

WHY CHANCELLED PORTS? — Probably the greatest surprise of modern times has been the apparent ease, and have all the terrifying speed with which the Nazis slashed through the reputedly impenetrable "Little Maginot Line" and raced across France to the ports of Abbeville and Boulogne on the English Channel.

French Premier Reynaud spoke of "incredible blunders" by the French high command. But it was a theory that caused the downfall of Gamelin, first commander-in-chief of the Allied armies in the present war. This theory was that an offensive against prepared positions would, in modern warfare, prove so expensive as to amount to military suicide. Obviously he still thought of the machine gun as "queen of the battlefield." When Germany invaded Holland and Belgium, therefore, the Allies, acting on previously prepared plans, pivoted like a door and swung through Belgium to meet the Nazi advance. The hinge of this movement was at Sedan.

Any amateur carpenter knows that if a door is to work, its hinges must be strong. This was disregarded by Gamelin. At the vital hinge point he placed what we now know to have been the worst trained corps in the entire Allied army. The picked forces were to form the door, but inferior troops were considered good enough to hold the hinge because they would remain in fortified positions. Adding blunder to blunder, the fortified line around Sedan was organized virtually without depth making a complete break-through possible. The first German attack smashed the hinge, and the door was no longer strong. The rest of the campaign has been only a desperate attempt to extricate the Allies from the Belgian trap sprung upon them by their own high command.

BALKAN BLOC—As the shadow of Italian expansionist ambition deepens in the Balkans, falling across Yugoslavia and Greece, Russia has moved quickly to bar the gateway. Reports tell of the establishing of a Balkan bloc, including Rumania, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, and Russia. There are even rumors that the three smaller nations have agreed, at last to permit Russian troops to cross their frontiers to aid in repelling any Italian attack. Rome declares that eventually war in the Balkans will find Germany, Italy, Hungary, and Bulgaria aligned against Rumania, Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey. The Russian move, however, changes this picture radically. Hungary has had to side politically with Germany and Italy because she is entirely dependent on them in both an economic and a military sense. Also, Hungary still hopes, some day, to recover from Rumanian lands which were a part of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. Bulgaria, too, has claims against Rumania. These claims have been frequently and bitterly advanced, but Bulgaria has so far consistently hitched her political wagon to Russia's star. If she were to join the Nazi-Fascist alliance, she would be preventing help from reaching Rumania in the form of the armies of Turkey, Greece and of those forces which the allies have gathered in the near East for just such an event. With Russia against her, however, Bulgaria would almost surely be speedily over-run. The signs then, seem to point to Bulgaria's falling in with the policies of Moscow, even at the expense, for the time at least, of her own ambitions.

Russia's Balkan diplomacy does not necessarily mean that Stalin would, or even could, join the Allies, although even this is not entirely out of the picture. It is more likely, however, that the aim is to keep Mussolini out of these areas where the influence of the Communist government has been built up over a period of years, and where the difference between Rome and Moscow still appear, at this moment, to be incapable of compromise.

TURKEY RECONSIDERS — Of vital interest to the Allies, of course, is the attitude of Turkey. When this power entered into commercial and military agreements with Britain and France soon after the outbreak of war, London and Paris were pleased. Now Turkey is reported as reconsidering her policies. At first

Preparedness And Peace Urged in Address

Approximately 500 persons attended the services, a portion of which was held at the flag pole and tomb of the Unknown Soldier and the remainder in front of the mausoleum. William P. Webb was master of ceremonies, and while introducing heads of patriotic organizations, called attention to the fact that Mrs. Mary Coons had not missed a Memorial day service at Anaheim cemetery in 52 years.

Increased Use of Oranges is Urged

Exchange Representative Is Speaker at Meeting of Booster Body

"If each person in southern California would use one more orange each day, the surplus in the Valencia crop would be virtually eliminated," D. M. Anderson, member of the dealer service division of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, said yesterday noon at the Elks club while speaking to members of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce. Leo J. Fris, director, introduced the speaker in the absence of President Louis H. Hoskins.

Anderson spoke on the Orange Week celebration in Orange county and on the citrus marketing prospects for this coming season. He said that Orange Week is aimed at the large majority of southern Californians who are not actively engaged in the citrus business, adding that people in the citrus belt will buy orange juice if they can get it and an effort is made to sell it to them.

Efforts are Praised
The speaker praised the efforts of the various communities sponsoring the Orange Week events and told of some of the results obtained in the various towns.

Present indications are that both the orange and lemon markets will be better this summer, Anderson said. "We have one of the nicest looking crops of Valencia, and the best run of sizes we have had for some time. Another encouraging sign is the decrease of shipments of competing fruits."

General Optimism
There is a general optimism in the eastern markets, the speaker reported, and predicted that the industry can look forward to a good sale and an increase in return.

