COLONY QUIPS

Phil Segrais, manager of Aaron Schultz Furniture Co., has just returned from a month long, to which he added the fall 4th of July holiday, trip around the United States and Canada. We heard from him while in Quebec so know of a certainty that they let him cross the border, the controlling factor being that Mrs. Segrais was with him. Phil reports that Canada is a beautiful country, with enormous natural resources but not nearly so advanced economically as the U. S. The people there are hungry for that old American dollar. (So are we all, hey what?) He got all fixed up in a barber shop for a buck and then went all out for a manicure at thirty-five cents. We rather suspect that the corps of beautiful little French girls in this department caused him to throw the money around. As his 'pattys' were being worked on he posed as an American tourist from California. As soon as the girl found out he was from the Golden State she called the news out, in French, to all her coworkers. There was much jabbering in the French tongue and they all clustered around Phil to ask questions about the west. None of them knew that he speaks French fluently and that their side remarks in that language did not go over his head. Finally he asked one of the girls to come back here with him as he had plenty of room in his car. She countered with the question of what she would do with her husband. Then he dropped the bombshell and asked her, this time in fluent French, what was the matter with him. After all the remarks the girls had made to one another in French thinking Phil would not understand it was no wonder that their faces got red.

Another part of the trip that stood out in his membry was the drive down the Hudson river past all of the great estates that have so much to do with the history of our country. The Vanderbilt home that is now open to the public is an amazing place to look around in and a week or more could be profitably spent there. Farther down the river you come to Hyde Park, now a National Park, and in it you can see all of F.D.R.'s state papers, his desk gadgets, Fala's chair and chewed up rubber ball, the room from which the fireside chats were made and countless other memorable and interesting things. He had another interesting experience still farther down the river at Poughkeepsie where he noticed a great throng of people and cars lined up along the river. After stalling around in the traffic he saw that all attention was focused on some small boats in the river and realized that he was seeing the Olympic crew eliminations. Crossing the bridge immediately above the finish line he stalled his car, by design, and had a grandstand seat ot witness the thrilling encounter. After seeing New York, Washington, down the Shenandoah valley, New Orleans the Segrais' returned home through Texas and Arizona after taking a real good look at the major portion of North America. Phil admits that he would hardly trade all the rest of it for Anaheim and northern Orange county. In that we feel he is absolutely right.

The United States has successfully passed another 4th of July with a few more people killed than last year which is some kind of a record anyway. With this introduction we would like to call attention to the efforts made by the fireworks manufacturers to hold down accidents. This year you could buy, for as little as a quarter, an item going under the name of fireworks that would give a display of stars, if you could get it lighted (we almost said lit), for fully 5½ seconds. All of this merchandise was guaranteed not to explode. In fact there was so little powder in the stuff that it took about three king size matches to get them lit (there we go again). The matches made more of a display than the fireworks. The American public is about the biggest bunch of suckers we know about. They will buy fireworks that has no fire or powder in it. They will buy ice cream that has no cream—but plenty of 'filler' and vote for candidates for office who cynically and deceitfully promise things they have no intention and which are impossible of fulfillment. Barnum was right when he said there was a sucker born every minute and they never died.

Many years ago, when Paul Demaree and Frank Kellogg were young fellows, there came to Anaheim High a new math teacher who wore a toupe or wig. His name was (deleted). The class assembled on the first day of school

Orange Market Improves After Lowest Week

The orange market, instead of getting better as shippers have confidently hoped and believed, continued worse last week, but showed some improvement this week.

The f. o. b. average for all sizes and all grades in all markets last week was about $3.05, which was about 25 cents under the f. o. b. average for the preceding week. Chiefly responsible for the lower average was a reduction in prices paid for larger sizes, though there was an increase in the percentage of smaller sizes and this also depressed the price.

Florida shipped little more than 300 cars of its big Valencias last week, indicating its crop is cleaning up for the season. This gave California shippers hope that there would soon be a better market for their smaller and higher priced, but markedly superior, Valencias.

California growers have encountered much stiffer competition from Florida than many of them realize. On June 29, for instance, good quality Floridas delivered were priced thus: $2.40 for 150s; $2.70 for 176s; $2.95 for 200s and 220s, and $2.15 for 344s. At the same time fancy brand California Valencias were priced thus: $7.50 for 176s and larger; $6.75 for 200s; $5.75 on 220s; $4.75 on 252s; $4.25 on 288s and $3.90 on 344s. No wonder that California looked eagerly for the final, complete cleanup of Florida's crop.

A spell of hot weather that covered most of the nation last week sent lemon prices to fancy levels in some markets. There was generally cooler weather this week and prices dropped some but were still at a highly satisfactory level.

The overall f. o. b. average last week was about $6.83 a box. Responsible for this average was a temperature on July 2 of 93 degrees in New York, 80 and muggy in Boston, 97 in Philadelphia and 90 in Pittsburgh.

The Orange Administrative Committee was due to step shipment of oranges for next week up to 1400 cars, but in view of the market situation and the amount of fruit rolling, the prorate for the week was held to 1300 cars, same as this and last week. This was accomplished, though, only by disregarding the motion of Mutual Orange Distributors that the prorate be stepped up to 1400 cars. MOD took the position that fruit must be shipped in greater volume, and July and August are the months in which to do it. No one in the OAC disagreed with this but all the other factors this but all the other factors wanted to demand improvement before more "small ones" were sent to market. Statistically, it was pointed out this week by Arthur Clark, independent representative on the OAC, things could not be in better shape except in the matter of fruit size. Actual measurements just announced by the OAC show 284 oranges to the box for all of southern California. Projected size for July 1 had been 276. OAC still sticks to its forecast of a tree crop of 52,500 cars of Valencias.

Lemon prorate for the week was 800 cars, compared to 825 last week.

Orange Exports Running Ahead Of Forecasts

One bright factor in the California orange picture is that exports have run considerably heavier on all varieties than was anticipated at the beginning of the year.

Navel orange exports totaled 1075 cars.

A light but normal volume is going to trans-Pacific countries; the unexpected business is coming from Belgium and Switzerland. Every effort is being made to sell only small sizes in export channels — mostly 288s and 344s.

OAC originally forecast the export of 1650 cars of southern Valencias this season. Indications now are that this figure will be exceeded by the time the season is finished.

HOUSE GUEST IN REINHARDT HOME

House guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Reinhardt, 305 East Water street, was Mrs. Jettie Eulberg of Brawley, who enjoyed the local couple's hospitality for a week.

Issue 35 June Building Permits

Thirty-five building permits were issued at a total valuation of $181,064 during the month of June by the City of Anaheim, it disclosed in "Inspector Rudolph Nyboe's building permit report, bringing the total for the year to $1,519,081.

Of these permits issued, 15 were for the construction of homes to be built at the average cost of $10,000 or total sum of $152,550.

In June 1947 the total valuation of permits stood at $966,228, and last June's permits were valued at $140,419.

County Chests To Elect New Officers Tonight

Officers for the coming year will be chosen and committees named at the first meeting of the new board of directors of the Orange County Federation of Community Chests which will be held tonight at the Rossmore cafe in Santa Ana. A nominating committee will present a slate.

Members of the board of directors are: Mayor Charles Pearson (and one other), Anaheim; Mrs. R. F. Rittenhouse and Mrs. Ruth McKenzie, Buena Park; Elmer Steffensen and C. L. Mikkelsen, Fullerton; John Murdy, Jr., and William Gallienne, Huntington Beach; J. H. Adamson and Norman Redman, Laguna Beach; Ira E. Weide and Lyall Sutton, La Habra; Mrs. Jerrold Spangler and H. F. Kenny, Newport-Balboa; Don Danner and Vernon L. Valentine, Orange; Lawrence Patterson and Lee Smith, Santa Ana-Tustin; and two not yet selected from Costa Mesa.

Farm Centers Name Officers For Next Year

The eight farm centers of the Orange County Farm Bureau have announced their officers for the coming year.

Anaheim center re-elected Henry Klausing as president; Fred M. Schafer was chosen vice president; Julia Johnson, secretary; and A. J. Schutte elected again as director, after abandoning his plans to run for state senator.

Cypress-Magnolia center re-elected Ed Cook, president; Bob Cole, vice president; Al Mittman, secretary; and Brent Wahlberg, director.

Foothill center made a clean sweep with the exception of retaining the retiring president, Paul Nelson, as director. Elected president was Dr. Abbott Smith, Orange, a son of Supervisor Willard Smith; vice president is L. A. Warren; second vice president, George Martini; secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Armistead.

Garden Grove center chose the former secretary, Clayton Ferrin, as president; elected Scott Hoeptner as vice president; chose Oscar Milbrat as secretary; and place a longtime director on the job as their center representative by selecting Vernon C. Heil. Heil was given an alternate director in the person of Roland Rosselot.

La Habra center elected as its officers W. J. Graham, president; Homer Williams, vice president; Miss Ethel Beck, secretary; and Director H. L. Murietta.

Elected by Placentia for the coming year were: President H. Lynn Sheller; vice president, Jack Suiter; secretary, Phil Ton (re-elected again); and director, Don Adams, who will be retiring from the presidency.

Tustin center elected William Cook, Irvine rancher and manager of the Irvine Bean Warehouse, as president; vice president, Thermon Means, is a prominent building contractor as well as a farmer. Mrs. Belle Bardwell agreed to serve again as secretary, and George Meiser was elected as director to follow his year of service as president. Russell Caldwell, former director, was given a new position as treasurer and purchasing agent.

West Orange center re-elected R. Deane Smiley as president and A. H. Klaustermeyer as vice president. Chosen as secretary was Virgil Paxton. Re-elected as director was Wright E. Gainsley, who was given an alternate in the person of Joseph Trumpy.

Yorba Linda elevated its vice president and placed its ex-president, J. Vernon Jones on the job as director. In the position of secretary is Don Rosedale, who was re-elected to the position. As vice president Hoyt Corbit was chosen.

Another Wildcat Oil Well Begun On North Street

Another try for oil is being made on East North street.

