WOMAN ASKS $50,000 FOR DAMAGES

Virginia Cookson, of Shot-Gun Fame, Files Surprise Suit Today.

The fracas on property of the Modjeska Ranch Co., in Harding Canyon, where Virginia L. Cookson recently encountered with a shotgun to prevent Charles S. Mann of the company or his agents from tearing up some two-inch pipe she had laid across the ranch property to water for her land, developed today into a complaint in which the woman asks $50,000 damages a temporary injunction and other things.

The woman's action came as more or less of a surprise, because she already had appeared in court, and late yesterday was again before Justice J. B. Cox with others as defendants against a misdemeanor charge of the People, who alleged that she and the others had broken and obstructed water pipes and injured a certain main for conducting water on the ranch in Harding canyon.

July 16 at two p. m. was set by Justice Cox for the examination, and the three, who were released on their recognizance. Attorney W. F. Menton of Santa Ana represents them and Deputy District Attorney O. E. Jacobs the People.

The woman had been fined $25 on May 25, but Attorney Menton received permission to reopen the case and change the plea to not guilty.

In the complaint filed today a restraining order, an order to show cause why the defendants should not be restrained and permanent injunction are asked.

The woman alleges in her complaint that she made a written agreement with the company to be permitted to lay the pipe across the company's land to connect with their pipe so as to get necessary water for her crops and stock.

HOW DOG WAR BETWEEN MOTOR COPS

Another Pretty Woman Scorned Seeks $50,000 Heart Balm in Latest Suit

What is described as the latest act in the feud took place yesterday, when Officer H. D. Jaynes of Santa Ana overtook Tom Gillette of Santa Ana and took away his siren. Gillette is Fire Marshal of Fullerton.

This morning, according to an informant who should know, City Attorney P. H. Lyon of Fullerton called up District Attorney A. F. Nelson and asked him to explain why Gillette had been molested. It was only indirectly Nelson's business, but in the course of the telephone conversation Nelson told Lyon that "war was on."

The Fullerton officers continued to molest the county motorcycle officers, and the latter, while they are in effect those of Sheriff Sam Jerimian, are attached to Nelson's office.

This week Louis Hietanen, one of the motorcycle men, was arrested in Fullerton for having an adjustable spotlight on his machine, the arresters being Officers Deist and Bandy of Fullerton. The arrestee, it is said, today will demand a jury trial. It was the Hietanen case, going in Santa Ana, that brought the whole conflict to a head, if there is a conflict.

The defendants were convicted and fined, and the county officers declared that Los Angeles and Fullerton traffic enforcement officers are quite as much on the trail of Deist and Bandy, especially Bandy, as they themselves.

Her tiny daughter sat on her lap during the questioning. The court room was deadly still save for the accused mother's sobs and the comforting words of her daughter.

Mrs. Noffinger testified her husband was brutal and had often made insulting remarks.

She admitted intimacy with Gibbons but blamed him.

Mrs. Noffinger broke down often and the taking of her testimony on direct examination had to be halted frequently. Ollie Gibbons was not in the court room, but protecting guardsmen were stationed about the place and a machinegun kept its watch in the hall.

During the testimony the state demanded that the child be taken from her mother's lap. She was removed sobbing.

Mrs. Noffinger declared she had not contemplated threats against Noffinger's life. She categorically denied any part in the killing, but admitted Gibbons had informed her of his intentions.

The program for the 4th grade will be given at the First Baptist Church, and the presentation of diplomas by A. C. Adams.

WOMAN SOBS OUT STORY OF HER LIFE IN NORTH MICHIGAN

(By International News Service)
HENDERSON, Ky., June 1.—Lurline Noffinger sobbed out the story of her life on the witness stand here today in an effort to prove that she is not guilty of complicity in the murder of her husband, Gus B. Noffinger, for which crime Ollie Gibbons received a life sentence in Edwille penitentiary.

May Hurry "Tiger Girl" to San Quentin at Once

(By International News Service)
EN ROUTE WITH MRS. PHILLIPS, June 1.—Arrested on the Phillips husband of the "Tiger woman," whom she blamed for her arrest and conviction, today boarded the train on which Clara Phillips is being returned to California, at Yuma, Ariz.

He attempted immediately to engage his wife in conversation, but was forestalled by Mrs. Phillips' guards, who said she would have to wait until later.

(By William Parker)
ABOARD SUNSET LIMITED WITH CLARA PHILLIPS AND GUARDS, June 1.—If Clara Phillips, convicted "harem murderer" of Albert Meadows goes to prison at San Quentin, Mrs. Rita Mae Jackson, her "baby sister," will ask Governor Richardson for permission to be with her in prison.

"I am two years younger than Clara, being 22 years old, but we have always been chums," said Mrs. Jackson today.

"Clara always has and always will be first in my thoughts, even before my own children," she said.

Mrs. Jackson told how she joined Mrs. Phillips when she escaped from the Los Angeles jail last Dec. 5.

