ATTEMPT TO PROVOKE VIOLENCE FAILURE

STILL BIGGER CROWD AT REVIVAL

Larger Tent Filled for Bulgin's Sermon on "Unpardonable Sin"

About 2500 people, the biggest crowd yet, flocked the big tent at Wilhelmina and Claudina sts. last night to hear Dr. E. J. Bulgin preach on "The Unpardonable Sin." Altho the seating capacity has been more than doubled thru more economical arrangement of benches in the tent, almost twice as large as the former, nearly all the seats were taken last night and Bulgin suggested that if the crowds continue to grow that "we pass a resolution for a larger tent."

"We have had the devil and all his imps to fight, but the Lord is blessing the revival just the same."

The choir sang many old-time selections, and Mrs. O. Lee Shoemaker sang a solo, "Die Out in Me" for which she was highly commended by Dr. Bulgin. She is to sing for Mrs. J. S. Norvell at the Christian Church Sunday afternoon, at which time a duet is also to be sung by Mrs. Walter Ross and Mrs. W. D. Pemberton.

Bulgin said that he was in receipt of a letter asking him if a preacher should mix in politics. He answered that a preacher should represent all classes and never engage in political mudsling-ing nor personal abuse, that everyone has a right to his own opinion in politics. Nevertheless, he said, always take your religion to politics but never your politics to the religion. Politics needs religion; religion doesn't need politics so much."

Mrs. Norvell and her daughter who is a prominent Los Angeles physician and son-in-law were introduced. Mrs. Norvell gave a short talk, and then led in prayer. She said the Lord was giving the evangelist the hearts of the people and that she was glad to see Christian people coming together as one regardless of their denomination. She urged that Christian women bring an unsaved friend with them when they come to hear her at the Christian Church Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Norwell, one of the greatest women speakers of the Baptist denomination, has addressed audiences of 9000 and converted 450 at a single meeting.

Bulgin said he had been asked to give his strongest arguments that Christ is God, that there were men attending his meeting who recognized Him as a great and good man, but not as the Son of God. He replied that Christ said that He was the Son of God and if that were not true He is the biggest liar and fraud that the world has ever known. That He demonstrated His right to the claim by his miracles, death and resurrection; and that the world needs a Christ and in all history there is none other than Jesus of Nazareth that fills the bill.

He also said that a good moral man could be saved except thru Jesus Christ. The moral man tries to work to be saved; the saved man's works become because he is saved. If a man is moral you will find that somewhere back in his life he owes it to the teachings of the Word of God. Christianity is not a lot of negatives, but one great big positive. He that hath the Son hath life, and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life. The great trouble with the world today is that they have humanized God, defied man and minified sin.

Another question which he had been asked was: Is the human intellect capable of grasping eternity? The human mind cannot begin to comprehend eternity. The New Testament word for eternity is "aeon" the ages and ages and ages." Eternity is behind us, eternity is in front of us. There never was a time when God was not, and there will never be a time when He will not be, and yet you are spending the fleeting moments in Anaheim in bitterness and wrangling when you're going out into eternity without God.

Carter sang two solos, "Golden Bells" and "Sometimes I Grow Homesick for Heaven." Because of his wonderful rendition of the former he is known thruout the South as "The Golden Bell Singer of the South."

Dr. Bulgin's sermon tonight is for men only, and boys 14 years and up, with a special invitation to men of secret orders. The subject is "The Man of Sin."

Astronomers Get Vluable Data

NAVAL OBSERVATORY, MARE ISLND, Calif., Jan. 24.—Persons so plant potatoes hide thimbs in an attempt to cure cor and carry on other life's activities under certain movements of the moon upon data furnished in almanacs, will be ahlto work more accurately in the future as result of today's ilpse of the sun, according Captain T. J. J. See, U. S.N., well known scientist.

Dr. See declared observations made today during the eclipse will furnish extremely valuable data to compilers of almanacs and that information as to the movements of the sun and moon previously unknown will be revealed.

STARS SEEN DURIG SUN ECLIPSE

NEW YORK Jan. 24.—A radio dispatch from the dirigible Los Angeles at 1:45 o'clock this morning to Int News Service radio laboratory observed that "solar eclipse observations have been successfully completed."

NEW YORK Jan. 23.—Before an awe-stricken audience of 20,000,000 persons, the sun, moon and stars today staged a spectacle of unequalled beauty and grandeur in the greatest celestial theatre, a phenomenon that will live forever in the memory of those who witnessed it.

It was the solar eclipse. It was seen by people living along across the map of the United States from Redwing, Minn. to the Atlantic ocean. It began at 8 o'clock when the moon first nibbled at the sun's rim reached the point of a total eclipse in New York at 9:11, plunging the metropolis into darkness and then slowly passed eastward toward the Shetland islands. At 10:29, the last vestige of black left the sun and the eclipse was over.

The most spectacular point of this most remarkable drama of modern history was seen in New York City at 9:11 for a period of 36 seconds when the dead blackness of the moon, coming between the sun and the earth blotted the sun from view and turned day into night. As the crescent of the sun disappeared from view, faint lights began to twinkle. They were scientists said, from the planets Venus, Mercury and Jupiter.

Directly above the crescent appeared the star Altair. To the south of Altair could be seen, Vega and to the north of Vegan was Deneb.

Stars could be seen piercing thru in many parts of the sky. The heavens for a brief half minute was illuminated as in a moonlight night. Beads of light from the sun shot out for a second or two over the mountainous valleys of the moon.

Finally the last beads of light

FAT FOLK REGIME

ARTICLE No: 21
INSTRUCTIONS FOR SUNDAY AND MONDAY, JAN. 25-26

By DR. FRANK McCOY

TAKE your morning exercises before an open window, and add this one to those already taken:

STANDING

Hands clasped behind neck—bend to the left and then to the right—keeping the knees stiff. Bend forward and then backward—keeping the knees stiff. Twist body to the right as far as possible—then to the left as far as possible—keeping the hips motionless and the knees stiff.

FOR SUNDAY, JAN. 25

BREAKFAST
One Egg—Coddled or Poached
One Waffle Baked Apple
LUNCH
Tuna Salad
Made with canned tuna on tomato and lettuce
DINNER
Roast Mutton or Broiled Mutton
Cheese
Cooked Carrots Celery
FOR MONDAY, JAN. 26

BREAKFAST
Orange Juice
One-half Glass Water
LUNCH
Buttermilk Figs
DINNER
Broiled Belgian Hare
Cooked Spinach and Asparagus
Raw Cabbage (no dressing)

Your evening exercises to be followed by a shower or sponge bath. The bathing is quite important as it assists in eliminating, thru the pores, the toxic material you are throwing off in large amounts as you reduce.

I find that people who are overweight usually do not have a healthy skin as the millions of pores of the skin are flabby and do not function properly. You breathe out poisons thru these pores in much the same way as the smoke goes out the chimney. The pores are literally millions of chimneys for the elimination of gaseous and solid matter in a vaporary form. If they were closed entirely, you would die in about four minutes from the retained poisons in the system. So wake the pores up and make them strong and clean by at least two showers or sponge baths daily.

85 CARLOADS OF FRUIT SHIPPED

Anaheim Orange - Lemon Assn. Makes Refund of $47,000 Cash

Representing 15 cents per box, the largest refund the organization has ever made, more than $47,000 in checks is being mailed to grower members today by the Anaheim Orange & Lemon Ass'n.

The refund is as large in dollars as that made last year. It is made also in cash and not in stock, Manager G .W. Sandilands points out.

Citrus fruit shipments from Northern Orange co held up well this week, with 85 cars moved. Placentia with 28 cars and Fullerton with 27 were the heaviest shippers.

The Anaheim Citrus Fruit Ass'n is the only one still shipping navels in the district, and it will probably finish next week. This association shipped only two cars this week, but its total will be practically as large as that of any of its competitors.

Promoter Heavily Insured; Probe On

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Jan. 24.—Inquiry for all the information possible on Henry Hyder, colorful, oft-reputed millionaire oil promoter, supposed to have been killed in Denver, Colo., Jan. 6, was received from Sheriff Youngblood of Lurkin, Tex., by Sheriff John Clark of Clay-co.

A body supposed to have been that of Hyder and identified here by relatives was buried here Jan. 10 by his brother, Wm. Hyder. One of the leases of the closed First National Bank of Excelsior Springs in $10,000 loaned to Henry Hyder.

Lufkin, Tex., authorities indicated they were investigating an oil promotion there.

Hyder is said to have been heavily insured life companies to have paid and lost a half dozen fortunes.

Sheriff Youngblood's telegram said that detectives working on the case there stated for sure Hyder is alive. He said those interested in the case in Texas would ask for the exhumation of the body.

The body came from Denver in a steel casket. The Excelsior Springs undertaker made a statement of identity but did not, of course, take the body out of the casket.

Hyder's wife lives in Los Angeles. Insurance policies amounting to more than $25,000 were made out in her favor.

LOPORTO'S BOND SET AT $1000

John Loporto, rancher from whose home near Lemon Heights deputy sheriffs took a large liquor still, was held to answer to the superior court on a charge of manufacturing following his preliminary hearing before Justice K. E. Morrison. Loporto's bond has been fixed at $1000.

APPOINTMENT OF STONE BLOCKED

Charge Attorney-General "Persecuting" Sen. Burton Wheeler

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—In one of the most tempestuous secret sessions of its history the senate this afternoon blocked confirmation of Atty. Gen. Harlan F. Stone as a associate justice of the supreme court after it was charged that he was "persecuting" Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana.

The fight was waged by Senators Wm. P. Borah, Republican, of Idaho; Thos. J. Walsh, Democrat of Montana, and Thos. J. Heflin, Democrat of Alabama after the latter had provoked the battle by attempting to denounce the attorney general in public.

The secret session lasting an hour, was characterized by a series of attacks on Stone, all of which were based on reports that the attorney general planned to obtain an indictment against the Montana senator in the courts or the District of Columbia. This reported action led Senators Borah, Walsh and Heflin to bitterly flay the attorney general. They were joined in this stand by Senators Overman, Democrat of North Carolina, Caraway, Democrat of Arkansas and Norris, Republican of Nebraska.

Under the flow of denunciation administration senators sat silent, portesting only against efforts to carry the fight out into a public session. Borah denounced the attorney general as attempting to "infringe the rights of Anglo-Saxon law" by attempting to try Wheeler before a District of Columbia jury. He told the senate that Wheeler was entitled to a trial "by his peers and that there were "no peers" in the Dist. of Columbia because of the lack of suffrage here.

While supporting Borah's stand, Sen. Walsh attacked the administration for "attempting to force confirmation of Stone." He also denounced the attorney general for attempting to again indict Wheeler.

It was later learned that the angry senators charged Stone with seeking to base the new indictment here upon a letter written Edwin Booth, former solicitor in the interior department by Gordon Campbell, a Montana mining man for whom Wheeler had once appeared as counsel in western litigation. In the letter, Campbell was said to have proposed a division of western oil lands.

WILLIAM HUPP DIES

William Hupp, 81, died this morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Jacoby, 924 E. Center-st. Mr. Hupp was a native of Germany, but until a year ago had for some time been a resident of Anaheim. However, Dale Hupp he had been here but about three months. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Jacoby and Mrs. Frank Gross of Anaheim, and two sons, Cris Hupp of Jonesboro, Ind., and Charles Hupp of Logansport, Ind. He was a member of the German Lutheran church of Logansport and the body will be sent there for interment, it is said. Arrangements are in charge of Backs, Terry, and Campbell.

DIES OF PNEUMONIA

William Hanson, 68, a native of Denmark, died of pneumonia last night at Colonial-apts. Decedent is survived by his widow, and five daughters, Mrs Blanche Hanson, a teacher in the Placentia schools; Mrs. H. R. Brooks of Britt, Iowa; Mrs. F. W. Rafath and Mrs. O. C. Peterson, Junction City, Ore., and Mrs. Dave Peterson of Albert Lea, Minn. Mrs. Rafath is expected to arrive tomorrow to accompany the widow with the remains to Junction City, for interment. The body is in charge of Backs, Terry & Campbell.

NEW ANAHEIMER

Charles Patchett, of Birmingham, England, nephew of Alfred Bayliss has arrived in Anaheim to make his home.

Patchett sailed from Southampton Jan. 8, arriving at New York, Jan. 14, after a trip of less that six days, including docking. From New York he took train via New Orleans.

NOT A THING BUT MUD

GEISSINGER LONG TIME "PACIFIST"

The attack made on City Attorney William P. Webb, jr., while he lay on a sick bed, is not the first outburst of the sort from J. A. Geissinger.

Indeed, Geissinger has been a rank "pacifist" for years and his pacifism was one of the principal reasons for his removal from the pastorate of the First Methodist church of Long Beach, one of the largest and strongest congregations there.

Reports to this effect were definitely confirmed yesterday in Long Beach, when J. R. Williams, Commissioner of Public Safety of the city at the time, the fall of 1917, declared that Geissinger had appeared before the Long Beach Defense Council to explain a pacifistic mass meeting under his auspices, held at the Municipal Auditorium, and other things.

The speaker who was featured at this gathering was one Rev. William E. Biederwolff, who made himself so obnoxious to soldiers, sailors, marines and other patriotic citizens that the government, lacking confidence in his patriotism, refused to sanction further speaking engagements in connection with wartime drives. Biederwolff, also, because of his activities at that time, found his evangelistic work petering out, and gave it up entirely.

Geissinger on Thursday, therefore, vented on Webb spleen against the Legion which has been accumulating for years.

Former Police Chief Cole of Long Beach also was seen. According to Cole, Geissinger was careful always to keep just within the law, altho his pacifism was notorious there.

At the public mass meeting referred to, Biederwolff is said to have explained an incident of knocking down the flag in an accident. The trampling of the flag under foot, however, was never satisfactorily cleared up in the minds of the servicemens and others, and hundreds of soldiers, marine and sailors, at one of the railway stations, were incensed that the evangelist and Geissinger might have been lynched, but for the efforts of Williams who was determined to preserve order, regardless of whether the pacifists were guilty or not.

The mass meeting was only one of several incidents in which Geissinger showed his colors clearly. The congregation became so divided and sentiment reached such a pitch against him that he was obliged to resign and seek another field.

Then he came to Anaheim, where, when the occasion offered, he showed the same stripes as before.

RECALL CANDIDATES, DO YOU APPROVE?

TO Messrs. Grafton, Franzen, Mathis, Miller and Stock, Candidates of the U. S. A. Club:

The campaign of the U.S.A. Club, thru its spokesman, J. A. Geissinger, and its organ, The Bulletin, have been unparalleled for calumnies in all the history of Orange-co. politics!

The extreme limit came Thursday evening when J. A. Geissinger made a most cowardly attack upon Wm. P. Webb, Jr., a war veteran of whom all Orange-co. might well be proud, who is seriously sick following an operation for appendicitis, complicated by peritonitis and induced by his sufferings and privations on the battlefield.

Do you stand for that kind of a campaign? Is that the only reason you can give the voters for ousting Councilmen Metcalf, Knipe, Hasson and Slaback, men who have demonstrated they have backbone and principle.

For ten days you failed to take notice of an open challenge to stand on a platform with Mayor Metcalf and tell the public that you had some better reason to be elected than the facility of the U.S.A. club for throwing mud.

What have you to say about it? The public has a right to know.

HAWLEY FUNERAL MONDAY AFTERNOON

Funeral services for Mrs. Helen A. Hawley will be at 2 p. m. Monday from the Backs, Terry & Campbell funeral parlors, Rev. Lesuiger of the Immanuel Presbyterian church of Los Angeles officiating. Interment is to be in the Loma Vista cemetery. Pallbearers will be William H. Whitett, Frank N. Gibbs, A. Nagle, O. H. Renner, William T. Wallop and L. E. Miller.

AGED WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Theodore Oswald, old-time Fullerton resident, died this afternoon at the family residence, 145 West Whiting-ave. She and Mr. Oswald by whom she is survived had been married 59 years. She is also survived by a daughter, Mrs. W. J. Wickersheim, and two sons, A. J. Oswald and W. Oswald. She was a member of the Evangelical Church of Anaheim. The body is at McAulay and Sutters funeral parlors pending arrangements.

