SENATE REJECTS WARREN AS U.S. ATTY.-GEN.

YALE EXPERT OIL LEASE WITNESS

Heald Recalled to Stand At Second Day's Trial In Teapot Dome Case

Federal Courthouse, CHEYENNE, Wyo., Mar. 10—K. C. Heald, geographical professor of Yale, was recalled to stand at opening of second day's hearing of equity suit in which U. S. government seeks to annul leases to famous Teapot Dome naval oil lands, which government charges were secured from former Secy. A. B. Fall of interior department by Harry F. Sinclair for latter's Mammoth Oil Co.

A lively tilt between Judge John W. Lacy of Sinclair counsel, and Owen J. Roberts, special oil attorney, followed and presiding Judge Kennedy sustained objections for defense. The witness was excused. Heald made report of drainage conditions on Teapot reserve for Secy. Fall.

Harry F. Sinclair continued an interested spectator, occupying a seat close to his counsellor's table.

The deposition of Col. J. W. Zevely, personal counsel for H. F. Sinclair was then called for by the government, after explaining the deposition was the same as Zevely's testimony before the senate oil investigation.

Owen J. Roberts, after perfunctory objection as to the significance of testimony in this chancery case, started reading the deposition.

The deposition touched at first on Zevely's visit to Fall at Three Rivers in December, 1921.

Defense counsel objected to Zevely's statement that Teapot Dome lease was mentioned casually at that time. The objection was over-ruled.

Roberts interjected an offer by Sinclair to the Secy. of the Interior outlining the oilman's proposition for acquiring Teapot from the government. In the proposal Sinclair announced he would undertake, among other things, to quiet outstanding claims against acreage and would build a pipe line from field.

Zevely's deposition continued uninterrupted with Roberts reading the direct questioning that was handled in Washington by Sen. Walsh, and the cross examination at that time being read by Geo. P. Hoover of Sinclair counsel.

Completion of the deposition was deferred until later before it reached reference to the $25,000 Liberty bond loan made by Sinclair to Fall for the latter's Rusian trip.

L. E. Eddy, of commissioner of land office in Washington, was then called to the stand. His testimony concerned investigations made by his office of prior claims to acreage in the Teapot reserve.

Coolidge to Attend First B. B. Game

WASHINGTON, March 10.—President Coolidge promised today to attend the opening baseball game April 22, should he he be in the capital on that day.

An invitation to attend the game and throw out the first ball was extended to the president by Eddie Eynon, secretary of the world's champion Washington Senators.

SUBORDINATE TAX AGENTS "MUZZLED"

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Documents purporting to show subordinate officers in bureau of internal revenue were "muzzled" and threatened with dismissal for differing with superiors in big tax adjustments have been laid before senate investigating committee, it was disclosed today.

This revelation, coupled with charges by Senator Couzens, Rep. of Mich., chairman of investigating committee, that he is being "persecuted" by the treasury for his activities in digging into tax secrets, gave an entirely new twist to the probe today and Couzens declared treasury's attitude would only serve to make him dig deeper into the records.

The "muzzling" aspect of the probe came to light in the committee's investigation of the case of the Pennsylvania Sand & Gravel company.

According to counsel for the committee, the Pennsylvania company was allowed a depletion claim of $150,297 by the bureau committee on review and appeal after engineers had set the figure at $54,954. The higher allowance resulted in a loss of trades to the government.

The discrepancy of the allowance was carried to S. M. Greenidge, chief of the bureau's engineering division by John H. Briggs of the non-mental section. In his reply to Briggs, Greenidge declared:

"Throughout this division at the present time there seems to be a decided inclination on the part of some of the engineers to disagree with their superior officers and a continuation of such feeling will very soon result in complete reorganization.

"It is my opinion that the above case (Pennsylvania Sand & Gravel Co.) should be closed in accordance with the instructions of the committee and also that something be done to curb the tendency of engineers toward taking issue with the decisions or instructions of superior officers."

"That seems to me to be a very improper letter," declared Senator King, Dem. of Utah. "You might just as well abolish your investigating engineers if they are to be sat upon and denounced because of their independent judgment. I think Greenidge exhibited a lack of appreciation of responsibilities of his position."

Senator Couzens announced that "greater energy than ever before." Hearings are scheduled again for next Monday and will continue until June 1.

Couzens has been informed by the bureau that it is investigating his 1919 income tax report to determine whether an additional $10,000,000 or more, should be levied against him for underappraisal of sale of Ford Motor Co. stock. At the time of the sale, Couzens said the then commissioner of internal revenue, Daniel Roper, set value of stock at $9400 a share. The bureau said it now has information that the stock was worth $12,500 a share which would force an additional assessment against Couzens.

The whole controversy may be aired on the senate floor. Senator Glass, Dem. of Virginia, who was secretary of the treasury at the time of the sale and who knew of Roper's fixation of value, indicated today he would come out strongly publicly in support of Couzens.

At a brief executive session today the committee decided hearings opening again Monday would continue without interruption until April. Next month, committee will investigate both tax and prohibition cases, Couzens declared.

"We are going to hit this thing hard, said Couzens. "We are going to work early and stay late."

"BLUES" FAIL TO LOCATE ENEMY

ON BOARD U. S. S. SEATTLE, March 10.—The far-flung line of speedy cruisers of "Blue fleet," engaged in giant naval maneuver with "Black fleet" off Lower California, continued scouting today in search for "enemy" advancing toward coast from Christmas island.

"Black fleet" carries 24 16-inch guns and 68 14-inch guns capable of firing a broadside totaling 140,000 pounds.

The enemy force has thus far been undetected by "Blues," seriously handicapped by lack of sufficient cruisers.

Each cruiser carries two airplanes which may be launched at sea from a catapult apparatus and they are expected to prove especially effective in scouting work.

The "Blue fleet" was reported as daily tirelessly sweeping an area of more than 60,000 square miles in search for "Black fleet."

"Flapper Bandit" Writes Love Note

Fate that led Miss Virginia Hymer, asserted "flapper bandit" caught at Anaheim, behind the bars cannot break up her love affair with Jack Lee, one of three companions, it was revealed at their preliminary hearing before Judge Charles Kuchel, when a queer love not was passed from the girl to Lee.

Taking a small piece of tissue the tiny miss sewed with white thread these words in it:

"Jack, I still love you."

With a coy smile she handed the needle-work epistle to her lover, from whom she has become separated because the four are alleged to have held up a Santa Ana banker and a stage driver Sunday night.

