Truck Driver Plunges 40 Feet From Road Into Canyon Near Laguna Beach; May Die

HEAVY MOTOR FORCED OFF HIGHWAY

Sinks in Soft Earth and Topples Over With Disastrous Results

La Vern Keller who lives on California-st., Huntington Beach, was brot to the Anaheim sanitarium this afternoon in a Seale ambulance suffering from the results of an accident about one mile from Laguna Beach. He was driving a 40-barrel oil truck and turned off the pavement to avoid striking another car, sank down in the mud, turned over and tumbled 40 feet into the canyon.

He was taken to the emergency hospital at Laguna Beach, and then transferred to the Anaheim sanitarium.

Examined this afternoon by local physicians, it is said that he suffered internal injuries which may terminate seriously.

He was driving for the John E. Wagner Oil Truck Co. of Placentia. He has a wife and two children at Huntington Beach.

HATCH CHILDREN WITH "GRANDMA"

The two Hatch children, much improved after several days at the county hospital where they were taken for alleged mistreatment by their father, Floyd E. Hatch, and "step-mother," Mrs. Robert Phares, were left with grandmother, Mrs. A. Simmond today. The grandparents came after them late yesterday. Both children were greatly tickled to go with "grandma" tho the boy shed a few tears because his father was in jail.

A second charge involving a serious offense growing out of the alleged "love nest," was placed against Hatch and the woman today.

The good food and fine care at the hospital have transformed the children, nurses said.

Amateur Swallower of Swords Failure

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—Jacob Sienke was in a serious condition in a hospital here today, because he believed he could be a sword swallower.

He got the idea from seeing a vaudeville performer swallow swords without apparent evil effect. He bought six butcher knives in a five and ten-cent store and essayed to swallow them, one by one.

One was enough. It stuck.

"I'll bet there's a trick to it," Sienke wrote on a pad of paper for one of the hospital nurses today.

GRAB STILLS AT SCHONTZ RESIDENCE

A long wait for verification of rumors that C. Schontz, residing west of Anaheim, was concerned in illicit liquor traffic, had been rewarded today, according to Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff Ed McClelland, who led a raid by officers against Schontz' home late yesterday.

Two stills, twelve barrels of mash and a large quantity of alleged liquor were captured by the officers, they said. Schontz was brought to jail and his imprisonment before Justice J. B. Cox on a charge of having liquor in his possession was expected to be held this afternoon.

HOLD TWO MEN AS BURGLAR SUSPECTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 30.—Arrested on telegraphic information that they were wanted in Los Angeles on charges of grand larceny and robbery, Frank Trombley alias Leroy, 34, and Leslie Laird, 24, were identified today, according to police, as bandits wanted here for the robbery of two oil stations and a shore store.

MORE WELLS WILL START IN WEST

Report Ventura Oil Co. Will Spud in Near Cypress Shortly

That the Ventura Oil Co., one of the livest of the smaller concerns, would drill within 30 days at a point approximately a mile and one half north of the Gaddie well off Lincoln-ave., below Cypress, was the declaration today of an Anaheimer who is active in another group of promoters.

The company, according to his information, has obtained lease of some 100 acres.

Seven hundred acres also have been leased by a group of Angelenos whose identity is not disclosed and they also are expected to drill before long, according to the Anaheimer.

In addition, a number of people are purchasing acreage outright south of Lincoln-blvd., in the direction of Stanton with the intention of drilling.

A local company now is being organized—the papers having been already prepared and some of the funds pledged—to deal in leases, drill, etc. in Cypress. Much land already has been leased and more is being sought.

Turning toward the vicinity of Brookhurst, one reason why no more land is being leased, according to an Anaheimer who has himself leased 10 acres, is that all the land already is under lease about Brookhurst Well No. 1.

To a less extent the same thing is true of the Coast Land Co.'s well near Broadway and Euclid ave.

Smuggling of Aliens to U. S. Second Only to Bootlegging

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Smuggling of aliens into the United States has now reached the proportions of an organized illicit industry second only to the bootlegging of liquor, Secretary of Labor Davis declared today.

"Conditions are such as to challenge the immediate attention of Congress," he said.

"With the great expanse of unprotected seacoast and land border and the lack of sufficient officers to cope with the situation, the smugglers experience little difficulty in plying their trade."

Reliable information has been received by Secretary Davis to the effect that there are now in existence numerous far-reaching organizations that take the alien from his home in Europe, arrange for his entrance into Cuba, Canada or Mexico, and later conduct him by various underground routes into the United States, all for a fixed price.

"It must not be understood that no effort is being made to check this illegal practice," the secretary said. "To the very limit of its ability the immigration service has sought out and deported those unlawfully here. And in a great many cases convictions have been obtained against those responsible for the illegal entry."

At her death, according to the will, the estate shall be equally divided among the couple's three children, Raymond Nebelung, 32, Elsie P. Skinner, 36, both of Anaheim, and Violet Cantwell, 34, of Los Angeles. A proviso requires that should the widow re-marry, half of the estate shall immediately be distributed among the children.

ASK 50 MORE WORKERS IN CAMPAIGN

Mass Meeting for German Relief at High School Largely Attended

An appeal was made last night at the mass meeting at the high school auditorium in behalf of the German relief drive for 50 additional workers for the remainder of this week. Anaheim's quota is $3,000, and little trouble is anticipated in "going over the top" if sufficient workers can be obtained. A large number of volunteer workers went forward at the call, and a great many more gave names and addresses to those at the door who were seeking workers. A large crowd was present.

The program opened with a short talk by Rev. A. G. H. Bode who was chosen chairman. He characterized the drive as "the finest thing ever done in Anaheim." The audience sang "America," and there were vocal selections by Madame Beatrice Sapiro, accompanied by Rev. Bode. The selections included: "As My Dear Mother Taught Her Children Singing" and "In Patience."

G. L. Junge, of Los Angeles, delivered an apology for the absent speakers, saying that Ned Dow was unable to attend because of a previous engagement which he could not break, and that Rev. J. A. Francis of the First Presbyterian church, of Los Angeles, was ill. Both McAdoo and Francis sent regrets. Francis said his church had contributed $3,321 to the work.

A brief address was delivered by Richard Sterling, dramatic critic of Los Angeles, who told of the dreadful condition of the starving children of Germany, describing the various stages thru which a starving child passes before it is claimed by death, and that what we are burning to help relieve them. He appealed to the love of God in the hearts of his audience to help find closed with the energetic assertion: "We're going to start in right now, and dig!"

This was followed by a piano solo by Miss Anemone Siegel and two solos by Madame Sapiro, accompanied by Rev. Bode at the organ. In the singing of the last solo, which was "Springtime," Fred Siegel played the flute.

Dr. J. A. Geisinger of the White Temple was then called upon to make an impromptu address, and he responded, saying that he did not expect to be on the program, but that he simply came over to give a Methodist "amen" to the work. He said that he was not ashamed of his German name, nor the German blood in his veins, but that he was proud to be an American of German ancestry. He told thru all the wars since the Revolutionary war. He affirmed that Anaheim would not be found wanting in the campaign for the relief of German children, speaking of it as "this great cause which has the bugling and sympathy of the entire American people." In told the story of a four-year-old Mexican girl who died during the war as an example of the spirit that should characterize it. The little girl he said, had prayed for everyone she could think of, and then she looked at her mother and asked: "May I pray for the German children, too?" Her mother told her yes, that the German children were not responsible for the war. She then prayed "that God would bless the children of Germany, and fell asleep. Never to awake again here.

The principal speaker of the evening was Dr. C. M. Thomas, Colonization agent of the M. E. Mexico, who said that in other years he had traveled extensively in Europe, and that since many things had been said about the people of Europe that are not true, he was going to say some good things about them. He said that wherever you travel in Europe there are three things that will strike you in the face. They are kind, honest and thrifty.