Universal Oil company is drilling a wildcat in the Wylie orange grove about 200 yards south of North street, a half mile east of Dowling road and about four miles east of Anaheim.

Kellogg and Sons are the drilling contractors.

A few months ago the same portable drilling outfit tried for oil in the grove of the Orange Belt Fruit company about 600 yards north of the present venture. That hole was drilled to an asserted depth of somewhat more than seven thousand feet without encountering oil sands worth exploiting.

The Universal venture is a short distance northwest of the Anaheim rubbish dump which has been leased by the Union Oil company for a wildcat enterprise. And that in turn is but a short distance northwest of a try for oil by a group including the Standard Oil company.

Bagged Lemons May Now Bear Sunkist Label

Those Exchange packing house managers who wish to may now ship Sunkist lemons in bags.

Several weeks ago the California Fruit Growers Exchange board of directors voted to permit the interstate shipment of non-advertised brands of lemons in two-pound bags. The experiment worked out so well that the board has voted to permit the brand name Sunkist on bagged lemons. The order is effective now but is still under regulations set up by the Exchange Field Department.

General Manager Armstrong reported to the board that in the first experimental shipments there was a tendency on the part of consumers materially to increase their units of purchases and indications were that retailers are disposed to take a smaller margin of profit on the bagged fruit than they generally take for the non-bagged fruit.

The small volume of lemons shipped from Exchange houses so far have gone to such markets as Atlanta, Memphis, Houston and Salt Lake City where they had a good reception from both wholesale and retail trade.

MWD Ups Rates For Water 20%

Due to the increased cost of chemicals used in the softening process, the rate for softened and filtered Colorado River water delivered to cities in the Metropolitan Water District has been increased from $15 to $18 an acre foot, effective July 1, according to an announcement by Julian Hinds, general manager and chief engineer of the district. This rate is equivalent to 4.13 cents per hundred cubic feet.

Williams Reviews Fishing News

Fishing news of "current" interest to enthusiastic piscators, was reviewed by Bob Williams, local sporting goods store owner, who took an unofficial "pole" following the July 4th holiday.

At Dana Point fishing was fair with barracuda listed as the biggest catch. An occasional white sea bass and a few a few bonita were reported caught Monday.

Lots of barracuda and halibut were procured by sportsmen at Huntington Beach flats.

Santa Catalina Island reports showed lots of barraeuda, sea bass and occasional yellow tail running.

Barracuda and a few yellow tail and sea bass were reported for San Clemente. Rumor has it that an albacore was caught on the Fourteen Mile Banks which run from Dana Point to Catalina.

San Diego reports showed lots of fishermen and only a fair amount of fish. Bonita and yellow tail were taken.

Trout fishing at Big Bear and Arrowhead was only fair. However, at Lake Crowley in the Sierra country, trout were running plentiful.

An abundance of crappie and blue gill and a few bass were caught at Lake Henshaw. Lakes Mead and Havesu simmered in weather too hot for good fishing.

Commercial fishermen took many broadbill swordfish. Marlin swordfish were sighted off Laguna shores. Excellent swordfishing is expected soon as flying fish are now plentiful in coastal waters.

At Ensenada, Baja California, good cacthes of big yellow tail, white sea bass and barracuda are basis for some true tall fishing fales.

Local Taxes Small Part Of Total Bill

Local property taxes accounted for $48 out of total tax payments of $420 made last year by the average Californian, who paid income taxes amounting to more than half of that total, mostly to the federal government. Sales taxes, federal, state and local, were in excess of $40 for each resident.

Speaking at San Diego at the annual meeting of the County Supervisors Association of California, Dixwell L. Pierce, secretary of the State Board of Equalization, cited these figures to show that property taxes, although high, are not disproportionately heavy. He forecast that they probably will have to be retained indefinitely as the principal source of local revenue.

"Twenty years ago," said Pierce, "when our population was about half what it is now, the per capita property tax burden was almost the current figure. Federal taxes were only $25 per capita and state taxes barely $20. The substantial increases in federal and state taxes that have occurred since have resulted from income and sales taxes as neither of these governments uses the property tax.

Citrus May Get 'Support' In Two Years

No one in Orange county was able to say this week just what is provided by the agricultural commodity price support bill passed by the 80th Congress in the hectic moment before adjournment. No printed copy of the final bill had been released. Indications were, however, that the new price support program becomes effective on January 1, 1949, and is a combination of the present legislation and both the Hope and Aiken Bills. Support of the six "basic commodities" and the so-called Steagall commodities continues under present legislation to the end of this year. Then for a year the Steagall commodities would continue on a sliding scale based on 60 to 90 percent of parity while the six basic commodities would remain unchanged at 90 per cent. All other commodities (including citrus) are in a third group which retains its present status. That is, if funds are available after the basis and Seagall groups have been supported to the extent of the law, such funds may be applied to third group items.

At the end of 1949 the new program, it is believed here, provides for only two groups: 1. the six basic commodities, and 2. all other agricultural commodities, including citrus. After January 1, 1950 the parity formula will be based on a 10-year moving average, provided the new parity price is not more than 5 per cent under the parity in effect the preceding year.

Return from Hi-Y Annual Congress

Hi-Y delegates Ronnie Lemcke, Wesley Bose and YMCA Director Tommy Thomason returned from the national Hi-Y Congress held at Miami University from June 25 to 30, in Oxford, Ohio, Tuesday night. Another local representative, Dub Helsing, remained in the east visiting relatives.

Lemcke and Helsing will be juniors next year, and Bose a senior in Anaheim Union high school. All three are members of the Blue and Gold Hi-Y led by AUHS Principal Paul H. Demaree.

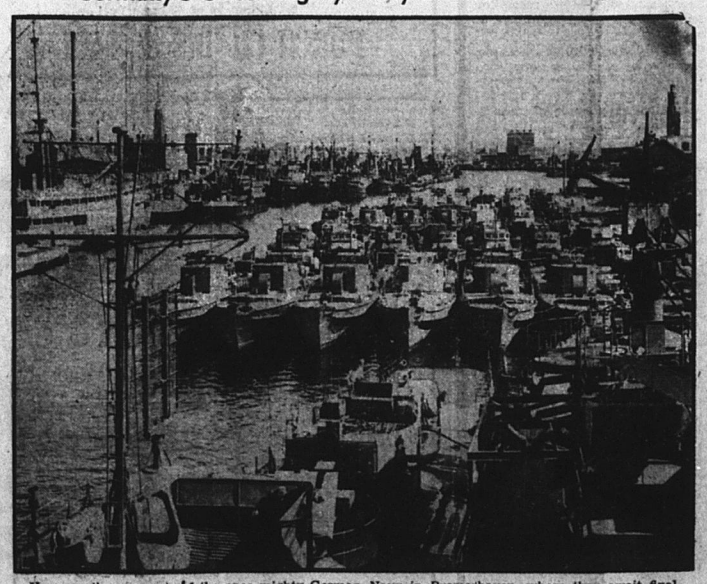

Other member in the party of six from this area attending the confab were Toby Thompson, representing the Newport Hi-Y club, and George Clinton, representing the Huntington Beach club.

The group left June 19 and visited Carlsbad Caverns enroute. On the return trip they viewed the sights at Rocky Mountain National Park, Bryce Canyon, Zion National Park and Hoover Dam.

More than 800 delegates from throughout the country were present for the Congress, 60 of them being residents of the Pacific south-west area.

Purpose of the Congress was to bring together Hi-Y youths from throughout the nation that they might discuss practices, exchange ideas and make recommendations.

Chamber Readies Welcome For Riders In Portola Trek July 28

Bed, board and entertainment were being arranged this week by the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce for the 40 horsemen in the Portola Trek who will ride from San Diego to San Francisco.

The trek will reproduce as exactly as possible the historic ride of Don Gaspar de Portola and his party 179 years ago.

Forty horsemen garbed in reproductions of Portola and his party will leave San Diego on July 14, on the first leg of a 790 mile ride which is scheduled to occupy 108 days and end at San Francisco. On the way parties of horsemen are expected to escort them on their way, so the expedition will involve in all, several hundred horsemen.

Twelve of the riders are to be selected from the twelve counties through which the party will pass. These counties are San Diego, Orange, Los Angeles, Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Monterey, Santa Cruz, San Benito, Santa Clara, San Mateo and San Francisco.

On arrival in Anaheim, which is scheduled for July 28, the horsemen will find a pleasant camp site laid out for them in La Palma park where they may hold the formal ceremonies their program calls for, prepare their meals and sleep under the stars as did the members of the first Portola party. As part of the entertainment of the visitors, the Chamber of Commerce is arranging a program of Spanish dances to be given by the Richards-Martin school of dancing. The party is scheduled to leave Anaheim about noon of July 29 with Whittier as the next scheduled stop.

The leaders of the original Portola Trek who will be represented are: Don Gaspar de Portola, commander; Fernando de Rivera y Moncado, captain of the "leather jacket" soldiers; Miguel Costanso, engineer and diarist; Fray Francisco Gomez.

These known members of the expedition remained in California to be among the founders of its "first families": Jose Francisco Ortega, sergeant of the "leather jackets," and famed scout; Jose Antonio Yorba, sergeant of the Catalan soldiers; Pedro Amador; Juan Bautista Alvarado; Jose Raimundo Carrillo; Pablo Antonio Cota; Jose Ignacio Olivera; Jose Maria Soberanes.

The famous Soldados de Cuero, the leather jacketed troops, will be depicted by twenty horsemen specially selected in each county traversed. These soldiers derived their name from their leather jackets or coats made of six or seven thicknesses of deerskin which they wore as a protection against the missiles of the Indians. For further defense each trooper used a shield covered with two thicknesses of raw bull's hide and a sort of leather apron or Chaparejos which fell down on either side of the pommel of the saddle and thus protected thighs and legs. For purpose of offense each carried a lance, broad sword and short musket.