He took it and pressed her hand, but officers saw what was going on.

They seized the token, but not until Lee had read its contents.

SAYS HE BOT LIQUOR IN CAPITOL

Sensation at Trial of Ousted Dry Agent And Cousin

SACRAMENTO, March 10.—Charging traffic in bootleg liquor during administration of Walter Greer as federal prohibition agent here extended into state capitol, Geo. Larose, or Orland, prosecution witness, sprang a sensation at opening of trial of ousted prohibition officer and his cousin, Bart C. Greer, in federal court here today by declaring that he bought jackass brand from latter in office in the state house.

Larose said he visited Greer in capital, where he was employed as clerk in secretary of state's office, and paid him $150 for consignment of liquor testimony that liquor was paid for in the capitol the witness failed to state whether it was delivered to him in state building or at a later date.

On numerous other occasions, said the witness, he paid Greer sums ranging from $10 to $350 for protection.

Larose is at present awaiting trial on liquor charges. The two Greers are on trial for alleged attempts to extort money from bootleggers during Walter Greer's term of office as cheif of Sacramento prohibition enforcement office. J. START SHIPMENT OF MISCELLANEOUS

Shipment of miscellaneous varieties will start this week, the Anaheim Orange & Lemon Ass'n and probably one or more of the other associations affiliated with the Northern Orange Citrus Exchange opening the season.

Picking already has started.

St. Mikes' and Sweets will be the first of the varieties to move and seedlings and bloods will follow.

The fruit is said to be of good eating quality.

Reports from vairous sections to the exchange in Fullerton declare that valencias are sizing up nicely. The March rains are doing the fruit much good; in fact, altho rain in February would have been better, heavy precipitation this month will bring all the results that could have been hoped for.

Valencias will not be shipped on a scale, the way things look now, until well into April, it is expected.

The Anaheim Citrus Fruit Ass'n will begin shipping miscellaneous around March 20 and the Anaheim Co-operative at about the same time.

Believe Tomb of Greater Interest Than King Tut's

CAIRO, Egypt, Mar. 10—The curtain of time has lifted again and revealed the splendor of a purple day in the world's history. A large marble sarcophagus decorated with columns of gold was found in the tomb discovered by Boston Museum-Harvard University expedition, it was announced today.

Near sarcophagus was a seal of King Sneferu, who ruled in Egypt 1500 years before the reign of Tut Ankhamen. King "Tut" was dominant in Egypt 3000 years ago.

The tomb contained numerous relics, excavators said, many of them of marble and copper.

The art of hardening copper was lost centuries ago, members of the party pointed out. Forty feet of masonry was cut through before the tomb itself was reached. The excavating work has been going on in pyramids, believed to have been built by a Cheops some 3,700 years ago.

If it is definitely determined that tomb is that of Sneferu, then it is of greater historical importance than discovery of "King Tut's" tomb, archeologists said.

Under concession regulations it is probable Egyptian government will retain relics, altho replicas could be taken to Harvard. The relics were said to be so fragile the greatest care must be exercised in preserving them.

The explorers noticed a heavy gilded chair at the bottom of tomb, all wooden portions of which had disappeared because of dampness. The ornamentations were fragile. Elaborate precautions are being taken to prevent public from approaching site and hampering work.

WOMAN ASKS $25,000 OF DENTIST

Tortures Mrs. Helen Simons of Long Beach underwent after a right molar was extracted and she contracted what she says was lockjaw that prevented her from opening her mouth for seven weeks were told to a jury in Superior Judge Z. B. West's court by the woman, whose suit for $25,000 damages against Dr. William A. Flood, Santa Ana dentist, was in progress today.

"I see," said Attorney Gerton when Mrs. Simons took the stand in her own behalf, "that you are about 51."

"Indeed, I am not," answered the witness, smiling. "I am only 36.'

The attorney's efforts apparently to incense the woman failed flatly. Mrs. Simons answered all his questions quickly and firmly, but her demeanor remain ed calm.

"Now, when your mouth was forced, closed by this lockjaw you couldn't talk, could you?" she was asked.

"Of course I talked," answered Mrs. Simons. "I talked with my mouth closed for seven weeks."

"Isn't it a fact that after Dr. Flood pulled your teeth it was with difficulty you opened your mouth that afternoon?" was another question.

"That's a fact," admitted the woman, "but I could open it some."

"How far can you open it normally?" she then was asked.

"I don't know how many inches," was her quick reply.

The woman took gas for the extraction, and it was found that a crown on the tooth became lodged in the gums after the tooth was taken out. Dr. Flood, according to contention, failed to give proper treatment and the asserted lockjaw resulted.

On the other hand Dr. Flood contends he asked the woman to return to his office next day for the purpose of removing the crown, but that she failed to come in. It is on this point the case hinges.

Dr. J. E. Paul, Dr. H. E. Brockett, and Dr. Harry Grandvent, the latter of Long Beach, were called to the stand by the plaintiff as expert witnesses, but all admitted that circumstances altered the set rule of any case. Long, hypothetical questions that evoked considerable argument each time they were propounded consumed much time.

Mrs. Simons, she testified, went to Dr. Grandvent for treatment after deserting the services of Dr. Flood.

The plaintiff introduced X-ray photographs taken of the tooth showing how the crown had been imbedded and likewise portraying long, curved nerves that are alleged to have caused great pain.

NOMINATION SENT BACK TO PRES.

Unprecedented Action Follows Day of Most Acrimonious Debate

WASHINGTON, Mar. 10—The U. S. senate this afternoon took the unprecedented action of rejecting a president's cabinet selection when it voted against the confirmation of Charles B. Warren of Detroit, to be attorney general.

The vote was 41 to 39. Originally, the vote was 40 to 40, but Senator Reed, Rep. of Penn. changed his vote so as to oppose Warren. This was a confirmatory move to enable reconsideration which Reed promptly moved.

By a vote of 41 to 39, the senate then proceeded to reject a motion to reconsider Warren's nomination and the Detroit man stood permanently rejected.

His nomination will be returned to the White House.

The motion was defeated when Sen. Overman, Dem. of N. C., who has been standing with the administration, changed his vote and opposed Warren.

There was terrific applause from the galleries as the votes were announced. The votes were taken following a day of the most acrimonious debate ever heard on the floor of the senate. Senators questioned the "temerity" of a president who would attempt to appoint such a man, and Warren was referred to as "a criminal at large" and a "tool of the trusts."

