Treatment Plant For Disposal of Sewage is Urged

Report of Chief Sanitarian and Health Officer is Received by City

Construction of a joint sewage treatment plant to be used by all members of the Orange county joint outfall sewer agreement is recommended in the report of Dr. Edward Lee Russell, county health officer, and E. E. Frisby, chief sanitarian, Orange county health department. The report was filed with the executive board of the joint outfall sewer last Thursday evening and with the Anaheim city council Tuesday evening.

Cost of construction of such a treatment plant was estimated in the report at about $150,000, of which Anaheim's share would be $22,950. It is believed that federal assistance could be obtained through WPA which would reduce the cost to member cities and sanitary districts.

At the end of their 36-page report which covered the history of the various problems relating to the sewage disposal system of the joint outfall sewer agreement, Dr. Russell and Frisby incorporated a summary and conclusions which included 13 points. They are:

1. Reclamation of the sewage of the district for agricultural use is too expensive and is not feasible at present.
2. Ocean disposal is an asset to the district and is to be preferred to inland disposal.
3. Industrial wastes will require continued study but are not a serious load on plant capacity when only primary treatment is required.
4. The district owns the plant site, the right-of-way to the ocean, and the newly reconstructed pumping plant and outfall line, and the ocean end of the outfall.
5. The topography of the area (Continued on Page 6)

Jury Finds Mills Guilty of Thefts

Former Packing House Head
Convicted Last Night
on Five Counts

Deliberating slightly more than six hours, a superior court jury late last night convicted Edward Mills, a former secretary-manager of the Anaheim Community Growers association, of five counts of grand theft of $4,855 of the co-operative's funds.

The jury reported to presiding Superior Judge Franklin G. West at 11:30 o'clock. It took the case at 5:20 o'clock, after having heard almost three weeks of testimony.

Mills, deposed as manager of the association in November, 1938, was indicted by the county grand jury on eight counts of alleged embezzlement of $25,919. Before the case went to the jury, however, one count had been dismissed and the district attorney's office elected to rest its case on seven counts charging misappropriation of $5,119.

The jury found Mills guilty of counts two to six, inclusive. The seventh count, charging theft of $300 from the George C. Easton Katella grove account, resulted in acquittal.

At about 1:15 o'clock this morning, Mills posted $5,000 bond demanded by the court after Judge West had remained in his chambers to approve the bond which Mills said he would supply.

Defense Counsel S. B. Kaufman and William P. Webb, both of Anaheim, did not announce plans for appeal, but said they would confer with Mills before determining their future course. Mills will appear before Judge West, presiding magistrate, tomorrow at 11 o'clock for judgment.

Hit-Run Suspect Freed by Court

The case against Adams, who was arrested a week ago Saturday night, vanished when Felix Mendina, 45, of Anaheim, the supposed victim of the accident, testified that he had not been hit by an automobile, but tripped and fell to the ground just as the car went passed.

Two other witnesses testified that Ryan and not Adams had been driving the car at the time, although Adams told officers when he was arrested that he was the driver.

The speaker also told of the origin of El Camino Real, now known as State Highway 101. Bandini was introduced by Dr. H. A. Johnston.

Walker Recounts Tour of Florida and Texas Areas

California Can Compete With Other Citrus Producing Sections, He Says

"If we put out quality fruit, emphasize our advantages and produce 350 boxes or more an acre, we can easily compete with the Florida citrus industry," Sam Walker, partner in the Agricultural Laboratory, declared yesterday in closing his talk at the monthly meeting of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce.

In touching upon the point of emphasis of California's advantages, Walker pointed out that the California citrus industry spends only about two per cent of its delivered value for advertising and dealer service, while a number of other leading industries spend a considerably larger percentage.

Visit Citrus Areas

The speaker told of the trip which he and his partner Dr. Charles Samuels, took last fall through citrus localities of Mexico, Texas and Florida, and to the marketing establishments of New York City. He touched briefly on Mexico, declaring that new plantings are heavy there, but that growers are backward in their methods. Competition from Mexico in negligible, the speaker said.

While Texas has large acreages planted to citrus, the bulk of which is grapefruit, that state is primarily interested in other industries. The state produces the best grapefruit obtainable, but the prices of groves are low and there is no net increase in planting. The pest control problem in Texas is acute, Walker said.

No Organization

There is no organization in marketing citrus fruits in Texas, the speaker reported, and the truck operators have control of the situation and, as a result, hold down prices. There is extensive canning of citrus fruit juices in Texas.

Florida's principal advantage over California is its proximity to markets, Walker said. Production in that state is no more uniform than in California, nor is it done any cheaper, on the average, than in the better groves of this state. (Continued on Page 6)

Kiwanians Honor Great Americans

A review of the lives of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, given by S. C. Hratranft, Anaheim rancher, marked the observance Tuesday by the Anaheim Kiwanis club of the birthday anniversaries of those two men. Fred A. Backs was program chairman of the day.

Hratranft told of some of the characteristics of Washington and Lincoln and contrasted their aristocratic and humble births. Each was a man of high ideals, he said, and are the most revered persons in the history of the United States.

Harry L. Horn announced a tour of the Columbia Broadcasting System's building in Hollywood is being arranged for Tuesday evening, February 27.

at Anaheim High School

Program for the Orange county Citrus Marketing institute to be held at Anaheim union high school next Thursday was announced yesterday by the Agricultural Extension service and the Orange County Farm Bureau, sponsors of the event. Sessions will be held at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

"It is the aim of the Citrus Marketing institute to bring to the growers and business men of Orange county speakers and subject matter recognized by the industry as sound and factual."

Charges Against Clubs Withdrawn

Seven gun club cases were dismissed yesterday by the district attorney's office which announced that the Farmers' Gun club would go into Anaheim justice court, April 8 for trial by jury.

Dismissals were entered against the gun clubs at Huntington Beach justice court because, it was reported, Defense Counsel S. B. Kaufman of Anaheim and Fred Forgy of Santa Ana, refused to permit the Farmers' case to go to trial first. Each club is charged with one count of violation of the county's waste-water law which declares the flooding of duck shooting ponds a non-beneficial use of water. Charges against the seven clubs will be refilled, however, the district attorney's office said.

Clubs against which cases had been filed and now dismissed include Lomita, Blue Wing, Bolsa Chica, Cazadores, Bug Bill, Saami, and Westminster.

The semi-annual report of the county treasurer shows that there remains a balance of $3,083.74 to the credit of Anaheim school district. Centralla school district has $45.18 in the treasury, Orange $424.97 and Placentia $47.80. The report also shows that Anaheim road district has overdrawn $454.74 and Fullerton district has overdrawn $262.20. Since January 21st there has been taken from the general road fund the amount of $6,863.24, and placed to the credit of various road districts. Anaheim has received $248.30, Fullerton $26.72 and Buena Park $74.54. The expert recently appointed to examine the books of the county officials reports the books of the Treasurer correct, and finds the condition of county finances to be as follows: Total tax levy $159,757.64; 5 per cent additional delinquent $588.69; total $160,346.33. Delinquent tax left unpaid $7,665.76; 5 per cent additional penalty $404.04. The expert finds the tax collector has turned over $12,100 too much into the treasury but every thing else correct.

The weather during the week has been showery. Saturday afternoon and evening rain fell heavily and since then we have enjoyed but little sunny weather. Precipitation for the storm 1.43 inches. Total for the season 19 inches.

J. F. Buehler, who recently purchased the Modjeska place east of town, has come here to reside permanently. He was a caller at this office Monday. Mr. Bandholt resides in town, at the corner of Broadway and Clementina streets, and has been employed on his place planting walnut and other trees and making improvements.