The county directors for the trek are: San Diego, Jack Schrade; Orange, P. E. Fuller and A. R. Frenzel; Los Angeles, Bob Dalton; Venjura, William Clark; Santa Barbara, Elmer Awl and Larry Freeman; San Luis Obispo, E. E. Kleck; Monterey-San Benito-Santa Cruz, L. Overman; Santa Clara, Tony Costa; San Mateo, P. K. Winchell; San Francisco, Cyril Magnin.

At the various cities visited there will be a ceremony depicting the meeting of Portola and party in which gifts were exchanged with the friendly Indian tribes.

The Anaheim riders club is expected to escort the party in and out of Anaheim.

The ride is being put on by the Portola Trek association which is sponsored by California Mission Trails association as a feature of the California Centennial Celebration.

Thorneycroft Sales Chief at Mahaffey-Fitz

Announcement was made this week by Gene Mahaffey of the appointment of Bill Thorneycroft as sales manager of Mahaffey and Fitz Furniture store at 129 West Center street.

Thorneycroft, well known Anaheim business man and civic leader, has designed as manager of the Anaheim Firestone store to accept the new position. A native of Los Angeles where he received all his schooling, Thorneycroft came to Anaheim in February, 1945, when he was appointed by Firestone as manager of the local store.

He recently completed his year as chairman of the retail division of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce and served on the division board of directors. He is active in the affairs of the Chamber, of the Anaheim Lions club and of the Masonic lodge.

"During the three years in which I served as manager of the Firestone store, my family and I have seen in Anaheim the ideal community in which to live," Thorneycroft explained. "We decided to become a permanent part of Anaheim and hope to make this city a still better place in which to live. I am also," he said, "looking forward to my association with the Mahaffey and Fitz Furniture store, where I shall continue to serve the local buying public in the best manner possible."

Fourth of July Unusually Quiet About Anaheim

Except for an unusually large number of traffic citations handed out by the police, due to heavy automobile traffic through Anaheim, the long Fourth of July weekend was unusually quiet here abouts. There were three automobile mishaps which resulted mostly in property damage. There There were two fires, one burning Esther Cruz, 11, at 315 Chestnut street, about the face when she apparently delayed applying a light after turning on a gas stove. The other damaged a truck on Placentia avenue.

There were few if any more drunks arrested over the weekend and one drunken driver was arrested.

In spite of the thousands who attended the Fourth of July celebration at Huntington Beach and the hundreds of additional thousands who visited other beaches of the county, Orange county did not supply one of the 655 of the nation's deaths recorded during the long holiday weekend, either from traffic crashes or drowning.

Of the 655 deaths, 22 were in southern California.

Orange County Tax Levy Well Under Average

Average property tax levy per $1,000 of valuation in Orange county was $43.04 for 1947-48, compared with the state-wide average of $50.53 for 1947-48 and with the $44.63 levy in the county for 1946-47, California Taxpayers' Association said after analyzing the burden of local property taxes — for counties, cities, schools, and special districts — in California counties.

Total property tax levy in the county for 1947-48 amounted to $13,951,864. Assessed valuation of taxable property for the year was $324,150,985.

Levy for 1946-47 amounted to $10,927,124, while the taxable valuation of property in the county was $244,857,665.

TRACTOR STOPS TRAIN

No one miraculously was injured when the south bound Santa Fe train No. 72 struck a truck parked on the Santa Fe track and Santa Fe street, Sunday morning. The truck, a tractor unit registered to the Anaheim Truck and Transfer Company, was driven by Harold F. Stevens, 8111 Ventura, Freeway Park, Anaheim. The left and front of the tractor and the right side of the train were damaged.

IN THE DAYS OF LONG AGO

75 Years Ago

July 19, 1873-75

Our people cannot shut their eyes to the fact that at no distant day it will be necessary to increase the width of our principal streets. The number of teams that even now throng our, thoroughfares and great difficulty in extricating themselves from the jam occasioned by the narrowness of the streets.

Messrs. Barham and Bush passed through town on Tuesday, with six fine spanish Merino rams, which they had bought from Severance and Peet. One ram "Durock" cost $300. He was later imported from Vermont, is nine years old and has sheared in a single year 35 pounds, and has averaged 30 pounds of wool a year for the last six years. While in town they were surrounded by admiring buck-sharps who declared them the best sheep ever brought to this country.

On Monday next, at 3 o'clock p.m., the members of Anaheim Lodge, No. 199, I.O.O.F., will lay the corner stone of their hall. Nearly thirty members of the Order are expected from Los Angeles. H. Wartenberg will be Master of Ceremonies, and F. Stanford, Orator of theday. Desmond's brass band has been engaged and judging from other preparations, a very pleasant time may be expected.

In compliance with a petition, presented to him sometime ago, the Board of Supervisors at their last meeting, cut off from Anaheim school district a large tract north of Anaheim, now known as Orangethorpe district. But some of the residents of the new district have become dissatisfied with the boundary lines, and are desirous of receding, and be again attached to Anaheim. A petition is being circulated asking the supervisors to cut off a certain part in the south east corner of Orangethorpe district, because the residents of said portion will be nearer to the Anaheim school than to the proposed location of the Orangethorpe school. As there is no doubt that their request will be granted, it would be well for the trustees of Orangethorpe to postpone the election called for the 26th of this month until after the first Monday in August.

Tim Boege commenced operations with his street sprinkler on Thursday to the great delight of the juveniles, who bathe as much of their person as the laws of decency and the length of their thin legs will permit.

Operations on the artesian well at San Juan have temporarily ceased. At a depth of fifty-seven feet the pipe lodged on a large rock, which has resisted all attempts at its removal.

A general meeting of the stockholders in the Anaheim Water Company will be held today at the Planters' Hotel for the purpose of discussing the water question.

Dr. James McCoy, a son-in-law of Rev. John Marquis, has lately arrived from Illinois and has decided to locate in Anaheim. Being a gentleman of means, as well as one of sense, he has an idea of establishing a sanitarium in Anaheim.

The dogs of Anaheim are more than a nuisance. We await with impatience the advent of a slang dictionary to express ourself with force.

The editor of the Star credits the Gazette with a circulation of 300. We have two subscription books and must have inadvertently let one of them lay around loose when Ben Truman paid us his last visit.

H. Hamilton, formerly proprietor of the Los Angeles Star was seen in Anaheim yesterday.

Frank Lecouveur commenced to lay out a county road between Anaheim and Rubottom's yesterday morning.

"Dissatisfied Democrats" are as numerous as fleas in the Planters' stable.

Clark and Austin's reading room will be open next week.

Geo. H. Peck of El Monte, is prepared to purchase castor beans.

Jacob Miller of No. 126 Main street, Los Angeles (former residence of the French consul) dealer in Marble, adviertises mantles, grates, monuments, headstones, bureaus' table tops. Orders receive prompt attention.

Mr. Louis Mendelson arrived from lower California on Monday.

Contracts for the last units in the outfall sewer construction, which will carry practically all of the sewage of Orange county to the ocean, were let at a joint meeting of the trustees and engineers of Orange, Anaheim and Fullerton at Anaheim city hall on Monday night. Total figures for three contracts were $238,000. Time limit of 230 days was fixed by the boards, but City Manager Steward believes the sewer will be ready for connection within six months.

The election for six new directors of the Chamber of Commerce last week resulted in the following vote: Henry M. Adams 44; Leonard Evans 43; H. H. Benjamin 42; R. B. Young 39; Harry D. Riley 37; S. E. Prince 36; William Falkenstein 36; Dr. H. A. Johnston 35; M. Eugene Durfee 31; O. H. Renner 28; C. E. Harbeson 28; W. A. Dolan 24; T. L. McFadden 22; A. Bayliss 19.

A tie was revealed between Wm. Falkenstein and Sidney Prince for sixth place. Mr. Falkenstein decided to withdraw from the contest, but the matter was settled when Henry Adams resigned his seat, which he has held for several years, and declined re-election.

The ladies euchre club was entertained by Mrs. C. F. Grim at her home on East Center street on Thursday afternoon. After the game of euchre, the first prize, a handsome piece of pyrex was awarded to Mrs. Falkenstein, and the second, also a piece of pyrex to Mrs. Bennerscheidt, while the consolation was captured by Mrs. Dresser. Refreshments of salad, cake and coffee were served at the close of the afternoon. Those present were: Mrs. Grim, Mrs. A. Schutte, Mrs. W. J. Cole, Mrs. Sandilands, Mrs. Falkenstein, Mrs. J. J. Dwyer, Mrs. Arthur Lewis, Mrs. Bradley, Miss Margaret Bradley, Mrs. Wagner, Mrs. Edgar Hartung, Mrs. Benjamin, Mrs. Lybarger, Mrs. Chester Holcomb, Mrs. Bennerschmidt, Mrs. A. Rimpau, Mrs. Henry Kuchel, Mrs. Strodthoff, Mrs. B. Dresser, Mrs. Jas. Carroll, Mrs. F. A. Backus. The club will not meet again during the summer. The next meeting being in October, when Mrs. A. L. Lewis will entertain.

Mrs. Mary Gade, a former well-known resident of Anaheim, died at her home in Seal Beach on Wednesday, July 11, at the age of 61. She was the wife of H. C. Gade and sister of Godfrey Stock, Mrs. R. C. Spoerl and Mrs. Gene Johnson, all of this city. She was born in Michigan and was married at Anaheim in 1880 to Henry Gade, who with seven children survive her.

Mrs. Yungbluth entertained the "500" club at her home on Broadway Wednesday afternoon of last week. A very exciting game of "500" resulted in high scores being won by Mrs. H. G. Ames and Mrs. Julius Schneider who were awarded first and second prizes respectively. A dainty collation was served by Mrs. Yungbluth at the close of the game of cards.

Right Reverend Bertrand Stevens, co-adjuter bishop of Los Angeles, confirmed a class of seventeen at St. Michaels church, Wednesday evening.

Leslie Bowen has resigned his position at Heying's drug store and accepted a position at Long Beach. He will move his family to the beach city in a short time.

