LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15.—A diary kept by Richard C. Peete, husband of Mrs. Louise Peete, whose trial on a charge of having slain Jacob C. Denton starts next week, may be introduced to show Mrs. Peete was denied her legal rights when she was taken from the train and questioned by district attorney's office representatives at Glenn ranch, it was learned today.

Peete's diary is said to contain notations showing he planned to meet Judge N. P. Hilton, whom he had retained as attorney for Mrs. Peete, at Ontario ,and that he protested when his wife was taken from the train before it reached Ontario.

Telegrams exchanged between Peete and Hilton, arranging for the attorney to meet Mrs. Peete and represent her at all conferences with the district attorney are also expected to be introduced during the defense fight against the statement made by Mrs. Peete at the Glenn ranch.

The fight waged by Public Defender Aggeler and his deputies, representing Mrs. Peete, against the introduction of the Glenn ranch statement will be based on the contention that Mrs. Peete was denied her constitutional right to be advised by an attorney. It also developed today that Mrs. Peete never signed the statement she made to the district attorney's deputies at the ranch.

Mrs. Ida L. Gregory of Denver and daughter, Miss Maude Gregory, were scheduled to arrive in Los Angeles today to appear as witnesses at Mrs. Peete's trial. Altho they are brot here as prosecution witnesses, Mrs. Gregory and Miss Gregory will be called to testify in Mrs. Peete's behalf.

Mrs. Gregory and her daughter were Mrs. Peete's guests at the Denton home shortly after the alleged date of the murder. Mrs. Gregory has always maintained that Mrs. Peete is innocent.

Investigation has disclosed that Denton obtained a divorce April 9, 1908, in Nogales, Ariz., from Etta Cole Denton of Pittsburg, who now claims a part of his $150,000 estate.

MARKET FIRM WITH MUCH FRUIT MOVING

The visible supply of oranges to the eastern trade is light and prices have continued to hold up satisfactorically however there are some clouds ahead. Shipments from California and Florida have been stimulated by the good opening of January markets and the amount rolling is increasing daily and will doubtless increase until a slump in the market again checks us.

The outlook for the coming week is about 25 cents lower per box, indicated by the trading and refusing of offers for stock rolling by eastern dealers to local shippers. The f.o.b. quotations are not actually changed, but the trade temper of the country is striking hard for easier f.o.b. prices in view of the quantities rolling. Weather conditions will help or mar the situation. Nominal f.o.b. prices for So. Cal. navels are $3 to $3.25 per box, usual terms and for desirable sizes. On sizes 216 to the box and smaller $2.75 is the asking quotation.

Cash buying free on board cars is very quiet.

There is a better feeling in lemons, especially in markets of the southern states, where stocks are low. Cars are being ordered here on the basis of $2 to $2.25 per box free on board cars.

THANK YOUR LUCKY STARS YOU LIVE HERE

Manager G. W. Sandilands of the Anaheim Orange and Lemon Assn. yesterday received a phone call from a Los Angeles man just returned from Porterville stating that the recent cold spell had wrought havoc up there. At 10 a. m. the mercury was at 24 and 26, in a last effort to save the orchards, water had been flooded under the trees with the result that if he had owned a pair of skates he could have skated all over the orchards. The navel crop had already been removed, but the Valencias were probably damaged, to just what extent it is impossible to determine now. Things looked pretty bad, he said.

A county ordinance providing for enforcement of the Volstead act will be adopted by supervisors if a resolution passed today by the W. C. T. U., of Orange-co, is favorably acted upon.

Upon motion it was decided to request District Attorney A. P. Nelson to draft a prohibition enforcement ordinance similar to the one adopted in Fresno-co. The Fresno ordinance it is said, is modeled after the Harris bill, defeated in California in the November elections.

It was stated that a similar ordinance is proposed in Los Angeles-co.

Approximately 30 county and city officers of the organization attended the session. The meeting opened at 10:30 a. m., with devotional services led by Mrs. Fannie Lash.

As the roll was called by the secretary, Mrs. Lea Warren, responses were made by each woman present giving a current event story of interest to the organization and minutes of the last meeting, held at Tustin, Oct. 21, were read and approved.

The reports of the treasurer and corresponding secretary were read and approved, and the regular business discussions followed.

A motion was made and carried instructing the corresponding secretary to write Assemblyman W. O. Hart and Senator Walter Eden assuring them of the Union's support of the Harris bill, and also thanking them for their interest.

It was also unanimously decided to raise money thruout the county to advertise in the Motor Transit Co. busses Henry Ford's pamphlet called "The Little White Slaver," and to use on proposed placards the cut that is on the cover, depicting the title, a smoking cigarette. The booklet is a summary, by prominent national business men who know, on the use of the cigarette.

The place for the next annual convention to be held in April was discussed but not decided upon.

After having adjourned for luncheon, the meeting reconvened for this afternoon's session.