Two keys tied with a string were found on Tuesday morning on Mrs. Scott's ranch north of town. Owner can have them by calling at this office and paying for this advertisement.

George Irvine of the San Joaquin rancho informs us that a short time ago he was surprised to find a squatter on his premises who had removed thither from the Las Bolsas territory and who announced his purpose of remaining on the ranch until he became ready to move off. He claimed the ranch was government land and belonged to him if he chose to occupy it. Mr. Irvine informed him that Uncle Sam has executed a patent for the land to him, and demanded the squatter to move on. The latter in turn replied that he did not care for Uncle Sam or anyone else, and proposed remaining just where he was. So Mr. Irvine was compelled to go to Los Angeles and enlist the services of the United States Marshal, who at once proceeded to the San Joaquin and dispossessed the squatter, who had already begun preparations for building a house and putting in a crop. It is believed that had the squatter been allowed to remain in undisputed possession of the property, he would soon have been followed by a host of others.

Charles A. Gardiner, many years ago editor and proprietor of the Gazette, was down on a visit to us yesterday. At present he is editing the East Los Angeles Express, and is on a visit of recreation throughout this county. Mr. Gardiner has many old time friends here who are always glad to shake him by the hand.

C. A. Logan, cousin of the late Gen. John A. Logan, of Civil war fame, passed several days in town last week, the guest of Jacob Everhardt. Mr. Logan is a resident of Leavenworth, Kansas. He was minister to China under the Grant administration, minister to China under Hayes, and has filled other important offices in the service of the Government. He was very favorably impressed with our city and may visit us again in the near future.

A spelling match will be held in Kroeger's hall Friday evening, March 7, in the interest of the Anaheim school code. Company A, the successful speller will receive as a prize his choice of a dressing case or a shaving case, as shown in Dr. Hunt's window. The one missing the first word will receive a tin whistle. Mr. Dr. James will be referee and Mr. Bullard and Capt. Wood have been chosen pronouncers. An admission fee of 15 cents will be charged to cover expenses. B. V. February 25, 1915

The new Masonic Temple in this city was formally dedicated on Saturday afternoon beginning at 3 o'clock. Judge Walter Bledsoe, M. W. G. M., and other members of the Grand Lodge had charge of the ceremonies.

In the evening installation of officers was held in the temple as follows: M. W. Marten, W. M.; J. L. Hoag, S. W.; Earl R. Abbey, J. W.; C. A. Boege, Treasurer; Wm. Chambers, Secretary; G. W. Sloop, S. D.; E. L. Goodrich, J. D.; H. W. Braden, Marshal; F. W. Champion, S. S.; R. C. Peterman, J. S.; Rev. D. T. Gilmore, Chaplain; J. H. Eneart, Tyler.

The ladies of the Eastern Star furnished a splendid banquet. The Masonic Temple is one of the finest in Southern California, the lodge room being elegantly appointed, the interior arrangement being the equal of any fraternal organization lodge room in the state. It is interesting to know that the Anaheim Lodge of Masons is the parent lodge of practically all of the lodges in this county.

In February, 1870, a meeting was called for the purpose of aiding a Mason and his family who had arrived in Anaheim and were in need. The mother had died on the way across the sands and the father and children were in need of aid. There were seventeen present at the meeting from all over this county and the sum of $250 was raised for the distressed ones. When it was found that there were seventeen Masons here it was decided to organize a lodge and the charter was granted them in October of that year.

Since that time it has been the fate of the Anaheim lodge to lose just when it was making the most progress. First Santa Ana formed a lodge and Anaheim lost members to the new lodge. Then came Orange, Fullerton and last Buena Park. In each case Anaheim lost members, but this was a gain to a new lodge started in a new place. Joseph Helmsen was elected secretary of the Anaheim lodge in 1893. He occupied this office for nineteen years, when illness prevented attendance at lodge and a continuance of the duties of secretary.

Charles Raemella has sold his place on East Santa Ana street to Mr. Whetly of North Dakota, who has taken possession. Mr. Raemella and family have moved into his new residence on east Center street, where they will make their future abode.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sackett, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Herman, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Lee and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Calloway attended the Montana picnic at Sycamore Grove on Monday. There were 1500 former Montanans present. At the first picnic four years ago there were fifty present.

The Fullerton section will have a large crop of black-eye beans this season. The planting will begin May 1st. Peter Nicolas will plant 200 acres, D. J. Bastanchury 400 acres, the Emery ranch 300 acres, and Gaston Bastanchury 500 acres.

Jurors Criticise County's Schools

Several Complaints Entered Against Anaheim High By Committee

Several schools in Orange county were criticised in the first report of the county grand jury's school committee which was filed last Saturday, among them being Anaheim union high school and Fremont school. The committee also declared it would revisit the schools before making its final report.

Anaheim union high school was scored on several different counts. It was charged that synthetic orange juice is being served at the cafeteria; many classrooms were excessively warm; that the mathematics building had no fire extinguisher and a fire hose was missing; many rooms had dirty light fixtures; the bus garage was dirty; showers for boys were poor; no proper audit of student funds was made, and that there was a strong odor of escaping gas in the cafeteria. It also reported that the auditorium stage needed fireproofing.

Recommendations were given to the school on the method of accounting for semi-official funds and on the shop and agricultural courses offered.

The lone complaint against Fremont school was for improper auditing of student funds. The accusation that synthetic orange juice was being served in the school cafeteria was also directed against Brea-Olinda high school.

Fullerton union high school and junior college also were criticised on several points. The committee claimed that many unnecessary lights were burning and lighting in the school was generally poor; that the utilities tunnel was not protected properly and could generate gases, and that no oxygen masks are maintained for anyone to use if they go into the tunnel.

Torpedo Bomber Forced to Land

A heavy twin-motored Douglas torpedo bomber made an emergency landing shortly before 2 o'clock yesterday in a muddy field just south of the Martin airport which it had attempted to reach when its motor sputtered because of lack of fuel during a test flight.

The plane had been flying since 8 o'clock in the morning, throughout the rain, with a test load of 1500 pounds of dummy bombs. Objective of the flight was to test the fuel consumption of the motors under load and under varying flight conditions. The plane was in charge of Ensign Mitchell and carried two observers.

Highway patrolmen and sheriff's officers assisted in wheeling the craft to Newport road where they blocked traffic and taxied the plane to Martin airport for refueling. The plane was not damaged.

ECONOMIC CONFERENCE POINTS TO ACTION PROGRAM IN COUNTY

Fifty key farmers of Orange county met in their fourth Economic Conference last Thursday at Santa Ana, to analyze and consider current farm problems and suggest procedure in direction of solution. The conferees, representing all farm groups in the county, including water, marketing, credits, crops, Grange and Farm Bureau, divided into four sub-committees to study particular problems in their respective fields. The four committees were water resources and flood control; Dion Gardner, chairman; marketing and credits, J. W. Crill, chairman; farm management and labor, R. W. Hull, chairman; and land use and crops, E. T. McFadden, chairman. Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg was appointed general chairman of the conference.

Following all day committee deliberations, the conference of the whole met to consider the recommendations of the four committees. Only recommendations approved by unanimous vote of the conference were accepted as recommendations of this fourth Agricultural Economic Conference of Orange county. Some of the more important recommendations of the conference are briefed as follows:

Marketing and Credits
Recommend a study be made for more practical and equitable method of determining extent of frost injury in fruit. Also need for more uniform interpretation and enforcement of quality standards in all citrus districts. Further study should be made concerning the legal aspects of the proposed size and grade regulations in connection with the California-Arizona Marketing agreement.