After rejecting Warren, the the senate upon motion of Senator Pepper, Rep. of Penn., made the Isle of Pines treaty the unfinished business.

A recess then was taken, thus forestalling a vote tomorrow on the motion of Sen. Harris, Dem. of Georgia on the world court proposal.

Nine Republicans and one Farmer Laborite, Shipstead of Minn. voted against Warren. They were: Borah, Idaho; Brookhart, Idaho; Couzens, Michigan; Frazier, North Dakota; Johnson, California; Ladd, North Dakota; McMasters, So. Dakota; Norbeck, So. Dakota, and Morris, Neb.

CUMMINS LEADS WARREN DEFENSE

WASINGTON, March 10.—A vigorous defense of Chas. B. Warrent, nominated as attorney general, was made in senate today by Sen. Cummins, Rep. Iowa.

Assailing Democratic and progressive critics of Warren, Cummins started administration's final drive to secure early confirmation of appointment, hanging fire for weeks.

Ratification of Warren's appointment will complete the new cabinet of Pres. Coolidge and eliminate all cause for a prolonged session of the senate. Consideration of the Isle of Pines and Lausanne treaties remain on the administration program but both subjects will be postponed until next December if protracted opposition develops.

The Democrats maintained an attitude of strict neutrality thruout the insurgent quarrel. This neutrality enabled the administration forces to win.

A storm of warnings of dire political consequences floated thru the senate chamber as a result of the battle. Republican regulars were told they would face defeat in all western states because of their action and it was predicted Republican voters in the west would look upon the expulsion as a direct insult to their suffrage.

The insurgent row was expected to spring up in the fight against Warren's confirmation. In this contest, the insurgents and their independent Republican friends have been aligned with progressive Democrats in opposing the appointment. Rumors were current today that this support would be withdrawn, leaving the Democrats to make their fight alone. The insurgents, however, were expected to vote against confirmation.

Snators Walsh, Dem., of Mont., and Reed, Dem. of Mo., were leaders in contest against Warren.

DOWAGER BURIES FACE AT HEARING

LONDON, March 10.—Dowager Countess Carnarvon buried her face in her hands and averted a breakdown only with apparent difficulty when her name again was brought into the Dennistoun case today.

It was in connection with a letter written by pretty Mrs. Dorothy Dennistoun to her husband, Col. Ian Dennistoun, who married the dowager countess after his wife had divorced him.

"I lost Lady Carnarvon's friendship when you became her lover," the letter read.

Dowager Countess Carnarvon, a late arrival when the case was resumed, today, bowed trembling shoulders and covered her face as the letter was read.

Sir John Cowans, "General X" and benefactor of Mrs. Dennistoun, was not always linient with her, despite her testimony that he was a "most charming man."

Evidence brought out that Sir John instructed the garage he patronized "not" to let Mrs. Dennistoun have his car.

"I want to jump on her. She is being neglectful," Sir John was quoted as saying.

Sir Edward Marshall Hall, counsel for Col. Dennistoun, announced that validity of Mrs. Dennistoun's divorce would be one of biggest issues of the case.

Should the divorce be proved invalid, it would mean that the later marriage of Col. Dennistoun and Dowager Countess Carnarvon was illegal.

Sir George Lewis, who represented Mrs. Dennistoun in her Paris divorce said he left the details to the French lawyer in the case. Sir Edward asked him if he did not know the English law does not recognize foreign dissolutions of marriages except upon grounds which are permitted under the English law.

Lewis replied:

"I know exactly the reverse."

Despite the bitter cold of a raw March morning, lines started forming at 7:30 a. m. to await the opening three hours later of the sensational case in which Mrs. Dennistoun seeks the recovery of money she claims to have advanced to her former husband during their married life.

The introduction by the defense of a score of continental hotel managers and employes in the last session was taken by the hopeful spectators to mean a following up of the intimations of the defense that Mrs. Dennistoun had adventures other than with Sir John Cowans, the General X with whom she admitted intimacy which she said was for the purpose of securing advancement for her husband.

Mrs. Dennistoun was pale and worn but smartly dressed when she appeared in court. The Colonel and Dowager Countess Carnarvon, his wife, were absent from the morning session.

A lengthy legal argument was carried on between Marshall Hall and Sir George Lewis over validity of Mrs. Dennistoun's divorce.

Another prominent name was brought in when Sir George said he had met Mrs. Dennistoun thru Lady De Forest. Hall said Dennistoun would not dispute that Mrs. Dennistoun and he were legally domiciled in France when the divorce was awarded, nor would he deny the charge of misconduct on which the divorce was granted, but he would testify that the divorce was secured by arrangement between his wife and himself, which under the English law amounts to collusion. This is considered sufficient grounds in English law for nullification of a decree.

WARN LAWMAKERS TO SHOW SPEED

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 10 — Warning lawmakers they must work, "under wraps" for remainder of session, Thomas Gannon, legal coach of two legislative teams, declared in a statement today that only 396 new bills may be introduced between now and adjournment, tentatively fixed as April 15.

The maximum capacity of the bill hopper is 2,185 measures, Gannon said, and a check by state legislative counsel bureau, of which he is chairman, indicates 1,989 bills have already been submitted.

In putting on legislative damper, the state attorney cited a constitutional provision limiting each legislator to two new bills, in final half half of the session, making total of 240 measures that may originate during last round of lawmaking. Forty-four of these are now before the two houses, and maximum allowance for final five weeks is approximately 39 acts per weeks.

Bills presented in assembly to date total 1208 and in senate 781. In addition to proposed statutes, several hundred resolutions and more than score of constitutional amendments have been introduced.

While practically all time until adjournment must be devoted to consideration of bills already submitted, assembly convened at 9 o'clock today, an hour ahead of regular schedule in order to expedite its work.

Each day legislature is in session costs the state approximately $1,000.

FRANCE SEEKING DEBT MORATORIUM

LONDON, March 10. — France has replied to the British note asking payment of the French debt, it was learned today. The foreign office refused to discuss the reply, but International News Service learned that France wants a debt moratorium and wants later debt payments dependent upon the amount received from Germany under the Dawes plan.

The French view is contrary to the British stand expressed in the original note, which suggested that France levy on its revenues independent of Dawes' plan receipts in order to discharge its obligations.