MANUAL TRAINING BOYS MAKE COOKERS

The boys of the manual training department of the Anaheim Junior high school have been making some very useful things this term of school, C. C. Smith, principal, said this morning. These include about 15 fireless cookers which cost the boys about $2 each in addition to their time, not including the kettles. These the boys are presenting to their mothers as filial remembrances.

Mr. Smith highly lauded both the boys and the girls for the gentlemanly and ladylike manner in which they have conducted themselves during the present term. He stated that all have tried to see how good and studious they could be, and have been gratifyingly vigilant in keeping their rooms and desks in the nicest condition possible. There have been but few marks on desks this term and these were made thotlessly and were willingly erased by the ones who made them, he said.

The students are often shown geographical slides in the geography room and also educational pictures, said Mr. Smith.

BAKE RITE BAKERS COMING TO ANAHEIM

The residents of Anaheim will be pleased to know that the Bake-Rite Bakers, a California corporation, has decided to establish one of its hygienic, public-view bakeries in this city.

This company was incorporated in August of 1919 by a number of enterprising, expert bakers and dietitians who have spent many years in a close study of the relative nutritive values in various foods.

Until two and a half years ago, methods employed by bakers were antiquated and haphazard with the consequent result of an indifferent quality of product that in no way compare with the bread made by the housewife. The men comprising the personnel of the Bake-Rite Bakers after careful laboratory tests, have devised formulae for bakery products with the desired end in view that the finished product will yield the body all the elements of nutrition needed by the body machine in almost the exact proportion required. It was not that if the quality of the products made and later that the cut that is on the cover, depicting the title, a smoking cigarette. WOULD REGULATE SALE OF FERTILIZER

That efforts are to be made to secure a state law regulating the sale of fertilizer was announced at the monthly meeting of the directors of the Orange-co Farm Bureau yesterday at Santa Ana.

It was declared by Dr. S. S. Twombley, of Fullerton, chairman of the Farm Bureau committee, which is endeavoring to put the buying and selling of fertilizer upon a substantial basis, that "unless the present system is changed orchardists will continue to be victimized by unscrupulous dealers in fertilizers." At present manures are sold by weight; Twombley favors its sale by chemical analysis.

Dr. Twombley's statement followed the reading of a report from George McPhee, county sealer of weights and measures. At the request of the Farm Bureau committee, McPhee recently made a trip of inspection to Ventura-co, from which county it was understood some big shipments of fertilizer were to be made to this county.

McPhee reported that he found 2000 cattle being fed in 22 corrols. He estimated that for every two inches of manure in the corrals three inches of sand was added.

"I understand," said Dr. Twombley, "that the contention is that the sand is meant to keep the corrals dry.

"We have also been told that the reason why some of the fertilizer cars have been wet down is to keep the fertilizer damp in order to prevent its being blown around. And we are paying the bill, for we buy by the ton, for keeping the fertilizer dry in one place and for keeping it wet in another.

"There seem to be a great many orchardists who don't care what kind of fertilizer they buy. They seem to have been imposed on so long that they don't resent it, or they don't tell you this, the sooner we get the buying of fertilizer upon a plant food basis instead of a tonnage basis the better off we are going to be."

W. M. Belding, president of the Farm Bureau, said that he had had a conference with officials of the Orange-co Fruit Exchange and they were of the opinion that a state law was needed and they suggested that the Agricultural Legislative committee, which is a legislative committee maintained by the producers' associations of the state, would probably join with the State Farm Bureau federation in putting thru a bill at the legislature.

"They told me," said Belding, "that the agitation against poor fertilizer has already saved orchardists of this county an immense sum of money, how much nobody can say. By reason of the agitation growers have been watching the fertilizer delivered to them and have been rejecting poor stuff.

"Dealers have been more careful about what they bring into this county."

Congratulations followed.

A game of fortune was then played, with Miss Edythe Pember, also a bride-elect, and Miss Boyd as the players. Soon after an alarm clock was heard, and the hostess announced that the honored guest was to follow the sound, and what she found she could claim. There proved to be a number of packages hidden, which when opened were found to contain a wonderful array of beautiful gifts of silver, cut glass, hand painted china, linens, cooking utensils, etc. The ringing of the alarm clocks was repeated several times, until the library table was filled with gifts. PLAN TO INTRODUCE SCALE PARASITE

Following a survey just completed by Horticultural Commissioner E. L. Morris of the black scale conditions in the county, he announced today that Harry Smith, scale specialist of the state department of agriculture and H. M. Armitage, state scale specialist in So. Cal., were expected to arrive here the latter part of this week for the purpose of determining the advisability of introducing the parasite preventative of the black scale in Orange-co.

The work conducted by Smith and Armitage will be more or less of an experimental and educational nature and will follow closely on the lines of the parasite experiments made in the Santa Paula district.

The parasite in question is a black fly, which, in the larval state, preys on the black scale at the time of year when fumigation will not touch the scale.

Commissioner Morris emphasized the fact that the introduction of the parasite will not do away with fumigation in any sense, but will merely take care of batches of off-scale which cannot be eradicated by fumigation. Thus, if the experiments prove a success, the parasite will supplement fumigation work.