Farm Advisor Tells of Trip Through Midwest

Returning this week from a 6500 mile vacation trip through the mid-west and southern states, Farm Advisor H. E. Wahlberg reported good corn crop and grain outlook in the mid-west states. The southern states however, had less than normal rain since planting of corn and cotton and tobacco and these crops, therefore, were late and backward. In some areas the early spring floods have delayed planting. Cotton was suffering from the lack of seasonal rainfall.

In Alabama and Tennessee, Wahlberg inspected the huge Tennessee Valley Project.

Mr. and Mrs. Wahlberg were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed O'Neal. Mr. O'Neal was former president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, who is well known to Orange county farm people. He lives at Florence, Ala., and operates a large cotton plantation there, on which the travelers spent some time.

Enroute, the Experiment Stations at Columbus, Ohio; Urbana, Ill.; Lincoln, Nebr., and Ames, Iowa, were visited.

A week was spent at Oberlin, Ohio, where the Wahlbergs were delegates to the General Council of Congregational Churches.

The roads and accommodations for the motoring public were excellent in all states, according to the travelers.

4-H Club Seniors Plan Beach Party

An evening beach party at Corona del Mar is a coming event planned by the Senior 4-H Club of Orange county. On Friday evening, July 9, the seniors will entertain the 4-H members who are eligible to join their activities this fall.

Barbara Elliott and Melba Fay Davis, members of the West Orange Community Club, are in charge of refreshments.

The group will meet at the Farm Bureau Hall, 353 South Main stret, Orange, at 5:30 p.m., where transportation to the beach will be provided. Miss Robin L. Burr, assistant home demonstration agent, W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor from the Agriculfural Extension Service, and Mrs. Dorcas Elliott have been invited to go with the seniors.

"HANK" SAYS . . .

There are still a few choice vacancies left in the southern California recruiting district for qualified enlisted reservists in grades up to Master Sergeant with duty tour of one year. These choice assignments with the recruiting service pay the full allowance of a regular army soldier which includes $105.00 per month for subsistance.

Anyone interested in an assignment like this can obtain full information at your local recruiting office.

Jeffery N. Schroder, Jr., 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery N. Schroder, Sr., 804 North Spadra street, Fullerton, enlisted this week for three years in the U. S. Air Force. When he was a student at Fullerton Union high school, Schroder was active in football and track. During World War II, he served over two years in the U. S. Merchant Marine.

This new draft law certainly has plenty of teeth in it; evidently it was drawn up in this manner so that the actual drafting of individuals, falling within the draft age, would be at a minimum. Certainly the draft age youth can see the advantage of a voluntary enlistment, the principle advantage, of course, being that of his choice of branch of service, and the fact that a three year term of service completes his military obligations insofar as the act is concerned.

As a comparison here is a summary of the service required of men inducted under the Draft Act.

Men drafted must serve 21 months.

Anyone of draft age shall be offered the opportunity to enlist for 21 months' service in the regular Army. (Current laws governing length of enlistments in the Navy or Air Force are unchanged. Persons may volunteer for one year extension of inducted service.)

Anyone who is enlisted, inducted or appointed in the armed forces after the effective date of the act and completes less than 36 months service and who meets the qualifications for enlistment therein, must be transfered to a reserve component for five years and be subject to such additional training and service as may be prescribed by law for such component.

In lieu of five years in a reserve component, persons completing 21 months' service or more may discharge this reserve obligation by:

(1) An additional year of active duty, which extension is authorized, or
(2) 36 months in an organized unit of a reserve component satisfactorily participating in scheduled drills and training as prescribed by the Secretary of Defense.

See you at the draft board.

Frank Dyer and family leave shortly for a month's vacation at Anaheim Landing. Frank is one of the best swimmers in southern California, and his daughter, Miss Lois Dyer, who is a member of the high school faculty, is also on excellent swimmer. Frank looks forward to his annual outing with particular pleasure and has been a conspicuous figure at the beach for a time whereof the memory of the oldest inhabitant runneth not to the contrary.

Peter Palm will soon move his cigar and tobacco store to new quarters in the lower floor of the R. C. building on East Center street.

Dean Hasson motored to Anaheim Landing with his family to spend Sunday.

CADET RICHARD HOXIE GIVEN OFFICERS MEDAL

Cadet Lt. Col. Richard E. Hoxie, Anaheim Union high school student, was awarded the Reserve Officers Association Medal of Merit for his "outstanding and meritorious work" in the performance of his duties as Cadet Regimental Personnel Officer at the annual encampment held at Camp San Luis Obispo, June 24 to July 6.

Santa Fe Would Build Spur to Kirven's Yard

Permission to build a spur track across Commercial street, between Lemon and Patt streets, in Anaheim, is sought in an application filed with the California Public Utilities Commission. The proposed track would serve the Thomas Kirven junk yard property.

The Santa Fe railway, applicant in the proceeding, has requested similar permission from the City of Anaheim.

Sequoia National Park was named for the famous Cherokee Indian, Se-quo-yah, inventor of a phonetic alphabet.

Overnight Trip Climaxes Camp Flicker Program

Climaxing the camp session at Camp Flicker, Irvine Park, Girl Scouts of this city and their leaders, packed luggage into trailers Wednesday morning of last week and set off on an overnight camping trip in nearby hills, returning the following afternoon to Anaheim for a swim in the high school plunge under the supervision of Richard Glover.

Mrs. Clyde Dawson served for the second year as chairman of the Day Camp committee. Mrs. Norbert DeCook was a member of the committee in charge of transportation to and from the Girl Scout house to the day camps, Flicker and Jack Fisher, for the second year. Mrs. Maynard F. Glenn, program chairman of the Girl Scout Council was active at camps and assisted with every units program. General handymen were Donald Dawson and Duane Dargatz. Leslie Kerns assisted with the fifth grade unit.

The fifth grade unit, Busy Bees, led by Mrs. Dave Schwemmer, and the sixth grade unit, Squirrels, directed by Mrs. August Fitz, centered their program around general camp living and specialized in the field of outdoor safety and efficiency, assisted by Mrs. Charles O. Watters, camp nurse, for the third consecutive season.

Members of the fifth grade unit staff were Mrs. John Kerns and Mrs. Norville L. Chapman.

Scouts in the group were Carol Ann Booth, Helen Cabral, Cynthia Cox, Carol Fitz, Nancy Lou Homan, Norma Kerns, Kathryn Kopfer, Patricia Landon, Mary Matejka, Theresa Metzger, Rosalie Miller, Aurora Huesca, Marilyn Oelke, Joanne Schwemmer, Mary Lou Story, Barbara Brown, Virginia Philpott, Josephine Munas, Stephanie Winsor, Peggy Jo Dargatz, Inez Oropeza, and Karen Lenain. Other members of the sixth grade unit staff were: Mrs. Roy Dargatz, Mrs. William Dierberger and Mrs. Leo Homan. Scouts in this group were: Geraldine Alleman, Charlene Alvey, Bonnie Booth, Shirley Brisbin, Rosemary Botts, Jayne Chapman, Jan Critchfield, Marie Ann Dargatz, Kathleen Dugan, Cornelia Dykstra, Jeanne Gillett, Beverly Howery, Genevieve Lamas, Sally Leigh, Patricia Roberts, Dora Saucedo, Janice Schantzen, Rosalie Flynn, Dixie Lee Selfridge, Susan Zwart and Shirley France.

An older group, the Flickerettes, led by Mrs. J. C. Carter, specialized in outdoor cooking with emphasis on fire-building and conservation. Sharing in camp housekeeping, they made tacos and served a Spanish meal on one occasion.

Units members on the Flickerette staff were Mrs. Leonard Botts and Mrs. Gilbert Montana. Scouts in the unit were Sherrill Cochems, Mary Cone, Esther Cruz, Betty Dierberger, Bobbie Jean Downs, Sharon Etchison, Mickey Godoy, Mary Lou Hoxie, Corinia Leigh, Noraleen Loetterle, Esther Mata, Rosemary Odermatt, Charlotte Pruett, Adelina Reveles, Irene Rodriguez, Julia Sauceda, Marianna Walker, Esther Ynigaez and Ann Allen.

The eighth and ninth grade scouts led by Mrs. Phyllis Klein and Mrs. Shirley Dougan were known as the Pioneers of Sycamore Pass, and built a primative unit in a heretofore untoched section of camp, away from water supply and park fireplaces. They built their own cooking spot c mplete with grill and made their fire circle for campfires. The group was in charge of leading singing for the camp and for the overnight campfire program.

Birthdays Noted At WRC Meeting

The birthdays of three of its members were celebrated last Tuesday when members of the A. B. Paul Women's Relief Corps, Post No. 134, met at the IOOF hall on West Center street, for their monthly pot-luck luncheon meeting. To celebrate the occasion, three beautifully decorated cakes marked the event, which was for those who celebrated their natal day in June and July. Emma Schauers presented each with a corsage made up from flowers grown in her garden.

The luncheon tables were attractively decorated with bouquets and garlands of white chiffon daisies, stocks and correopsis.

To add gaiety to the event, an original rhyme composed by Gertrude Evans was read, commemorating the birthday event. Cecile Hall brought a beautiful bouquet which was later taken to Mary McAlvey who is seriously ill in Anaheim hospital.

The regular business session was held at two o'clock at which time Annie Leo was initiated as a new member. The Corps was disappointed since Edith Comyns, department president, had planned to be present and a telegram was received on Tuesday stating she was unable to attend due to illness.

Six out of town visitors were present for the Tuesday meeting.

For the various departmental reports the following statistics were presented to the members: 50 pounds of magazines were gathered; 98 cards were sent and 65 calls were made to the sick and shut-ins; $15 in child welfare; $55 to relief; 128 bouquets were sent and three pounds of salvage fat were turned in.

Co-hostesses for the day were Isabelle Illingsworth, Ann Metzer and Mabel Eaton.

