E. W. Lindsay, conductor on the P. E. between Los Angeles and Santa Ana, was held up about 9:40 o'clock last night about half a mile out of Artesia. He was relieved of $35 in currency, but the holdup refused to bother with silver.

G. G. WALNUT BODY NAMES DIRECTORS

With the exception of one director operations of the Garden Grove Walnut Ass'n today were being directed by new officers, following an election at the annual meeting, in which four of the five members of the old board were swept from control of the organization. Ed Farnsworth, banker of Santa Ana and active farm operator, is the old board member who continues in the organization.

Other members elected to the board are W. W. Dugan, Henry Carver, C. C. York and P. D. Brady.

Organization of the directors followed adjournment of the annual meeting. Dugan was elected president and York temporary secretary. The latter will continue in that position until selection of a permanent secretary and manager is made.

It was said today that a number of applications for the position of secretary and manager had been received by personal solicitation for support of various members of the board. Only written applications will be considered, a member of the board stated.

The retiring board members are George A. Cook and Dr. Cover, of Long Beach, and William Schaefer and Mr. Stanley, of Garden Grove.

B. D. Lohy, of Anaheim, who advised the association, noted the criticism in his report of the former management, but explained that this criticism was based on the management's asserted failure to charge off depreciation in the report.

A director of the state association said today that the directors of the state organization felt that the change made at Garden Grove would strengthen an article which has been anything but beneficial to the interests of the association.

COUPLE STRANDED 3 DAYS ON DESERT

W. Clegg Butt, an old elk slinger, looked in on us in our editorial sanctum, this afternoon, and told of some little experiences on the Coast to Coast highway between Denver and this city.

Briefly, the experiences gone through and experienced would fill a small sized book, but the part that hurt our tender feelings was that three small lions, even the juicy and good, would not take the place of a glass of water.

Without a drop of real white wine for three whole days and nights, the dry Arizona desert breeze burning on the skin, nights so cold as to freeze and so hot in the daytime as to make mental images of fantastic shapes resembling cool soda fountains, these were only actualities that we read about from Zane Grey and other western writers. So to come to us from the lips of a new resident of Anaheim seems almost like a fairy tale.

To make a fresh start in the story of his adventures, it is necessary to hark back to a visit to Anaheim two years ago in company with the Willets Bros. This town so appealed to our newspaper man that he decided to come here and locate, although he has taken two whole years to bring about realization he is with us now.

Starting out from Denver in a "Jeep" car, Mr. Butt and his wife, Mrs. Butt, left Denver white and snow covered and all the best intentions in the world of making this city in a week or ten days at the outside. However, roads thru Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona are not like California boulevard. One is a succession of ruts, chug holes, "S" curves and sand constitute the recipe for roads thru these states according to our informant. Harping on the road question in adjoining states is to consider the economic menace to our informant. Harping on the road question in adjoining states is to consider the economic menace to our informant.

After several minor delays, due to the road, the Butt family, small motor, Mrs. Butt, and Mr. Butt, left Ajo one balmy evening and started for the coast. The road was a little better, but the Butt family, small motor, Mrs. Butt, and Mr. Butt, left Ajo one balmy evening and started for the coast.

On the evening of the third day, Clegg Butt decided to make a final try for the coast, realizing that if he let it slide much longer he would be too exhausted to try. He also sent a message to the nearest garage at Welton for a tow.

Arriving in Welton at 4 a. m. the following morning he was relieved of his last travelers checks by the enterprising desert hotel. And then proceeded the weary work of finding out just actually what was wrong with the motor. A broken wrist-pit was found and the engine put on the beach in little while. Engine block sent in to L. A. for repairs and then "To Goods and Little Fishes—15 days" wait in a little burg with three men and a dog.

Two of our local boys, Frank E. Williams and Earl Williams, wearing the plight of a friend, jumped aboard their "bus" and off and was on a 23-day trip, returning correctly to the last ditch by the courtesy of Paul V. Allen of the local Auto Club office.

The welcome sight of our passengers put new heart into our boys, and we were might glad to have such competent help.

