City Council to Vote on Mayor Each Year

Anaheim Budget Study Underway

Study and review sessions began this morning in preparation of the 1963-64 annual city budget, Anaheim City Manager, Keith A. Murdoch, said.

The annual budget involves the recommendations and justifications of all department heads. It is presented to the Council by the city manager and adopted on a fiscal year basis.

Budget sessions will be held during the next two months. The proposed fiscal budget will be presented to the Council for their review prior to July.

City's 71st Traffic Signal is Installed

Traffic Engineer Ed Granow announced that the City's 71st intersection was equipped with traffic signals last week. The location of the City's newest installation is Brookhurst and Cerritos.

Granow adds that traffic signals will be installed at two other prime locations later this month. Construction of signals has begun at Ball Road and Dale Avenue and at Anaheim Road and Dowling Avenue.

Since Granow took over the difficult chore of Traffic Engineer for the City two years ago, Anaheim has averaged one new installation a month.

Coons Named City Mayor

Schutte Fights Move, Calls New Resolution Superfluous: 'Mayor Should be Elected By People'

By R. H. (Bob) Abbrezzo
Gazette News Editor

Anaheim can expect to have a new mayor every April — or at least a vote among city councilmen on a mayor — as a result of a 4-1 action taken by the City Council Tuesday. But not without strong opposition from ex-mayor A. J. Schutte.

The action began following the election of Rector (Rex) Coons as mayor, replacing Schutte, and Odra (Chuck) Chandler, replacing the retiring Glenn Fry.

Coons moved that the council reorganize each year on the third week in April, with purpose of electing or reelecting a mayor. In the past, the practice was for the mayor to remain in office until he was challenged by new nominations, usually following an election.

Schutte objected to the motion, stating first, that it was out of order, and second, that the move would solve nothing — that the present system of the council electing the mayor was superfluous. He said that people ought to elect the mayor by direct vote.

Fast Practice

Chandler pointed out that it has always been the practice in the past to elect a new mayor following an election. "When there is a shift in power in the council, you can always expect a reorganization," he insisted.

Coons pointed out that in the past, it was always his idea and him that the post of mayor should be rotated among members of the council.

"When the people elect a councilman to the City Council, they are, in effect, electing a mayor, because a councilman should be able to step in and take over the duties of the mayor's office," the new mayor said.

Schutte continued to insist that the motion itself was out of order, that it had no place on the agenda. Such decisions, he said, should be affected by the council primarily, should rightfully be taken up at the informal luncheon meeting the council attends each Tuesday, from noon until 2 p.m.

Or, he pointed out, it should have come at the very close of the meeting, where there is provision made for such motions as on the regular calendar.

Council Policy

He called attention to the policy of the council stated at the top of the agenda which states: "those items in the City Clerk's office by closing time (5 p.m.) Thursday, prior to the following Tuesday's meeting, not requiring departmental investigation, will be considered by the City Council at said meeting. . . . The final item on the agenda provides for (Please Turn to Page 6)

Fire Chiefs' Group Schedules 14th Annual Conference Here

The 14th Annual conference of the California Fire Chiefs Association will be held in Anaheim May 24-26, according to the Chief Ed Stringer of Anaheim, chairman for the convention.

Approximately 150 fire chiefs from throughout the state are expected to attend. The convention will be headquartered at the Disneyland Hotel.

One of the main features of the three-day conference will be a radiation fire fighting demonstration under the direction of Pasadena officials.

George Bryson, public relations director for the Los Angeles Angels, will speak at Friday's luncheon.

The keynote address will be given by Daniel G. Aldrich, Jr., chairman of the City of California at Irvine. His topic will be, "The New Horizon."

The convention agenda includes election officers, committee reports, and a session on fire services in Civil Defense, as well as normal annual business discussions.

Flies Stir Homeowners Ire Tuesday

Representatives from various sections of the city, members of the poultry and dairymen's associations, and members of the City Council will meet Tuesday morning to discuss methods by which Anaheim can control its recent fly invasion.

The results of the meeting will be a third Tuesday evening during regular session of the council.

Protest groups from all sections of west Anaheim appeared before the council this past Tuesday, raising, in particular, protests against the chicken farms in west Anaheim.

In effect, the groups charged the Orange County Health Department with procrastination and vacillation on the matter and insisted the city take action against the chicken farmers.

Letters from the Health Department, advice from assistant city attorney Joseph Glavin, and statements from Jack H. Woods, owner of a chemical distributing company on Ball Rd., to the effect that the chicken farms were not necessarily at fault and that, legally, it would be difficult to prove they are solely responsible for the advent of the flies, did not impress the angry citizens.

Wood finally offered to get representatives from the poultry and dairy associations together with members of the City Council to discuss what might be done.

Wood sells chemicals for the control of flies to area poultry and dairy men.

He assured the council and citizens that the poultry and dairy men were as interested, even more so, as homeowners in control flies.

It's A Joke?—Not to Motorist

It really happened.

Last Friday afternoon, a motorist driving along E. Center St. discovered his motor missing. A quick glance at the gas gauge told him the trouble. Before the disgruntled fellow could get out, he spotted the Rickfield service station 18 yards ahead, on his right. Sighing gratefully, he coasted the car in front of the pumps.

"Looks like I'm empty," he said, sheepishly, to the service station attendant, as he got out of the car.

The attendant hesitated for a moment and then, replied, "So am I."

