TWENTY-SIXTH YEAR

MRS. SMEDLEY TELLS HER VERSION OF DEATH TODAY

Nobody witnessed his death, apparently and the only person able to give testimony of much value is Adele Dalton, school teacher at Irvine, who accompanied him.

Swim a stroke," Mrs. Smedley couldn't help laughing. "He appeared happy, and a motive for suicide was lacking."

Mrs. Smedley, who went to look after the body yesterday, today told the story of the tragedy. Smedley left her Friday afternoon, after an affectionate farewell. He gave her plenty of money before going, and said he would be back Sunday night. It was a party of men he was accompanying, he explained and mentioned some body named Murphy, of whom Mrs. Smedley said she never heard.

Further testimony regarding the Big Pidge car. The car belonged to Fullerton, whom he met the Dalton women, who had driven there in her new Ford sedan. The two started from Fullerton and drove to the beach, and supplied themselves with a strip of food and slept in the car, so far as Fullerton was concerned. On Friday and Saturday nights, first at the beach and next in or near San Diego.

Arriving at the lake Sunday about noon, the two were in the car about 300 feet from the shore. The Soft ground forbade his driving the car into the lake. When he had been here a while, a young woman became uneasy and hailed a man passing by. He advised her to take a bath, and she did so.

Then she got in touch with friends in Escondido, and they came and half of San Francisco who died as the result of being struck by the wing of an airplane, or by Peyton Gibson, was given when the jury trial was resumed today before Superior Judge R. Y. Williams.

At the coroner's inquest on the accident, confirmed the evidence presented by Dr. E. Woodward, for the prosecution. He told how the woman, who was sitting on the beach, saw the wing of the plane coming toward her, and she was bathing.

Those who testified were J. C. Sharp, Ray R. Metz and C. E. Drummond. The last was in the plane and was called by the prosecution to testify that he saw the woman on the plane at the time of the accident.

John Anderson, companion of Miss Felchin, who had been in the was trying to tell Stineley's face was turning white as they were trying to recover the body. They didn't actually get it until about 11 o'clock Monday morning.

Stineley was found in about 12 feet of water some 20 feet from the shore. The gun lay on the bank.

Only one cartridge had been fired from it.

Stineley apparently had become infatuated with the Dallas woman, who had apartments in the Plaza.

The two hadn't noticed the plane until it was on the ground.

The accident happened July 9 at 10:30 a.m. in the vicinity of Hollida Hunt on the way to the hospital in Alhambra, where she had been stopping with friends.

Clyde Bishop is attorney for Gibson, who is the wife of Harry Wood, was accompanied in court by his mother, Mrs. Archie Gibson; his grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. C. A.

Gibson's landing on the beach was in violation of a city ordinance, according to Dist. Atty. A. P. Nelanda and performed without "due circumspection and care". The latter is seeking a manslaughter conviction.

near San Diego, Mrs. Smedley said. The Smedleys moved to Anaheim about two years ago and now live in the city of Anaheim, California. He had lived previously in Los Angeles, where they were married about two years ago. Mrs. Smedley had been troubled with rheumatism and had to seek another climate.

Smedley, except during the war, was a contractor, and a very successful one, and a "businessman," said Mrs. Smedley. "He was a very successful contractor, and a very successful businessman," she said. "He was a very successful contractor, and a very successful businessman," she said. "He was a very successful contractor, and a very successful businessman," she said.

At the autopsy at San Diego today returned a verdict of "natural causes." The coroner's jury returned a verdict of "natural causes."

The musical program is to be in charge of R. J. Ohlund. There will be several special solo performances.

The coroner's jury regarded the marks as of violence on Smedley's body to be scratches from grappling irons.

Mrs. Smedley was not at the inquest, returning from San Diego last night.

ISSUE EDITION OF CALIFORNIA VERSE

There is to be a California issue of the American Poetry magazine, which is published at Milwaukee, Wis., 2222 Carlton street, San Diego, one of the foremost writers in the state has received the appointment of California representative and sub-editor of this California issue. This magazine is in use as a text book in several of the high schools and colleges of the east; and the quality of the work admitted to its pages is therefore of first excellence. A Massachusetts issue has just been published, with examples of the work of William Stanley Braithwaite, Brooks More, Isabel Luke and other well-known Massachusetts writers of verse.

The California issue will be brought out some time in the spring of 1923. It will contain the week-end present day poets, Californians, both new and old, and a few poems by writers of distinction, who, like Clinton Scott, have carried in California long enough to be imbued by its inspiring surroundings. It will contain also a sketch touching upon the life and work of California poet-pioneers, such as Joaquin Miller, Charles Warren Stoddard and Ida D. Goodrich. Both new and established verse writers will be welcomed to expression.