Advertising has been expanded considerably this year, he said, with schedules prepared for some 3000 newspapers, some of the leading magazines, radio programs and billboards. The dealer service staff has also been greatly increased for this summer.

In closing, Anderson pointed out that the Orange Week events are not activities of the California Fruit Growers Exchange alone, but that the promotion efforts "as industry-wide."

Sutherland met death when automobiles driven by his son, James F. Witnesses during the inquest were Jacob Diest, Fullerton police officer who investigated the crash; Miss Jeanne Davis of Atwood, daughter of the driver of the second car, and Paul Tedrick of Ventura, identification witness.

Mrs. Virginia Richards at Atwood, another daughter of Mrs. Davis, also escaped injury.

Directors Named By Business Men

A. E. Isham of Mutual Orange Distributors Speaks at Merchants' Meeting

A board of directors of seven men was chosen this morning to work with President O. E. Hanson of the Anaheim Merchants association. Hanson was installed at the close of the breakfast meeting at the Marigold cafe. Members of the board are August Schumacher, Everett M. Cone, J. Ben Kaulbars, L. C. Herron, Father James Nevin, H. E. W. Barnes and Louis H. Hoskins.

Speaker of the morning was A. E. Isham, field manager of the Mutual Orange Distributors, who spoke on various phases of the citrus industry. Citrus, he said, is a business, and is important to every resident of southern California. He quoted statistics to show that in localities where the citrus income has decreased a general business decrease is also recorded.

Unit Cost Too High
The problem facing the citrus grower is not that there are too many oranges, but that there are too few oranges to the tree, Isham said. Unit production must be increased and the unit cost of production must be lessened. Merchandising machinery must be gotten into shape to sell more oranges.

The speaker criticized the citrus growers who have taken a defeatist attitude toward the problems and are depending too much on outsiders to pull them out of the doldrums. The industry itself has energy and brains enough to make improvements, he declared.

Parking Law Approved
The association passed a resolution urging that the city council adopt an ordinance establishing 15-minute and 20-minute parking zones in various locations in the business district. The resolution was presented after City Attorney Leo J. Fris had outlined the provisions of the ordinance now prepared but not yet submitted to the council.

Moreno, 24, of 315 West Chestnut street. A second suspect, Dick Moreno, 23, of Route 1, Box 371, Anaheim, was released because of lack of evidence, and the assistance he gave police in recovering the stolen property.

Both men were arrested Friday evening and were arraigned before City Judge Frank Tausch Monday morning. John Moreno was given the maximum sentence of a fine of $500, or 250 days in jail, and a jail sentence of six months.

Approximately 150 members of pioneer families are expected to attend, with invitations having been sent to many persons now living in other communities. Lewis to Officiate
L. A. (Payette) Lewis has been chosen as master of ceremonies for the reunion, for the fourth consecutive year. Lewis is a native of Anaheim and is now known throughout California as a past president of the California State Elks association. He has also gained no little fame as a speaker on Americanism. Lewis is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lewis, prominent Anaheim residents.

No formal program is being planned, the afternoon to be spent entirely in visiting and renewing old friendships. Luncheon will be held at noon with coffee, sugar and cream being furnished by the DAR. Those attending the picnic are asked to bring their own food, dishes and table service.

Well Publicized
The sponsoring group has made every effort to contact anyone living in southern California who is a member of a pioneer or old-time family of Anaheim, in order that this year's event may be the most successful ever held. In addition to the cards, which have been mailed to persons attending last year, other efforts have also been made to publicize the event. General chairman of arrangements is Miss Eleonora A. Parker, regent of Mother Colony chapter of the DAR. Assisting committees are Mrs. Ruth Jefferson Rust, park facilities; Mrs. Charles Pearson, table decorations, and Mrs. Albert Karlen, Mrs. Ernst Borchert and Mrs. Charles Pearson, coffee.

Concludes Long Service

Forty-five years of almost continual service as engineer for the Santa Fe railway on its Los Angeles to San Diego run was brought to a close last Friday by L. H. Ledger, shown above on the steps of the cab of the steamliner which he operated. Ledger is an uncle of Theodore B. Kuehl and Thomas H. Kuehl of Anaheim.

Ted Kuehl received a letter last Saturday from Ledger in which he reviewed his life with the railroad company, as it pertains to Anaheim. The letter follows:

"My first introduction to Anaheim was in 1890. In 1894 I brought my family from Illinois. I imagined I might make a first class orange grove farmer. Mr. (J. P.) Zeyn took the wind out of my sails. He said my best bet was in my own line—railroading.

"Anaheim was a little country town then. I have watched Anaheim grow into a beautiful city. I took advice of Mr. Zeyn and went back to the railroad. I was employed by the California Southern—now the Los Angeles division who made merry the afternoon were the Misses Walling, Sterner, Schurr, Jessurun, Howard, Steadman, Fisher, Wellman, and Misses Brown and Adland of Garden Grove. Miss Kennedy was assisted in receiving by her aunt, Miss Anna Ryan.