It is expected Premier Harriot has convinced Austen Chamberlain that French finances are in an unstable condition now and unless the proposed French loan is floated in New York, French finance will take a still more unfavorable turn.

As a result Britain probably will not press France for payment.

GREGGS RETURN FROM THREE MONTHS TRIP

MR. and Mrs. W. H. Gregg concluded a 20,000 mile journey Saturday night when they again crossed the threshold of their own home on Sunkist-ave. And altho the trip had been successful in smallest detail, and every moment was enjoyed, they were happy indeed to be at their own fireside surrounded by their sons and daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregg sailed from San Francisco Dec. 3, for Australia where they passed considerable time. An overland trip by train from Sidney to Melbourne, gave them a very good idea of the country, which, although showing progress in farm and fruit growing, does not equal New Zealand, in their eye. Auckland, N. Z., is a fine place, they agreed.

A visit to Maori, an aboriginal village, gave them first hand information of the manner of living. While the natives speak good English, every other characteristic of living was primitive. The Thermal district of volcanos, hot springs, guysers, etc., which is likened to our own Yellowstone park, was of great interest to the tourists who lingered there some time.

Tahiti, Fiji and other small islands were visited where the Greggs were struck with the natives' familiarity with English. Every place they visited they were able to make themselves easily understood and could very well understand.

Another marked observation was of American made goods everywhere they went. Mrs. Gregg laughingly said, "everywhere we went we found American fruits and John D's. oil cans." Americans are held in highest esteem and received with greatest courtesy. Hotels, they found very good and clean but not supplied with the luxurious accommodations found in this country.

They stopped three weeks in Honolulu where they met friends, among them a young lady from Santa Ana, a teacher in the schools of that city. The Greggs remarked the inclination to hire teachers of mixed blood, although there are many American teachers employed. This, probably, is in line with the desire of the islands to be self controlled, of which the natives have long dreamed.

Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Gregg was sick for an instant, although the sea on the going trip was very rough for some days. They were greatly pleased with the ease with which the traveller may get about and may make known his wants in spoken English. Their observation leads them to further realize that someday the English language will be the universal tongue.

MOTHERS AND SONS BANQUET IN Y.M.C.A. HALL

MOTHERS and Sons! That wonderfully affectionate, sympathetic family tie which grows more intense as years pass! What more delightful social event can be imagined than a banquet for mothers and sons

Such was the entertaining affair held last evening in the Y. M. C. A. building when half a hundred young men and their mothers were seated at an excellent dinnr at 7 o'clock in the second of the annual events. The tables were very pretty with decorations of spring blooms and the menu was delicious. The flowers were contributed by Mr. Hannah, of the Highway Bulb Gardens, and as the affair drew to a close, the clusters of beauty and fragrance were distributed among the mothers.

"Major" Ashleigh, as Mr. W. S. Ashleigh is lovingly called by his countless boy friends, offered invocation. Introduction of mothers was proudly done by the sons, and an address of welcome in hearty words was given by Francis Bode.

Edwin Beebe told the dinner company of "Mother through Son's Specs," and Mrs. R. L. Coons told of "Sons Through Mother's Specs," both eulogies of truest words.

The Rev. G. G. Schmid, pastor of Evangelical church, was speaker of the evening. His topic, of course, was Mothers and Sons, and no one is better qualified to speak of the tie than Rev. Schmid, whose aged mother's love is of his dearest possessions, and to visit whom he and Mrs. Schmid drove thousands of miles last summer.

Rev. Schmid advised boys that their mothers are the best pals in the world. Fathers are interested in their sons and love them with an affection, perhaps as deep, but have not the knack, or the time or the disposition to show it in the same manner as "Mother." He referred to the story of King Solomon requesting that a seat be placed on his immediate right for his mother, Bethsheba.

To mothers the speaker said that at times as sons are in the period between childhood and youngmanhood, they may seem to disregard her advice, to overlook her guidance, maybe to lose interest in her, but at that time he is attempting to imitate Dad whose absorption in the business world he mistakes for indifference, but when the time comes to prove his live he will fight for Mother with the last drop of blood. As measles, whooping-cough and like childish troubles are visited upon the son, and pass away, so this period in his life will pass and his mother becomes his ideal and the dearest love of his nature centers around her.

The dinner was prepared by Mrs. F. N. Gibbs and served by the Girls Reserve. Bob Thompson was official "piano pounder," and Lawrence Mitchell exerted all his energy on the violin and provided excellnt music through the evening.

FAVORS FOR ST. PAT'S PARTY

Clever and unique favors for the St. Patrick's Day party, March 17, may be made from real potatoes. Wires with crepe paper form the hands and feet. If the feet made of rather large loops of wire, the potatoes may be made to stand. Nature will provide the eyes but you will have to draw the other features with ink. High hats made of green crepe paper add to the attractiveness of these favors.

CHARGES HUSBAND WOULDN'T GET UP

Her husband, William A. Johnson, refused to get up until 10 a. m. and when she admonished him to go to work he would reply: "If I don't work your folks will give us enough money to live on," according to Mrs. Grace B. Johnson, 549 South Illinois-st., Anaheim, whose suit for divorce was on file today at Santa Ana.

On three occasions Mrs. Johnson says he threw her with great force to the floor against wall, resulting in injuries. So irritated would her husband become, Mrs. Johnson continues, that after throwing her around he would curse her.

They were married in Montana in 1916 and separated March 6, according to the suit, which says Mrs. Johnson finally was obliged to take her two sons, five and seven and leave home.

Her action was brought by Atterney William P. Webb, jr.

SUGGESTION

Try using large envelopes for the recipes which you wish to keep until they can be tried. Have a separate one for each kind of recipe and write on it what it is. The envelopes can be fastened together in booklet form by making cloth covred pasteboard covers the same size as enveloped and placing the envelopes between, arranged with thin flaps at th side which will open. Fasten together by punching holes through the covers and what was the bottom sides of the envelopes. Draw a ribbon or cord through tie loosely.

Talk Over District Meet

The executive board of the Fourth district will meet Saturday at 2 p. m., in the Frances Willard school building, Santa Ana, and will discuss the all day ditsrict meeting to be held in April.

The state convention, coming up May 11 in Fresno, will also be discussed, as every local P.-T. organization will be priviledge to send delegates, according to the number of members.

Local appointments will not be made at present, possibly not until after the district meeting.