But while this is true of all Europe, he said that there were three additional things in Germany that impressed him—the German's love of education, his

CLAIMS HUSBAND THREATENED HER

Sensational charges that her husband threatened her life were contained today in a divorce complaint filed by Mrs. Ree J. Laird, of Placentia, against Archie J. Laird.

The attempt at violence occurred, according to Mrs. Laird, on the day the couple separated, May 1, 1923. Mrs. Laird had gone to the home of her sister at Placentia, and her husband followed her there.

At first, she alleged, he tried to climb in her bedroom window and, failing, he called to her to come out, that he was ill, she said.

Her brother-in-law went to the door and saw Laird, it was said, lying prone outside, with a pistol leveled at the door. Questioned by the brother-in-law, he was said to have declared that he had swallowed carbolic acid and that he intended to kill his wife also.

Laird, according to his wife, was in the habit of cursing and striking her at various times during their married life. He also falsely accused her of associations with other men, she said, and objected to her visits to the beaches with her sister and children while he was at work.

The couple were married at Huntsville, Arkansas, June 20, 1913, and have two daughters, aged 5 and 2. Mrs. Laird seeks custody of the children.

FIRST TEST VOTE UPON SCANDAL

Senate Again Plunged in Turmoil of Bitter Debate on Scandal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The senate late this afternoon, after hours of senational debate, decided that ex-secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall and Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby acted without authority and in violation of the law when they leased Teapot Dome and the Elk Hills naval reserves to H. F. Sinclair and E. L. Doheny.

This expression of the senate's opinion was obtained in the defeat of amendment to the Walsh resolution offered by Senator Lenroot which would have stricken from that resolution the words "Fall and Denby with acting illegally."

Instead of having his resolution state flatly that illegality existed, Lenroot would have stated that the leases were executed under circumstances which gave rise to serious question as to their legality.

Administration leaders contended the senate was incompetent to judge the legality of cabinet officers' action and insisted that it should be determined by the courts.

Insurgent Republicans joined with the Democrats in defeating Lenroot's amendments by a vote of 46 to 28.

This was the first test vote in the naval reserve lease scandal and presaged that the Walsh resolution itself would pass by a considerable majority later in the day.

Within an hour after it met today, the senate was again plunged into a turmoil of bitter debate over the oil leasing scandals—started when Senator Norris charged that the leasing of Teapot Dome and Elk Hills reserves to the Sinclair and Doheny interests were "made in utter disregard for law."

The executive order (issued by President Harding) transferring the reserves from the navy to the interior department was absolutely and completely without authority and in open defiance of the law," declared Norris while a packed chamber and thronged gallery hung on every word.

While Norris held the floor with a vitriolic attack on the legality of the acts of the Harding administration, other developments came fast.

Chief among these was action of the senate appropriations committee, composed of nine Republicans and six Democrats, in voting to withhold funds from President Coolidge the $100,000 he asked to pay Silas H. Strawn and Thomas W. Gregory as special counsel in the Teapot Dome case unless he consent the appointments to be confirmed by the senate.

The committee's action reflected a general feeling in the senate of "pique" against the president for having made his appointments whole the senate was still debating the resolutions granting him authority.

Senators attending the executive meeting were reported to have expressed their displeasure freely at what they considered the "president's slight" of the senate.

The action was unanimous, all the more surprising since its members include such staunch supporters of the administration as Senator Smoot of Utah, Lenroot, of Wisconsin and Curtis of Kansas.

The action was proposed by McKellar, Dem. of Tennessee.

Other developments were:

1—The senate Public Lands Committee declined to accept the word of the four physicians attending ex-secretary of the Interior, Albert B Fall, that his health is so precarious that he cannot appear before the committee.

ASK 50 MORE GERMAN RELIEF DRIVE WORKERS

love of music and his love for a home.

He said that Germany is a nation of students, that there is no other nation in the world so hungry for knowledge as this people so much attention to education. Her universities draw students from all parts of the world. And now this great people is starving is on the verge of crumbling, and if she crumbles, he said, there is no one to take her place. It would take 1000 years, he said, to build up Russia educationally as Germany is now.

He then directed his talk to the pitiful plight of the children, referring to the report of Maj. Gen. Henry G. Allen, who commanded the American troops on the Rhine, and to the report of Herbert Hoover. He said that it had been suggested that American loan Germany $70,000,000, but that this was made impossible by the Versailles treaty.

He referred also to the report of Miss Ruth Fry of the British Quaker relief work who said that conditions in no other country of Europe are so bad as in Germany. He said that the Quakers have charge of the distribution of the funds raised, and that 50 cents on the dollar will go to the children. He said they could feed one child a meal per day for two cents. He said that the children were in no way responsible for the war, but were the victims of circumstances. Seven million, he said, are starving and without decent clothing, and without shoes. He affirmed that America is the only nation that can save them, and said that he was sure the congregation would say with him: "We will not let those children starve."

He quoted Paul: "I thine enemy hunger, feed him," and Moses: "If thine enemy's ox fall into the ditch, pull him out," and Christ to the effect that if you would have forgiveness you must forgive. He said that the results of this drive would be of lasting value.

"In forty or fifty years from now when you and I have gone, those children, the men and women of that day, will say that when they were starving America came to their aid, and they will be the friends of the United States forever."

The last talk of the evening was by Dr. Harry T. Bogart, special representative of Maj. Gen. Allen, who appealed for more workers. The program was closed by singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

SHADY HATS FOR SOUTHLAND; TURBAN FOR THE NORTH

For the southern sun a shady hat is needed. The one on the left is extremely pretty and is unique in that it has a matching bag. Both are made of hand crocheted straw. Another charming model is shown on the right. It too is a shady hat and is artistically draped with a kerchief.

In the center is a chic little black satin turban made from ribbon. For those of us who have to endure Boreas' rude buffets in the north it is an ideal shape as it takes a good deal of breeze to displace it and it is undeniably smart looking. It may be worn with various costumes.

WARLIKE MOVES BY IRISH FREE STATE

BELFAST, Jan. 30. — Warlike preparations are being made by the Irish Free State along the Ulster border, according to information received here today.

The uneasiness is being increased by news of the forthcoming boundary conference in London Friday, because it is feared the new labor government will favor the Free State claims.

Commander Nixon of the Ulster constabulary, reports that the southern side of the Ulster free state line is bristling with artillery, airplanes and armored cars.

The unionist leaders have set up the cry "not one inch of Ulster soil shall be taken by the Free State."

ANAHEIM EAST-SIDE P T A BORN YESTERDAY

ORGANIZING the second Parent-Teacher Association in Anaheim was the feature of the meeting held yesterday in the Central school kindergarten. The need for an organization for the east-side mothers has been apparent for a long time, and the new society, launched with twenty-two new mothers and twelve transfers is most promising.

The name chosen is Anaheim East-side Parent-Teacher association and the officers are: president, Mrs. L. P. Cleary; vice president, Mrs. C. A. McCullah; secretary, Mrs. L. H. McGee; treasurer, Mrs O. W. Weaver; auditor, Mrs. Harry Spielman; historian, Mrs. E. Wagner. The meetings will be held the fourth Tuesday in each month. The constitution and other ruling will be very similar to those for the original association.

A very pleasing report was given by Miss Doy, school nurse, who finds the weight, health, efficiency and joy of the school children improved who have been drinking the portions of milk supplied each morning about ten o'clock. This plan was intended at first for undernourished children, but parents, realizing its good for all of them, were favorable to their children continuing "pin money" for milk, rather than for sweets. Then outside clubs began contributing money toward the milk fund and the result is most gratifying. Miss Dry's report was comprehensive and satisfactory in all lines of school health conditions.

The mothers were favored with two excellent talks yesterday, one by Mrs. Edmund Snow, president of Fourth District Parent-Teachers association and Mrs. Earl Mayer, of state educational work. Each talked of the benefits of the organizations, and impressed upon mothers the actual necessity of co-operation of home and school affairs. "It is our duty," said Mrs. Morris, "to keep in very close touch with the school life of our children."