The Farm Credit administration, recently taken over by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, should be returned to its former independent status, to remove it from influences not related to credit policies.

Unified cooperation between all citrus marketing organizations is essential and necessary before more efficient distribution and better returns to growers can be expected. The industry-wide citrus committee recently set up by the Farm Bureau was asked to put this fundamental approach in action.

Premature crop reporting is considered detrimental to the interests of agriculture. Estimates should not be issued till all major hazards are over, say about March 15, for valencias.

Water Resources
The board of supervisors was asked to reserve the water rights of lands now being conveyed to the federal government in the flood control program.

Study of effect of MWD water on Orange county soils and crops is asked of the Citrus Experiment station, Agricultural Extension service and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

A report of the disposition of oil well water wastes in the Huntington Beach field is asked of the state division of oil and gas.

The Orange County Water district is asked to continue their study of reclamation of urban wastes of water and the cities of Orange county are urged to protect beaches against pollution.

Conservation of losses due to evaporation and transpiration in the Prado basin is urged.

Farm Management and Labor
The board of supervisors is requested to furnish available relief labor to the county agricultural commissioner for weed and rodent control projects and for removal of abandoned trees that jeopardize adjacent properties.

The fixing of farm labor wage scales by government agencies is opposed.

Continued emphasis on better irrigation practice in orchard and field crops as a means of water conservation and better soil management is asked of the Agricultural Extension service.

Increased use of the State Employment service is recommended.

Land Use and Crops
Soil erosion is causing heavy losses to agriculture and should be more greatly recognized by farm operators and owners. Continued educational work is asked of the Extension and Soil Conservation services.

A legal pest control district is recommended to limit the spread of Glover scale, which is now confined to a small area in Orange county. The agricultural commissioner and citrus department of the Farm Bureau are asked to encourage such district in 1940.

Commendation was given to the research project under way in connection with the decline in orange sizes and quality. The survey involves 120 orchards in Orange county under the direction of the Citrus Experiment station, cooperating with a growers' committee, packing house managers, and extension service.

The farm returns and living are influenced by the size of farm. In order to provide better living on smaller farm units under our present stress, farmers may use one or more of the following suggestions:

1. Add one or more additional enterprises, such as livestock, poultry or other specialized product as may be adaptable to the soil and to the experience of the operator.
2. Produce more of the family living on the farm itself.
3. Increase the size of the present unit through purchase or rent of adjacent or nearby property to increase the size of the unit.
4. Secure additional employment.
5. Do more of his own work on the farm and cutting cash costs as far as is consistent with good citizenship.

California's congressmen are asked to consider the following recommendation in connection with the Sugar act:

1. Domestic quotas on cane and beet sugar should be liberalized to permit growers to produce such acreage of sugar beets and sugar cane as he may desire and can secure in processors contract.
2. Administration of the act should be placed in the hands of a non-partisan commission, representing equally the processors, growers and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.
3. Elimination of all provisions which will permit establishment of fixed wage rates for farm labor.

Twenty-two states now have speed laws, reports the National Automobile club. Twelve states provide that no person shall drive so slowly as to impede traffic. Six stipulate that speeds shall be neither greater nor less than is reasonable and prudent.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"I will set my tabernacle among you; and my soul shall not abhor you. And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my people." These verses from Leviticus are the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Soul" on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

One of the Scriptural selections includes these words about Jesus from Luke: "And it came to pass, that as he was come nigh unto Jericho, a certain blind man sat by the way side begging. And he cried, saying, Jesus, thou son of David, have mercy on me. . . . And Jesus stood, and commanded him to be brought unto him; and when he was come near, he asked him, Saying, What wilt thou that I shall do unto thee? And he said, Lord, that I may receive my sight. And Jesus said unto him, Receive thy sight; and followed him, glorifying God."

The Lesson-Sermon presents also these passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Neither age nor accident can interfere with the senses of Soul, and there are no other real senses." "There is more Science in the perpetual exercise of the Mind-faculties than in their loss. Lost they cannot be, while Mind remains. The apprehension of this gave sight to the blind and hearing to the deaf centuries ago, and it will repeat the wonder."

Tuberculosis Association of County Views Film at Quarterly Meeting

Mrs. R. W. Balch, Anaheim representative on the board of directors of the Orange County Tuberculosis & Health Association, Ltd., in reporting on a quarterly meeting of the association held last Monday, at county headquarters, 112 West Fifth Street, Santa Ana, said:

"A preview was had of a new sound motion picture film on tuberculosis, 'Cloud in the Sky,' designed especially for showing before Spanish speaking peoples but is available also in an English version. The story is a simple one, telling how tuberculosis strikes one Spanish family. It is set against a picturesque Latin American background of seranades, fiestas, romances and wedding parties. The cast is professional and the music by a Tipica orchestra. The association voted to buy copies of both the Spanish and English versions of this film and plans to show the film to both Mexican and white groups in Orange county."

"Board members were urged to attend the annual convention of the California Tuberculosis association to be held in Santa Barbara this year, April 11-13. Those who could attend were asked to notify the president, Mrs. E. C. Phillips, or Mrs. Edna Crawford, the executive secretary."

"A report was made by Mrs. W. Maxwell Burke, Santa Ana, of a housing meeting attended recently and the association authorized the chairman of the meeting to appoint a committee of three to investigate housing projects which might be practicable for Orange county."

"A telegram was authorized sent to Governor Olson, asking him not to pardon Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hurlburt, manufacturers and distributors of a so-called sure-cure, preparation for tuberculosis 'Erus-Eruc,' because of violation of parole. This preparation has been recently used in a demonstration in San Bernardino county."

Daughters of American Revolution Presented with 27 Articles For Museum of City's History

Presentation to Mother Colony chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, by its regent, Miss Elenora A. Parker, of 27 different articles for the chapter's historical exhibit of Anaheim was one of the features of last Friday's meeting of the chapter.

Most interesting of the articles presented by Miss Parker was a copy of the early deeds printed by the Los Angeles Vineyard company in 1874, bound in booklet form and distributed to the first colonists who drew their particular plot of ground by lot. There were five deeds in all, the first one from Bernardo Yomba and Andrea Yomba to Juan Pacifico Ontiveras, executed Sept. 1, 1857, and recorded Sept. 14, 1857. Next were two from Juan Pacifico Ontiveras to John Frohling and George Hansen, executed Sept. 12, 1857 and recorded Sept. 14, 1857. John Shore was county recorder for all of these transfers. Then followed two more executed Oct. 5, 1857, in which Mr. Frohling and Mr. Hansen transferred their rights to the trustees of the Los Angeles Vineyard society. This was notarized by William G. Dryden and recorded on October 5, 1857, by Charles R. Johnson, county recorder.

The latter deeds forever set to rest the discussion as to who the trustees of the Vineyard society were, for it names them as follows: Otmar Caler, Charles Kohler, John Fischer, J. F. Cajus Beythien, Hugo Schenk, Heinrich Cramer, Jacob Hartman, Conrad C. Kuchel, (father of Judge Charles Kuchel and grandfather of Assemblyman Thomas Kuchel) Rudolph Leudke, John Lutgens and John Bach.

A map of the state of California published in San Francisco in 1878; a wire skimmer from F. A. Korn's winery; the first deed granted to Masonic lodge in Anaheim, made by Mrs. Margarita Metz to Theodore Reiser, chairman of the board of trustees; a cuff which one of the original pioneers wore on her trip from Germany to America in 1849, and several other articles were also presented to the chapter.

The chapter also received two donations of money for its "expansion fund," with which the chapter hopes to establish a real museum in Anaheim for the preservation of the city's history and to be a factor educationally.