In First Snow Storm

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Backs and two sons and Mrs. Backs mother, Mrs. Fred Mickle, drove to Cahunga Pass, near the Los Angeles playgrounds, Sunday where Mrs. Backs, who is a native daughter, had her first experience in a snowstrom. The trip was delightful, although pretty cold and the snow covered scenery was marvelous. It was rather difficult to tell who enjoyed the snow battles and making big snow men the more, the boys or their mother.

PROPHETS WROTE ALL MAY BE TAUGHT

Miss Eleanor Heughan, assistant pastor of the Undenominational Church of the Lord (Holiness), 511 North Olive-st, preached Sunday morning from St. John 6:45 and 6:37: "It is written in the prophets, and they shall be all taught of God. Every man therefore that hath heard and hath learned of the Father cometh unto Me." And, "All that the Father giveth Me shall come to Me; and him that cometh to Me I will in no wise cast out." She said that the Father has given Christ everyone that will believe, accept and measure to the gospel plan of salvation as Christ and the aspostles taught it. There is nothing in these words to justify Calvin's doctrine of predestination. The only kind of predestination found in the Bible is that God predestinated that those who were made partakers of the gospel must become conformed to the image of Christ in holiness and purity. "No one can come to Me," Christ said, "except the Father draw him." That drawing power in the Holy Ghost convicting power which shows an individual themselves as sinners in the sight of God and the redemption that is in Christ. They can yield to this and find the way of life, or reject it and be damned.

Mrs. Elsie Richards preached in the afternoon.

Mrs. John will assist in the office, thus giving her husband more time to rest and regain his health.

ILLITERACY IS OUT OF PLACE HERE

Ignorance is as much out of place in this country as a deep water fish would be in the midst of a desert. There is absolutely no excuse for illiteracy here. The means of education and enlightenment and culture abound on every hand. There are public schools, parochial schools, private schools, colleges, universities and technical schools. No country on earth, at any time, ever provided so elaborately for the educating of its youths. Children literally are forced into school. The truant officer lurks around the corner, to prod the boy or girl playing "hookey."

Besides schools, there are means of enlightenment without number. There are newspapers. These are universities and libraries in themselves, enlightening their readers on current history, carrying views of world affairs and much miscellany of enlightening and cultural value. Then there are magazines, almost numberless, which are also illuminating and inspiring. And books—books and magazines in free libraries, where the poorest and humblest may reach in and take out the richest treasures of literature—the gold and the gems of thought of all ages.

Then there is the radio—it is instructive, as well as entertaining—and is destined to become even more consequential in the life of the American people. Then there is the motion picture—it also, at its best, is a source of educational endowment to those who see it.

The opportunities for enlightenment are many. The country is deluged with them. To be ignorant, one must run away from these illuminating influences, and shut eyes and ears and perception against the phenomenal educational advantages of this marvelous age.

A budget system, adhered to strictly, eliminates the burdensome wastage in public funds. Cut off useless expenditures, extravagance and wastefulness in government, and the lot of the taxpayer would be easier.

PRESIDENT EBERT GAVE GOOD SERVICE

It is a blessed thing for Germany that a man like Herr Ebert was available to assume the Presidency, when the first choice was made of a head of the new national administration. Germany was passing between Scylla and Charybdis—between the extreme of Communism and Bolshevism, on the one hand, and monarchism on the other hand. Although of Socialist political faith, President Ebert steered a wholesome middle course, being moderate as between the two extremes.

He made mistakes of judgment, of course. But he carried the governmental administration of Germany with marked success through a most trying period. He not inaptly might be termed the George Washington of democratic Germany. His wise counsels have kept Germany from going to political extremes in its domestic affairs.

Be thrifty today and you will not be in want tomorrow.

God is not blind to the fact that California needs more rain. More precipitation will come in due time.

SUNSHINE PELLETS

BY DR. W. F. THOMSON

When Willie says his throat is sore,
When Willie's eyes are red;
Keep Willie home from school, my friend,
Keep Willie still in bed.

The av'rage man with lots of wealth
Is not concerned about his health;
In fact he seldom counts the cost
Until, Alas! his health is lost.

I've many people,
But I've yet to behold
The fellow who hasn't
A cure for a cold.

The prevalence of "colds" is coincident with the closing and heating of houses.

Parents who do not sow the seeds of truth in the fertile brains of their young children, leave fertile fields for sordid weeds.

Man thinks a lot of stocks and bonds
And of the things that he can sell;
But seldom thinks of stagnant ponds
Or the microbes in the well.

Coughs and Chest Colds Yield Quickly to Old Time Treatment

Physicians now say that the best treatment for a cough is not to merely benumb the throat nerves as many cough medicines do, but to help Nature quickly throw off the cause—congestion and mucous. When this is done the severest cough is usually relieved in a very short time.

This is exactly the action of that old-time tried and proved cough medicine, Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey. Doctors say the pine tar is hard to beat for quickly loosening and removing the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing, while the honey not only gives a pleasant taste, but helps soothe soreness and irritation.

But be sure you get the genuine Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey and not some substitute. Dr. Bell's is the original and has been known for many years as the best. It is scientifically compounded of just the right proportions of pine tar, honey and other quick-acting ingredients which the best doctors have found to aid in bringing quick relief. Contains no opiates or other harmful drugs, so can be given even to young children—fine for spasmodic croup. If you want the best—a medicine that often relieves a stubborn cough over night—get Dr. Bell's. Costs only 30c at all good druggists.

SIMON GUGGENHEIM

Numbered among the active philanthropists of 1925 is former United States Senator Simon Guggenheim, who has recently announced a preliminary gift by himself and his wife of $3,000,000 to endow the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation Fellowship. The foundation is intended to provide for advanced study abroad of students who have shown marked ability in their specialties. It is a memorial to Mr. and Mrs. Guggenheim's son who died in 1922 while a student in Harvard.

Simon Guggenheim was born in Philadelphia in 1867. He was graduated from the public schools of his native city, after which he studied languages in Europe for two years. In 1898 Mr. Guggenheim was married to Olga H. Hirsh, of New York. He went to Pueblo, Colo., in 1888 and was elected U. S. Senator from Colorado to succeed Thomas M. Patterson, taking his seat, March 4, 1907. His term expired in 1913.

Prior to his election Mr. Guggenheim was engaged in the mining and smelting business in the United States and Mexico. He is now president of the American Smelting and Refining Co. and Guggenheim Klein, Inc. He is a director of the Braden Copper Co., and is a member of the firm of Guggenheim Bros., N.Y.