The survey recently made by Commissioner Morris was for the purpose of determining at what points in the county the black scale appears in off-batches. His purpose was not to discover the presence of off-scale for this year alone, but for the past several years, with a view to ascertaining in what districts the black scale more or less permanently appears at seasons when fumigation is futile. It is in these districts that the parasite may possibly be introduced.

One of the principal reasons why the parasite will never supersede fumigation, according to Morris, is that it has no effect on the red and purple scale. Altho horticultural officials are experimenting with parasites for these form of scale also, the experiments are purely in the preliminary stage.

GIVES VIEWS UPON HARBOR DEVELOPING

Declaring silt now being deposited on Bealbon Beach from the dredging work in the interior of Newport harbor is likely to be washed back into the harbor by rip tides, S. F. Clarke, of 1131 Collins-ave, Orange, today had a letter on file with County Clerk J. M. Backs in regard to this and other matters connected with Newport harbor.

Clarke's letter, which deals in detail with the harbor operations at Newport, commends the stand originally taken by James Irvine to the effect that the sinking of the Craig lease would in all probabilities not be to the best interests of Orange-co people in general, and to the welfare of Newport harbor in particular.

Clarke, whose letter would indicate knowledge of harbor engineering is enthusiastic about Newport harbor and its possibilities, if it is developed in what he regards in "the right way." He states that Newport harbor can eventually, if the public interests are guarded, be made a better harbor, and a harbor of greater capacity, than the present harbor at San Pedro, and gives data to support his opinion.

It is his belief that should the harbor be developed properly, it can and would take care of all of the foreign exports of Orange-co, particularly as to oil. This condition he believes will be furthered by reason of the ever increasing congestion about San Pedro.

He makes specific recommendations regarding the entrance of the harbor, and suggests to the supervisors the possibility of a turning basin to be dredged out of the marsh, 420 acres in extent, about a mile from the mouth of the harbor and gives estimates as to the cost of such excavation by steam shovel.

Clarke criticized the process of wet dredging, whereby 80 per cent of the energy is used up in pumping out water, and much expense is incurred in building retaining walls where the silt is to be deposited to build up the land.

According to his suggested plans, the marsh would be blocked off and shovelled out to a depth of 30 feet, the dirt thus taken out being sold to build up sites in Newport and Balboa, as well as in building up the tide lands.

His idea is to have the county take its proposition to the national government.

"Did it ever occur to your honorable body that there is danger in pumping the silt out of Newport harbor upon the ocean side of the sand spit? The silt is of a light nature, and, with the rip tides washing the shores to the south as they do, this silt will gradually be washed into the entrance of the harbor where the tides would bring it back into the harbor to be pumped out again in time to come.

"I noted just such an instance at Boston harbor, where the tides were washing a much heavier sand into the channel, to be dredged out again. The government there went to the expense of putting in cement walls every hundred feet or so, at an angle of 45 degrees with the end up stream, toward the rip tides, thus preserving the beach and the entrance to the harbor, which at that point was possibly a mile or two across. I especially noticed the eddies around the ends of these walls which at times, showed quite a force.

"I have seen the effects of the rip tides at Long Beach and all along the coast at Newport, and the continual changes in the beach lines and conditions for 30 years.

"Los Angeles harbor is crowded, shallow, and very expensive to maintain, and it is the intention there to build it as large again with a view to making Orange-co pay tribute with all it can produce of oil, gas and raw materials.

"In keeping a harbor channel free of silt the harbor entrance should be as short as possible, and as great a tidal flow as possible in and out, facilitated in order to maintain its depth. Therefore, all marshes on which the highest tides flood should be preserved as they are, and only allowed to be filled up by dredging out of the harbor somewhere else, maintaining an equal area between the high and low watermark which will keep up the normal flow of water thru the channel, as is done in Boston by the Boston harbor commissioners.

"I have no interests whatever in the locality at Newport, all my property being north of Orange, so I am only interested as a taxpayer. But I do think Mr. Irvine is right in the stand he originally took on the proposed lease, and is acting for the best interests of the county, and is very fair. His foresight of what might occur in undeveloped harbor plans is a point worth considering.

"With the island on the south of the channel bought up by a syndicate and the north side of the channel partially tied up for years, some very valuable development of the harbor might be stopped, as I see the probable future of Newport harbor."

ASSN. OFFERS BLACK WALNUTS FOR STOCK

Falling in line with the "Better Seed" Movement which is sweeping over the country, the California Walnut Growers' Assn. is making an effort this year to get high grade black walnut seed into the hands of nurserymen and ranchers in order to lay the foundation for better trees upon which to build the future of an already great industry.

It is a well known scientific fact that a highly improved breed of stock or variety of trees is somewhat tender, and it has been learned that the best way to offset this tendency is to cross the animal or tree with rugged stock. That is why some of the best orange trees result from grafting improved varieties on what it termed "sour stock."