"Several days before March 15 I received a letter from Mexico City, Mrs. Carson wrote saying Clara was ill and needed me. I left at once."

"Clara was surprised to see me, not knowing Carson had sent for me. Mrs. Carson said we must go to Mendocino, where she had no extradition treaty was in effect."

"I am a terrible man, a drunkard and a beast. There is no truth in the stories that there was a romance between Clara and Meadows. Under Sheriff Gene Biscaillet said today that while he had talked with Mrs. Carson about the murder of the crime."

"I wish you would state through the International News Service that no one of her guards is responsible for the propaganda in her favor which appears to have developed. We have treated Mrs. Phillips with every consideration due a woman, but no man's sympathy has been lavished upon her."

(By International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, June 1.—To avoid the carrying out of a plot to allow Mrs. Clara Phillips to escape from the custody of local officers, the "Tiger" at some point before it reaches the small town where it is headed for Long Angeles tonight and rushed to the county jail in a closed automobile under heavy guard. It was learned today.

By this method the officers will avoid the large crowd which is expected to gather at the Southern Pacific station to meet the train bearing Mrs. Phillips.

While these preparations were being made, quick moves were also being made by the district attorney's office to bring about action that will result in her being taken immediately to San Quentin penitentiary.

One of the most important steps to be taken today was when Chief Deputy District Attorney John Keren went to Judge McCormick's office and asked the judge to sign the commitment papers authorizing the immediate removal of Mrs. Phillips to San Quentin.

A decision by the judge to sign the papers would mean that Mrs. Phillips will be taken to the penitentiary after a 40 minute lay-over here tonight. Refusal of the judge to sign the papers will mean that she will be taken to San Quentin.

KNOWING LOS ANGELES' WITH CLARA PHILLIPS AND GUARDS

June 1.—"I still love Alphonse Phillips, but it was his fault that I was convicted of the murder of Albert Meadows, his fault and the perjured testimony of Peggy Caffee."

Prefacing her remarks with this paradoxical declaration of blame and devotion, Mrs. Clara Phillips today outlined definite and bitter testimony in information on which she expects to be acquitted, if granted a new trial.

Mrs. Phillips, too, took issue with Madeline Obenchain on several points which have developed since Mrs. Phillips escaped from the Los Angeles county jail December 5, last year and fled to Tequisquitan, Honduras, where she was arrested.

The specific points concerning Mrs. Obenchain are these:

During Mrs. Phillips' trial, she appeared one day with a big black hat which was recognized by the reporters as being one of Mrs. Obenchain's hats.

During the course of an extended interview with the International News Service correspondent, she before she was freed last December of the charge of having murdered J. Belmont Kennedy, Mrs. Obenchain was asked to explain the hat incident.

This was what she said:

"I did not know Mrs. Phillips had my hat until she returned to the jail then she (Mrs. Phillips) said to me, 'Oh, Mrs. Obenchain, I believe I have one of your hats.' Mrs. Phillips then she was down in the matron's room, before going to court and the matron picked up a hat and told her to put it on, saying that she did not know whose hat it was."

Mrs. Phillips, in talking today to the same correspondent, who interviewed Mrs. Obenchain, told a different story.

"Mrs. Obenchain and I occupied adjoining cells. I did not have a big hat which would hide my features so Mrs. Obenchain brought in one of her hats, a big black one, and when I saw this, I knew it was hers. I happened to wear Mrs. Obenchain's hat."

The second point on which Mrs. Phillips takes issue with Mrs. Obenchain concerns an incident more recent in the public mind. Not long ago a young man, named Harry Carlton, turned over to the sheriff's office a package containing articles which he said Mrs. Obenchain gave him and which, he said, she told him to "keep until she called or sent for them."

In the package was a pink silk night gown, a frame from which a photograph had been taken and a number of other articles. The sheriff's office identified these articles as having been the property of Clara Phillips.

Subsequently Mrs. Obenchain was called to the district attorney's office and made a statement in which she said she did not know to whom the articles belonged, that they must have been picked with hers by mistake, and that she had given them to her with no thought in mind of disposing of them.

Questioned regarding the incident, Mrs. Phillips today said:

"Yes, those were my things, the night gown and the frame. I was in the room in which my husband's picture was removed, and the toilet articles. Mrs. Obenchain knew they were mine when she took them from me, but the circumstances of the matter, I do not care to state just now. That is a matter I would prefer to discuss first with a lawyer."

"Mrs. Obenchain's name has been constantly connected with mine," she added, "because I escaped, so soon after she was released. All this talk is unfounded and unjust to Mrs. Obenchain. She knew nothing about my escape and had no part in it. My escape from the Los Angeles county jail was due entirely to John Carson. There was no inside or other assistance. He worked entirely alone."

"Albert Meadows would be alive today but for Peggy Caffee. Peggy bought the hammer which ended Albert's life. Peggy had heard reports that her husband was running around with a woman at Long Beach and she bought the hammer for her own use in case of necessity. I wanted to prove this at my trial but my attorney would not let me. My whole trouble has been that I was ill advised."