ENTERS PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

C. L. Schroeder, formerly of Fullerton, pleaded not guilty to a charge of embezzlement, preferred by his former employer, J. J. Lilley, when he was arraigned in justice court at Santa Ana and posted bond of $250 to assure his presence when his preliminary hearing is called.

Schroeder is accused by Lilley of collecting $200 for the Orange County Brick & Tile Co., but of appropriating it for his own use.

SEND BODY EAST

The body of Miss Mary DeGuelle, 25, will be put aboard the U. P. for Montrose, Colo., tomorrow by Backs, Terry & Campbell. Miss DeGuelle was employed at the local telephone office, and was popular in young people's circles. She died at the home of her uncle, W. H. Dale, 527 East Cypress-st., who plans to accompany the body to Montrose for interment.

SERVICEMEN CHECKED BY COOL HEADS

Charge U. S. A. Club in Studied Attempt to Induce Action

Despite the fact that American Legion members were deeply resentful of the cowardly attack made by J. A. Geissinger, spokesman for the U. S. A. club, thru the U. S. A. club organ, upon City Atty. Wm. P. Webb, jr., first commander of Anaheim Post, American Legion, who is very sick following an operation for appendicitis, caution of cool heads for constraint has prevailed.

A deputy sheriff was on guard last night at Geissinger's house.

Law enforcement advocates today cautioned servicemen to control their passions and under no circumstances to countenance violence.

U. S. A. club leaders who have repeatedly charged law enforcement advocates with lawlessness and violence, have been making a studied effort to provoke just such action," declared a prominent citizen today. "It was Come on, or that the U. S. A. club hopes to create some excuse for a report that violence is expected here and that an appeal can be put to the governor for troops and declaration of martial law. This, of course, would be a last desperate move for political effect.

"The U. S. A. Club leaders, of course, know that law enforcement advocates are not guilty of lawlessness and cannot point to a single instance of this kind. Their desperate efforts to provoke it by unexpected criminal charges Geissinger's pen are ample proof of the patience and long-suffering of supporters of Anaheim's first dry council.

Sentiment is growing daily in favor of the retention of Councilmen Metcalf, Knipe, Hasson and Slaback in office and election of Turton, dry candidate, to succeed G. J. Stock, last of the old wet political ring.

More and more are voters beginning to realize the injustice of the attempt to unseat the four dry councilmen whose record for law enforcement and good business judgment cannot be questioned even by the leaders of the clique which has never recovered from its defeat by a vote of nearly two to one last spring.

That the U. S. A. club is desperate is evidenced by the unparalleled mud-slinging which has featured its campaign to oust the four dry councilmen. Nothing approaching it has ever been known in Orange-co politics.

"The attempt to recall the four dry councilmen has proven the most foolish political move ever seen in Anaheim," according to one of the biggest business men in the city today.

"It was certainly foolish to begin with, as there was never any reason to oust these men whom I am convinced have given a most businesslike administration. Certainly the U.S.A. club has greatly damaged its efforts by the high-handed tactics, including boycott and misrepresentation.

"Anaheim is in good shape to go ahead. Bank deposits are ahead of a year ago. Orange prices are $2 a box over a year ago. Unemployment is much less than last winter. Postal receipts are highest on record. School attendance is breaking all records. Even home rents are for rent than a month ago. The New York stock exchange indicates the greatest prosperity in the history of the country.

"Everything is set for a prosperous year but it won't be if the four dry councilmen are recalled. I regard the recall as a dangerous precedent, to be resorted to only in cases of malfeasance in office. Certainly nothing like that has been shown in the case of the four dry councilmen. In the remote event of their removal Feb. 2, who thinks for a moment that law enforcement advocates will lay down?

"What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. Should the high-pressure methods being resorted to by the U.S.A. club result by any chance in its posing a defeat for the dry cause now, certainly no one could blame law enforcement advocates from coming back with another recall election.

Nothing New in Campaign Methods Adopted by Wets

The reported plan to "rough-house" things generally and "steal the meeting" of law enforcement advocates at the big tent at Claudina and Wilhelmina-sts next Monday evening, which was nipped in the bud when Mayor Metcalf withdrew his challenge for a public debate and announced the meeting would be limited to talks by the dry councilmen, reminds older residents of similar tactics in the past.

The last big revival preceding the present very successful campaign being conducted by Dr. E. J. Bulgin was that held by Brown and Curry nearly 10 years ago.

Following their victory at the polls at a wet-and-dry election, a crowd of drunken men marched into the big Brown and Curry tent where a revival service was being held, paraded down the aisles, insulting and knocking over worshippers, threatened to drop the tent on their heads and generally perpetrated one of the most disgraceful exhibitions of the kind ever witnessed in an American community.

Ringleaders of that mob included city officials—the city government at that time was saturated—and policemen looked on without turning a finger during the riot. Dry forces had to call in Sheriff Lacey, who headed a squad of deputies and removed stars from a number of the rioters.

Ringleaders of that mob are now on the board of directors of the U.S.A. club, which is attempting to recall Anaheim's first dry council.

STILL BIGGER CROWD AT REVIVAL

Sunday morning there will be preaching at the tabernacle at 11 o'clock, 1:30 p. m. at Brea, and 2:30 p. m. at the tabernacle. The afternoon sermon at the tabernacle is for men only and boys 14 years old and up. The subject is, "The Trinity of Evil," or "Wine, Women and Gambling." At the same hour Mrs. Cornell is to speak at the First Christian Church to women only, and girls 14 years old and up. Sunday night regular services are to be held at the tabernacle, and Carter urged his hearers to come early in order to get a seat.

Bulgin's text was from Isaiah 5:20; "Woe Unto Them That Put Evil for Good and Good for Evil, Darkness for Light, and Light for Darkness, Bitter for Sweet and Sweet For Bitter." He also quoted I John 5:16: "There is a Sin Unto Death; I Do Not Say He Shall Pray for It," and Genesis 6:3 "My Spirit Shall Not Always Strive With Man." And also Matthew 12:31-32: "All Manner of Sin and Blasphemy Shall be Forgiven Unto Men But the Blasphemy Against the Holy Ghost Shall Not be Forgiven Unto Men. And Whosoever Shall Speak a Word Against the Son of Man, It Shall be Forgiven Him; but Whosoever Speaketh Against the Holy Ghost it Shall Not be Forgiven Him Neither in this World, Neither in the World to come." He read from his Greek New Testament that this last meant that it should not be forgiven in this world, and therefore never should be forgiven. He said that nailed the devil's lie that there was any chance of forgiveness implied after death. He also read from Numbers 15th chapter that the soul that doeth ought presumptuously shall be cut off. The Jews were not permitted to shed one drop of animal blood for a man that sinned presumptuously.

He also read a portion of Hebrews 6th chapter. "For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost and have tasted the good word of God and the powers of the world to come, if they shall fall away to renew them again to repentance; seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh and put him to an open shame."

"The unpardonable sin is getting into such a condition that sweet is bitter and light is darkness and bitter is sweet and darkness is light," said the preacher. "John says "There is a sin that is unto death," and in Genesis will be found, "My Spirit shall not always strive with man'."

"God the Father, Son and Holy Spirit, these three in one are striving for your salvation. No man will ever get to hell who doesn't wade through the blood of Jesus.

"You can say good-bye to the Holy Ghost and that you are not ready and love sin, but when you grieve the Holy Ghost you have grieved God's last agency to win you. You can tamper with an alarm clock until it will not awaken you. You can also do that with your conscience.

"God is calling you tonight and it may be His last call to your soul; this may be your last revival, and when you drive away the Holy Spirit, you drive away God's last call forever."

There is such a thing, he said, as sinning the sin unto death, and being just as much damned as if you were in hell already, and there are a lot of people right here in Anaheim who are committing that sin. The sin unto death is sinning against light and truth, and deliberately and wilfully doing things when you know better, and hardening your heart against the strivings of the Holy Ghost until He ceases to strive with you. You set up your rebellious will against His wooings, and insult and reject Him until He sees that further striving with you would be in vain, and He ceases. Then you'll be so blind that you'll turn right around and put evil for good and good for evil and darkness for light and light for darkness, and bitter for sweet and sweet for bitter. When you insult the Holy Ghost you break the last link between you and God, you drive away the last person of the Trinity that is seeking the Salvation of your soul, and there is no way for you to be saved. God will strive with you no more, for He sees that it would be of no use, and God would not be omniscient to spend useless energy trying to win a man or woman for whom there was no hope of winning.

He defined the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost, one form of the sin unto death, as "Beelzebubing the Holy Ghost." You can Beelzebub the Father and He'll forgive you, you can Beelzebub the Son and He'll forgive you, but if you Beelzebub the Holy Ghost you have never forgiveness. He implied, while not saying so in so many words, that to Beelzebub the Holy Ghost is to attribute the works of the Holy Ghost to the devil, as did the Jews the works of Christ. He said, "God pity the Methodist church if it doesn't keep alive the doctrine of the Holy Ghost," that many in that church are fighting this doctrine. "The Holy Ghost is the last person of the Godhead to give you a chance to accept salvation. You can snub God, the Holy Ghost, one time too many."

He said that God the Father, God the Son and God the Holy Ghost, do everything in their power to save you, and if you go to hell you have got to wade there knee deep thru the blood of Christ, and at the judgment you will see how faithfully God, the Holy Ghost, strove with your soul. He defined election this way: God has one vote, and He votes for your salvation; the devil has one vote, and he votes for your damnation; you have one vote, and whichever side you cast it on its the winning side.

The evangelist told the story of a man who came to his meetings and heard one sermon on conscience. He would not come back again. He went to see him and asked him why. The man replied, "I have one of those things and I don't want it disturbed." Bulgin tried to persuade the man, but was told if he were a gentleman he would desist, and that the man was not ready to become a Christian, and couldn't stand any more talks on conscience. That very evening the boat in which the man was rowing on the millpond capsized, and he was caught under a stone and drowned. Bulgin was called on to preach the funeral. As he looked into that coffin, he said the words of the man came back to him, "I have one of those things, and I don't want it disturbed."

"And it never was. There may be someone here tonight who are getting their last call. Oh, won't you come."

Several hit the sawdust trail.

The meeting was dismissed by Bulgin.

BULGIN REVIVAL

Oh, the joy of sin forgiven
Oh, the peace my soul doth know
Oh, the heighth and depth of mercy
Cause my heart to overflow.

Just to see Him in the scriptures
Bearing my sin on the cross
See Him slighted, cursed, neglected,
Counting always, it but dross,

For He knew that on the third day
He would rise and show the world
That the power of Heaven had conquered
And the flag of truth unfurled.

See Him send out the apostles
Ordained by His own hand
"Go ye unto all the nations
Preach the truth in every land."

So the call still comes from Heaven
Pray that you may hear it, too,
He has suffered, He has conquered.
In Him you may conquer, too.

He is calling to this city
Through His servant, in the tent.
Calling to the high and lowly
Repent, repent, repent.

Won't you look away to Jesus?
He awaits your coming now,
Just now make the good confession,
Jesus Lord, to Thee I bow.

If you do this He will cleanse you,
Fill you with His love divine,
So that you may sing the story,
Praise the Lord, I know He's mine.

Lead thou on, thou great deciple,
E'en as Moses led before
Out of Egypt's strife and bondage
Through the sea to Canaan's shore.

God's own men are back of Bulgin,
With their prayers, with their songs,
And we pray God speed the day
When false prophets will be gone,

And in their stead there shall come forth
The word of God with power
To strengthen faith and satisfy
Like sunshine after shower.

NOTES OF SPORT

The National Collegiate Athletic Ass'n has 230 colleges under its jurisdiction.

Last season, for the first time in five years, no American league club batted .300 as a team.

Colorado has more than 500 lakes and more than 6000 miles of streams in which there is trout fishing.

Plans are making in Denver to stage the annual Colorado State Bowling tournament during the last week of March.

Denver's leading woman bowler is Mrs. Margaret Taylor, a telephone operator, who has an individual average of 173.

Trinchera ranch, comprising 237,000 acres in Colorado, is said to be the largest private game park in the world.

The first world's championship skating tournament for women was held at Davos in 1905, and was won by Mrs. Seyers of the Figure Skating club, London.

Coach Steve Harrick will take the wrestling squad of West Virginia university on a trip west at the end of February for a meet with Iowa State college.

So popular is the game of hockey in London and its vicinity that many of the leading clubs are represented by teams in three or four different leagues.

The Intercollegiate Lacrosse league plans an organized campaign with a view to making lacrosse one of the leading spring sports at American colleges.

The National Amateur Skating Ass'n of the United States was formed in 1886 and was followed two years later by the organization of the Amateur Skating Ass'n of Canada.

Louis ("Kid") Kaplan, the new world's featherweight champion, held the featherweight and junior light championships of New England before he started on the trail of the world's title.

Since the Intercollegiate Basketball league was started in 1901 the most successful teams have been those of Yale and Pennsylvania, which have six championships each to their credit.

Johnny Myrre, the Finnish athlete who holds the world's javelin record, has taken up his residence in San Francisco and in future will compete under the standard of the Olympic club of that city.

With a population of less than 12,000, Kinston N C., will have the distinction of being the smallest city in the country with a Class-B baseball club. The town has been included in the Virginia league circuit for next season.

McGARRAH TALKS TO SOLICITORS

In his address last night to those who are to solicit new and increased subscriptions towards the erection of the proposed new Presbyterian church, Dr. McGarrah said in part:.

"Make no apologies for suggesting subscriptions for the Lord's work. If any apologies are passed, they should come from those who claim to be Christians yet refuse to do their share, from those who, whether they themselves attend or not, benefit from the work of the churches yet refuse to pay part of the cost of the churches from which they, their families and the community benefit.

"Do not say: 'We are begging for the church again,' or you will be guilty of blasphemy. God created the earth. The earth is his "for he made it." God is not a beggar but the Supreme Banker of the universe. God's church is no pauper but the business of the Proprietor of the world. If landlords and bankers can ask their rights without being called beggers, you can tactfully but frankly ask people to subscribe for this church building as a debt to God.

"I cannot afford to subscribe" is a favorite excuse. Reply by asking if we are not affording a good many things that are petty and trifling as compared with the tremendous importance of erecting an adequate building to be dedicated to the worship of God to the religious education of the children, and to other spiritual purposes.

"I am in debt" is another excuse you will meet. Have we not some debts to God to Christ and to the church? Are we not indebted to those who built the churches in which we have worshipped and from which we have benefitted? Are we not under obligations to help erect a building in which the coming generation may have the same privileges?

If some one says: "I never make obligations ahead," say to him: "To take out life insurance, to borrow money, to rent a house, to purchase on installments, to join a lodge—all these involve financial obligations. The purchase of a home involves annual taxes. To own a car is to involve oneself for gasoline. To marry a wife is to assume a lifelong obligation for her support. Certainly a church building is important enough to merit similar willingness to assume definite obligations.

"When I get out of debt, I will subscribe." A millionaire said recently: "I went in debt to buy a lot when I was earning only $12 per week, and I have been in debt ever since. "Most men, like myself, go in debt to make money, and are more or less in debt all their lives." If debts are excuse for refusing to help build a church, one can keep always in debt and so make such an excuse forever.

A common excuse is: "We are poor." Beyond doubt, some members of this congregation can honestly make this excuse. But even the poor widow can give her mites if she truly loves the church. The Lord Jesus will appreciate a dollar or two a month from some more than thousands of dollars from others—for liberality is measured by sacrifice. But even the poorest should invest a little. Then they will feel like partners in the church and will benefit more from the building when it is completed. But—some who give this excuse should be reminded that they are rich compared with their great grandfathers, that they spend liberally for other things, and that the average income of pagan peoples is only 15 or 20 cents a day. We do not know, in Christian lands, what poverty means. The gospel of Christ has made the poorest of us the envy of unchurched millions.

"Financial conditions are bad" will be heard in some cases. Two things can be said. First, that the church should have built and they should have contributed when financial conditions were good, that we owe the Lord a lot of back pay for the good times of the past, and that, since we have so long postponed paying our share of a worthy Presbyterian church in Anaheim, we should do it now even if we take it out of our capital. The Bible tells us that Barnabas, when the church was in need of funds, sold a field and put the price in the church treasury, probably thus paying up some back debts to the Lord.

