of the accident tried to catch the unfortunate lady as she fell, but the jar was so sudden they were unable to do so."

The Chinese vegetable peddlers and laundrymen in Los Angeles pay licenses which amount in the aggregate to between four and five hundred dollars per month. But they are in revolt and refuse to pay further license, on the ground that they are producers and therefore cannot be made to pay license, and further that the last Legislature enacted a law declaring that aliens ineligible to become citizens cannot take out a license. The matter will be taken into the courts.

Official returns give the population of the city of Los Angeles at 11,183 including 604 Chinese. Population of the county 33,392, including 11,555 Chinese. The increase in population in the city over that of 1870 is 48.97% hundredths per cent, and in the county 54.15 hundredths per cent, making a percentage of 51.7% hundredths in favor of the county.

Quite a large number of young folks gathered at the residence of Mrs. W. A. The lateness of the hour at which they dispersed proved the enjoyment of the evening.

GETTING READY FOR CONFERENCE

South American Delegates to Pan-American Trade Meet Now En Route

Many delegates to the Pan-American Reciprocal Trade Conference at Sacramento are now on the high seas bound for the sessions to be held August 25 to 30 inclusive.

Because of the time required to make the trip from South America it has been necessary for some of those from the extreme Southern countries to make an early start to be in Los Angeles by August for the start of the state tour preceding the Conference.

Those from Argentina and neighboring countries will arrive by way of New York. In that metropolis they will be greeted by Mayor "Jimmy" Walker and entertained by the New York Chamber of Commerce and other organizations.

Those from Mexico and countries on the northwestern coast of South America will arrive via special train which will be made up in Mexico City with Los Angeles its destination.

Los Angeles preparations have been completed for receiving and registering the delegates preparatory to the state tour which will take them through the rich industrial and agricultural centers of the southern section of the state.

OBSERVATIONS

VIEWED WITH ALARM

If they ever get that booze question settled, some of the bootleggers would no doubt take on a new set of worries because there would be nothing else to talk about, excepting the Nicaragua situation.

CAN THE CHATTER

If they would quit talking about that animated amendment and take their hands off of those million dollars appropriations, no doubt we all could then go to sleep.

IT'S AN OLD SCOTCH CUSTOM

When they gave a banquet some years ago, a fella got up and went out to wash his hands just as the man came down the aisle to take up the collection.

NOW, WILL YOU BE GOOD!

When they called that peace conference they should have agreed to let each fellow build the same kind of ships, so that each one would not be afraid of the other. Then if one of them wanted to fight they all should jump and make him look like thirty cents, or the breaking up of a hard winter.

THEY HAVE BEEN TO THE CLEANERS

There were a lot of folks who thought they understood the stock game, and now it is understood they have gone to work.

ALL DEPENDS IF THE OLD MAN HAS A JOB

A headline in the paper asks this very important question: "Is a woman too old to work if she is 34 years of age?"

AND SOMETIMES THEY FAIL TO CLICK

Columnists may come and Columnists may go, but the weather reports go on forever.

WHERE THERE'S LIFE THERE'S HOPE

If they went let any of the boys fight that Beeg Fella from Spagetti he could go into the piano moving business.

HELLO, FRITZ, BACK ON THE OLD JOB, AGAIN, EH?

If they repeat or modify in all likelihood the old bartenders would stage a comeback.

STILL WATER RUNS DEEP

When Lindberg flew over to Paris he carried a letter of introduction. See what he got! When Coolidge came to Southern California he wired the postmaster to meet him at the depot. And see what he got!

WINDJAMMING

After reading all that stuff about the animated amendment a fella sort of gets a notion that this country is dry, or sumpin'.

WHOL' SOW ON THE BUTTONS?

Up state a judge ordered a husband to pay the wife alimony; and allowed him to stay in the house as a renter—but not as a husband!

END OF THE RAINBOW

There awhile back promoters below the border gave a $25,000 check to the winner in a golf contest. When asked if the check could be cashed, the headman said "surely" and there was the jack in a wheelbarrow.

HE STARTED SOMETHING

It's a good thing the ex-president didn't ask all the postmasters in Southern California to meet him at the depot.

AND, OH YES, SIDE ORDER OF PORK SAUSAGE

When the ex-president arrived a delegation of bellhops brought fruit and flowers. Of course it is to be presumed they also brought the milk and honey—for the hot cakes.

THE LOST CHORDS

After that rollicking show, "The Gold Diggers" came to town, all the kids have been trying to whistle "Just painting the clouds with sunshine."

HAD 'EM ON THEIR TOES

By unanimous vote of the drugstore whoop association the consensus of opinion prevails that the young lady, who took the leading part in a movie show, that had to do with a hot town over there, was a real warm baby. You said it.