RADICAL POLITICIANS MEET IN RAIL PARLEY

The present valuation of the U. S. railroads, fixed by the U. S. C. for rate fixing purposes, is under fire in Chicago, where progressives and "radicals" have gathered to discuss the rail problem.

"When we talk of the car on the hill I asked Albert if it was true that she had been going around with my husband. At first she denied it but finally admitted it."

"Then I suggested we go and ask our husband about it. We turned to go when Peggy stepped up and said: 'You are not going to let her get away with this easy, are you, Clara?'"

"Albert exclaimed, 'You shouldn't! I don't know her.' This remark infuriated me. 'You dirty dog,' I said, 'how can any human being be so low?'"

"When she struck me in the face, I struck her and in a moment we were struggling on the ground. She was trying to get the hammer and I could not stand the pain and I called to Peggy for help. Peggy came running with the hammer and began hitting Albert on the head."

"That is the truth of how Albert was killed, and that is the story I'm going to tell if I ever get the chance to go on the witness stand, and Alphonse Phillips has got to tell the truth."

Questioned regarding the incident, Mrs. Phillips today said:

"Yes, those were my things, the night gown and the frame. I was in the room in which my husband's picture was removed, and the toilet articles. Questioned regarding the incident, Mrs. Phillips today said:

"Yes, those were my things, the night gown and the frame. I was in the room in which my husband's picture was removed, and the toilet articles. Mrs. Obenchain knew they were mine when she took them from me, but the circumstances of the matter, I do not care to state just now. That is a matter I would prefer to discuss first with a lawyer."

"Mrs. Obenchain's name has been constantly connected with mine," she added, "because I escaped, so soon after she was released. All this talk is unfounded and unjust to Mrs. Obenchain. She knew nothing about my escape and had no part in it. My escape from the Los Angeles county jail was due entirely to John Carson. There was no inside or other assistance. He worked entirely alone."

"Albert Meadows would be alive today but for Peggy Caffee. Peggy bought the hammer which ended Albert's life. Peggy had heard reports that her husband was running around with a woman at Long Beach and she bought the hammer for her own use in case of necessity. I wanted to prove this at my trial but my attorney would not let me. My whole trouble has been that I was ill advised."

"Here is what happened that fatal day."

"When we talk of the car on the hill I asked Albert if it was true that she had been going around with my husband. At first she denied it but finally admitted it."

"Then I suggested we go and ask our husband about it. We turned to go when Peggy stepped up and said: 'You are not going to let her get away with this easy, are you, Clara?'"

"Albert exclaimed, 'You shouldn't! I don't know her.' This remark infuriated me. 'You dirty dog,' I said, 'how can any human being be so low?'"

"When she struck me in the face, I struck her and in a moment we were struggling on the ground. She was trying to get the hammer and I could not stand the pain and I called to Peggy for help. Peggy came running with the hammer and began hitting Albert on the head."

"That is the truth of how Albert was killed, and that is the story I'm going to tell if I ever get the chance to go on the witness stand, and Alphonse Phillips has got to tell the truth."

RAILWAY MERGER BACK TO CONGRESS

(By George R. Holmes)

(N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The question of whether two great competing railroads be allowed to consolidate will have to be referred to congress again for decision, according to the views expressed here today by legal authorities.

The Sherman anti-trust laws say they shall not merge as to do so tends towards monopoly.

The transport act of 1920, the storm center of a dozen controversies says they may do so with the permission of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and in some instances they already have done so.

The supreme court already is on record as upholding both the Sherman law and the transportation act in many cities, but never has ruled specifically on the apparent conflict between the two statutes.

Holding Southern Pacific control of Central Pacific was in violation of the Sherman law, the supreme court ordered the Southern Pacific to "divest" itself of control of the Central Pacific. The action began in St. Paul yesterday by the government, is designed to get a clarification of the "mess."

Miss Gladys Lapsley, who was riding with Cramer at the time of the shooting, escaped injury by dropping to the bottom of the car.

According to Cramer, he and Miss Lapsley were turning into Picot street to go to the young lady's home when two bandits came alongside their machine and demanded they get in their hands. Instead, Cramer said, he opened the gasoline throttle and sped down the street, the bandits in pursuit, firing at the fleeing car.

One shot from the bandits struck Cramer in the right arm, wounding him painfully. At East Adams street the bandit car overhauled their victim and forced them into the curb. However, the bandits fled when near by residents came to Cramer's rescue.

56 PERMITS ISSUED LAST MONTH

Fifty-six permits, representing a valuation of $137,420 in Anaheim's showing in new buildings during May. This brings the total for the first five months of the year to more than 250 and the valuation to more than $1,102,000.

While the total in May fell behind that of April, which happened to include several buildings of considerable size, it represents a large variety of small construction, especially houses. There were only two items representing a valuation of $10,000 or more—an $18,000 residence by J. J. Snyder at 293 South West-st and a store by C. Preszel at 236 West Center-st, $10,000.