DINNER STORIES

Arastus Johnson came down the street, a pail of whitewash in one hand, and a rumpled paper in the other. He paused before the cottage of his friend, Mr. Jackson.

"Oho! Lavender!" he shouted.

Mr. Lavender Jackson appeared at the door, and the two exchanged greetings suitable between the Supreme Grand Ruler and the Deputy Grand Warden of the Amalgamated Black Eagles.

"Lavender," said Erastus, "looka heah." He exhibited a magazine and turned to a page marked by a dog-ear. Then slowly and lovingly he read a sentence therefrom:

"Is it possible to augment the objectivity and the versatility of the response of the individual mind to life by cultivating the range, the plasticity, the inveteracy, and the intensity of the consciousness which the individual fastens on his own behavior?"

Mr. Jackson rolled his eyes in delight.

"Taat am sublime, Erastus," said he. "Wish we could use him in de ritual. Whar didger get him?"

"Found him in de house ah was kalsominin' " was the reply. And he read the sentence over again.

Little Gloria Jackson followed her father to the gate and listened in wonder.

"Father," she said, "what do all dose words mean?"

"Dont' exhibit yo' ignomus, Gloria," replied her father, severely; "don't you know eloquence when you hears it?"

Four-year-old Dorothy had just heard her mother giving a grocery order over the telephone.

"Mamma," she said, "did you order some corn starch?"

"Yes, dear."

"What for?" asked Dorothy. "Is you goin' to launder your corns?"

COD LIVER OIL

Forget the nasty tasting, stomach upsetting cod liver oil and give the thin, puny, underveloped children McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets if you want to give them a good appetite and put pounds of good, healthy flesh on their bones.

Doctors know all about them and so does Heying's Pharmacy, Jackson's Drug Co., Orange Co. Drug Co., and all good pharmacists all over America, for they are in great demand, because they are not laggards but show results in a few days.

They are not expensive either—60 tablets—60 cents and children take them like candy.

A very sickly child, age 9, gained 12 pounds in seven months and is strong and healthy.

One skinny woman gained 9 pounds in 24 days.

NOT GOOD

CANNED FISH is subject to rapid changes after being removed from the can, and that part which cannot be used at once should be thrown away and not held over for anther meal. In any case it should only be used when no other good Proteid food is available.

SALT MACKEREL is very indigestible, being toughened by its preparation with salt, and as even fresh mackerel is difficult of digestion, after it is salted it is almost useless as a food, causing so much indigestion as to more than off-set any good that could be derived from it.

HAMBURGER STEAK is usually made from a poor quality of meat and even if ground round steak is used, the fat which is mixed with the proteid renders it indigestible. The SALISBURY STEAK, as described in the "Good" proteid class, should be used by everyone who is desirous of using ground beef. This Salisbury Steak may be used day in and day out without any ill effect and is one of the most valuable ways in which beef could be used, but the addition of fat in Hamburger steak really makes such a big change that it should not be taken at all when the Salisbury Steak is so easily available.

COMMENTS of the PRESS

What Editors Are Saying

TRACKLESS TROLLEYS—Sacramento Bee

About two years ago the Bee editorially called attention to the traffic possibilities of trackless trolley cars, and gave an account of their operation in a suburb of the city of New York.

Such cars are much like other trolley cars, except as to the wheels, but do not run upon rails, and may be steered so as to avoid other vehicles or obstructions of any sort. The large initial cost of tracks being escaped, they may be established at comparatively small outlay, in rural or suburban districts, where the roads are good.

It now appears, from a suit for damages recently brought in the Empire state, that the trackless trolley still is in operation there.

Permission has been given the plaintiff to amend the complaint, so as to make Mayor Hylan and the members of the city board of estimates defendants.

In this case a widow asks damages of $75,000, alleging her husband, while walking on a public highway, was killed by a trackless trolley car.

The action naturally suggests that the roving propensities of such a carrier may be something of a drawback to the trackless system, at least so far as walkers are concerned.

Gleanings From The Book of Life

By Clark Kinnaird

CAN THE STATE DO NO WRONG?

There is an ever-growing tendency among those who inhabit this country to consider that the State can do no wrong; that whoever criticizes it is directly undermining the foundations of the republic. This tendency was given an enormous impetus during the late war, when hundreds of persons were locked up for saying what they believed to be true regarding what was going on in Washington. And the tendency, if somewhat less virulent, is no less apparent today.

In dealing with the State, we ought to remember, with Emerson, that its institutions are not as old as man, though they existed before we were born;

That they are not superior to the citizen;
That every one of them was once the act of a single man;
That every law and usage was a man's expedient to meet a particular situation;
That they are all imitable, all alterable;
That we may make as good;
That we may make better.

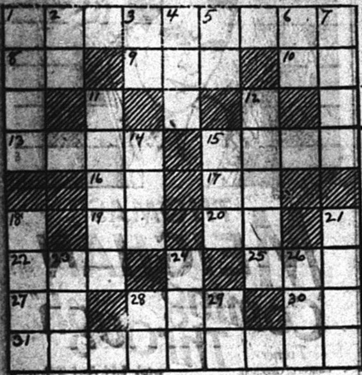
Your Cross Word Puzzle

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram.

Any word defined in the text under "Horizontal" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly.

Any word defined under "Vertical" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white spaces remain uninterruptedly.



REVIVAL OF BREA OIL OPERATIONS

Fewer vacant houses than in two years!

That's the way persons who know tell of what has happened to Brea with the revival of activity in the oil field including the canyon.

Frank Mason, formerly publicity man of Brea C. of C., confirmed this statement of the Brea Progress, and Mrs. Grace L. May, city clerk, altho not quite so optimistic as the others, agreed that such was the fact.

The two former went so far as to say that gas meters were being installed at the rate of four to six daily.

Three or four water connections per week, with sometimes several apartments or flats affected in each instance, were being made, Mrs. May explained.

The Union Oil Co. of Calif. has been particularly active, but one or two of the other big companies and several of the small ones also have been busy. The work consists not only in deepening old wells, in one of which a new sand was discovered according to apparently reliable reports, but in wildcatting.

PUNCH SCENES IN 'COMING THROUGH'

Where you find Meighan you generally find action.

Such is the case, anyway, with "Coming Through," the star's latest Paramount production, coming Wednesday and Thursday to the California.