From a long series of experiments it has been learned that California walnuts of the soft shell variety do not produce sturdy root stock and experimenters have ascertained that the finest walnut trees in the world are developed by budding the improved varieties of walnuts onto wild or black walnut root stock.

To breed the best type of walnut tree the association thinks it wise for nurserymen and ranchers to obtain the genuine No. Cal. wild black walnut as a foundation. Last year a quantity of wild walnuts were secured by the association for distribution among the growers, and they were gobbled up with such suddenness that many ranchers did not even get the proverbial "look in" on the campaign for better root stock.

This year the association has gone into the Santa Clara Valley, where the finest type of black walnut grows, and has secured a limited quantity of carefully selected wild walnuts, for sale to the associated growers at cost. This means a price of 12c a pound f.o.b. Los Angeles.

The black walnuts are being offered to ranchers and nurserymen at this price, while they last, purely in the interest of better root stock for a stronger generation of California walnuts. Complete instructions for planting and growing are supplied with each shipment.

Carlyle Thorpe, general manager of the association, urges those who desire an allotment of this wild walnut seed to place their orders within the next 15 days to avoid possible disappointment later in the season.

SCOUTS STUDY PLANS FOR RADIO SYSTEMS

Santa Ana Boy Scouts are considering the possibility of an inter-county wireless communication between scout headquarters in So. Cal. counties, following an interesting and instructive lecture on radio work by Dr. J. E. Waters, of Anaheim.

Every Boy Scout troop in Santa Ana was represented among the more than 100 scouts present. The boys were greatly interested in the work and judging from the broad side of questions fired at the speaker, when he had concluded, it was considered likely that the inter-county communication system would soon be realized.

Dr. Waters, who has taken charge of instructing Orange-co's Boy Scouts in wireless operation, will give especial attention to assisting the youths in making their own equipment. With the boys making their own outfits, it is expected the cost of instruments will be greatly reduced and that the scouts will be given a practical insight into the work.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—There are means of overcoming all difficulties. Mrs. Martin Johnson, who recently returned to New York after thirteen years spent in Borneo and the South Sea islands, has proven this. The shortage of housemaids has seemed one thing which neither wealth nor wit could circumvent. But Mrs. Johnson isn't worrying about the problem at all. She is coaching Bessie to do the housework. Bessie is an orang-outang about six feet tall. "I have trainedher to mop the floor," says Mrs. Johnson. "Now I'm going to teach her to wash dishes. A well-trained orang-outang makes an excellent servant. Bessie is so adaptable that we are teaching her to eat at the table. She uses her napkin daintily and her fork like a perfect lady."

When "Irene" started the other night on its sixtieth week at the Vanderbilt theatre, it beat all memorable runs for musical comedy in this country at any one theatre. Forty-eight weeks of "Florodora," twenty years ago at the Casino and the 52 weeks of "The Merry Widow" at the New Amsterdam, had held the record to date. It is interesting to note, in this connection, that the old extravaganzas, the predecessors of the musical comedies of today, were thought to be doing something to be mighty proud of if they stayed out 24 weeks in a theatre.

Everybody is impressed with sweeping statements if they are only specific in their language. In 1425th-st, there is a laundryman, or a laundry advertising man, who realizes this. For the signs in the window says eloquently: "Everything relaundried from a lace handkerchief to a circus tent."

—)o(—

There is sentiment in everything. The story of New York bandits, these last few weeks is so often an appealing one that it seems hard to think a judge could sentence them. One night last week two of these hard-working and ambitious young fellows were caught, somehow, right in the act of purloining property through an open window. The detectives questioned them. And alongside of "for the wife and kiddies"-for real heart appeal should go their reply. "We wanted money to start the New Year right," they said. What jury could refuse to weep and forgive at that?

Rubies! The town is threatening to go mad about them. Where the furor sprang from, not even the jewelers seem to know. But suddenly they have become so much the vogue that diamonds and other precious stones are being removed from handsome settings and rubies put in their places in the effort to keep up with the demand.

Along with the movies, will the dictionary now be condemned for the eyes of youth? There is a good argument in favor of such action. For not on the film, nor at the melodrama, nor in forbidden "trashy" literature, did Herbert Bramm learn to make a bomb which exploded in his home in Brooklyn and killed his chum. No; it was from the dictionary that he got all directions. Back of the deed was nothing more deliberate than a love of "hearing a loud noise," and this fondness led him to his interest in bombs. With the correct dictionary instructions and a piece of lead pipe, he made a bomb which could compete with any put together in the most Bolshevist of work rooms.

Footprints of babies is the latest suggested scheme here in New York to prevent the tragic mix-ups that occur once in a while in hospitals. Various plans have been tried out as "foolproof," but the fool power goes deep in human nature and nothing ever worked completely. It is pointed out that footprints are as exclusively individual as are finger prints and that not only would the practice keep babies straightened out before they develop much in the way of looks of their own, but that it would be indisputable proof of identity in kidnapping cases.