Mrs. Stephen Gallagher and Mrs. Victor Loly were hostesses for the meeting, which was held at Pioneer House on North West street. Guests of the afternoon were Mrs. Agnes Clark and Miss Vera E. Clark of Greeley, Colorado, and Mrs. Blanche Lampman of North Dakota.

Betty Patrick Weds Daniel Edwin Dodge

Miss Elizabeth Belle (Betty) Patrick became the bride Sunday afternoon at St. Michael's Episcopal church of Daniel Edwin Dodge, with the Rev. D. Howard Dow, rector of the church, officiating in the impressive rites. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Patrick of Anaheim and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Beatrice Carrier of Bellflower.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Robert Bond Sprague, while her brother, Robert A. Patrick, Jr., served Mr. Dodge as best man. The ushers were James Patrick, another brother of the bride, and Robert Sprague. Organist during the ceremony* was Miss Kay Van Buren.

Following the ceremony at the church a reception was held at the Patrick home. The new Mrs. Dodge is a graduate of Anaheim union high school and Fullerton junior college. Mr. Dodge was graduated from Fullerton union high school and junior college.

Rimes of the Times

Bring on my pot of boiling oil and sharpen up my saber, for I'm about to run amuck and carve me up a neighbor. Of double-decker brainless stunts, I'll nominate the winner—the folks who come to visit when we're sitting down to dinner.

The baby's in the ice-box, the kitten's in the flour, the coffee pot has melted and the tapioca's sour. The roast is cold and greasy and my wife broke out in rashes, because the neighbors talked so long the biscuits burned to ashes. I've stuck a notice on the door, it says: "Beware, take warning—No visitors at feeding time—Come back tomorrow morning." If folks can't call at decent hours they'll either take a beating or sit out on the front door steps until I get through eating.

Baby Kitty's Diary

WHISPERED TO
Charles Leannan

Some people came to see me and said I was pretty. Thanks. I hope I am. I suppose all women want to be pretty. No less a guy than Keats said "a thing of beauty is a thing of joy forever." I believe you got something beautiful there, John.

When my visitors left today, they went through a big opening in the house that is called a door. Where it leads, I don't know, but I lie here for hours wondering where it goes and if I'll ever have the chance of passing through it. If things keep up like they're going now, I'll never get out of this house. It's a nice house and all, but a gal wants to go sometime. I'm not the only one in the house who wants to go, Mama wants to rise and shine (the house) but as far as I can see, plans to stay in bed all day. She is tentatively planning to get up tomorrow. She's getting on okay. I'm doing swell myself. Daddy is anxious too because he like's mama's cooking best.

I'm a week old today. Only 51 more weeks and I'll be a year old. Think of that. Doesn't time fly? There's something new on my limited horizon. I learned what to do with my thumb. I put it in my mouth. It doesn't taste so good, but it's something to play with, anyway. I shouldn't do it, I know, because when mama catches me she says "no, no," and "no, no" in this house means "no, no," especially if you have a name like mine. She's doing it for my good though, she says. I got a feeling I'm going to hear that phrase pretty often. Don't kid

Indecent Exposure Charged is Admitted

Patricio Hernandez, 48, of El Modena, was sentenced to county jail for 30 days Tuesday when he pleaded guilty before City Judge Frank Tausch to a charge of indecent exposure. A drunk charge against him was withdrawn. Hernandez was arrested at the Mexican dance here Sunday night by Deputy Sheriff H. H. Ream.

County to Receive State Auto Money

Orange county will receive $88,454.95 as its share of the 1939 apportionment of motor vehicle registration fees, it was announced this week by Howard R. Philbrick, director of the department of motor vehicles. The apportionment for the entire state is $3,979,551.60.

Banquet Speaker

Robert Gordon Sproul, (above) president of University of California, will speak on "Current events at University of California," at a University of California alumni luncheon and meeting which will take place at the Riverside Mission Inn and at Citrus Experiment station, commencing at noon and continuing into the afternoon of Thursday, Feb. 22.

Toast can be the basis of some excellent desserts. You can make it quickly in your electric toaster, combine it with the other ingredients and have a delicious last course which was little trouble to make.

Chocolate Crunch
Melt 5 squares of unsweetened chocolate. (If you have an electric range, its measured low heat enables you to melt the chocolate in an ordinary pan directly upon the surface unit, eliminating the bother of a double boiler.) Combine 2 cups of crisp dry toast, cut in 1/4-inch cubes, with 1 cup confectioners sugar and 1/2 cup broken nut meats. Add to melted chocolate and blend well. Serve heaped in sherbet glasses topped with whipped cream and maraschino cherries. This recipe makes 6 servings.

Cherry Pudding
Cook 3/4 cup canned red cherries with 1/4 cup juice and 6 tablespoons sugar slowly for about 10 minutes until sugar dissolves. Add 1/2 teaspoon salt. Combine 6 slices of toast cut in 1/2-inch cubes with 1/2 cup chopped nuts, 1/4 cup seedless raisins (softened over hot water), 2 tablespoons chopped candied orange peel and 2 tablespoons melted butter. Add 2 additional tablespoons sugar to cherries and add to toast mixture. Mix well. Pour into a greased casserole and bake in a 375-degree oven for 40 minutes, or in individual casseroles from 20 to 25 minutes. Serve with whipped cream or hard sauce. Serves 6.

CALIFORNIA SETS ANOTHER RECORD?

During the past year California's industrial payrolls increased 11 per cent over 1938. At the same time the number of people on relief in California increased 78 per cent and the cost skyrocketed. These two statements seem to be as far apart in their meaning as the two poles. They are, for with more employment in the state how can there be such an increase of people on the dole? Part of the answer came with the unqualified assertion, made last week to the legislature, that fully one-third of the army on relief in California is composed of "habitual bums, drunkards, and just plain chiselers," would seem unbelievable save for its source—the Los Angeles SRA chapter of the State Employees Association.

For SRA public employees—dealing directly with relief applicants and relief recipients, compiling their case histories from personal contact with tens of thousands—are the one group qualified to speak with indisputable authority on the subject. And their report divides those on relief into three "nearly numerically equal groups," as follows:

1. The deserving. The people the SRA was set up to help. The people who reluctantly accept relief as a temporary necessity, and are eager for a chance to return to self-sufficiency and complete independence.

2. The "doubtfully deserving." That is, those who lived precariously even when work came readily, and who, on the dole, are indifferent to the duty of rehabilitating themselves in the economic world.

3. A full third: "Those undoubtedly not deserving to be supported by the American taxpayer; bums both masculine and feminine; just plain chiselers. Every real bum in California is on relief."

Such a revelation implements the economy bloc in the Legislature, fighting to stem additional tax extortions for relief, and to eliminate chiseling. Those representatives voice the revolt of taxpayers weary of supporting the "one out of three" who wouldn't work today and was never willing to work.

No conscientious citizen begrudges taxes genuinely needed to stave off privation for a decent neighbor. But citizens generally are rebellious against shouldering ever-growing millions in taxes so that bums who were bums in the best of times may continue, even more comfortably, to be bums!

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH TAYLOR

Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

When the books are balanced on the special session of the state legislature, which has held the spotlight at Sacramento during the last few weeks, there will be both "profit" and "loss" items in the ledger.

But on the whole, the special legislative session has indicated a healthy determination on the part of a majority of the legislators to clamp down on governmental abuses and to put an end to the worst debauch of public spending in the state's history.

The special session balance sheet will probably show more "profit" for the long-suffering taxpayer than any other for many years past—and California farmers, together with all other taxpayers, owe a real debt of gratitude to the members of the legislature who have refused to be stampeded into voting millions in new taxes.