LET POLLY TAKE A CRACK AT IT

If that new parrot disease gets a neck hold on the populace somebody better rise up and tell the folks how to pronounce the name.

DID NOT CHOOSE TO TALK

When the ex-president was in our midst he is said to have visited the moving picture studios, but up to the hour of going to press it has not been learned that he put his name on a dotted line.

KEEPING THE WOLF FROM THE DOOR

It is said the large number of life insurance policies denotes prosperity. And no doubt the large number of cars has something to do with it. It also appears that the florist business has gone ahead by leaps and bounds, not to say anything about the prosperous undertaking business.

OLD SCOTCH CUSTOM

In certain circles it is said when friends call on each other they write their names on each other's doors. It appears a husband found his wife's name on the door of another man. When he sued for divorce it is said he had a photograph of the door and the wife's name on it and that went in as exhibit A. By writing the names on the doors it saves cards and registers, pen and ink, and whatnots, thereby cutting down the high cost of living. Of course when wimmin call they ought to take along a friend for an alibi, to forestall any embarrassing situations.

LITTLE BOY BLUE COME BLOW YOUR HORN

Speaking about the power what a lotta people would like to know is when are they going to get the water.

INS AND OUTS

Now that they have a Jones law there ought to be a Smith law, so friends could lend a helping hand, and yet again there ought to be a Brown law for those who have a hang over and a bad taste in their mouths.

TALK WATER

If they keep chattering about that booze question for another ten years, in all probability the bootleggers may make a better brand in order to stop the fireworks.

INVITE HOOVER TO OPEN FAIR

L. A. County Display to be "Census Celebration" as Fitting Recognition

Designated this year as the "Census Celebration" the ninth annual Los Angeles County Fair opening in Pomona on Friday, September 12 and continuing through Sunday, September 21, will take the form of a mighty harvest festival and pageant of industrial achievement in recognition of the great gains shown by the empire of the west in the past ten years. Fair officials and civic leaders call attention to the fact that no more fitting recognition could be desired than one in which the unbounded resources, the agricultural, horticultural and commercial achievements and the development of its cities, towns and communities are so vividly set forth as is the case with the big southland exposition.

In honor of the event President Herbert Hoover has been invited to officially open the celebration. To Congressmen W. E. Evans has been entrusted the presentation of the invitation. The fact that the president has planned to be on the coast and visit the state fair at Sacramento just preceding Los Angeles County Fair is taken as a strong indication that he will visit Pomona.

President C. P. Curran and a special committee composed of representative citizens of the county are arranging daily programs which will be distinctive and embody special recognition of notable persons and events. Arrangements are being made through the state by civic, fraternal, social, agricultural, livestock, poultry and pet stock organizations to hold state or district meetings on the fair grounds.

One Way To Help

Here is a suggestion from Calvin Coolidge as to how the individual citizen can do his bit to conquer depression and keep property on an even keel: create a new market for your products.

"If those who are working and have the means would pay all their retail merchandise bills and in addition purchase what they need and can afford, a healthy commerce would quickly be created. The merchant industry of resources to support all its people comfortably through a mutual exchange of products if everyone would do his part."

Those who have employment now run the risk of losing it by refraining from buying and spending their money. No one who has money now can afford to defer settling his accounts.

This is sound advice. But it requires personal application to be of any use.

Joplin Announces Candidacy

J. C. Joplin, dean of the county's official family, today resumed the familiar task that he has been performing successfully for the last 30 years—campaigning for the office of county treasurer.

The veteran of eight political campaigns—now in his ninth—never has been rejected by the voters of Orange county, although strong candidates have sought to unseat him in more than one election, and in one—the second—managed to do so in a court contest, where the usual Joplin majority was set aside on a technicality.

First elected to the office in 1898, he served until 1902, in which campaign the court contest defeated him, although he gained a substantial majority of the vote. At the next election, in 1906, he regained the office and has held it continuously since that time, winning the elections of that year, 1910, 1914, 1918, and 1922.

A pioneer settler and mountain ranchman of the county, as well as its senior officer, Joplin is regarded as probably the most colorful figure in its public life, so far as career is concerned.

His residence here since January 1, 1925—period of 44 years—now dates the origin of the county itself. Earliest records of the county find his name as a settler with its development and audit him with distinguished service even before he became a public official.

When he first became county treasurer, Joplin was the entire staff of that office, waiting on business calls, keeping all the books—in long hand and drawing a salary of $125 per month. Then, his office balances represented thousands of dollars. Today they are mentioned in terms of millions.

Today, as Joplin starts his ninth campaign, his friends explain his strong hold on the electorate by pointing to his record of demonstrated reliability as "watchdog of the treasury," and the public confidence has earned; together with respect for his personal character, known here for half a century.