The motorist started for a second, opened his mouth, closed it, and finally managed, "You're kidding."

"Nope," the attendant said apologetically. "Been out all day. I sold so much gas yesterday the company truck heart had a chance to get to me."

"Seems like some kind of a joke," the motorist muttered in a low voice.

Jack Maquog, proprietor of the Rickfield station at 1020 E. Center St., got the hard luck driver on his way to the next station, however, by sending an assistant to a nearby station for a gallon of gas.

'Messiah' Stared By Faith Luthers

The choir is under the direction of Mrs. Lee Vaughan and accompanied by Mrs. William Cuss and Mrs. Dale Noack.

Personality Profile

ANAHEIM'S NEW MAYOR

Fifty-two-year-old Rector (Rex) Coons continues the hold of either native or longtime Anaheim residents on the mayor's seat.

His maternal grandparents were among the early pioneers of Anaheim, arriving here in a wagon train in 1869. His mother was born in the city in 1878.

His parents moved, for a short period of time, to Los Angeles, where Coons was born Jan. 31, 1910. The Coons moved back to Anaheim in 1912.

He attended Anaheim elementary school and Anaheim High. Following graduation from high school, he went to Fullerton Jr. College for two years, University of Southern California, one year; and the University of California, two years.

Coons now works as a general contractor and has been owner of Rex Construction Company since 1946.

His wife, Marguerite, was born Jan. 28, 1919, in Joliet, Ill. They have a daughter, Diane Rae Coons, born May 26, 1957.

Despite his pioneer Anaheim background, Coons is considered progressive and as interested in the rights of new Anaheimers as well as longtime residents. Most of his colleagues and associates consider him fair and open minded.

In addition to being a member of the City Council since 1956, he is also a member of the Parks and Recreation Commission, Anaheim Chamber of Commerce, of which he was director for five years; Anaheim high school board, three years; Anaheim Lions' Club, 15 years; Anaheim Elks, 15 years, and the Isaac Walton League.

OC Speakers Selected for Special Luncheon in LA

Outstanding speakers will headline the "Salute" to Orange County luncheon to be held at the Ambassador Hotel, 1215 Angeles, on Wednesday, May 2 from noon to 2 p.m. Nearly 1,000 businessmen from Los Angeles and Orange Counties are expected to attend the event co-sponsored by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County.

According to Jack Randall, chairman of Associated's special projects committee, "We have obtained some of Orange County's best qualified speakers to briefly tell about the main facets of our economy when we are honored by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and their area businessmen on May 2."

"S. W. Horrocks, executive vice-president of Antennics, our largest employer, will represent and speak for our over 1,000 manufacturing firms in Orange County. Walter Knott, outstanding representative of our $158 million recreation and visitor industry, will speaking for it while Olinde Thomas, president of the Irvine Company, will cover the subject of land development.

A speaker yet to be named will tell the group about our $111 million agriculture industry. William Phillips, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, will speak briefly for our county government and Robert McCarty, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, will represent our 26 Chambers of Commerce."

Exhibits of Orange County economy (not product or commercial displays) may be arranged through the Associated Offices; however, they must be of a fire-proof nature.

Special charter buses have been arranged. They will leave from the Community Center parking lot in Santa Ana. "Package" tickets for the bus and luncheon at $6.50 may be purchased or luncheon tickets at $5, with tables of 10 possible, may be purchased through the Associated Chambers of Commerce Office, 2184 So. Harbor Blvd., Anaheim.

This is Opportunity Week for Orange Spotlight. More specifically, it is Opportunity Week for Orange County nightclub owners, sponsored by Orange Spotlight.

And our Opportunity of the Week, for all you harassed nightclub owners, complaining about how hard it is to find first class entertainment, without having to go to Hollywood or Los Angeles for it, is Frank McDonald.

Frank opened last Saturday at the Mon Ami in Orange. Hold it, don't stop now. Better read on a little further. I know just what you are thinking — "The Mon Ami features folk singers and just how will a folk singer fit into my club?"

Well, you're right. The Mon Ami does specialize in folk music and singers, and Frank McDonald sings folk songs. . . . But that isn't all.

As an unsolicited, but definitely frank opinion, I submit that Frank has one of the most versatile and wonderfully magical voices we have heard in a long while.

Anaheim Lags Behind County

Orange County Outstrips 7 So. Calif. Counties in Building Marks

By The Gazette Staff

(Compiled from information submitted by the Security Title Insurance Company and First American Title Insurance Company, Santa Ana.)

Although rolling along at a record building pace for the month of March, Anaheim trailed her Orange County sister cities in total tract sales and new lots.

A total of 24 tracts were recorded in the county last month, containing 1,720 lots. Anaheim had only two. Orange was tops with eight.

The two Anaheim tracts were recorded by Farrow and Sons for an area south of Orangewood and east of Loara St., 20 lots, and Con Tech Building Co., for the easterly extension of Rosewood Ave. and 30 west of State College, 14 lots.

The County as a whole, however, was well ahead of averages for the past five years, for the year April, 1961, to March, 1962, and in new lots recorded, and single and multiple family permits, for the monthly average since last April.

The County was also ahead in tract sales, new lots, and multiple family units against the total racked up in March, 1961.

County Passes So. Calif.

For last month 802 tract sales and new lots were recorded, and 1,219 single and 213 multiple family permits were issued. The averages for the past 12 months were: tract sales, 833; new lots, 1,402; single family permits, 1,340, and multiple family, 187.