Rose Macaulay's satiric attack on sentimentality, for which she coined the word. "Potterism," has been dramatized and is said to be among the spring productions of Winthrop Harris. It is expected that the title will be changed to "The Sentimentalists," because "Potterism" would still need too much explanation for a practical play.

In the Times building is a notary who believes he has experienced the most profound income tax complaint of anybody in New York. A grieved man, showing almost ostentatiously the effects of home brew or its illicit cousin, came into his office the other day. The notary recognized him as a man whose tax report he had helped to make out. "I got a complaint," said the weavy one. "A complaint against the gov'ment. You gotta swear to it for me." I just heard it. Heard this here pro-bishop outlook a billion dollars or something like that a year to enforce. Now then. Some of the money you made me pay went into that billion. And they never yet enforced it on me. Get nothing at all for my money. Want to complain."

MYSTERY MAN TRIES TO "SQUARE" CHECK

F. W. Bushnell, alleged check artist and forger, was arraigned yesterday before Justice John B. Cox on a complaint filed by the City Cleaning and Dye Works, of Santa Ana. The alleged check was made out for $10.

Justice Cox asked Bushnell if this was the only check he had out. Bushnell replied that it was. A half hour later another complaint was filed against Bushnell, involving another alleged worthless check for $10 given a Santa Ana clothing concern. Bushnell was again brot in and was arraigned on the new charge. Both checks were given Nov. 11, and both were signed "F. W. Bushnell." the complaints set forth.

A mysterious stranger who said he was a "pal" of Bushnell's appeared at the cleaning establishment, and said that he wanted to "square" the check. When the proprietor asked him his name, and offered to go to the sheriff's office, where the check was being held, the man objected and departed at once.

Bushnell was returned to jail in lieu of bail, $1000 on each complaint.

R. R. COMMISSION URGES GAS SAVING

In an endeavor to make the present supply of natural gas meet the constantly growing demand for gas fuel, Harry L. Masser, gas supervisor of the state railroad commission, has appealed to the consumers of So. Cal. to conserve in their use of gas for heating and other domestic uses.

The present shortage, according to Masser, is due to the remarkable growth of this section of the state. For instance, said Masser, the city of Los Angeles used on one day this week 52,000,000 cubic feet of gas as compared with 37,000,000 cubic feet, the largest amount previously used in any one day.

"These conditions are applicable to all cities within a radius of 35 miles of Los Angeles" according to Masser. "This growing section is using three times the volume of gas now consumed in San Francisco and in fact is rapidly approaching New York City in its demand for gas fuel."

"It is respectfully requested that during the morning and evening hours on colder days, that persons conserve in the use of gas and discontinue as much as possible such appliances as: large heaters, furnaces and automatic water heaters. These appliances can be burned low and run for a longer period with little inconvenience. If these precautions are not taken difficulty may be experienced in obtaining gas for cooking purposes."

"Full cooperation," said Masser, "will safeguard both yourself and your neighbor, and results in much better gas service."

NOTICE

IMPORTANT TO GAS CONSUMERS

CONSERVATION OF GAS

—The extremely rapid growth of Southern California has greatly increased the demand for gas fuel throughout this part of the State. The quantity required in the Orange County District and the surrounding territory is about 18 per cent greater than it was the same time last year. Other communities in this district are showing approximately the same rate of growth, and the problem of supplying this increased quantity of gas during the winter months, has become so actue that the Railroad Comission has deemed it necessary to appoint its representatives to supervise the distribution of gas throughout the Southern California territory, in order that the best possible service may be rendered. There is the fullest cooperation on the part of the Gas Companies, and every effort is being made to improve conditions.

—Our gas supply is entirely dependent upon natural gas brought many miles from the Coyote Hills and Richfield Oil Fields. During times of cold weather, the demand for gas for heating purposes are extremely heavy, and both the pipe lines bringing gas to the district, and the distribution mains distributing it to the consumers, are taxed to the utmost. During the morning hours of 7:30 to 9:30 a. m. and in the evening from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. a tremendous burden is placed upon all gas systems.

—Owing to these conditions, in some districts low gas pressure may occur and in extreme cases on the end of low pressure lines, the gas supply may actually fail for a short period. These unfortunate conditions may, however, be mitigated to a certain extent by reasonable cooperation on the part of the consumers in the use of appliances. It is respectfully requested that during the morning and evening hours on the colder days, that patrons conserve in the use of gas and discontinue as much as possible, such appliances as: ovens, large heaters, furnaces and automotic water heaters. Most heaters and furnaces can be burned low and run for a longer period with little inconvenience. If this is not done difficulty may be experienced in obtaining gas for cooking purposes. Full cooperation will safeguard both yourself and your neighbor, and result in much better gas service.