From all indications, at this writing, nearly all of Governor Olson's proposed $50,000,000 tax program—including new income taxes, new taxes on gas and oil, new business franchise taxes and many other taxes—will be swept up by the janitors, instead of becoming a part of the state's top-heavy tax structure.

Likewise, the state administration's enormous budget for SRA, which would have bled every taxpayer in the state to support it, has been chopped down to a much more reasonable figure, although, in final form, it will still rank, undoubtedly, as one of the highest relief appropriations in the nation.

The relief problem—the biggest and most difficult factor in the tax problem—is still far from permanent solution, but some progress, at least, has been made. Public airing of scandalous abuses in the SRA has been helpful in focusing attention on the need for tightening up the purse strings and breaking the domination of "pressure groups," communists and political manipulators in the relief set-up.

And members of the bi-partisan economy bloc, who turned on the light in dark places—and then demanded a cleanup with a decent regard for the rights of the people who foot the bill—have rendered California a signal service.

Revelations of reckless waste and extravagance, chiseling, radical infiltration, needless duplication, inefficiency, political favoritism and haphazard, incompetent administration became so conclusive and startling that even some of the legislators who had previously defended the policy of unrestricted spending for relief were forced to change position. And yet there is every reason to believe that the investigations thus far have only pricked the surface.

Perhaps the most convincing evidence of abuses in the relief system, which have cost California taxpayers millions of dollars, came to the legislature in a report from the Los Angeles SRA chapter of the California State Employees' association.

The employee group, representing those engaged in administration of relief in Los Angeles county, made the unqualified charge that one-third of those receiving state relief are chiselers, or worse. It divided relief recipients into three classes—about equal in number: "First, those undoubtedly deserving. Second, those doubtfully deserving, a group which consists of many families which have always lived precariously, and whose present dole constitutes a security wage comparable with past earnings. Third, those undoubtedly not deserving to be supported by American taxpayers."

Of this latter class—one third of the total relief roll—the reports said:

"This group is composed of alien (or part alien) families who constitute a very large percentage of the entire relief load; bums both masculine and feminine; habitual drunkards and dope users, and just plain chiselers."

The report concluded with this challenging statement:

"The average citizen must realize that while all the people on relief are by no means professional reliefers, nevertheless EVERY REAL BUM IN CALIFORNIA IS ON RELIEF."

Both the legislature and the people of California are indebted

ENDURING WISDOM

YOUNG INVENTOR EXPERIMENTING WITH NEW TYPE OF AUTO LAMPS

The American patent system has its 150th birthday this year. In February, industrial communities throughout the nation are marking the occasion by paying special tribute to their "Modern Pioneers"—inventors research workers whose patented ideas have laid the groundwork for the building of new job-giving industries. This is one story of the development of some of these industries.—Ed. Note.

If you are a motorist who is sometimes annoyed by the glare of lights from an approaching car at night, you will be especially interested in the work these days of a young scientist in Boston, Mass.

That young man already has built an entirely new industry around some of its discoveries about light, and if the predictions of some engineers are true, it won't be many years before his will be an even greater industry giving invention-created jobs to many thousands of persons.

The young scientist is Edwin H. Land. He has invented—and patented—a method for the control of light rays. The method is known as "polarizing." Windows, movies and night driving are expected to be considerably different in a few years hence because of it. Already his method of "conditioning light" has improved sunglasses and photography.

Land is only 30 now. His amazing discoveries about light began when he was still in his teens. In those early days he studied methods of "polarizing" light in a rudimentary home laboratory. Later, in Harvard university physics laboratory, Land could be found several days a week in long after-class discussions with his physics professor. The professor was George Wheelwright, who is now vice president of the Polaroid corporation headed by Land.

The "polarizing" process was first made public in 1935. It appeared then in sunglasses, light filters for cameras and anti-glare desk lamps, while experiments continued with methods for applying it to anti-glare auto headlights, windows and three-dimensional movies.

In sunglasses and cameras the result has been that glare has been eliminated for "polarization" of light means that only straight rays of light pass through the lens. The best test of polarized sunglasses is on the water, where the usual glare in the surface—caused by the irregular rays of light from the water—is eliminated. Fish can be seen—and photographed—under water because of this elimination.

This was dramatized early in the history of the Polaroid corporation. Young Land, wanting to demonstrate the value of his discovery, asked a representative to the California State Employees' association for that frank revelation of conditions in SRA. When the employees, assigned to the job of relief administration, feel compelled to protest against being a party of the squandering of public funds, California taxpayers certainly will place their hearty stamp of approval on the efforts of the legislature to clean up the mess. The legislators who refused to saddle California with new relief expenditures be brought down to a reasonable basis—not only deserve appreciation. They deserve the support of California taxpayers, other things being equal, when they come up for reelection. California needs them!

of a large optical company to see a demonstration. Rather than ask the man to his humble basement laboratory, however, he rented a Boston hotel room for the demonstration. In a window he placed a large goldfish bowl. He placed the bowl in such a position that the sun reflected from its surface. He then asked the representative to look down into the bowl and see if there were any fish in it. The glare, however, prevented the man from seeing into the bowl. Handing a pair of glasses with "polarized" lenses, he was asked again to look into the bowl. That time he saw the fish, and signed the contract.

Polarized windows can be made that will permit any desired amount of light to enter by simply turning a handle; experiments show three-dimension movies can be made, meaning that figures will appear on the screen in life-like fashion.

The experiments with anti-glare automobile headlights are still going on, but they show thus far that it is not "wishful thinking" to vision the time soon when the lights of an approaching car, no matter how powerful, will appear to another motorist only as two purple "blobs" on the road.

Safety organizations and insurance companies are especially interested in that part of Land's experimenting. To them "polarized" automobile headlights and windshields are looked to hopefully as a step toward increased safety in night driving and the saving of many lives. When this process is perfected, they believe, there will be a great many living tributes to the genius of the young man who began in his teens to learn interesting things about light and ways to control it.

Washington
Snapshots

Nothing has been printed about it, but more than one person in the capital is becoming curious as to the source of the opposition to the Dies committee.

Frequently, in recent weeks, newspapers have carried stories of this organization and that adopting resolutions urging a discontinuance of the committee's investigation of un-American activities.

This continuing opposition is unexplained in view of the house, by a vote of 345 to 21, voting to extend the life of the committee for another year. Also, voting it an additional $75,000 for expenses. The 345 men voting in favor of the committee represent all walks of American life. The group included congressmen from the farm areas, the small towns and cities, as well as the metropolitan centers.

Thus, the question has arisen in some minds: Who and why are certain organizations so opposed to the committee?

No true American citizen wants the representative democracy of the United States transformed into a communistic dictatorship. To argue that is foolish.

That granted, then finding the answer to the Dies opposition becomes more difficult.

One argument is that the Dies exposures have been unfair and have injured the reputation of organizations which are purely American.

But then it would seem that if there were any question as to the Americanism of any organized group, that the members of that

JOSEPH A. SCHWALB IS ELECTED AUCTION ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT

"Total sales in 1939 for the combined membership of the American Fruit and Produce Auction association showed a gain over the volume sold during 1938, and set a new high over the past six years," reports Joseph A. Schwalb, newly elected president of the organization.

Schwalb succeeds Norman C. Ives of Philadelphia, who served as president of the auction association for the past three years. Well-known to the shipping industry throughout the country, Schwalb has maintained close personal contacts with producing sections for many years. His enthusiasm for the auction method of selling is based on practical results which it has obtained for many growers and shippers.