In the second place, financial conditions will soon improve. A prominent member said to me this morning: "I have been in business for 25 years in Anaheim. I have noticed that when times are good or bad in the east, we have the same sort of times a year later. "Last year, times were very bad among farmers, manufacturers and other classes in the east, so times aer bad here now. Since the election, times have improved mightily. Farm product prices in Iowa doubled in six months. Factories in many cases have doubled their output since the election. Everywhere, far-sighted leaders in country and city prophecy the best financial period since the war for the next four years.

Those who feel that they "want so times are bad here now. Since to wait and see" must be reminded that they have over four years in which to pay, that California has never had four bad years in succession. A walnut growers said at South Pasadena in their campaign: "I have lost money for two years, and I cannot pay till I have a good crop, but walnuts have never gone over three years without a good crop. Since I have four years to pay, I am certain of one good crop or two out of which I will pay my subscriptin of $5,000." On faith in the future, we make business investments. Let us invest in this church building on the same basis.

DOES ADVERTISING PAY?

—Advertising has made the Victrola dog famous.

—It has put Castoria down your throat, left bristles in your gums, and then came along with a Rubberset and took them out.

—It has put Sozodont, Pebbeco and Pepsodent on your teeth.

—It has put a Gillette against your hayfield.

—It has put Murine in your eye, sold you Cuticura for pimples, Pears for the bath, and Ivory for the tub.

—It has put Arrow collars around your neck and Ingersolls around your wrist.

—It has jammed your feet in Holeproof sox, put Paris garters on your legs and Tiffany rings on your fingers.

—It has worn out your jaws on Wrigley's and posted you on what to buy to cure corns, warts and bunions and ingrowing toenails.

Go anywhere you want to, do anything you wish, and advertising has had a hand in it—absolutely.

And then some people ask—"Does advertising pay?"—Kansas City Club News.

5 DEAD, 2 HURT FROM LANDSLIDE

SEATTLE, Jan. 24.—Five men were dead, two were hovering on the brink of death and another was suffering from serious injuries today, victims of a landslide yesterday at the "Stone and Webster Construction camp of the Baker river power plant at Concrete.

Charles Barkus of Seattle; Robert Small of Concrete; Andy Norman of Bremerton; Richard Turner of Henderson, North Carolina, and L. W. Anderson of Bremerton were killed.

The most seriously injured are Frank Heffernan, son of J. T. Heffernan, Seattle capitalist, and W. J. Steele, also of Seattle. Sidney Curtis, of Oakdale, was only slightly hurt.

The men were eating lunch in the derrick house when the slide ocurred. Heffernan, Skeele and Curtis were imprisoned under heavy machinery which broke the full impact of the slide, saving their lives, but the others were apparently killed instantly. The bodies of the dead men were not recovered until nearly 12 hours of feverish work by their comrades, who at first hoped to find them alive.

Reapportionment Failure Predicted

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—With the biennial bill hopper again running over and the members impatient to get back to their homes, the first half of the 46th session of the California state legislature came to an end today.

Though the session has been the briefest in history more measures were presented than two years ago, and what is in these bills even their own sponsors are not altogether sure.

The work of sifting them out and beating them into acceptable new laws is the labor of the next session which will begin Monday, Feb. 24.

Reapportionment is still a leading issue, and will probably bleed to death as has been the case in two past sessions.

The south is standing on the principal of law and will accept no compromise. The north is standing pat on the larger welfare of the state and with a militant farm bloc to make the fight has nothing to worry over as to the final outcome, in its opinion.

Of the 1800 or more bills presented the largest single group is made up of insurance bills.

Los Angeles has been the most persistent community factor here during the first half of the session.

Determined to have reapportionment, a state prison in the south, an asylum for the insane, a separate state university, a state building and other institutions, if possible, the southerners have been extremely busy.

To further this program the Los Angeles C. of C. has been sounding out members here in regard to an excursion to be made south early in March by the entire legislature. The chamber, is was said, has raised a fund of $15,000 for this purpose.

With the budget disposed of and everyone satisfied on that score ,the second half of the session will have free sway for the following measures:

Highway financing program; conservation, including the referestration program of the California Development League; water programs and taxation. These are the more important measures which the lawmakers will consider.

Capital punishment, or rather its abolishment will be at the front in the consideration of the legislators. Two members, Sen. Roy Fellom from San Francisco, and Assemblyman Sydney Graves, of Los Angeles have measures before the legislature to do awy with hanging of murderers in California.

KUALA, Lamhore Straits Settlement, Jan. 24.—Two Europeon officials and a Chinese girl anarchist were seriously wounded today by the explosion of a bomb hurled by the girl, who indicated in a statement that she wanted to kill the governor. The injured Europeans were Edward Richards and Wm. Blythe.

STARS SEEN DURING ECLIPSE

from the sun winked out the total eclipse set in for its brief period.

Scientists and laymen viewed the scene in awe. The scientists with their photographic instruments capable of making accurate observations and records, spent a crowded, nervous few minutes.

Airplanes, high in the sky, gave other scientists and newspapermen a chance to make "close up" photographs of the phenomena.

Laymen gazed at the astral spectacle in astonishment. They turned to each other, passed smoked glasses about and commented in an excited fashion. Most of them frankly admitted they did not understand it from its scientific standpoint but they were unanimous in voicing it a "great show."

Scientists, eager that the laymen be not left in the dark—except of course, for that wonderful minute or two—delivered talks to them thru the radio broadcasting stations and they were listened to with as much attention as a world series.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 24.—The bright red of this morning sky was blotted for two full minutes today at 9:12 a. m. in a total eclipse of the sun by the moon.

As the hundred mile wide shadow of the moon swept over New Haven on its way to the Atlantic ocean from Duluth, Minn., this city craned its neck in awe while a battalion of scientists glued unblinking eyes to telescopes and camera to record the phenomena. The first total eclipse in a northeastern America since 1806. Aided by perfect weather conditions plus a ground blanket of snow, the main glories of the eclipse were unfolded to the naked eye. The sun's corona, the shadow bands, gleaming stars and flaming streamers were observed by millions in the vicinity.

The famous shadow bands began to play over the sides of buildings a few minutes before the total eclipse.

At 9:10 the ominous shadow of the moon appeared from the west and the horizon dropped away, the great shadow rushed toward New Haven at the terrific speed of a mile a second. The millions of watching humanity forgot to breathe.

Prof. Ernest U. Brown in charge of observations at Yale University showed "stations" to the gathered scientists Prof. J. A. Miller of Swarthmore College repeated the order to his corps.

While a freezing wind moaned thru the instruments set up on a snow clad field, the scientists took their allotted places. Two women and a 13 year old boy were in the squad. Mrs. R. W. Marriott manned a spectrograph. Miss Mary France focussed a 70-inch camera and Max Miller 13, son of Prof. Miller, guided a 17 inch camera. Brown made a tender adjustment of his new device for photographing the sun's corona. The novel feature of the instrument was a pendulum swinging in front of the camera lens, allowing for fractional picturization.

Prof. Miller piloted the twin Einstein camera with its history-making possibilities. The assistants mounted to their scaffolds, ready to uncover the giant lenses.

"One minute to go," shouted Geo. Clothier, timekeeper. "Draw your slides."

"Thirty seconds to go. Uncover" roared Clothier over the wind.

Bending close to his chronometer he began counting "one, two, three four, five, six, seven, eight, nine."

The moment of the eclipse has arrived.

"Flash" yelled each camera captain. The timekeeper called off the precious 120 seconds. Telescopes were swinging. Science tried to look a million years within the two minutes.

Thirteen year old Max Miller was shivering beside his camera. Perhaps he was cold.

Meanwhile the mechanism of business in New Haven had halted.

As the shrouded sun began to reappear, a patrolman directing traffic, blew his whistle, and the thin stream of vehicles took on life. The sun also continued on its way.

NATURE TRUMP ACE

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—Nature trumped its own ace today. Her best show of the century, a total solar eclipse, was veiled by a clouded sky over Chicago.

The clouded sky over the city so covered the sky that the eclipse made it seem as though daylight was only a bit late. There were strange shadows, only a murky darkness, as a belated sun.

In the "loop," the business district, a low hanging cloud of smoke, helped the clouds to hide nature's show.

The darkness held until 8 o'clock and then Saturday, Jan. 24, was on its way under cover of dark low-hung clouds.

At 8:30 o'clock half an hour after the near total eclipse was scheduled to apear it was as near daylight as could be expected on a cold cloudy winter day.

Whipped by a stiff north wind, clouds pushed into the east built a gray wall between the laymen who lined office building windows and packed roofs and piers into the lake, from seeing more than the usual Chicago early morning grayness.

FEAR INTERFERENCE

LONDON, Jan. 24.—England's chief concern in the eclipse seemed to be whether it would interfere with the Saturday football game. There seemed an even chance that it would be visible when the truant sun broke thru the haze shortly before noon.

Street venders of small smoked glasses immediately met a bullish market.

Special observations wer ade from Greenwich observatory and Broadcasting tests were carried out to determine its effect on radio waves.

SKY OBSCURED

YERKES OBSERVATORY, WILLIAMS BAY, Mich., Jan. 24.—As the duration of the totality of the solar eclipse expired, Prof. Edwin B. Frost of the astronomers gathered to photograph and study the phenomenon here today, declared that the clouded sky had obscured the eclipse so that "it is doubtful whether observations of any value to science were made." Photographs were taken, Prof. Frost said, but they are not expected to disclose anything more than perhaps some light phenomena that is usual in a solar eclipse.

FLY ABOVE CLOUDS

ABOARD NAVAL DIRIGIBLE LOS ANGELES, OVER NANTUCKET, Mass., Jan. 24.—(By radio to International News Service at 6:30 a. m.)—We are off Coney Island. Our altitude is 3000 feet and the temperature is 8 above zero. Our cruising speed, with five engines working, is 70 knots.

We passed clouds at an altitude of 2000 feet. The sky is clear. Sunrise was unobstructed by fog or clouds. It looks as though the eclipse observations will be perfect.

Smoked Glasses Unnecessary

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 24.—Des Moines citizens who left their beds early today to witness the eclipse did not have to wear smoked glasses. In fact, the atmosphere was so well smoked that they will have to take some other person's word that Old Sol really was hidden by any other cause than the well known "burn Iowa coal" slogan.

VERY SUCCESSFUL

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 24.—"Marvelously successful," according to Prof. Ernest W. Brown of Yale University's astronomical department, was the observation here today of the sun's eclipse.

"All observers were agreed that the observation was taken under exceptionally favorable conditions" said Prof. Brown.

EXTREMELY HIGH TIDES

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—Extremely high tides, believed due to the eclipse of the sun, were officially reported here today by the naval observatory at Mare Island.

BLAMES ECLIPSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The eclipse of the sun was blamed today for a spectacular affray in the United States capitol when a barber, fearing that the world was coming to an end, pulled out a big razor and slashed the face of a white man.

The negro was E. C. Washington, employed in the senate barber shop, and the white man was Richard H. Gay, an assistant engineer employed at the capitol.

FIRPO ARRESTED

PARIS, Jan. 24.—Luis Firpo, Argentine fighter, was arrested today by a traffic policeman because his British automobile license did not conform to French specifications.

EXPECT DISTURBANCES

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—Earthquakes and general weather disturbances the latter especially marked in the western portion of the United States will follow the morning's eclipse of the sun, Father Jerome S. Rickard, astronomer at Santa Clara University told I. N. S. today.

Confirming a prediction made several weeks ago Father Rickard famous as the Padre of the rains said that his observations at the Santa Clara observatory during the past 48 hours convinced him his earlier prediction would prove correct.

Father Rickard pointed out that there was not the slightest possibility of earthquakes or earth tremors in the United States and that any disturbances of such character would be thousands of miles from here.

The earthquake shocks will be the strongest at about 2 degrees north of the equator and may be felt on either the Atlantic or Pacific Coasts.

In California, Arizona and the southwest stroms will follow the eclipse and rain probably will be received in San Diego, Los Angeles and Arizona, Father Rickard said.

BRYAN AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Jan, 24.—William J. Bryan viewed the eclipse of the sun today from that vantage point he has so long sought—the White House.

The Commoner was an early caller on President Coolidge and was closeted with him in conference for a quarter of an hour. What the object of his mission was, he declined to say. He was willing, however, to talk about the eclipse.

"The eclipse," said Bryan "is much like a Democratic defeat—it is only temporary. The sun will shine again."

GALE RIPS BALLOON

GENEVA, N. Y., Jan. 24.—A 45-mile gale ripped the fast racing balloon in which the Univ. of Mich., solar eclipse party was about to ascend at 8:30 o'clock this morning with Ralpse Upson, Detroit engineer and former national balloon racing champion, as pilot. There was no ascent.

None of the party was hurt.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 24.—Banks here reported today that a number of negro depositors have withdrawn their money during the last few days, giving as the reason that they wanted to have it in case "anything happened" in connection with the eclipse of the sun.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Jan. 24.—The highest tides on record here for several years, exceeding even those of the storm period last fall, are attracting the attention of tourists and residents. Belief is that they are caused by the eclipse of the sun.

STUDIED ATEMPT TO CAUS ACTION

tion at the end of the legal six months.

"On the other hand, if the four dry officials are turned to office there can be no councilmanic election until the regular date in April, 1926, as the law says there can be no second attempt to recall an official returned to office under such circumstances.

"My advice to the people of Anaheim, if they want to see things move along prosperously this year, is to go to the polls Feb. 3 and re-elect the four dry councilmen. When the terms of office expire is ample time for opposition."

The following from C. W. Courtney, empolyed in Anaheim but living outside the city. He is wellknown by Anaheim service men. He was in the hospital for a long time after the armistice, suffering from serious wounds in both legs and a shoulder suffered in front of a battery.

Anaheim, California.
January 24, 1925.

The Citizens of Anaheim:

The personal attack made on Wm. P. Webb, Jr. in "The Bulletin" to me was the greatest blow received by a peace loving citizen. It cut very deep to think that Anaheim should have a person of such a low character and principal as to conceive such a cowardly, and contemptuous letter, it would be bad enough to write such an article at any time, much less to attack a man helplessly sick in bed. I fought in France side by side with Webb and personally know that the man was up fighting for his country plowing thru mud, rain soaked to the skin, when in such a condition that he should have been sick of the line in the hospital. In fact he was ordered back to the hospital but refused to go. What truer type of man could we find today than one so willing to go through such for mankind. I call it being a TRUE YANKEE. I give this with a hope that the broad minded people of Anaheim will be able to form a correct opinion of the facts. I have neither political or religious animosity toward any one in this town, but rather that of one for peace. I do not have a vote here and have nothing to loose or gain one way or the other, and only hope that Anaheim will overlook the article and remember Webb is a true hero.

Anaheim, Cal. Jan. 23, 1925

The Plain Dealer: "Whom the gods seek to destroy they first make mad." Of all the mean things published in the Bulletin I was most shocked last evening when I read the venemous and cruel attack on our city attorney, Wm. P. Webb, Jr. I was more shocked this evening when I read the article accusing Rev. J. A. Geissinger of being its author. It is hard for me to believe that a minister of the gospel would stoop so low as to say such things of a man who did all Mr. Webb has done for our county, and especially Mr. Webb is on a bed of suffering because of it.

I have known Billie Webb ever since he came to Anaheim a little boy seven or eight years old and know him to be a clean, upright young man.

I would like to shake hands with the soldier who replied to that cowardly article and with the soldier I will say I believe many votes will be changed because of it. Every christian in the White Temple should be justly indignant because of it. Respectfully (Mrs.) Hattie E. Thayer Warner, 506 E. Broadway.

The Plain Dealer: I was shocked beyond comprehension after reading the article in the Anaheim Bulletin pertaining to our friend and comrade of the late war, Wm. Webb, of which your paper gives as the author one J. A. Geissinger. It would seem that a preacher of the gospel of Jesus Christ would not have time to carry on a drama of hate but instead follow the teachings of the one who is supreme over all.

The attack to say the least, was a cowardly one, one which an enemy on the field of battle would not take advantage of, and which we would least expect from a minister of the gospel To give such an individual the title of "Reverend" would not be doing justice to those good people who follow the life of a minister of the gospel. If he expects to get the title of the "Fighting Parson" thru these escapades, it will be well for him to forget it, as his reputation has followed from the previous pulpits he has held, and we might refer to our last Defense Day as an example of his patriotic spirit.