In 1922 there were 214 permits in the first four months with a valuation of $554,130.50; 1921—139 permits with $375,550; 1920—104 with $175,100.

For the entire year 1920 the total valuation was only $79,950 and for 1919 only $165,500.

In April, 1922, the April valuation was only $200,111.50; in 1921, only $65,200; in 1920, only $28,100.

This new Anaheim product is being shipped east by water at 35 cents per hundred contrasted to $1.50 for fruit in refrigerator cars, besides loading charges.

The contrast is all the more marked when it is pointed out that one carton of 24 bottles of Valna contains the juice from four boxes of 150-sz oranges.

One bottle of Valna, costing 80 cents, contains the juice of two dozen oranges which retail for 60 cents per dozen in Los Angeles.

ONLY THREE POINTS SETTLED ON SOVIET

MOSCOW, June 1.—Only three of the numerous points in the dispute between Great Britain and Soviet Russia are regarded as settled by the British foreign office. It was learned today.

Of the points still at issue, the question of Bolshevik propaganda in Asia is the most serious.

Soviet officials declared the latest British note must be regarded as supporting the original British ultimatum, "which leaves the situation still difficult."

Lord Curzon British foreign secretary, in his note of last week, demanded that the soviet refuse funds to any organization "aiming to destroy institutions in Asia, where the British are in control."

The British claim the three main seats of Soviet propaganda in Asia are Persia, India and Afghanistan.

CAPTURED OFFICER EXTENDS VACATION

MANTILA, June 1.—Despite his hardships of being a captive of Chinese bandits, Major Richard W. Blagden is not unkind of military regulations.

Today the department of the Philippines, to which he is attached, received a letter from him requesting an extension of his "detached service" leave, explaining he was unable to complete his tour in the expected time because of "unforeseen circumstances."

His request will be granted.

Lieutenant Edgar Jarman of the thirty-first infantry, also received a letter from the army surgeon, in which said:

"While I expected to write you of my travels, I hardly expected to do so from the summit of a bandit mountain. Here I am at last after two weeks' hard marching through mountains. We covered at least 75 miles due to us roundabout way, but we can't be more than 20 miles from where the train was derailed or more than 15 miles from Tzau Chwang coal mines, where the relief train lies. There are but three of us—myself, Allen, Solomon and myself. The other 15 prisoners are two thirds of the way down the mountain in a raised Buddhist temple. I slept there one night myself on an old temple floor."

"At this stronghold are between 20 and 40 Chinese, natives taken some time ago and held for ransom. They say they have been here over a year. In one of the miserable huts I found 6 little children, thin and emaciated from disease. They appeared to be children of good Chinese families, but I am afraid they will die before they get out."

"I saw them play picture cards taken from cigarette packages and they seemed pleased in such a pitiful way."

He told of securing the release of his son and the son of Major Allen through appealing to the bandit chief who has four sons of his own.

NEW REPARATIONS OFFER EXPECTED

LONDON, June 1.—Chancellor of the Exchequer, according to Berlin advice today, is receiving reports from industrial emissaries of allied countries preparatory to a new reparations offer which is expected next week.

This offer is aimed to meet the views of the British cabinet. The Daily News, which printed a Paris report that "a Ruhr settlement is being reached," still maintains today there is ground for stating that such a settlement is in the process of arrangement.

The general impression is that if Germany makes an offer of 50 billion gold marks, France will seriously consider it.

It is understood Germany will propose that the inter-allied reparations commission appoint an international commission of experts to determine exactly how much Germany can pay, the manner of payments and guarantees. It is similar to the proposal made for a Ruhr settlement by Secretary of State Hughes last year.

PLACENTIA

PLACENTIA, June 1.—(Special) Joseph Thayer has decided to build on the one vacant lot on Santa Fe Ave. It has not yet been made public just what kind of store will occupy this contemplated building.

Clayton Landreth has been working on the place.

The Fullerton office has a very fine equipment, which is seldom seen outside of a metropolitan and Dr. McEadden will be able to give his patients the benefit of this equipment at any time during the day. This is an advantage which one doctor working alone could not give his patients.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jerome and friends and relatives enjoyed a fine time at Long Beach on Wednesday. One of the prettiest of early summer parties was the luncheon given recently by Mr. J. P. Monroe.

The cozy home was a veritable tower with its baskets of coriander, shasta daisies and privet. Five prettily appointed tables were used for the three course luncheon served at one o'clock by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. H. P. Bender and Mrs. Sam Newman. The favors and table decorations were in the yellow and white color scheme which the different courses of the luncheon carrying out the same motif. During the early part of the morning Mrs. J. P. Another contribution has been added to the city's poetic home talent. And, as usual, it's all about the Anaheim police department. The author is not known, and it is not certain what reward would be given him if he were. The contribution was made on the desk of W. B. Moody, chief of police, when he was looking. Notwithstanding Moody is very much pleased with the presentation, since for once, the anonymous writer defends the police.