Brownies Attend Fisher Day Camp

Anaheim Brownie Scouts began a six-day frolic at the Brownie Day camp at Jack Fisher Park in Santa Ana last Tuesday. Each morning at 9:15 the youngsters leave via bus from the Girl Scout house, 200 South Citron street for camp, returning that afternoon at approximately 3:30 o'clock. Mrs. Clyde Dawson, Day Camp chairman; Miss Dorothy T. Bowe, camp director, and an experienced staff of leaders are in charge of a comprehensive program.

This program includes outdoor cooking, simple camping skills, dramatics, songs, games, story hours, hiking, nature crafts and special activities such as popping corn and making ice cream.

The camp is especially for third and fourth grade girls, with a unit for fifth grade girls who did not attend Camp Flicker.

Party Honors John Jackson

John Jackson, 10, was given a going away party by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earle T. Jackson, in the patio of their home, 540 South Clementine street, July 4. The youngster was taken to the Elsinore Military and Naval Academy, Tuesday for the six-weeks summer camp.

Balmy summer weather and the attractive patio and garden of the Jackson's combined in an appropriate setting for the barbecue featuring deluxe hamburgers and all the trimmings. The outdoor buffet was topped off with generous servings of home-made ice cream.

Those present in addition to the guest of honor and his parents, were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lee and sons, John and Donald, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schafer and two children, Steve and Sally.

Cypress Zoo Owner to be On Radio Show

Mrs. Grace Wiley, owner of the Wiley Zoo, Lincoln boulevard, Cypress, will be heard in a transcribed broadcast over the Mutual network Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock. In describing her unusual occupation of exhibiting wild animals, she will elaborate on the title "It's a Living."

Tuesday morning she went to the broadcasting station in Los Angeles to make the transcription and expects to appear again with some zoo inmates before a large radio audience via television. She took a cobra and crocodile with her Tuesday.

Neither cobra nor crocodile would perform at the station, she remarked. Seems the "crock" was shy in new surroundings and the cobra, too tame.

Aid Groups Meet At Hillcrest Park

At Hillcrest Park, Fullerton, members of the Grace Lutheran church's Missionary Aid Society of this city, were guests of the group of the First Lutheran church of that city, on Tuesday.

More than 25 women enjoyed the luncheon program. Mrs. Leonard Carlson, president of the Fullerton group, presided. The speaker, Miss Thelma Tolleffon, field representative of the American Lutheran churches, was the guest speaker. She discussed church work among negroes.

Devotions were led by Mrs. A. Russell after which the groups sang "America." Theme of the program was "Holiday Freedom for America."

Mrs. C. G. Knutsen was chairman of the dinner assisted by Mesdames H. W. Nixon, M. Wegner and Oscar Morris.

FRESNO FAMILY VISITS IN ANAHEIM

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Budd and son and daughter of Fresno were the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Reinhardt of 305 East Water street, during the July 4th holiday. They arrived here Saturday afternoon.

Art Festival to Open Next Week

Laguna Beach's Festival of Arts and Pageant of the Masters, featuring tableaux of famous paintings that "live and breathe," will open at beautiful Irvine Bowl next Wednesday, July 14, and continue through July 25.

Sixty paintings and sculptures will be portrayed in the pageant this year, divided into groups of 20 masterpieces to be shown every third night. In any three successive evenings all pictures may be viewed. Oswell Jackson, nationally known art authority, lecturer and actor, director of the Pageant, stated. Narrator will be Russell Potter, prominent newspaper and advertising man of the beach city.

In 1947, 50,000 persons from all parts of the country came to Laguna to see this great spectacle.

The Festival grounds will open each afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Special feature for youngsters will be puppet shows, staged by the Nickanellie Marionettes of Los Angeles.

The entertainers, Nick and Nellie Nelson are known as "Uncle Whoa Bill and the Puppet Lady" on the radio. The shows will be at 3 p.m., 7 p.m. and 10 p.m.

Displays on the grounds outside Irvine Bowl will include paintings, sculpture, ceramics, leather-work, rug-weaving, metal and glass crafts.

Free art classes for children will be featured under the direction of prominent artists. Meals may be purchased on the grounds.

ENJOYING TWO-WEEKS'S VACATION IN SALINAS

Mrs. Alberta Brown Patton, 1011 East Broadway, and two young sons, Ronny and Tommy, are enjoying a two-week's vacation with relatives in Salinas. They are expected home early next week. Upon their arrival, Mrs. Patton assisted with the wedding reception given for Paul Smith of Salinas, brother-in-law of her sister, Thelma Smith, well known to many Anaheim citizens. Mrs. Patton's eldest son, John Brown, a student at State Normal College, Dillon, Montana, arrived for the occasion. Last week the group toured Santa Cruz.

State School Fund Gives Lift To Westminster

(Western News Service)

The Westminster school district has been allocated $271,125 by the State Allocations Board.

The funds were sought under terms of the impoverished school district act, which appropriated 55 million dollars for school buildings.

A request for $150,252, from the Costa Mesa school, was deferred by the board until a future date.

At previous meetings, the board allocated approximately 22 million dollars, leaving a balance of some 32 millions which has been distributed on a tentative commitment basis.

H. H. Jaqueth, chief of the division of allocations, said applications on file had totaled more than 63 millon dollars, but some were disqualified. He said funds were sufficient to aid most of the remaining qualified districts.

Aparicio Given Two Sentences 25 Years to Life

Leo G. Aparicio, Anaheim, was accused of conducting a one-man crime wave that extended from Santa Ana to El Monte one night last month has been sentenced on two counts of armed robbery and one of kidnapping. On the kidnapping he was sentenced from one to 25 years and on the two armed robbery counts he was sentenced for 25 years to life for each.

He had been out of San Quentin only a few months where he served time for a knife attack. While he was at liberty he kidnapped his former wife on the day of her marriage to another man and escaped in the intended bridegroom's car.

Personnel Men At Encampment

Anaheim was well represented in the personnel department during the annual California high school cadet encampment which closed Tuesday at San Luis Obispo with Lt. Col. Richard E. Hoxie of Anaheim Union high school, the Cadet regimental personnel officer; Cadet 1st Lt. William Burr, Jr., also of Anaheim, assistant personnel officer.

Heading the personnel section was Major Victor E. Taylor, assistant commandant of cadets of southern California Military academy, Long Beach. Cadet Capt. Stanley D. Miller, Sweetwater Union high school, National City, was personnel clerk for the section.

More than 600 youths attended the encampment.

County Jobless Still Above 2000

Unemployment insurance claimants in the Santa Ana department of employment office total 2,056 for the week ending June 17.

Out of the total number filing claims, the department paid, 1,369.

Mrs. Vincenta D. Carleton is attending the national Business and Professional Women's Convention as Anaheim club delegate. The annual conclave, which began Sunday will continue through tomorrow (Friday) in Fort Worth, Texas.

C. H. Oberlag, New Jeweler Here

New jeweler and engraver in Anaheim is C. H. Oberlag who recently became owner of the jewelery store formerly managed by A. D. Erwin, 127 East Center street, this city.

Oberlag, who has been in the jewelery business for 40 years, calls Wentzville, Missouri, his home town. Previous to coming here he owned a store in Ridgecrest, near Inyokern, California. After selling it he retired for two years, but "got lonesome for the profession again."

Included in Oberlag's collection of rare objects is an exact copy of the Declaration of Independence, copyrighted in 1818 with the approval of John Quincy Adams. Another is a one dollar bill, Sears of 1896, boasting a pictorial scene symbolizing liberty on the front side and oval pictures of George and Martha Washington on the back.

The new Anaheim resident specializes in engraving on all metals except stainless steel. Erwin and his wife and young daughter are in Texas.

Citrus Puts in Bid for Share Of European D.P.s

Of the 205,000 Displaced Persons which the 80th Congress in its closing hours voted to admit to the United States, the citrus industry of southern California can absorb about 2000, the Agricultural Producers Labor Committee of California has advised the Bureau of Immigration of the U. S. State department.

As the new law works out, most of the D. P. S. will be Poles and Czechs, and 30 per cent must have agricultural background and experience.

The California committee advised the Bureau of Immigration that the farmers of this state are prepared to guarantee 10 months of labor per year to the laborers sent here. Facilities are practically unlimited for single men but California citrus can provide housing for only approximately 200, the committee advised the bureau.

Fullerton Woman Dies Monday

Mrs. Josefina Corrales Compise, 65, died early Monday afternoon at 123 East Maple avenue, Fullerton, after a brief illness. A native of Phoenix, Arizona, she had been a resident of California for 13 years and of Fullerton for the past seven years.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Mary Landeros of Mexico, Mrs. Anita Rivera and Mrs. Frances Coloma, both of Fullerton; one half-sister, Mrs. Rafaela Compise of Placentia, and 17 grandchildren.

Recitation of the Holy Rosary was yesterday (Wednesday) evening at 8 o'clock at Hilgenfeld chapel, Anaheim. Mass was read in St. Mary's Catholic church, Fullerton, this morning (Thursday) at 9 o'clock. Interment was in the Holy Sepulcher cemetery.

Mrs. Mary Fiscus Last Rites Read

Funeral services were conducted for Mrs. Elizabeth Fiscus, 88, of Anaheim yesterday (Wednesday) morning at 10 o'clock at Hilgenfeld chapel with Rev. Woodrow Rood, pastor of the First Baptist church of Montebello, officiating. She died early Sunday morning at an Orange hospital after a prolonged illness.

A native of Indiana, she had lived in California for the past 26 years, 25 of which she spent in Anaheim. Before moving here, she had resided with her son, Monte C. Fiscus of Brea.

Surviving are her son, now of East Los Angeles; three grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Interment was in Loma Vista Memorial Park.

WENT TOO FAST?

Although his car rolled 140 feet, Herbert E. Boies, 548 West 107th street, Los Angeles, was not injured when he turned over in his light-weight early model coupe in attempting to pass a truck, going south on East street between Center and Sycamore streets, late Monday morning. Police reported he was driving too fast.

It's Easy . . . So Easy to Shop and Save in Anaheim.