J. E. Stroup and family returned an absence of a couple of weeks. They make the trip in an auto carrying with them a camping outfit, and playing Gipsy along the route. The weather being favorable the trip was an exceedingly pleasant one.

G. H. Hatfield had an attack of paralysis Friday. He is slowly improving it is reported.

A 900-barrel gusher was brought in this week by the Standard Oil company on the Stearns Coyote lease at a depth of 3500 feet.

Hans Strom, a former Anaheim boy, but who now lives at Imperial, was visiting his old friends last week. He is a student at Stanford University.

Vocation Survey Will Start Soon

The occupational survey committee of Orange county will start a survey of all occupations on June 10. The committee, headed by Genevieve Humiston of the Santa Ana junior college, is composed of representatives of the schools of Orange county, the Parent Teachers association, American Federation of Labor, Business and Professional Women's clubs, Santa Ana Business Men's association, Altrusa Clubs of Orange county, National Youth administration, service clubs, Orange County League of Women Voters, department of employment, state of California, American Association of University Women. Between 600 and 700 women of the P-T. A., Business and Professional Women's clubs, Altrusa Clubs of Orange county, the League of Women Voters and the American association tion of University Women are ready to contact the employers. The information will be used by the school counselors to assist high school and junior college students in the selection of vocations. It will also be available to adults who require vocational assistance. "Employers of Orange county are urged to cooperate when we approach them for the purpose of completing the questionnaire," Miss Humiston said. "The schools have for years needed this information for the purpose of laying before the students, full details about work opportunities that exist here. This survey will help employers by making available to them, better trained applicants for work," she added. Miss Humiston further stated that the information received from the individual employer will be held strictly confidential.

Pardon is Sought For Innocent Man

A gubernatorial pardon for Lawson Gist, 25, of Orange is being sought as the result of evidence uncovered during an investigation which lasted two years and which verifies Gist's contention that he was wrongfully convicted of charges of kidnapping, armed robbery and grand theft. Gist was convicted April 20, 1938, and has been in San Quentin prison since. Affidavits, secured by Attorney Nick Meyer through the work of Harold Boyce, district attorney's investigator; Charles W. Welford, detective lieutenant of Santa Ana police, and Attorney Fred Johnston, who was assigned by the court to defend Gist, allegedly named Arnold Johnson, another Orange man, who looks almost exactly like Gist, as the man who committed the crimes for which Gist was convicted.

Boy Dies Following Swimming Contests

A heart attack, suffered after he had remained under water for more than a minute while swimming with two friends, is believed to have been the cause of death of Allen J. Jones 18, of 2001 Maple street, Santa Ana, Sunday afternoon.

Young Jones was swimming in a pool in trabuco creek with Richard Ernhart and Norman Dubuque, both of Santa Ana, when they decided to see who could stay under water longest. Jones won the contest, but collapsed as he climbed to the bank of the creek and died before he could reach the Orange county hospital.

Gist was found guilty by a jury of kidnapping James Givens of Santa Ana, taking him to a secluded spot near the city, robbing him of his money and taking his car.

SOCIETY

Log of Life

by
Estelle Lawton Lindsey

"For some time I have wanted to get something off my chest to some one. And knowing no one who would, I thought, understand so well, I have turned to you. It is a problem that has had me fighting mad for some time. I can't understand why radio 'dramas,' fiction stories and so many other articles always refer to the mean parent as a step-mother or step-father. It never seems to be the child's real father or mother. You see, Mrs. Lindsey, I am a stepmother. I have two adorable girls and we are the greatest pals in the world, the three of us, and I love them as much as any mother could love.

"It was some time before I would accept their father simply because I wanted to be sure of their love for me and my love for them. They were so young and sweet and I would never have forgiven myself if I had been the cause of unhappiness in their life by marrying their father. As it is, we have been happy, very happy. For this reason I hate the word step-mother, for I feel that writers as well as other people have been unfair to us. To those who don't know the situation I never act in any way to indicate that they are not mine. Too often I have heard people sneer, Oh, she is their step-mother. Didn't you know?

"When I hear people say that I want to ask if they are as good to their children as 'that woman' is to the children whom she had a right to choose? I never miss your column, and enjoy it so much, though taking issue sometimes with your opinion. But who would want to live in a world where everyone was alike? But I want you know how I feel, that every evening I have an appointment with a friend for five or ten minutes chat. STEP-MOTHER. And aren't these little girls lucky? I am glad to have that letter, for it opened the way for a discussion that I have long wanted to enjoy. Will the loggers come in and help? Why should any good woman be a bad step-mother? Q.—My problem is my mother. She worries over nothing at all, and she has been this way since she was 40; the symptoms are nothing new. She has no marital worries; my dad has good habits and she never had any real trouble in her life, but she nurses imaginary troubles years on end. Does this sort of thing lead to sanity? What can be done about it? M. O.