It was all right for him to run around the community sowing the seed of discontent, and undermine the channels of our business, because he has nothing to lose. Perhaps he thinks he can go to another pulpit and begin all over again, and by the time they get tired of him there he will have crawled a little closer to the end of his active career. However, we are not going to allow him to take advantage of a man who went thru "hell" in the protection of his flag and his country, and especially so when he is unable to defend himself on account of a physical handicap brought on by the performance of that duty. I have known Comrade Webb a number of years, and if there is anything that could be found detrimental to his character, let's have it. It cannot be found. It is an unwritten law that when enemies meet on the field of combat, and one is unable to defend himself through wounds, the other will give him succor.

The same was demonstrated in the greatest war the world has ever known. Thru it all we were never accused of being unfair in those tactics. How different today with one who goes to church on Sunday and offers a prayer from a mind of hate, then goes out among men breeding prejudice. Is it not a fact that a man thinketh so he is?

In conclusion I want to say that all loyal Legion men stand squarely behind Comrade Webb today the same as back in those dark days of '17 '18.

Respectfully
A SOLDIER.

The Plain Dealer: Praise to the soldier who told the truth about Attorney Webb. Oh, that there were a few more men of such character. Just give a certain preacher enough rope and he will find the end. My husband served 18 months over there in the navy. And to think that a minister would make such remarks about a man with such a war record as Wm. Webb, when he is sick in bed. The stay-at-home-slackers forget too soon what the boys did for them.—A Sailor's Wife and proud of it.

MAY REMOVE GIRL FROM S. F. JAIL

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—Belief of police that the life of Dorothy Ellingson, the 16-year-old girl, who sent a death bullet into her mother's head from behind and then fled to attend a bootleg liquor dancing party, is constantly in danger, may cause her removal to another city.

It was stated by Captain of Detectives Duncan Matheson today that unless threats against the girl stopped she would be secreted from San Francisco and placed in jail in a nearby city.

Attempts to make Dorothy pay for her crime with her own life reached a crisis when she was mailed a hangman's noose. The noose, with its grim knot, was anonymously sent to the girl by mail but did not reach the child's hands because of precautions taken by the police to examine the girl's heavy mail.

An investigation of the mailing of the noose was launched by the police and efforts will be made to trace the writer of a letter found attached to the rope. The letter said:

"You had courage to kill your mother, now have enough courage to use this on yourself.'

A large quantity of candy and fruit received by the girl during the past few days was destroyed by the officers, who feared the "gifts" contained poison.

Attorney Alexander Mooslin, in charge of the girl's defense, demanded today that a constant guard be kept over the girl and around the Hall of Justice where she is confined in the women's ward of the city prison. Mooslin said he had received threats in the mails against himself and Dorothy.

Dorothy was not informed of the sending of the hangman's noose but she learned threatening letters and possibly poisoned candy and fruits had been mailed to her.

"I am not afraid as long as I am in jail but when I am free I want to go away where no one will be able to find me," she said. "I can hardly wait until Thursday comes to appear in juvenile court for I am sure I will get favorable action there and my troubles will soon be over."

The girl agreed when urged by Captain Matheson, to sign complaints against Harry Chinitz, Keith Lord, Emil Kreuter and Davi Stern members of a jazz orchestra, who are held on charges of contributing to the girl's delinquency. The quartet will be brought before Police Judge Lazarus on Jan. 29.

SPANKING URGED TO CURB GIRLS

It wasn't with the some lightness of foot that she tripped into the courtroom that Evelyn Wagner, 15-year-old "toe dancer" of Los Angeles, departed from Judge Z. B. West's court at Santa Ana yesterday, her application for marriage annulment delayed, for from the bench she had just heard the court's denunciation of juvenile marriages and threat of criminal action.

A coy blonde, Mrs. Wagner who said she married Van Wagner three weeks after her arrival from Chicago, seemed somewhat electrified by Judge West's stern words of threat. Stern words, it appeared, were different from the soft pleadings of admiration her wooer had poured into her ears a few weeks before.

'Van wanted me to marry him', she told the court, "and when we came to Santa Ana to be wed, he told me to say I was 19, so I did."

"Did you punish her?" the court asked the mother. When he received a negative answer the court recommended spanking.

When Judge West was told by counsel for the mother that the girl already was a ward of the Los Angeles juvenile court, he took the matter of annulment under advisement for decision at a later date. Wagner, the 27-year-old husband, has been arrested on a charge of perjury, the case arising out of the marriage.

ASCOT TRACK REOPENS TOMORROW WITH NINE EVENT CARD

APPLICATIONS NUMBER 200,000

Rush On For 1925 License Plates; Pink Slips Save Delay

Applications received by mail by the State Motor Vehicle Dept. for 1925 motor licenses have already reached the 200,000 mark, according to the touring department of the National Auto club. Will H. Marsh, chief of the division of motor vehicles, in a recent communication stated that delivery of the plates for these applications will be made about Feb. 2. In mailing in applications to the state vehicle department motorists are urged to send the pink ownership slip with the white registration blank. When pink slips cannot be located the applicant may forward white slip on which places will be mailed after proper verification has been made. It is obvious, however, that this method will be much slower, as considerable time will be needed to properly verify ownership where pink slip is missing.

According to the department, the state highway commission has given its hearty endorsement to the new convict pay law placed in operation under its direction. Discussing the convict road camp situation the report received by the club goes on to say: "Much greater relief could be given the prison situation and far more benefit accomplished for state prisoners by getting more prisoners into road camps. If this method of construction is to be extended, it should be by direct legislative appropriation to finance each camp for a two-year period, or the highway funds used for this purpose should be relieved to the extent of the saving to the prison funds."

USED CAR LOT OPENED BY GROVE

H. R. Grove has leased part of the big lot opposite the showroom on East Center-st and is using it for used cars. The lease was made from William Sperber, jr., who still has ample room for parking cars.

Grove has a good variety of used cars, particularly of the smaller makes, which are being offered at attractive prices.

Leon Duray and Frank Lockhart, however, were both reinstated a few days ago.

DIVISION OF REVENUES IS UNSETTLED

Taxes to raise $10,000,000 annually in combination with a $25,000,000 bond issue were recommended this week by Gov. Richardson's highway committee of nine.

However, four methods of raising revenue are suggested: Successive bond issues to the amount of $200,000,000 over 15 years or more; ad valorem taxes on the state's general property to produce at least $10,000,000; direct legislative appropriations of at least $20,000,000 each two years, and increased taxes on gas, licenses and weights.

The committee finds itself unable to agree on the proper apportionment of future expenditures between the 13 southern counties and the northern 45. In the former group 57 per cent of the registration is found, while 60 per cent of future expenditures will be required in the latter group.

The highway between Orange and San Bernardino will not be accepted by the State Highway Commission as a state highway. The request of the three counties concerned has been denied by the committee.

Arrowhead lake may be reached by the Waterman canyon or the route via Cajon Pass and Hesperia at this time, but skid chains are necessary via both routes. Ice skating is to be had. Two or three inches of snow reported at this lake.

STORM RISING AGAINST TAX

Breed 3c Gas Tax Act Introduced Yesterday, Roundly Scored

A storm of objections to an increase in the gasoline tax from two to three cents as proposed yesterday in a bill introduced by Senator A. H. Breed of Piedmont, is rising all over the state.

For once, the oil companies and the general public are united in rebellion against a proposed state act.

Assemblywoman Grace S. Dorris of Bakersfield says of the tax:

"As I see it, the real question is not how to raise more highway funds, but why. The motoring public have stood for the 2 cent tax on gasoline, but I am sure they will follow the action of the voters of Massachusetts in the event any legislation increasing the present gasoline tax should be enacted. In Massachusetts last November the people voted down increased taxation as represented by a 2 cent gas tax by a majority of 270,000.

"The present gasoline tax is in effect a sales tax, and while there are many advocates of that form of taxation, the extreme limit which I have ever heard suggested for that sort of tax was about two per cent, whereas this sales tax, if increased to 3 cents per gallon is equal to 20 per cent of the rental price. The present 2 cent tax is equivalent to 12 1-2 per cent of the value of the commodity sold. This is a high ad-valorem tax. Even the government in taxing nonessentials such as theater tickets considers ten per cent of the price of the tickets sold sufficient. Gasoline is a staple commodity and a necessity, and a higher ad-valorem tax is unwarranted and unsound in economic principle.

"Using 1924 revenues and estimated 1925 revenues as a base, a total gasoline tax income under the existing law amounting to $263,805,422 would be obtained during the ten year period beginning with 1926. For the same period registration fees would bring an additional revenue of $134,916,599. Federal aid amounting to $2,750,000 per year and bus and stage revenues of $600,000 per year, a combined total of $33,500,000 for ten years, are not included in the foregoing estimate.

"The total revenue from all the foregoing sources would be $432,220,021, or an average of over $43,000,000 annually.

"If a gasoline tax of 1 cent per gallon should be added to the present tax an additional revenue of $131,907,711 would be derived from 1926 to 1935. If as has been proposed, $2 is added to the registration fees, an additional revenue of $50,211,080 would be derived.

"In addition to these proposals it has been suggested that there will be an increase in fees for trucks which would bring in receipts of many millions of dollars. Leaving this entirely out of consideration, the other increases would bring the grand total, counting all receipts under the present law to $614,422,812. Increased truck fees, plus probable increases in bus and stage fees, would bring the total revenues to more than $700,000,000.

"All these millions would have to come out of the pockets of California motorists, again excepting Federal aid. In view of this it seems to me that the motoring public has a kick coming if the legislature attempts to enact the proposed legislation."

USED FORDS ON HAND EXCEPTIONAL

Manager McNelly of the Motor Sales Co.'s used car department reports that the concern has on hand an exceptionally good stock of used Fords, from which to select, including coupes, roadsters and a sedan.

These Fords have been completely overhauled, repainted and furnished with good tires and extras including in some cases Ruxstall axles, motometers, side springs, etc.

Musser's grade, on the way to San Diego, is now being paved and no traffic is permitted over it. Travel to Ramona or Julian advised to go either by way of Escondido and San Pasqual grade or by way of Descanso and Cuyamaca, both routes being in good condition. The work on Musser's grade is scheduled to be completed by March 15.

INSPECTIONS REQUIRED OF GUEST CARS

No non-resident motor car will be registered or will license plates be issued to any applicant without first submitting the automobile to the inspection of Motor Vehicle Officers or to duly delegated peace officers who will be assigned to this detail, according to a statement issued by Will Marsh, Superintendent State Motor Vehicle Department to the theft bureau of the National Auto Club.

This statement was made in the wake of a story printed in various newspapers thruout the state to the effect that cars of non-residents would be registered by auto clubs without inspection of motor numbers or titles.

This haphazard method of registration, according to Marsh, would pull down the bars to the entry of stolen cars into California and render worthless the present state title law which has been held up as a model to other states.

This is one of the provisions of the State Motor Vehicle Act in which Marsh has been deeply interested, insofar as it has protected the innocent purchaser from ANY STOLEN CARS IN YOUR GARAGE?

Observing the law on the part of one private garage owner has just resulted in the recovery of a high-priced stolen car, according to the Auto Club of So. Calif.

License numbers, the number of engine and other data valuable in tracing stolen cars should be placed on blanks furnished by the police department by the owner renting a garage. This enables the authorities to check on the renter and make sure that the garage is not being used to conceal stolen property.

One of the first things to be done with a stolen automobile is to hide it until it can be altered, by repainting, defacing engine number, etc., for resale. Usually the thief rents a private garage for a hiding place. This is the reason the city ordinance demands reports from private garage owners.

BAIL SCALES FIXED

Pedestrians who violate the new Los Angeles traffic ordinance must have $5 bail ready. Drivers' bail fees already have been fixed, ranging from $10 to $100, according to offense.

An ordinary cold will run its course in four or five days; anything we may take will cure it within that time.

protects pedestrians further at alleys and driveways, makes motorists exercise greater care in turning, and provides a 45-minute fraudulent sales of stolen vehicles, this provision also protects the motor car dealer from dishonest competition.

Legislative Program This Year Rings Many Changes in Statutes

The following summary of proposed legislation has been prepared by the [illegible]onal Auto Club. Here are the important changes in the Motor Vehicles Act suggested by the various legislators a[illegible] a few of the highway problems to be debated.

1. Increase of 1 cent per gallon in the gasoline tax and an increase in the license fee to be computed on a weight basis, probably $7.50 for a car weighing 2500 pounds, tax to provide funds for new highway construction.

2. The report of the Committee of Nine appointed under act of the last legislature to prepare a summary of highway conditions in California and to recommend roads for inclusion into the state highway system as well as to suggest means of financing this new highway work.

3. Change in allocation of revenue derived from present gas tax and motor vehicle license fees to permit the use of a portion of the present maintenance fund for new construction.

4. Establishment of a new scale of tax on trucks and motor busses to be determined on weight or mileage basis.

5. Change of method of issuing driving permits so as to provide for examinations as to the mental and physical fitness of the applicants.

6. Abolition of all grade crossings throughout California within a certain period.

7. A definite interpretation of the present stat speed law so as to prevent small towns from preying upon the motoring public and levying unjust tribute from traffic passing through.

8. Compulsory Liability insurance provision covering the operation of all motor cars in California.

Ten inches of snow is reported at Big Bear lake and ice skating in popular. Motorists planning a trip to this point should go via the desert route and skid chains should be used from the foot of the Cushenbury grade to the valley proper as snow will be found in spots.

BAN ON MAGNETO LIGHTS POSTPONED

W. H. Marsh, chief of the state division of motor vehicles, announces that his department does not wish to work a hardship upon the thousands of automobile owners in demanding that the changing of their lighting systems from magneto to either battery or Presto-light be done immediately. The time has been extended to March 1. However, this will be the last date upon which a car with lights operated off the magneto will be permitted to operate in this state.

The legal department of the National Auto club calls attention to the following state regulations regarding lights on automobiles: Lights must be shown from one-half hour after sunset to one-half hour before sunrise. Two head and one tail light are required and a red light visible from the front is prohibited. An approved dimming device is required. A tail light is required on all parked vehicles unless the street has sufficient light to reveal objects 200 feet distant. Spot lights must not be adjusted to throw a beam more than 2 inches above the roadway at a distance of 100 feet.

1924 VIOLATIONS NUMBER 67,256

During the calendar year 1924, according to a report of Will H. Marsh, chief of the State Division of Motor Vehicles, 67,256 persons were convicted of violating the Motor Vehicle Act, an increase of 35 per cent over 1923, when convictions numbered 49,845. The license of 250 persons were revoked and of several hundred other persons suspended. Speeding was the offense of 40,145 and 14,2[illegible] were convicted of driving feckless[illegible]y.

CROWELL'S BUSINESS GROWS

H. P. Crowell, whose used car business has grown from a few cheap Fords to 14 machines, including Buicks of recent models, is preparing to receive on his lot on North Lemon-st the cars of authorized dealers taken in on trade-ins which he will resell. This business has been allowed to be passed up for some months past, says Crowell.

By combining, dealers can save themselves the heavy overhead expense of separate lots.

MANY STARS WILL FLASH PAST FANS

Schraeder, Ormsby, Davidson and Others at Big Re-opening

The Ascot Speedway will be reopened tomorrow afternoon with one of the old-time bunches of stars and a card that should tickle the spine of every fan who has any tickle left in him.

The speed kings will include Gus Schrader of Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Georges Beck of Chicago, Cliff Bergue, Floyd Roberts, Ralph Ormsby, Indianapolis dirt track champion, "Fuzzy" Davidson, "Curley" Young, George Howard, etc.

The Italian Colony Victory Crown dash, Golden State Sweepstakes, in 15 laps, and seven other events will comprise the card, which Manager Jack White is arranging for the crowd.

The track this week was much rougher than before, but Manager White hoped to put it into condition in time for tomorrow's race.

One of the interesting figures will be "Speed" Cantlon, of Detroit, who learned the racing game under Henry Ford's speed ace, Frank Kulick.

M. Goto, the Jap, who has been seen frequently on the track, will also compete.

HIGHER GAS TAX TALK GROWS

Talk of higher gas prices in California has been renewed with the announcement that advances have been made or are in prospect thruout the territory east of the Mississippi.

