NELSON PROBES K. K. K.

ORANGE-CO. DIST. ATTY. PLANS INVESTIGATION

Dist. Atty. A. P. Nelson today announced he would make a thoro investigation into the activities of the Ku Klux Klan in Orange-co, basing his attack upon the letter on stationery of the Triple K which was addressed to Herman J. Efker of Anaheim.

The letter was in the hands of the district attorney today, having been turned over by Efker's attorneys. His promised investigation is considered most auspicious in view of the fact he now has in his possession the membership of the Klan in the county.

The letter which was dated April 19, before the seizure of the Klan records in Los Angeles following the Inglewood outrage, was postmarked Anaheim and was contained in an envelope returnable to Santa Ana. The letter was as follows:

> Dear Sir: You am hereby warned that remarks made by you will not be condoned in the future. You are requested to attend strictly to your own affairs. Failure on your part to heed this warning will call for severe reprimand. The unknown eye is upon you, the unknown ear is about you. Firearms will avail you nothing. Take heed.
> Yours truly,
> K. K. KLOROGA.

MORE WATER THAN EVER SPREAD

Three Counties Spread 1,400,000 Inches, Compared With 800,000 in 1914

More than 1,400,000 inches of water already have been spread over lands below the sources of the Santa Ana river by Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside counties, it was stated at a conference of water conservationists held in connection with the annual tour yesterday. The previous best record was 800,000 inches in 1914. The spreading has been at the rate of 1,000 inches per day, although this rate has declined with the close of the rainy season. According to Francis Cuttle, chairman of the Tri-County Reforestation and Water Conservation Committee, and the Water Conservation Association Riverside has spent to date more than $36,000 for this work, Orange more than $18,000 and San Bernardino county, the last to come in, more than $4,000. Most of the $18,000 in Orange came from the Anaheim Union Water Company and the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation Company. The conference was unanimous or practically so in favor of continuing the work.

Among the speakers at the conference were J. F. Ahlborn of Anaheim, chairman of the water conservation committee of the Associated Chambers of Commerce; Cuttle, representatives of the State Department of Public Works and of the United States Geological Survey, the water companies, etc.

Ahlborn told how the water level of wells on ranches in and about Anaheim had been sinking, reminded his hearers that flood waters could be expected only once every four or five years, urged conservation and cooperation instead of litigation, and spoke for a county conservation district in Orange.

Cuttle described the successful results of eight test wells in the San Bernardino basin, where levels were thus kept up. He displayed charts by way of illustration. He said between 2,000 and 3,000 acres were receiving the water spread.

H. H. Hale of the Anaheim Union Water Company voiced his support of the method of spreading water, and said Orange as well as the other counties were aided by it.

Post and another representative of the State said that California was gathering data on water resources and conditions and asked the representatives of the water companies to assist in this work.

Purcell expressed the interest of the federal government in the work being done.

Among those present were directors and officials of the Anaheim Union Water Company, Santa Ana Valley Irrigation Company, Santa Ana River Development Company, Temescal Water Company of Corona, Riverside Water Company and Ahlborn, C. M. Hollingshead of the County Farm Bureau and Anaheim Farm Center, Dr. J. R. Scofield of Buena Park, president of the Bureau; H. H. Covell of Cypress, member of the Associated Chambers committee, Supervisors Wm. Schumacher of Buena Park, S. H. Finley of Santa Ana and Nelson S. Edwards of Orange, Floyd Scott of the Farm Bureau, George Dierker of Orange, I. L. Marchant of Tustin and Archie Robinson of Santa Ana, all three directors of the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation Company, and M. Nisson, a former director.

CYPRESS MEN NOT HURT IN ACCIDENT

E. R. Chatfield, of Cypress, escaped without serious injury when his Studebaker auto turned over on the Telegraph-rd., near Santa Fe Springs about eight o'clock last night. Anaheim men who were following in another car went to his assistance. They found him crumpled on the floor under the steering wheel. Pulling him, they were surprised to find he could stand alone and was apparently not badly hurt. The car was righted and he was able to drive it off alone. He expressed considerable concern over a sackful of guinea pigs in the rear of the car. They also escaped unharmed.

The Anaheim men expressed the belief Chatfield dozed off for a moment as there was no obstruction in the road that would have caused him to veer into the ditch.

Chinese Balk at Jap Domination

TEINTSIN, May 4.—There is every indication, according to reports from the front, that the defenders have been out-generaled and that Pekin will be taken.

The feeling thruout China is running very high against the Pekin government, the claim being made that it has fallen under Japanese domination, a theory which is claimed to be supported by the fact that Japanese artillerists are serving the guns for the defenders of the city.

The Chinese spirit of independence is strongly condemning this course in favor of Gen. Wu, who is directing the assault against the city.

FULLERTON IS FEELING US OUT

Fullerton is merely sending out "feelers" to see whether there is a chance for her to get in with Anaheim and Santa Ana in an outfall sewer project, it was stated this morning at the office of Ben. Dupuy, Fullerton city engineer, when asked about the conference held yesterday with Anaheim officials on the sewer project.