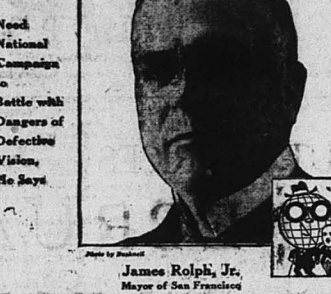

Mr. and Mrs. Butt arrived in Anaheim Saturday midnight and are might glad to be "home" at last.

W. Clegg Butt has been on the Coast before as assistant to "Major" Fernbach on the Salt Lake Telegram, the Tribune, the Denver Post and for the last two years has been associate editor of The New West Magazine. He hopes to make Anaheim his permanent home.

Save American Eyesight Urges San Francisco Mayor

Need National Campaign to Battle with Dangers of Defective Vision, He Says

James Rolph, Jr., Mayor of San Francisco

EVERY individual with "a love for the well-being and happiness of his fellow man" should cooperate in a campaign against eye defects, according to Mayor James Rolph, Jr. of San Francisco.

The chief objective of California's largest eye, in an interview just issued, conservation of eyesight is a national problem of vital importance.

One of the most serious measures to alleviate defects of vision were far more crude than they are today," Mayor Rolph stated.

He pointed out that the California legislature has passed a law which will tend to lessen the eye troubles of the world and we will be doing a world of good by promoting the welfare of mankind.

The Birch Oil company, perennial critic of Orange-coat tax assessments, resumes tomorrow, its fight to recover $17,000 in taxes, the long drawn out $17,137 going to its second trial in the superior court after four years of travel up to the state supreme court and back again.

The second trial, ordered by the superior court on appeal of the oil company, after a non-suit was granted by Superior Judge W. H. Thomas in 1917, during the first trial opened at 10 a. m. before Superior Judge R. J. Williams, succeeded.

The renewal of the court battle will be entered with vigor and determination by both sides, indicated by preparations made for an extended trial. While the case may be concluded within several days, there is also a possibility it may continue for two weeks, it is thought.

The court calendar has been cleared for days ahead. The county has supplemented its defense against the Birch suit by retaining Attorney A. P. Nelson in handling its case. West was advised that the Birch suit was filed and the first trial held, and is thoroughly familiar with the issues involved.

During the fiscal year of 1916-17 the Birch company's properties in Orange County were assessed at $440,000. This amount was reduced to $360,000 by the supervisors, sitting as a board of equalization. The reduction, however, did not satisfy the oil company, which claimed its assessment should have been $22,000.

The tax levied by the county under its assessment, and paid under protest by the oil company, was approximately $19,500, the total rate for that year being $23.26. The oil company's idea of a protest was according to its assessment figure, was approximately $2500. The difference, about $17,000, was the subject of the civil action now being fought.

After the trial in 1917, an appeal was taken to the state supreme court, but an opinion was not handed down until last August, when the higher court ordered a complete re-trial of the case.

RAIN BIG HELP TO TREES, COVER CROP

The recent rains will do a great deal to alleviate the drought produced by last week's cold spell, according to reports from the Farm Advisor.

The dampness resulting therefrom will not only be absorbed by the soil and thence through the root to the tree, but also through the leaves of the citrus trees and other growing vegetation. Cover crops, especially will be benefited by the moisture and warmer temperatures.

The question of fertilizing shock of trees has been submitted by hundreds of growers since the cold snap. The lesson taught by the 1917 freeze indicated that extra applications of quick acting fertilizers were not beneficial to young trees that were badly checked and tipped over the frost. The severe unbalancing of the tree with a large root system and limited top did not prevent application of organic fertilizers.

In mature, heavy producing trees, however, it seems good practice to make a moderate application of a balanced or complete fertilizer to stimulate the tree and send it into a period of rest.

The heavy set of fruit on many of our groves will require a moderate amount of fertilizer stimulation at this time, not only to hold the present crop but also to prepare the tree for the blossoming season in March and April. A follow-up of barnyard manure, bean straw or other organic fertilizer is considered the most satisfactory source for permanent soil builder.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31. — Gun play and two fights marked the arrest of three Italians, James Fiero, Tony Ferrara and Frank Chilena, and the discovery of a bootlegger's den at Palma by prohibition enforcement officers early today.