Kulla Is Manager of Karl's Store

J. B. Kulla, who took over the managerial reins of the local Karl's Shoe Store, at 105 West Center street, Wednesday afternoon, ranks Anaheim as one of the best business centers and residential cities in Southern California.

"We have stores that are doing a bigger business, but they are in much larger communities. From my observation of but a few days Anaheim appears to be an exceptionally busy city. My first impressions are very favorable, both for the city and for the friendliness of the local people."

"I am glad to assigned here and intend to move here within a few weeks." Mr. Kulla for more than a year has been in the Huntington Park store of the Karl chain. He succeeds James Stacy who was manager here for several months.

Dr. Closson Opens Cat, Dog Hospital

Dr. G. W. Closson, who resided here for 14 years before selling out an established business and moving to Hollywood, where he has been for the past eight years, this week opened a cat and dog hospital at 913 North Los Angeles street.

While Dr. Closson's Cat and Dog Hospital will specialize on treatment of small animals, it also will be prepared to care for the larger animals. The building for the hospital has been completely remodeled, with treatment rooms, surgery rooms, individual runways, pens and quarantine department installed. Dr. Closson announced that he will give X-ray and microscopic study of cases needing it.

"Ever since leaving Anaheim eight years ago, I've wanted to return," Dr. Closson said. "I was in the veterinary business here, and still count many friends among the residents of this community."

The American capitalists who are equipping manufacturing plants and mechanized farms in Soviet Russia are not a new type of business man. There were the border traders who sold guns and whiskey to the Indians.

RILEY CAMPAIGN OPENS IN SOUTH

Supreme Court Ex-Chief Justice Louis W. Myers is at the Head

That Ray L. Riley, present State Controller and candidate for re-election will have the endorsement and support of civic leaders throughout the State is evidenced in the announcement that Ex-Chief Justice Louis W. Myers of the Supreme Court of California has accepted the Chairmanship of Mr. Riley's campaign for Southern California.

"More than ever," stated Ex-Chief Justice Myers, "it is necessary to have in the office of Controller a man whose past record is flawless and whose experience, ability and integrity are unquestioned. Such a man is Ray L. Riley, who, during the past nine years has to my own knowledge clearly demonstrated his qualifications for the office which he now holds, and, in accepting the Chairmanship of Mr. Riley's campaign, I feel that I am doing no more than my duty as a citizen to protect and maintain the interests of the citizens of the State."

Offices have been opened at Suite 101 Associated Realty Building in Los Angeles.

Argentina Aides Will Study Fair

California's state fair will receive the undivided attention of 22 delegates from leading agricultural institutions of Argentina, following the Pan American Reciprocal Trade Conference to be held August 25 to 29 at Sacramento, according to announcement received in Anaheim this week from Simon J. Lohlin, chairman of the directing board of the conference.

A cable from Mario Estrada, stated that the 22 delegates were leaving on the Western Prince. Newspapers of Argentina have given liberal space to the reciprocal trade conference, Chairman Lohlin stated. A marked copy of Nuestra Tierra, one of the major farm magazines of Argentina, was sent to persons interested in the conference, showing what is being done in the South American republic toward agricultural development.

The speech of Dictator Joseph Stalin before the recent Communist Congress at Moscow filled thirty-seven pages of fine print. If the Russian peasants could eat words fewer of them would starve to death.

If the Senate and the stock market could both be induced to adjourn the country might be able to stagger to its feet again.

Some of our professional liberals who like to promote European warfare under the guise of internationalism have for years been trying to promote misunderstanding between Uncle Sam and his neighbors to the south. They have done this by questioning our motives in dealing with Latin-American countries. They have called us imperialists and have charged that we have sought to dominate the countries of Latin-America, economically and politically. This in spite of the fact that we have not sought to increase our territorial possessions in Central and South America.

FIVE COUPLES GIVEN DIVORCES

Marriage Ties Severed by Judge Allen in Superior Court Friday

A man and four women were awarded interlocutory decrees of divorce Friday afternoon in superior court after Judge James L. Allen had heard the stories of the plaintiffs in the five cases. Defendants in each instance failed to appear.

Desertion was the basis on which George M. Brown secured his decree from Elizabeth H. Brown. They had lived together almost four years before he wife deserted him in April, 1929, he said.

Christian Science Church

"Truth" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

One of the Scripture citations includes Paul's exhortations to the Romans: "I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, presents the following statements: "One's aim, a point beyond faith, should be to find the footstep of Truth, the way to health and holiness. We should strive to reach the Horeb height where God is revealed; and the cornerstone of all spiritual building is purity."