The County's record, far exceeded the eight Southern California counties of Kern, Riverside,

San Bernardino, San Diego, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, and Ventura in subdivision tracts and total dollar value of single and multiple building permits.

$80 Millions in Loans

Orange County was second only to San Diego County in total mortgage and trust deeds for February, $82,732,273.80, or $99,956.60. San Diego, however, trailed in total 2,571 to 4,507, amassing their total with $9 million and $8 million single transactions.

Union Bank loaned the largest amount in this category, in Orange County, with 48 transactions for $6,507,283.60. Next was a State Mutual Savings and Loan Association, with $3,219,700 on 123 loans.

The County recorded a total of 2,739 for January and February in subdivision recordings, slightly under the 2,781 for the same period last year. Closest to Orange County was Ventura County with 1,124. San Diego County had 832.

Building Value Tops

In total value of building permits, single and multiple units, Orange County totaled $33,278,545.50. Second was San Diego County with $13,073,785.50.

The County also topped its neighbors in documents recorded, 19,755, and revenue received or $1,277,300, for February.

The City of San Diego rolled up the highest value in building permits for February, $7,468,408, but the City of Orange, $6,320,217, and Seal Beach, $6,264,706, were right behind. Seal Beach scored $5,215, 219 of their total for multiple unit permits.

HURLS CHARGES — Michael Zehra, president of the Westridge Home Owners Assn., sits with ex-mayor A. J. Schutte a week ago Tuesday while election returns were coming in from the City Council room. Zehra and the newly formed Westridge Home Owners Assn., offered planning commissioner Cal Pebley three alternatives. Monday, the last of which was to resign his post on the Planning Commission. Center of the trouble was Pebley's request for multiple residential zoning on nine acres of property located on the south side of Ball Rd., west of Westhaven Drive. The commissioners' decision and rescheduled the hearing for April 29 meeting. Zehra was also involved in the "Fly Hearing" Tuesday before the council. (Gazette Photo)

ANAHEIM at a Glance

The cocktail lounge was topped off Mr. and Mrs. Vincent L. Kujala's request to construct a three-story apartment building and penthouse on the south side of Ball Rd., between Brookhurst and Empire St., at Tuesday's City Council meeting, before the conditional use permit was approved.

Contract for construction of a storm drain in Cerritos Ave., from West St. to approximately 5500 feet west of West St., was granted to Howard Sewer Company for $72,264.24. Next closest bidder was Ralph De Leon Construction Company, with a bid of $44,327.53.

Stewart Commissioners, Fullerton, will again run the concession at the City Golf Course, following submission and acceptance of a revised financial arrangement with the city.

Anaheim's newest fire truck will cost slightly more than $25,000. Purchase of the truck for station no. 3 was approved by council Tuesday.

Revision of the city's trash container program was set aside for further study.

Why Fix It? Get a Sponge

By DORIS LEE

Now the toaster doesn't work. One more item we can add to our growing list of ailing modern conveniences. We also have a sick garbage disposal, a hemorrhaging faucet, a neurotic light switch, a feverish furnace, a malfunctioning sliding glass door and a crippled curtain rod.

We need a handyman you say. We have one. Only he also happens to be a genius at improvisation. To merely fix a broken gadget insults his creative instinct. He can fix it readily enough but it's more of a challenge to get the thing operating again by improvising.

Take the garbage disposal, for instance. It buzzes when you turn the switch but it won't spin. He knows what's wrong with it. It's simply a matter of getting a new part for it. So does he? Not while you can still make it spin by sticking your hand down into it and giving it a twist. Needless to say, he has become official spinner of the garbage. No one else is willing to risk his own digits for the cause.

Split Spigot
The leaking faucet has a split personality. When you turn it on, half the water pours out where it's supposed to, the other half flows out from the spigot onto the top of the sink and onto the floor. He joked that problem without lifting a wrench. He handed me a sponge.

"Always keep it next to the faucet so it will catch the water and keep it from dripping on the floor," he said. "And don't forget to squeeze it occasionally so it won't get over-saturated."

"May I buy a pretty blue one to match the sink?" I asked.

"This incidentally, is the same sink that sprang a leak near the bottom one time when a bottle of lotion fell into it and cracked it. This brought the water line down to one and a half inches from the bottom, hardly enough to rinse hose in. And soon after, a tiny hole formed at the bottom making it necessary to hold my finger over it while I brushed my teeth. He was forced to fix that.

The light switch is one of those simple inventions whereby you flick it up for "on" and down for "off." It stopped going on when we flicked it up. He discovered that it turned on if you flicked it up and then jiggled it sideways. So that's how it operates—up and sideways.

High Fever
I really don't know what the matter with the furnace. It stopped running one day and he did something to it that made it turn again but with an added feature. It over-heated. He solved that problem neatly with a meter he uses to test for testing the temperature of transformers. He attached this electric thermometer to the furnace and left strict orders.

"Check it every half hour. If the needle reaches 340 turn off the furnace."

"Suppose it goes over 340?" I asked.

"Then the chimney will catch fire," he said.

So we checked it every half hour all winter long. Imagine turning down invitations to go out because you have to take your furnace's temperature.

The sliding door slides fine but won't lock. This was rectified simply by wedging a screwdriver at the bottom of the door so it won't roll back. I've lost a few fingers trying to open it without first taking out the screwdriver.