A.—It is very likely to lead to insanity and nothing can be done about it except to find out whether the victim is entirely well. If she is, she is merely suffering from a bad emotional habit, which is just as fatal to the happiness of a home as the liquor habit would be. It might be that a good neurologist could help her. Library's Budget Passed by Board

Annual meeting of the Anaheim public library board was held last evening with new officers chosen, committees appointed and reports of activities made. Officers elected are Fred Backs, president; Earl E. Smith, vice president, and Miss E. Kate Rea, secretary-treasurer. The budget for the coming year was approved and will be presented to the city council next week. An increase in book allowance is asked, but no other changes are being sought. Salaries will remain the same as last year.

For the second consecutive year a branch library will be opened in the Anaheim city park during July and August. It will be open from 1 to 5 o'clock each afternoon.

Traffic Accidents Hurt Two Persons

Two minor traffic accidents resulting in slight injuries to two men were investigated late last week by Anaheim police. One of the injured men, Delfin Trujillo, 60, of 212 Date street was struck down as he walked across Center street at Clementine street Friday night. Driver of the automobile was Arthur W. Studebaker, 35, of Route 1, box 480, Fullerton, police said.

Garven Y. Prigmore, 44, of Long Beach was slightly hurt Thursday morning when his car and one driven by Joe Martinez, 19, of Los Angeles, collided at the intersection of Center and Los Angeles streets.

LONG BEACH GIRL DIES IN ACCIDENT

Orange county recorded its 24th fatality in traffic accidents during the year early Monday morning when Miss Virginia Muir, 17, of Long Beach was killed when a car in which she was riding went out of control and overturned near Midway City. Driver of the car was Charles E. Kemp, 20, also of Long Beach, according to reports of the California highway patrol.

Riding with Kemp and Miss Muir were Miss Gertrude Graham, 19, and G. E. Whitley, 19 of Long Beach. Both were thrown from the car when it overturned. Miss Muir suffered a deep cut over her heart, crushed ribs on her left side and a neck injury.

is also shown upon the plaque. This model is now in the National Museum at Washington, D. C. The boat was propelled by a series of oars operated by a steam driven draw-bar.

The monument was unveiled on May 20, 1927 and its custody vested by the national government in the John Fitch chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at Bardstown.

Labor Board Hit In Club Address

Protection of civil liberties for American citizens was the keynote of talk given before members of the Anaheim Rotary club Monday noon by Stanley Van Nostrand of Californians, Inc. The speaker was introduced by John J. Dwyer, program chairman of the day.

Van Nostrand criticized the National Labor Relations board for the methods it has employed in hearing several cases, charging that it was high-handed an Un-American in its assumption of power.

A eulogy to the late James Sutherland, a member of the club, was given by S. C. Hartman. T. L. McFadden presided over the meeting in the absence of President P. J. Weisel, who is in Alaska.

By WARREN BAYLEY

BARDSTOWN, Ky.—This morning as I strolled about the historic old city. (Founded 1775, second oldest in Kentucky) I chanced upon a small memorial erected on the Court House square. Pausing idly to read it, I experienced much the same sensation as when I discovered about Santa Claus. The memorial was erected to the memory of John Fitch—inventor of the steamboat.

For a good many years I have been under the impression that Robert Fulton invented the steamboat; an opinion which, I am sure, is shared by most everyone. According to the statements engraved upon a bronze plaque on this memorial, Fulton had no more to do with the steamboat's invention than you and I.

These statements are taken from government records and are doubtless true. In view of the fact that they predate Fulton's launching of the Clermont by some 19 years, and that Fulton's and Livingston's New York patents were annulled as in conflict with federal jurisdiction, it would tend to prove a case of misplaced credit. The following is a copy of the statements as taken from the memorial plaque.

"Beneath this Memorial are interred the mortal remains of John Fitch, Soldier and Inventor. Born at South Windsor, Conn., January 21, 1743—Died at Bardstown, Kentucky, July 2nd, 1798."

At the outbreak of the American revolution he was appointed a lieutenant of a New Jersey company of the first regiment and later employed as armorer for the troops of the committee of safety for the province of New Jersey. In the fall of 1785 he presented drawings of his proposed steamboat to the American Philosophical society and endeavored to finance experiments by selling maps of his explorations and petitioning the assemblies of Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania for assistance. On the Delaware river August 22, 1787, John Fitch launched and successfully operated a steamboat before a distinguished gathering which included the framers of the American Constitution, then in session during the years 1786-7. Laws granting Fitch exclusive rights to navigate by steam were enacted by several states. On July 26, 1788, he launched another steamboat using a stern paddle-wheel, and on April 16, 1790 his steamboat established and maintained scheduled sailings in the Delaware. Congress granted John Fitch a patent August 26, 1791, signed by President George Washington. King Louis of France likewise granted the American inventor a patent on November 20 of the same year. In 1796 Fitch constructed still another steamboat using a form of screw propeller. He reaped neither profit nor glory from his inventions which contributed toward the revolution of navigation.

