

OBLONG VIEWS

(From an Egg-Shaped Head)
By WALDO HUNTER, P.E.P.

There is some talk going around about the fellow named Kelly who joined the Army and led the lift of Schlitz.

Perhaps somewhere there is a school for the training of store clerks, but if so, its alumnae are not too plentiful.

Seems that the retail division of all city chambers of commerce should include in their programs a coaching program for people who sell goods across counters.

In the great majority of cases, the customer's only contact with a retail establishment is made through the person who shoves him his wrapped package and grabs the dough.

In many (far too many) instances, this transaction is a cool, impersonal exchange of hard-earned cash for hard-earned dollars, without even a "thank you" from the store's representative.

As a case in point, I drove into a service station last week, had the attendant check the oil, squirt a pint of water into the radiator, and bought two gallons of gasoline. He said nothing, but from his demeanor it was evident that he considered the transaction a personal affront. I should have "killed" him. He didn't even wash the windshield. This lot is doing his employer no good. How did he know that I wouldn't be in the next day for 20 gallons of gas and a new generator or a set of tires? Their rest-rooms are probably dirty, too.

The employee of any business establishment, retail or wholesale, should smile—the prospective customer, say "good morning" or at least "How are you?" And at this writing we believe that there is absolutely no case on record of anyone collapsing from spontaneous cardiac deficiency after saying "Thank you, come back again."

Social amenities used on the family dog at home also sound nice around a store.

I entered a local appliance store not too long ago check-book in hand and all worked up to buy a television set. The store manager was busy talking to what appeared to be a wholesale representative. I was left to stand idly by while he made his deal, which took nearly half an hour. When the manager at length got around to me I was at the door heading for another store.

On the other hand, however, we encounter the clerk who goes to the opposite extreme. He must sell you something or nothing! You know the type. You enter a place just to "browse around" and on hovering a hustler lunges at you insisting on a quick and immediate exchange.

You say, "no, thanks, just looking around." Then he, with the hint look of someone just whiffed, retreats to some dim recess of the store, proceeds to busy himself with the books or something. But as you inspect a necktie or look at some cuff links you know that he has you under surveillance.

He's got you figured as a guy out to do his Christmas shopping early. I have experienced this predicament several times. Looking up from just "browsing" I have met the fishy, accusing stare of the shopkeeper and have felt panic.

The initial impulse is to bolt out the door, but this would imply guilt and in a town where you would have Mark Stephenson on your tail if they could find him in his office.

Obviously, you can't just stand there and stare back. So, taking the only way out of an embarrassing impasse, you pick up the handiest article and buy it. Anything to get out. All on account of this, I have carted home a box of turtle food (we have no turtles), an antismear, a purple and orange lamp shade, and a boot jack (we have no boots). Things are getting pretty strained around the house, I might add. A copy of Ogilthorpe's "Guide to English Dog Cemetery" I threw out of the car window on the way home. I came by that thing while just "browsing around" a book store.

Back to the original theme, and to employ a new twist on an old saw: "Let the seller beware." The war is over and it is now a buyer's market.

And besides, the customer is almost right.

County Choirs to Join in Anaheim Festival of Song

More than 50 Orange County church choirs will join to sing in a festival Sunday afternoon in the Greek Theater in Anaheim City Park. More than 800 singers have registered to sing. It will include both junior and adult choirs.

Dr. Lara Hoggard, for eight years conductor of the famed Fred Waring Pennsylvanians, will be the conductor. Dr. Hoggard is well known throughout the nation having served as guest conductor for many high school, college and church music festivals in nearly every state in the union.

This appearance at numerous choral clinics has been in demand for the demonstration of the practical techniques which have been largely responsible for the success of the Fred Waring Guild. During the season 1952-53 Dr. Hoggard toured with his own concert organization, called "Festival of Song." The tour consisted of 85 concerts in 30 states. The group traveled more than 16,000 miles during the 15 weeks of engagements and was heard by some 200,000 people.

Following the tour of "Festival of Song," Lara Hoggard resigned from the Waring organization as choral director of the "Pennsylvanians," audio director for television radio and recording and from the Waring organization as choral director of the "Pennsylvanians," audio director for television radio and recording and from the Waring organization as choral director of the "Pennsylvanians," audio director for television radio and recording.

Dr. Hoggard is now living in Southern California with his family. During the winter season his work will consist primarily of arranging, writing, and editing. There will be a limited number of engagements as conductor and lecturer for educational and professional organizations, festivals and church groups.

This festival will include the largest group of singers ever to assemble in Orange County in a sacred concert of this kind. It is sponsored by the Choral Conductors' Guild of Orange County. An auxiliary of the Anaheim Exchange club started last Thursday evening when officers were named for the Exchange club at a dinner meeting at the Cirq restaurant. La Habra. Exchange vice-president Frederick Klein invested the following claim in office: Mrs. Wynne Friday, president; Mrs. George Carter, vice-president; Mrs. Ernest Jahr, treasurer; and Mrs. Carlton Barthelmas, secretary.