Informal discussion of several topics closed the meeting after which a few moments in greetings and visiting were passed. As the business program was four, no entertainment was presented.

PETITION RELEASE OF LIEUT. GRIFFIS

BERLIN, Jan. 30. — Preparations were under way today for the release of Lieut. Cories H. Griffis, of Hamilton, O., who was sentenced to 21 months' imprisonment at Mosbach, Baden, on Dec. 21, for his part in an attempt to kidnap Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, rich American draft dodger.

Griffis was pardoned by the German government as a result of the powerful pressure of American public opinion in his favor.

News had been received by the foreign office that a monster petition bearing signatures of 2,000,000 persons was on its way to Berlin, requesting the liberation of the American officer.

It had been feared, however, that complications would arise over the counter-demand for the release of Frederick Bischoff, who was sentenced in America to 25 years' imprisonment for anti-American activities in wartime.

It was tacitly admitted in German official circles that the government "would do all in its power to meet the wishes of the American people."

Griffis, a former official of the American graves registration service and an official in the American Legion, with three companions attempted to kidnap Bergdoll in a Mosbach hotel last August. One man was shot to death in the struggle.

NEW DERRICKS AT HUNTINGTON BEACH

Huntington Beach is showing considerable new development, and with a little rise in crude, it is understood the old field will take on considerable new development. The Amalgamated has started two new wells on the Mobley-Keck property and the Standard has new rigs on the Surf and Thompson properties. The most important producer to come in this week at Huntington Beach was the Petroleum Midway's Brown No. 2, a 150-barrel well at 3700 feet. The Petroleum Co. has its Wilson No. 1 re-drilled, cleaned out, and back on production again at about 250 barrels.

Business of the automobile manufacturers, says a prognosticator, soon will be merely replacement. But the motor makers are not worrying, as they observe some drivers. — San Bernardino Sun.

Now Corey, who made his millions in steel in Pittsburgh, is winding up his affairs in this country preparatory to taking up permanent residence abroad and friends see in this a victory for Mabelle and a probable remarriage. EYES OF BASEBALL WORLD SOON WILL TURN TOWARD FLORIDA

Where nine big league clubs will train in Florida the coming spring, and a few bits of action that will thrill the thirty-third degree fan.

Florida will be the principal Mecca for an army of baseball players when they begin their annual pilgrimage south for training. For nine of the sixteen major league clubs will work out in that state and half a dozen minor league clubs will also unlimber there. And all nine of the big league clubs will be within a day's auto journey of each other as they toil. From St. Petersburg as a "base camp," so to speak, dyed in the wool fans can journey to any one of the camps by auto over paved roads. Six of the National League clubs chose Florida sites. The other two will gather in California, the Cubs on Catalina Island and the Pirates at Paso Robles. The five American clubs still visiting other southern states and their camp sites are the Tigers at Augusta, Ga.; Browns at Montgomery, Ala.; Red Sox at San Antonio, and Yankees at New Orleans, La.

FAMOUS ANGEL OF BROADWAY OPENS FIRST TOURIST CHURCH IN THE U. S

Rheba Crawford as the church goers know her and the novel method she has adopted of advertising her church in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Miss Rheba Crawford, former Salvation Army lassie, famous as "the Angel of Broadway," has established the first Tourist Church in the United States in St. Petersburg, Fla. She has set up a "big top" tent in the center of the shopping and business district and holds services in it for the winter visitors to "The Sunshine City." Her first service drew more persons than the tent could hold. Many were turned away.

Four years ago, the girl, then a Salvation Army lassie in St. Pete, held nightly meetings on a street corner there. Leaving that city Miss Crawford went to Atlanta to work on a newspaper. Then she received the call to New York and won considerable fame saving souls on the "great white way."

Members of St. Petersburg Carpenters' union devoted their Saturday half holiday to building the pulpit platform and seats for Miss Crawford's "temple."

Miss Crawford went to the Florida resort originally to rest. Then came the demand from her friends and organizations to open the tourist church.

AID FOR FARMER URGED BY PRESIDENT

Heed the message of President Coolidge—give quick relief to farmers of the Northwest and to banking institutions there: This is the immediate and pressing duty and responsibility which rests upon Congress. Without dallying or political maneuvering, something constructive should be done. This should be of a temporary nature, however. It should be done only to stabilize conditions in the agricultural belt, and to prevent closing of bank doors in the farm belt, which, if not stopped, might bring on widespread trouble.

The wheat farmers should be helped to tide over their disastrous crop year and to start in on a system of diversification. The aid given by the government should be distinctively co-operative. Farmers should be urged to help themselves by getting away from the one-crop method. This is sure to bring hard times, sooner or later, whatever the one crop may be. In diversification lies relief for the farmer. His own intelligence and initiative should point the way, and his good sense should impel him to follow the path of diversification.

Political activities throughout the country are marked. All political organizations are active. Presidential primaries give zest to the canvass. Candidacies must be brought into the open sooner than formerly. There must be, in reality, two companions—the campaign for delegates to the national conventions, and then the campaign for election

Taxation is easily the leading issue before Congress. It unquestionably is the main concern of the people, as to material things. Revision of taxation, to the relief of the people, is the bounden duty of this Congress.

TOURISTS FOR SUMMER TO BE NUMEROUS

Southern California is to have a great influx of summer tourists this year is the confident belief of high-up railroad authorities. The railroads sense these things in advance. They receive inquiries and they are given orders for reservations which give them fore knowledge of seasonal activities.

Word has gone forth from those who reside here and those who have been here in summer, that the summers here are delightful. The cool breezes of the seashore and of the mountains have made their lasting impression upon summer visitors who come from climes where sultriness reigns supreme. The number of summer tourists coming here is increasing with each succeeding season. Many come from neighboring states—Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah. The summers are severe in this great hinterland, and the cooling breezes and moderate temperatures of Southern California are especially attractive to residents of the interior of this great Southwest.

And from far states, many are coming to this delightful Southland to spend summer vacations. Meanwhile, it is well for promotional agencies here to stress upon outsiders the delightfulness and mildness of climate here four seasons of the year—winter, spring, summr and autumn.

The year 1924 should see the world moved far along on the road to permanent peace. The influence of America should go strongly for the compacting of the nations to prevent wars in future; to guarantee justice without resort to arms. There should be a safe, untangling formula for binding the nations together for the fostering of peace with justice. If this country can originate ways and means, well and good. Leadership of this kind would become the United States. Any well-digested move which would keep this nation out of the political entanglements of the old world should be acceptable to Americans.

There is no such thing as an unbreakable New Year's resolution. But there is such thing as the moral courage to keep a good resolution without breaking it.

DINNER STORIES

It was proposed to establish the honor system in a large eastern penitentiary. The matter was put up to the prisoners themselves, it being figured that they would know better than anyone whether they could play the game honorably. It was put to a vote.

"Sure, kid, four times."

Mrs. Jones was exceedingly annoyed by the repeated calls of a certain negro on her dusky cook.

"You told me," she protested to the cook, after one especially long call, "that you had no man friends. But this fellow is in the kitchen all of the time."

The dusky one wasn't offended. "Dat nigger, he hain't no friend o' mine," she declared scornfully. "Him, he's jes my 'usban'."

Mrs. Hostess admonished Hilda to be very careful in washing up the best tea things. A few minutes later she happened to overhear the servant girl soliloquizing while in the act of wiping the sugar basin: "If I was to drop this 'ere basin, and was to catch it, I s'pose I shouldn't catch it; but if I was to drop it, and was not to catch it, I reckon I should catch it."

A certain wealthy senator got into a dispute in Washington with a hotel clerk about a difference of $1.20 in his bill. After going into every angle of the supposed overcharge for more than an hour, the senator gloomily paid the bill and went his way. Just as he passed out of the front door a motor car tire out in front blew up with a loud report like a pistol shot.