Herbert Gyde Services Held

Funeral services were conducted for Herbert Gyde, 72, Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at Hilgenfeld chapel with the Rev. O. L. Underwood, pastor of the Four-Square Gospel church of Anaheim, officiating. Gyde died Friday evening at his home, 9231 Orange avenue, Anaheim, after a prolonged illness.

A native of Michigan, he had lived in California for 50 years and came to Anaheim two years ago from Riverside. He was a member of the Four-Square Gospel church of this city.

Surviving are his wife, Cora O. Gyde, of the family home; one son, Urban F. Gyde of Los Angeles; one granddaughter, Natalie Ray Gyde; one grandson, Richard Thomas Gyde, both of Los Angeles, and seven sisters all residing in Michigan.

Interment was in Roosevelt Memorial Park, Los Angeles.

New Managers at Bowling Academy

New co-managers of the Anaheim Bowling Academy on South Los Angeles street, are two young veterans, Bill Acton of Route 1, Box 175, Harding, and Lynn Arnett, Route 2, Box 417, Lincoln avenue, Anaheim. The business formerly was managed by Frank and Leona Kaminsky of this city.

Negotiations for a new lease with Richard Clark, building owner, were completed recently. A new feature at the academy is free afternoon instruction in bowling technique for beginners through the courtesy of the management.

During World War II, Arnett, single, served three years in the United States Army, seeing overseas action in the Philippines. Acton, married, was a storekeeper in the Navy and served in the South Pacific theater. Both men are graduates of Anaheim Union high school.

The duo brought bowling honors to Anaheim, winning the $300 purse when they placed first in the men's doubles tournament sponsored by the Orange Bowladrome. The two-week competition closed at midnight on July 4.

Future plans for the local academy include extensive re-modeling to begin about July 26. Present arrangements call for resurfacing of the alleys, new racks and general repainting.

Tall Sales Tax Total Paid by Orange County

(Western News Service)

Taxable sales in Orange county showed an increase for the first quarter of 1948 over the same period in 1947, the State Board of Equalization says.

Taxable sales in the county totaled $41,903,880, returning to the state, $1,047,597, or 2½ per cent in sales tax.

The sales were up 12.53 per cent over the same period a year ago, and represented 1.60 per cent of the total state sales tax.

In all counties of California, $2,620,486,760 worth of goods were sold during the three months period, representing an overall increase of 8.96 per cent for the quarter.

The sales returned $65,512,169 to the state in sales tax, the board announced, and both the retail sales and revenues were the second highest in the history of the tax.

Motor vehicles sales, the board said, soared to an all-time high of more than 325 million dollars, and returned more than eight million of sales tax revenue.

Generally, groups dealing in luxury items, as well as the meal and drink category, showed decreases in sales for the quarter.

"This is probably due to an increasing per cent of the family income going into the rising cost of necessities," the board announced.

John A. Sutter, an ex-captain in the Swiss army, founded what is now Sacramento and in 1839 named it New Helvetia.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
"Sacrament" will be the Sunday Lesson-Sermon subject in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. The Golden Text, chosen from John, reads, "The hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth: for the Father seeketh such to worship him."
It is related in Matthew that "the eleven disciples went away into Galilee, into a mountain where Jesus had appointed them." And in The Acts it is recorded that Jesus "said unto them, . . . ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, . . . and unto the uttermost part of the earth . . . And . . . as Peter . . . came down also to the saints which dwelt at Lydda . . . he found a certain man named Aeneas, which had kept his bed eight years, and was sick of the palsy. And Peter said unto him, Aeneas, Jesus Christ maketh thee whole: arise, and make thy bed. And he arose immediately."
"It is the living Christ, the practical Truth, which makes Jesus 'the resurrection and the life' to all who follow him in deed," writes Mary Baker Eddy in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures." Again she says, "It is possible,— yea, it is the duty and privilege of every child, man and woman,—to follow in some degree the example of the Master by the demonstration of Truth and Life, of health and holiness."

Bible Offers Fascinating Account of History

HENRY FORD once called history "the bunk." It is at least a very interesting bunk and not unprofitable for those who would learn anything from the past experiences of men and nations.

History has also been called "the essence of innumerable biographies." It is that, but it is a great deal more. For there is a corporate life of nations and peoples, and that is something more than the total of all the experiences of individual lives.

All this is well illustrated in the Old Testament story of the life and religion of the people of Israel. The story told in books of history, poetry and prophecy concerns chiefly the people as a whole, their struggles and conquests, their lofty conceptions of God and man and their rise and fall.

But in the Bible are innumerable accounts of individual characters and incidents that are of equal interest and profit. It is this aspect of the Bible that gives it its strongly human quality and makes it realistic.

Among these characters of the Bible, the great liberators, judges, kings and prophets stand out boldly. But there are lesser characters whose stories are illustrated in striking action. Sometimes they appear in a single chapter, or even in a few sentences. But what they were and what they did is there with indelible impression.

There were prophets like Nathan (II Samuel 12), who dared to rebuke King David for his adultery; Micaiah (I Kings 22), who refused to say words pleasing to a king when the truth that he had to declare was unpleasant. There was a devoted husband and lover like Elkanah, father of Samuel (I Samuel 1). And there were craftsmen like Bezalel who gave the work of their hands in worship.

But the biography of the Bible does not concern only heroes and hero worship. With honest realism the weaknesses of men, their faults and sins are set down with their records of greatness. The shiftiness of Jacob, the anger of Moses, the adultery of David, the folly of Solomon, are all there, too. What a book of honesty and truth!

Schedule Sunday Union Services

Sunday evening Union Services are scheduled beginning July 11 to August 29, at 8 o'clock, under the sponsorship of the Anaheim Association of Christian Churches.

Dr. J. Herbert Smith, rector of All Saints Episcopal church, Beverly Hills, will be speaker for the opening service on next Sunday night at the Christian church, 325 West Broadway.

July 18, at the Christian church, Dr. Frank Fagerberg, pastor of the First Baptist church in Los Angeles, will speak.

Dr. George Reeves, president of Chapman College, Los Angeles, will be heard the following Sunday, August 1, at White Temple Methodist church, 305 East Broadway.

August 8, at the First Christian church, Dr. Reeves again will speak.

At the same church, Dr. Alvin S. Haag, professor at the University of Redlands, will be heard on August 15.

August 22, Dr. Julian Price Love, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Louisville, Kentucky, is scheduled to speak at White Temple Methodist church.

For the concluding program, August 29, Dr. Fagerberg will return to speak at White Temple church.

HS Pool Open to Classes, Public

Vacation swimming classes will continue through August 13, at Anaheim Union high school pool Director Dick Glover disclosed this week. The aquatic sessions began last week.

In addition to instruction classes, limited to those who have passed their beginners tests, to be taught by Glover and his assistant, Irwin North, Red Cross instructor, recreational night swimming sessions are also underway.

The two family night are Tuesdays and Thursdays, 5 to 6:30 o'clock. The youth center night is every Monday from 6:45 to 8:15 o'clock.

Presented at a small fee, the daily instruction schedule is as follows:

8:45 a.m. — Boys 14 years and under who have passed the beginners tests.

10 to 11 a.m. — Advanced girls class in diving and swimming.

11 a.m. to 12 noon — Advanced boys.

1:15 to 2:30 p.m. Boys and girls intermediate swimming.

2:30 to 3:45 p.m. Water polo.

P. M. A. and the Farmer

ALL AGRICULTURAL COUNTIES IN A C P

The farmers of this county who are participating in the Agricultural Conservation Program are cooperating with farmers in all of the agricultural counties of the United States, says Roy L. Hall, chairman of the Orange county committee.

Farmers through their ACP committees are carrying out farming practices to conserve soil and water in every county in the United States, except the 23 counties which are non-agricultural. In this county the main conservation practices being carried out by farmers are controls for erosion, weeds and soil pests.

Under the Agricultural Conservation Program, farmers are encouraged and helped in carrying out the various approved conservation practices. Assistance is in the form of materials, services and financial aid. Technical commitees made up of specialists from Experiment Stations, Extension Service, State Departments of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service, and others review and help write the approved practices.

Farmer-elected committees administer the program in all the communities and counties where the program is in operation.

Mr. Hale cites three reasons for the program. First — The need for soil and water conservation is urgent. Food-producing land is limited, population is increasing and soil must be saved now. Assistance under the A C Program has proved the most effective way of getting the needed conservation.

Second — Responsibility for conserving our soil and water resources is national. Everyone depends on the products of the soil and everyone should have a share in the responsibility of protecting the present and future food supplies. Through the ACP consumers and producers share the cost of the conservation practices. This year that cost is about $1.00 per person. The farmer matches that — and then contributes the necessary work.

Third — It's the most economical way of getting the needed conservation work done. Erosion, if let go, becomes more expensive to correct with each passing year. Not only is there a bigger job to do but the soil lost cannot be restored.

JULY AND AUGUST PRICE SUPPORT FOR POTATOES

Price support for Irish potatoes in California will be $2.55 per cwt. through July and $2.60 for August. These are basic support prices for the two months for U. S. No. 1 grade potatoes packed in new burlap or cotton bags, and loaded f. o. b. through carrier in carlots or trucklots at country shipping points. Basic support prices for potatoes of U. S. No. 1 grade, Size B, and U. S. No. 2 grade, 1⅞ inches minimum diameter packed and located as prescribed for U. S. No. 1 grade are 50 percent of the No. 1 price.

FLOOD DAMAGE RUNS IN MILLIONS

Farmers in flooded Western areas may need all the help Department of Agriculture agencies are able to give them, according to sketchy and incomplete surveys. First estimates are that the Columbia River flood in Oregon, Washington, and Idaho caused farm production losses which may amount to $10 million. Besides this loss of income from devastated crops and livestock, State USDA Councils report tentative rehabilitation costs of $1,375,000 for the 1,375 farms affected in Washington, and $450,000 for 800 farms in Oregon.