Mayor W. F. Coulter, City Attorney J. L. Lyon and City Engineer Ben Dupuy represented Fullerton at the conference.

Nothing definite was arrived at, Mr. Dupuy said, this being merely a preliminary step. Fullerton officials, however, expect to confer with Santa Ana officials on the project. When this meeting will be held is not announced.

BEAR VALLEY VERY BEAUTIFUL NOW

"Bear Valley was never more beautiful," was the declaration today of H. P. Tobin who returned last night from the lake with Mrs. Tobin and Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Schlotter. They went up last Friday by way of Victorville. They found their cabin near the Tavern in fine shape.

"The mountains about the lake are strikingly beautiful with their covering of snow," says Tobin. "The snow is still several feet deep in some elevated places. The lake is so full of water that it is pouring over the top of the dam and many old logs and stumps have been floated down to the end of the lake. It was pretty chilly at night but the sun was warm and bright in the daytime. Every stream entering the lake was bankful.

"As to fishing, we never saw any caught, being the poorest in that respect of any season we have ever seen up there. I think that it is too early to fish there this year, in view of the late spring and heavy snows last winter."

BIG GASSER AT BEACH QUIET

Vomits Rocks and Sand High Into Air for 13 Hours

After vomiting rocks and sand high into the air for 13 hours, a big gasser of the Standard Oil Co. at Huntington Beach quieted down just after midnight last night and today had ceased its turmoil entirely. The gasser is said to be the largest in the history of the field.

The roar could be heard to the farthest limits of Santa Ana, 14 miles away. A big crowd of onlookers from far and near assembled to see it.

The company's loss will amount to several thousands of dollars in labor wasted in drilling, employment of men to guard it, etc.

A Standard Oil official announced that re-drilling would be started soon.

The gasser is known as Standard E-6 and located near the corner of Seventeenth street and Palm avenue within the city boundaries. Guards with clubs kept back the crowd that assembled to protect them from possible injury.

For several hour the well did not catch fire, thus behaving according to the habit of similar wells in this field and at Santa Fe Springs. Preparations were made to dynamite the well.

The rigging has been destroyed and will have to be replaced, when the re-drilling is begun.

J. McINNES SHIPS 225 CARS TO DATE

The J. McInnes packing house is still rushing out fruit at the rate of 5 to 6 cars a day. Up till Wednesday evening they had shipped a total of 225 cars for the season, of which 181 cars are valencias.

This company has bought heavily in the Anaheim district and Mr. McInnes has expressed himself as being well pleased with the quality of the fruit in this locality. The fruit is commanding a good price and this concern is paying some fancy prices for oranges. "The fruit which we pack under our Oxford brand is as near frostless as is humanely possible to get it," said Mr. McInnes today, "and we are willing to pay a little over the market price to get the best fruit. Excepting some slight fluctuations which are to be expected, we look for a good market till the cantaloupes begin to arrive in quantity."

This concern paid out on Wednesday $26,340.10 to growers, most of whom are in or near Anaheim. Among them were W. L. Russell, Ben. Beulke, J. T. Lyon Realty Co., L. C. Sommerville and H. M. Peterson.

Are You "Dolling Up" for the Orange Show?

YOU buy a new suit perhaps four times, certainly once a year. How many times annually do you paint up and clean up your house, yards and environs?

The Orange Show is coming! Would you—all of you—be proud to have your relatives and friends of ather cities and states see your house as it is now?

Your house may present the best appearance of any in its neighborhood, or the worst. It's up to you. But if your house is the "patchy" spot, you may be sure your neighbors haven't a cordial opinion of its owner. Your neighbors who take pride in how their homes look also don't fancy seeing property values pulled down by an unpainted house and slovenly yard in their midst.

This is Cleanup and Paintup Week of the Paint Manufacturers Association of the United States. Preserve your self-respect and your property, and the neighbors' good will, bycleaning and painting up.

Let us do the talking about it. You do the Acting.

CLUB FEDERATION HEARS ADDRESS BY MRS. BURDETTE

WITH the principal address of the day given by Mrs. Robert Burdette, on "The Women's Light and Power Company," first president of the Federation, now in annual session in Bovard hall, University of Southern California, the opening session sounded the call for advancement of women. Following the brilliant reception of the evening preceding, the women were in a happy frame of mind for the activities of the first day. Uniform divorce laws for the United States were advocated by Mrs. Burdette, who was heartily applauded when she said women are the light and power of the present day, and the controlling members of the company. She urged many reforms, advocating organization as the only safe and sure way to bring it about. Advising women to cease being candles, instead of arc lights, and advocating that club life be considered a responsibility instead of a pastime, she left a train of thought and resolutions which will have their weight among women.

Dr. Von KleinSmid, president of the University, spoke upon the subject of education, saying he will not worry about the expense of education until its cost at least equals that of the tobacco bill, or the cosmetic bill.

Demonstrating Mrs. Burdette's theory that women are the light and power of the communities in which they reside, Mrs. Fitzgerald, state president, and six district presidents of the state, gave reports of club activities of the past year.