Anaheim is to be represented in the issue by Mrs. C. E. Wetherill, present day poets, Californians, both new and old, and a few poems by writers of distinction, who, like Clinton Scott, have carried in California long enough to be imbued by its inspiring surroundings. It will contain also a sketch touching upon the life and work of California poet-pioneers, such as Joaquin Miller, Charles Warren Stoddard and Ida D. Goodrich. Both new and established verse writers will be welcomed to expression.

Mission Study Class

The Mission Study class of the Presbyterian church will meet tomorrow with Mrs. T. S. Grimshaw, 112 West Broadway at 2:30 o'clock. The topic will be "Freed Men of America" or "The Negro Problem." The book to be used is "The Tread of the Races." The class is therefore of first excellence. A Massachusetts issue has just been published, with examples of the work of William Stanley Braithwaite, Brooks More, Isabel Luke and other well-known Massachusetts writers of verse.

News of Fullerton

J. ORTIZ FINED $50 FOR CARRYING GUN

José Ortiz was arraigned yesterday before Judge French on the charge of carrying a concealed weapon, and fined $50 and sentenced to 180 days in jail, the jail sentence being suspended.

A. B. Gonzalez was arraigned on the charge of transporting booze and fined $100 and sentenced to 90 days in jail, the jail sentence being suspended. Judge French said his wisdom wasn't very good, so he would not make his fine larger.

A. O. Hamilton was arrested and taken to the county hospital, where it is alleged, became vicious. It is probable that a charge of lunacy will be preferred against him.

FINED DOLLAR FOR NOT PAYING WATER

John N. Noonan of Fullerton City Works was fined $1 today for letting his water bill run over the appointed time. Noonan said that he had never received a bill, and raised a complaint against the city for having turned his water off without having given him either bill or notice, endangering his hot water boilers and putting his plant out of working order.

Noonan, it is said, had never missed paying his bills, and was simply waiting to receive his bill. George Witty, the water superintendent, however, said that a notice had been sent out last month that water users should make water payments by the 26th of the month whether they received a bill or not.

JUNIOR H. S. GRID ATHLETES CLASH

Fullerton Junior H. S. and Pomona Junior H. S. football teams met at Fullerton H. S. athletic grounds this afternoon. LIBRARY HAS PLANTS ON PARADE FLOATS

Books and pamphlets which contain suggestions for floats and decorated automobiles are at the public library at Fullerton, and may be looked over at any time by those interested in putting floats or decorated cars in the Armistice Day Parade. It was announced this morning by Miss Minnie Maxwell, librarian. These cannot be taken from the library but any one who desires to look over them is welcome, she said.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott of Whittier spent last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Rowland at West Orange-Thorpe-ave.

LONG BEACH MAN PLANS 2 BUILDINGS

Permits were taken out yesterday with E. S. Richman, city building inspector of Fullerton, for new residences and garages amounting to more than $15,000. W. P. La Foon of Long Beach took out a permit for a $5500 duplex apartment at Richman and Commonwealth-aves, and for a two-story building on the same lot at 107 S. Richman-ave, the lower story to be used as a garage and the upper story as an apartment house. Miss Ellis has taken out permits for a $4000 residence at 309 North Drake-ave, and H. H. Young a permit for a $3000 residence at 201 West Malvern-ave.

PLAN 200 FLOATS IN PARADE NOV. 11

Every city in Orange-co will be represented in the Armistice Day Parade in Fullerton Nov. 11th. This is the announcement made today by E. J. Marks, commander of the County Council for the American Legion. It is estimated that there will be approximately 200 floats in line.

CIRCULATION JUMP AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

The circulation of the Fullerton public library last month was 6,182, an average of 257 daily, and an increase of 18 per cent over last year, according to the monthly report of Miss Minnie Maxwell, librarian. There were 145 books added, and 1510 new cardholders registered. She said that 27 per cent of the books loaned were non-fiction.

WHITTIER SCHOOL MAN AT KIWANIS

At the regular meeting of Fullerton Kiwanis Club today there were 65 present. The speaker was Fred Wells of the Whittier State School on "The Saving of The Boy". He said that the school is not today what it was yesterday, that it is being conducted along the most humanitarian lines.

The attendance prize was won by S. Silverman. The committee appointed on the boy scout matter reported that they had a cup in view to give the winning boy scout team in the Armistice Day Parade.

half and said he found the garage wouldn't fit the lot and he offered to sell the garage back to the city for $75. The jury hurriedly deciding, he agreed to accept $25 and wanted the money immediately.