Success Story to Show Richfield's $40,000,000 Improvement May 28

After 150 live telecasts of "Success Story," to show their neighbors at work, the sponsoring Richfield Oil Corporation will visit their own refinery via KTV (11) Friday, May 28, at 7:00 p.m.—the show being done on film.

"Same $40,000,000 has just been spent on the refinery on new equipment and on modernization, and Richfield plans to demonstrate why their refinery is now the last word in the West and how it makes America's most advanced gasoline," says Ken Peters, who leads TV viewers on the weekly explorations of "Success Story."

The Richfield refinery is shown on film because making some scenes was possible only during construction. The signs in service stations which read: "Stop Your Motor—No Smoking" also have something to do with not taking television equipment into a refinery for a live story. Even photography from flash bulbs is taboo.

Anniversary Week Celebrated by YLI

More than 60 members and guests of the Anaheim Young Ladies Institute have just closed a successful 31st birthday celebration week which began with dinner at the Pickwick club, and concluded with a surprise social hour at the IOOF hall in appropriate birthday setting.

Guest speaker was Helen Krom of Fullerton, Grand First Vice President and Institute Deputy. Her topic was "Action Speaks Louder Than Words." She offered special congratulations to new members initiated during the evening.

Margaret Young of Santa Ana, Grand Director and general chairman of the Grand Convention to be held in Long Beach in July, spoke on her two projects, the National Shrine and the Grand Convention.

During the social hour following the business session, members were seated at 12 tables according to birth months. All officers were hostesses for the evening and served finger sandwiches and individual birthday cakes. Pouring at the tea table were Mae Lee Vecke and Marie Martin.

Formally initiated into the Anaheim YLI last week were Pauline Constance Rivet, Isabelle Ahern, Lila Martinez, Cecile Baker, Barbara Jean Rinder, Nancy Ruth, and Jean Robinson.

School Building Costs Reduced

Cost of school construction, financed in part by state loans, has been reduced by $3.88 per square foot, Roy E. Simpson, State superintendent of Public Instruction announced today. Simpson is a candidate for re-election on the November 2 election.

"During the Korean war, school house construction costs rose in proportion to all other costs due to labor and material shortages and high competition," he said. "However, not all of the high cost could be charged to such conditions."

"Under the provisions of the new law," he continued, "the Allocation Board must determine the current cost standards per square foot for similar facilities constructed without state aid. This determination has to be made not less than once each three months," stated Simpson.

"The new law," he said, "has state aided project may exceed such standards."

According to word received from the Anaheim Elementary school office of Superintendent Paul Cook, the closing day of school this year will be June 18.

The Red Shield Trucks are Out

A special fleet of Salvation Army Red Shield trucks is calling at Anaheim homes this week to collect castoff articles which local residents are contributing in the annual Salvage Week campaign. The drive will continue through Saturday.

The out-of-use articles will be reconducted in workshops of the Salvation Army Social Service Center which serves this area, providing food, shelter and financial aid to men who are unable to obtain employment in private industry because of their handicaps.

These men during the past year were given a record high of 281,640 hours of occupational therapy, 58,704 meals and 19,092 lodgings through a social rehabilitation program which is maintained solely by the castoff articles. In addition thousands of dollars worth of food, clothing and household articles were directly to needy families.

O. H. Renner, chairman of the citizens committee assisting in the salvage campaign, urged local residents who have not contributed yet to telephone Keystone 5-4831 to bring a Red Shield truck to collect castoff articles.

Avocado Telecast On This Sunday

An event of considerable interest to Southland avocado growers will be a "telecast," on Channel 2, Sunday, May 30, 11:30-12:00 p.m., of the first "re-constituted" Fuerte avocado trees, 10 orchard and trees of the Fuerte variety, prior to this development, have been propagated upon several varieties of seedling rootstocks. Many years of "root-relationship" research has resulted in a method of vegetatively reproducing rootstocks from root cuttings taken from the root-systems of outstanding producers of this variety.

It is indeed a coincidence that the first home of the Fuerte California should also be the focal point of research that resulted in the development of the "first Standard" in avocado rootstocks. Thanks to the individual-tree production records maintained by Mr. Kenneth Casper, President, Orange County Avocado Growers' Association, Yuba Linda, it has been possible to clear up much of the mystery surrounding the erratic and unpredictable producing behavior of the Fuerte.

From the "five outstanding" producers in the Casper grove one was selected to be the source tree of the material for this research and development. This tree, in the eight-year period 1946-1953, has produced 4,750 lbs. of mature fruit for an annual average of 894 lbs. This is impressive production, particularly when compared to the Orange County average for the same period of only 55 lbs. per tree. Mr. H. L. Gillespie on San Gabriel, who originated the development, will be "guest" on the "Garden Vagabond Show."