Confidence! Comes First

The market is literally flooded with Radio Equipment. Prices apparently representing great bargains and claims of alluring accomplishments are held out on all sides. In such a situation you must look for those characteristics—sound and assuring—that command confidence—confidence not only in the merchandise, but more particularly in the dealer, whose judgment and recommendation must be depended upon.

CLUB NEWS CHURCH AND

ELABORATE IS INSTALLATION OF TWO ORDERS

THE new Odd Fellows Temple was the meeca last evening of about six hundred Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and friends who witnessed the beautiful installation ceremonies of Lois Rebekah Lodge No. 268 and Anaheim Encampment No. 105, and to get a glimpse into the new Temple which was pronounced by the state officers as the most beautiful in all California. It made a perfect setting for the installation of the Rebekahs by Mrs. Lulu D. Nankervis, district deputy president of Westminster and of the Encampment by Claude Bamborough, district deputy grand patriarch, of Whittier.

The officers installed in the Rebekah lodge are: Acting Past Noble Grand, Mrs. Jennie Nelson; N. G., Mrs. Maggie Myers; V. G., Mrs. Bernardine Harris; Rec.-Secy, Mrs. Estella Pollard; Fin.-Secy., Mrs. Elsie Borth; Treas., Mrs. Hilda Skinner; R. S. to G., Mrs. Emma Hunton; L. S. to the N. G., Mrs. Addie McMillan; Warden, Mary Mitchell; Conductor, Mrs. Lillie Wick; Chaplain, Mrs. Amanda Hill; R. S. to V.-G., Miss Elizabeth Mang; L. S. to V.-G., Mrs. Mildred Allen; I. G., Mrs. Grace Ahlstrom; O. G., Mrs. Fannie Webb; Musician, Mrs. Estella Ludwigs. Officers of Anaheim Encampment are: Chief Patriarch, James A. Morefield; H. P., Henry Patton; Warden, Ben H. Folkers; Rec. Scribe, Henry H. Mang; Fin. Scribe Eugene B. Johnson; Treas. Clinton R. Nelson; Guide, John E. Dierberger; F. W. Max J. Affachiner; S. W. Clayton Allen; T. W., Cullen L. Spencer; F. W., Tom Sheldon; O. S., Irving R. Gates; I. S. J. E. Anderson; F. G. of T., D. T. Beckett; S. G. of T., Roy Pollock.

Following the ceremonies the Rebekah installing staff was presented with hand painted china plates and flowers and the encampment staff with boutonnieres. Mrs. Jennie Nelson, retiring noble grand, was presented with a beautiful past noble grand's pin from the Rebekah lodge, in appreciation of her faithfulness and successful term of office. The presentation was made by Miss Hannah L. Horwitz. In return Mrs. Nelson presented the staff of officers with dainty hand embroidered gifts. In behalf of the degree staff of the Lois Rebekah lodge, Mrs. Jelena Nelson presented Mr. William H. Mang with a beautiful ruby, emblematic I. O. O. F. ring. Mr. Mang has been captain of the degree staff for almost ten years and in appreciation of his valued assistance he was presented with this gift.

Other grand officers present were Mr. C. A. Palmer, grand warden of the I. O. O. F., Grand lodge, Mr. D. N. C. Dimick, district deputy grand master; China Fannie M. Lacy, past president of the Rebekah assembly, and Mrs. Amelia Prather, marshall of the Rebekah assembly and Mrs. Martin, district Deputy president of district No. 26. These officers all gave short talks and were presented with flowers.

At the close of the evening refreshments of ice cream, wafers and coffee were served in the new banquet room which was used by the lodges for the first time. Every one went home feeling that the evening served as an inspiration for further advancement in the work of Odd Fellowship.

First Tea of Year

The silver tea yesterday by Pythian Sisters, at the Mrs. Lillian Davis home, was the first of the new year and brought several guests from out of town. The conversation concerned activities for the future weeks, although no definite plans were laid. Each lady brought her fancy work along and took many a stitch while visiting.

All the articles remaining unsold since the bazaar were disposed of, the members buying them for individual use. Light refreshments were served by the hostesses of the afternoon, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Clara Wilson.

Section Studies Lizst

After a two months' recess, the Music section of Ebell club will hold its regular meeting Monday at 2 p. m., with an interesting program. Each member is asked to bring a guest and the attendance is expected to be an inspiration to those participating in the numbers. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. T. S. and Miss Grimshaw, 112 West Broadway.

With the composer, Lizst, a topic, Mrs. William Palmerston will contribute the story of his life and Mrs. Margaret Buttree will reveal the character of his compositions through illustrations. Mrs. Buttree is well prepared on her topic and something specially nice is expected.

Two of Mrs. Buttree's pupils will play a duet and Miss Alice Grimshaw will contribute a solo. Current events will be in charge of Mrs. A. C. Pearson.

Join Higher Order

Mrs. Lulu Stott, Mrs. Cleo West and Mrs. Clara Wilson went to Los Angeles yesterday where they were initiated into the Past chief degree of Pythian Sisters. Meetings are held the first and third Monday days in the month in Los Angeles, beginning with a luncheon. Three candidates from other places also were received.

Grand Officer Visits

Carl Carmichael, regent; Mrs. Harriett K. Troutman, first vice-regent; Mrs. Nona Sampson, second vice-regent; Mrs. Edna S. Volk, recording secretary; Mrs. Sallie O. Pettigrew, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Laura S. Wiese, treasurer; Mrs. Mary Bryan, registrar; Mrs. Dora Gunnett, historian, and Miss Ina Stanley, Mrs. Gladys Evans, and Mrs. Marjorie Wickersheim, pages.

ANNIVERSARY MARKED WITH DINNER PARTY

THIRTY-FIVE years ago yesterday, in Corning, New York, mid snow and ice, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer G. Osborn, now of this city, took the vows "for better or for worse, in sickness and in health, 'til Death do us part." Last evening, in honor of the anniversary, they entertained at the family home, 306 E. South-st this city, with a sumptuous chicken dinner.

The table was centered with a lovely basket of blue cornflowers and marigolds with table appointments and favors carried out in the same colors. Following dinner the remainder of the evening was spent in happy conversation and various amusements.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. John Keefe, Misses Dorothy and Adelaide Osborn, Betty, Billy and Henry Chapman, all of Anaheim; Bowen A. Van Horn of Pomona and Charles M. Osborn of Los Angeles who with the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer G. Osborn enjoyed a most happy evening.

Entertains With Cards

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Snyder, of 908 North Zeyn-st, entertained a jolly company over the card tables when five hundred was the interesting game. Mrs. Joe Elliott won high score with 2220 points, while Mr. H. Cubberson received the booby prize for only 620 points.

Refreshments were served at a late hour to Mrs. Mildred Miller and daughter, Orange, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. "Andy" Anderson and the hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Snyder.

YUNGBLUTH MEMBER

F. A. Yungbluth is a member of the resolutions committee of the Retail Clothiers, Furnishers & Hatters' Ass'n of Calif., whose sixth annual convention will take place at the Hotel Virginia, Long Beach, March 10-12.

Miss Zina Smith of Riverside was visiting the home folks here Tuesday.

Mrs. Joe Vernon has recently returned home from Torrance after a very delightful visit with relatives.

TWO BOYS HAVE SAME BIRTHDAY WITH DINNER

THE birthda of two of Anaheim's young—very young—men was celebrated Thursday with a chicken dinner at the home of the elder, Master Jack Baumann, who had reached his fifth anniversary and divided honors of the affair with small Robert Marvin, aged two.

The elders seemed to enjoy the excellent chicken dinner quite as much as the honorees, but the little chaps did their best on the "drumsticks." Master Jack is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Baumann, 911 East Sycamore and little Robert is the baby boy of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Marvin.

The latter's adoring grandmother, Mrs. Cora Marvin, who is a winter guest, coming here several weeks ago from Illinois; Mr. Otto Schultz, also an easterner from Humbolt, Ia., and the parents of each boy composed the happy party.

Two birthday cakes, one with two, the other with five candles, graced the tables and delighted the ees of the little ones. Each boy received pretty gifts for the occasion, which was quite as enjoyable to the elders as the honored boys.

Locals on the Air

Reg. Taylor and Glenn Merrill, Anaheim vocalists and members of the Hills Rhodes Singers, with Sally Lee Scales, LaRue Mayer, Monroe Sharpless, Santa Ana, and B. E. Garroway, Orange, will sing this evening over radio KFI, from main Anthony studio. Sextette from Lucia, and the Pagliacci prologue are included in the chosen numbers. Four Los Angeles artists will also have places on the program.

It is a sure thing that admirers of the local men will be "listening-in" during that hour.

The first and third boys' basketball teams of Fullerton H. S. went to Long Beach this afternoon.

EXILED RUSSIANS IN CONCERT HERE

Alexander Dobrobotoff and his famous 20 piece Russian band and orchestra is the special added attraction at the California Theater for Sunday only.

This aggregation has earned the esteem of all who have heard them since their arrival in this country. They also enjoy the distinction of personally making all their instruments.

Exiles of Russia, from where they fled during the revolution, they became banded together in Shanghai by Dobrobotoff, himself an exile and brought here some months ago. Since then they have been heard in the music centers of the eastern states and their efforts have been received with much appreciation.

Dobrobotoff, the fiery leader was born in Leningrad some 40 years ago of a family which devoted its life to the study of music and his progress towards musical fame was rapid and at an early age he was appointed instructor to Prince Alexis, son of the Czar.

The act is not confined to playing of musical instruments alone, they also have several songs and dance numbers that are very clever, especially the portrayal of the Russian peasant dance by Helen Verda and Jeannie Dobrow. It is an artistically performed study in type, rhythm, humor and abandon. Fed up on Vodka, the rustic cavalier gloriously indulges himself to dance the national Russian "Kamarinskai," in which his bucolic lady love joins.

The cast in the production of "In Every Woman's Life," the photoplay for Sunday only is a notable one from the standpoint of the movie fan.

Virginia Valli plays the leading role, while the three outstanding male roles are played by Lloyd Hughes, Stuart Holmes and Marc McDermott, others in the cast are George Fawcett, Vera Lewis and Ralph Lewis.

The story has to do with the three men who figure at one time or another in every woman's life. They are the men she could have married, the man she married and the man she should have married. With these three men at one time in a high stratum of society, the developments are intensely dramatic. "In Every Woman's Life" is a First National Picture and was directed by Irving Cummings.

A Christie Comedy "Savage Love" with funny Jimmie Adams playing the leading role and Pathe Review complete the program.

FRISCO WELCOMES JAPANESE SAILORS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—Its streets gayly decorated with red and white flags of Japan flying with the stars and stripes, San Francisco today entertained more than 350 officers and cadets of the Japanese training squadron here for a week's visit.

At a formal ceremony in the city hall with Mayor James Rolph, jr., presiding, Vice Admiral Sakuva Hyakutake and his staff were welcomed to the United States and extended the hospitality of San Francisco and California.

The Japanese admiral and Vice Admiral Henry A. Wiley of the United States navy formally exchanged greetings.

Later the visitors were guests at a luncheon given by the chamber of commerce and afternoon sightseeing trips to the cadets and Nipponese officers followed.

THE DYING CHRISTIAN TO HIS SOUL

Vital spark of heav'nly flame!
Quit, O quit this mortal frame:
Trembling, hoping, ling'ring, flying,
O the pain, the bliss of dying!
Cease, fond Nature, cease thy strife,
And let me languish into life.

Hark! they whisper; angels say,
Sister Spirit, come away!
What is this absorbs me quite?
Steals my senses, shuts my sight,
Drowns my spirits, draws my breath?
Tell me, my soul, can this be death?

The world recedes; it disappears!
Heav'n opens on my eyes! My ears
With sounds seraphic ring!
Lend, lend your wings! I mount! I fly!
O grave! Where is thy victory?
O Death! Where is thy sting?
—Alexander Pope.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Salt Pork—Have the pork sliced thin, dip in flour and fry until brown and crisp. Put on hot platter. Pour off the fat left in the frying pan until only two tablespoons remain. Add a tablespoon of flour, mix smooth, gradually add a pint of milk took until thick and smooth, season and serve over toast with browned slices of pork. More flour may be used in gravy if it is not as thick as desired.

Macaroni Pudding—One package of macaroni, two tablespoons sugar, two cups milk, one egg and half teaspoon vanilla. Boil the macaroni in rapidly boiling water until tender. Pour off the water and drain. Put the milk and sugar and the macaroni for about fifteen minutes; add one beaten egg and half a teaspoon of vanilla extract. Put all in a buttered baking dish and bake half an hour. Serve hot with fruit sauce, either red raspberry or currant sauce preferred.

SUGGESTIONS

Perhaps this mother's experience may help some other mother-lover of bottles. She says: "I've been trying to think of some handy place for the bottles and nipples. Like many others, have no room in the kitchen for the special shelves described in various baby books. Then I saw small, metal medicine cabinets on sale very cheap. We brot one and placed it just above the sink. Put three glasses on the top shelf, one for sterilised nipples, one for used ones and one for corks. At each feeding time I take the one from the prepared bottle, put it in the cabinet and take out a nipple. After the bottle is emptied it is rinsed out well, filled with cold water and placed in bottom of cabinet. In the morning everything is ready for sterilizing. Looks much more sanitary and neat than having the bottles around anywhere or even in a corner of the cupboard."

Shakespeare wrote "Come and take choice of all my library and so beguile thy sorrow."

There are very few people nowadays who can afford to indulge their sorrow to any great extent, but there are very few people who can afford not to read and sharpen their minds with many of the good books that have been written during the past few centuries. Books are important parts of the great triumvirate—books, music and flowers—which is absolutely necessary in a home which loves happiness derived from culture and refinement. Especially when children are present in the home are these things essential.

For the little home library that grows, it is often wise to have a book case that grows with it, placing that book case in a favored spot as part of an attractive grouping.

Corks placed in bottles containing gum, glue, shoe polish, and other sticky substances are often difficult to remove. They will not stick if a little glycerine is rubbed over them.

The Flare and Straightline Vie for Favor

The flare and the straightline silhouette appear to be vying for popular favor for the spring modes. On the left of this illustration is a coat of golden brown satin with a fine stripe of darker tone. Flowing sleeves and godets carry out the flaring line. The coat is collared in seal and trimmed with embroidery. The straightline mode is shown in the black and white satin frock of crepe-backed satin (center) which has stitched panels to give a tunic effect. And in the velour frock (right) in brown, tan and beige with a trimming of brass ball buttons.

NEW L.A. LAW IN EFFECT TODAY

Motorists driving to Los Angeles are evincing deep interest in the new traffic ordinance that goes into effect there today. The principal feature in which the public is interested is that an effort is made to protect pedestrians, who constitute the most numerous body of sufferers from automobile accidents.

Cross-walks are painted on the pavement wherever necessary and pedestrians have the right of way over vehicles in these cross-walks where traffic officers are not on duty. To obtain the right of way the pedestrian must hold up one hand, palm out, to indicate a desire to cross the roadway, and it will be unlawful for motorists to disobey such a signal.

On the other hand, pedestrians must follow the signals given for vehicle traffic and no longer may cross a street contrary to such signals. This rule operates wherever a traffic officer or mechanical signal obtains.

The new ordinance also makes it unlawful to overtake or pass a street car within 100 feet of the nearest street intersection ahead. Where there are safety zones, the automobile need not wait after stopping behind the street car, but it must come to a full stop to comply with the law.

The new ordinance provides a central traffic district, various business districts, keeps motorists off street car tracks, adds Western-ave, Vermont-ave and Washington-st to the boulevard stops, parking limit from 7 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the central traffic district.

New Dodge Plant in Canada Soon

Dodge Brothers new Canadian plant, scheduled to begin operations in February, will be a factory of real productive capacity, and not merely an assembling station.

The factory will be in Toronto, Ont., and will displace the one established by Dodge Brothers several years ago at Walkerville, directly across the river from Detroit. The buildings acquired for the purpose in Toronto are among the finest erected by the Imperial government for munitions work during the World War. Their original cost wah $1,250,000 and subsequent improvements represent an investment of another half million. Facilities are available for one of the largest automobile plants in Canada.

The Canadian business will be conducted by a subsidiary company, Dodge Brothers (Canada) Limited, incorporated under the laws of the Dominion.