"Coming Through" is a story of coal mining and coal miners, adapted to the screen by Paul Schofield from Jack Bethea's popular novel, "Bed Rock." Lila Lee is featured in the leading woman's role. Wallace Beery heads the supporting cast which also includes such prominent stage and screen players as John Miltern, Frank Campeau and Laurance Wheat.

Tom's role is that of Tom Blackford employed with a big steel corporation. He is shipped off to the company's mines at Colton, just outside of Birmingham, as superintendent. Here the real action starts.

The big punch scenes in the picture include a hand-to-hand fight between Meighan and Beery on a skeleton framework about 60 feet above ground. Beery is beated and takes a "header" to a rock below. You've seen screen fights before, to be sure, but never anything that quite comes up to this.

Another funny Mack Sennett comedy, "Three Foolish Weeks," with Ben Turpin in leading role, and International News completes the program.

Wednesday night is Gift Night and there are over $100 in gifts.

TIMELY VIEWS

SEES HOPE OF IMPROVEMENT IN ARMY AIRCRAFT AS RESULT OF PROBE

"The United States was a year and a half ahead of other nations in pursuit, training and observation airplanes, but we have no adequate bombing plane equipment," Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air service, said in an address in New York.

General Patrick quoted General Duval of France, Admiral Kerr and Bonar Law of England, Marchall Foch and President Coolidge in support of the theory that adequate airplane equipment was indispensible.

"We have had a little commotion recently in Washington over our air service, and some of our people dropped some bombs," he continued.

"Then there was a broadside from the navy, a number of gas explosions, and even Admiral Sims got into the fray and cut loose with his own big guns. I'm in hopes that out of this mess will come some good ideas that will solve our national defense problems. In order to keep things on a working basis all of our defense agencies must function during times of peace—hence the need of appropriations. The time has not come for a separate department for aeronautics. I believe we should have a separate department for general defense. The president is too busy to settle the minor questions which develop in the army and navy."

A soft artery turneth away apoplexy.

GRIPPING DRAMA AT THE UNITED

"Daring Love," the screen adaptation of Albert Payson Terhume's well-known novel "Driftwood," in which the talented Elaine Hammerstein plays the leading role, comes to the United Theatre tonight for an engagement of two nights. "Daring Love" is an unusually dramatic story of the romance which came into the life of an entertainer in a tawdry little cafe. A husband, driven to extremes by his wife who is carrying on an affair with another man, comes to the cafe and tricks the girl into furnishing the evidence for a divorce which the man's wife insists upon. From that point on, into the lives of these bits of "human driftwood" comes a romance as thrilling as has ever been portrayed. A very important part in the story is played by "Red" Bishop, owner of the cafe at which Bobo, the entertainer, is engaged. "Red" Bishop, throughout, is madly in love with Bobo and stops at nothing to gain his ends, which is the possession of her.

The story is told in gripping dramatic fashion, under the direction of R. G. Edwards, and "Daring Love" brings to the fans an entirely new and different Elaine Hammerstein, in a role the type of which she has never before essayed to portray. Beside the part of a bit of driftwood she plays in the early portion of the picture, she is also seen as the wife of the governor of the state having reached that high estate through the regenerating and reclaiming powers of love.

An all-star cast supports the star in the picturization of this Albert Payson Terhune story. As the male lead opposite Miss Hammerstein, Huntley Gordon plays a difficult role with suppressed emotion and all of the talent he is famed for. Walter Long, well-known portrayer of "heavy" types, plays "Red Bishop, with Johny Arthur and Cissy Fitzgerald furnishing the light moment for the play. Gertrude Astor and Morgan Wallace round out a cast of surpassing excellence.

LA HABRA CLUBMEN VISIT FULLERTON

The La Habra Kiwanians were present today at the luncheon of the Fullerton Kiwanians and 12 of them entertained with a skit in which the different behavior of the members before and after joining was described.

Among the entertainers were Charles Ferren, Louis Wester, Richard Launer, Nelson Launer and Dr. Lindauer.

Santa Ana and Pomona visitors were guests.

Some 110 were present.

PLAN DANCE HALL

A vacant building at Orana became topic of official conversation today when E. Hertel of Los Angeles petitioned supervisor for license for dance hall.

Opened originally as a fight arena, the building was closed after residents protested drinking was rampant and traffic officers attested it presented a traffic nuisance when people were coming in and out.

High School Sports

Inglewood will be opponent of Anaheim Hi "D" casaba team in So. Calif finals at 4 p.m. Thursday on Excelsior Hi field.

This is one championship that Anaheim is going to win, declares Coach Fitzmorris. Altho the team should lose, it would still stand second in the south.

The varsity or "A" team, which lost, was one of the best eight teams in its class, and "B" team was one of 16 best.

Coach L. E. Sutherland announces twice as many candidates for various tennis teams this year. There are 70 candidates.

The varsity will play Huntington Park here Wednesday, altho the team is not yet fixed.

The school should have at least fifteen cement courts, compared with three cement and three dirt courts at present, says Coach Sutherland.

Utter, Rauch, Moody, Filer and Kuffel among boys lead in practice tournament now in progress.

Among girls, leaders are Catherine Adams, June Borchard, Norma Armbrust, Miss Utter and Frances Picklesimer. However, there are six girls after two leaders, almost tied on points.

Among freshmen 20 boys and 12 girls have come out for the freshman teams, and these are not included in the 70 mentioned.

There will also be a second varsity team for which 14 boys have come out. These of course are included in the 70.

The husband told police he bought his wife at a harem after she had been picked up by the Turks in a flight from Armenia. They were married six months ago, the husband said.

SOLONS BETTER THAN LAST FALL

AMPA, Fla., March 10.—If past performances are worth weight in pink sleeve garters, the Washington Senators today are 25 per cent a better ball club than the outfit which won the championship of the world no later than last October.

This statement was made today by Stanley Harris, managerial Horatio Alger of Major League baseball. Stanley, it would seem is not one of those I-view-with-alarm speciments. Quite the contrary, he points with pride.

The oratorical gesture, in this case, is directed toward what might be termed exhibition A, comprising three gentlemen who combine age, experience and the ability to fool all of the batters some of the time. The trio is mad up of Dutch Reuther, Stanley Coveleskie and Vean Gregg, acquired in mid-winter deals that cost the club less than nothing at all in player strength.

Lest his statements be confounded with these of the attorney for the defense, Stanley coppers his best with one proviso. He asks only that the men in question live up to their immediate past.