"I believe," Schwalb said, "that thousands of growers and shippers now successfully using the auctions have barely scratched the surface of the possibilities which lie in this system of distribution. The auction system is the most economical way to reach the greatest number of individual buyers in the largest markets. It is not a one way method for it embraces all of the types and kinds of buyers so necessary to complete trade coverage under modern market conditions. By keeping steady supplies of uniform quality in the auctions shippers have built up and maintained a clientele of buyers for their brands. Buyer preference thus created has increased their prices and returns. Shippers have found that a greater volume could be sold in a market when auctions are used."

"Buyers have opportunity to examine goods and to know what quantities are offered for sale."

group would welcome an opportunity to clear up any question of un-Americanism which might in some way have become associated with the organization.

It is a good question to ponder, and it opens up many channels of thought.

Congressional life at times has its lighter side. The joke at the capitol is now on members of the house. The congressmen are trying to keep appropriations to a minimum to avoid increasing taxes. In this situation, it would behoove them to spend money for themselves.

But, engineers claim the roof over the house chamber is in need of replacing. It is said a heavy snow might cause it to fall.

Until all of the nine-inch snow, which recently covered the Capital City, had been removed from the house roof, quite a few members spent more time watching proceedings from the cloak rooms than from the house floor—or at least that is what their colleagues tell about them.

You have heard of the Hatch bill. It was passed last year, and its purpose was to take government officeholders out of politics.

Bidding is open and competitive with buying power concentrated under one roof. Supply and demand determine the true economic value of the merchandise in accordance with actual market conditions. Buyer confidence and active competition afford the surest stimulus to full market prices.

"All of these conditions contribute to make the auction method of sale superior," Schwalb said, "I predict that within a few years a far greater percentage of all fruits and vegetables will be sold at auction."

Schwalb was born in New York City in 1884 and early became interested in the fruit and produce business, working his way up through the ranks. He became a director in the Independent Fruit Auction corporation in 1926, later president. When the Independent and Connolly Auction company were consolidated in 1933 to form the New York Fruit Auction corporation he was made president of this organization. Continuing as president down to the present time, Schwalb heads the largest auction company in the world. Besides holding office in a number of local and national trade organizations, Schwalb was president of the International Apple association for two years.

The complete personnel of the Auction association for 1940 is President Joseph A. Schwalb, New York; Vice-President Frank N. Isbey, Detroit; Secretary-Treasurer Norman C. Ives, Philadelphia. Charles W. Irgang of Chicago remains chairman of the board. Other directors are H. J. Bigelow, Cleveland; W. M. English, Pittsburg; Leonard Gentile, Cincinnati; N. W. Kaltenbach, Baltimore; and H. C. Pixley, St. Louis.

This purpose was so commendable that this year a move was initiated to broaden the scope of the act to include a few office holders who were missed by the provisions of the original law.

But you probably will not hear of the second Hatch bill becoming a law this year. This plot was discovered: Some persons opposed to the Hatch law were hopeful of offering amendments to the second Hatch bill that would so change the original act as to make it ineffective.

It was hoped that in as much as this is an election year, such amendments would not be opposed by those in congress who will be up for re-elections. But this uncommendable plan is believed to have been nipped before it got beyond the "private talk" stage. Nevertheless, older heads in congress will take no chance, and the odds are heavily against any revision of the Hatch act at this session.

There is much in the headlines about national defense. Preparedness has been compared by some with medicine. The proper amount is a good thing, but too much is sometimes dangerous. So far congress has kept a good perspective.

By WARREN BAXLEY

DETROIT, MICHIGAN — This makes my second week in the Motor City. A new car and trailer have caused the delay. Also caused me to miss Mardi Gras in New Orleans. Regretted that, but after seeing the craftsmanship on the new unit, I feel much better.

To really see Detroit and understand its backbone, the automobile industry, would require much longer than two weeks. It is impossible to realize how gigantic it is until you have visited the various plants and seen the results of mass production. Ninety-seven percent of all passenger automobiles built in America are produced in the Detroit area. In one year Detroit alone produced nearly four million cars with a retail value of two billion, 500 million dollars.

To manufacture these automobiles, the industry uses, 75% of all rubber imports, 57% of all malleable iron, 40% of the supply of upholstery leather, 40% of all mchairs made, 40% of all lead, 30% of all nickel consumed, 20% of the American steel output, 15% of all aluminum, 13% of all the nation's cast iron, 13% of America's tin, 12% of the zinc output, 10% of the hardwood lumber and 10% of the cotton.

That's really big business for an industry whose main growth has been in the past 25 years.

More and more each year car buyers are using the "drive away" plan of delivery. Purchase is made in the regular manner through your local dealer but delivery is made at the factory.

Transportation charges on a car delivered in California are approximately $170; proportionate in other parts of the country. Many people are planning their vacations and car purchases together as the transportation savings go a long way toward vacation costs. Even a commercial standpoint alone it doesn't work out so well. Loss of time and the trip expenses far outshadow the savings effected.

When delivery is made at the factory, every cooperation is given. If you arrive by train or bus, a telephone call to the factory's courtesy division will produce a courtesy car at your hotel in short order. By the time you have finished an escorted tour of the plant your new car will be all serviced and ready to go.

Yesterday, I drove down south into Canada. (Windsor, Canada is due south of Detroit.) My first time in a country at war since the United States gave it up as a bad job—1 hope. Outside of an occasional soldier on the streets there was nothing to remind one of tanks or bombs. No additional restrictions at ports of entry on the border! at least not to Americans.

The past few days I have been checking into the restrictions placed on American goods going into Canada and vice versa. Some of the things are hard to believe, especially the one about an insurance man who bought a new pair of shoes in Detroit and tried to wear them into Canada where he had a temporary residence. More about this later!

Fullerton to Vote Upon Five Officers

Fullerton residents will vote on three councilmanic positions, a city treasurer and a city clerk at elections April 9. Councilmen whose terms expire are Mayor H. H. Kohlenberger, Walter Muchenthaler and William Montague. All are expected to seek re-election.

City Treasurer J. Charles Johnson's nominating petition has already been filled out and returned. Petition for City Clerk Fred Hezmalhalch has been obtained, also.

There are enough members still in congress who remember the last war. They are acting as stabilizers. The present European situation, and what America got out of the last war, thousands of Americans killed, and billions of unpaid debts, is keeping congress leery of any stories of the advisability of a prosperity based upon a military foundation. Then, too, the old adage: A handy gun makes shooting easy.

Gaston Bastanchury Unable to Pay Wife

Gaston Bastanchury, former owner of the vast Bastanchury ranch property north of Fullerton and, at the time, second largest taxpayer in the county, is now penniless, he testified in superior court late last week. Bastanchury was in court to answer an accusation of contempt of court for failure to obey a court order made in 1937, directing him to pay $50 a month to his wife, Mrs. Lola Bastanchury.

The former rancher said he is attempting to re-establish himself as a mining engineer and that he hopes soon to be able to make the payments to his wife. He also admitted being father of four children by another woman, although he and his wife are not divorced because of religious beliefs.

Klansmen Appear Saturday Evening

Fiery Cross Burns at Main North Entrance to Santa Ana

Appearing on the streets in uniform for the first time in many years, members of the Ku Klux Klan Saturday night burned a 15-foot cross on the railway right of way at the intersection of Santa Ana boulevard and El Portal street, main north entrance to Santa Ana.

While the cross was burning uniformed Klansmen appeared on downtown streets and started to pass handbills calling on the congress to take immediate action on revelations of the Dies committee and stamp out communism in the United States.

Police called to the blazing cross found similar handbills on the ground near the Klan symbol. A police detachment also halted the distribution of handbills.