"As soon as possible after the opening of the Toronto plant in February, production will be on a much larger scale than in the former Canadian plant, to care for the ever increasing Canadian and other British demand for Dodge Brothers motor cars."

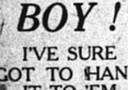

"Biggest Oakland Year Yet" in 1925

One of the salient events in connection with the national automobile show in New York was the big luncheon at the Hotel Commodore of the Oakland force, says Harry L. Turton, Northern Orange-co distributor. Turton couldn't attend, but expects to obtain a good deal of useful suggestive matter embodied in the speeches delivered. The biggest Oakland year on record was the keynote of the affair.

The program was one of the livest ever put over, including talks full of information by the principal executives from the factory at Pontiac, Mich., and some good entertainment stunts.

South's Climate Most Equable Declares Ex-Weather Observer

What are the real facts regarding So. Calif.'s famous climate? Is all true that is promised eastern motorists when coming here? Is the weather boosting founded on scientific data or personal opinion?

In order to obtain the cold, unbiased facts for the benefit of the motoring public, the Auto Club of So. Calif. applied to Dr. Ford A. Carpenter for the "low down" on the situation. It might be mentioned in passing, that Dr. Carpenter knows his weather. For 31 years he acted as weather observer for the government. He is a scientist and lecturer of note, is called on to address scientific societies in all parts of the country and is lecturer on meteorology at the University of California, Southern Branch. Officially, he is manager of the Department of Meteorology and Aeronautics of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, where he has taken a prominent part in developing aero mail, making climatic surveys and saving citrus fruit growers untold thousands of testing their thermometers.

Los Angeles climate is not changing, as is often proclaimed by many of the older residents. The temperatures, summer and winter, noon and midnight, keep within a range of 40 degrees. The general climatic conditions are so good that one of the leading air pilots epitomized this region for aeronautics when he said, "Southern California is the kindergarten of the air."

In response to a definite request from the club, Dr. Carpenter said:

"In the half century of the weather bureau's record of Los Angeles, the temperature for the year varied only four degrees. In other words, the highest annual mean temperature at Los Angeles was 64 in 1885, and the lowest annual yearly average was 60 degrees in 1880. These conditions are practically duplicated thruout So. Calif., so far as the difference between one year and another is concerned, for there has been no change in the climate of So. Calif. for probably thousands of yealrs. This has been proven by the fossilized human remains of natives who roamed So. Calif., and especially the site of Los Angeles from 10 to 20 thousand years ago.

"Near the coast, there is comparatively little difference between the late spring and early summer, or the late summer and early fall, or the late fall and early winter. That great conservator of heat, the Pacific ocean, across whose surface nine-tenths of all of So. Calif. winds blow, (tempering the summer heat and the winter cold) changes very little in temperature from month to month. It is the ocean that gives So. Calif. its equable temperature and this evenness from month to month thruout the year is felt as much as 50 miles inland along the coast from the Mexican boundary to Point Conception, a distance of about 200 miles.

"The mountain climates of So. Calif. are among the most notable of any in the world. Twenty years ago, when the Carnegie Institution of Washington was looking about for a location where there would be good 'seeing' thruout the year, the writer assisted the astronomers in climatic surveys covering nearly every mountain region in So. Calif. The giant 100-inch telescope, the largest in the world (which brings the moon within a trifle more than a score of miles), was finally located on Mount Wilson, and from this observatory alone more astronomical knowledge has been secured than in any other locality in the world during the same interval of time. These marvelous scientific discoveries were made possible solely by the climatic conditions."

"More Power Won't Hurt Niagara"

Dr. Walcott Says; Dr. Wyer Contrasts Governments

More than twice as much power as new used can be developed from Niagara Falls without spoilation of the scenic effect, according to a statement made by Dr. Charles D. Walcott, head of the Smithsonian Institutioin, in a monograph detailing with the power possibilities and preservation of the great cataract. The monograph was prepared by Dr. Samuel S. Wyer, associate in mineral technology of the National Museum.

"Contrary to popular opinion" says Dr. Walcott, "there is nothing magical about water power. It is worth just what can be gotten out of it in competition with electric power generated from coal, and coal represents only a small part of the total cost to the public. Every water power development must ultimately answer the question: 'Will or does it pay?' The Canadian side of the Niagara Falls —carrying 94 per cent of the water—is rapidly, by nature's own means, destroying itself, and mere non-use of the water is not preservation. Two and one-half times more power than is now developed can be developed and still maintain an adequate scenic effect."

Service in Two Countries

Dr. Wyer devotes one section of his work to a comparison of American and Ontarian electric service.

"The Niagara River is more than a mere boundary stream between two friendly nations," he says. "It is the dividing line between two radically different methods of rendering electric service to the public. In Ontario the plants are owned privately but regulated by the Government."

"Dr. Wyer says these fundamentally distinct" methods have a far-reaching effect on the economic structure of the two nations.

"In Ontario," he says, "the governmentally owned system sells electric service to domestic customers at rates considerably below those prevailing in the United States, because Governmentally owned property is exempt from taxation. This means a gain to the electric consumer of about 10 per cent., with, however, a corresponding loss to the taxpayers, as compared with conditions in the United States; the domestic electric rates are below cost, and the loss is made up by higher rates for power consumers than prevailing in the United States, which places Canadian industry at a disadvantage; part of the cost comes directly out of the Provincial Treasury in the form of contributions and subsidies, and part of the cost has been delayed by not making provision for adequate sinking fund to retire the bonds as they mature, thus placing the burden on a future group of consumers or on the public generally, to be met out of general taxation of the entire province.

"In the United States the privately owned but governmentally controlled systems sell electric service to domestic consumers at rates higher than those prevailing in Ontaria because, since the property is taxed, the tax comes from the consumer, and this alone makes a difference of about ten per cent., over and above the average cost that would prevail if the properties were tax free, as in Ontario. In the United States the electric power utilities paid approximately $125,000,000 in local, state and federal taxes in 1923.

Under Government Regulation

"Under the scheme of governmental regulation in the United States, the rates correspond substantially to the cost of the service. The domestic consumer's cost per kilowatt hour is more than the industrial consumer's. This, of course means that the domestic rate per kilowatt hour is higher than the industrial, but it also results in giving the United States industrial consumers lower rates than the industrial consumers in Canada, thus giving United States manufacturers an advantage over Canadian manufacturers.

"Under the scheme of governmental regulation in the United States the capital invested is not retired, and frequently bonds are refunded. However, the income received from the public in any normal plant provides for all times maintaining the integrity of the property value. There are no contributions from the public treasury at present, or any obligations that must be met out of the public treasury in the future. That is, the United States governmentally regulated method is based on the principal of pay-as-you-go, without any deferred debt for the future."

Car's Advantages Grow on Buyers

Purchasers of the 1925 Buick are gradually finding out that the new models possess advantages both over the 1924 models and other cars which weren't at first evident, says Manager Howard of the Motor Sales Co., Northern Orange-co distributors.

Most of them knew about the changes in line of body, four-wheel brakes, etc., but not all purchasers realized that the Buick, always notably accessible, is now with its removable head, more so than ever.

Another improvement of which they are beginning to appreciate the advantages is the placing of the water pump on a pivot, instead of its being stationary, subject to every strain.

A third is that the crankcase comes off in one piece instead of two, while the vacuum tank is of two-quart instead of one-quart capacity, the carburetor can be controlled with one adjustment from the dashboard and the one-piece splash pan is done with.

Auto Business Outlook Brightens

More cars decidedly are being sold, inquiries are improving and indications of a gradual resumption of normal business are multiplying, according to Charles E. Bacon, head salesman for Sid McGraw, Ford, Fordson and Lincoln distributor in Anaheim and vicinity.

Bacon tried to make it clear that he was not merely trying to speak in an optimistic vein, but to present a true picture of conditions.

He is only one of many auto salesmen or managers who recently have reported that the outlook was brightening.

FIVE ARRESTED AS COUNTERFEITERS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—Police and secret service agents were today checking up on important information received from one of five men arrested here last night after an elaborate counterfeiting plant had been raided and more than 300 worthless $10 notes had been confiscated. William Carl Gingg alleged ringleader of the gang was out on bail pending an appeal from his conviction on a charge of counterfeiting revenue stamps when he was taken into custody.

USE, TIME, CARE, BATTERY FACTORS

One of the most frequent queries the service station man receives—and a lot of them are propounded to him every day by perplexed motorists—is "How long will a battery last?"

"To ask such a question is just like asking the doctor how long you will live," states A. Bevillard of the Anaheim Ignition Depot, local Willard dealer. "He would tell you that if you ate simply, got plenty of sleep and exercise and did a lot of other things, you might live to a ripe old age, barring accidents and provided there was nothing organically wrong. In other words, the specialist on the human body, the expert whose job it is to make and keep people healthy could not answer your question definitely.

"So, it is not surprising that even battery specialists are unable to tell accurately how long a battery will last. It is a fact that sometimes an exceptional battery will function for as long as ten years, but the battery that lasts for only a couple of months is likewise an exception.

"But by this I do not mean that a motorist has no guide to battery values. Quite the contrary. As a matter of fact there are four things that determine battery life. They are use, time, care and the quality of the battery itself.

"The first three factors are wholly dependent on the individual use of the battery.

"A car owner who drives 10,000 miles a year certainly just as a pedestrian who walks a great deal wears out his shoes raster than one who spends most of his day at a desk.

"The driver who starts and stops frequently, with short runs in between, or who uses his lights to excess, is not recharging his battery nearly so fast as he is discharging it.

YORBA LINDA

YORBA LINDA, Jan. 24.—(Spl.) — Vertus Geissinger of Huntington Park was a visitor here on Tuesday. He told friends that Paul Singebush of Long Beach, who also formerly resided here, is just able to be up after a severe illness.

Another former Yorba Linda young man was heard from this week. Mrs. Charlebois was a visitor here on Tuesday and was in receipt of a cablegram from her husband, who had just landed in Africa. He has signed up for three years with the Saint Claire Oil Co. Mrs. Charlebois, who has just returned from Australia, will leave soon for Africa to join her husband.

The local Farm Center held an interesting meeting on Tuesday evening, which was well attended, at the Woman's clubhouse. President Murray Horne presided and interesting items on the program included: "Harnessing the Colorado River" by H. H. Cox of Los Angeles, this being illustrated by motion pictures, and was very interesting; D. D. Waynick of the Association Soil and Fertilizer laboratory illustrated by charts his address on "How Wind Losses May Be Materially Reduced in the Citrus Grove." There was a brief discussion of "Radio Reception" by J. S. Winters of the Division of Agricultural Engineering of Berkeley, which was much appreciated by the radio fans present.

Mrs. Julia H. Selover entertained with a family dinner on Sunday at her home on Parkway.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Eichler spent Sunday with friends in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Richards and Mrs. Nona Hileman lhave moved to Los Angeles. They have lived here some time but since Mr. Richards' work is now in that city they thought it advisable to move there.

Last Saturday Laurence Werhan fell to the sidewalk while skating and broke one of the small bones in his left wrist.

The new directors for the Yorba Linda Water Co. are as follows: Frank Day, Walter S. Moore, E. J. Herbert, H. A. McClatchie, A. B. McDavid, D. D. Luzier and C. W. Morris.

Vincent Dyckman met with a painful accident at school on Monday when he ran a palm spine into his foot. Dr. Cochran extracted it and he is getting along nicely.

Miss Marsha Vernon was hostess to the Yorba Linda Bridge club at her home on Wednesday afternoon. The rooms were gay with colorful flowers and several pleasant hours were spent at cards. Prizes were awarded Mrs. Harry Hoben, Mrs. Grover Beal and Mrs. Stanley Tutton. Other members present were Mesdames C. H. Eichler, H. R. Brown, G. C. Page, B. M. Selover, W. Holland, Warrick Murray and Dr. Cochran. Mrs. Charles Butler was a guest of the club. The hostess, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Murray, served dainty refreshments.

GIVES BAD CHECK TO BLIND MAN

CHICAGO, Jan. 23. — Taking candy from a baby or pennies off a dead man's eyes is old — the latest is passing a "snow" check on a blind man.

Take the case of John Scotakis, who for six weeks was a guest at a cheap hotel, owned by sightless Thomas Zarkadis and John Jareckis. During the absence of his partner, Zarkadis, the blind man, was approached by Scotakis, who said he was checking out and asked for his final bill.

The bill was $5. Scotakis, according to Zarkadis, tendered him a "check" for $22, pocketed the $17 change and walked out.

When Jareckis returned Zarkadis told him of the deal. Jareckis asked to view the check, the ... and what was supposed to be a ... "How to Become an American Citizen."

YOUR CROSS WORD PUZZLE

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram.

Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly.

Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white spaces remain uninterruptedly.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

YORBA NEWS

YORBA, Jan. 24.—(Spl.)—Mr. and Mrs. E. J. McDonald, sr., and their son, John McDonald, of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. McDonald, jr., of Ocean Peark, Mesdames A. B. Corona and Roy Heard of Fullerton and Jesse Teel of San Bernardino and Messrs. Vincent Velasco and D. Coyle of Los Angeles were entertained at the J. F. Velasco home here on Sunday.

On Monday Mesdames Sanchez and A. D. Velasco, with Joseph Sanchez driving, motored to Whittier, where they spent the day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Duarte. On Wednesday a surprise visit from 77-year-old Mrs. Maria Ybarra, her daughter, Mrs. Maggie Piro, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mauritia Ybarra, and grandson, Master Freddie Pico, was given Mrs. Teddy Castillo, a granddaughter of Mrs. Ybarra, this also being the first visit to Yorba of the last named lady.

Record - Breaking Year for Hudson

The stampede to coaches is greatly stimulating Hudson-Essex business, according to H. R. Grove Hudson-Essex distributor, whose organization is just closing a record-breaking year of business with 75 per cent of its whole volume in enclosed cars.

The recent reductions in the prices of Hudson and Essex coaches to positions actually below open car cost, plus the ability of his organization to deliver coaches promptly, have been vital factors, he said, in maintaining a consistently strong sales volume.

"The remarkable rise in popularity of the coach," he declared, "is an undeniable proof of the leadership of the Hudson-Essex organization. Concerns which once scoffed at the coach are now straining every nerve to build one. The man in the street sees in this the sincerest of all compliments to Hudson-Essex. When he thinks of a coach he thinks of Hudson-Essex. He remembers that Hudson-Essex has had the experience of building 130,000 of them.

"Hudson-Essex coaches came out just three years ago. The first Essex coach cost $600 more than the present one, and the Hudson coach $450 more than the present one. Gradually the coach prices diminished as volume increased, until now we have the unprecedented condition of both these enclosed cars selling at prices less than the open ones on the same chassis Hudson-Essex alone has accomplished that.

SEDAN ROOMIER THAN EVER BEFORE

George N. Nolan, jr., Overland and Willys-Knight distributor, is displaying the new Overland sedan and the sedan-coupe on which prices were sharply cut recently by the manufacturers.

The chassis, which is the same on both these models, has been improved in several important respects. The emergency brakes, for example, have been moved to the right of the driver, affording him and his seat companion considerably more room.

The bodies of both cars also are roomier than ever.

The sedan bears the Duco finish, acknowledged to be the finest and most durable yet discovered.

This car hasn't been seen here for some time, and is creating quite a little interest.

BENT U PFENDERS NOTHING TO MIKE

Crash—Bang!

Another automobile smashup.

Nobody hurt, but the fenders and bodies of both cars were smashed into grotesque shapes.

But even that was not serious.

A small hammer, a small curved block of iron, a wire brush, a coat of enamel and Mike! Presto! A brand new pair of automobiles.

Yes, Mike Tierheimer, who is not afraid to tackle the worst cases of wrinkled autos, actually makes old, bent up cars like new. He has been at the game of straightening and perfecting fenders, bodies, gasoline tanks and all metal parts of automobiles for seven years. He has been in business in Anaheim for four years, and claims to have originated the satisfactory method of straightening fenders and other metal parts. Mike's shop is at 217 North Los Angeles-st., Anaheim.

Busy? West Bros. Point to New Place

Speaking of business conditions in Anaheim, F. G. West of West Bros., Automotive Electricians, says, "We have lots of faith in the future of Anaheim. In fact we have opened another store and adjusting station to take care of our ever-increasing business. Greater prosperity is sure to return to the entire southland, as there is no part of the world I believe with the attractions of So. Calif. We have noticed a decided increase in our volume of business since Jan. 1 and fully believe that 1925 will be a "big year" for Anaheim.