Here's to the Anaheim cops. The boys that patrol the street, Answering a thousand questions, And a smile for those they meet.

Week in, week out, on every shift They try to answer every call. But try as they might, they do not seem To satisfy them all.

They may be out after a murderer, Searching every building and lot, When some frantic person telephones "Come out at once, I've a cat to be shot."

CROKER WIDOW ON THE WITNESS STAND
(By Daniel O'Connell)

DUBLIN, June 1.—Mrs. Bula Croker, widow of Richard Croker, former mayor of New York, testified today in the will contest action brought by her late husband's children by a former maid.

Dressed in black with a heavy veil covering the upper part of her face, Mrs. Croker stood in a low voice, she said her people were Oklahoma farmers. She inherited her Indian blood through her mother.

The witness detailed her movements in an attempt to show she never lived at the place where the opposite side claimed she had resided as the apparent wife of Cur R. Malone.

Mrs. Croker denied she ever visited Northampton, Mass., where Mrs. Rachel Croker White, the intervenor, alleged she (Mrs. Croker) had married Malone.

Mrs. Croker recalled litigation at Palm Beach, Fla., after she had married the former New York chief. She testified that the name of Marjorie was never brought up during the proceedings, although names of her relatives and friends in that place were constantly mentioned, including that of Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma.

Other witnesses were race course acquaintances of the testator. They told of Croker's mental condition which, they declared, seemed normal.

TRANSPORT BOOZE THRU CITY STREETS

Will someone take the sheriff? The Anaheim cops have been transporting liquor.

But don't get excited. It was all in their line of work. The fact is, the police headquarters were moved today from the location on So. Los Angeles-st. to the new city hall on East Center-st. They had a quantity of intoxicated liquor, which had been taken in raids by themselves and the sheriff's force, and what were they to do with it?

They were to leave it there, and let the new occupants be subject to arrest for having liquor in their possession? They decided upon a more feasible plan. They emptied it all into the gutter except a small quantity in a can which the chief said was necessary to keep for evidence.

"They'll get us for transporting observed Officer Stump as he loaded the liquor into the car."

WELL KNOWN PAIR OFF TO SAN DIEGO ON HONEYMOON

ST. BONIFACE church was the scene of a simple wedding ceremony this morning at 10 o'clock when Miss Myrtle Sequine became the bride of Joseph Baum, Rev. P. Brown reading the impressive ceremony. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dietrich, sister and brother-in-law of the groom. They were the only guests at the ceremony.

The bride looked very attractive in a three piece suit of pale grey with hat to harmonize with which she wore grey hose and pumps. A corsage, bouquet of Cecil Bruner buds completed the costume. Mrs. Dietrich wore a dark blue georgette, heavily beaded and black hat.

The happy couple left immediately for San Diego where they will be on a honeymoon trip until Sunday. They will be guests this evening at an elaborate wedding dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Baum, brother and sister of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Baum were given a dinner last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dietrich on N. Clematis.

The groom has built a pretty bungalow on Pearl-st where they will be at home to their friends. Mr. Baum was formerly connected with the Holland Electric Co., but is now associated with the Schmidt Mink Co. Mr. Baum is in the realty business with his brother Frank Baum.

Final Club Social Event

Anaheim Elks members are reminded that they should notify Mrs. C. C. Smith or Mrs. Nellie Terry, president, of their required reservations for the luncheon which will be served in Elks clubhouse as the concluding feature of the club year's activities on next Monday at 1 o'clock. The reservations must be made not later than tomorrow (Saturday). Members having house guests or others, may arrange for their presence at the luncheon by calling either of the above named ladies.

The day will also be past president's day, and it is expected that the first president of the club, Mrs. Katherine Dyer, now of Long Beach, will be present. Other past presidents will also attend.

Visit Former Neighbor

Mrs. Mary Sutherland, Mrs. C. R. John, Mrs. Elan, Mrs. Elizabeth Moody and Mrs. E. J. Kester, of former Cypress resident, in the newly new house on El Portal.

Farwell to Friends

Fifty members of Calvary Baptist church went to Orange-co park yesterday evening in farwell gathering with Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Presnell, of Anaheim, but who will leave Saturday for Austin, Texas, to their home. A suspicious pot luck supper, with games after made enjoyable pastime and with regret the party broke up at the gate-closing hour.

The doctor who says people who can't do anything well should be chided is all wrong. People of that kind make good critics.

FIFTEEN LOCAL MAIDENS TO WED DURING MONTH

JUNE, the month of brides grooms and roses, was ushered in this morning with perfect weather, and during the month of June more than 15 Anaheim and vicinity girls who will leave the path of single blessedness and take on the duties of double happiness.

Almost every holiday celebrated during the year has, besides its original, its accompanying customs and superstitions, the Bridal day having the most picturesque characteristics. One of the pleasant things about it is that each bride may choose which customs she prefers to follow, for there seems to be oodles of them. Some one has said that every bride must have stopped a moment between the strains of Lohengrin and the first biscuits to get down a philosophy to her following train.