With the exception of a small association on state project, Orange-co Cowtesting Assn. records show highest in California. Average but-fat production for 17 associations was 24.4 in December while the local association produced 35. This remarkable showing has been brought about by careful selection of cows and the culling out of non-producers. Indications are that 1932 will close with a still better record for the following figures have been compiled by Assistant Advisor Scott from cow tester's report for January.

SCOUTS ASSIST AT THEATER DISASTER

There was a fair attendance at the annual meeting of the Boy Scouts Council of Orange-co at the Anaheim high school last night, there being delegates present from all parts of the county. The constitution and by-laws were read and adopted, and an annual meeting provided to take place each year sometime in January. D. Egan, staff of Orange presided as chairman.

Two selections were rendered by the Anaheim high school orchestra. A short talk was given by Major Wellington, retiring president of the county council, who stated that during the past year the boys had just begun to find themselves. They had to feel their way, but now were beginning to get on their feet. He declared that scouting is the greatest thing in Orange-co.

Mr. Huff gave a short talk, in which he stated that 21 troops had been organized in the county within the past year, and that there had been a joint hike to Orange-co park. The treasurer's report stated that the expenses for the year had amounted to $4,257.10. The report was accepted and placed on file.

Mr. Huff, who succeeds Major Wellington as president of the county council, stated that it is hoped to reach 1,000 boys this year, 200 in Anaheim. The second of the county number 500. It is planned to hold one joint hike at least, he said.

R. E. W. scout executive, read a letter from the warden of San Quentin, which commended the work of the Boy Scouts, declaring that the greater part of the prisoners admitted to the state prison are young men. Many of them under 21 years of age. He stated that the time to mold character is when the boy is young. The report was received and filed.

Another selection was rendered by the orchestra.

Mr. Huff announced that Harry D. Riley, county campaign chairman, who is unable to be present in person, had sent word that he was present in heart, and could be depended upon to carry out his duties.

Walter Bigham was announced as county campaign chairman of Anaheim. Dale G. Phillips, of San Francisco fire and were on guard at the disarmament conference.

He stated that the boy looks up to the man, and that from the age of 10, a boy passes from the companionship of his mother, climbs over the back fence, and they all travel together—up the alley. When they get where the corner loiter, and since the boy doesn't care whether he goes wrong or right as long as there is adventure and activity, and the result is—the contents in the letter read from the warden. It costs the state $41,000,000 to combat crime. And how did the boy get into it? He got into it because he never had a chance. He said you can't throw a dare to our American boy, and the object of the Boy Scouts is to get the right kind of an influence before the boy at the most pliable time in his life. He said that it is something not to be counted in dollars and cents, and that the big item in the movement is not to get boys but men, who will do for the boys to finish after.

"Your field lies all about you," he declared. "Your boys are your gold; dig them out."

APPLIES FOR CERTIFICATE

Setting up the claim that there is public need for the service, A. B. Watson, owner of the Crown Stages, applied to the railroad commission for a certificate permitting him to carry passengers from Santa Ana, through Anaheim to Los Angeles, without requiring them to change buses, according to word received here today. He is now giving the service by reason of ownership of franchises covering service by the Crown Stage and what was known as the Valley Stage line under a joint tariff agreement. Watson's application is the result of a recent decision by the commission requiring stage companies giving through service under local permits to show that public convenience and necessity required such service.

ANOTHER NEW SCHEME LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31. — "Dr. Edward Thompson Jolley, 35, was arrested last night, charged with unique bank plot. On Saturday Jolley opened a home at 543 South Virgil-st., where the arrest took place, paying the first month's rental with what is declared to be a bogus check. He also rented a house at 530 South Union-st., as a maternity hospital and ordered $2,000 worth of furniture to equip the offices and wards. He offered to sell the furniture in the house for $450 and this was satisfactory to a furniture dealer. It is believed he planned to take this check and get away. He never obtained permission to sell the furniture. The charge on which he actually was held was for presenting a fictitious check for $12.