He showed his disappointment recently when it was explained he would have to wait the action of city council.

A local truck agency states today that steps would be taken at once to recover a dump car recently sold to Smedley and in which a considerable sum was owing.

Friends of Miss Dalton here were surprised to hear the news of her escape. Mrs. Virgil A. Chesebrough, landlady of the Economy-apart, on South Clarendon-st said Miss Dalton had an apartment there also Sept. 11, and had been a quiet, respectable girl. She attended church regularly. Between seven in the morning and about five in the evening she was absent. In Irvine or en route to or from there, where she taught school.

Miss Dalton up to almost mid-summer had a room at the Antlers, and there also impressed those who came in contact with as a respectable girl. But she appeared lonely, and she sometimes had girl friends visit her. She was only about 23 years of age.

While at The Antlers she often spoke of Smedley, whom she regarded as an unscrupulous and a Fullerton man.

LITTLE GIRL DIES OF DIPHTHERIA

Florence, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Champlin, of North Los Angeles, died of diphtheria at the local sanitarium this morning at 10:30 after an illness of two weeks, although it was only a few hours before death that her condition assumed a dangerous stage.

Surviving are her parents, a younger sister, an uncle, Frank Champlin, and uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Chamberlain, of North-Hollywood. Relatives live in San Diego.

VICTIM RECOVERS; MEN HAVE HEARING

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 24.—The 14-year-old Dorothy Cox, their alleged victim, sufficiently recovered to be in court, John Rial, John Garcia, Victor Gonzales and John Navarro were scheduled to appear before Justice William S. Baird today for preliminary hearing on charges of kidnaping, robbery and statutory offense.

The kidnaping of the young girl for which the four young men were to be given a hearing today is alleged to have taken place in San Fernando.

L. A. CO. JAIL HAS UNUSUAL MIX UP

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 24.—The Los Angeles county jail was today revealed as a "pot of boiling man."

For according to a report to Supervisor J. H. Bean by County Jailor Mark Bailey, there are in the neighborhood of 20 men in the county jail legally unaccounted for.

These men, according to the report, either have not been given preliminary hearing on charges on which they were arrested, or the proper commitments have not been made, and the authority under which they are being held is doubtful.

C. OF C. COMMENDS FLOOD COMMITTEE

Anaheim C. of C. has addressed the following letter to Secretary H. F. Dierker of Anaheim Flood Control committee:

"At a meeting of our board held Friday, October 20, upon motion of Mr. Althorn, seconded by Mr. Eyringrad, and unanimously carried, I was instructed to send you a letter assuring your committee of this board and our membership in general, in connection with the unselfish civic spirit you have shown in bringing this work to an absolutely satisfactory conclusion.

"When this board was apprised of the complaint of one J. E. Harrison, which appeared in the columns of the Orange County Plain Dealer, Friday, October 13, 1922, members and officers of this board examined the whole course of the work and reported that not only had the specifications been lived up to in letter and spirit, but that the committee had received in several instances better performance in quality of material and workmanship than the specifications originally called for.

"It is the opinion of our board that this work is a monumental instance of civic forthrightness and performance, in every respect."

The Truth about the State Housing Law

Drafted at direction of the Governor because of public demand for changes from existing laws.

Careful study made months before, legislation convened, by experts, architects and engineers, public officials, health officers, fire chiefs, building inspectors, etc.

Passed unanimously by Senate and Assembly.

Encourages decently built homes. Gives preference to detached homes and flats rather than tenements.

Provides moral and fire safeguards. Does not impose requirements for health, safety, comfort and convenience of occupants.

Makes permissive use of properties practically outlawed by impractical unnecessary requirements.

Permits construction consistent with modern practice.

Encourages new buildings; makes more work for labor, reduces costs. Will reduce rentals, lower taxes and insurance.

Safeguards life, reduces fire hazards and protects women and children.

Does not prohibit wooden shingle roofs, approved by city officials.

Does not affect existing roofs at any time. Investigation disproves misrepresentation of opponents.

The self-evident merits of this law command support of all public-spirited citizens.

The crowded street or public highway is no place for the speed demon to do any of his demoning.

Love of good music has a refining influence upon human nature. It is a godsend that good music, by means of popular concerts or through phonograph records, is within the reach of the poorest and humblest.

Medical scientists say that twenty years can be added to the average human life. They forget to add the proviso that the average person, to live 20 years longer, should keep out of traffic in Los Angeles.

This is the proper season to have an autumn clean-up of the premises. Dry weeds, grass and inflammable refuse should be raked up and burned or otherwise disposed of, before rains bring on new verdure.