The young hotel clerk clapped his hands to his brow melodramatically, and cried:

"Good night! The senator has shot himself."

SUPER-POWER DEFINED—Riverside (Calif.) Press

Electric industry in the United States has had a remarkable growth in every item of importance the past year. Greatly increased use of electrical power in industries and a wider application of electricity in the home is the cause.

Within the last few months the country has begun to hear of "Superpower." It is proposed that we burn coal in great central power stations (at the mouth of the mine itself, thus saving useless waste in transportation, useless loss in valuable by-products that amount to many million dollars annually, useless small-scale conversion into power in thousands of furnaces that now waste 80 per cent of the chemical energy in coal as heat. It is proposed, also, that we really begin to tap our vast resources of water power—now less than 10 per cent developed—hitching them into the great systems fed by burning coal. It is proposed to generate power at its sources and ship it along transmission lines at new voltages which engineers are beginning to comprehend, to interlock the country in a finely-woven copper net. That is super-power.

With electric power generated by a waterfall in Oregon you can light a reading lamp today in Yuma, Ariz. There is a great electric horseshoe in Michigan that links ten of the largest cities in that state; there is a super-power project under way in eastern section of Ohio; there is a power trunk line of 900 miles across the Appalachians that links North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia.

A super-power system already exists in the Northwest, stretching 1000 miles east and west with 5000 miles of transmission lines and a combined capacity of 500,000 horsepower. In California super-power has for some time been a reality. Every step in this direction means increased advantages to the consumer.

SPEED STUDENTS

When Mary leaves home for the college,
Where she is to be taught to think,
Where she is to gather up knowledge
As thirsty cows gather a drink.
Where she is to gather all human
Accomplishments, and to grow strong
With learning, this modern young woman
Takes her shining chummy along.
When Tom, Dick and Harry have left us
Alone in our desolate homes,
When they of their noise have bereft us
And gone off to burrow in tomes.
In college, to give up vacating
And wassail and spooning and song,
And get where the college is waiting,
They each have a flivver along.
They motor both to and from classes,
They motor for lunch, for a drink;
They motor abroad with their lassies,
They motor for pencils and ink;
They motor till one, two or three;
But the student who hasn't a flivver
The plodder—takes home the degree.

WHAT AUTHORITY HAVE BIBLE STUDENTS FOR DECLARING THAT MILLIONS NOW LIVING WILL NEVER DIE?

FULFILLED PROPHECY SETTLES THE FACT THAT BIBLE STUDENTS WERE RIGHT FORTY YEARS AGO WHEN THEY BEGAN TO PROCLAIM THAT IN 1914 A WORLD WAR WOULD BEGIN, AND THAT FAMINE, PESTILENCE, REVOLUTIONS AND DISTRESS OF NATIONS WOULD SPEEDILY FOLLOW. THEY BASED THIS UPON THE BIBLE. THEN THE MESSAGE RECEIVED SCANT ATTENTION; EVEN THE CLERGY SCOFFED AND RIDICULED. NOW THE FACTS COMPEL THEIR SILENCE. BIBLE STUDENTS ARE NOW PROCLAIMING THAT MILLIONS NOW LIVING WILL NEVER DIE, MEANING LITERALLY. ARE THEY RIGHT? WHAT AUTHORITY HAVE THEY FOR MAKING SUCH A STATEMENT?

THESE QUESTIONS WILL BE ANSWERED BY R. L. ROBIE, OF CHICAGO (LECTURING UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE I. B. S. A.) HE WILL EXPLAIN IN FULL, WHAT AUTHORITY BIBLE STUDENTS HAVE FOR DECLARING THAT MILLIONS NOW LIVING WILL NEVER DIE.

BEAUTY BATTLES AGE FOR $500,000

By B. V. STURDIVANT
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 20.—In Beauty battled with age today in the famous De Bouchelle-Candler heart balm suit for a half million dollars.

The scene was a U.S. district court, Asa Candler, aged multi-millionaire Coca-Cola king, played the role of age, while Mrs. Onelima DeBouchelle, noted society leader of New Orleans, took the part of beauty.

Breach of promise was the issue.

Mrs. De Bouchelle is seeking $500,000 for her broken heart as a result of the millionaire's failure to marry her. They were to have been united in the fall of 1921, according to her petition, when he ruptured all relations and declared the wedding was off.

"This was not until five days before the ceremony, she said. The guests had been invited, flowers ordered, the pastor had been engaged, her trousseau was completed —everything was ready but the bridegroom.

He broke the news in a letter, she said, which made an interview would be impossible. He spoke of scandal which had reached his ears—of a story to the effect that she had time last winter called men to her room while staying in an Atlanta hotel. He could never marry such a woman.

The New Orleans beauty stoutly denies these charges. She has brought a corps of friends from the Louisiana city who will, if necessary, testify to her good character. If necessary, also, they will tell of the Coca-Cola king's alleged ardent wooing and of completed arrangements for the wedding.

The real cause of the breach, according to Mrs. De Bouchelle, was opposition offered by the the Candler heirs. Candler himself had spoken of this to her, but expressed confidence that "everything would be all right," because of large sums of money given them.

The pending suit, however, failed to quench the defendant's matrimonial desires. Several months ago he was married to an Atlanta stenographer. She was a widow and had two children—twin girls. After a brief honeymoon the two returned to Atlanta and are now living in his mansion here.

The De Bouchelle-Candler romance started here in 1919, while the southern beauty was attending a reunion of confederate veterans as chaperone-general.

THE LITTLE RED WHEEL PERFORMS WONDERS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Romance of the Little Wonder Invention Makes Interesting Story for Press Readers

By E. B. MEACHAM

As I look back over the years of my life, and then attempt to visualize the future of the Lorain Oven Heat Regulator, I wonder just what would happen if all mothers, fathers, friends and employers realized the great responsibility that rests upon anyone who, in one way or another, commands the acts, thoughts and the time of other human beings.

Personally, I have never been able to make myself believe that any great amount of credit is due me for the invention of the Lorain Oven Heat Regulator. In fact I am positive that I am entitled only to a small share of the credit, the greater part being due to my mother and the circumstances that surrounded my boyhood days; to Dr. Andrew Ure, the inventor of the thermostat; and to my employers who so kindly gave me the opportunity necessary to develop and perfect my idea.

I was born and brought up on a farm near Norwalk, O., being the eldest child of a family of seven. There may be many men who will read this article who also were the eldest of large families in ordinary circumstances. Such readers need not be told that I was "hired girl" without pay, except for the great kindness and consideration of a loving mother and father.

Although my mother, like most women of her day who lived on farms, assisted with the farm work, and although she kept her house scrupulously clean, I believe the labor which took most of her time and which caused all ways to worry and wear her down was the cooking of three meals a day for that hungry family of seven.

And so I forgive and even praise my mother for teaching her eldest son at an early age how to cook and bake many simple, easily prepared dishes. And, frankly, I cannot say that I disliked the task. I believe that all men have much of the gambling spirit in them and cooking in those days was about 90 per cent gamble.

But mother never seemed to enjoy the gambling part of baking and getting meals. Knowing full well the limit of the family appetite, she got anything but a thrill from taking a chance on several loaves of bread or cakes in the oven of the old coal range that did so many strange things and always unexpectedly.

It bothered me the way mother would worry after she placed something in the oven. She'd fuss with the fire, turn dampers, peek into the oven, and actually be afraid to leave the kitchen, for more than a moment or two.

I remember particularly a time when we were harvesting. Sixteen big-bellied and broad-chested men working in the hot sun with the sweat trickling down their red faces were creating an appetite that would daunt the animal feeders of a three-ring circus.

Yet mother, working in the kitchen with little assistance, was in proportion to her strength, giving more of her energy than those 16 men. Mother was baking bread for those husky workers in addition to cooking the dinner—and the bread burned.