West Bros.' new location is at 119 N. Lemon and their old location at Los Angeles and Chestnut. They have been established more than 5 years in Anaheim and have at the present time one of the most up-to-date establishments of the kind to be found anywhere.

Improvements to Club Explained

Some of these "little things" that the verage automobile owner hardly noices are described by O. E. Hunt, chief engineer of the Chevrolet otor Co., which has just introduced newly designed models.

"Former Chevrolet owners who have purchased the new model undoubtedly have wondered why the engineers changed the gasoline tank opening from the right to the left side," says O. E. Hunt, chief engineer of the Chevrolet Motor Co. "The real reason is that when driving with a full tank on a crowned road the right side of the car is lowest and gasoline splashes through the air vent, causing a loss and spoiling the appearance of the rear of the car.

"Previously it was difficult for an automobile owner to synchronise both brakes so that they would give equal pressure. Engineers devised a simple equalizing device that eliminated this difficulty and greatly enhanced the ease of brake adjustment.

"The location of the rubber weatherstrip between the two halves of the windshield frequently caused annoyance by interfering with the driver's vision. This was corrected by the invention of the VV one-piece windshield for closed cars and by putting the division on open car windshields well below the level of the eyes. Another simple change has been the curving upward of the instrument board at the sides. This, to the casual glance, has only given a more graceful line but its real purpose is to afford considerably more leg room in the front compartment.

"These improvements are just minor affairs that come unheralded. There are, of course, the more important improvements such as the pressure gun lubricating system that has banished the dirty grease cups from the chasis; the disc clutch, Duco finish and many engine refinements that have added greatly to the comfort of the automobile owner."

Lubrication Questions

Answered by

ASSOCIATED OIL COMPANY

Staff of Automotive Engineers

Question: My engine has a knock, apparently a piston slap. Will a heavier grade of oil remedy this?

Answer: Under no circumstances will lubricating oil of any kind correct a mechanical fault. If your engine has a knock, this indicates need of mechanical adjustment. Whether the knock is a loose bearing or piston slap, as you suggest, it makes no difference. Oil will not correct this condition.

Question: The pressure on my oil gauge drops five points as the engine warms up. Is this right and what is the reason?

Answer: The dropping of oil pressure should be expected at any time that the motor warms up. The lubricating oil as you see it being poured into your motor, does not maintain this thickness. If it did your motor would not be properly lubricated. All oil must thin down under heat and in thinning down it offers less resistance to the oil gauge, consequently lowering the pressure.

Question: The soft grease is more easily applied through grease cups. Is it as good a lubricant and will it last as long as the harder grease?

Answer: The consistency or softness of a grease is dependent upon the amount of oil used in its manufacture, a soft grease having a greater amount of oil than a harder one. This soft grease in most cases will be a better lubricant than the hard grease, owing to the greater amount of oil and it will generally last just as long. Hard greases are required only where bearing pressures are high and speeds low.

DAILY GREETING TO OUR READERS

The peace of God which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus. —Philipians 4.7.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR GIRL MURDERER ?

There will be much shocked execration of Dorothy Elling son, the 16-year-old San Francisco girl who slew her own mother in a fit of rage because her parents was trying to induce her to give up the wild life she was leading. But where lies the blame? Primarily, upon society—upon the public. This girl became hardened and crazed because she fell into temptation to lead a dazzling, but ruinous career in cafes and in questionable places. Those cafes and questionable places exist because the public permits them to exist. This girl might have been saved to a useful, honorable life if she had not had these temptations. There were male scoundrels all too ready and eager to help the headstrong girl to descend to her ruin. Some of them are being sought and arrested. But they will not be punished and they will not suffer as the girl—their victim—will suffer and be punished. Here is a miscarriage of justice. These foul "sheiks," who make a practice of preying upon girls of tender years, should be classified by law into a class by themselves and there should be very severe punishment provided for them by statute.

Let this girl be execrated for her horrible offense against God and man and the tender impulses which should prompt the relations of a daughter toward her mother. But let the men who lured this girl to her downfall; let the places of iniquity where women are led to ruin, be execrated and let the public take its share of blame for permitting these temptations to exist and persist.

Disrespect for law is one of the most grievous ills of the day.

There is only one absolutely safe way to keep a secret—that is, keep it.

EVER SEE A WASHTUB IN A BEAUTY SHOP ?

You never saw a washtub in a beauty shop because washtubs and beauty don't go together. In fact the beauty shop is often called upon to smooth out the wrinkles from washday worries. But you can escape them both—the wrinkles and the worry—by using our Rough Dry. Your bundle is carefully washed and all flat work ironed. The remaining articles are starched and dried ready to iron. And the cost is very moderate. Send us your bundle this week.

HEALTH & DIET ADVICE

By Dr. Frank McCoy
Author of "THE FAST WAY TO HEALTH"

SOUPS (Continued)

MEAT SOUPS should be made from the same kind of meat as is used at the meal, that is if any kind of beef is taken at the meal, a soup may be made from the beef combined with any of the other non-starchy vegetables which are used at the same meal. Probably the most delicious way to prepare beef is to use the ground Salisbury steak as described in the articles about Proteids, and cook it in sufficient water with a mixture of ground or chopped up vegetables of the kind used at the meal. For instance, if celery and spinach are used as separate dishes at the meal, they may be added to the soup and if cooked for a long time with the meat will impart an agreeable flavor without the addition of the usual thickening and starch used generally in making soups. After cooking at least for an hour, the soup should be served and then seasoned with butter and salt, if desired.

Soup may be made from boiling chicken, rabbit, fish or any of the other proteid foods and combining them in the same way with the cooked non-starchy vegetables. It will be found that a better flavor is usually added if the vegetables are ground and the soup made thicker by simply boiling out a good deal of the water. This soup will both look and taste different than any other soup you have ever eaten and by a little experimentation, many tasty and agreeable mixtures can be produced.

George Bernard Shaw is one who believes women make better rulers than men.

"Among other things, a woman can manage men much more effectively than a man can, and gets them to work more intelligently and more loyally. The majority of masculine sovereigns or heads of republics pick the most obviously unfitted persons for offices of state. As a rule, women do their own choosing much better.

"And men work under a woman with less friction; the relations between woman and man are never quite so strained as between man and man.

• • •

"The fact is that women are never quite as big fools as men. Whatever their defects may be, they are never handicapped by man's impracticability and sentimentality. Women have to have common sense. They must have it because it is they who are responsible for the bread and butter arrangements. They get practice in managing things by having to keep their homes in order. Men leave it all to them and go and amuse themselves. They have turned a job into a sport. It has passed into a proverb, 'plying the game.'

"Men make such a hopeless mess of politics because once they get talking among themselves about anything they go on talking and do nothing. Men imagine that if they talk enough about anything they are sure to accomplish something, and more often than not they talk so long about nothing that they end by convincing themselves that nothing is something. That is the sort of thing women don't do."

LIVELY VIEWS

THE "LITTLE FELLOWS HAD THEIR INNINGS, TOO

By NORMAN E. BROWN

The so-called minor branches of sport went through the greatest year they have ever enjoyed. The brilliant performances of the leading lights in some of those branches carried their fields into the realms of major sports.

Polo, by virtue of the international matches at Meadowbrook, entered the role of major sports. Thanks to the playing of Capt. Devereaux Milburn and his mates America retained the trophy by defeated Great Britain in two straight matches.

The record breaking performances of Gertrude Ederle and Johnny Weismuller in the water drew large slices of the limelight to them and the swimming game. Weismuller won two Olympic championships. Miss Ederle's best effort was a new record of 2:41 1-5 for the 220-yard free-style swim.

Willie Hoppe retained his balk line billiard title by turning back three challengers, Welker Cochran, Jacob Schaeter, and Edouard Horemans.

Auto racing suffered the most disastrous season in its history. Jimmy Murphy, leader in the race for the point championship of the year, was but one of several famous drivers killed. Dario Resta, Joe Boyer and Earl Wilson were also victims of the speedways.

Pop Geers' death was the tragic event of the 1hkt harness racing season.

Wrestling was perhaps the one sport that failed to draw much interest during the year. Ed "Strangler" Lewis retained the professional heavyweight title. The interest in this sport, however, continued to decline.

From Holland came one of the year's stars in the bicycling game. Peter Monkops won the world's bike title in Paris for the fourth consecutive year. Then he came to the U. S. and won 16 out of 19 match races against leading American riders.

Epigard's efforts to turn back American's turf stars in a series of three international races were unsuccessful but won for the horse and his owner, Pierre Wertheimer, much popularity and friendship.

Clarence Pell of New York regained the national racquets title by defeating Stanley G. Mortimer, defending champ.

COMMENTS of the PRESS

What Editors Are Saying

SLOVENLINESS IN POOR HOMES—Berkeley Gazette

The Salvation Army has had experts working in twenty-two states investigating causes of deplorable home conditions among the poor. The reports throw a major portion of the blame for domestic misery upon slovenly and ignorant wives.

"Our officers," says one leader, "every day meet housewives who have never had a needle in their hands, and know nothing about repairing their children's clothing; women who never owned a tooth brush, and make use of soap perhaps once or twice a week; women who actually make a practice of throwing away stockings and other garments as soon as holes appear in them because they don't know what else to do. These women know how to cook perhaps two or three dishes that their husbands get weary eating."

It is a dreary picture, and a pitiful one, of the extravagance of ignorant poverty. Delegating drudgery to others or avoiding it unonant by the use of labor saving machinery is right and efficient whenever possible. But the good executive usually knows the details of his business and frequently has reached his executive position after a period of efficient performance of drudgery and routine tasks. Home-making and household management, too, are executive positions requiring knowledge and skill for their proper handling, and their drudgery is reduced sooner by efficient practice than by ignorant neglect.

GLEANINGS FROM THE BOOK OF LIFE

ARE THE INTELLECTUAL SCIENCES ADVANCING ?

The theme Bacon hymns is that the state of knowledge is not prosperous nor greatly advancing; and that a way must be opened for the human understanding entirely different from any hitherto known, and other helps provided in order that the mind may exercise over the nature of things that properly belong to it. Is this true today?

"If sciences of this kind (intellectual sciences, as distinguished from mechanical sciences) had any life in them, that could never have come to pass which has been the case now for many ages—that they stand almost at a stay, without receiving any argumentations worthy of the human race; insomuch that many times not only what was asserted once is asserted still, but what was a question once is a question still, and instead of being resolved by discussion is only fixed and fed; and all the tradition and succession of schools is still a succession of masters and scholars, not of inventors and those who bring to further perfection the things invented." Bacon wrote this in the latter part of the sixteenth century, but men are saying the same thing today.

In the mechanical arts Bacon did not find it so; he saw them as having in them the breath of life, and continually growing and becoming more perfect. "As originally invented they are commonly rude, clumsy and shapeless, afterwards they acquire new powers and more commodious arrangements and constructions; and in these men shall sooner leave the study and pursuit of them and turn to something else, than they arrive at the ultimate perfection of which they are capable."

• • • • •

Philosophy and the intellectual sciences, on the contrary, stand like statues, worshipped and celebrated, but not moved or advanced. Nay, they sometimes flourish most in the hands of the first author, and afterwards degenerate.

"And let it not be said that the sciences have been growing gradually till they have at last reached their full stature, and so (their course being completed) have settled in the works of a few writers; and that there being now no room for the invention of better, all that remains is to embellish and cultivate those things which have been invented already. Would that it were so!"

TAKE CARE IN WRITING CHECKS

Is a campaign to educate the public in exercising more care in the writing and transmission of checks, the American Bankers' Ass'n, according to H. H. Beals, of the First National, is furnishing some decidedly useful information.

Benjamin endorsed all the advice the association, with which all of the five local banks are affiliated, and added some of his own.

The mere endorsement on the back of a check sent by mail is dangerous, Benjamin declared, because whoever gets the check can cash it. The endorsement should say "Pay to the order of the bank" followed by the name of the endorser.

Pencils should never be used, because figures can be changed easily.

Stores have a careless habit of leaving exactly the line on the face of the check "pay to the order of" or writing in "cash."

A common error is in leaving vacant space on the dollar line below so that amounts can be changed.

Don't keep stubs where others can see them, don't give strangers a chance to see your signature, don't write "certified" on your checks and watch strange checks marked "O. K." or in similar fashion.

BUENA PARK

BUENA PARK, Jan. 24.—(Spl.)—The many of friends of Miss Erma Hill were much surprised to learn that she and J. C. McGuire were married last July at Riverside. They have kept the marriage a secret until a few days ago. Mrs. McGuire is proprietress of the Orchid Vanity Shoppe at this place and has many friends.

Rev. S. F. Hilgenfeld announces the following program for Sunday, Jan. 25th: 9:45, Sunday school, Fred Bastady, superintendent; the attendance is good, but let's make it better; we need you. 11:00 Morning service; subject, "The Delight of the Soul." 6:30—Christian Endeavor. 7:30—Evening service; lecture by E. A. Clark, representative of the Anti-Narcotic league.

Mrs. Rose Hartman, south of town, lost about 50 hens last Friday night, which were taken by chicken thieves. On Saturday night the Dave Mitcham farm was visited and about 50 chickens taken.

Mr. and Mrs. George Trapp, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Golden and R. C. Morford are at San Diego, where the gentlemen are attending the Elks' convention.

Thomas Johnson, a negro barytone, will give an entertainment at the school auditorium Tuesday, Jan. 27. The entertainment, which is given under the auspices of the F. F. A., will consist of negro folk songs and dialect readings from Paul Lawrence Dunbar. The admission will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. It is hoped there will be a good attendance.

The Rev. E. J. Bulgin, who is holding a successful meeting in Anaheim, was here in Buena Park Thursday morning and gave an address. The club, seventh and eighth grades of the school were dismissed to attend and quite a large number of grown people were out to hear him and all enjoyed his address very much.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Miller motored to the desert beyond Barstow last Sunday.

Miss Zoe Jackson left Friday morning for Ray, Ariz., for several months' visit with a sister.

Warden Lockwood, who has been here and vicinity since Christmas, returned to his home in Santa Monica Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Glvin and son, Charles, were Fullerton shoppers Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Wilsey, Frank and Ruth Wilsey, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Thurman and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Thurman went to Pomona Thursday to attend the funeral of L. T. Wilsey's mother.

"I SELDOM GO TO CHURCH SERVICE"

One man in Los Angeles gave this as a good excuse for refusing to contribute to a church building. The solicitor said to him, "You do not go to school yet you help to pay for school buildings. You seldom go to court and I have never heard of you going to jail yet you help to pay for court house and jail. Churches are as fundamental to community progress and prosperity as are jails and court houses. You should volunteer your full share in the provision of ample church and Sunday school buildings, even though you never go to church. It is your duty not to attend church. Do not double the wrong by refusing to bear your share of the cost of the churches of the community which benefit you and the entire city."

ANAHEIM SWAMPS SAN JUAN 41-13

Altho most of the scoring was done in the final quarter, Capistrano never had a chance last evening against the Anaheim Hi in the opening game of the Orange League series played at the mission town.

Anaheim won 41-13.

The C class team also beat its opponents, 20-0.

McBride at right guard rolled up the heaviest total of points scored.

The lineup at the opening was: McBride, r.g.; Sweeney, l.g.; Walker, c.; Wells, r.g.; and Mann, l.g. Middlestead was put in as sub for Sweeney, Martin for McBride, Sloop for Walker and Beebe for Wells.

Most of the changes took place in the second half.

DEMPSEY TRAINS, BUT WON'T FIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24.—When wedding bells chime June 1 and mark the wedding of Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor, film luminary, the same bells will also sound the death knell to his career as a pugilist, according to statements credited to the champion today.

"I'll probably never engage in a prize fight again after Miss Taylor and I are married, the champion was voted." Miss Taylor does not want me to, and I think it best myself to settle down to a business career."

Miss Taylor was reported as saying that altho she had not demanded that Jack give up his glory of the ring she had tried to influence him to never wear the gloves after their wedding. It was also learned the actress will probably give up her career as a film star and be just plain Mrs. Jack Dempsey, but this decision the champion is leaving to her.