Sheriff Campaign Marked by Meeting Held in Newport Last Week

With backers throughout the county reporting a growing interest in the Ralph J. McFadden-for-Sheriff campaign James Taffee, chairman of the club, points to the outlook for McFadden as being encouraging.

At a meeting held in Huntington Beach last week W. T. Nowlin, an older timer in that district and a former member with McFadden on the harbor commission, placed emphasis upon the necessity of getting a man with ability qualified to hold a post as important as that of sheriff.

Brief talks were also made by Harry A. Lake of Garden Grove; W. P. Osborn, secretary Huntington Beach chamber of commerce; William A. Dolan, Anaheim; Joe W. Wagner, Pico; W. T. Flagg, Huntington Beach; William Schumacher, Buena Park; and W. T. Nowlin, Huntington Beach.

The week previous 25 citizens representing every section of the county met at the Anaheim Elks club and formed the McFadden for Sheriff club.

War Picture Comes To Fox Theatre

The audience at the Carthy Circle Theatre last night, comprised of many of filmland's notables, was groggy with an excess of emotion after the final curtain fell on the remarkable story of "All Quiet on the Western Front."

In those transactions the borrower is required to conserve his soil. If it is subsequently discovered that by failure to protect his fields with terraces the soil is washing away at a rate exceeding 6 inches in 35 years on a 35-year loan, the farmer is subject to foreclosure by the bank. Actually very few foreclosures are being made. If the farmer does not know how to construct a terrace, the bank's soil conservationist goes out and shows him.

This was the comment of Louise Parsons, dramatic critic of the Los Angeles Examiner, written following the showing of this picture, one of the film dramas which is coming to the Fox Theatre, Anaheim next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, July 28, 29, 30.

"All Quiet on the Western Front," one of the best of which are being shown in Orange County with hundreds of Orange County legionnaires and other ex-servicemen in the huge supporting cast, is described by American Mercury as unquestionably the best story on the war far published in America.

Lewis Ayres, a new comer to the screen, has the central role, and gives a sympathetic interpretation of a part of Paul which critics have acclaimed as one of the most outstanding characterizations of this decade.

Reviewers are predicting already that "All Quiet on the Western Front," coming to the screen upon the heels of the tremendous popular demand for Remarque's book, will be at the top of the list when the greatest film productions of 1930 are tabulated.

The memorable characterizations are offered in the film by John Wray, the cruel officer, Otto Wellmuth as the cat, William Bakewell as one of the German boys, as well as by Slim Sumnerfield, Russell Gossion, and Ben Alexander, Jr.

SALE OF FRUIT SUCCESSFUL

New Distributing Plant Disposed of 73,291 Boxes in Two Months

The new citrus distributing plant of the California Fruit Growers Exchange in Los Angeles has sold 73,291 boxes of loose citrus fruit at auction since its opening during the first two months of operation, according to Paul S. Armstrong, assistant general manager of the Exchange.

"Satisfaction in this centralized marketing plan for loose fruit has been shown by the trade by their steady buying at auction and by Exchange shippers by their hearty cooperation and support," stated Mr. Armstrong. "These sales facilities for loose fruit Exchange associations should prove extremely valuable in years of overproduction by giving proper control of Exchange loose fruit surplus in California markets. So far the demand is exceeding the supply at the plant."

"Auction methods have been and will continue to be used in moving this fruit. The auction is patterned after Eastern practices and has met with the general approval of Los Angeles dealers. One of the unexpected developments from the loose fruit distribution plant has been the heavier sale of packed fruit in the Los Angeles market."

The report shows that during May and June a total of 122,629 boxes of loose fruit have been sold by Exchange packing houses and the distributing plant. Of this total the packing houses have sold 49,333 and the plant 73,291. Total sales for May through Exchange packing houses and distributing plant were 47,335 boxes while in June sales reached 75,294 boxes. Of the total two months sales, 76,585 boxes of Oranges and 31,974 boxes of lemons were sold. Sale of grapefruit totaled 14,070 loose boxes.

The establishment of centralized control of Exchange loose fruit has apparently stabilized the Southern California loose fruit market to a great extent and promises to develop into an important factor especially in large crop years.

Beet Growers Seek Farm Board Aid

To improve farm conditions in the sugar beet industry, California sugar beet growers have been asked to send representatives to a national conference that will be held early in August at Greeley, Colorado, according to advice received by Alex Johnson, Secretary of the California Farm Bureau Federation, from the Mountain States Beet Growers Association.

Officials of the Federal Farm Board will attend the meeting in an advisory capacity and the formation of a national sugar beet association will be discussed.

The state Farm Bureau will subsequently conduct local meetings in all sugar beet producing sections of California for the information of beet growers, assisting them to take advantage of Farm Board plans.