Coalition of political parties in Britain became a real tool for Premier Lloyd George to lean upon with purity. It will be a long time before Britain has a Prime Minister as safe and successful as he.

While sanitary science is adding to the length of human life, it is in error for social reformers to strive for the betterment of the lot of the average person and the increasing of the sum total of comfort and happiness in the world. The world needs its heart cheered as well as its stomach filled.

The cause of good government would suffer should the good citizen default on election day. The influence of the good citizen in behalf of good government is expressed effectively in only one way, and one place—at the polls, voting.

The career of David Lloyd George will go down in history as one of the most illustrious of modern times. He falls now, amid the political passions and prejudices of the hour. But he has made a name that will live so long as the annals of the British Empire survive.

We cater to those capable of distinguishing the difference between good and inferior workmanship.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

BARTER SYSTEM'S BENEFITS

New York Evening Post

In Boston many years ago a can-celed letterhead of a piece of real estate for a long term of years at an annual rental of so many bushels of wheat, is the cheapest of the value of the wheat rose compassed, and so the rent remained nearly stable in purchasing power from year to year. Not exactly, of course, but the variation between the purchasing power of that rent fifty years ago and today is far less than if the rent were paid in money.

Lately Germans have been adopting this method. A peasant woman the other day leased so many acres for so many pounds of butter per annum. As the mark descended, her rental butter rises in value. This practice is bound to become common wherever and whenever money becomes insecure and unstable. In a pinch of that sort every one realizes that money is not wealth and acts accordingly. In that conviction a trader exchanges one reality for another and the age of barter is re-born.

Thus simple folk record their conviction that fiat money becomes vitiated money whenever a government overworks its currency presses. A strong government with a determined taxation program and the confidence of its people can keep far more fiat money circulating than the total value of the "things" set aside and hoarded for its redemption. But a government weak in those respects cannot long keep its people measuring values in money when things are in circulation and all that sort of thing barter is a step backward. But under the circumstances, may it not be a sensible step? At least the more recommends itself to common sense as practical, common-sense persons practice it.

Barter in Europe will continue sensible and popular until the fundamental desires of the common man with something to trade are met equally well by the state's measuring rod—money.

New York Letter

My Long-Johnson Price

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—With the announcement of the opening of the opera each year I renew my vow to attend and write more about it. When I asked Ernest Allman if he would go with me this season, he replied that he never felt satisfied when he came away because he divided his time between trying to follow his superb orchestration and the har-velous voices, and got neither. There is something in that. The whole effect is overwhelming. With the orchestra, the ballet, the new sensations in fingers, the old favorites, the advanced scenic effect, and the ad-vice, it is both an awful and an awful Mr. Gatti-Casazza announces the opening for November 12th, with Jerizita in "Tosca." "The Rose Cavalier" is to be revived in the opening week and Chappin is to sing as well. Important new artists are Iva Baurkaya, Edward Johnson, Edmund Burke, and Armand Tokytan. The last is an Armenian tenor. The play-act for several new presentations.

"Shall Broadway be renamed Easy Street?" Posters in many colors make that query along Broadway. They are not. Twelve reasons are given why it should be so named. Everything is a conspiracy on that street is the conclusion. I do not know what is behind it, but I do know that the easy ones always land there.

One day several candidates for a position with a large corporation were sitting in the office waiting to be called in. The employment manager who had been interviewing each one of them, emerged from the inner office and said, "The man for this job is the man who wrote the bold, as-ertive, red blooded signature on this application blank. Which one of you wrote it? I can't read it." We are forgetting how to write. It is be-cause business has adopted the writ-ting machine and there is no longer a market for admirable penmanship. Not only does present day business not seek skillful penman, but in some cases it actually tries to avoid them. The applicant for a job who writes a tedious, labored letter by hand is viewed with doubt. They think he would have shown himself smarter if he had gone out and hired a public stenographer to do it for him.

Turning the necessities of life into an opportunity for the art of life seemed a desirable motive to Antonio Cicero, twelve years old, of East Twenty-ninth street. He didn't count on taking quite so much discomfort along with it. He is still trying to thaw himself out after a half hour on ice. He wanted to go to the na-tion picture, and furthermore to take his girl with him, which was gen-erous and laudable so far. Unfor-tunately he found himself, as we all do, money to carry out his impulse. So he broke into a Second-ave butcher shop with the idea that meat was a could exchange some of it for the price of two tickets. But the refrig-erator lock sprang, with him inside it, and by the time he was rescued by the police, he had lost all inter-est in pictures and meat both, and equally in ever attracting the illwill of those officers of the law who had restored him to a warmer climate.