Further surveys are being made by Department of Agriculture agencies, but present farm damage estimates, for Washington and Oregon respectively, are: farm land inundated, 104,000 and 50,000 acres; cropland or cultivated pasture flooded, 52,135 and 26,000 acres; cows evacuated, 11,500 and 5,400 head; hay requirements, to next pasture season, 20,000 and 12,150 tons; grain feed requirements, 10,625 and 4,050 tons; fences destroyed, 1,955 and 500 miles; farm buildings damaged or destroyed, 680 and 450; fertilizer needed, 5,000 and 1,000 tons. Seeding requirements may run around $635,000. Besides around $320,000 required for rebuilding or repairing farm bridges and roads, personal property damages on farms in the two States are estimated at $1,555,000, and losses on home-grown food at $182,000.

FARM DAMS SAVE SOIL

Erosion is being checked, water held back and great progress in conservation is being made by the thousands and thousands of dams built under the Agricultural Conservation Program, says E. H. Spoor, chairman of the California PMA Committee. In California alone 1,076 stockwater and erosion control dams were constructed under the 1947 A C Program.

To the Nation each dam means that much water and the soil that would have gone with it has been stopped. Not only does the dam hold back the water — or at least as much as the dam will hold before it goes over the spillway — it keeps that much water from joining the run-off from other waterways. The gully-making flood is checked.

Quite often farmers are finding that a single pond is "worth a million" as a supply of water for livestock.

In speaking of his pond one livestock man said, "I have needed a stock pond for a number of years, but it was not until the ACP gave me some assistance in building the pond that I was able to afford it."

The chairman cites this rancher's experience to indicate what water control means to the individual farmer. To the Nation it means continued protection — especially in wet years — against erosion and floods. Thousands of similar dams throughout the country are holding back flood water, checking erosion, protecting cropland and often safeguarding a much needed water supply.

WHAT ABOUT EROSION?

In a recent article under the title "Conflicting Doctrines About Soils" Charles E. Kellog, chief, Division of Soil Survey in USDA's Bureau of Plant Industry, Soils and Agricultural Engineering, clears up some misunderstandings about erosion. He draws the distinction between natural, or geological erosion, and the erosion caused by man's activities.

He says: "Excessive erosion — accelerated soil erosion — is a serious problem in parts of our own country and in many other places in the world. Like other soil problems it has been long neglected and it demands attention. Unless farmers are careful there will be bad soil blowing again during the drought years in the Plains. Another period of low farm prices will almost certainly be accompanied by serious soil erosion.

"One cannot, or should not, try to stop erosion, but rather to control it. On the other hand, some of the erosion least conspicuous to the casual observer is the most harmful.

"In fact, the most serious erosion injuries to the soil are not chemical, not the loss of plant nutrients, but the change in the structure, the loss of crumblike surface horizons and the exposure of massive clays, hardpans, or even solid rock.

"Generally, when a rural population becomes poverty-stricken, it fails to maintain its soil. An exploited people pass on their suffering to the land."

Deciduous Fruit Shipments Show Sharp Decline

Although prices in the east for California deciduous fruits this year have been slightly higher than last, the lateness of the growing season has had a marked effect on the farmers pocket book.

This was indicated by the market news service, which compared a 1605 carlot shipment of all deciduous fruit to date this year from California, to 4293 at the same time last year.

The early peach market for California growers was just about nullified, as this state has shipped only 23 cars to date this year, compared to 415 last year. The national total, however, saw 1,877 cars shipped from all U. S. points this year, compared to 1,126 last, with a price drop of from $1.97 to $1.65 on the average.

Prices on apricots increased from $2.66 last year to $3.77 this year, per lug on the average, but the state's farmers have shipped only 207 cars to date this year, compared to 721 at the same time in 1947.

Cherry shipments from California totaled 451 cars this year, compared to 822 last, and plums dropped from 2,193 last year to 876 at the present time.

Net effect, it was pointed out, is a decreased return to the grower, as generally, prices have not increased to take care of the decrease in shipment.

Colony Quips

and as soon as the fact about the wig percolated through the students heads a lively school year was anticipated. The plots against that wig numbered into the millions. The first day the class took up formally there was a tremenduous undercurrent of anticipation. That wig was going to catch it and everyone knew it. The professor announced that first he would write the names of the class on the blackboard and asked for the first name, which, when given; he proceeded to turn his back to the class and transcribe on the board. The class sat expectantly. Then in the middle of the name Professor X stopped, lifted the wig with one hand and with the other scratched the top of his head. A laugh broke out and he turned to the class with this explanation: 'I am troubled with sinus and wear this wig only to keep from catching cold.'

That took all the fun out of it and all the plans to expose his bald head died aborning.

14 Local Cadets At Encampment

Fourteen cadets from Anaheim Union high school participated in marksmanship firing and specialized advanced training at the 13-day California Cadet Corps encampment, which closed Tuesday at Camp San Luis Obispo, Lt. Col. Charles A. Royston, state Corps director announced.

The local youths who attended the encampment had completed their basic orientation course here as members of the Anaheim unit of the California High School Cadet Corps.

Headed by Capt. L. E. Middleton, assistant school commandant, the Anaheim cadets were instructed with cadets from throughout the state in intensive leadership and character development courses.

The local unit was honored by having two of the cadet Regimental staff from this city, Richard E. Hoxie, a lieutenant-colonel, and Herschel E. Coulter, a sergeant of the staff.

Other cadets participating included John Arthur Adams, Theodore Louis Brown, William Boyce Burr, Jr., Robert William Burton, Howard J. Coffman, John Albert Dressler, Don Otto Jungkeit, Charles Edwin Kipp, Milton G. Peters, Dean R. Risner, Gilbert H. Veilleux and Herman D. Youngkeit.

Courses included instruction in interior guard duty and camp security, citizenship, personal hygiene and discipline, leadership and command, map reading, markmanship with firing on the range, and sanitation and first aid.

Florida Growers Want It on Label

Florida citrus growers are busy with a proposed law which is of interest to California growers. The proposed law would make it mandatory for bottlers of carbonted or other bottled drinks to show how much citrus juice is actually contained in drinks purportedly containing citrus juices.

Florida growers feel too many so-called citrus juice drinks contain relatively little citrus juice.

WASHINGTON AS SEEN

By Congressman JOHN PHILLIPS

This is the lull between conventions. The Republican members of the Congress hurried away, to Philadelphia, after the all-night session, and are now back in Washington, picking up loose ends. The Democratic members had the week here, to clean up their offices, and are now on the way to the city of brotherly love. I rise to remark that this designation worked out all right for the Republicans and I hope it will for the Democrats.

I give my crystal ball a passing grade, but not cum laude. It was Dewey, and it did turn out to be Warren, after a long 'disscussion early Friday morning. Governor Dewey asked our governor to come to his hotel room at 4 a.m. and assured him, if he would take the nomination for v.p., he would give Governor Warren something to do. It is not an inviting prospect for an active man, presently the administrator of one of the largest states, with greater problems and a bigger budget than most states, and many nations, to be asked to exchange that job for a seat on a rostrum, tapping on a desk with a little gavel (without a handle) and saying, "Does the senator yield, and to whom?"

The belief here is that the commission of which former-President Hoover is the chairman, which is working on the re-organization of the government, will have some suggestions for making use of the ability and energy any vice-president is supposed to have, and which Earl Warren has in abundance. Anyway, Governor Dewey, if he is elected, has promised to take his vice-president into the official cabinet family, and to put him to work. On that basis, and after prayerful thought and tramping the streets of Philadelphia from 7:30 a.m. until nearly 9 a.m. our governor agreed to accept the nomination.

The current joke in the delegation is that the lieutenant governor of California, our friend Goodwin Knight, has approved the nominations at Philadelphia. Seriously, California is fortunate in having a man of his ability and experience, ready to step into the governor's office. Southern California will have an understanding friend in Sacramento.

The Democrats now have their problems. My crystal ball lights up like a pin ball machine when the name Truman is mentioned as the nominee. I guess there is no doubt of that. Even the southern "revolt" seems to be cooling off. The battle will be for the vice-presidential nominee. There are people walking the streets of Washington right now, carrying placards asking for the nomination of Eleanor Roosevelt. This was also suggested by Westbrook Pegler or John O'Donnell, I forget which, and by Clare Boothe Luce. Since the placard carriers are evidently commies, I would say the idea had wide endorsement. That would be something, wouldn't it?

Personally I think it could be Senator O'Mahoney. I doubt if Justice Douglas will give up a lifetime place on the Supreme Court, with full retirement salary, for a political campaign, the result of which is somewhat doubtful. Those are the two mentioned here. General, now President, Eisenhower is only a hope; he has repeatedly said he would not accept.

Would you like to try to figure the electoral votes, or is it too early for that? In 1944, Roosevelt and Truman had 432 electoral votes; Dewey and Bricker had 99, a total of 531. It requires 266 to elect.

Giving the Republican candidates the same states which counted up the 99 votes last time, and giving them both New York and California, the home states of the nominees, and giving them Pennsylvania, which has shown signs, in recent local elections, of going Republican this year, Mr. Dewey and Mr. Warren will have 206. To get the needed electoral votes, they must get at least half of the following states, so you can figure it out for yourself: Massachusetts 16; Illinois 28; New Jersey 16; Michigan 18; Washington 6; Montana 8; Idaho 4; New Hampshire 4; Oregon 6; Connecticut 8; Minnesota 11; total 128. This leaves 22 states, usually Democratic, for Mr. Truman and his partner to start with.

It will hardly be a landslide, but straws are making the elephant feel pretty frisky.

Marcia E. Day Services Held

Funeral services for Mrs. Marcia E. Day, 86, 10700 Lincoln road, were conducted Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Backs, Campbell and Kaulbars chapel with Rev. Howard S. Congdon, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. She died Thursday night of last week in Anaheim hospital.

Born in Vermont, she came to Anaheim in 1912 and had lived in California for a total of 60 years. She was a member of the local Presbyterian church.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Cook of Anaheim, and one sister, Jennie Archer of Wichita, Kansas.

Interment was in Loma Vista Cemetery.