Terracing Land

If a Texas farmer desires a loan from the Federal Land Bank at Houston it will help if his land is terraced to protect it from the damaging effects of erosion, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, which is cooperating with state experiment stations and other agencies in an intensive "erosion prevention" program.

In these transactions the borrower is required to conserve his soil. If it is subsequently discovered that by failure to protect his fields with terraces the soil is washing away at a rate exceeding 6 inches in 35 years on a 35-year loan, the farmer is subject to foreclosure by the bank. Actually very few foreclosures are being made. If the farmer does not know how to construct a terrace, the bank's soil conservationist goes out and shows him.

proposition to kick out of the country aliens who come here to stir up trouble and attempt the overthrow of constitutional government. But here is the question that we should like to have answered: How did all these red foreigners get into this country in the first place? Our immigration laws are strict enough to bar them if properly enforced. In fact, several persons of international reputation, although far less radical than the disciples of Moscow, have been denied entry on the ground of promulgating doctrines inimical to our national security. There must be a cog loom somewhere when 500—perhaps several thousand—of Moscow's evangelists are able to slip into the United States and establish propaganda headquarters.

SUBSTANCE OR SHADOW?

Owen D. Young is the country's most conspicuous spokesman for industrial and financial internationalism. In his Los Angeles speech Mr. Young declared that "we are too rich to be loved," and that either Americans must sink to the economic level of the rest of the world or must bring the rest of the world to our level. Since the economic level of the United States, as evidenced in our standard of living for the masses, is more than twice as high as that of the rest of the world, it will readily be understood that the international bankers have set for the American people another back breaking job in order not to break the heart of the world. Our eight per cent of the world's population is expected to pull the remaining ninety-two per cent to our level or sink to theirs. At the best this means that we must meet the rest of the world half way on the down-grade. While this may prove profitable to the international barterers and toll-takers, the American people will have to be shown how the scheme holds anything not to their disadvantage.

Mr. Young says: "Isolation in our politics, exclusion in our tariff, mean that we will retain as a just penalty to our own little mess the surpluses which we might otherwise market to the peoples of the world, and which, so long as they stay with us, destroy our own prosperity."

Mr. Young quite conveniently for his own argument overlooks the price the American people are asked to pay for supposititious markets abroad. He assumes that by failing to impose on commodities imported into this country a tariff equal to the difference in cost of production at home and abroad, particularly labor costs, and permitting larger quantities of cheap labor products to enter the United States, that we do not thereby increase rather than decrease the surplus of the United States. He overlooks the fact that when the employment of a million workers in the United States has been destroyed by reason of their inability to compete in our own market with foreign wage earners receiving from one half to one tenth the American pay, we have thereby destroyed an outlet for our surplus more certain and more profitable than the lower paid labor of foreign lands.

Suppose under the lowered tariffs Mr. Young would espouse, we were to admit two billion dollars worth more of foreign commodities? Does he think this displacement of the products of the American farm, mine and factory would destroy our consuming power in the United States? What guarantee would there be in this that we could sell any more of our products abroad? Is a home market in which one third of the world's commerce is done right here in the United States, worth more or less to the American producer as a certainty than the rest of the world as a partial possibility?

The way to get rid of our surplus is to put back to work the hundreds of thousands of idle workmen who might be employed in satisfying American needs. It is ridiculous to talk about over-production in the United States while we are, by using the very method of permitting excessive imports advocated by Mr. Young, destroying the buying power of our own population by preferring foreign to domestic goods.

U. S. CAVALRY IMPORTANT

There is an impression more or less general among civilians that the airplane and the armored tank have put the cavalry unit in the discard so far as modern warfare is concerned. This idea however is erroneous and according to Oliver McKee, Jr., writing in the current issue of the National Republic, the cavalry is not only still with us but has acquired motors and an air service of its own, although it has by no means dispensed with the horse and the historic old army mule. In an interesting article under the caption "The Cavalry Is Still With Us," Mr. McKee says, in part:

"Gen. Phil Sheridan would rub his eyes no doubt for a moment if assigned to a regular American cavalry division of today. For he would find many things to wonder at—machine guns, an airplane squadron, armored motors and other products of the mechanical and motor age. But he would not wonder long, once he got in the saddle. For the spirit of the troopers of today is the same as that of the troopers of the past. Mobility remains the sovereign virtue of the arm of the service which gave Black Jack Pershing his early training, and if the cavalryman recognizes the value of the inventions of the mechanical age, he uses them only as auxiliaries, enabling him to use the horse to better advantage."