The curtain rod hasn't been touched by his ingenuity yet. It sticks as you pull the draperies. I usually have to open and close them a dozen times before I can finally get them all the way across. People on the street think I'm sending signals.

So now it's the toaster. The toast doesn't pop up anymore. It sits there and burns to a cinder. Every member of the family made this discovery individually one morning, burning a loaf of bread in the process.

I put in my stock request for repairs and received immediate re-

JOSEPH ROSENER, JR., president of Plasmadyne Corporation, Santa Ana, announced the use of "Tufcon" in the building under construction at that company's site. The material, a catalytic plaster, made by U. S. Gypsum, replaces conventional hand plastering and produces a rock hard smooth or textured surface. Sprayed from what appears to be a fire hose and nozzle, the coating is applied directly to a dry board in a very thin layer and dries ready to paint within one day. Pacific States Plastering, Inc., who is applying "Tufcon," believes the process may be competitive with so-called dry wall construction and now is less expensive than lath and plaster.

PREDICTION:

By 1972, electricity will be serving you twice as many ways as it does today

A library of computer tapes will "read" books to you. For a month will be prepared, stored in an electric cooker-freezer, and served automatically.

You will clean your clothes right in the closet with an ultrasonic dry-cleaner. Entire walls will glow with electroluminescent lighting in colors which can be changed to create different moods. These new ideas in modern living depend on electricity.

The electric industry continues to lead in the research to find new ways to produce and use electricity. And logically so. Electricity is our business.

We have already produced it a number of new and different ways. Involving the use of fuel cells, nuclear energy, thermionic conversion and magnetohydrodynamics. Whatever the source, electrical energy is limitless, and Southern California Edison will continue to bring you an abundant, dependable supply at the lowest possible rates.

Billy Cantrell Is Ascot Winner

Veteran Billy Cantrell of Anaheim, winner convincingly in last week's night opener at Ascot Park, tops a field of more than forty during CRA big sprint cars racing in the second night-time 30-lap race of the season Saturday night at the 13rd and Vermont track in Gardena.

Cantrell won eight Pacific Coast CRA championship races in 1961, five of them at Ascot. He's unbeatable when his Anaheim Morales Bros. outfit is running right, and defeated Indy champion A. J. Foy last year in an USAC event at Ascot.

Sanskrit Study, Elephant Races Interests of New OCSC Club

By MARILYN YELLIS

Sit down protests, elephant racing, and the study of ancient Sanskrit records and customs of elephants will be some of the activities of the newly-formed Elephant Racing Club on the Orange County State College campus.

The special interest club will place heavy emphasis on cultural activities such as the study of elephant history, religious rituals, racing records and comparisons between African and Indian elephants.

At present, consideration is being given to the proposition of a sit down strike to protest the use of ivory in piano keys, chess sets and lady's combs.

He hopes to help the club out by writing to his friends, the Maharaja of Patiala and the Mir of Hunza, spiritual representatives of Aga Khan IV, to obtain pointers to be used in the purchasing of club elephants.

After purchase of the first elephants, the 50 club members intend to challenge other colleges in California to races. If the races prove to be successful, the organization will enter nation-wide competition.

OC Men Back Christopher

Two widely known Orange County businessmen have been nominated today as leading the Christopher for Lieutenant Governor Committee of Orange County.

Harry S. Rinker, who has built more than 7,000 homes in the county, is chairman. He is president of the Rinker Development Corp. of Anaheim, a member of the executive board of the Orange Empire Country Boys Scouts of America, and a member of the Elks, Masons and Shrine.

Ronald W. Caspers, a third generation Californian who heads the Keynote Savings & Loan Association of Anaheim, is finance chairman. He is also president of the Anaheim Investment Company. He is a member of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Committee.

Ernest A. Becker, dean of students and club advisor, said that the club will be open to anyone interested in elephant racing, students and faculty alike. Dean Becker emphasized that there will be no political or religious aspects to the club.

He hopes to help the club out by writing to his friends, the Maharaja of Patiala and the Mir of Hunza, spiritual representatives of Aga Khan IV, to obtain pointers to be used in the purchasing of club elephants.

Dr. T. Downs to Speak On Fossils at Bowers Museum

By Merlon E. Hinshaw

Orange County is an area rich in fossils and interesting for the story revealed by them. As a part of the geological province known as the Los Angeles Basin we share in that basin's past. This past is perhaps best known by association with the La Brea Tar pits.

Dr. Theodore Downs, chief curator of Earth Sciences at the Los Angeles County Museum will describe "Coastal Orange County Paleontology" as the April lecture at the Charles W. Bowers Memorial Museum. This is the fifth of the winter series of lectures at the museum, 2002 N. Main St., Santa Ana. Starting time is 8 p.m.

While the fossil record covers literally millions of years, Dr. Downs will bring his audience right up to date including recent work on San Clemente island. Southern California is one of the richest boneyards in the world.

Dr. Downs, a native of Kansas, received his degrees at the University of California, Berkeley. His doctoral thesis was written on a fossil seal.

He is the recent recipient of grants from the National Science Foundation for work in the Anza-Borrego Desert area.

His work in Los Angeles includes supervision of Hancock Park site of the famous tar pits.