Round table discussions occupied a portion of the afternoon, wherein other notable club women appeared on the platform during the day with important messages, concerning the Eighteenth amendment, the Ku Klux Klan, universal peace, home literature, motion pictures, and other topics of vital interest to women. Mrs. F. W. Haman, of the southern district, who has been in office but four months, told of the clubhouse building epidemic which seems to have struck the district, and mentioned many new club homes and proposed buildings.

At noon yesterday the officers of the state and district board were entertained at luncheon by Mrs. Sue Reynolds, chairman of hospitality, and Mrs. Rufus B. Von KleinSmid, president of the University Women's club.

AUXILIARY WILL TAKE MAY BASKETS TO ILL SOLDIERS

COMPLETING plans for distributing May baskets among the disabled soldiers in hospitals about Los Angeles, the American Legion meeting Tuesday evening was an especially important one. The baskets will contain flowers of the prettiest kinds, with home made candies, gum, cigarettes, fruits and other dainties hidden among them.

Sunday is the day chosen to deliver the baskets, and on Friday afternoon at two o'clock, and on Saturday afternoon at the same hour, the ladies will meet to arrange the gifts. A sample of the baskets will be on display in Schneider's Meat Market both afternoons. The shell shocked soldiers under treatment at Norwalk will also receive a portion of the May offerings.

A very pleasant surprise to Mrs. A. O. Ackerman, past president of the Auxiliary, was presentation of a cut glass bowl in acknowledgement of her efficient services.

Plans were also discussed for the dance tonight in Pressel's hall, with music by Heffner's orchestra. The proceeds will be used for the monument to deceased soldiers which the Legion is placing in the cemetery here.

MAY BASKET AT CARD PARTY

Lending her home in Fullerton to Mrs. Little, of Montebello, who was hostess to the A. F. L. N. club yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Banningsdorf assisted in entertaining. Five hundred, the chosen game of the club, was played for the afternoon's amusement, and when games were concluded the tally cards of Mrs. Stone, first, and Mrs. Dugas, second, with consolation going to Mrs. Reese gave their standings.

Large May baskets of roses and sweet peas were placed about the rooms in deference to May day gaiety. A three-course luncheon was served at 4:30 and a happy hour passed in discussing the fine points of the games. Playing were the Mesdames Benningsdorf, Black, Reese, Lovejoy, McKelvey, Hughes, Varcoe, Trippett, Stone, Dugas and Waldorf.

DOCTOR ORDERED WOMAN OBEYED

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and is Now Well

Chicago, Illinois.—"You surely gave women one good medicine when you put Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on the market. After I had my baby I was all run down and so nervous it kept me from gaining. My doctor did everything he could to build me up, then he ordered me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with his medicine and I am now a new woman. I have had three children and they are all Lydia E. Pinkham babies. I have recommended your medicine to several friends and they speak highly of it. You are certainly doing good work in this world."—Mrs. ADRITH TOMSHECK, 10557 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

There is nothing very strange about the doctor directing Mrs. Tomsheck to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. There are many physicians who do recommend it and highly appreciate its value.

Women who are nervous, run down, and suffering from women's ailments should give this well-known root and herb medicine a trial. Mrs. Tomsheck's experience should guide you towards health.

NEW OFFICERS FOR BREA P.-T. A., LOCAL PASTOR SPEAKS

A GOOD attendance was present at the meeting of the Brea P.-T. A. on Tuesday afternoon at the Brea Grammar school. The main feature of the afternoon was the election of the officers for the ensuing year. Mrs. Alex. Kingsley was elected president; Mrs. Munger, secretary, and Mrs. Salvuson, 1st vice pres. An excellent musical program was given during the meeting. A Fullerton trio, composed of the cello, violin and piano rendered several delightful selections.

Dr. J. A. Geissinger of this city responded to the invitation to speak to the members and he delivered a very eloquent address on "That Boy." The address bore much food for thought and was very interesting from all standpoints.

Dr. Geissinger said in part:

"The greatest commission God Almighty gives to an adult is to open the door for the boy who is hurrying himself half blindly towards his kingdom and his crown.

"A snapping turtle starts out in life ready for business but it takes a boy twenty one years to reach legal maturity and that is about as soon as he can grow up. Yet we expect him to support the family before he is fourteen.

"No boy is born with wings. And no boy is born without bad blood in his veins. Education is to eliminate his bad variations and let the gold in him come to blossom.

"Your boy will follow some one. Who is he following now?

"Most of the men behind bars went there as mere boys. The pressures of life were too much for them. What are we doing to re-inforce our boys and supply them with inspirations that shall enable them to stand out against temptation?

"We sometimes say: 'If my boy wants to be religious when he is grown up, I am perfectly willing,' and we think we are tolerant and wise. But we aren't. We are first-class fools when we talk that way and our boys will suffer all their days from our folly. You might as well tell your boy to go to the devil at the start as to take such an attitude. You are doing all you can to send him there by your policy. Imagine a father or mother saying 'If my boy wants to learn arithmetic he can do it.' It isn't what a boy wants it is what he needs and we are to discipline him and prepare him for the battle of life."