R. R.S ADD EQUIPMENT

The Union Pacific System has, since the ending of federal control of the railroads on March 1, 1920, added to the transportation facilities of the nation by the purchase of 72 passenger-train cars, 45 cabooses, 100 locomotives, and 2000 general service steel gondolas. This equipment cost approximately $15,000,000. The passenger train cars are now being delivered; the cabooses will be in service by the end of December, 1920; the new locomotives are in service; the gondolas will be in service by the end of Janpary, 1921.

The Pacific Fruit Express Co., owned jointly by the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific, has purchased 3000 new refrigerator cars, practically all of which have been received and are now in service, and in addition is building in its shops at Los Angeles and Roseville, Cal., 1000 refrigerator cars which will be placed in service very soon. The 4000 refrigerator cars cost approximately $16,000,000. The Pacific Fruit Express Co. is also expending more than $3,000,000 in improved icing facilities, the work on which is nearly completed.

To increase the capacity of its line and to enable it further to improve its passenger and freight service, the Union Pacific system has under construction 38 miles of additional double track between Wasatch, Utah, and LeRoy, Wyoming, which will be completed early in the spring of 1921, at a cost of approximately $4,500,000.

HOME OF ROOSEVELT IS TO BE SHRINE.

A national shrine is to be made of the house in which Theodore Roosevelt was born—28 East Thirtieth-st, New York City. The interior of the house as Colonel Roosevelt knew it in childhood, will be restored.

This is a movement to be commended. Theodore Roosevelt was one of the truly great men of his age. His influence has been felt profoundly, not only in America, but thruout the civilized world. He had his faults—who that is mortal has not? He had made enemies—who that is worth standing room in the world has not? But he had a big heart, he was saturated with rugged virtues, he was an uncompromising American. He came upon the arena of public life when quickening of the civic conscience was needed. He was a mighty galvanizing influence in public life for many years. In politics he was a hard fighter—sometimes stern to the point of bitterness. He made bitter enemies, but at the same time drew to himself a tremendously strong and ardently devoted following. Since his death, friends and enemies alike have been disposed to view his character and achievements with the high respect which is due.

Colonel Roosevelt's life was inspiring. It is well to memorialize him. It is well to preserve his early home as a national shrine, thus to give tangible proof to the future that Americans are not indifferent to great talents nobly applied in public life.

POPULATION IS CONGESTED IN NEW YORK.

Overcrowding is particularly pronounced in New York City. The shortage of housing in the metropolis is more acute now than ever. It is estimated officially that, of the 133,000 babies born in Greater New York during 1920, some 100,000 came into life in crowded tenements. It is estimated that the city will increase in population 1,000,000 in the next ten years, and of this number 800,000 will have to live in tenements.

Experts see menace in these tenement conditions—menace, not alone to physical health, but to morals, and to the very rudiments of civilization. In such overcrowded quarters vice and crime are bred, as also are traitorous sentiments and schemes of disloyalty to government and established institutions. The late Colonel Roosevelt was among the number of publicists who regarded the problem of the tenements as one of vital concern to the whole nation. The country is no stronger, in its morals, its physical health and its patriotism, than the general condition of the masses, particularly of that element of the masses sometimes referred to as the "submerged tenth." The safety of the whole people depends, in large measure, upon the physical and moral cleanliness and the patriotism of the congested quarters of the great cities.

IF ALL the world is spending on armament wars, loosed for betterments and for the amelioration of suffering and the economic rehabilitation of Europe, America and the rest of the world, old Mother Earth would be relieved of most of her sufferings and cured of her distempers.

THE AMERICAN people are masters of their own destinies in larger measure than any other people on earth. This should be borne in mind as the readjusting of economic affairs proceeds. To use a figure of speech, Uncle Sam is being measured for a new economic suit. The people are the tailors. And if they keep in the right frame of mind and purpose, the suit will be made and fitted with reasonable celerity.

The Village Gossip

Is the visit of Bebe Daniels, motion picture beauty, accused of speeding, to the court of Justice of the Peace John R. Cox next Wednesday at "somewhere near 9 a. m.," to be somewhat in the nature of a social event?

Pent etre, as we said in France. In other words, perhaps.

The news that the fair charmer of the movies had done no plebian thing as to get herself pinched resulted in no little excitement in Santa Ana.

Some members of the Rotary club at their luncheon this week even went so far as to consider facetiously and tentatively J. C. Metzgar's suggestion that he be appointed a committee of one to carry flowers to Miss Daniels daily, during her incarceration in the county jail. That is, provided it come to a jail term for the vivacious Bebe.

What is Justice Cox to do about Miss Daniel's case?

To jail her or not to jail her, that is the question. The cop who arrested her declares he clocked her at 56 miles per. If the said cop said that about a mere male it would result at once in Cox pronouncing a ukase under the terms of which the offender would spend a 5-day vacation as the guest of one "Budge" Lacy.

But Miss Daniels isn't a mere man. Nay. What's more, she is a motion picture actress, and presumably, has a little time to put in in connection with fulfilling contracts. What is Justice Cox going to do?