Teasing spilled salt over one's shoulder has many times averted a disaster and many a bride has declared that her life would not have been happy had she not carried a bit of salt in some part of her dress to the altar. If the bride turns her head while at the altar it is generally believed that she is looking for another husband and will soon have a second wedding.

Everyone knows she must wear something blue, something new, something old, something borrowed, something blue.

If a pair stands so far apart at the altar that the guests may see between them they will disagree in their wedded life. No bride should touch another's dress on her wedding day, for should she break one misfortune is bound to follow. Tears on this day are a lucky sign.

Happiness and the grey traveling suit have long been recognized and the couple whose relation rose to attend the wedding after being invited are to be cheered with blessing. There seems to be no special superstition for the groom, perhaps because his supreme happiness on the occasion would preclude any attention to a "sign".

And last, but not least, is the indication that the young girl who catches the bride's bouquet will be the next to wed, and the lucky one if all ways do interesting feature.

Four brother-in-laws of the club played cards in an adjoining room but made their presence known in time for refreshments. They were the Messrs. Goodson, Pember, Carle and Prescott.

FLOOD MENACE GROWS WORSE
ALL TIME

Menace of floods increases along American streams, in proportion to the development of cities, towns and rural districts along these waterways. Quite naturally, havoc is greater as the country along the rivers and creeks becomes built up and developed. The reasons, therefore for checking floods multiply proportionately as development proceeds.

It is becoming more and more apparent, to persons who thought fully consider the matter, that the only way to deal with the flood menace effectively is to establish scientific systems of flood control. It would be a great stroke of economy to institute betterments of this kind all over the country. The savings would more than offset the cost of installing flood protection systems.

The graduates are coming forth buoyant and ready and eager to conquer the world. Some of them will put back from the ships of conquest. Others will go forward. From these graduates the future generation will be recruited. For be it from any one to enter at or to be little that special training which students get in high schools and other institutions of higher education.

PROGRESS IS EVIDENCED IN SOUTHLAND

That Southern California is making gratifying progress is evident to the most casual observer. Building construction of a vast scale is in evidence all over this section. Not only are new residences being built by hundreds, but many substantial business blocks are being erected. New factories, too.

Development of this section is symmetrical. There is expansion of housing accommodations for homes and business. And there is corresponding development of manufacturing. Commercial enterprise, too, is forging ahead. Foreign and coastwise shipping from ports of this section reaches enormous tonnage, and is increasing steadily. Southern California, in a word, is an empire in and of itself, economically self-sufficient.

Petty pride, state jealousy or mercenary considerations should not stand in the way of that proposed damming of the Colorado River and development of power and irrigation systems. The benefits from this will be generally and generously distributed among the states and among the people of this section, that it should be the concern of everyone living in the Southwest to urge and to work for its early consummation.

HIGHWAY BETTERMENTS ARE PROJECTED

Permanent highway construction in California is to be given great impetus during the next two years, under legislation enacted by the last legislature. There is to be considerable new construction, and much mileage is to be repaired and reconstructed. This will put great stimulus into circulation and add to the general prosperity. It also will be of great material benefit to the state to have its highways improved.

California has made no better investment than in bettered highways. These have contributed greatly to the economic development of the commonwealth. Other improvements of this nature will add correspondingly to the benefits derivable from excellent roadways. The state should keep its highways in the best of condition. It is good business to do this. It is a profitable investment.

Corrupt practice by any one in authority, particularly any one who is charged with the enforcement of law, is depressing in the impression it creates as to the sincerity and untrustworthiness of human nature. It should be remembered, however, that defaulting on the part of men in authority is exceptional, not the rule. Faith should not be lost in all peace officers because a few are found wanting in the test of honor and straightforwardness.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

EDITORS ARE SAYING

IS LOVE DECADENT?
Berkeley (Cal.) Gazette

"A French writer named Gerard Hauer lamented that 'love is no longer what it once was' and 'ideal love is buried in the gloom of those long dead.'"

"A man may conquer a woman's love, says the writer, but he cannot keep it. 'Tenderness and lack of sympathy take the place of the grand passion, men and women today have but one aim, and that is to find entertainment and pleasure in great enough variety to prevent ennui. The real passion today is for luxurious living, and competition with it. The emotions are smothered. Life falls into an aimless, war, and man, in the struggle to live and attain luxury, loses the finer passion of love, and the women usually engage in a veritable fight for a man who can guarantee the certainty of a comfortable existence.'"

All of which is very and indeed—if you believe it. Whether or not it is true in France, the ordinary moral American will not believe a word of it.