OUR WHIRLING DERVISH

Mr. Ellis E. Patterson, who some time ago announced that he was going to offer himself to our state as a candidate for United States Senator, has been changing his principles, his political platform, and his positions on public questions so often during these last few months, that he has come to rival the whirling dervish, figuratively, and almost literally as well.

The story of Mr. Patterson's chameleon like changes might well begin with his hand-wagon jump to the Democratic party in 1936 when that political group was in the ascendancy in this state. As assemblyman in 1937, Patterson hugged to himself everything that smacked of the new and the different, no matter how radical or foolish. The following year, he was nominated—by the same plurality of radical Democrats who went for Governor Olson—for lieutenant-governor; and, again with Governor Olson, was elected by shouting "party loyalty," in a state election, where almost everyone agrees there ought not to be any partisanship at all.

A news story out of Sacramento this week, particularizes a list of the latest amazing flip-flops of Mr. Patterson. First, after castigating President Roosevelt as a "war-monger" and the like, in the presidential primaries last month, he now announces that he is solidly behind the third-term movement; although he sentimentally announces that the Democratic party had better not continue its clandestine relations with Wall street, or he will leave it. The consternation of the leaders of the Democratic party can readily be imagined at such a tragic defection from their ranks.

Then, after having engaged in a "you're another" contest with Governor Olson, during last month's election, he now abruptly whips around, and says that he is going to help Mr. Olson carry out his program.

Patterson then states that he is going after Senator Hiram W. Johnson, "hook, line, and sinker." One is reminded of the jenny wren who didn't like the redwood tree, and wanted to peck it to pieces.

Perhaps, in the midst of all their troubles and their cares, the people of California may find a little relaxation in the antics of their lieutenant-governor. But when the elections roll around this year, Mr. Patterson, together with his fellow candidates, will be engulfed under the avalanche of acclaim which California will give to her senior senator. But then, after the elections, are all over, Mr. Patterson may start whirling around again.

OUR ORANGE WEEK

Orange week, in Orange county, is certainly serving its purpose of demonstrating to our home people both how delicious oranges are, and how much can be done here to promote their consumption.

Reports received here this week point to a good year for citrus products in the eastern market, and it is to be hoped that the orange ranches may look forward to better times in the sale of the best fruit of all.

Perhaps the most favorable kind of information, in connection with oranges, is the determination by medical science of the tremendous value of oranges, and of other citrus fruit, in promoting good health. A California orange, laboratory tests demonstrate, is a veritable gold mine of health producing vitamins, and it is now being indicated by the medical profession as compulsory diet in the relief of many ailments.

Apparently, also, there is a scientific difference between the local product and citrus fruit of the deep south, brought on by an abundance of reasons: different soil, climate and the like.

Too long have the people of California denied themselves the full value of eating oranges. Armed with statistics on the great worth of his product, our Orange rancher may the more easily sell his crop, which, after all, should need no sales talk to this state. So it may be concluded that Orange Week is no sales campaign; it is but a demonstration—and a successful one—of the fact that we can, should, and do consume an ever increasing portion of our citrus fruits here at home.

SHEPPARD CRACKS WHIP OVER SUPERVISORS

As an illustration of the way politics sometimes work through, over and around all party lines is the fact that the county board of supervisors is finding it necessary to help Congressman Harry Sheppard do a little axe grinding. They have to do it because Sheppard went to bat for them in Washington and pulled a federal appropriation out of the fire to reimburse Orange county for its costs in buying lands for the flood control dam at Prado.

Sheppard has a good friend and lieutenant who has a rather small job in the county welfare department. He has been demanding a better one. It was thought he could be taken care of with a postoffice in his home town but he couldn't pass the examination. So now something else has to be done, and the supervisors have been "asked" to see that he gets moved up a notch in his present department, even though it means demoting or letting out another incumbent.

And both the promotee and the demotee are henchmen of one of the democratic supervisors, whom they helped elect four years ago and who had to take care of them as best he could. The other democratic supervisor is a probable candidate against Sheppard in the August primary. The rest of the supervisors are republicans. So altogether it makes quite a neat little cross-word puzzle.

MISS ANDERSON OUT?

The analysis of the Robbie Anderson candidacy for the state senate on the democratic ticket as made in this Watchtower two weeks ago seems to be substantiated. At least, the word is whispered around that she will not run. That she was pushed into it by democratic forces anxious to push other possible democratic candidates out of the picture can hardly be doubted. The whisper now is that Burr Brown is to get the nod from the demo leaders.