GUESTS IS GROTESQUE GARB

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McCord had arranged for a meeting of the Four-Four club at their lovely new home on North Los Angeles street last evening, but were rather taken aback when men and women in most extraordinary garb alighted from the automobiles and wended their ways up to the house entrance. Of a hospitable disposition, however, the door bell was answered and the callers admitted. Imagine their surprise when bright lights revealed the members of the club, who had so arrayed themselves for a little joke and to distinguish the party as a house warming, as this was the first meeting of the club in the new McCord home. A sumptuous dinner was served at 7:30, with whist games following. Score cards proved Miss Melrose to be winner of the lady's prize and W. J. Wallop, the gentlemen's prize.

A short time after games passed with music completed a very happy evening.

After the games the hostess served a dainty luncheon. Mrs. Backs had her rooms trimmed with many pretty colors and fragrant blossoms of spring.

Playing were the Mesdames J. L. Abbott and Wade Quaeton of Fullerton, L. Witherill, R. M. Seale, Fred Mickel, Alice Booth, Minnie Palmer, Tom Dietrick, C. W. Martin, Max Neblung, W. J. Jewell and hostess, H. Backs.

VALUE ORANGE-CO OIL AT $33,000,000

The value of oil produced in Orange-co. last year is estimated at $34,515,863.20, according to County Assessor James Sleeper, who bases his figures on an output of 13,275,332 barrels reported by the state gas and oil supervisors, of the California State Mining Bureau, at $2.60 per barrel.

According to the state report, the production in 1921 in Orange county by fields was as follows: Brea-Olinda, 2,973,352 barrels; Coyote Hills, 3,662,460; Huntington Beach, 1,975,757; Richfield, 4,761,763.

The officials state that there were 807 wells in the county that produced in 1921. Of these wells 396 were in the Brea-Olinda field, 228 in the Coyote Hills, 59 in Huntington Beach, and 124 in Richfield.

An increase of production by Orange county of nearly fifty per cent in November, 1921, over November, 1920, is shown. The total number of barrels produced per day in the former month was 51,255 and in the latter 74,390.

The daily average for the Brea-Olinda and Coyote Hills fields listed in the November comparisons shows a fall-off, while Huntington Beach and Richfield showed big increases. The figures follow:

Brea-Olinda field, average per day for November, 1920, was 17,134 barrels; per day for November, 1921, was 15,807.

Coyote Hills field, for November, 1920, was 22,428; same month, in 1921, was 19,649.

Huntington Beach field, for November, 1920, was 649; same month in 1921, was 12,339.

Richfield, for November, 1920, was 11,024; same month in 1921 was 26,595.

The number of notices of new wells starting in 1921 as received by the state, by fields in this county were: Brea-Olinda, 18; Coyote Hills, 9; Huntington Beach, 197; Richfield, 85. In addition to these in proven fields were two at Newport, and nine wildcat wells in this county.

BRUSSELS SERVANTS WORK FOR LITTLE

In Brussels servants are to be had at less than $5 monthly wages.

"Salaries in Belgium are usually very low," says Miss Sania Blankoff, of the Y. W. C. A. Foyer in Brussels.

"A servant earns from 50 to 150 and 20 francs a month with board and lodging which at the present rate of exchange is equivolent to 4.32, 12.50 and 17.75 in dollars and cents. A typist gets from 75 to 500 francs, or from $6.25 to $41.75 monthly. For this she works eight hours a day with eight days yearly vacation."

A shop girl earns from 5, 10 or 15 francs a day or at the present rate of exchange 60c. $1.20 or $1.80 daily. Applicants for positions at the bureau range from 14 years up to 49. Girls begin work very young, usually at 14.

"Every day brings more Russian refugees to Belgium," concludes Miss Blankoff, in outlining the activities in their behalf. "Long suffering seems to have killed in them any spirit of hope or even belief in human power or faith in the future.

HOLD FUNERAL OF PIONEER WOMAN, 70

With scores of sorrowing friends, many of whom had known and revered her for many years, gathered at the Mills and Winbigler Mission Funeral home here Monday afternoon, funeral services were held for Mrs. Mary A. Cook, 70, pioneer resident of the county, who died last Thursday at her home in Aliso canyon.

The Rev. William Perry, pastor of the First Baptist church of Fullerton, of which Mrs. Cook was a member, officiated. He told of the consecrated life of Mrs. Cook and of her devotion to her home and children.

Beautiful musical numbers and many appropriate floral offerings marked the rites.

Pallbearers were John H. Cook, George O. Cook and E. J. Cook, sons of Mrs. Cook, D. W. Woodward and W. H. Borden, sons-in-law.

Interment was made in the family lot at Fairhaven cemetery.

Mrs. Cook was the widow of A. J. Cook, who died in 1905. She had lived on her ranch in the Aliso canyon, seven miles from El Toro, for about 37 years. She was born in Burleson county, Texas, April 18, 1852, being the daughter of Julian and Mary Barker, and crossed the plains with them by ox-team in 1861.

Although the party with which Mrs. Cook made the long overland trip did not actually encounter the marauding Apaches, evidences were not lacking that parties preceding them had met with disaster at the hands of the Indians. Mrs. Cook saw the girl, who, among others, was scalped in the Oatman massacre.