In the course of time I became an employe of the National Stove Co. division at Lorain, O., and as the years rolled by I gained promotion after promotion until finally I was entrusted with the responsible position of supt. of the factory.

At that time, 1913, the company was manufacturing automatic hot water heaters, as well as gas ranges, and I had been experimenting with various types of thermostats in order to get a basic idea from which I could develop one that would be superior to all others.

While sitting and pondering one day with a hot water thermometer in my hands I found my vision concentrated upon a new model of a gas range. Instantly, almost, and for no reason that I have ever been able to figure out, I recalled my promise to do something to keep mother's bread from burning—and immediately something within me told me that I had the answer in my hand.

Sitting there and thinking, I soon realized that there were many things to do before a thermostat could be made a commercial proposition as an attachment to a gas range.

Thermostats made for hot water heaters require only a narrow range of temperatures. If a thermostat was to be made for regulating cooking temperatures, it would be necessary to have a wide range of different heats. There was also the problem of application to the gas range, and that wasn't so simple as it sounds.

Then again, the device must be made as inexpensive as possible to a degree of accuracy. Also, it must be simple in construction and fool-proof in operation.

At this point of my story I must give credit to my employers. The idea was radical, to say the least, and there are many, many concerns both large and small that turn down everything that is "out of the ordinary beta" without the least investigation or consideration.

My employers, however, gave me every opportunity and assistance to develop my idea, and within a few weeks I had built a working model. Right here let me say that so carefully was the whole proposition planned, worked out and constructed that the regulator of today is practically identical with that early model.

In the very first tests, the temperature of the oven was found to register correctly with the figure indicated by the metal pointer on the regulator wheel—and a very accurate, high temperature thermometer was used in the test, too. But there must be something wrong, I thought. Women in engineering experimental work are not accustomed to hitting the nail on the head the very first tap.

So it was decided to make a practical endurance test and the job was given to my wife, Mrs. Meacham. For one and one-half years Mrs. Meacham experimented with that first regulator, and many unusual things occurred during that time because you see, like a hunter in an unexplored jungle, she had absolutely nothing to guide her.

But by trial after trial she learned the temperature at which certain dishes cooked best and also the lengths of time required to cook them in the oven. She was the first to use the alarm clock in connection with the regulator.

I remember one occurrence when some friends called at our home and detected the appetizing odor of bread being baked. The woman in the party soon suggested that they must not stay long because Mrs. Meacham undoubtedly wanted to watch her bread so it would not burn.

Mrs. Meacham looked at the clock and said, "Don't worry, the time is not up yet." The astonished visitor exclaimed, "Don't you watch your bread while it's baking?" "Not any more," Mrs. Meacham said. "You see, Mr. Meacham has placed a device on my stove that takes care of all that. I just put my bread in the oven, turn a small wheel until a hand points to a certain degree of temperature, which means that the oven is just as hot, and then I do what I please until time's up. I never have trouble any more with things being underdone, overdone or burned."

The visitor begged to see the stove, and upon seeing a practical demonstration, remarked, "I wonder if your husband could fix my stove that way. I think it's the most wonderful thing I've ever seen."

This remark fired my enthusiasm. Here, for the first time, was the expression of an outside opinion on the regulator—and from a woman, too—for it would be women who would buy and use and recommend such a device. You see, I didn't place a very high value in Mrs. Meacham's enthusiasm—all good wives consider it a duty to flatter and pay envelope half of the family.

But this friend of the family was really sincere in her desire to own a gas range equipped with a regulator, and right away I had a vision of what would happen if thousands of women all over the country gathered together and heard for the first time the wonders of this little device. But my vision, big as it seemed to me at that time, could not compare with what has actually happened.

And this is the story of the Lorain Oven Heat Regulator, named after the city of its birth. As one of the greatest benefits ever created to save time, work and worry for women, I feel that it owes its conception to a woman.

That it was given to a mere man to work out the details is a pleasant thought to me. And I believe all who read the story will agree that the world owes a practical debt to its mothers.

Who is Lorain?

The name of a modern kitchen magic, that cuts the hours of woman's toil; a fairy of science; ever ready, always willing to answer the turning of the little red wheel.

Rendering an actual service for mankind as wonderful as any adventure of Aladdin's lamp.

Accepted today in thousands and thousands of kitchens as the greatest labor saver ever invented for women.

With Lorain

No Oven Watching, No Bad Luck, No Failures

Every cook knows what it means to have to stand watch over her oven. Every cook, even the best cook, knows the meaning of "unlucky" results. Every cook knows how hard it is to duplicate each time the best bread or cake or pie she ever baked or the best dinner she ever served.

Fancy then owning a magic wheel that forever ends gas oven watching, forever finishes "unlucky" days from the kitchen and gives you such accuracy in cooking that you equal your very best results every time—perhaps even excel them.

The magic wheel does all this—the magic red wheel whose name is Lorain.

Good Cooking Made Easy

Lorain measures and controls gas oven heats. All you do is to put food into the gas oven and then when it is deliciously ready to serve, take it out.

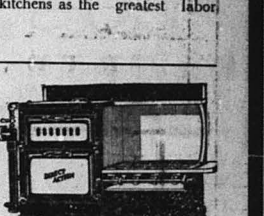

Bread, cake, pie—or an entire meal of meat, vegetables and dessert at one time —even canning of fruits and vegetables—all these are easy successes for the Lorain. And you need never look into your oven a single time while the food is cooking.

Wonderful—Yet Simple

Cooking experts praise Lorain as the greatest cooking discovery in many years, yet Lorain does not take an expert to use it. Anybody who cooks can understand a Lorain in two minutes.

But the time and the work Lorain saves and the joy it brings in better food and happier homes, why, that takes a book to tell facts. We want you to have a copy of the book about this magic red wheel. It's here waiting for you.

And Lorain makes men happy and contented; with perfectly cooked meals; foods with newer and delightful flavors; with, too, the smallest of GAS BILLS.

PARK LIGHTS ARE NEARLY COMPLETED

Will Cost Under $1000 to Move Grand Stand Says Steward

It will cost considerably less than $1000 to move the grandstand in the city park to a new site, according to City Manager O. E. Steward, even including the expense of abolishing the old plumbing connections and making the new ones.

This improvement is only one of several yet to be made. Another is the erection of two comfort stations, which will be advertised for on Feb. 14, according to Steward.

No cement walks will be laid in the park, but all will be real gravel walks, according to the city manager.

Within two weeks the laying of the conduits preparatory to completing the lighting system in the park will be finished.

All pools, etc., have been completed.

West of the plunge, the opening of which has been delayed by the failure of plumbing facilities to be completed, very little planting of shrubs will be done, at are some 45 stockholders, for two least for the present. This space wells have a combined capacity is to be used for athletic grounds of approximately 300 miners' and naturally can't be refined very much.

Building Permits Aggregate $176,000

Valuation of building permits today had risen to $176,467, with the likelihood of several thousands more being added today and tomorrow, when the month closes. Homes, homes and more homes, together with additions, improvements and outlying buildings such as garages, feature the January permits.

The total mentioned compares with $143,482 in December.

CONTROVERSY IN WATER CO. ENDED

The affairs of the West Anaheim Water Co. now are in smooth condition again, and another successful year appears to be in store, with the granting of a permit by the state corporation commissioner to sell 150 shares of the new issue of stock at $10 per share. The controversy was over the question whether the company had the right to issue the stock without the authorization of the state railroad commission, and the attorney-general some time ago decided that it had this right.

The other 34 shares are being held in the treasury.

The stock was issued to pay for a well, put down three years ago, and the quarrel had been going on ever since.

The company has 250 acres, for irrigation, all of it located in the West Anaheim section, and there are some 45 stockholders. Its two wells have a combined capacity

EXTEND CITY TRADING AREA

Thousands of Acres Around Anaheim Could Be Profitably Farmed

Some months ago A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner, declared in an interview with a Plain Dealer man at Santa Ana, that much of the land about Anaheim then planted to beets could be changed to citrus culture.