"The 'grand passion' died? Ask the young, to whom life and its pleasures are as strong as the ever, and something quite different from literary material. Human nature does not mind a year, or as age. Ask the old who have not lost the power to see life as it is. The writer's notion of an ideal life seems to be one in which people live without working and do not think the time to the art of love making. That has never been the ideal of any class of society. Millions of men nowadays as for a life that is quite possible to live, and it is not at all the same time living and at the same time loving in life, enduring human love. As for women, he couldn't have been more completely wrong. If he tried. The ability and freedom to save their economic independence is now in their hands. They are having to marry for a mere living, as they used to.

CONVICT-LEASE OURAGES
New York Evening Post

Shocked by an atrocious tale of torture and death, Gov. Hildner of Florida has asked for abolition of the system of farming out county convicts to private contractors, and the legislature is reported ready to hurry the measure through. The state has little excuse for failing to take this step years ago for the abuses have long been common knowledge. Only one southern state, Alabama, still allows the private lease of state convicts, but the evils of county leases are equally great. Southern history for a generation has shown that cruelty and murder are not occasional, but inevitable concomitants of the convict lease system. State or county, Governor Doherty, of Arkansas, in his campaign against the county lease system a decade and collected instances of convicts beaten to death or shot by overzealous and dozens of examples of outrageous sentences imposed for trivial offenses in order that the county and the contractors might have more labor to sell. Sentences of years were meted out for petty larceny; negroes were convicted practically for life for stealing a few quarts of whiskey, and one case of a white boy flogged to death for taking his sick bed to die in the arms of his mother. The parallelism of the Florida case and Michigan and Delaware among the Northern states allow county convicts to be farmed out, and the evils there are also palpable.

Abuse of prisoners is common enough even when regarded the state officers are charged with their care. When they are formed into slave camps and put in the hands of employers who gauge by the amount of labor they shall perform, the food they shall get, and the most of their lives are suffered, worked and beaten. The movement to give convicts outdoor work is sound, but whether it be on the highways or farms, it should be done for the public authorities and under their oversight. The aim, moreover, should be working for the convict, not working the convict.

WHEN I WAS ONE-AND-TWENTY.

When I was one-and-twenty
I heard a wise man say
"Give crowns and pounds

But not your heart away;
Give pearls away and rubies,
But keep your fancy free."
But I was one-and-twenty,
No use to talk to me.

NEW YORK LETTER

(By LUCY JEANNE PRICE)

Bernard Tansey is only seventeen but he knows what it means to be a hero. It was revealed in court the other day that he had pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and robbery in order that his older brother—the guilty one—might go free. The other brother has confessed, however, and Bernard will not serve his sentence.

"For Value Received," a new play at the Longacre by Ethel Clayton, has in it some of the best acting we have seen this season. "And, Mansford and Augustin Duncan make" this story of a girl who "sold herself" a very real and poignant thing, and would make the play quite worth seeing even if it were not as well written as it is.

It is a well-trained pup that guards Irene Castle these days. Always as he trots at her side or lies at her feet, he keeps his guarding eyes on one spot—the band of pearland diamonds which the dancer is wearing on her left ankle. It makes no difference where she is or how honest the appearance of those about her, the chocolate colored Pomeranian never takes his eyes off that ankle.

"Can you kill a cow with kindness?" That's what the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals wants to know. Six hundred inventors have submitted models and drawings for the society's $10,000 prize contest for the best device which will slaughter the cows in the most humane manner.

A LITTLE TALK ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

It is unfortunate that many persons look on thrift merely as a miserly attitude toward life.

It is deplorable that this false and harmful conception of thrift is often given encouragement by those who listen well but who are unaware of the ill-effects of such teachings.

It is well to bear these thoughts in mind, particularly at this time when one hears occasional references to a "boy's strike." Ruskin's famous analysis of economy is apropos. "Economy no more means saving money," he wrote, "than it means the spending of money; it means administration of abstinence; its stewardship; spending or saving; whether money or time, or anything else, to the best possible advantage."

This is advice that can well be taken at this time. Economy is always advisable, but only harmful effects can result from a system of economy that merges into miserliness.

The question of "correct spending" as well as correct saving is of far-reaching importance because, while the distinction of waste and extravagance are always desirable, the general cutting down of legitimate expenditures to the point where the general business of the country would be adversely affected, the wheels of industry stopped and unemployment precipitated would, most assuredly, be a false example of thrift.

Ruskin's analysis correctly places as much importance on correct spending as on correct saving. Success and progress are not the results of penurious practices.

True thrift its progress. Hence those who are truly thrifty keep business on the go because they spend wisely as well as saving carefully. The money which comes into their hands does not lie dormant; neither does it go for purposes that are not uplifting.

Through the careful administration of the thousands of our thrifty people money is kept flowing through channels that mean national progress as well as individual development.

-HERE AND THERE-

Correct this stanza: "I enjoy going out with Mrs. Jones," said the wife, "because she wears so much finer clothes than mine."

Perhaps, after all, the easiest way to save your pride is to tell the kid that you haven't time to tell him with his algebra.

Many of our troubles may begin with the stomach lining, as that doctor says but more of them begin with the brain lining.