On questioning, Klansmen said that a supreme court decision had nullified the Santa Ana anti-handbill ordinance. Twenty of the Klansmen accompanied police to headquarters and remained there until a conference with City Attorney Lew Blodgett had confirmed their contention. There was no disorder.

Fullerton, Santa Ana and Riverside will provide the two teams for the annual eastern junior college conference basketball playoff, it was apparent today, although surprising upsets in the last two games might change the picture.

The Hornets, as the result of their 41 to 35 decision over Riverside last Friday night, now top the loop with four wins and one loss, with Santa Ana and the Tigers tied in second place with three wins and one defeat. Both the Dons and the Bengals should move up this week by scoring victories over Citrus and San Bernardino, respectively, while Fullerton draws a bye and meets the UCLA frosh Saturday night.

Santa Ana virtually eliminated Pomona last Thursday by trouncing the Red Raiders, 52 to 35. Actual contenders in the playoff will be determined next week when Fullerton meets Pomona and Riverside and Santa Ana get together. That is unless the Raiders should upset the Hornets, and Chaffey continues to win. In that case, the loser of the Riverside-Santa Ana game, Fullerton and Chaffey will all tie for second place.

Pre-game dope, however, points to a series between Fullerton and the Riverside-Santa Ana winner, and the contest between the Dons and Tigers can go either way. The Hornets tripped Riverside last Friday by virtue of a long lead they piled up in the first half, accounted for in the main by the scintillating basket shooting of Forward Glen Walden. Ringing the bell from almost every angle, Walden caged 17 points in the first period and that was all Fullerton needed to leave the court on the long end of a 30 to 18 score. He scored four more points in the second half for a total of 21.

A tired gang of Hornets had plenty of trouble holding off Riverside in the second half, however. With Set Murrillo, the Tigers' all-conference guard, taking over the job of covering Walden, and the rest of the team playing excellent defensive ball, the Bengals limited Fullerton to 11 points in the second period. Offensively, Riverside was no more effective than in the first half and the 17 points rung up succeeded only in slashing Fullerton's ultimate margin of victory.

Tom Fuller, Riverside's ace center, was limited to 2 points during the game, but he still led the Tigers in scoring. Santa Ana had virtually no trouble in trouncing Pomona last Thursday, although the Raiders made it close during most of the first half. With seven minutes to go in the period, Coach John Ward sent Hal Lilley in at forward for Capt. Russ Deardon, and Lilley laced in 11 points before the end of the period to send the Dons out in front by 27 to 15.

Director of SRA Grilled on Story

Possible Political Motives Behind Releases Bring Assembly Hearing

Lawrence Platt, Orange county SRA director, and Paul Vissman, project supervisor, were questioned for three hours in Sacramento last Saturday afternoon regarding possible political motives behind their action in curtailing garden projects here, and their press announcements that relief would shut down unless the legislature appropriated funds for SRA.

Orange county's two assemblymen, Thomas H. Kuechel of Anaheim and Clyde A. Watson of Orange, demanded the inquiry after reading newspaper statements that relief was at a standstill for lack of funds, whereas the two assemblymen contended there was sufficient money in Orange county. Both participated in the questioning of Platt and Vissman, reports from Sacramento said.

During the hearing Platt said he acted entirely on his own authority in closing down three county garden projects except for skeleton crews, and stopping certifications of new clients. He said he read newspaper accounts of the legislative deadlock in Sacramento and was informed by his Los Angeles superiors there was no more money against which to write checks.

Platt said he did not want men to work in the gardens without assurance they would receive a 15 per cent differential for lunches and gasoline, so ordered them home.

"I didn't know they would vote enough money the way they were making a joke out of relief," Platt remarked at one point.

Kuechel conducted most of the questioning. He learned that Platt had been SRA director for 11 months. Platt denied any projects had been closed down or work orders had been cancelled, stating that only the garden project workers were told to go home until the legislature appropriated money.

Kuechel read a story from a Los Angeles paper on Feb. 7, to the effect 13,000 persons faced a bleak future because the SRA had halted all activities (in Orange county) for lack of funds, quoting Platt. Platt denied making any such statement and said he was misquoted, although it was true 13,000 persons would be affected if the legislature had failed to vote an appropriation.

Platt said the Santa Ana Register had asked for a story and he told Vissman, who handled most of the press relations, to prepare it. Vissman later in the hearing said he wrote the story appearing in county papers, but denied contacting the Los Angeles paper or press services, all of which carried similar stories.

Kuechel then produced a yellow mimeographed circular, urging opposition to returning relief to the counties and attacking Kuechel and Watson for asserted cooperation with "special interests."

Platt said he had seen it for the first time on Friday but did not know how it was distributed or who wrote it. He said it was not prepared in the SRA office.

Watson produced a petition against returning relief to the counties, which Platt said he thought was circulated by old age pensioners. Platt said they were not seen around his office.

Platt denied that anyone within or outside the SRA had told him to put out information in Kuechel's or Watson's district that the legislature was making a joke of relief. He said Vissman had never given out anything erroneous prior to the present emergency.

Vissman testified that he wrote the original story for The Register and also gave it to Robert Geivet, who represents other Orange county newspapers.

Second of Lighting Forums is Planned

Latest news in the lighting field will be reviewed Monday night at the second meeting in a series of free lighting forums being held at the Willard auditorium, 1234 N. Ross street, Santa Ana. The forum, which is open to anyone interested in attending, will start at 7:30 o'clock. The chairmen will be Harry Becker and George J. Wheat.

Two outstanding authorities on particular phases of modern illumination will be the speakers. Alford S. Rodgers, South Pacific division engineer for the General Electric lamp department, will lecture on "Light's Newest Sources," and John T. Shannon, manager of the Keese Engineering company, manufacturer of lighting equipment will speak on "Putting Light to Work."

Highly prized books made for the early kings and popes were so expensive that they actually cost their weight in gold.

Second Place in Contest

Cut Courtesy Anoranco.

In a nation-wide contest sponsored by New York Hat Style council Mary Sowden, a junior in Anaheim union high school, and the school paper, The Anoranco, received prizes of $25 each for placing second in the hat contest. Miss Sowden entered in the nation-wide contest a hat advertisement made up by the high school print shop and under the supervision of Royal C. Marten, head of the high school journalism department. The winning ad, advertising hats from the S. Q. R. Store of Anaheim, was made by Mary with the help of that firm.

Mary said her award will go toward furthering her education, while the Anoranco will use its share of the money for equipment to improve the paper.

Bond Cancellation Ordered Stopped

Dispute Over Jurisdiction in Condemnation Suits is Reason for Action

Cancellation of flood control bonds repurchased by the county with reimbursement funds received from the federal government was stopped late last week when contention arose between state and federal courts over jurisdiction in condemnation suits covering Prado reservoir lands.

The question of jurisdiction arose late last week when Superior Judge George Freeman, of Riverside county, refused to dismiss the condemnation suits which the Orange county flood district had filed there before being notified that the federal government would take over, and had filed its own condemnation suit in federal district court in Los Angeles.

Judge Freeman made his decision after attorneys for the defendant property owners resisted the motion to dismiss the cases on the ground that the flood district had already posted bond and taken possession of the property, had cut the ground up, and built a dam upon some of it, and could not restore the property to the owners.

The first of the condemnation suits, set for hearing in Riverside county superior court, thus remains scheduled for trial on March 5. At that time another case, that against the Excelsior Creamery company, and Mr. and Mrs. Prudence S. Yorba, will be set for trial.