Anyway, next Wednesday, "somewhere around 9 a .m." is the time that will tell the tale. Miss Daniels must appear before the justice of the peace at that time to plead. If she doesn't appear—why, a warrant will be issued for her arrest and a deputy from the office of Sheriff Jackson—perhaps even Jackson himself—will sally forth in quest of the missing movie star.

No use talking, a certain social atmosphere envelops the entire case. Dozens of school children are on the qui vive, and a number of them have been calling at the courthouse, asking when the fair Bebe is to appear in court.

And—the list of those interested doesn't include alone youngsters of school age. It includes youngsters of all ages.

Hydraulic Pits Great Aid in Car Lubricating

Workmen are progressing rapidly with the work on the new Alexander building at the corner of Cypress and Los Angeles-sts and it is expected that the joists for the second floor will be put in place within a few days.

This building is to be the Orange-co home of the Alexander Lubricating service, owned and operated by W. E. Alexander, Jr., and which at the present time has service stations established in Anaheim, Orange, Santa Ana and Anaheim.

Special lubrication service is one of the latest allied industries to the automobile trade and one that promises to eliminate one of the irksome tasks of the motor car owner.

"Proper lubrication and the taking up of all play in nuts and bolts is one of the essentials in prolonging the life of the motor car," states Mr. Alexander. "This is one of the things that is sadly neglected by the average car owner and I feel certain that my service will fulfill this need. The work is performed on specially constructed pits by expert lubricators and mechanics, while nothing but the very best of oils and greases are used. We also make a specialty of draining and flushing crank cases, and refilling them with oil."

REDUCTIONS IN ALL LINES ARE COMING

SANTA ANA, Jan. 15.—That wages for common labor have been lowered in some lines of work, that wages of carpenters have been reduced and that reductions in the wages of various tradesmen in the city are anticipated, is disclosed by interview with a number of prominent men and firms engaged in building and other forms of contracting that necessitate the employment of large numbers of men.

According to competent authority, carpenters are readily available at from $6 to $7 per day, where they were scarce a year ago with $8 a day as the prevailing wage.

While there has been no reduction locally in the wages of plasterers, so far as could be ascertained, general contractors in Los Angeles have effected a reduction there of $1.00 per day, according to the statement today of a Santa Ana man who attended a meeting in Los Angeles yesterday of the branch of the General Contractors' Assn. of the United States.

The schedule was reduced from $12 to $11 per day, the dollar being clipped off, it was said, because it was known that tradesmen were contributing that sum daily to "business agents" of the plasterers' unions.

It is understood that plans are being formulated for the launching in Los Angeles of a hard drive against the closed shop.

Predictions were made today by contractors here that there would be decreases in the wage schedules of all lines of skilled and common labor.

One local firm employing much common labor has already made effective a schedule that provides a decrease of fifty cents per day, the new wage bing $3.50 or $4.00 as against $4.00 and $4.50.

Brick masons are still drawing the same compensation that they have been receiving for some time past, but it is reported that they have been discussing a small drop, probably $1 per day.

Those employers who have made cuts have taken the position that they were justified by the reduced costs of living. They declare that their employes have made no protest.

M. R. Heninger, who probably is one of the largest of the building operators in the city, is preparing to "take the bull by the horns" and begin a schedule of wages which he believes will be fair to the wage earner and just to himself.

He is preparing a program of extensive building operations that he will execute if he can secure the help he needs at the wages he proposes to pay—and he believes he can secure all the help he needs.

"I am willing to pay artisans and laborers good wages," said Heninger. "I have no intention of 'grinding them down.' However, I don't propose to submit to the 'hold up' policy that has prevailed.

"Take the lathers, for instance. A good workman can put on between 2500 and 3000 laths a day of eight hours. They are now getting 75 cents a hundred, which means $17.50 a day for the man who can handle 2500. A lather has told me in the past few days that 1600 a day is the limit permitted and that he completes his day's work by 2 p. m., or in a 5 hour day, for which he is drawing down $11.20. He said that he could easily lay 2500 lath in 5 hours. This is conclusive evidence that the schedule of 75 cents per hundred is unfair to the man who has to pay the bill for building.

"I am going to establish a rate of 40c a hundred and if the lathers don't want to accept this price I will put my carpenters on the job. Lathers under this schedule can make $10 to $12 per day and I think this is enough, under reduced living costs of today.

"I have discussed the wage matter with lathers and told them that they were entitled to the work and and would get it if they would treat the public right.

"Carpenters have been drawing $7 and $8 per day. I propose paying from $5.50 to $7, according to the capabilities of each man.

"I have talked with plasterers and they have told me that they would be satisfied with $8 and $10 a day, and I am willing to pay such wages.

"Plumbers have told me that they are willing to reduce wages in proportion to the reduced costs of commodities that enter into the costs of living.

"I have the foundation down now for a house but have held up building, waiting to see how things are going to break. If I can get help at wages I want to pay—and which, in my opinion, are just—I will suspend my operations until later.