"In the past year or so, American cavalry has been reorganized from top to bottom. The reorganization has been effected in order to enable this mounted service better to discharge its mission, whether in peace or in war. A reduction in overhead and an increase in fire power have been the principal objectives of the reorganization. The cavalry has kept well abreast of the developments in motorization, with the result that a cavalry division has a great deal of motor equipment. Indeed experiments have been made by which horses and men are transported by truck to the theater of probable operations, and the experiments seem to indicate that by the use of trucks not only will some time be saved, but there will be a saving, too, in the wear and tear on the horses."

"The armored car squadron is one of the latest additions to the cavalry division. This will consist of a small squadron headquarters and three armored car troops. It will have all told thirty-six armored cars, and eighteen officers and 260 enlisted men. The armored car squadron can perform many services to the cavalry division of real value and the cavalryman is the first to recognize and appreciate the help that can be given to him in this way."

"Another newcomer in the cavalry division is the light tank company. The cavalry has been using the same tank as the infantry pending the development of a light tank especially suited to cavalry operations. The new light tank under development will, it is expected, be of great lightness and mobility, thus increasing its value to the cavalry arm."

The New York Times prints a dispatch from its Paris correspondent stating that as a result of the new American tariff law Europe is considering the application of a quota or contingent system to the import of American motor cars. It is a well known fact both in Europe and the United States that this embargo system against American products has not only been discussed in Europe for four years, but has partially been put into effect. The import of American motor cars into Austria has long been limited to a total of less than 75. It would not be at all a bad idea if some American metropolitan newspapers would begin to discuss our tariff relations with Europe from the American rather than the European viewpoint.

We Wouldn't Be Surprised— By Albert T. Reid

Not Fault of Government

The Macon, Ga., Telegraph says: "But what do the soviet leaders want with propagandists in this country where judges sentence one man to twenty years on the chain gang for stealing a ham and another to one year in prison for stealing a bank?"

Such propagandists are needed by the soviet leaders in this country to supplement the efforts of well meaning but thoughtless editorial writers who attempt to create the impression that instances such as those cited by the Macon editor are typical of American justice as administered by judges and juries under the American Constitution and laws.

Such subversions of justice as those cited may occur among the hundreds of thousands of cases pending in American criminal courts, though usually the illustration used is that of the starving man sent to prison for stealing a loaf of bread for his famished family, while the criminal who goes free is one who stole a million dollars. That such occasional, and mostly mythical, incidents are so characteristic of our form of government that they constitute a nationwide argument for the case of bolshevism, under which the Macon editor would have been hanged or shot for such a comment as he has lately made in America, is of course untrue.

For every instance of a man sent to jail for stealing a ham, it is possible to point to hundreds of cases where judges and juries in court cutting for mercy have extended it in acquittals or suspended sentences. For every bank official guilty of losing a bank who escapes either detection or punishment there are a good many bank-stealers, since the bank-thief suffers only against a single individual, while the banker of a bank has a host of injured depositors after his scalp.

Our criminal laws are made by the representatives of the people. Our judges in the courts who try bank thieves are chosen by the people, and the juries by lot from among the people. If they go wrong, it is not an indictment of our form of government which argues for a military autocracy, since the bank-thief suffers only against a single individual, while the banker of a bank has a host of injured depositors after his scalp.

Now that President Coolidge is getting a good many dollars a word for his daily newspaper articles we can all understand why he has been saving his language for a rainy day.

MANY ORPHANS RECEIVING MONEY

Large Amount of Money Necessary for Education of Children

"Little Orphan Annie" is yearly becoming an increasingly expensive ward of the State of California.

Last year more than 16,000 orphan children received aid from the state and its counties, while the total sum expended for their care was approximately three million dollars.

California's share of the cost amounted to nearly $1,700,000, while the county expenditures as reported totaled $1,575,000. Of the latter figure, Orange county paid out a total of $10,510 during the year, according to a statement just compiled by State Controller Ray L. Tiley.

Aid is administered to orphan children through a division of children's aid in the Department of Social Welfare, under Miss M. Pope.

The state law allows $129 a year to be paid for support of such needy orphan, half-orphan or child of an incapacitated father. Counties may or may not match this sum, dollar for dollar. In most cases they do.

Foundlings, or children born of an unmarried mother may be allotted $15 a month until they are 2 years old. The state of California does not recognize the term, "illegitimate child." Parents may be illegitimate, the state holds, but every child is born with equal rights and social standing.

Orphan children are increasing in California at the rate of about 3 per cent every two years, it is estimated. The state appropriation for the present fiscal year, as contained in Governor Young's biennial budget, is $1,855,000, as compared to $1,592,000 for the preceding year.

Los Angeles leads the state in the amount spent on its orphans, with a total of $241,356.78. Alpine county has no orphan problem, hence spends no money.