Osceola Work Camp Will Start Saturday

The annual Memorial Day weekend work camp at Osceola will then May 29, 30 and 31, according to Ted Payne, chairman of the Anaheim YMCA camp committee. The purpose of this traditional event is to ready camp buildings, grounds and equipment for the coming camping season. Families are invited to participate in the project, which will include carpentry work, plumbing, electrical repairs, cleaning of cabins, lodge, kitchen, dining hall and swimming pool. Each day will include mattress and miscellaneous work details.

Those interested in attending are requested to take their own tools and blankets or sleeping bags. Also, notify John E. Berthel, KE 5-8168, regarding the number of men's reservations desired. Meals will be served to all men beginning with lunch on Saturday and ending with lunch on Monday.

AUIS Homemakers Child Care Project

Included in a unit on child care in the senior and advanced homemaking classes at AUIS is a three week period play school on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, maintained by the students with the help of the Sears Roebuck Foundation, which donated $75 to help foster the idea. With that money, the girls bought a little table, chairs, toys, and a painting easel. The class is under the supervision of Neva Solt.

To find children for the project, the girls canvassed the few blocks adjacent to the campus. They then let the parents decide, over a period of a few days, whether or not to let their children participate in the play school. This year, the girls have nine children, six boys and three girls, between 3½ and 5 years of age.

The students maintain a program or reporting sheet, to give the parents after the project is finished. On Tuesday of each week, Mrs. Webb, the school nurse, examines each of the children for any possible illnesses or contagious diseases.

On Friday, May 28, the girls will end the project with a special party for the children.

The State Department of Education suggested the plan to Miss Solt a few years ago and with Mrs. Demaree's approval, it was then initiated.

WHAT'S DOING

H. L. Perry, your Telephone Manager in Anaheim

Where safety is always in style

The man inside the strange garments (at right) put them on to show you the wide variety of safety devices we use today. Of course, it isn't likely a telephone man will need all this equipment on any single job. But whatever the job, telephone men have the safety devices and techniques they need. Making safety our style pays off for you. For we think a job must be safe to be good. And only good jobs can hold the capable people needed to bring you more service, dependable service, at lowest possible cost. Pacific Telephone works to make your telephone a bigger value every day.

Save time—look up numbers before you call

You know, telephone numbers have a way of getting twisted when you rely on memory alone. So, to make sure you get right numbers the first time you call, look in the telephone book for those you're doubtful about. And to help you keep handy the numbers you call most often, we'll be glad to send you a free booklet to list them in. Get your copy by calling, writing, or dropping in at our business office.

Anaheim Progress Report

If you see our workmen popping in and out of Pacific Telephone's manholes near your home this month, they're installing some of the 125 million conductor feet of new telephone cable in this part of the county necessary to inaugurate extended service late this year. When the crews are through, they'll have buried and strung aerially nearly a half million dollars' worth of cables. This is one of the steps which will make possible quicker and easier connections for extended service subscribers in Pacific's exchanges.

Richfield Dedicates

The West's Most Advanced Refinery

This week, Richfield formally dedicates to the motorists of the West $40,000,000 worth of the most modern refining facilities known to science.

FROM THESE NEW FACILITIES SOON WILL COME THE MOST ADVANCED GASOLINE IN AMERICA!

We are intensely proud of our achievement in creating, by the addition of these facilities to our 540-acre main plant, the West's most advanced refinery; proud, too, that it is a product of Western planning and enterprise.

But this great refinery is more than an assemblage of the West's most advanced refining equipment—fractionation towers, vacuum stills and giant catalytic cracking units. It is a reassuring symbol that the ever-growing needs of the West for the finest in petroleum products will be met for years to come.

Watch for the announcement of a sensational new gasoline—coming soon to all Richfield stations. We promise you performance from your car you have never before experienced!

RICHFIELD.

FOR CLEANER AIR...