OLSON IN CONFERENCE

Governor Olson visited Orange county Monday, ostensibly to give a boost to Orange week, but particularly to hold some conferences with local leaders. About 20 of them got together. The main topic was how to win votes and influence candidates—the good ones to stay in and the poor ones to stay out. The governor urged that local democratic present a united front on county and district offices, dodging the primary contests by agreeing beforehand which candidate should make the race.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

California far organizations, which had the foresight and courage to warn the state against the spread of communish and seditious activities long before the apt term, "Fifth Column," came into being—and which were bitterly condemned for even suggesting such a thing—have achieved belated vindication during recent weeks.

Overseas, one liberty-loving nation after another has fondered on "Fifth Column" treachery, sold out by enemies who bored from within.

And here in California, the report of the assembly committee on subversive activities, which was rendered during the closing days of the special session of the state legislature, is a clarion call to arms against the same forces and influences which sought to terrorize farming communities and incite class violence.

That committee, headed by Assemblyman Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, a crusading liberal—who fortunately discovered that many well-intentioned liberals were being sucked into cleverly-disguised communist organizations, and who had the courage and honesty to ferret out the truth and make it public—rendered a report which has already brought action on several fronts to protect California from the enemies within its gates.

There is conclusive evidence of the stark reality of the "Fifth Column" in California," the committee reported.

Americans have delayed too long in facing the problem which these "Fifth Columns" have created. We must not continue to make the mistake of being apathetic and tolerant toward their treasonable activities. If we do, our inexcusable apathy and misguided tolerance will eventually be discovered among tools used to destroy our government, our constitution and our freedom."

The recommendations of the Yorty report are interesting, not alone because they highlight the problem and means of coping with it, but because they are recommendations, for the most part which farm organizations have made for several years past.

They are as follows: Undertake immediately a thorough investigation of all subversive activities in California. (After the report was rendered, the legislature appropriated $2500 to permit the Yorty committee to make a further investigation.)

Enact laws, both federal and state, to force leftwing propagandists and undercover party operators into the open. (This column recently recommended that communists, voting the communist ticket but hiding their registration, be driven into the open by a requirement that any political party must have a registration equaling three per cent of the vote at the preceding general election.)

Set up legal machinery to strengthen defenses against actual physical sabotage by subversive elements. (Farmers, who have been more subject to acts of sabotage than any other group, have demanded protection of this

by JAMES PRESTON

As the big totalitarian states of Europe continue the inhuman and methodical process of crushing the "neutral" nations under their iron heels, Americans are able to observe—at a distance—the "fifth column" technique in action.

Briefly, this technique involves the introduction of spies, sabotage artists and sympathizers into a country with which your nation is not at war. This "fifth column" gradually establishes itself in positions where it can do the maximum amount of damage once the two countries in question go to war. There have been frequent occasions since when the phrase has been justifiably applied to type for years on end.)

Analyze our educational system to determine where it has failed to inculcate students with an appreciation of American democracy.

And strengthen the law to eliminate politics and radical domination in SRA. (This is something all major farm organizations have long advocated.)

It is unfortunate, perhaps, that it took the threat of war—and the tragic object lesson overseas—to bring California to a realization of radical infiltration and all that it portends. But it is fortunate, indeed, that the state is finally aroused—and is prepared to deal with the situation.

The Fifth Column has made war on California agriculture for many years past. It has made war in the cities, too, through radical labor czars, who tied up business and industry—but farmers were the first to fight back and call a spade a spade in doing so. If California is finally awake, however, the days of the "Fifth Column" are numbered!

were shocked into vigorous denunciation.

As an illustration, the bill describes it as an "oppressive labor practice" for an employer to get any information about the "economic" or "political" beliefs or activities of his employees, of the unions, or of union officers. Any employer adjudged guilty of this "oppressive labor practice" could be fined $10,000 and sent to prison for six months.

That means, for example, that an employer who is building airplanes for our army and navy, and who is expanding his operations in order to keep up with the rest of the world, could not find out whether prospective employees were Nazis or communists or anarchists or what-have-you.

There is some doubt as to whether the employer could even ask a job applicant whether he believed in the American form of government. Naturally, any "fifth column" member would lie about it anyway, but if the employer were suspicious and sought this information from any other source, such as a former employer or friends of the job-seeker, he would be guilty of an "oppressive labor practice."

It doesn't stop here, however. It would make it virtually impossible for the company to guard its plant effectively against sabotage without committing one of the aforesaid "oppressive practices." If fifth columnists actually got a toehold in an American airplane factory, there would be no way for the boss to find out what they were up to with out stepping over the bounds imposed by the La Follette measure. If "fifth column" activity and sabotage were apparent, it would still be an "oppressive labor practice" to protect the plant with armed guards.

In short, the La Follette bill looks to many observers like an extremely dangerous measure, and one that could do a lot of harm to industry at a time when industry has become more important than ever before to our pressing problems of national defense.

In June of last year the army and navy informed a senate committee that they disliked the bill for reasons of the type enumerated above. But it was approved by the committee just the same.