After undergoing the privations of the momentous trip across the desert, thé Barker family settled near El Monte, Cal., later moving to Downey, where Mrs. Cook attended school. After her marriage to Andrew J. Cook, in 1871, Mrs. Cook moved to Pinal, Ariz., returning to Palomar mountain, in California two years later. Following the death of her husband, in 1905, she bravely and ably carried on the management of the home place, near El Toro. Here she succumbed to heart disease after an illness of three weeks. One of her last acts was to discuss beautifully and tranquilly with her children the life to which she confidently looked forward to in the Great Beyond.

Mrs. Cook is survived by nine children: John H. Cook, Anaheim; Mrs. Susie Salter, Mrs. Agnes Borden and Mrs. Anna Woodward, Placentia; James A. Cook., Mrs. Ella Stevens, Miss Addie Cook, and E. J. Cook, El Toro, and George O. Cook of Irvine. A sister, Mrs. Susie Price of Redondo, 22 grand children and one great grand child.

TELEPHONE PLANT IN STAGING FILM

The bill for telephoning alone in the making of "Queen of Sheba," the William Fox love spectacle, was upward of $18,000, says the Baltimore Sun. Eight miles of wire were strung about the location so that J. Gordon Edwards might direct from one central point the action of thousands of "extras," who, in the role of armies, mobs, citizenry, etc., were scattered over the rebuilt Jerusalem.

In the largest mob and soldier scenes Mr. Edwards had fifty captains stationed at the various telephones, to direct the various squads according to orders from the central headquarters.

Twenty-five "trouble" men were patching and laying wires and instruments for over two months, and eight operators worked at the exchange on the field.

COMMITTEE PLANS CONTROL OF PESTS

The question of what work and how much will be done by A. A. Brock, County Horticultural Commissioner, and his aides to control black, red and purple scale, aphis and other citrus fruit pests will be decided at a meeting of committees representing the different exchanges regulars and independents, in the near future, Manager Dale R. King of the Northern Orange Citrus Exchange said today. The different committees now are being or about to be appointed.

In addition to an insectary at Santa Ana it is possible that an expert may be sent abroad to discover parasites for the scale pests and better parasites for aphis than now are available. The question is how the money to be raised by the exchanges and county will be proportioned. Parasites will be produced in commercial quantities at Santa Ana in any case.

DAILY GREETINGS TO OUR READERS

But soon these fragile flowers will fade
And wither—'tis their doom;
May you, unlike them, be arrayed
In a perpetual bloom!—J. T. Watson

The people should be their own political bosses..

Safeguard the child against vicious associations.

General Obregon is making a great success as president of Mexico.

True patriotism, like true religion, is not put on and off like a garment.

It is not enough to promise clean pictures. They should be made clean.

Introduce rowdyism into popular sports, and they no longer will be popular.

China has a so-called civil war. But it more properly should be called an uncivil war.

California is among the leading states in the grand march of economic progress.

Cheer up; watermelons soon will be ripe and at their best. Of course life is worth living.

Building the Panama Canal and buying Alaska were two investments about the best the United States ever made.

The paramount issue with some political candidates is to get elected without being particular as to the methods.

The tariff bill pending in Congress is like those which have preceded it, in this: Its friends profess to believe it is excellent; its foes profess to believe that it is an atrocity.

A device has been tried out for recording the time consumed in telephone conversation, and it is proposed to charge users according to the time they take up in talking. Should this become effective, there is a woman over in the next county who would go bankrupt.

Those foreigners in the United States who do not like the government and institutions of this country, are not compelled to stay here. If they are inclined toward violence against this government, their leaving this country, muy pronto, would be welcomed by the government and all true Americans.

Phenomenal commercial expansion in the Pacific is in the offing. California is the great portal for this swelling tide of overseas and coastwise trade. The ports of this state are sure to develop stupendously as this growth of commerce becomes more and more pronounced. And as port cities prosper, so will the cities and rural districts of the hinterland. Industries will thrive and business will be at high tide.

RICHARD CROKER'S LIFE POINTS A MORAL

Death of Richard Croker brings before the American people the general subject of bossism in politics. The career of Mr. Croker was picturesque, in that he rose from a poor immigrant boy, without much education, to be one of the most powerful political figures in America. While one may admire the skill and energy that lifts a poor man to influence, yet the kind of career led by Mr. Croker is to be depreciated and deplored.

But it is not Richard Croker, the man, who should be condemned so much as it is that system and condition in American politics which has made obnoxious bossism possible. Richard Croker was a powerful boss, toying with governorships and the Presidency, only because the people permitted him to be. The people would not have bosses if they did not tolerate them. There has been political bossism because of the sufferance of the people. There will be no bosses and no bossism when the people assume and sustain controlling interest in their political affairs.

There never again should be another Richard Croker in American politics. There should be no Tammany Hall organization such as existed when Richard Croker was its head. The people have it within their power to smash these political machines. If they do not do so, the fault—or default—lies with them.