"Jack may think he will never have any use for a good fight hook again," Jack Kearns, the champion's manager was quoted. "But just wait until after June. We'll see."

In the meantime Dempsey is keeping in training.

FEARS FOR GEN. McCOOK'S GRAVE

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, Jan. 24.—Complaint that the burial place of General Daniel McCook, one of the famous "Fighting McCooks" of this city, is about to fall into the hands of Georgia tax collectors and that the place is being desecrated, is made in a letter sent to United States Senator Frank B. Willis, Ohio, by Colonel William L. Curry, Columbus, secretary of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland, relatives of McCook here have been advised. Colonel Curry requested that the war department take charge of this property.

General McCook was killed June 27, 1864, during the battle of Kenesaw Mountain, from which place Judge D. M. Lands of baseball fame received his name. At the time of his death, General McCook was commanding a brigade of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois soldiers. After the Civil war, surviving members of the brigade purchased 67 acres of land on which the battle was fought and erected a monument in memory of the general.

It is charged that residents in the region of the Georgia battlefield have been cutting timber on it and disposing of the lumber. The alleged vandalism included removal of lumber from a building on the site. Some years ago, it was pointed out, Congress authorized transfer of the property to the custody of the federal government.

MOLLY MALONE UNITED SUN., MON.

Hoot Gibson In Daring Western Role

Action, rapid and thrilling action, promised to be the keynote of "The Ridin' Kid From Powder River," Universal-Hoot Gibson production to be screened in the California theater for tonight only.

Tully Marshall, Gladys Hulette, Gertrude Astor and Walter Long have prominent parts in the supporting cast, and a bunch of Universal Ranch Riders contribute some spectacular horsemanship. Others in the cast are William A. Steele, Sydney Jordan, Howard Truesdell, Frank Rice, Nelson McDowell, Fred Hume, Bowditch Turner and Newton House. Edward Sedgwick, who has directed Gibson in some twenty pictures for Universal, directed from an adaptation of Henry Herbert Knibbs' novel.

Believing that authentic incidents of the history of a country in the making have dramatic as well as historic value Universal executives sets its research department at work assembling data from various sources that have to do with the early days of the southwest. This data once assembled it was turned over to the scenario department to be made into the script for a motion picture.

Inasmuch as some of the data came from records and names of persons who may have relatives living, the real persons who had an active part in some of the events pictured in this production are concealed, so far as identity is concerned, under fictitious names.

Another of the Go Getter Comedies, with Alberta Vaughn in the star part and an Aesop Fable complete the picture program.

Tonight is also gift nite and there are many valuable prizes running into values over $100 that will be given away.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS MAKE NEW RECORD

BERKELEY, Jan. — Football players do more sleeping in classes than any other type of student, says Dr. L. M. Moore, assistant dean of women and professor of physiology at the University of California.

"One o'clock classes are always the most quiet," says Dr. Moore, "because students have just eaten a hearty lunch, and the functioning of the digestive organs takes the blood away from the brain. When this happens it is difficult to keep awake.

"I have a great many football men in my 1 o'clock class," she continued. "They have great difficulty in keeping awake. This is due partly to the hearty meals they eat, and to the exercise they take just before coming to class."

As an antidote Dr. Moore advises students to cut down on their mid-day meals.

From high living comes low vitality.

It's useless, friend, when feeling glum,
To think that care succumbs to rum;
When drowning care, Oh, woe to him
Who does not know that care can swim.

As a paving material, concrete seems invincible.

Laughs and Thrills In "Battling Bunyan"

When you go to the United Theater to see Wesley Barry in "Battling Bunyan" which will be the attraction Sunday and Monday, go well fortified for a generous allotment of thrills, an assortment of laughs, and a tear or two that will surely trickle down your nose. It is one of the brightest liveliest and all-round entertaining pictures seen in some time with Wes. Barry wearing long pants and being funnier when he is most serious.

Raymond Leslie Goldman's Saturday Evening Post story supplied the plot of "Battling Bunyan" who is seventeen, ambitious and in love. To earn extra money for an interest in a garage, he cuts funny capers in preliminary bouts in the prize ring. His only enemy happens to be a lightweight champion, and when the kid is offered a fight with the champ he takes it, hoping to kill two birds with one stone—belittle the champ in the eyes of tennis critic Mollie Costigan, and earn the thousand dollars yet to go. It's a big fight with a bigger climax.

"THE BIG IDEA" AT UNITED THEATER

Manager Anderson of the United Theater has booked for a special attraction to be presented Tuesday and Wednesday, Willard Mack's latest comedy success "The Big Idea" a one act playlet with a special selected cast, consisting of Ruth Hill, Lee Morris and Charles Caulkins.

The patrons of this popular playhouse will be given a rare treat on this occasion when they will have the pleasure of witnessing both the spoken drama and a splendid picture production on the same program.

The feature picture on this occasion is thrilling drama of the mountain country and the hillbilly life. "The Right of the Strongest" featuring Elmo Lincoln, Tom Santchi and many other prominent actors. This program will be presented at popular prices, adults 30 cents, children 10 cents.

100,000 N. Y. WOMEN ARE ILLITERATES

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.— There are about 100,000 illiterate women in the city of New York, according to a statement made recently by Mrs. Nathan Straus, Jr., chairman of the committee on immigrant education of the National Council of Jewish Women.

In summing up the work done by the organization during the past year she said 80,000 women and girls had attended classes and that was conducted by the committee. She added:

"We are proud that many of those enrolled in our English class are grandmothers, anxious to keep abreast of the younger generation."

KIDDIES TO SEE PETER PAN MONDAY

All the kiddies in Anaheim are going to have a chance to see "Peter Pan" that immortal story by James Barrie, that will start a four days engagement at the California Theater next Monday.

Through a special arrangement with the heads of the public schools here, there will be a kiddies matinee Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at which time every student will be admitted for 10 cents.

Miss Claire Coutant has arranged a novel atmospheric prologue for the picture and George E. Turner, concert organist has compiled a very pretty music score.

COAST WILL BE HEARD ON TENNIS

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—What is inelegantly termed a squawk accompanied by a demand for the revision of the Davis cup and national ranking committee is expected to emanate from the Pacific Coast promptly with the dawn of another day, if the national lawn tennis rankings, to be made public tomorrow place the name of Billy Johnston below that of Vincent Richards. The West Coast had prepared itself for the worst and only awaits official confirmation of its fears to go into immediate action.

This, in its intimated, will take the form of a sectional demand that California, long the happy hunting ground of front rank players, shall have its place on committees that determine the status of the men in the game. The coast, it seems is against taxation without representation, but will go further than the mere gesture of kicking a lot of tea into Boston harbor. It plans to spill the beans all over the eastern seaboard.

The selection of the last Davis cup team when Wm. T. Tilden and Vincent Richards, the most improved player since Tilden himself came out of the nowhere, were named for singles play, has staked California to the idea that the ranking of Richards above Johnston this year is inevitable. Out where the sun goes down they regard such a rating as absurd, in spite of the fact that Richards won the Olympic title impressively, beat Jonnston in the East versus West matches and scored successive victories over the Australians in the Davis cup singles.

They maintain that Johnston could have done the same thing with greater facility, sangfroid and effect, and according to the word of one coast player, Elmer Griffin, brother of Clarence, something vaguely suggestive of back-stairs methods is charged in the arrangement of the Richards-Johnston match of the East versus West series.

"Johnston had been given to understand that his selection for the Davis cup singles was as good as made," Griffin declared recently. "He wanted to put in his time in active practice for the international matches but abandoned the idea in order to make the East-West matches more interesting from a rallery standpoint. He had no idea that they were to constitute an issue between himself and Richards apparently he was the only man on the ground who had not been given this understanding.

"Richards won the match, and with his victory, went his selection for the David cup singles as partner of Tilden."

"It is a fact that apparently went unnoted by Mr. Griffin that eastern tennis critics publicly hailed the Richards-Johnston match as an unofficial try-out for the Davis cup for some days in advance of the meeting. And when Richards won, not an astonished eyebrow was lifted as the committee named him for the big event, placing Johnston on the doubles team only for the first time since the Tilden-Johnston duo began successful operations back in 1919.

"WONDER TEAM" WINS 150TH GAME

PASSAIC, N. J., Jan. 23.—The Passaic high school basketball team won its 150th consecutive game here by defeating the Arlington (Mass) high school team, 73 to 33.

Two thousand persons saw the "wonder team" stretch its string of consecutive victories to a century and a half mark. Rohrback, lanky center of the Passaic team, was the individual star of the game, scoring 24 of his team's points, 20 of them from the field. Adams followed him closely for individual honors with 22 points, scoring 11 field goals. The entire second team was used by the Passaic coach in the second half.

Nelson and J. Lane of the Arlington team, accounted for 28 of their team's 33 total.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

BY NORMAN E. BROWN

What does the year of 1925 hold for the boxing champions, big and small?

Not much to cheer them?

Unless the stars read incorrectly two or three of the royal crowns of the squabbling lads are due to be socked from their kingly throne into the galvanized iron receptacle with the noisy top.

Unless the past 16 months have eaten far into Dempsey's vitality, strength and speed he should retain his crown. Tom Gibbons, Harry Wills and Quintin Romero Rojas loom up as the most probable opponents for him should he decide to return to the ring game. But none of these stands a chance against a man of the caliber Dempsey was when he last appeared in the ring.

Luis Firpo may get another crack at Dempsey. He looms as the most formidable opponent in one way but the fact that Dempsey has seen his stuff and knows how to handle him would lessen Firpo's chances enough to make Dempsey a heavy favorite should they square off again.

Harry Greb, middleweight champion, is not a fighter but a windmill. And ever since Don Quixote monkeyed with a windmill and was unhorsed the psychological advantage has gone to the windmill. As a champion, however, Greb should not be ranked with the great. It is not because Greb is good that he holds the title. It is because the middleweight ranks number no first class fighting men to contest with him for his title.

The one man who looms right now as his most bothersome challenger is the negro, Tiger Flowers.

Mickey Walker, is due to lose climbs into the ring with Dave Shade. Walker knows why he ducked a match with Shade last fall. Benny Leonard, lightweight king, may even slip over a knockout punch and win the welterweight title in that manner from Mickey if the long deferred battle between the two is staged during the year.

Benny himself is getting old. The longer he stays out of the ring the farther from his old time form will he find himself when he re-enters it to defend his title. His punk showing against Pal Moran, veteran trial horse, in their bout in Cleveland, Ohio, recently showed that Leonard was heavy and his judgment of distance was off. Leonard realized it and said in the bout. He suffered an injured thumb as a result of either poor gauging of distance or poor timing. Such a slip, in a man of Leonard's science, means something.

As the featherweight situation stands there may be two or three so-called champions crowned and dethroned during the year.

If Pacheo Villa, world's bantamweight champion, meets Frankie Genario in a titular contest the little fellows may have a new champion. Villa was just a hairline favorite when the two lads were signed up for a contest last year. Genaro's health, however, prevented the battle. Both are rugged battlers. Villa is a great little ring general. Genaro is a more elusive boxer, however.

Would any of the brothers who failed to put Jim Crowley and Elmer Layden, Notre Dame backfield men, on their all-American lineups like to make an corrections or alterations?

BULLS AND BEARS WATCH ECLIPSE

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The total eclipse of the sun was of more interest to the bulls and bears than the movement of stock prices today and the opening of the market was delayed 45 minutes in consequence. Judging from the activity of the market, many traders prolonged their absence from the financial district for the rest of the session.

The market was not active, and, after displaying a firm tone at the opening many of the speculative leaders dropped back into slightly lower price levels as traders crowded into take profits. Weakness in American Woolen was a feature of the early trading, the stock breaking to 52¾, shortly after the opening, a drop of seven points from yesterday's high.

Market rumors of the big Seattle corporation related principally to the prospect of passing the dividend on the pfd stock.

Speculative industrial which have been leading an aggressive forward movement in recent sessions were under strict observation. American Sugar opened 4 point higher at 66 but the stock was offered freely after the opening and it declined abruptly to 62¾. Castiron Pipe and American Can displayed more resistance to selling pressure and Baldwin Locomotive kept within a slightly higher range.

Industrial reports at the week end centered chiefly about the steel and oil industries. The Prairie Oil and Gas Co., one of the largest buyers of mid-Continent crude oil, announced its willingness to purchase all of the oil stored for other companies at current prices representing an increase of about 25 cents a barrel over the year and scale. Upward price revisions in crude and refined oil prices were reported all over the country. Higher prices for steel products were spoken of as a possibility for the near future.

Stock sales this week totalled 7,785,900 shares; bonds $80,317,000.

COTTON OPENS STEADY

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Cotton prices were steady at the opening of trading today with the first prices from unchanged to five points higher.

Prices were steady at the close. Final prices were 10 to 12 points higher. Cpot cotton was quiet at 10 points up, mid-uplands 23.55.

PETER PAN, NEW PARAMOUNT FILM

For over half a year, the quest for a player to portray the title role in the Paramount film version of "Peter Pan" excited universal interest. Suggestions for the part poured into the Paramount studio from the four winds.

Seventeen year-old Betty Bronson finally won the role, selected by James M. Barrie, the author, himself, in a competition with some one hundred aspirants for the much coveted dramatic prize. Among those were some of the worlds greatest artists. According to Barrie, pretty Miss Bronson is the ideal "Peter Pan."

Ernest Torrence, the scout of "The Covered Wagon," and Lois Wilson's ranch foreman in "North of 36," is cast as Captain Hook, the pirate chief. Virginia Brown Faire is cast as the little fairy, Tinker Bell. Cyril Chadwick is Mr. Darling and Anna May Wong portrays the Indian girl, Tiger Lily. All the aforementioned players appear in featured roles in the cast.

"Peter Pan", which opens a four days' run next Monday at the California Theatre was adapted for the screen by Willis Goldbeck.

Every beautiful prologue atmospheric of the picture has been arranged by Miss Claire Coutant of Los Angeles, and with the wonderful score compiled by George E. Turner, concert orgainst, this will be an entertainment that will never be forgotten.

Around The COURT HOUSE

On the promise he would return to the Anaheim Bulletin, where it was testified he was offered employment, M. W. Bradshaw, who previously had pleaded guilty to a charge of non-support, was given probation by Judge Z. B. West. If Bradshaw fails to work, however, the court declared he would sentence him to the county jail, with the proviso that he work on the chain gang at Orange-co park. The Bradshaws have four children.

Suit to collect on a $4000 note and to foreclose a morigage on property at La Habra was started today in the superior court at Santa Ana by Mary M. Sadler who named C. W. and Lula Sadler defendants.

Preliminary hearing for C. L. Schroeder, formerly employed by J. J. Lilley at Fullerton, accused of embezzling $200, has been set for Feb. 16 before Justice K. E. Morrison at Santa Ana. Bail was fixed at $250.

For three years, Harry Schaner, whose wife of Anaheim is suing him for divorce, has been intoxicated most of the time, it is alleged in the suit, which alludes to the husbands asserted abusive disposition. In fact, Mrs. Schaner alleges, Schaner has been at home so seldom of late years, and has provided the family with so little money that their two younger children do not know their father when he appears. Custody of four children and $50 a month for their support is asked by Mrs. Schaner, who declares she separated in September, 1923, after she had been married nine years.

Clara R. Finnegan was compelled to "run" a candy store in Seattle while her husband, Calvin V. Finnegan, went to dances, she maintains in her suit for divorce. Mrs. Finnegan's suit is being brot eight years after separation.

R. S. Robertson, formerly an undersheriff of Ventura-co was sentenced six months in the county jail after he pleaded guilty before Justice K. E. Morrison of holding up Herbert Howard of $160 in Brea canyon.

William Marshall, Anaheim fumigator, will go on trial March 5, in Superior Judge Z. B. West's court at Santa Ana on a statutory charge involving an 8-year-old girl.

Dispute over custody of a 3-year-old girl pending the outcome of a divorce suit filed by George C. Hoisington of Fullerton against his wife, Ruth, was settled out of court and the girl will remain with Mrs. Hoisington's mother in Anaheim. Superior Judge F. C. Drum was told when the two petitions for custody were to have been heard on their merits. Hoisington, in alleging his wife was an unfit person to care for the infant, filed a counter claim to the girl whose custody the mother asked after she was sued in the divorce action.