Meanwhile, Attorneys Head Wellington and Jacobs, representing the Yorbas and the Excelsior company, have filed a motion in federal court, Los Angeles, to quash the summons in connection with the condemnation suit filed there, and dismiss the action, because it duplicates litigation in the state court. Hearing of the motion is set for next Monday.

New Leaders Picked By County Officers

New officers of the Orange County Peace Officers association, elected last week, are R. I. Morris, Newport Beach police; president; Donald M. Blossom, Huntington Beach police, vice president; John Upson, Newport Beach police, secretary-treasurer, and Highway Patrol Officer Lloyd Groover, sergeant-at-arms. Trustees are Constable George Bartley of Orange and Burnette Lane, Santa Ana police. D. D. Adams of the highway patrol is the retiring president.

SADIE HAWKINS CO-ED DANCE

February 23 at 8 o'clock will be a big event, according to members of the junior class of Anaheim union high school, because that is the day the Sadie Hawkins co-ed dance will be held in the girls gym. The juniors have as a special feature for the evening a prize to be awarded to the best 'Lil' Abner and best Daisy Mae.

To be eligible to compete in the contest, the boys must wear overalls and the girls must wear cotton dresses, typifying the dress of the two famous funny paper characters.

HONOR SOCIETY

Awarding of Torch pins, election of officers and the revealing of ditch day for the members were the topics discussed in a meeting of the Honor society Tuesday. All students who have been members of the Honor society for four semesters will be awarded Torch pins which they will retain as long as they are members of the club. Also officers will be elected for the new semester.

Freshmen who have enough grade points to join the club will be given invitations to join.

SENIOR DANCE

Celebrating Anaheim's victory over the Jordan Panthers, the annual Valentine dance was held last Friday night in the girls gym of Anaheim high school. Sponsored by the senior class, the dance featured the music of Clarence Williams and his "Knights of Swing."

Valentine decorations consisted of red and white streamers, red and white hearts suspended from the ceiling, and large red hearts on the walls.

A large crowd enjoyed the dance, as well as some novelties as the impromptu jam session of Duane Wilder, George Garabedian, and Bob Cox during the intermission.

POSTER WINNERS

Patsy Cawthon and Frances Marco were the winners of the poster contest sponsored by the student commission on clean-up week Tuesday. The poster was painted and had a slogan, "Don't me Angels with a Dirty Campus" (Patsy) and "Stop trash around the corner" (Frances).

Subdivision West Of City is Begun

Subdivision of 54 acres of property located at Hansen road and Lincoln avenue into small-farm plots was announced late last week by J. B. Milford, one of the subdividers. Associated with Milford in the venture is G. L. Pangborn.

The property was acquired from the Agnes Getzen estate and will be divided into not more than 91 parcels, Milford said. The subdivision is planning to start construction of three houses at once, and other residences may be built by his concern or by contractors selected by the buyers of the property.

The two winners completed the posters in Miss Edith Weber's second year art class on a special assignment. Other posters entered in the contest were posted in various places over the campus where students might see them and be reminded that this is clean up week.

The cleanup campaign, as sponsored by the student body commission, has as its objective the improvements of cleanliness on the school grounds, and the increased use of trash cans for their intended purpose.

NEW CLUB

Plans have been completed for the new honor society to be organized at Anaheim union high school. This new society is to be called "The Penorian" and is a scholarship group not affiliated in any way with the California Scholastic association.

The purpose of "The Penorian" is to recognize those students above average scholastic standing, and to foster higher standards of achievement in the school.

Students eligible are those who have been attending Anaheim high school at least one semester and have made the required number of grad points, which are counted differently than for the regular honor society.

Twenty points are required, but these may be from both academic and non-academic subjects. An A counts three points and a B counts two points. Applications may be obtained from Miss Virginia Huff in room 8, and must be returned by Friday, February 16. Monthly meetings are to be held alternately at noon and at night. The first meeting has been tentatively set for Thursday, February 22, at noon.

FROST HITS FLORIDA, TEXAS CITRUS!

How to gain most from higher prices

In recent years the supply of oranges and grapefruit has exceeded the demand at satisfactory prices. Thus prices have been low.

Now the supply has been heavily reduced. Prices will go up.

With this situation, Exchange growers stand to gain the most.

Growers who sold their crops early will see others pocket the profit. Exchange grower returns will be in line with the advancing market.

But this is only one of the points in the Exchange grower's favor.

The Exchange has direct representation in all the markets to act exclusively in the grower's interests. It is prepared to take full advantage of the many exceptional sales opportunities which will occur.

Exchange members have the further advantage of selling under the "Sunkist" brand. Their fruit will bring higher than average prices.

Because of large volume, Exchange marketing costs are the lowest. Even including advertising retains (more than repaid in price premiums) they compare favorably with any.

All this assures more returns for Exchange fruit, and more of that return for the grower.

Take advantage of all these benefits. Investigate at once what Exchange membership will mean to you in added income. Call at the address below—or at any district exchange or Sunkist packing house.

is such that the district comprises a geographical unit which is conducive to economical sewage disposal.

6. A joint sewage treatment plant for the area is the most desirable.

7. The present site of the pumping plant seems to be the proper location, but other sites in the same locality should be studied.

8. Facilities for sedimentation, separate sludge digestion with gases burned and sludge drying will produce an effluent which will be acceptable for ocean disposal and will produce a minimum of nuisance.

9. The plans of the treatment plant should allow for additions and refinements.

10. A liberal estimate of the construction of a joint treatment plant is $135,000 to $175,000.

11. The project can be financed, over a two-year period, on a pay-as-you-go basis.

12. Part of construction should be completed by early summer, if nuisance is to be minimized, and the entire project should be completed before fall.

13. The possibilities of a steering committee should be considered.

The executive board meets again this evening and will study the report, City Engineer E. P. Haggood said.

Free Market is Seen for Citrus

MOD General Manager Files Report on Survey of Florida Damage

After a personal survey of frost-damaged Florida citrus groves, General Manager Bruce McDaniel today told directors of Mutual Orange Distributors that California's valencia oranges "should have a relatively free market." Because of canning operations, damage to grapefruit is impossible to determine, he said.

"Florida's valencia season will be short," said McDaniel, "probably ending in May instead of going over to July. Crystallization will be hastened. If fruit now cutting good begins to break down, we must anticipate heavier volume earlier in the season. California valencias should have a relatively free market."

"Florida growers are widely divided in opinion as to extent of the frost damage. Reliable growers in the Ridge district estimate that 80 per cent of the valencias in that district will be marketed. Others feel the crop is destroyed. Those whose groves are badly hit and who have not inspected all producing areas feel the crop is gone; others with groves favorably located are optimistic."

"Volume of oranges and grapefruit to be shipped will depend on strictness of Florida frost regulations. Between now and time drying-out occurs, it will be difficult to classify the fruit."

He estimated no more than 1,000,000 boxes of early and mid-season varieties of oranges could be salvaged.

All varieties of nursery stock undoubtedly are greatly reduced, he added. The tendency henceforth, hastened by the freeze, will be the replanting of better tree stock and reducing the number of varieties.

Incidentally, McDaniel reported that continued new plantings were to be expected and that much land favorable to citrus still is available. In this connection he called attention to comparative low costs in Florida, citing some of the efficient producer-shippers who advise they can produce, pick, haul, pack and load oranges on cars at 90 cents for a 90-pound box, and expect to reduce this to 80 cents.

Balboa-Los Angeles Bus Line Advocated

Possibility that the present rail line between Newport-Balboa and Los Angeles would be replaced by a fast interurban bus service was disclosed early this week, following a meeting in Los Angeles between Newport-Balboa civic leaders and railroad officials.