Stanley Baldwin, Tory leader, said in recent address: "High tariffs interfere with business but you will never get any country to reduce its tariffs so long as it has freedom of our markets, into which it can dump anything it likes." With 54,000,000 people the United Kingdom collects a half billion dollars a year in tariffs. With 120,000,000 people we collect annually $600,000,000.

In tariffs. In other words, the United Kingdom collects more than twice as much per capita in tariffs as we do. And British statesmen and their echoes in the United States talk about free trade England retaliating against the high tariff policy of the United States!

MOTOR VEHICLES OVER MILLION

Increase of 6 Per Cent in California Over Last Year

Breaking all previous records, California registered 1,968,012 motor vehicles for the first 6 months this year, according to Frank G. Snook, chief of the Division of Motor Vehicles.

The total figure represents a gain of 6 per cent over the same period last year. And the fact that passenger cars alone increased more than 30,000 is seen as another sign of prosperity in the state.

Including vehicles exempt from fees (such as state, county and public service corporation automobiles and trucks) the grand total would be over the two-million mark.

Pre-paid registrations in Orange county for the 6-month period were as follows:

Passenger cars, 44,663; solid-tired trucks, 162; pneumatic-tired trucks, 20,021; motorcycles, 141; solid-tired trailers, 635; and pneumatic-tired trailers, 933.

The 18 counties of California and the State Highway Commission will divide a "juicy" "melon" when the $4,000,000 in fees from the sale of license plates is apportioned.

Under the law, the counties and the Highway commission will split these fees on a "50-50" basis for expenditure on the state highway system.

The amount apportioned represents all collections after expenses of operating the Motor Vehicle Division and the California Highway Patrol are deducted.

Los Angeles county, as usual, accounted for more than one-third of all registrations in California. Total registrations for the state showed: Passenger cars, 1,330,091; solid-tired trucks, 14,539; pneumatic-tired trucks, 73,553; motorcycles, 8,182; solid-tired trailers, 821; and pneumatic-tired trailers, 32,521.

Growing Rubber Big Industry

Approximately 7,000,000 acres of land throughout the world has been given to the cultivation of rubber according to a survey just completed by E. G. Holt, of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

The enormous production of this universally used article is shown in the following "believe it or not" statements transmitted by the domestic commerce official in a report to the American Chemical Society:

"If this entire acreage were stretched out in an even band around the earth's surface at the equator it would be nearly half a mile wide."

"The total world production of rubber last year, 860,000 tons, if made into a single rubber ball, would be about 600 feet through the middle."

While consumption of rubber in the United States increased from about 275,000 tons in 1927 to 440,000 tons in 1928 and to 470,000 tons in 1929, the figure for the first half of this year will fall considerably lower than for the same time last year, Holt predicted.

This is due, he said, to the surplus of rubber that the world is trying to adjust itself to, the overproduction brought on during the last year as an aftermath of having passed through a six year period of enforced scarcity.

Whereas during the time of the shortage efforts were made to stabilize consumption and production by reducing the size of automobile tires, manufacturers are now demanding larger tires as more durable and in an endeavor to improve the surplus problem.

New Insecticide

Finding rotenone, a new insecticide, superior to materials now generally used for insect control, the United States Department of Agriculture is urging the Malay states to grow rotenone-bearing plants on a commercial scale for the American trade.

This new insecticide is found in quantities up to 7 per cent in the roots of the South American "cube" plant (pronounced coo'bay), up to 5.5 per cent in Derris roots, and to a lesser extent in three other plants. The "cube" now grows in a part of South America where the climate is similar to that of the Malay states and surrounding countries.

R. C. Hoar, insecticide specialist of the Department of Agriculture, advanced the theory that Derris plants containing greater quantities of rotenone might be derived by careful selection and breeding. He points out that cube roots are not yet available commercially.

Tests by the Department of Agriculture indicate that rotenone is highly poisonous to both sucking and chewing insects. In tests conducted privately, rotenone was fed to dogs, cats, sheep, and chickens in quantities up to 10 grains per pound of body weight and no injury was noticeable.

France is again said to be in a state of irritation against the United States. But France has never got over her grouse over the sending of two million American soldiers to the Western front. Just imagine how sore France would have got if we had sent four million and cancelled all the debt.

A statue to President Buchanan has been dedicated in Washington. That statue should have had the inscription

"He was too proud to fight" on one side of it and "He kept us out of war" on the other.

NOT SINCE

HER FIRST
STOVE

Not since that day has a homemaker had an opportunity to take such a step forward as is offered now in these two great groups of entirely new, Entirely Automatic Electric Ranges. Electrical cookery is not new. But these Electric Ranges are very new... so far advanced, so refined and perfected, so superior in their automatic operation, that they make incomplete anything that you may have learned about electric cookery prior to this year.