WILL POWER

Albert M. Parmelee, described as "the oldest man in the world," is buried at Burlington, N. H., was a railroad engineer, walked out during the strike of 1888, and never returned to the job. He was 100 years old, "the oldest man in the world," 34 years when death, the final arbitrator, settled the case. It was an example of will power, to stand out among millions. There is a cult, a thing, however, a thing which will power and resistance for one's own good. Life is a challenge, a constant but necessary struggle. No one ever gets exactly what he wants.

Sweeping Medical Campaign Under Way To Check Disease Epidemics in Russia; A.R.A. Feeding of Children Continues

The inoculation of more than 10,000 Russian children and adults against cholera, typhoid and small-pox by the American Relief Administration—a step made necessary by the famine—is one phase of the sweeping medical "clean-up" campaign that has been launched by the Russian unit of this relief organization. The young women pictured above are employed and ed in the Petrograd office of the A. R. A. and were among the first to receive the inoculation. Relief officials state that while the famine has been conquered the aftermath, bringing as it does pestilence to the weakened and undernourished, must be guarded against if those millions that have been rescued from starvation are to be saved from disease. To this end the medical division of the A. R. A. is now distributing nearly $8,000,000 worth of American Red Cross and Army medical supplies to hospitals, clinics, dispensaries and orphanages throughout Russia. Sanitary trains loaded with such necessities as drugs, medicine, disinfectants, surgical instruments, soap, towels, sheets and blankets make regular trips into the interior. Twenty-four American physicians are directing the entire operation with the help of thousands of Russia's most able medical men.

In addition to precautionary and prevent measures against disease which ever include the filtering and chlorinating of water supplies in larger cities and rehabilitation of unused buildings so as to insure adequate housing facilities for the great mass of refugees, the American Relief Administration, having closed its famine program of feeding 10,500,000 persons a day, has undertaken the feeding of 1,500,000 children through the coming winter. At least 1,000,000 adults are likely to be previously affected from the after-effects of famine, and the A. R. A., through its now world famous Food Reliance system, is receiving gifts for general relief or delinquent beneficiaries at 42 Broadway, New York headquarters.

FEATHER BOOTLEGGING

The newest kind of "bootlegging" is in the feather industry. The present tariff act bans parrot feathers, and trading in that commodity must hereafter be secret and illicit. What ever comes in must be smuggled and secretly traded when put out. The but there are enough in town, and here and there women are beginning to whisper that they know where some may be had. Still I don't suppose the taste for parrot is so general as to rival the original form of bootlegging.

L. N. Wisser, Sportsman (By The Mysterious Cowboy)

With the mountains at your back and the seacoast at your very feet, this is the land of the sportsman's paradise. All the year through there is some fascinating sport to follow—be it fishing or game hunting in the mountains, or a trip to the seashore to try one's luck at catching the bigger varieties of the fish family. Every healthy man will relish in this sort of out of doors amusement and every sportsman should be fully equipped with all those things that go to make a complete outfit for the fishermen or hunters.

The service for such equipment is here at your disposal. Go to the house of L. N. Wisser at 171 West Center street and you will find every imaginable accessory in the sportsman's line. Mr. Wisser was born and raised in Anaheim and nobody knows better than he what the hunters and the fishermen of this district require.

Mr. Wisser has owned this business for the past two years and before he entered into it, the same business had been carried on for ten years by others. It is, perhaps, the largest sporting goods house in Orange county. Here one may find everything a sportsman could desire, from a pair of boxing gloves to a fishing rod. Mr. Wisser gives his customers a fair and intelligent service and it may be relied upon that he can furnish a purchaser with information appertaining to the line of goods to be bought or to the countryside where it is to be used. "Everything for the sportsman"—It is all here; camping outfits; rifles; fishing tackle of all kinds.

In conjunction with this business Mr. Wisser handles some very well known makes of bicycles, such as the Dayton, the Snell, the Ranger and the Excelsior. He also maintains a bicycle repair department.

This fine business house seems to have not end of service. Looking around the premises we find a full line of Hotpoint electrical household appliances.

A fine clean sport is the very moral backbone of our race and the proprietor of this shop knows of the goodness and the benefits that spring out of it. Every business man and indeed, every one young lady, should develop some hobby in the way of out of doors recreation. It is health giving and it is conducive to clean and wholesome thinking. Take up golf, or take your gun and away to the mountains, or perhaps you prefer the stream or the seashore for a fishing jaunt. It makes no difference what sport you pick up, this progressive merchant has the service that you must have before you can be a fully equipped sportsman or before you can fully enjoy yourself at your chosen sport.