Road Dept. Sets Funds

Supervisor William J. Phillips, 3rd Dist. announced the Orange County Road Department in conjunction with the Arterial Highway Financing Plan has approved contracts totaling $277,500 for the City of Anaheim, and that the funds were distributed for the improvements of the following roads: (a) La Palma Ave. $55,000; (b) La Palma Ave. $65,000; (c) La Palma Ave. $12,500; (d) La Palma Ave. $5,000; (e) Knott Ave. $30,000; (f) Anaheim Rd. $50,000; (g) La Palma Ave. $35,000; (h) Anaheim Road $25,000; (i) Magnolia Ave. $40,000.

Phillips stated this is one of the examples of close cooperation between City and County governments, and also it is an example of the long range planning for roads for the benefit of business, industry, commercial and private citizens to expedite the flow of traffic.

Councilman Glenn Fry Retires With Smile, Handshake, Tuesday

Glenn Fry quietly ended his eight-year service as Anaheim City Councilman Tuesday with a firm handshake and the gentle smile that has made him one of Anaheim's most popular citizens.

"Oh, I don't figure I'm cutting the string, I'm just undoing a couple of knots," he said.

The semi-retired building contractor plans to remain on the Anaheim Library Board, of which he is chairman. "I will get that new central library completed." Maybe after that, I'll put myself out to pasture.

Although those long tedious council Tuesdays, where a handshake, tours, afternoon session and evening session, take as long as 12-15 hours have ended, Fry intends to drop in "now and then" on the council and planning commission to "keep up with the City's progress," he said.

Wiping off his glasses—Glenn Fry trademark — he said his greatest wish for the future of Anaheim would be that citizens would learn how the City operates.

"So many of our good people never have been inside the City Hall," he said. "If they could only take the time every now and then to sit in on a planning commission meeting or a council session so they would know how the City operates and what the City is trying to do."

"And, you know, there's so many times when they could really help the City if only they knew more about it."

Fry has lived in Anaheim since 1924 and his son, Glenn Jr., a loan officer for Anaheim Savings and Loan, resides at 1115 Borden Dr.

Born in Iowa City, Iowa, Fry, now 71, learned the building trade and developed a prominent construction company in Orange County.

He was appointed to the City Council in January of 1954 and has served on chaired several committees or organizations including the Orange County Builders Association, Blue Lodge, American Legion, Kiwanis Club and Farm Bureau.

One of Fry's apartment tenants is A. J. Schutte, a close friend. Ironically, when Fry was appointed to the Council in 1954, the only councilman who was absent was Schutte.

Auxiliary Meets

Veterans of World War I, Anaheim Barracks 1235 and its auxiliary held a busy party yesterday at the Anaheim American Legion Hall.

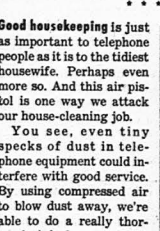

WHAT'S DOING

America's first space-age world's fair opens this month in Seattle, Washington. Its theme is Century 21, an exciting look at the year 2000 against a background of our present space accomplishments.

Tying in with this theme at the fair is the Bell Telephone System's "Space Communications Spectacular." It shows many Bell System space projects, including the proposed satellite communications system. It also features up-to-the-minute developments in home and business telephones.

If you plan to visit Seattle's Century 21 Exposition, we hope you'll stop in at the Bell System's exhibit building for a very interesting look at what's new for you in telephone service.

Good housekeeping is just as important to telephone people as it is to the tidiest housewife. Perhaps even more so. And this air pistol is one way we attack our house-cleaning job.

You see, even tiny specks of dust in telephone equipment could interfere with good service. By using compressed air to blow dust away, we're able to do a really thorough job fast and cut cleaning costs. By practicing economy with good housekeeping, we can maintain good service and give you the most for your telephone dollar.

Ready on the spot to give the latest in modern telephone service is Bill Favreau. Bill is typical of the experienced crew of telephone installers in the Anaheim area. See your telephone man or call your telephone business office for that colored telephone or Princess set you've been wanting.

Other specialty classes being offered by the Park and Recreation Department include Cake Decorating. Two classes have been scheduled: one on Monday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. and one on Wednesday morning from 9:30 to 11 a.m., once a week for eight weeks.

Easter Sunday in Disneyland will be observed with vintage cars and period costumes in the traditional Easter Parade followed with a real balloon flight with more "fls" than helium.

The same balloon that appeared in the motion picture "Around the World in 80 Days" is scheduled to rise from the Disneyland Plaza Hub (weather permitting) at 2:30 p.m. on Easter Sunday.

Veteran balloonists Peter Pellegrino and Francis Shields of the Balloon Club of America will be aboard. According to Pellegrino: "If everything goes right we should rise in free flight to about 2,000 feet. If the winds are right, we should stay aloft one or two hours. If we're lucky," he said, "we won't land in the ocean."

The balloon is 30 feet in diameter, 50 feet high, and so far has made many successful flights.

The annual Easter Parade in Disneyland is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. ahead of the anticipated balloon ascension. Main Street, U.S.A. is the turn-of-the-century scene for the procession of antique autos with more than 200 riders and strollers dressed in the styles of early America.

The parade will be led by the Disneyland Band, with the Barber Shop Quartet filling in along the sidelines and costumed rabbits riding the Park's Fire Engine and throwing Easter candy to the audience.

Special Spring Vacation entertainment in Disneyland daily this week, through Easter Sunday includes the Dapper Dan Quartet, the Yachtmen Trio; the Live Disney "Characters," Mountain climbers ascending the Matterhorn and the Young Men From New Orleans playing their "pure" jazz on the Riverboat Mark Twain.