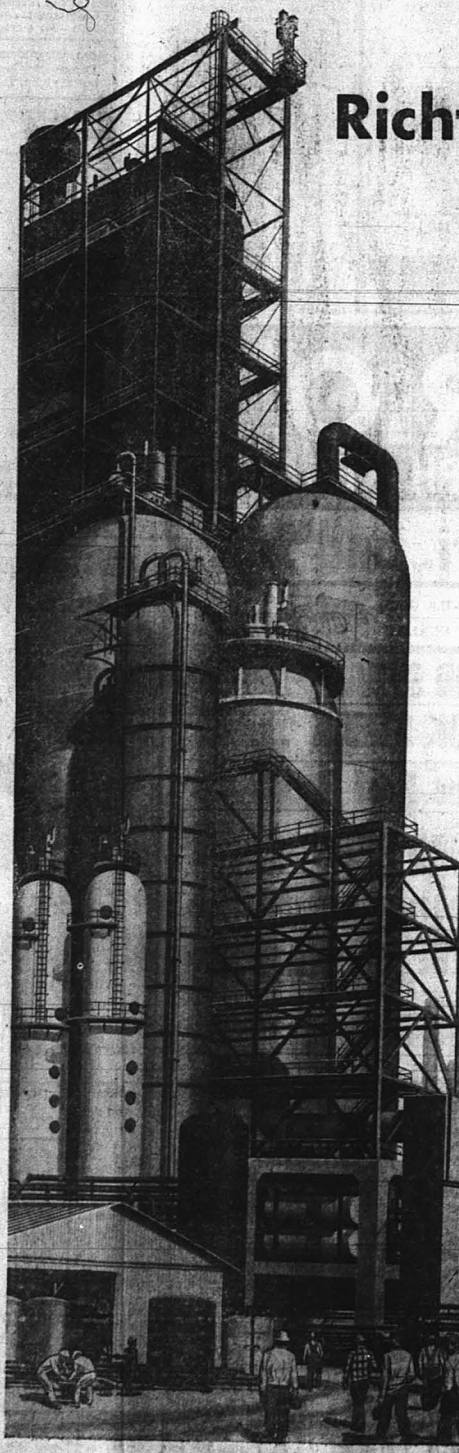

No refining units ever constructed have been so carefully designed to prevent air pollution as those in Richfield's new installations.

We have cooperated throughout with the Los Angeles County Air Pollution Control Board, and the refinery fully complies with all of their regulations.

Richfield has voluntarily spent $6,737,421 to install every possible modern control device. These include—

- The largest Electrical Precipitator in the world, to prevent the escape of catalyst dust to the atmosphere.
- A Waste Heat Boiler—one of two ever built—to complete the combustion of pollutants which would otherwise escape.
- The most complete Gas Recovery Installation ever constructed.

In building this great facility, Richfield's purpose has not been to process more crude oil but rather to bring Western motorists America's most advanced gasoline.

Business Stays At High Level

Business activity in the southern half of California declined slightly in April after advancing during the previous two months, according to an announcement today by B. W. Jordan, manager of Security-First National Bank's Anaheim Branch.

Quoting from the bank's monthly summary of business conditions, he said the index of business in the area for April remained above the average level prevailing during the previous six months and was only one per cent below the average for the record year 1953. As compared with April a year ago, the index was down 4 per cent.

The local banker said that department store sales, after turning up in March, expanded further in April. Considering the usual seasonal factor, sales in the Los Angeles area last month were at the highest level since August.

Building activity continues to be a strong supporting factor in the local business picture, he said. Building permits issued in Southern California during April were valued at $149,839,000—a gain of 9 per cent over a year ago.

Engineering construction contracts awarded in Southern California during April totaled $26,612,000. This was 39 per cent above a year ago and the largest April total on record, he said.

The bank manager reported that new industrial plants and extensions announced for the Los Angeles County during April will involve an investment estimated at $19,420,000—30 per cent above April last year.

Electric power used by Southern California industry increased during April for the third consecutive month, establishing a new all-time high.

Aircraft employment declined slightly in the Los Angeles Metropolitan Area between mid-March and mid-April, he said. The total of 17,700 employed in this key industry during April was only 500 less than the post-World War II peak established in March, and was 10,500 or 63 per cent above April 1953.

A 7 lb. 14 oz. baby girl was born on May 19 in St. Joseph hospital to Mr. and Mrs. George Butler of 1828 Almond Drive.

New Kit Kat Ready for Grand Opening Thursday

Ben and Dorothy Shimmel this week proudly announce the "Open House" of their recently-moved Kit Kat cocktail lounge which has changed locations from 218 E. Center to 122 E. Center, the former location of Glenn's Cafe.

There will be music and fun at the Grand Opening tomorrow, May 27, with Eddie Gerrard, well-traveled and artistic piano virtuoso supplying the music accompanied by a bass viol expert.

The new Kit Kat will be open nightly and Sunday afternoons, and Ben announces that complete steak dinners, sandwiches and short orders will supply the wants of all patrons.

Ben and Dorothy, who came to Anaheim and operated the old Kit Kat since 1949, have made a host of friends in Anaheim and vicinity. Ben has a knack for the business, drawing on experily proud of their 17-year-old daughter Barbara, who was honored by being designated "Miss Anaheim" of 1953. Other children are Mary Lou, 8, and Robert, 14, pupils at St. Boniface school.

The louvered canopy over the bar is something to behold in the field of modern interior decoration, and it is said that if you hit Ben at just the right time he will concoct for you his famous "Factory Whistle" cocktail. (One long blast and you are through for the day).