THE BLOSSOMS
Fair pledges of a fruitful tree,
Why do ye fall so fast?
Your date is not so past
But you may lay here yet a while
To blush and gently smile.

And go to last.
What were ye born to do
An hour or half's delight,
And so to bid good night?

The city Nature brought ye forth,
Merry to show your worth,
And lose your quite.

But you are lovely leaves, where
We may read how soon things have
Their end, though never so brave;
And, seeing, they have shown their pride
Like you a while, they glide
Into the grave.

INCREASE RECORDS OF IDENTIFICATION

In spite of the careful selection of cases such as felonies and high misdemeanors and exclusion of vagrancy cases unless the persons involved were suspected of felonies, the number of identification records made by Deputy Sheriff Herman Zabel continues to exceed those of corresponding periods last year.

Between July 1, 1922, and 11 a. m. today, 728 records were made, compared with 713 between July 1, 1921 and June 30, 1922. With an average of say 60 per month, the total for the year ending June 30, will be close to 800 and may go over that number.

Similarly, but to a less extent, the records made during the first five months of this year amounts to 324 against 321 last year.

The lack of help in the Sheriff's office has been an important factor in cutting down the volume of records made.

No county in the State now can identify a suspect more quickly or thoroughly than Orange County, unless it is a matter of communicating with the State Bureau of Identification at Sacramento, and then the only time lost is in communication itself.

New Screen Celebrity In Romantic Mystery

The girl who was honored as understudy for Mary Pickford will be formally presented in a drama of romance and mystery, set in the fascinating Greenwich Village of New York City, at the United Theater, beginning tonight.

Manager Murray says that he has a "winner" in this attraction, and that the sensation caused by the reports of the discovery of this new star and the publication of her portraits in the newspapers will be nothing compared with the thrill that the film fans will get when they see Louise Du Pre on the screen. He says that she is positively exquisite and a worthy pupil of the master.

Entirely aside from the attraction that the new star herself holds to satisfy the curiosity of the public, the picture is an absorbing story of a wait of the tenements that is taken into the artists' colors as a model where Fate is both kind and unkind to her. How she inspires a great masterpiece, that is the means to fame and fortune for the artist and the entering wedge into society for

FALSE TEETH MAY
COST CRIQUI BOUT(By Davis J. Walsh)
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, June 1.—Casting a hint of honest doubt on an issue that was supposed to be fore-ordained, such eminent minds as Johnny Condon and Philadelphia Jack O'Brien today declined to string along with the common impression that Johnny Kilbane is certain to knock Eugene Criqui up down at the Polo Grounds tomorrow.

They granted that Kilbane is a marvel of speed and hitting ability. They granted that he is very well. Kilbane should win, but neither conceded that Criqui is the push-over that prevalent opinion would have him.

"He is fast a good boxer and very smart," declared Condon, who has seen the French challenger in action many times. "The funny thing about Criqui is that he has become very efficient and tough within the last two years. I am sure he did not knock him out in spite of the records. The Frenchman was hit low and could not continue, but the referee refused to allow a claim of foul."

"Of course, Criqui is easy to hit, but he is the cleanest hitter in the game today with the possible exception of Benny Leonard, but there is no getting around the fact that Criqui is an extremely dangerous puncher and very fast in the ring. It ought to be a great fight."

"Condon was then asked whether the false teeth the Frenchman is forced to use did not militate against punch absorbing and he conceded that this was not at all unlikely, since clenching of teeth formed the best resistance against a punch and Criqui's, of necessity, were rather loose."

Tagging all the Bases

The Tanks stepped out to a 7-1 game lead in the so-called American League race by taking a fall out of the Red Sox 5 to 1.

Every member of the Browns hit safely and the trouble-torn team was down to defeat 3 to 5. Severely got five hits in five times up.

Home runs by Menzel, Grob and Kelly proved of great aid to the left hand of Jack Bentley, in pitching the Giants to a 4 to 1 decision over the Phillies.

Aided by Speaker's homer with one on, in the sixth, the White Sox finished second to the Indians by a score of 5 to 4. The Indians moved into second place.

KILBANE VICTIM
PLANS COMEBACK

Alvie Miller.

Johnny Kilbane's ability to round into perfect form for his battle with Eugene Criqui after over a decade as champion has aroused in Alvie Miller's breast the hope that he can return to his old-time form and once more get into the fight game—perhaps to get a crack at Kilbane or his conqueror when the latter falls.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 1.—Joe Gorman fought a ten-round draw with Bud Ridley in the headline event of the boxing show here last night. Ice Will Save Your Dough

WE'RE speaking in terms of cookery first of all. Left-over pieces of dough may be kept, closely covered, in the refrigerator. Then you have the dough on hand for the pie you want to make in a hurry—or it can be made as one of those "day before" time savers.

From the slang standpoint, "dough" is saved every day in the year for those wise enough to use the year 'round. Because ice always pays for itself many times over. A telephone call brings prompt delivery.