Disneyland is open every day through April 29. Park hours through April 22 are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and April 23-29 are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Moliere's classic 3 act ballad-comedy "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" with symphony orchestra, vocalists and dancers will be presented by the thespians.

Local Singer to Open In Beverly Hills Club

By FRANK EVANS
Gene Kent, an ex-hospital chaplain, once attached to the Marine Division during World War II, returns to a familiar beachhead this week — the stage.

The Anaheim of 1912 Sumner who received the "Best Actor Award" in Little Theatre in 1936 for the lead in "Picnic," headlines the new "Trolley-Ho" night club in Beverly Hills this week.

It's a real good break," he said, "and I am looking forward to opening night. I've always wanted to be an entertainer."

He continued: "I realize that I'm starting the entertainment ladder to success later than others, but," he added, "if you feel that something is worth it — you don't give up the ship too soon."

Kent turned professional only two years ago, and since early 1960 has already appeared in Las Vegas, Anaheim Bowl, Harris Restaurant and the Arco Bowl.

The entertainment bug first hit Kent back when he was a youngster in Los Angeles. "That's when I won the Herald-Express 'Better Babies and Juvenile Contest,'" he said with a grin. "I even won a prize singing at a circus."

With the war already underway, Kent enlisted in the Navy and months later joined up with the Marines as a hospital corpsman at Guadalcanal. It was while he was with the Leathernecks that he occasionally got the chance to entertain. He has been part of USO shows that had such stars as Red Skelton and Frances Langford.

"Miss Langford was with the USO Hope group when she flew down to sing a few songs for us," the baritone said. Kent has been with USO shows from New Caledonia to San Francisco.

Following the war, Kent drifted back to Anaheim and Fullerton. While with the Hughes Aircraft company, Kent kept his interest in singing, by performing on his own at the Anaheim Bowl.

It was here that an agent, Stewart Williamson got Kent to sign a contract.

"I bounced around for awhile," he said. "Later, I joined the Anaheim Little Theatre group and was fortunate to receive the 'Best Actor Award' in 1959. From then I received a screen test with Columbia Pictures, but personal problems at home prohibited me from 'waiting around' for a break."

He continued: "Like any entertainer, I went East to try my luck. While in New York, I appeared on the Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scout show and the 'Morrie Amsterdam' TV show." It was through these engagements that Kent received an offer to try out for "Pajama Game" and "My Fair Lady."

"I didn't get a part in either show and of course, was a bit disappointed."

couraged. I came back home and was lucky to land a spot on Vic Harris' night club show. I was ready to quit show business but Vic Harris gave me the break and confidence to 'stick' with it. It has paid off," he said.

Kent feels that '62 could be the year for going 'big time.' For within the next few months his recording of "I Wish You Love," will hit the song market.

"I hope a lot of folks in town get a chance to come out to the club," said Kent. "Also on the program is comic Buddy Lewis, songstress, Cleo Jones and pianist, Stan Seltzer. The latter artist has also played for Judy Garland and Billy Eckstine."

When asked, "Who was his most exciting audience?" Kent paused for a moment and said,

"A group of guys in a hospital. It happened a long time ago, during a Christmas week when I was with the Marines. I wasn't yet 20 years old and one night while I was in the backlines with a hospital group, a few of those tired veterans, some of whom had seen me sing in the USO shows, asked me to sing a few songs."

Kent continued: "I sang a couple of lines of 'White Christmas' and could see the loneliness in the eyes of those tough guys. They had me sing a few more songs and then gave me a real apoplexy — one I'll never forget. 'I know I wasn't that good, but they thought so," said Kent. "I only hope those who visit the 'Trolley-Ho,' are as fine an audience — as that group of Marines."

Budget Failure Stirs Analysis

By RICHARD T. HANNA
The efforts to obtain the budget for the fiscal year of 1967-68 have to this date failed to develop a budget acceptable to two-thirds of the members of the Assembly. The Republican Party, as the minority in the lower house have this year undertaken a serious, studied approach in their analysis of the Administration's proposals which add up to a substantial $2,583,000,000.

As a member of the majority party, I think I speak for a number of my fellow colleagues when I say that we are impressed and congratulate the minority in carrying out their responsibility of strongly challenging the justifications for expenditures submitted by the Administration.

This task force is, by and large, made up of sincere, dedicated representatives whose interest in

Fans to Take Pics At New Ball Park

Southland camera enthusiasts will have their first chance to photograph their favorite baseball players in beautiful new Chavez Ravine at Los Angeles Angels' Camera Day, today. Shutter fans will be able to take as many shots as they desire on the playing field for thirty minutes prior to game time at 1:30 p.m.

Prizes will be awarded to the persons taking the best photographs, as judged by a group of professional photographers. Details of how to enter the contest will be explained the day of the game, just prior to 1 p.m.

First prize is fifty dollars in cash. Other winners will receive Standard Oil Company gasoline books; a Kodak movie camera from the Photomall Company; Kodak still cameras; and a $100 portrait sitting at Garrett-Howard Studios in Beverly Hills.

Representatives of Photomall will be on hand to accept film to be processed from the fans and they will replace, free of charge, every roll of exposed film with a new roll to the customer.

Real Estate Confab

Creative real estate investment is the subject of an all-day educational conference to be held on Thursday, May 24, in Los Angeles at the Statler-Hilton Hotel. It was announced by Charles H. Brown of Pasadena, president of the California Real Estate Association.