Now come Farm Adviser H. E. Wahlberg with the statement today that once it is determined what sections have and what haven't oil, several thousand acres of land can be improved for agricultural purposes in the vicinity of Stanton and Cypress.

Both improvements of course are of vital interest to Anaheim as the shopping and banking town of this whole area.

Much of this land isn't used at all, while still more is planted to crops like alfalfa which aren't so profitable as certain other crops.

Lack of water and too much sand or alkali are the principal obstacles in the way of improving the land. Where alkali is found in too considerable quantities to permit thereby successful farming, the water table could be lowered from its present range of two to five feet to 10 feet, and the alkali drained off and prevented from accumulating. A pool system can not flourish under such conditions, the farm adviser declared.

$1500 LICENSE TAXES UNPAID

With approximately $1200 in occupational license fees still uncollected by the city, according to Fred S. Perry, including late fees for all but very few of the realtors connected with the Anaheim Realty Board, the opposition to the fee appears to be still active.

Perry and City Clerk Ed Merritt made it clear today, speaking for the city administration, that the change in the law was minor and of little importance. They include: Requirement that the fee must be paid every six months at the city hall instead of being collected from the occupations affected at places of occupation every three months; inclusion of many new occupations and an extra heavy tax for certain classes of "doctors".

Professions are assessed at the rate of $1.00 per month and businesses $1.50, but "doctors" other than those named in the list which follows have to pay at the rate of $3.00 per month.

The new occupations mentioned in the amendment to the ordinance are: Architect, lawyer, attorney at law, auditor and accountant, chemist, chiropodist, engineer civil, electrical, chemical and mechanical, chiropractor, dentist, optician, optometrist, oculist, osteopath or osteopathist, physician, surgeon, sign painter and veterinary.

The realtors, whose objection to the tax is based mainly upon the fact of the State license for which they have to pay, are not in as onerous position as dentists, who are licensed by the state, county and city.

The tax of $3.00 on healers of various sects is meant to put the Ribah on fakirs, according to Merritt.

LONDON DRINKS MUCH WATER

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Although there are approximately 14,000 beer houses and saloons in London, her population used more than 83,000,000,000 gallons of water last year, or more than 35 gallons a day per head, according to the London water board's annual report.

$260,000 Home Is Planned by K. of P.

Fred Davis, head of the local lodge of the Knights of Pythias, today confirmed the report that the Knights planned a $260,000 home for children and aged at Chino. Hon. Frank K. Morrison of Long Beach is head of the state committee in charge of the project.

Funds will be drawn from the membership as a whole in California, and the young and aged of the entire state connected with the order will be admitted.

5 LOTS LEFT IN HOMEWOOD TRACT

There are only five Grand-blvd lots unsold in Homewood, it is announced by the A. B. C. Sales Co., agents for tract. This is a 167-acre subdivision in the midst of Buena Park. It may be said to be an int-gral part of the town. The tract is 50% sold, says Mr. Tait, salesmanager of the A. B. C. Sales Co. He adds that this may be said to be a record since it has been offered only about a fortnight and the formal opening has not taken place yet.

Homewood owners are giving away five cabinet phonographs valued at $175 each. These are to be distributed absolutely free without conditions of any kind simply as an advertisement for Homewood. Specimens of the instruments may be seen at each of the local offices of the A. B. C. Sales Co. in Santa Ana, Anaheim, Fullerton and at the tract. The names of those who want an instrument will also be taken at these offices. Buena Park is taking on an air of activity and prosperity these days. Several subdivisions are being opened in the vicinity and many homes are going up now. Several new business structures are also being erected.

OFFICIAL WOULD BAR ADV. SIGNS

PHOENIX, Jan. 30.—Placing the ban on all advertising signs along the highways under his jurisdiction, E. S. Wheeler, district engineer of the bureau of public roads, has ordered the immediate removal of a number of such signs which grace or disfigure forest roads in this state. Authority for this order is contained in federal statutes governing forest reservations, according to Wheeler, who is determined to see that only signs placed by highway organizations or automobile clubs shall remain. The no-advertising sign campaign will be made to cover all state roads as well as forest roads, Wheeler is successful in securing the passage of a uniform state law on the subject.

URGE COUNTY EXHIBIT AT L.A. C. OF C.

Realtors Would Display Local Products for Visiting Tourists

Orange county may have an exhibit of fruits, nuts and vegetables, besides pictures, at the Los Angeles C. of C. if plans which the Anaheim Realty Board decided to initiate today bear fruit. The board, after hearing remarks by Judge J. S. Howard, who today saw Former Manager McDonald of the exhibit, voted to take up the matter with other boards and C. of C's. The exhibit would be paid for by the county, and other realty boards and the county C. of C will be interviewed on the subject.

Judge Howard declared that Anaheim hadn't been getting its share of the tourists entering the southland, and suggested this as a means of doing so. Anaheim initiated the former exhibit, according to Howard.

The exhibit was given up in February, 1921, when McDonald became ill and was obliged to resign. The county, however, has been paying $25 per month for the space ever since. This payment covers use of the lecture room at the Los Angeles chamber. Howard said he knew of several Anaheimers, including Major Desombre, who had been induced to come to the city by the previous exhibit. McDonald preserves the fruit himself, according to Howard, and in that way saves a large part of the expense.

A committee will be named by President B. H. Sidnam to interview other organizationsn the subject.

Howard reminded the members that it would take some time to get an exhibit together again.

The rent still was paid to hold the space, which is in strong demand among the southern counties.

George Allen presided at today's meeting, according to the plan of having each member in turn preside.

W. B. Allen read a letter from Ed Ayer, in Waterloo, Ia., telling of the depression there. Waterloo formerly was a live little manufacturing city. Now only a small fraction of the number formerly employed are at work. Dairies, implement works, etc. are flat. The value of lots in some cases is lower than 20 years ago. There have been many suicides, according to the communication.

Secretary J. L. Swarthout read a communication from the National Ass'n of Realty Boards, notifying the board of the recent increase in dues. Third V. Bebe defended the increase, on the ground of the benefits received.

Balance of $297.06 in the treasury was reported.

Several new listings were read.

The board appropriated $25 to aid in providing milk for kiddies in the public schools.

SCHOOL GROUNDS TO BE BEAUTIFIED

The new grammar school to be erected on E. Center st., east of East st., will not be of stucco. While the board of trustees has not acted finally, and will not do so before a meeting next Tuesday, that is the individual sentiment of the members.

At present there is a slight delay, owing to a hitch in the printing of the bonds. The entire issue of $110,000 was purchased by the First National.

The board will improve the front grounds of this school, and also the Fremont school, so that both will be decided ornaments to the city. The latter building, after the front addition, has been transformed. Lawns and shrubs will be planted in front of both structures, while the rear space is reserved for playgrounds.

WOULD CHANGE IT TO PARENTS' DAY

BOSTON, Jan. 20.—A movement designed to make the second Sunday in May Parents' day was launched here recently.

Mothers' day has been celebrated in May heretofore for several years, but it got an unsavory odor, according to backers of the movement, who charge that florists were "soaking" the public for flowers for that particular Sunday.

According to two men—"Uncle Robert" and "Brother Ed"—who declined to give their names, it is purposed to replace Mothers day with Parents' day.

The idea," said "Uncle Robert" in a statement, "is to establish a day of remembrance that would be clean, pure and devotional. In the matter of gifts, this should be open to all merchants who would be expected to offer goods at a price within the reach of the pennies of small children. So far as the florists are concerned, there would be no idea whatever of establishing any particular flower as the emblem of the day. On the contrary, any flower or pot plant offered within a reasonable price would be in order. Trade-marks or insignia don't mean devotion; but true love, with sincerity, comes from the heart. Little children, save your pennies to buy something for your parents! Daughters, make something of your own handiwork for the home! Sons, give something as a remembrance to show your love and gratitude!"