PROVINCIAL SPIRIT IS PASSING AWAY

Significant is the fact that 1,250,000 organized farmers of the United States are backing strongly proposed legislation by congress providing federal aid for American shipping. The American farmer is not so provincial as he once was. Time was when ship subsidy was anathema to the former. He lived far from the sea—why should he have any interest in shipping But the World War taught the formers, as well as others, some severe lessons. When shipping declined and a paralysis in export commerce resulted, a great part of the grain, cotton, meat products, lumber, copper and manufactured goods of America could not be exported, and the commodities which were sent abroad had to pay extortionate shipping charges because of the scarcity of ships under American control. That taught the American farmer to come out of his provincial shell—to realize that shipping means a vast deal to him and to his interests.

Provincialism had many a hard blow during the World War period. One section of this country learned to value the co-operation of another section; the cities learned to prize more highly the farmer and his part in the general economy, and the farmer had impressed upon him his dependnce upon the cities as chief market for his products; and so the broadening influence went on, and still goes on.

What Editors Are Saying

"CURES" THAT DO NOT CURE—Sacramento Bee

The death in a Stockton hospital of an unfortunate man, who believed himself "cured" at one of the Lodi meetings of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, is only one of several recorded the past few weeks.

But each and all of them constitute a pathetic human document in which tragedy has been wrought out in human tears and pain.

This tragedy has not alone been physical but also spiritual and mental; for no disappointment touches a more anguishing note than the disappointment of faith, a broken belief in Divine promises.

Those, who have died, are only a few out of the great throng of suffering men and women, whose desire to become well and strong and to know the joy of physical well-being is taken advantage of by people of the type of Mrs. McPherson.

Just how intense that desire is cannot be appreciated except by one who has suffered from some ailment or disease through a long course of years.

Such are like the drowning man, who will grasp at any straw which promises to take him to the shore. When with this desire there is also a strong religious nature, exploitation becomes a simple matter.

To think that the scores and hundreds of halt, lame and blind, who have been attracted by this woman's claims into hoping when really there is no hope, is to draw a pitiful picture.

NEW YORK LETTER

NEW YORK, May 4.— The oldest horse that ever lived—since the days of the dinosaurus, at any rate, will be one of the exhibits at the New York fashion and beauty bazaar held here in May. It is Clover, owned by Dr. U. Myers, at Catawissa, Pa., Dr. Myers says Clover is 51 years old, which is decidedly advanced aged for a horse, and veterinarians who have recently examined the animal bear out the statement. The horse was bred in old Kentucky, of course, and has been owned by Dr. Myers for 35 years. For five years he was on the race track, and was said to have a record of 2:17. The secret of his long life is accredited to the fact that he has retained his teeth all of these years.

Speaking of beauty shows, when New York women went in for deep tan face powder a season or so ago, to give a definite olive-brunette tinge to their skin, we thought they were being rather extreme. But the next step has arrived. Baths strongly tinctured with henna dye are the latest fad for obtaining a true oriental shade. It may be the oriental mode in costumes or it may just be another whim of restlessness that is responsible. Anyway, harem veils will look quite appropriate this summer if the fad gains foothold. And earrings may grow even longer and with larger hoops, if such a thing is possible.

They welcome Art across every sort of threshold in Greenwich Village. One shoeshine shop is making a sepcialty of a new artist's splashy drawings, and Vito, the Christopher-st barber, has filled every niche and shelf of his clean white walls with drawings, statuettes, and water colors. Everybody benefits, says Vito. He gleans greater patronage and is hallmarked as a connoisseur of art; the customers have a better time during their ordeals; and the artists sell many a sketch and plaster cast during the day.

In "The Shadow," the Eden Phillpott's play which has just opened at the Klaw Theatre, we have a new sort of murdered. He is lighthearted, mirthful, likeable, and he returns to his home village after the murder with a smile on his lips. After all, it was the village skinflint he killed, a cruel man, and the bane of the neighborhood. It is an interesting play, particularly well-acted by Percy Waram, as Philip Blanchard who killed the skinflint; Noel Leslie as Elias Waycott, a meek, shy person, accused of the murder, and Helen MacKellar, the woman loved by both of them.

One of the most interesting churches in this city is St. Anne's, in 149th-st, the church for deaf mutes. It was founded in 1852 by a son of the Rev. Thomas Gallaudet, the pioneer in work among the deaf in America. There are 450 names on the church rolls, but those members are scattered over a territory of a hundred miles because it is one of three such Episcopal churches in the country. The congregation usually consists of 40 or 50. The most "different" detail of the church is in the lighting of the rostrum. Illuminating engineers have provided a flod of natural and artificial light from a dome over the pulpit and altar, insuring that no gesture of the rector's hands may be missed by the audience.

Estelle Winwood in musical comedy is the latest turn of the wheel of Broadway. After learning to know her in such dramas as "The Circle" and "Mme. Pierre," it is going to take some readjustment of our minds to get accustomed to this other idea. But we have to do it. In May, she will appear with Ethel Levey (the former Mrs. George Cohan) in "Go Easy, Mabel," at the Longacre Theatre.