Not the least surprising feature is the remarkably low price... far less than you ever have expected to pay for an Electric Range. And the terms are delightfully easy. A very modest down payment places your new Electric Range in your kitchen, ready to use. Your present range reduces the balance to a moderate amount that is divided into convenient monthly payments. Come in now and see the range that you will eventually own.

HIGHER GRADES FOR CHILDREN

Increase in Number Seeking
High School and University
Education

Take a group of 1,000 children now attending public schools of California in the lowest elementary grade. Of this number 555 will eventually reach the seventh grade, 259 are graduated from high school, and 36 ultimately receive college degrees.

These figures were compiled by William John Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education and formerly superintendent of public instruction in California. The increasing survival is due to a more efficient school system and a more general appreciation of education, he believes.

Compared with the survivals in 1918, Cooper's figures disclose that they have steadily increased during the 12-year period. In every group of 1,000 first entering schools then, only 534 reached the eighth grade and 139 graduated from high school.

Statistics also show that since 1908, survivals to the fourth year in high school, 34.3 per cent in 1910, 40.3 per cent in 1915, 42.9 per cent in 1920, and 55.9 per cent in 1928.

The California educator explained that a number of factors explain the increasing survival of students.

"One of these is that there is more desire on the part of the average person in the United States to get as much education as possible," he said. "There has come the realization that one can't get along without it."

Much of the improvement is due to better preparation of the teacher and to a wider variety of courses offered in the schools, Cooper believes.

the schools, Cooper believes.

"Formerly the public schools attempted to reach only 10 per cent of the population for positions of leadership, while today the attempt is to reach 100 per cent," he continued. "With this process has come a wider interest in education, and the people are becoming more interested in pushing their children through schools than formerly."

DEIMLING NAMED EDISON ADVISOR

Head of Santa Ana Division
Honored by Appointment as General Office Aide

The appointment of W. L. Deimling, Santa Ana district manager of the Southern California Edison company, as one of the foremost of the 28 districts of the Edison system in Southern and Central California.

Mr. Deimling has been identified prominently with business affairs of the Santa Ana section since becoming district manager for the Edison company in 1910 and has been a close observer of the district's remarkable growth during the intervening years. At the close of 1910, his first year as district manager, the number of service meters in the district totaled only 2,64 and the total of electric power delivered to consumers for the year was but 4,045,594 kilowatt-hours. Mr. Deimling's report for 1930, to May 31, showed 18,572 meters in service, with a total of 14,237,325 kilowatt-hours served since January 1 of the current year. The number of kilowatt-hours served during the month of May this year was approximately the same as the total for the entire year of 1910, the report shows.

116 in Personnel Office
Figures recording Edison company business in the Santa Ana district this year illustrate the constantly growing use of electric energy for a wide variety of service. At the end of May the total of connected load for the district was approximately 70,000 horsepower, as compared with slightly more than 90,000 for the corresponding month of 1929. The number of meters in service increased 1,000 during the same twelve months. The increased popularity of electric cooking in the Santa Ana district, as in other Edison districts, is shown in an increase of 3,100 horsepower in this class of service in the district for the operation of electric ranges. Agriculture and industry called into service 25,116 and 10,052 horsepower respectively to May 31 this year, both figures representing substantial increases.

Under Mr. Deimling's direction, the scope of the Santa Ana district office service has been widened consistently and today the office personnel numbers 115 men and women. This district payroll for this year is in excess of $190,000 and approximately $500,000 is being spent in the district for distribution extensions and new business reinforcements. Nearly 11,000 new horsepower of service capacity is being added in the various substations of the district to care for the increased requirements of consumers.

Bees Fly Far For Honey Load

Confirming the honeybee's reputation for diligence, the United States Department of Agriculture recently learned that a bee will sometimes fly as much as 5 miles and return with its minute load. Under such circumstances a single pound of honey would represent approximately 15,000 trips of 16 miles each, or nearly 300,000 miles of flight by bees.

In a locality in Wyoming where irrigated alfalfa is virtually the only source of honey, the department placed some hives 5 miles from the nearest nectar supply. The bees flew this distance regularly, the department apiculturists assume they might fly even farther if necessary.

Flying these 16-mile trips, however, some bees fail to return home because sand storms overtake them or headwinds impede them. Laden with honey, they are forced to rest often on the way home, particularly when flying into the wind or in cool weather. When they reach the hive after such long trips they often make abnormal landings, and frequently fail to alight at the entrance of the hive.

The rebellion in East India has almost destroyed American export trade in that quarter, and doubtless that is one of the reasons why our "American" radicals and "liberals" are whooping it up for Gandhi.

Looks like we might have to abolish slavery; if the human race is to be preserved.