Granting that they do, the juvenile is willing to bet his right to breath that Reuther and Coveleskie will win 30 games between them and that Gregg will add at least ten more.

"They don't represent all the paper strength we have gained however," quoth Stanley. "We almost lost the pennant and later the world's series because we did not have an adequate reserve infielder. We have him now in Mike McNally, who can jump in and play second, third or shortstop over almost any stated period.

"Bluege and McNeeley will be better for the experience they gained last year. The latter broke in at a very tough period for a recruit, but with a world's series under his belt he will play with greater confidence. Bluege right now looks like one of the great infielders of baseball. Peckinpaugh has completely recovered. Ruel, Judge, Rice, Goslin and Zachary are as good as they ever were and Walter Johnson and Mogridge still have plenty of baseball left in them."

In brief, Harris feels that he has bettered his hand on the draw and is sitting back serene in the knowledge that the Yankees and Tigers, admitted contenders, will be forced to do likewise in order to beat him.

Reuther and Coveleskie to him loook like a pair of aces in a two card draw. Reuther has been somewhat libeled by critics who have spoken sagely of his advanced years. They number exactly 31 and only six of them have been spent in active major league pitching.

"Reuther may have gained a reputation as a hard man to handle, but he has given no intimation of it t ome," Harris said. "If I know my own name, he will pitch his arm off for the Senators."

Which is probably true. Reuther had a great year in 1919 when he saw a pennant coming to the Reds. He flopped in 1920. The following year he landed with the Dodgers and was off on another winning streak. In 1922, a lop; in 1923, a great pitcher once more, and last year, a semi-flop, so to speak. That makes him due again in 1925, particularly with a world's champion team supporting him in the style to which he has not been accustomed. Coveleskie is hardly the pitcher he was in 1920, but few baseball men believe he is altogether over and done with. For one thing, he is a spitballer and that almost extinct specimen usually can foot a batter with a mere grimace.

They ought to win 25 games between them," I ventured.

"Twenty-five!" says he. "If they don't win 30, I'll give you my windpipe."

FACES PRISON ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Because Alexander Wilson of Wesminster identified Fermin Alarcon and Tony Garcia as men who robbed him near his home, many months ago, he is facing a term in San Quentin, a jury in Superior Judge R. Y. Williams' court at Santa Ana having found him guilty of selling liquor, after deliberating two hours. The court is to pass sentence Friday.

Six months after he was held up Wilson found a watch stoeln from him and the two Mexican youths, upon arrest, admitted their crime. But in their preliminary examination they admitted they committed the theft after Wilson had refused to sell them liquor any more because they were "broke."

BEARS CONTINUE DRIVE ON STOCKS

NEW YORK, March 10.—Bearish traders followed up their recent assault by a severe drive against the market today, bringing about a general unsettlement of prices. The attack halted momentarily around noon, when the favorable report of forward tonnage of U. S. Steel Corp. was issued and there was a tendency to rally in many market leaders. But selling was renewed and values crumbled from one to five points in the high priced stocks.

Steel common rallied to around 123¾, its previous closing price but quickly declined to 122¾; Baldwin lost three points at 136; Universal Pipe three; Amn. Can three; Savage Arms four; Sears Roebuck three; Amn. Loco. 2½; Gen. Motors 1½.

Heavy selling of oil and railroad stocks was a feature of this movement and prominent stocks in both groups showed declines of five to 10 points from the high levels of the last price rally. Since few of the oils, have advanced in last few weeks, the selling in this list was the evident result of bearish activity rather than profit taking. The same is true of railroad stocks which, with exception of Rock Island, Frisco common, Atchison, New Haven and a few others, have been practically stationary since the middle of January.

The grain and foreign exchange markets were able to recover from low levels of first hour. May wheat advancing 2½ cents a bushel and francs regaining three points. Cotton was reactionary. Recent reactions in grain were said to be due to selling out of long positions by traders who were compelled to protect speculative accounts in Wall Street. Higher call money rates and weakened margin accounts helped bears in their campaign against prices today. Weakness in Wilson Co. stocks, which lost most of last week's gains, was due to reports that in the reorganization of the company both classes of stockholders would be subject to assessment, the preferred $15 and the common $5 a share.

Stock sales totalled today 1,557,000 shares; bonds $14,374,000.

CHICAGO, March 10.—The defense of W. E. D. Stokes, 73, New York millionaire, and Robt. F. Lee, colored Chicagoan, to charges they conspired to defame Mrs. Helen Elwod Stokes, rested unexpectedly this afternoon.

The move came after another Pullman conductor, E. V. Henson had testified that on his train in 1920 between Chicago and Denver, Mrs. Stokes, and her distant cousin, Hal Billig, had occupied a compartment together.

A man in a restaurant, after finishing his meal, took out a cigar and started to light it. The head waiter approached and said: "You are not allowed to smoke, sir."

"Why," said the diner, "that's what my doctor told me. But how the dickens did you know?"

"Why is the ship going so slowly" an old lady asked the captain of a liner in the midst of a heavy fog.

"The fog, madam," the captain answered shortly.

"But it's quite clear above," the old lady persisted.

"Maybe, madam, but we're not going that way—unless the boilers burst."

Mystery, drama, action and laughs—that's the order at California where the new Paramount picture, "40 Winks," will be seen final times tonight.

Raymond Griffith, Viola Dana and Theodore Roberts are featured stars in this melodramatic comedy that certainly brought the house down with laughter last night.

The screen play was taken from the stage play, "Lord Chumley," by David Belasco and Henry C. DeMille.

A very capable cast, including Anna May Wong, William Boyd and Cyril Chadwick, support the stars.

"Forty Winks" was made with the idea of entertaining people and with its fast and furious action, its gripping mystery and its sidesplitting laughs it sure does

Will Rogers in another of his famous comedies, "Gee Whiz, Genevieve," and a late issue of International News completes the program.

Licensed Chiropractor

I wish to announce to my friends and patients that I am not sick and unable to work, as has been reported. The cause of my not practicing was of a very different nature.

I am still at my old place of business. My policy is honesty and justice for all.

I have no instruments in my office to relieve people's pocketbooks of their hard-earned money, for my 5½ years of successful practice in Anaheim has taught me that nature's own remedies are the only cure for disease.

Chiropractic means done by hand and by adjusting the spinal column with the hands ONLY.

I remove the cause of disease, letting nature do all the healing.