The Countess Christine Rosenkranz of Denmark has discovered that it is difficult to do anything out of the ordinary, if one happens to be countess, and not have it prove quite inconvenient. She landed here the other day after a trip across in th esteerage. She came in the steerage just because she wanted to see what it was like. And she hasn't had a peaceful minute since. First, she was taken to Ellis Island, where investigation was made to discover whether she could be admitted at all or not. Suspicion was aroused that maybe she was an andventuress of some kind or she wouldn't have been down among the shaw covered passengers in that stunning leopard coat. And after she finally got in, she had to spend 23 hours out of every 24 explaining all over again, to reporters, to citizens' delegations of interested people, to all sorts of questioners just why she did it; to say nothing of the commotion her trip caused during the voyage. Her status gave really grave concern to the ship's officials but there seemed no way to prevent a woman's travelling steerage if she insisted upon it—even in a leopard coat.

WAITING FOR THE MORNING

High in the heaven of heavens a silver star
Beats slowly to the music of the spheres.
I watch its pulsing through my unshed tears,
Because its beauty lifted up so far.
I cannot reach; a strong invisible bar
Shuts out the earthly one from its high place.
I worship from afar its infinite grace,
And when life's petty cares my spirits jar,
I raise my eyes, and meet its change-
less light,
And feeling soul uplifted, then I know
Though eons pass in darkness, yet
the right
At last shall vanish in the morn-ing's glow,
And that fair star, whose name is Truth, shall be
My guide and comrade through eternity. —Eben Jenks Loomis.

CHALDEAN SONG

Low to the river's pitch I tune my lyre
And sing the fire
Of man's brief dream, his ultimate desire
Past dross and dust and tears.

Since petals fall, birds fail in mid-most flight,
Kings vanish in a night;
Thou, too, must pass, O Smerdis, my delight!
To future avatars.

Let there be wine and roses and today,
O Smerdis! While we may—
Who with winged years shall drift away—
Let us defy the stars.

Spade Lugs For All Makes of Tractors

A Group of Some of Our Lugs

We can furnish lugs at one-half this price if you want something cheap, but we would rather not.

5&5½-in. plain gray iron ..35c
5&5½-in. semi steel chilled 45c
3x6-in. plain gray iron 45c
3x6-in. semi steel chilled ..55c
4x6-in. plain gray iron 55c
4x6-in. semi steel chilled ..65c
2½x5½-in. for 2 bolts plain 40c
2½x5½-in. for 2 bolts chilled 50c

The holes in all our spade lugs are for ⅝ bolts, except the 2½x5½ which take two ½-in. bolts. One hole on each side.

We furnish free with each lug a plate for the inside of the rim to keep the bolt head from pulling through. We furnish bolts and spring washers when desired at market prices plus small profit for handling.

We are pioneers in the manufacture of spade lugs, and have done a great deal of experimenting in this line, and believe that the shape and material we are using cannot be surpassed.

The length of the lug required is determined by the nature of your soil. The 6-in. length being best adapted for light or sandy soil, and if used on heavy soil will not allow the rim to rest on the ground, increasing your speed and causing vibration. Therefore in the harder soil the 5½-in. length is proper. Our lugs are made of a mixture of gray iron and steel, and are chilled to make the hardest, toughest and long-life spade lug that is possible to make. We have never known one to break.

These lugs are adapted for use on Fordson, Sampson, Case, Wallis, International and numerous other tractors.

Prices subject to changes without notice. All prices are net f. o. b. Santa Ana, California.

ELECTRICAL MEN AT DINNER LAST NIGHT

More than 100 members and guests of the Orange County Electrical Contractors and Dealers were present last night at a dinner in St. Ann's Inn, Santa Ana, including various Anaheimers.

Prudence Penny, who is connected with a Los Angeles newspaper, spoke on the relations between the contractor-dealer and the housewife. She said that the latter should be sold on an idea, rather than on the mechanics of a device which she didn't understand.

Dave Peirce of the Illinois Electrical Company of Santa Ana, predicted that the period beginning 20 years hence would be known as the electrical age, and said the dealers must have visions to prepare for it. Electricity now is no longer a mediocre business, but a profession, he declared.

Freeman H. Bloodgood, president of the Santa Ana Realty Board, pointed out what he regarded as one big fault of the business, in that men selected to make installments in houses often were not of the right personality.

Maurice Phillips sang and Carson Smith gave stories in negro dialect.

C. O. Gaffney of Santa Ana presided.

GOOD CHEER PROVES GOOD MEDICINE

LONDON, May 4—Effect of cheer, and especially of good news, upon the health of patients is being experimented extensively and with striking success at the great Kings' College hospital here.

Some of the results of the experiments tried are astonishing.

The origin of what might be called the "human sympathy department" of the hospital is said to have grown out of some experiences which developed during the war. Wounded soldiers under the charge of one set of medical men were observed to show good results very frequently if good news reached them either from the front or from their homes.

Some clever British medical man made a note of this. Unfortunately his name has not been preserved.

U. OF C. PRESIDENT DELIVERS ADDRESS

"America's Assets" was the subject of the address last night at the meeting of the Brotherhood of the First Methodist church of Fullerton by Rufus B. Von KleinSmid, president of the Univ. of So. Cal. He stated that it will take more than technical learning and intellectual attaifments to meet the needs of the hour, that it will take more than mere ideals. He said that it will take Christian education and Christian ideals, declaring that if we are going to have a new order of men and women for that world.