This task force is, by and large, made up of sincere, dedicated representatives whose interest in the program, strength and vitality of the State is unquestioned. It is our belief that if they in their deliberations can develop demonstrable savings at a time when the resources of this state are being sorely tested, they will receive support and gratitude of a substantial number of the majority party.

If there are those within the minority caucus who seek to make of this situation a pure political and partisan show, this is doubly unfortunate as it discolors the quality of the good work being done by the majority of those dedicated to this labor and dissuades non-partisan support they would otherwise be able to solicit.

Of course, the responsibility to protect the integrity of proven programs that meet the vital needs of the people of the State, and the challenge of the growth which continues to plague us will set high criteria in the critical approach that the Majority Party must maintain in carrying out their obligations, also.

Both factions have at their core the desire to serve the best interest of California and if in this pursuit the Republican task force can effect an honest saving of the people's money, then as one Democrat, I would say blessings be on them.

Library's Pinocchio Celebrates 33rd Birthday with Kids' Party

Pinocchio, a little puppet in the Children's Room of the Anaheim Public Library and a replica of the famed original, reminds everyone that this is National Library Week. Going one step further, the little puppet, who recently celebrated his 33rd birthday at a party held in his honor and attended by 90 of the library's younger readers, urges Americans to make every week library week.

The puppet came to the Anaheim Public Library in 1929 as a purchase from the Macmillan Publishing Company. Since that time, Pinocchio has become something of a mascot for the library, and on one occasion, has been the recipient of national publicity. He had the misfortune of being buried under an avalanche of books during the earthquake of 1932, and suffered a cracked head and a broken nose in consequence. Back from the doll hospital, he was returned to the shelf good as new.

A few years later, enroute to the hospital again prior to being sent to a pioneer celebration in Ogden, Utah, he was caught in the 1933 flood and was later found wedged between the cushions of a car in which he had been riding and which had been swept along by the torrent and buried under a pile of debris.

Pinocchio was once again repaired and sent to Ogden in order to keep his appointment there. Because of his adventures, he arrived late, and explanations were called for. The wire services picked this up, and, for a time, Pinocchio was somewhat of a celebrity.

Alex Bates Is Honoree

Anaheim resident Alex Bates was the man of the hour when he reported for work at Bank of America's supply and service depot in Orange recently. The occasion was his 25th anniversary with the bank.

Bates, who lives at 1773 Norfolk Lane, is foreman of the vault and burglar alarm section at the old 7th and Kipp branch in downtown Los Angeles as a messenger in 1937 and was appointed to the vault service department two years later. He was promoted to his foreman post in 1958.

A southerner, Bates was born and educated in Mississippi and also has attended El Camino and Los Angeles Junior Colleges.

During World War II, he served with the Navy and held chief ship-fitter rank. His military travels took him to the South Pacific.

This freeway, when constructed, will supersede the existing State highway known locally as the Pacific Coast Freeway and also as U. S. 101 Alternate.

The public hearing will be held in the auditorium of the Newport Harbor Union High School, 600 Irvine Ave., Newport Beach, California, at 1:30 p.m.

Council to Select ... Group Makes Plan For Junior Guild

Reports and Recommendations.

The motion passed a 4-1 vote. However, Schutte voting against, and Anaheim's City Council will vote on a new mayor the third week of every April.

The 7 p.m. meeting of the council opened with new councilman Jack C. Dutton nominating Coons for the mayor's chair. Fred T. Krein seconded the motion. Krein's action surprised many because it had been assumed he was for Schutte. When the vote was taken, Coons was voted in unanimously. Schutte adding his vote to the rest.

Dutton and Krein nominated and seconded Schutte's elevation to the mayor-pro-tem seat.

Only 2nd Since Pearson Coons is only the second mayor of Anaheim has had following the 20-year reign of former mayor Charles A. Pearson. Schutte succeeded Pearson.

In claiming the seat of mayor as superfluous and without meaning, Schutte pointed to the fact that Anaheim's mayor has no other power than to sit as chairman of the council. His vote carries no more weight than any other councilman and he can initiate no action as mayor.

In addition to sitting as chairman of the council, he also signs official documents and represents the city on ceremonial occasions. Coons has been a member of the City Council for six years. He and Schutte are the only two councilmen left who served on the City Council with Pearson as mayor.

Chandler has been on the council for two years.

Schutte was reelected to his third term as councilman two weeks ago, polling the highest total vote in city history.

Krein and Dutton are two new members to gain seats in that same election.

Schutte Charged

Schutte was charged with attempting to run in a "fixed slate" during the elections. Krein was claimed to be one. The other, John S. Wright, was noted out by Dutton in a tense final hour rally.

Coons has long been vocal in his opposition to "perpetuating" anyone in the mayor's chair.

In 1958, when Pearson was elected to his final term as mayor prior to his retirement, Coons was one of the two who voted against Pearson, who had already been in office for 18 years.

During that election, Schutte was elected mayor-pro-tem, but had a chance to be mayor. He had only to vote for himself, but instead nominated Pearson. He became mayor following Pearson's retirement.

Easter Services Slated in Canyon

Easter morning Sunrise Services are slated at Edendale, a Christian retreat in Carbon Canyon.

This will be the second year Edendale has sponsored the services under leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Sybrandy, owners of the 37 acre canyon development.

This year, several churches will join the services with their entire congregations including the Friends Church in Yorba Linda. Rev. Bill Freeman, pastor of the Yorba Linda church will preach the sermon. Services will begin at 8:15 a.m.