"Uncle Robert" showed a letter from Governor Parker of Louisiana, endorsing his movement, also showed a statement from the commissioner of education of New York state giving the movement his approval.

SHOWER BATH GAINING FAVOR

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 20.—Amid the conflicting currents of human evolution at this crisis of history it may prove to be significant that the shower bath, that high symbol of culture and triumph of American plumbing, is becoming an object of use as well as of ornament. Hitherto the shower has been more honored in the breach than in the observances.

By tacit agreement among the white-collared class the overhead sprinkler has been recognized as a rather impracticable factor for the daily or even the Sunday ablutions, but none the less as an imposing emblem of respectability.

But today, in the architectural exigency of scraping space for city dwellers, the shower bath is actually beginning to shove the grand old porcelain bathtub into the discard.

And, by jove, if the builders of apartment houses continue to give way to their space-scraping complex the day may come when we'll all have to sleep on our feet, too.

Correct this sentence: "He is a wet man, I am a dry," said the man, "but I respect and admire him."

"They Put an Oil Well on It"

We did not anticipate, when we purchased the land for WESTEDGE TRACT, that almost before the tract was surveyed and platted that they would be rigging up preparatory to drilling on the property. We knew it lay in the heart of the Coast Land Co. large lease holdings and that quick drilling was intended.

"We Have Always Had a Big Demand" for moderate priced building lots which are not available in the city limits. We selected WESTEDGE TRACT location because of its nearness to town, its attractive orange grove surroundings and the fact that it is high ground.

"The Prices Are Very Modest"

leaving oil out of the question entirely. You will pay as much or more for a similar lot in some outlying tract miles away from Anaheim. We do not believe that our prices on the eighteen lots, (one half of the tract), can be duplicated in the Anaheim district. At $695.00 each we are assigning an equal interest in the oil well production to each purchaser. More than one half of this block of lots has been sold at this writing.

"If They Bring In A Well"

each lot could reasonably bring its purchase price many times over. If no oil is discovered, graded and oiled streets, electricity and a water system to serve the tract will be installed at this firm's expense. Quick action will be necessary to procure one of the few remaining WESTEDGE TRACT lots at the present low prices and terms.

Orchestra of Heroes In God's Crucible

One of the most interesting scenes in "God's Crucible" shows a huge ball, supposedly given by one of the leaders of society in Winnipeg, Canada. And one of the most interesting episodes in this ballroom scene shows a Scottish dance, the music for which was furnished by a number of Scotchmen playing upon the Scotch national music instrument —the bagpipe. According to Director Henry Alexander MacRae, who wielded the megaphone for this production ,this orchestra—if so it may be called—was entirely composed of veterans of the world war, men who had, without exception, distinguished themselves to such an extent that each and every one of them was decorated with a Croix de Guerre, or some other hard-earned military decoration.

ANAHEIM WINS 2 FROM FULLERTON

Several games fell to Anaheim casaba tossers yesterday when they played Fullerton. Coach Sutherland's scrappy proteges are still pulling in the victories.

Tustin is having the same luck and the local coach fears this team most. The Anaheim lads have not had the stiff competition they need, such as teams from Long Beach and Lincoln high. If the boys don't get stronger opposition they may become over confident.

The entire quintet played an exceptionally fine game yesterday and no one deserves more credit than the other.

This division will have a league game here tomorrow with Huntington Beach.

The usual lineup: Swarthout and Schwienfest, forwards; Dargatz center; Sweeney and Mann, guards. Howell subbed for Swarthout.

The varsity lost 20 to 3 to Fullerton. The boys are making a big improvement in their playing but there is still room for improvement. Wells and Bastian, two of the best forwards, were unable to play. Coach Fitzmorris put in a new combination, Clapp and Lusk, forwards, Walker, center; Beebe and Dahlman, guards. Henning subbed for Walker and Beatie for Dahlman.

The majority of these lads are juniors. The coach is building for the future. Wells is a forward and Bastian, guard, so without these two, Anaheim is handicapped to a disadvantage. The string will display its wares at Huntington Beach Friday in a league battle.

The high school division was 12 to 4 yesterday from Fullerton.

The midgets are coming fast and should be on top when the season ends. They played a speedy game and won their points thru quick passing.

The players: Woods and Grafton, forwards. Giles, center; Mitchell and Utter, guards. Subs: Ochoa, Fitzgibbons, Alsip and Martin.

Fullerton: Hammon, Stewart, Stalmaker, Dunlap, Nelson and Bower.

The varsity crew lost to Santa Ana Monday, 21 to 18.

RICKARD WOULD WELCOME LANDIS

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—Another Landis to lead the innocents of boxing into the promised land of prosperity and quietude, would be as welcome as payday with Tex Rickard, according to a statement made by that worthy gentleman today.

Among other things, Rickard declared himself to be figuratively arm in arm with Senator Jimmy Walker's proposition for a supreme head of all boxing in this country but disagreeing with the senator's statement that the game is "fingering on its last legs."

"I fail to see where boxing is in a bad way," Rickard declared. "There's nothing the matter with the game and everyone should know it. When has boxing been more prosperous and more carefully conducted? I, for one, think there has been entirely too much hysteria about the need for reforms."

However, the promoter did not hesitate to say that this statement was not to be confounded with opposition to the Walker project. On the contrary, he declared it to be the most logical move that might be made.

"When baseball elected a high commissioner, it was very much in need of a man who could restore confidence in and reflect it upon the sport," he said. "It, therefore, went out after Judge Landis and got him. Since then, there hasn't been the faintest breath of suspicion against baseball and rightly so. If Landis never did anything else, he earned his salary by re-establishing the confidence of the public.

"Besides he has done more than that. He has shown in every way that he conducted the game in absolute fairness and impartiality and that he is for honesty of purpose and action at all times.

"To say that boxing needs such a man is to commit a bromide," Rickard added. "Every big national institution needs national supervision. Let them name such a man as Landis and I will be for him, heart and soul. In fact some of these fine days the plan will begin to develop and then you will see everyone hurrying to line up behind the band wagon. It cannot come too soon."

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

FOR FATHER'S COUGH

January is usually one of the coldest months, and brings its share of coughs, colds and hoarseness. Take FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND at the first sign of a cough or cold as it loosens the phlegm and quickly brings relief to the inflamed membranes of the throat. "Your HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND has done wonders for my father, who had an awful cough. He is telling fine now," writes Nicolasa Gonsales, Cuero, Texas. Sold at Heying's Pharmacy.

SARGUM SPROUTINGS

California is very rapidly becoming the greatest golf center in the world. Our climate is not only ideal for the best interests of the game, but we have wonderful settings for the courses and the homeseekers flooding in upon us bring a great following of the game. The great players are turning to our courses to play their championship matches. The newspapers give almost as much space to golf as they do to any other one sport, when a few years back golf was seldom mentioned.

The new club that is being organized at Villa park with any backing at all is bound to be a success. Those who have the privilege of a membership now are fortunate, for a year or so of successful administration will advance the cost. The hills back of Villa park afford a wonderful view and great possibilities for a golf course.

Not in our memory has a boy advanced so rapidly in the fight game as has Young Stribling of Georgia. He has had one crack at the light-heavyweight championship of the world, altho he is only a high school kid and has been boxing but a short time. If Mr. Tigue does not turn tail and run, he will be forced to give the Dixie lad another whirl at the crown. McTigue comes by the crown via the Siki route. The bullet-headed negro caught Georges Carpentier asleep and with one mighty swat dislodged the crown from the Frenchman's brow. The negro was not a champion and never will be; he just slipped one over on the over-confident war veteran. McTigue took the crown away from the rum-soaked black by a very unclean fight with a howling Irish mob to cheer him on. If he had been a great fighter he would have put the French idol away for keeps under that setting.