Bevillard Rites To Be Friday

Funeral services for Arthur N. Bevillard, 33, of Los Angeles, will be conducted tomorrow (Friday) afternoon at 2 o'clock at Backs, Campbell and Kaulbars chapel with the Rev. Howard S. Congdon, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Anaheim, officiating. Bevillard was drowned at Yuma, Arizona, July 4.

A native of Anaheim, he had lived in this vicinity for most of his life.

He is survived by his sister, Mrs. E. M. Strickland of Anaheim.

STERLING HOLLOWAY

Holiday Stage's 'Goodbye Again' Is Big Success

The extremes to which Oliver Cliff goes to create the allusion that he is a single, not a married touring novelist, despite his ifonization by a curvatious society damsel, also married, in "Goodbye Again," Holiday Stage's second production this season, caused recurrent waves of audience laughter. The presentation of Allen Scott and George Haight's farce, which opened Monday night in the Tustin high school auditorium, will have its final curtain Saturday night.

When a beautiful but not brilliant matron feels with conviction that her college beau, (Cliff), has been waiting for seven years as her true-love, just as she has for him, life can be complicated.

When her husband, John Alvin, an opposite character type from Cliff, spends a 12-hour vigil with Cliff's secretary, "Ann," a role handled with cleverness and dexterity by Mary Finney, the realism of the situation is stressed.

Cliff, whose clowning and pantomine is good for lots of hearty laughter and applause, finally is rescued by his own madcap antics and the competent aid of his secretary-wife.

The stuff-shirt young lawyer is well-played by William Pullen who exclaims and blows like a pinnacle of convention in the Bohemian atmosphere of Cliff's hotel suite where all the scenes are staged.

Beverly Campbell portrays Julia's naive and talkative sister.

Eight-year-old Carl Auer of Brea did a good job in his first appearance with the professional stock company. Other members of the cast included David Edwards, Mildred Newman, Richard Lawrence and Glen Wells.

Under the direction of Norman Mennes many facets of humor are brought to light through stage business and vocal intonations. The stage set was designed by Mr. Mennes.

Holloway Will Star in 'Holiday Stage' Comedy

Sterling Holloway, popular motion picture comedian, will star in the strawhatter's "Merton of the Movies" to be presented by Holiday Stage, professional summer stock company, for a week's stand, beginning next Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Tustin high school auditorium.

The versatile Holloway, who was guest director for the "Stage" opener, "She Loves Me Not," will portray a small town boy who tries to make good in the movies of the old silent days.

This third production in the company's 10-week run, will feature six sets including a replica of an early film studio.

Accommodating the theater-going mothers of small children, Holiday Stage will open a nursery during Saturday matinees beginning July 10, it was announced. Youngsters are asked to bring at least one sturdy toy. The theater is providing a trained supervisor.

"Goodbye Again," currently offered at Holiday Stage, co-starring Oliver Cliff and Mary Finney, closes Saturday night. John Alvin, Beverly Campbell, William Pullen and Glen Wells are among the cast of 14 players.

More Citrus Juice Than Ever Available

For the first time in its history, Florida has, during its orange season now coming to a close, put more than half its orange crop into cans. The record shows 72,000 standard cars of the fruit processed and 68,000 cars shipped as fresh fruit from Florida this season. Last year Florida processed 50,000 cars and moved 83,000 cars as fresh fruit.

This year's carry-over of canned juice is in the neighborhood of eight and a half million cases, compared to a carry-over of two and a half million cases at this time last year.

The figures on all states show a total of 80,000 cars processed this year vs. 59,000 cars last year. Shipments of fresh fruit, all varieties and all states, to June 12 total 124,000 cars as against 146,000 cars at the comparable date last year.

Of the total U. S. grapefruit crop, 72,000 cars had been processed to June 12. At the corresponding date last year the U. S. total was 64,700 cars.

TELLS OF RED CROSS AID TO FLOOD VICTIMS

In summing up Red Cross disaster relief operations for the 30 days since the Decoration Day dike-break at Vanport, Richard Gordon, regional disaster director, said the organization now has expended close to $1,000,000 in providing emergency food, clothing and shelter for 10,235 families in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana.

MR. AND MRS. BONNEY BACK FROM IOWA

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Bonney, 826 South Lemon street, Anaheim, returned home Sunday from Des Moines, Iowa, where they had been visiting her father, Frank D. Carr. Mrs. Bonney flew back east three weeks ago to be with her father who was seriously injured in an automobile accident. Mr. Bonney joined his wife there ten days ago and the two returned home. Her father is reported doing well.

LOOKING BACKWARD

BY C. E. HOLCOMB

"Don" Abel Stearns

He was born February 9, 1798, in Luxenburg, Massachusetts and died in San Francisco in 1871. He was a descendant of Isaac Stearns who emigrated from England in 1630 and settled in Salem, Massachusetts.

In this connection, it might be more or less interesting to surmise a possibility that Isaac Stearns and Thomas Holcomb, the progenitor of the Holcomb family in America, were on the same ship, the "MARY AND JOHN," a ship of 400 tons which sailed from Plymouth, England in March 1630, with 140 persons on board, destined for the Charles river in America in a voyage that took 70 days. So if the reader will pardon the digression, we will insert a summary of that trip as related in the genealogy of the "Holcomb" family.

The "MARY AND JOHN" chartered by Captain Squeb, for the voyage to America, was fitted out. This "Godly company," of 140 persons, assembled with their two ministers in the new hospital at Plymouth, (England), kept a solemn day of fasting and prayer, and chose Bishop John Maverick and Bishop John Wareham to be their officers. There was a dispute with the captain, who refused to attempt the pasage without pilot or chart. "The Word of God was preached and expounded every day during the voyage," of 70 days and the ship arrived at Nantasket, May 30, 1630. There is no evidence that any large ship had ever penetrated further into the harbor previous to this time.

10 of the men procured a boat, left the ship at Nantasket and went in quest of the "promised land." Later they were ordered to return to the ship as other members of the company had found a convenient place at Mattapan, where pasture for their famished cattle could be had. Tradition has always fixed upon the south side of Dorchester Neck (South Boston) in Old Harbor, as the place of landing. Here they founded the town of Dorchester (named for Dorchester, England), so called to the present day and now a part of the City of Boston.

There was a tribe of Indians, of whom Chicatobot was Chief, that dwelt in that vicinity. Whatever may have been their former number and importance before their destruction by a pestilence in 1618, our forefathers found them few in numbers, depressed in spirits and, for the most part, very docile. Much interest was felt for them by the settlers and great efforts were made to civilize and convert them to Christianity, a duty they felt they owed, as their charter for ground upon which they located was based upon the "desire to propogate the Christian religion to such as live in darkness, and to bring savages to human civility." The Indians had but little use for land. They attached but a trifling value to it and parted with it without reluctance. Thomas Holcomb was made Freeman, May 14, 1634.

In the summer of 1635 some Dorchester people had already reached the river and sat down at a place where William Homes, and others at Plymouth, had erected a trading house two years before (at Windsor), and made preparations for bringing their families and settling permanently; and in November, 60 persons with a large number of cattle, travelled from Dorchester and arrived in safety at the river, after much tribulation. During the first Winter the sufferings of these persons were intense and they lost nearly all their cattle. Some individuals wandered back to Dorchester and others avoided stravation by dropping down the river and taking refuge in a vessel at anchor at the mouth.

Now to return to California. Abel Stearns came to California in 1829. He had lived several years in Mexico and had become a naturalized citizen of that country before coming to California. At that time it was necessary to become a member of the Catholic church and a naturalized citizen of Mexico before permitted to become a land owner.

July 1829 he arrived at Monterey, expecting a land grant. He was suspected by the Mexican governor, Manual Victoria, of some political design and was banished; but in 1831 he returned and joined in the movement by which Victoria was overthrown. Two years later he settled in Los Angeles as a trader in hides and liquors and grew prosperous, though he was often in trouble with the authorities because of alleged smuggling.

He was chosen "sindico" fiscal agent of the village in 1836. Ordered to leave the country, he joined a revolution which placed Juan Batista Alvarado in power and made California in two years (1836-8) an independent republic. About 1840 he married Maria Francisca Paula Arcadia Bandini, a woman of great beauty and charm and soon afterwrd acquired the extensive Los Alamitos ranch which consisted of six leagues or something over 26,000 acres.

In November, 1842, more than five years before the discovery of gold on the American river, he sent to the Philadelphia mint twenty ounces of gold taken from the San Feliciano placers near Newhall.

He engaged in stock raising, bought more lands and by the time of the conquest, was one of the wealthiest men in California. He built the most imposing residence in the village of Los Angeles and called it "El Palicio." In 1844-5 he took part in the revolution that expelled Gov. Manuel Michelorena. Hating the Mexicans but admiring the Californians, he sided with the party that was attempting to bring California into the Union by peaceful means. In 1846 when hostilities began, however, he remained neutral and in the following year, under American rule, became again the village "sindico."

He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1849. In 1858 he built the Arcadia block, the most expensive structure south of San Francisco. Although during the drouth of 1864 he suffered staggering losses, before his death in 1871, he managed to recover much of his former wealth. He died suddenly in San Francisco and was buried in Los Angeles. There were no children.

He was a tall, well formed man, with a homely visage which won him the name of "Casa de Caballo," (horse face). A personal encounter in 1835 left him with a scar about the mouth and an impediment in his speech. He was quick tempered, with strong prejudices, but was hospitable and generous. At various times he held public office. He was deeply interested in education and just before his death, had planned to establish a foundation at the projected University of Southern California. (Taken from Van Wagenen's, geneal and memories of Isaac Stearns and his descendents).

It was said in the early days that the University of Southern California was founded by three men of three different religious faiths. Rev. M. M. Bovard, Methodist; Abel Stearns, Catholic; and Isaias W. Hellman, Jewish. Stearns donated land and Hellman assisted with finances. These three men, though of different faiths, were without biogotry and united in creating a great educational institution for the advancement of civilization and the benefit of mankind.