"I believe that with a general reduction in wages and materials that will meet with the approval of the people, and be somewhere near what they are anticipating, there will be a revival in building activities that will lay the operations of 1920 in the shade.

"It will also mean a revival of the activities of last year in the purchase of dwellings. The demand for houses is just as keen as it ever was, but prospective buyers have been holding off in the belief that there would be new quotations that would show substantial declines from prices that have been asked for residence property in the past few months."

In the matter of farm labor, Frank Musselman is authority for the statement that more laborers are available today than at any time during the past eight years.

Teamsters are being paid between $55 and $60 per month, where $60 to $65 ruled last year. Field help is available at $3 to $3.50 per day where is was scarce at $4 to $4.50 at this time last year.

PLAN MOTOR JAUNT TO CAJON PASS CAMP

Plans were being developed today by the Santa Ana C. of C. for inviting supervisors and Santa Ana council on an auto excursion to the public camp ground at the foot of Cajon pass, 72 miles from here, following a visit to the camp grounds Thursday by J. C. Metzgar, Charles P. Smith and F. W. Slabaugh as guests of Fred Rafferty.

The Santa Annans were greatly impressed with the arrangements and equipment of the camp grounds and are enthusiastic over the possibility of developing similar grounds in Orange-co.

DAVIS EXPECTING BRISK AUTO SALES

"There is every indication that the year just opening will be one of the most eventful in the history of the automotive industry," says Chas. Davis, of the Chandler and Cleveland service station, Anaheim.

"In 1919, we witnessed the basic readjustment of auto trade conditions. The business settled itself more squarely upon the universal foundations of all merchandising. During the latter months of 1919, there was a serious curtailment of production and distribution due, in a certain extent, to national conditions. But to the far-sighted manufacturer and dealer, the period thru which the industry is passing has always loomed on the horizon and those of us who understand it are glad it has come and that we face what may be called the permanent era of automobile merchandising.

"This evolution in automotive trade has brot sharply into focus the personal and individual responsibility of the dealer. It has brot home to the owner the fact that his dealer represents the ability of his car to get satisfaction, and it has sharply emphasized the value of dealer service and cooperation. I look forward to a remarkably brisk spring and summer season."

"LEMON MARKET ON BACK LOOKING UP"

Declaring that the "lemon market is on its back looking up," that it cost $4.82 per box to produce lemons and deliver them on Eastern markets in 1920 and that the most serious problem confronting the industry today is that of high freight rates, T. H. Powell, sales manager of the California Fruit Exchange, offered encouragement to growers in attendance at the annual meeting of the Central Lemon Growers' Assn. at Villa Park by predicting better conditions for this year.

Possible lower freight rates, higher tariff, increased consumption and lowering costs of production he believes would result in returns that would show a greater profit to the growers than obtained in 1920.

He recapitulated production, consumption and conditions of the past year. Among other things he showed that consumption is constantly on the increase, and that today it nearly equals the production of American lemons.

He declared that contributing causes to slow market conditions of the past few months, and of the present, was prohibition and the increase in the number and varieties of soft drinks.

The cost per box for placing the fruit on board cars, he stated, had increased from $1.34 per box in 1913 to $3.23 in 1920 and that the cost of producing and placing on the Eastern markets increased from $2.32 per box in 1909 to $4.82 in 1920. These costs include ranch operating expenses and interest on investment.

He said that since 1913 lemon acreage and production has constantly increased until today 5,000,000 boxes are being produced to supply a normal consumption of 4,000,000 boxes. He expects a probable further increase in production during the next three or four years of from two and a half to three million boxes by new orchards coming into bearing.

He anticipated stimulation of consumption to a point to absorb the overproduction. He said the increased demand would have to be created by advertising, but that the exchange would be more or less at a disadvantage if it created the demand and then had to meet competition from foreign lemons at prices with which the California lemons could not compete.

TO GET $95 DAMAGES IN AUTO CRASH SUIT

Stipulated damages to the amount of $95 are to be paid J. J. Owens by Grace Gebbhardt, according to a ruling handed down by Judge Z. B. West following the hearing of the appeal which was taken from a decision handed down about a year ago by Justice John B. Cox. The suit arose over an auto smash.

Owens was suing for $275 damages, and the defendant asked $50 damages in her cross-complaint as a result of the crash, which took place in November, 1918. The $275 was awarded the plaintiff by Justice Cox.

Following the opening of the case in the superior court, attorneys for the two parties agreed to settle upon the payment of $95, and the court approved the agreement.

1921 Ideals and Automobiles

—An ideal might be termed as that which is conceived as perfect or supremely excellent.

—Although ideals are not always attained, no business can truly serve or become great unless it constantly strives to live up to high aspirations.

—The ideals of this institution are:
—to serve all its patrons fairly, squarely, impartially
—to offer an automobile that represents full value
—to carry spare parts and operate an efficient service department to assure continuous and satisfactory performance of our customers' cars
—to be always courteous, considerate and progressive —Each year we become better able to realize our high ideals. Our only New Year resolution is to try more energetically to do so.