Carpentier and Stribling are both after the crown. It does not take much of a wizard to predict that one or the other will be wearing it when the fracas is over.

Los Angeles put over one of the biggest baseball deals of the season when she traded George Lyons and Tony Rego for five St. Louis players. Most of the players are youngsters with promise of a future. Billings is an old catcher, who will not see many more active years. Of the two players going up, Rego has the better chance of sticking. Lyons is unbeatable sometimes, but these times are not close enough together. He has the habit of having one bad inning each game. He has been up to the big show once, and there is not much hope of his improving with his advancement.

Los Angeles kept Rego on the bench when he should have been doing his stuff behind the pillow. Tony is small for a catcher, but is very rugged, and is able to handle his work. He is the most peppery catcher on the coast. It looks as if Marty King put over a good deal.

Gene Sarazen, the American golf king, won over the English golf kings through two days of English weather. The heavens were thronout the first day's play at San Francisco, and when the play was resumed at Hill-Crest, Los Angeles, the heaven spilled more.

Sarazen led all the way. Havers, the English champion, played a wonderful game, but the little Italian, who holds the American honors, played just a little more wonderfully.

The speed kings of the dirt tracks were forced to give up Sunday's card after getting all warmed up and having a big crowd on hand to witness the thrills. The new Ascot speedway is drawing the biggest fans in great numbers. The old gang that used to haunt the old Ascot track is still payin the court. Many are interested in seeing DePalma come back. He was bested in the first day's racing by Fred Horey and is anxious to get back his lost laurels.

BURIED BY CAVE-IN

GLENDALE, Jan. 30.—Charles Finley was killed and W. H. Merson of Montrose was injured today when they were buried beneath 30 tons of earth in the gravel pits of Gordon & Harris.

The men were loading trucks when, without warning, a huge wall of earth gave way and fell on them.

Finley received the full force of the cave-in.

TEST RAIL UNIONS

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 30.—An under cover attempt of the more powerful railroads to determine the strength of the railroad brotherhoods was seen in railroad circles here today in reports that the Monongahela railroad, owned jointly by the Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, but operated ostensibly as a separate road, was planning arbitrary wage reductions and changes in working conditions.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE

A. W. Cleaver, charged with operating a car after his license had been revoked by Judge French and who had previously stoutly opposed the charge, appeared before the judge this morning and changed his plea to guilty. He was given a sentence of 20 days in jail. The sentence was suspended, pending good behavior. It is said that the state motor vehicle department suspended his license for a year.

The old saying about a "champagne appetite and a beer income" has been revised along with many other famous remarks. It now reads, "A Scotch appetite and a wood-alcohol income," and is a much deadlier saying in every respect.—Fresno Bee.

SENATE VOTES FALL AND DENBY ACTED ILLEGALLY

pear for questioning and voted to send three medical experts chosen by Senators Walsh and Smoot to his bedside to make an additional examination.

2—E. L. Doheny, who leased Elk Hills reserve from Fall shortly after loaning him $100,000, made an unsuccessful effort to appear before the committee to testify. The committee instructed him to come back Friday.

3—The naval affairs committee of the house launched an independent investigation to ascertain what benefit the navy derived out of the leases—Secretary Denby having defended them as beneficial to the navy.

4—Admiral L. E. Gregory, of the navy, testified before the house committee that Secretary of the Navy Denby and not subordinates, directed the making of construction contracts with the Doheny and Sinclair interests whereby they built storage tanks and harbor improvements for the navy in exchange for royalty oil.

The senate debate, however, held the center of the stage. Norris not only charged that Fall broke laws, but without standing under the law but declared it was an executive usurpation of authority that would make the legislative branch of the government and "wreck any government."

"No lawyer can defend or uphold that (Harding) order issued in defiance of an express act of congress," Norris said.

He declared the Doheny contract was an expenditure of public funds in the form of oil for the erection of public works. He said the power of appropriating government funds rests solely with congress and that the Doheny contract was therefore illegal.

"It is not claimed by anyone that congress passed a law appropriating this oil to be spent for building storage tanks, erecting of docks or dredging of channels," said Norris.

"If any such conduct on the part of the executive officials is continued it will bring ruin to any democracy or republic. It would abolish the legislative branch of the government and set forth a monarchy event tho the term of office would be only a few years.

"If this act is passed unchallenged, you set a precedent which would permit a future despot, if he obtained the power, to set aside and nullify every act of congress."

Norris declared the Doheny interests knew "that every step was made without warrant of law."

"Every particle of property or land taken from the government must be paid for," he shouted. "They knew this too when they entered the contract."

VOTE $100,000 FOR SPECIAL COUNSEL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The Senate appropriations committee today voted unanimously to withhold from President Coolidge the $100,000 appropriation passed by the House for the employment of special counsel to investigate naval oil leases unless the President submits his appointments to the Senate for confirmation.

The House bill which turned the fund over to the President without strings, was amended to provide that any counsel employed by the President under the authority of this resolution "shall be appointed by and with the advice and consent of the Senate."

Its passage in this form by the Senate is assured.

Edward L. Doheny, millionaire producer, who received the lease to the Elk Hill reserve in California several months after he had loaned Fall $100,000, put in an unexpected appearance in the committee room today.

He was accompanied by Gavin McNab, his attorney, and declared he wanted to be heard.

The committee was in executive session at that time hearing Fall's physicians and Doheny waited in an ante room.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 30.—Teapot Dome business does not worry me in the least or else I would have remained in Washington, Attorney General H. M. Daugherty told International News Service today.

Mr. attorney general is now located in a local hotel and is closely guarded by department of justice men and his secretary. When looked at what he thought about the attempt in the senate to oust him from the cabinet, Daugherty simply said:

FLAMING YOUTH DRAWING CROWDS

Today ends the engagement at the California Theatre of the big Associated First National picture "Flaming Youth" starring Colleen Moore, supported by a big cast of favorites such as Milton Sills, Elliott Dexter, Myrtle Stedman and Sylvia Breamer. This production which held for the third week at the Lowe-State Theatre in Los Angeles, breaking all house records, has upheld its reputation in Anaheim, and has been drawing large audiences to the California.

FULL TIME COACH FOR U. C. AQUATICS

BERKELEY, Cal., Jan. 30.—Repeated demands of undergraduates and alumni that the University of California be more prominently placed on the map in crew has resulted in persistent rumors here that Coach Ben Wallis is to be supplanted and immediate steps taken to put the blue and gold oarsmen on top among the country's college crews.

Plans for improved quarters, new shells and general stimulation of interest in the water sports are to be made at California, it is known and announcement of the employment of a full-time coach is expected early this year.

No complaint has been made against the methods employed by Wallis. He is a part-time coach and is unable, for business reasons, to devote all his time to crew coaching. It is rumored that a University of Washington graduate will be selected to coach California oarsmen. The Washington crew 'school' founded by Coach Hiram Conibear, recently turned out. Coach Ed Leader, who is successfully directing the sport at Yale.

California and Washington crews will meet in their annual race on April 19. This year's event will be held on Lake Washington, at Seattle, Washington, with a large number of veterans on deck from its great squad which won the Poughkeepsie last year, is decided favorite over California. In addition Washington has available several men from last year's freshman crew, which finished second in the race for yearlings in 1923 on the Hudson.

The big Hudson regatta will be held on June 17 this year, the earliest in recent years. Cornell, Columbia, Syracuse and Pennsylvania with Washington, Wisconsin and possibly Wisconsin will enter shells in the Poughkeepsie race.

Washington has been invited to the Hudson race and will undoubtedly compete, even though the Olympic trouts of Washington and California win coast honors, as the Seattle university will enter the Olympic tryouts in Philadelphia, June 13-14. The navy will also enter the Olympic test races and in the event either should win a place at the Poughkeepsie regatta, coming three days later, would be passed. Washington, however, is known to be favored for its title against eastern crews.