After services, breakfast will be served by volunteers who are already making plans, according to Sybrandy.

Volunteers met this week to discuss the "Master Plan," which will provide for 1,000 Orange County residents in the canyon. Six pancake kitchens along with six stations for coffee and hot chocolate were planned.

Adequate parking overlooking the huge natural amphitheater has been arranged, he said.

The Ladies Guild of St. Jude Hospital has for some time been considering the organization of a Junior Guild to be made up of teenage, high school girls. Such organizations, under the name of Candy Strippers, have been used successfully in a number of other hospitals and many request have been received from girls in their age group to form such an organization at St. Jude.

Mrs. John F. Gardner, current chairwoman of the Junior Guild and responsible for development of the proposed group, stated that all qualifications for membership have not, as yet, been determined. Preliminary discussions, however, indicate that a girl will be required to have her parents' consent and furnish reliable references. She will be of good character, dependable and have at least a "C" average in school.

Membership will automatically terminate at the completion of her senior year.

An annual dues of $1 will be charged for membership and members will be expected to furnish their own uniforms. There will be no meetings or social functions involved. Membership will be limited to 50 girls. No plans are being made at this time to admit boys although this may be a future project, depending on the success of the girls' organization.

Applicants will be chosen after submitting an application and receiving an interview by the Junior Guild Chairwoman, Mrs. Gardner.

A number of names for the group have been suggested but at this time none has been selected. If present plans materialize, the Guild hopes to begin accepting applications on or after May 7. None will be accepted prior to that time. Further information will be published when plans have been completed and definite qualifications determined.

Anti-Communism

One of the latest of the anti-Communist films to be released in this area, "Communist Imperialism," will be featured at the April 23 meeting of the American Committee For Combating Communism, Robert Toler, President, announced this week.

New Cars To Be Equipped With Emission Control in One Year

New cars sold in California will have to be equipped with crank case emission control devices one year from today following approval of four such devices by the State Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board here yesterday.

The device will be mandatory on all new cars starting in April, 1963, under provisions of the California law. The four devices receiving the MVPCB's unanimous approval were Carter Carburetor of St. Louis, Rochester Products Division of General Motors, Rochester, N. Y., Walker Manufacturing Co. of Jackson, Mich., and Volkswagen of America, Inc.

Top price for the devices would be $6.50 factory installed, with an average cost of $5. They operate by returning crankcase or blowby gases to the intake manifold or air cleaner and burning them in the engine. MVPCB engineers estimate that this reduces hydrocarbons by about 25 per cent.

Vets Must File For Tax May 7

"Veterans of the county have until 5 p.m., Monday, May 7, to file claims for the annual $1,000 property tax exemption," it was stated today by Ben Lieberman, County Service Officer.

Exemption requests must be received annually with the local assessor to insure continued eligibility for the exemption. Evidence of honorable discharge during wartime must be shown by veterans claiming the exemption for the first time.

The $1,000 tax emptions are granted by the state to resident veterans, including women veterans, of wars and campaigns. Eligibility is limited to veterans who do not own property with an assessed value of $1,000 or more. However, under California Community Property Law, a veteran and the spouse together may own real and personal property up to an assessed value of $1,000 and retain eligibility.

Labor Unions Lose Members in LA, LB

Labor unions in the Los Angeles-Long Beach Metropolitan Area reported a net loss of 7,000 members between July 1969 and July 1970. On the other hand, membership totaled 733,000.

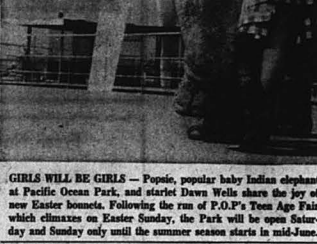

Declines associated with falling employment were reported in all major manufacturing industries for a net loss of 17,000 members. The biggest drops were in aircraft, metals and machinery, apparel, and furniture.

Losses in manufacturing were partially offset by a gain of 10,000 members in nonmanufacturing industries. Substantial union membership increases were recorded in government, wholesale and retail trade, construction, and motion picture production.

Engle Announces New Bills for Land Conservation, Recreation

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Senator Clair Engle (D-Calif.) announced today that he is co-authoring two new recreation bills — one to establish a $500 million Federal Land Conservation Fund, the other to set up a Federal recreation planning grant of $50 million for the states.

The Senator said the Land Conservation Fund's key purpose would be the purchase of land for public outdoor recreation.

The Fund would be financed, he said, by 1) proceeds from entrance, admission or user fees and charges at Federal recreation areas; 2) annual user charges on recreation boats; 3) diversion from the highway trust fund of refundable, but unclaimed taxes paid on gasoline used in motorboats; and 4) receipts from the sale of surplus Federal non-military lands.

"In order to get the Land Conservation Fund going by next year," Senator Engle said, "money will be advanced from the Treasury. This money will all be repaid back into the Treasury."

In the second bill — the proposed $50 million recreation planning program — the Federal government would provide matching funds to assist the states in researching their recreational needs.

"This bill would help the states work closer together with the Federal recreational areas," Senator Engle said. "What we want to do here is provide funds for developing ways the states, the Federal government and local and metropolitan areas can coordinate their recreational facilities."

The Senator said the bills stem from recommendations made by the Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Commission, a bipartisan group organized in 1967. Senator Engle was chairman of the House