If legislation that puts out a "welcome mat" for the fifth column on our national doorstep was inadvisable a year ago, European events have certainly pointed the case since then. And it's no wonder that many legislators, many observers, and many plain citizens are wondering why the bill is being pushed at this particular time.

This was taken to mean possible Allied defeat. More likely, however, it is connected with a return to the old friendship with Russia. In the Balkans the interests of Russia and Turkey are identical: "Keep Italy out."

NAZIS SMASH THROUGH—For weeks now the papers have carried headlines telling of the success of overwhelming German smashes against defending forces. Sometimes the opinion is expressed that there is no stopping them. But, in reality, this is just the continuation of the old struggle between the man on foot and the man on horseback. Germany, on the offensive, and with a greater proportion of mechanized forces, represents the man on horseback; the Allies, the man on foot.

Throughout the ages the balance has swunged first one way and then the other. In the earliest times, the horseman was a chariot, then a speedy cavalryman, later a knight in heavy armor. But the infantryman defeated the chariot by using defensive earthworks. The cavalry man, with the coming of the six-foot bow, was shot from the saddle at the battle of Agincourt. And the knight's armor proved useless against gunpowder.

Now the man on horseback no longer rides a horse. His mount is a 70 or 80-ton tank, a giant bombing plane, or a dive-bomber. And for the moment, the infantryman cowers, dies amidst thundering explosions, or wearily retreats. The horse man is always on the offensive, his opponent symbolizes the strategy of defense. But already the balance is once again in the process of adjustment. Heavier, harder-hitting anti-tank guns and improved pursuit and "destroyer" planes are already, if very slowly, regaining the advantages for the defense. And if the supremacy of defense is re-established soon enough, then the present war probably will settle into a pattern not unlike that of the last war after the argument of the machine gun proved for the moment unanswerable.

Hitler, prior to the outbreak, had spent six years perfecting means of attack. Not alone in politics does he symbolize the "man on horseback." In the invasion of Belgium and Holland he risked his entire machinery of war because blockade and attrition are weapons against which he had no counter but attack, because once the defense knows what it is up against, time is all it needs to evolve an answer. Generally speaking weapons of attack become obsolete more quickly than do those of defense. That is the lesson of history, a lesson Hitler could not disregard. And he has not disregarded it. His whole plan of campaign, the very name "blitzkrieg" which he has applied to the new familiar pattern of offensive regardless of cost, now, while the advantage is still his, prove this.

National Hook-up For Orange Week

Program Broadcast by KVOE Monday Noon Released Over 131 Stations

Orange county was publicized of the nation last Monday noon when California's Governor Culbert L. Olson and the 65-voice Santa Ana Cantando club men's chorus broadcast from the studio of Santa Ana's KVOE to the 131 stations of the coast-to-coast Mutual-Don Lee Broadcasting System.

The program, arranged by KVOE in cooperation with the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce, announced "Orange Week" to the nation. Governor Olson made the official proclamation.

Directed by Joseph J. Klein, who each year directs the 500-voice choir at the Easter Sunrise services at Forest Lawn Memorial Park in Glendale, the chorus sang "Ave Maria" by Franz Schubert, "Lift Thine Eyes" by Frederick Knight Logan, "Border Ballad" by J. H. Maunders, and "Reapers Song" a Bohemian folk song.

The personnel of the chorus, with a repertoire of over 300 songs, is made up of men representing 30 businesses and professions. Miss Ruth Armstrong accompanies the group at the piano. The program was announced and identified by Bill Hynds, radio chairman of the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Asserted Gamecock Operator Arrested

Buzo 32, was the man arrested. He told officers he was merely keeping the gamecocks and equipment for a Los Angeles man.

The raid was one of several made in southern California recently. New laws which recently became effective make arrests of this nature easier than they had been before, it was said by Undersheriff R. H. Sandon, who was in charge of the raid Monday.

Santa Anan Given Additional Honor

Previously voted a regional medal for performing a thrilling rescue, Fum W. Underwood of Santa Ana, cable splicer's helper of the Southern California Telephone company, has been further honored by a national committee of the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

R. J. Rosseberg, telephone company manager, said that the national committee, which reviews the cases chosen by regional committees of the Bell System companies, has awarded Underwood a silver medal and a cash award of $250. Underwood's is the only national award for 1939.

The citation accompanying Underwood's award reads: "For prompt action, courage and resourcefulness under hazardous conditions, which resulted in the probable saving of a human life."

Underwood was assisting in the repair of a telephone cable at Newport Beach on September 25 in a severe storm when he was told by a passing motorist that two men on a power pole three blocks distance were in need of help. He found one lineman supporting another, the latter apparently being unconscious after having come into contact with high-voltage power circuits. The cable splicer's endangered his own life to rescue the unconscious linemen.

County Sugar Beet Yield Shows Gains

The average county yield of sugar beets per acre shows an increase of from 8.5 tons in 1935 to 12.1 tons in 1939, according to W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor. This is a 42% increase in average yield. The total acreage in the county is not far different for the two years as there were 7,445 acres planted in 1935 and 6,733 acres planted in 1939.