The meeting was opened by a banquet, invocation being delivered by Rev. T. G. Aten. J. H. Daniel was dining room steward, and the dinner was served by the Queen Esther Girls, and decorations were made by the Baraca class. The decorations were in university colors. Miss Carrie Allen was caterer.

The program following the banquet opened with a solo by William F. Marshall, accompanied by Miss Sara Olin. C. A. Marcey brotherhood president, presided. L. E. Plummer acted as toastmaster. Dr. W. A. Linsey spoke on "Our Guests, the Ladies". Rev. C. R. Montague spoke on "Our University." "Our New President" was the subject of Lawrence Schultz, who graduates from the university this year. H. E. Moulton who graduated from the university in 1919 delivered "Greetings from Alumni." The orchestra played "By the Swanee River,' 'and F. P. Taggart introduced the speaker. The audience sang "America," and benediction was rendered by Rev. F. E. Holcomb.

Harold Walberg, violin; R. W. Criswell, flute; Cecil Tozier, clarinet; J. Taylor Hart, cornet; F. Emrich, cello; Oswald Stock, trombone; Lawrence Tozier, piano; D. E. Barr, drums.

GUESTS FROM CORONA

Driving over from Corona Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Cunningham and two sons, Jack and Keith, Miss Nellie Sink and Master William Irwin were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Criss and Mr. and Mrs. William Criss. After a delicious meal the visitors were taken on a motor trip about Anaheim to see the pretty places of the town and to note the many improvements and great amount of building construction.

OPERATOR HALTS TRAIN TO MAKE CALL

Holding an Arkansas train long enough to let a passenger do some long distance telephoning sounds like an extreme measure. But this is exactly what a Joplin, Mo., telephone girl accomplished when she learned that a man who was badly wanted on the wire was aboard the train bound for a distant part of the country. The call was important; the operator was persistent; the station agent, at first positive in his refusals, finally backed down and said, well maybe the train could be held just this once.

Trains are not being held all over the country at the instance of telephone girls, of course but the incident is characteristic of the zest with which long distance operators of the Bell telephone System are now playing the fascinating game of "per cent completed.'"

DEFENSE OPPOSES GIRL AS WITNESS

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—Injecting into the second trial of Arthur C. Burch for the murder of J. Belton Kennedy a dramatic surprise move today, Deputy District Attorney Asa Keyes called Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain, Burch's co-defendant, as a witness for the prosecution.

The prosecution was scheduled to close its case today and it had been expected that the state's concluding evidence would be perfunctory in character. The plan to call Mrs. Obenchain, therefore ,came as a complete surprise to the defense. It was stated by Burch's counsel that the plan to have Mrs. Obenchain testify against Burch would be opposed to the limit.

SHAKEUP IN DUGAS & MYRE'S LINEUP

Associates declined to state whether Johnson was suffering from "buck fever." The Dugas & Myre lineup tonight will be: Myre, Efker, Dugas, Heffern and Schulz. Myre takes the leadoff position and Heffern makes the fifth man.

The Anaheim Laundry lineup will be unchanged. Members of the latter will roll doubles and singles at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow while Dugas & Myre shooters precede them an hour and a half.

MANY VARIETIES OF TIMBER FOR POLES

When snow spreads its mantle over woodland, and the forest streams lie ice-bound, the woods resound with the swinging blows of the lumber-jacks and the great trees of the forests bow to the keen edge of the axe of the biting teeth of the saw; the tempest-defying monarchs lie prostrate before the poweress of the woodman. Soon, denuded of their branches, the huge trunks are hauled or floated down to the saw mills there to be attacked by huge saws and converted into lumber.

Not all of them. Many millions of them are destined to stand again straight and tall in storm and sunshine for many years. Instead of green tops towering to the sky, they will bear proudly aloft great cross-arms carrying myriad copper strands vibrating with electric impulses, carriers of a Nation's speech by which a continent is knit into a closer communication. Thus panoplied, some 15,000,000 of them carry the wires of the Bell Telephone System and are a familiar sight along the highways in all sections of the country.

SANTA ANA DEFEATS LOCAL TENNIS TEAM

The local high school tennis team lost in a battle with the Santa Ana team last evening on the courts of the county seat city. Bob Gibbs, Anaheim's point winner, missed his racket just before the game and he had to borrow one which proved very badly strung. He was unable to put over his serves in his usual winning manner and this accounts for his defeat.

Lorena Poirier, playing in girls' singles, defeated Marjorie Rawlings. Anaheim's girls doubles, starring Helen Poirier and Lorena Poirier, won from Marjorie Tubbs and Enid Twist. Ray Cailor lost his set 2-6, 7-5, 4-6 to Marrill White. Bob Gibbs played against John Crest and lost 6-3, 6-3. Clayton Cook and Stewart Gates lost the boys' doubles to Darroll Myer and Earl Willard. The mixed doubles, Fred Amsbry and Florence Austin, lost to Alice Decker and Randolph Bell.

This is the last tournament of the season. The local racquet wielders won two of their sets, against Whittier and Fullerton.