Since the production costs, such as seedbed preparation, planting, hoeing and thinning, depreciation on equipment, interest in investment in land, etc., are virtually the same per acre, whether 8 tons are produced or 12 tons, this increase in average yield has enabled the sugar beet grower to continue operating.

Areas Seek Right To Annex to MWD

Districts Near Costa Mesa and Newport-Balboa File Requests

Evidencing the increasing desire on the part of various communities and areas, particularly in the vicinity of the south coast of Orange county, to obtain Colorado river aqueduct water, the board of directors of the Metropolitan Water district has recently received a number of requests for permission for such areas to annex to the district and additional requests for information relative to the possibility of such annexations.

Within the last few weeks the board has received requests for permission to annex from the Fairview, Farms Water company, the Newport Heights Irrigation district, it was said. All of these districts at the present time serve areas in the vicinity of Costa Mesa and Newport-Balboa bay.

Information contained in the letters from each of these areas indicates that the water level in their wells has been steadily lowering for the past 20 years, that there is no place where a proper additional supply of water can be developed, and that annexation to the MWD offer the only solution to the problem of securing an adequate future water supply.

It is understood that water users in Orange county in the vicinity of Brea and La Habra are also giving serious consideration to the possibility of annexation to Metropolitan Water district.

At the present time, the district's board of directors also is studying requests for annexation which have been received from the Laguna Beach County Water district, which includes the city of Laguna Beach, and the South Coast Water district.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD MONDAY BY CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

BOSTON, Mass., June 3 — An appeal for calm and more faith in the omnipotence of God in the face of present world turmoil, featured the gathering here Monday of thousands of Christian Scientists from all over the world for the annual meeting of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

"Trusting in the omnipotence of God," said Harry C. Browne, First Reader of The Mother Church in reading a message from The Christian Science Board of Directors, "enables one, through demonstration, to enjoy the freedom of thought resulting from the unfolding of the characteristics of divine Mind as expressed by Christ Jesus."

"Becoming cognizant of the true idea about anything, exposes its suppositional opposite as a lie. Therefore, when the true idea of man's relationship to God is universally expressed, misunderstandings between men and nations will vanish."

"The divine mind is in reality the only power; therefore nothing can resist the manifestation of righteousness. With due regard for the necessary human footsteps, which our leader, Mary Baker Eddy, says are indispensable in meeting problems it is also imperative to look to the divine mind for guidance and wisdom to supply the impetus to do all things in a right way and at the right time."

Church Officers
Mrs. Margaret Murney Glenn Matters, C. S. B., of New York, was elected president of The Mother Church to succeed George Shaw Cook, C. S. B., of Brookline, Mass. Edward L. Ripley of Brookline and Ezra W. Palmer of Marshfield were re-elected treasurer and clerk, respectively. The chief duty of the president is to serve as presiding officer at the annual meeting.

Mrs. Matters spent her childhood in various army posts in the United States, Alaska, the Philippines, China, and Japan. She studied music in Boston where she became interested in Christian Science, joined The Mother Church and three years later, Second Church in New York. She then went abroad to continue her study of music, and while there decided to give up her musical career to devote full time to Christian Science practice.

Following normal class instruction in Christian Science in the board of education in Boston she became an authorized teacher. The following spring she was elected second reader of The Mother Church. She served as a lecturer on Christian Science until July, 1938, and since then has been practicing and teaching Christian Science in New York City.

Unity Divine Might
Commenting on the turbulent international situation, the incoming president said that "Christian Science reveals the power of individual man to meet and overcome the hordes of menacing suggestions and subtle influences claiming to induce discouragement and apathy. It enables the Christian Scientist to overcome the belief that war can be of permanent advantage, or that it is to be feared. It destroys the desire for an unrighteous, unjust, and enslaving peace; and it sets right that wrong sense of values which would prefer this so-called peace to that active warfare between the flesh and spirit which The Mother Church typifies, and which ultimately in the victory of spirituality" and love." Referring to the apparent strength of unity or quantity in material organization, she quoted Mrs. Eddy's statement in Miscellaneous Writings (p. 139): "I once thought that in unity was human strength; but have grown to know that human strength is weakness, —that unity is divine might, giving to human power, peace."

In a parallel vein, George Shaw Cook, the retiring president pointed out that "the effort of one individual or nation to dominate others, or to exploit them, by means of force, coercion, dishonesty, or deception, may appear temporarily to succeed, but it cannot permanently prosper for the simple reason that evil has no divine principle. Its nature is self-destructive."

"The ultimate triumph of good is not merely a question of hope or even of faith. All that is good in human experience is upheld by divine or spiritual law. And this law is able to assert itself and enforce itself, in spite of the effort of misguided mortals to interfere with or to prevent its operation."
